Chicago. She was literary editor of the Bulletins of the Northwestern Library Association, 1899-1900, and literary review editor of the First Aid Magazine, 1905; and she is author of: Library Science; Cataloguer's Manual of Authors' Names; Subject Index to Prose Fiction, Children's Book-Plates; Concerning Book-Plates; Charles Kingsley as a Social Reformer, etc. Dr. Dixon founded and owns a unique private book-making plant, occupying a small fire-proof building in the rear of her residence, for which she fills the quadruple role of author, compositor, printer, and publisher, and this private plant, under the name of Wisteria Cottage Press, is noted for its beautiful work. Dr. Dixon is a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Ex-Libris Society of London, Ex-libris Verein zu Berlin, Oesterreichische Ex-libris-Gesellschaft of Vienna, Société Française des Collectionneurs d'Ex-Libris of Paris, and Ex-Libris Club of Basle, Switzerland, and has held many offices in the Chicago Woman's Club, the Mt. Holyoke Alumnae Association, the Chicago Club of Chicago, and the State and National Library Associations. Residence: 5600 Monroe Avenue. Office: The Library, University of Chicago, Chicago.

DOAN, Fletcher Morris:

Jurist; born at Circleville, Pickaway County, Ohio, July 21, 1846; son of John Doan and Maria Doan. He received his early education in the common schools of Ohio, and afterward entered Ohio Wesleyan University, from which he was graduated A.B., 1867, A.M., 1872, and he was graduated from the Albany Law School at Albany, New York, with the degree of LL.B. in 1868. He was admitted to the bar of the Supreme Court of New York in 1868, and to the Supreme Court of Missouri in 1869, practising at Bowling Green in the latter State until 1888, when he went to Arizona and was admitted to the Supreme Court of that Territory in 1894, locating in practice at Florence, Pinal County. He was district attorney of Pinal County from 1894 to 1896, and on July 8, 1897, he was appointed associate justice of the Supreme Court and judge of the Second Judicial District of Arizona, in which office he is still serving. Judge Doan is a Republican in his political views. He married, at Bowling Green, Mo., Dec. 25, 1873, Anna Murray. Address: Tombstone, Ariz.

DOANE, William Croswell:

Bishop of Albany; born in Boston, Mass., March 2, 1832; son of George Washington Doane, bishop of New Jersey, and Eliza (Greene) Doane. He was graduated from Burlington (New Jersey) College in 1850 with the degree of A.B. and later as A.M. and LL.D. He received the degree of D.D. from Columbia, Union, Hobart, Trinity College (Hartford), and from the Universities of Cambridge and Oxford, England and Dublin, Ireland. He was ordered deacon March, 1853; and ordained priest 1856; and he served as assistant to his father, the rector of St. Mary's Church; and later became rector of St. Barnabas' Church at Burlington, N. J., until 1863. From 1863 to 1868 he was rector at St. John's, Hartford, Conn.; and was at St. Peter's at Albany, N. Y., 1867-1869. He was elected in Dec., 1868, and consecrated in Feb., 1869, bishop of Albany, N. Y. He was a member of the Board of Regents of the University of the State of New York, and became chancellor from 1903. He has begun and directed the construction of All Saints' Cathedral, at Albany, N. Y.; founded the Sisterhood of the Holy Child Jesus, St. Agnes' School for Girls, and the Child's Hospital at Albany. He is author of: Questions on the Collects, Epistles and Gospels; Mosaics, or the Harmony of Collects, Epistle and Gospel for the Sundays of the Christian Year; Life and Writings of the Second Bishop of New Jersey; and Rhymes from Time to Time; also numerous addresses, sermons and pamphlets. He married at Newark, N. J., in 1853, Sarah Catherine Condit. Address: 29 Elk Street, Albany, N. Y.

DOANE, William Howard:

Musical composer, and manufacturer of woodworking machinery; born in Prescott, Conn., Feb. 3, 1832; son of Joseph H. and Frances (Treat) Doane. He was educated in Woodstock Academy, Conn. He was connected with J. A. Fay & Company, manufacturers of woodworking machinery at Norwich, Conn., 1850-1861, and at the head of the same firm in Cincinnati as president and manager. His early musical education was gained at Boston, studying under B. F. Baker, and, afterward from leading American and German teachers Kanhoysen, Kingsley, and also had an extensive training in church choirs. He is composer of: Safe in the Arms of Jesus; More Like Jesus; Draw Me Nearer; and hundreds of other evangelistic hymns; has edited thirty-five collections of Sunday-school music books, and is recognized as one of the foremost of American composers of sacred music. In his business life as a manufacturer he is equally distinguished; has taken out over eighty patents for woodworking machinery in this country and abroad. Mr. Doane was formerly president of the Central Trust and Safe Deposit Company. He is a chevalier of the Légion d'Honneur of France; fellow of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, American Society of Mining Engineers; and he is president of the Ohio Baptist Convention, and is connected with other Baptist institutions. He is a member of the Engineers and Transportation Clubs of New York and the Queen City Club of Cincinnati. He married Nov. 2, 1857, Frances M. Treat. Address: Watch Hill, R. I.

DOCKERY, Alexander Monroe:

Physician, banker and ex-governor; born at Gallatin, Daviess County, Mo., Feb. 11, 1846; son of Willis E. and Sarah E. Dockery. He was educated in common schools, Macon (Mo.) Academy and St. Louis Medical College, being graduated M.D., 1865; and the University of Missouri later conferred upon him the degree of LL.D. Then, after attending lectures at Bellevue Hospital Medical College, New York, and at Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia, he practised medicine at Chillicothe, Mo., eight years, until, in 1874, he abandoned medical practice to join in the organization of the Farmers' Exchange Bank of Gallatin, Mo., of which he was cashier until Nov., 1882, when he was elected to the 48th Congress from the Third Congressional District of Missouri. He was biennially re-elected seven times, serving until the close of the Fifty-fifth Congress in 1899, making a continuous service of sixteen years. At the election in 1900 he was elected governor of Missouri, in which office he served for four years ending Jan. 9, 1905. Governor Dockery has been a life-long Democrat, and one of the recognized leaders of the party in his State and in Congress. He was curator of the University of Missouri, 1872-1882, and is now president of the Gallatin Board of Education. Governor Dockery is a prominent Mason, and a director of the Masonic Home of Missouri; and is also a member of the Odd Fellows Order. He married at Chillicothe, Mo., April 14, 1869, Mary Elizabeth Bird (now deceased) and they had eight children. Address: Gallatin, Mo.

DODD, Amzi:

Jurist, insurance president; born in what is now a part of the township of Bloomfield, Essex County, N. J., March 2, 1823; second son of Dr. Joseph S. and Maria Dodd, daughter of Rev. Stephen Grover. His grandfather was General John Dodd, and he is a descendant of Daniel Dodd, a native of England, who died in Newark, N. J., in 1665. He was prepared for college at Bloomfield Academy, entered Princeton College in the middle of the sophomore year, in the spring of 1839, and was graduated A.B. with the highest honor, pronouncing the Latin salutatory at commencement in September, 1841. He engaged in teaching for four years, at the same time studying law, received a license to practice law in New Jersey in Jan., 1848, and became associated in practice with F. T. Frelinghuysen (afterward secretary of State of the United States). He was clerk of the Common Council of Newark, N. J., 1850-1853, but resigned because of the increased demands of his law practice. He became active in politics in connection with the organization of the Republican party in New Jersey, presided over the first Republican mass-meeting held at Newark in the summer of 1856, and he was the Republican nominee for Congress from the Newark district in that year, and was strongly supported, although the Democratic candidate, as expected, was elected. He took an active part in the public discussions in the campaigns of 1856 and 1860, in behalf of Republican principles and candidates. He lived in Newark until 1860, and since then has been a resident of Bloomfield. He was elected to the State Legislature from that district and served in the session of 1863, but declined a second term. In 1863 he was appointed mathematician of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company. In 1871, when the office of vice-chancellor was created to meet the demands of the increasing equity business, he was appointed to the office by Governor Randolph, on the nomination of Chancellor Zabriskie, and served until 1875. In 1872 he was appointed one of the special judges of the Court of Errors and Appeals by Governor Parker, and reappointed in 1878 by Governor McClellan. Judge Dodd resigned that office in 1882, and also the vice-chancellorship (to which he had been reappointed in 1881) in order to become president of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, in which office he continued until 1902, when he retired. He was appointed one of the managers of the New Jersey Soldiers' Home, and served in that capacity for over thirty years. Judge Dodd married at Newark, N. J., in 1852, Jane, daughter of William Frame. Address: Bloomfield, N. J.

DODD, Frank Howard:

Publisher; born at Bloomfield, N. J., April 12, 1844. He was educated at Bloomfield Academy in his native place. Until 1870 he was connected with the publishing business of his father, M. W. Dodd (founded in Brick Church Chapel, Printing House Square, in 1839. He succeeded to his business in 1870, and with Edward S. Mead formed the firm of Dodd & Mead; and is now the active head of Dodd, Mead and Company, publishers. He established the Bookman, in 1895; the New International Encyclopædia in 1902, and other important publications. Mr. Dodd is president of the American Publishers' Association, president of the Riverside Association, and trustee of the Greenwich Savings Bank. He is a member of the New York Chamber of Commerce, the Century and City Clubs of New York City, and the National Clubs of London. Mr. Dodd married, in 1868, Martha Bliss Parker, and they have four children. Residence: 363 West 77th Street. Address: 372 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

DODGE, Charles Richards:

Consulting fibre expert; born in Covington County, Miss., July 17, 1847; son of Hon. Jacob Richards and Frances Gove (Buxton) Dodge. He took a special course of two years in the Sheffield Scientific School at Yale 1865-1867. He became connected with the United States Department of Agriculture in 1867, and he was assistant entomologist and had charge of the Agricultural Museum for ten years. In 1870 he began a special study of fibres. From 1890 to July, 1898, he was in charge of the office of Fibre Investigations of the Department of Agriculture, since discontinued. He was editor and publisher of Field and Forest (scientific journal), 1872-1875, and he was special agent in agriculture of the Tenth Census. Mr. Dodge has published twenty special reports on fibres and various fibre industries, including a Dictionary of the Fibre Plants of the World. He has been connected in an official capacity with ten international expositions; was a member of the Jury of Awards at the Expositions at Paris, 1889, Chicago, 1893, Atlanta, 1895, Nashville, 1897, Omaha, 1898, Paris, 1900, Buffalo, 1901 and St Louis, 1902; and he was director of agriculture of the United States Commission to the Paris Exposition of 1900. In connection with his services in that capacity received from the French Government the decorations of Chevalier du Mérite Agricole de France, in 1890, and Chevalier de la Légion d'Honneur de France in 1901. He made a fibre survey of Mexico and Yucatan in 1902. Mr. Dodge has contributed extensively to magazines, technical and other journals, was for some time editor of Outing, and was for three years agricultural editor of the New York Press. He is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, a member of the Philosophical Society of Washington, Washington Entomological Society, National Geographical Society, and the Cosmos Club of Washington. He married, Jan. 23, 1868, Mira, daughter of Colonel Josiah Reab, of New Haven, Conn. Address: Co-mos Club, Washington, D. C.

DODGE, Cleveland Hoadley:

Merehant; born in New York City, Jan. 26, 1860; son of William Earl and Sarah H. Dodge. He was graduated from Princeton University, A.B., 1879, A.M., 1882. He is a member of the firm of Phelps, Dodge & Co.; director of the National City Bank, Farmers Loan and Trust Company, New York Life Insurance and Trust Company, Atlantic Mutual Insurance Company, Copper Queen Consolidated Mining Company; treasurer and director of the El Paso and Southwestern Railroad. Mr. Dodge is a prominent Presbyterian layman, a trustee of Princeton University, the Carnegie Institution, and The John F. Slater Educational Fund; and he is a member of the Century, University, City and National Arts Clubs, and other social and business organizations. Mr. Dodge married at Irvington-on-Hudson, N. Y., Oct. 11, 1883, Grace Parish. Residence: 90 Park Avenue. Office: 99 John Street, New York City.

DODGE, Frederic:

Jurist; born in Cambridge, Mass., April 24, 1847; son of John C. and Lucy (Sherman) Dodge. He was graduated from Harvard College, A.B., 1867, and from Harvard Law School, LL.B., 1869, and practised law in Boston until he was appointed April 18, 1905 to his present office of judge of the United States District Court for the District of Massachusetts. He is a member of the Union Club of Boston. He married in Concord, Mass., Sept. 20, 1877, Eugenia Louise Jackson. Residence: Belmont, Mass. Office: 107 Post Office Building, Boston.

DODGE, Grenville Mellin:

Civil engineer; born at Danvers, Mass., April 12, 1831; son of Sylvanus and Julia M. (Phillips) Dodge. He was graduated in 1850 from Norwich University from which he received the degrees of C.E., M.A., and LL.D. He served as civil engineer before the war, but entered the United States Army as colonel of the Fourth Iowa Infantry in May, 1861. He was brigadier-general and major-general and commanded regiment, brigade division and Sixteenth Army Corps, and department and Army of the Missouri. He took part in the campaigns of Grant and Sherman and of Curtis in the West. General Dodge was chief engineer of, and built the Union Pacific; the Texas Pacific; Missouri, Kansas and Texas; Colorado and Southern; Fort Worth and Denver Railway, and many others. General Dodge has been president of several railroads and director of many and of several financial institutions. He is a Republican and served as a member of the Thirty-ninth Congress from Iowa, 1867-1869. He was president of the Commission for the Investigation of the War Department in the Spanish War by appointment of President McKinley. General Dodge is president of the Society of the Army of the Tennessee; an honorary member of the Society of the Army of the Cumberland; commander in chief of the Loyal Legion of the United States, chairman of the Committee for erecting a monument to Gen. U. S. Grant, in Washington, and chairman of the Committee for erecting a monument to Hon. William B. Allison in Washington, and in Iowa. General Dodge is an Odd Fellow, and is honorary member of the Union League and a member of Army and Navy, and Republican Clubs of New York. Residence: Council Bluffs, Iowa.

DODGE, James Mapes:

Mechanical engineer; born at Waverly, N. J., June 30, 1852; son of William and Mary (Mapes) Dodge. He was educated in the Academy at Newark, New Jersey, and in Cornell University, to junior year, and at Rutgers College. After leaving college he served an apprenticeship with John Roach, and since then has practised mechanical engineering, directing special attention to the improvement of conveying machinery and devices in the manufacture of which he extensively engaged, and he is now chairman of the Board of the Link-Belt Company, of Philadelphia. He is also president of the J. M. Dodge Company of Philadelphia. He is a member and was president in 1903 of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, is a member and vice president of the Franklin Institute of Philadelphia, honorary member of the Engineers' Society of Western Pennsylvania; member of the Union League, Germantown Cricket, Country, Corinthian Yacht, American Institute of Mining Engineers, and Engineers' Clubs of Philadelphia, and New York. Mr. Dodge married at Chicago, Sept. 10, 1879, Josephine Kern. Residence: McKean Avenue, Germantown. Office: Nicetown, Philadelphia.

DODGE, Raymond:

Professor of psychology; born in Woburn, Mass., in 1871; son of George S. Dodge, M.D., and Anna (Pickering) Dodge. He was graduated from Williams College, A.B., 1893, and from the University of Halle, Ph.D., 1896. He was assistant librarian, Williams College, 1893-1894; assistant Professor Benno Erdmann, University of Halle, 1896-1897; professor of philosophy, Ursinus College, 1897-1898; since then in Wesleyan University, as instructor in philosophy 1898-1899; and professor of psychology, since 1902. He is also coöperating editor of the Psychological Bulletin. His publications are chiefly the psychology of languages and in psychological optics. Professor Dodge devised the first apparatus for photographing the eye movements. He is a member of the American Philosophical Association and of the American Psychological Association. He married at West Acton, Mass., Aug. 15, 1897, Henrietta Cutler. Residence: 107 Lawn Avenue. Address: Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn.

DODGE, Richard Elwood:

Professor of geography in Teachers College, Columbia University; born in Wenham, Mass., Mar. 30, 1868; son of Robert Frances and Sarah Elizabeth (Wood) Dodge. He was graduated from Salem (Mass.) High School, 1885. Harvard College, A.B., 1890, A.M., 1894. He was assistant in geology, 1891-1894, and instructor in geology 1894-1895 in Harvard University, and since 1895 has been in Teachers College, Columbia University as instructor in geology and geography. 1895-1896, associate professor of natural science, 1896-1897, and has been professor of geography since 1897. He was assistant on the U. S. Geological Survey in New England and the Southern Appalachians in the summers of 1890-1895. He is author of: Reader in Physical Geography for Beginners, 1900, Dodge's School Geographies, 1903, and numerous papers in educational periodicals on the teaching of Geography. He is a fellow of the New York Academy of Sciences; member of the Geological Society of America, American Geographical Society, American Association for the Advancement of Science, Association of American Geographers, and other scientific societies. He married, in 1896, Stella Pomeroy Dalton, and they have three children. Residence: Washington, Conn. Address: Teachers College, Columbia University, New York City.

DODGE, Theodore Ayrault:

Lieutenant-colonel U. S. A., and author; born in Pittsfield, Mass., May 28, 1842. He received his military education in Berlin, and was afterward a student at University College, London and the University of Heidelberg. He was graduated from the London University in 1861 and from Columbia University in 1866 with the degree of LL.B. He joined the army of the Potomac in July, 1861, and he lost a leg at Gettysburg. In 1864 he was major of volunteers and was then brevetted colonel. He was commissioned captain of the Forty-fourth United States Infantry in July, 1866, received the brevet of lieutenant-colonel of the United States Army and from January, 1864, was chief of a Bureau of the War Department until he retired in 1870. He is author of: Chancellorsville, 1881; A Bird's-eye View of Our Civil War, 1883; A Chat in the Saddle, 1885; Great Captains, 1889; History of the Art of War; Alexander, 1890; Hannibal, 1891; Cæsar, 1892; Riders of Many Lands, 1893; Gustavus Adolphus, 1895; Napoleon, 1904. Address: 42 Broadway, New York City.

DODGE, Walter Phelps:

Barrister-at-law; born at Beyrout, Syria, June 13, 1869; son of Rev. D. Stuart Dodge, D.D. He was educated at Cornwall-on-Hudson, N. Y., and by private tutors preparatory to entering the Yale class of 1891. He was also a student at the University of Oxford in 1896, and in the Inns of Court in London where he was called to the English Bar in 1898. He has practised law in London for some years, being one of the very few Americans called to the English bar. His ancestor, John Phelps, was admitted in 1541 by the same Inn of Court (Middle Temple). Mr. Dodge has devoted his attention very largely to literature and is author of: Piers Gaveston (a standard work on the reign of Edward II); From Squire to Prince (history of the German Provinces of East Frisia); Three Greek Tales; As the Crow Flies; A Strong Man Armed; The Sea of Love. He has just published in London, The Real Sir Richard Burton. He is a fellow the Royal Geographical Society, the American Geographical Society and Sons of the Revolution. He is a member of the Racquet and Tennis, and Authors Clubs of New York City and the Reform Club of London. Mr. Dodge married first, in 1888, Ida Cooke, and second, in 1905, Ethel Adlard Coles, and he has three children. Address: The Grange, Simsbury, Connecticut.

DODSON, John E.:

Actor; born in London, England, September 25, 1858. He was educated for the bar. He first appeared on the stage at Prince's Theatre, Manchester, Sept., 1876, with J. L. Toole. He played in the British provinces until Sept. 1889, when he came to the United States with the Kendals, appearing at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, New York City, as "Dr Penguin" in the Scrap of Paper, in 1889. He remained comedian of the Kendal Company until June, 1894, and as principal comedian at the Empire Theatre Company of New York, appearing as Richelieu, in Under the Red Robe, and other rôles until 1898, when he appeared as "John Wetherby" in Because She Loved Him So. In 1901 he joined Mrs. Fiske at the Manhattan Theatre, played "Captain Warriner," in Miranda of the Balcony, and then went to London and played "Simonides," in the production of Ben Hur at Drury Lane Theatre, London. He produced An American Invasion, playing "John Brainard," at the Bijou Theatre, New York City, in October, 1902; played "Simonides" in a revival of Ben Hur at New York Theatre in September, 1903, and played "Pierre" in the all-star cast of The Two Orphans, touring the country during the season of 1904 and 1905, and played "Fagin" in the new version of Oliver Twist, by Comyns Carr in New York City, March, 1905. He created the title rôle in General Lew Wallace's Prince of India at Chicago in February, 1906, also in October of the same year, "Stephen Roland" in Truth, by Clyde Fitch. Created the part of Sir John Cotswold in "The House Next Door," by I. Hartley Manners, in New York City in 1909. Mr. Dodson is a member of the Lotos, Players', Lambs', British Schools, and University, and the New York Whist Clubs. Address: Lotos Club, New York City.

D'OENCH, Albert Frederick:

Architect; born in St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 25, 1852; son of William and Marie (Brausch) D'Oench. He was graduated from Washington University, St. Louis, M.E., in 1872, and after that at Stuttgart, Württemberg, Germany, graduating from the Royal Polytechnic Institute there. He has been engaged in practice of architecture from 1875, and is now senior member of the firm of D'Oench and Post. He was superintendent of buildings of the City of New York, 1885-1889, and was member and chairman of the Board of Examiners of the City of New York, 1900-1902. Mr. D'Oench is a director of the Germania Life Insurance Company, and the Eden Musee American Company. He is a fellow of the American Institute of Architects and its New York Chapter; member of the Architectural League of New York, and the Beta Theta Pi, Reform and Graduates' Clubs. Mr. D'Oench married in January, 1901, Alice Grace, and has one son. Residence: Sunset Hill, Manhasset, Long Island, N. Y., and 1130 Madison Avenue New York. Office: 289 Fourth Avenue, New York City.

DOHME, Alfred Robert Louis:

Manufacturing chemist; born in Baltimore, Md., Feb. 15, 1867. He was prepared for college at the Friends' School at Baltimore, and then entered Johns Hopkins University, from which he was graduated as A.B., 1886, and took post-graduate courses in chemistry, mineralogy and geology, receiving the degree of Ph.D. in 1889, then went abroad, studying at the University of Berlin, the laboratory of Fresenius at Wiesbaden and the University of Strassburg until 1891, when he engaged in business in Baltimore as a manufacturing chemist, and he is now vice-president of the corporation of Sharp and Dohme, manufacturing chemists, of Baltimore, who are among the leaders in the modern improvement in pharmaceutical manufacturing methods. Dr. Dohme is one of the leading members of the American Pharmaceutical Association, was chairman of its Scientific Section in 1898, and at the Decennial Convention held in Washington in May, 1900, he was elected secretary of the National Committee for the Revision of the Pharmacopœia of the United States for the decade, 1900-1910. He was elected lecturer on pharmacy at Johns Hopkins University, medical department, in 1901. He is a member of the American Chemical Society, the Deutsche Chemische Gesellschaft of Berlin, Société Chimique de Paris, the Society of Chemical Industry, London, German Pharmaceutical Association, and the Maryland Pharmaceutical Association, and was president of the latter in 1899 and 1900. He is a frequent contributor to chemical and pharmaceutical journals and proceedings. He married in Baltimore, Feb. 15, 1893, Emma D. Blummer, who died Jan. 25, 1908, leaving him with six children. Residence: "Chestnutwood," Roland Park, Baltimore. Office address: 303 West Pratt Street, Baltimore, Md.

DOLE, Charles Fletcher:

Clergyman; born at Brewer, Maine, May 17, 1845; son of Rev. Nathan and Caroline (Fletcher) Dole. He was graduated from Harvard College, A.B., 1868, A.M., 1870. He afterward entered Andover Theological Seminary and was graduated therefrom in 1872; and he received the degree of D.D. from Bowdoin College, 1906. He was in the United States Service for three months in 1864, in the Fourth Unattached Company, Massachusetts Militia. He was professor of Greek in the University of Vermont in 1873; minister of Plymouth Church at Portland, Maine, from 1874 to 1876, and since 1876 has been minister of the First Congregational (Unitarian) Church at Jamaica Plain, Boston. He was Ingersoll lecturer at Harvard, 1906; is a trustee of the Tuskegee Institute at Tuskegee, Ala., the American Peace Society, the Anti-Imperialist League, and the Unitarian Temperance Society; member of the Massachusetts, American Forestry Association, Massachusetts Forestry Association, Massachusetts Civic League, Ministers Appalachian, Eliot, Boston City, and Twentieth Century Clubs. In addition to his ministerial labors Mr. Dole has been extensively occupied with literature, and he is author of The Citizen and His Neighbor; Early Hebrew Stories; Jesus and the Men About Him; The American Citizen; A Catechism of Liberal Faith; The Golden Rule in Business; The Coming People; Luxury and Sacrifice; The Theology of Civilization; The Young Citizen; Noble Womanhood; The Religion of a Gentleman; The Problem of Duty; From Agnosticism to Theism; The Smoke and the Flame; The Spirit of Democracy, etc. Mr. Dole married in Brunswick, Maine, March 4, 1873, Frances Drummond, and they have living two children, James Drummond Dole and Winifred Dole. Address: 14 Roanoke Avenue, Jamaica Plain, Mass.

DOLE, Nathan Haskell:

Author; born at Chelsea, Mass., Aug. 31, 1852; son of Rev. Nathan and Caroline (Fletcher) Dole. He was graduated from Harvard, A.B., 1874, and after four years of teaching took up literary work and became literary and musical editor of the Philadelphia Press. He was for thirteen years literary adviser, T. Y. Crowell & Company. He is a secretary of the department of publicity of D. Appleton & Company; president of the Omar Khayyam Society of America; president of the Bibliophile Society, and director of the Fellowes Athenæum; has been odist to the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company. Mr. Dole is one of the examiners of the Boston Public Library, and is Boston correspondent of the New York Evening Post. He is a member of the Twentieth Century Club of Boston, New York and Boston Authors Clubs, Harvard Musical Association, Dofobs Club of Chicago, and the Castilian Club. He was accorded a medal by the Shah of Persia. Mr. Dole is author of: Young Folks' History of Russia, 1881; A Score of Famous Composers, 1891 (re-impression under title, Famous Composers, 2 vols., 1902); Not Angels Quite, 1893; On the Point, 1895; The Hawthorne Tree and other Poems, 1895; Poems for the Educational Music Course, 1896; Life of Francis William Bird, 1897; Joseph Jefferson at Home, 1898; Omar, the Tent-Maker—A Romance of Old Persia, 1899; Peace and Progress—The Building of the Organ and Onward (poems), 1904; A Teacher of Dante, 1907. The Pilgrims and other Poems for Public Occasions, 1907. He has edited The International Library and a large number of other compilations; is the translator of many standard works from the Russian, the Spanish, French, Italian, Swedish, and the Danish. He has also translated from these languages hundreds of songs and lyrical pieces for music. He married at Boston, June 28, 1882, Helen James Bennett, and they have four children. Residence: 91 Glen Road, Jamaica Plain, Boston, and The Mornings, Iginquit, Maine.

DOLE, Sanford Ballard:

Jurist; Ex-president of Hawaii; born in the Hawaiian Islands, April 23, 1844; son of Rev. Daniel Dole and Emily (Ballard) Dole. American missionaries; educated at his father's Koloa school, and at Oahu College, Hawaii, and Williams College, Mass.; studied law at Boston; was admitted there to the Suffolk County bar; returned to Hawaii and engaged in the practice of law in Honolulu in 1869. He became a member of the Hawaiian legislature in 1884 and 1886, and became a leader in the reform movement of 1887; was judge of the Supreme Court of Hawaii, 1887-1893; at the time of the revolution of 1893, he was placed at the head of the Provisional Government, and became President of the Republic of Hawaii by a provision of its constitution in 1894, which created a presidential term of six years. When holding the office of Provisional President he received a demand from President Cleveland in December, 1893, through U. S. Minister Willis, that he should relinquish to Queen Liliuokalani her constitutional authority. He replied with a denial of the right of Mr. Cleveland to interfere in the matter and continued his duties as the head of the Hawaiian government. He was an advocate of the annexation of Hawaii to the United States and visited that country in that interest in January, 1898. Upon the annexation of the islands to the United States he was appointed by President McKinley a member of the commission to recommend legislation to Congress concerning Hawaii. In 1900 he was appointed Governor of the Territory of Hawaii by President McKinley, in which position he continued until Nov. 18, 1903, when he resigned the governorship and was appointed to his present office as United States district judge for the Territory of Hawaii. He married at Castine, Maine, in 1873, Anna P. Cate. Address: Honolulu, Territory of Hawaii.

DOLLIVER, Jonathan Prentiss:

United States Senator; born near Kingwood, Preston County, Va. (now West Virginia), Feb. 6, 1858. He was graduated in 1875 from the West Virginia University and admitted to the bar in 1878. He never held any political office until elected in 1888 to the Fifty-first Congress as a representative from the Tenth Congressional District of Iowa, and was a member of the House also in the Fifty-second, Fifty-third, Fifty-fourth, Fifty-fifth and Fifty-sixth Congresses. On Aug. 23, 1900, he was appointed United States Senator to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Hon. J. H. Gear, and he was elected Jan. 21, 1902, to succeed himself, and reelected in January, 1907. His term of office will expire March 3, 1913. Address: Fort Dodge, Iowa.

DONAGHEY, George A.:

Governor of Arkansas. He was elected to the office on the Democratic ticket at the November election of 1908 for the two-year term expiring in January, 1911. Address: Little Rock, Ark.

DONALDSON, Chester:

American consul; born at Ovid, N. Y., March 28, 1862; son of John Chester and Mary McMahon (Smith) Donaldson. He was graduated from Hamilton College, A.B., 1884, A.M., 1887. After his graduation he was a teacher of mathematics at the River-view Military Academy at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., 1884-1885; master of Berkeley School, New York City, 1885-1887; head master of the West End School, New York City, 1887-1895. He served in the Twenty-second Regiment of the National Guard of the State of New York, 1889-1895; went to Nicaragua with the Nicaraguan Canal Commission in May, 1895; was appointed chief military engineer and confidential advisor of President Zelaya of Nicaragua, Oct. 15, 1895, serving until appointed Oct. 15, 1897, United States consul at Managua. He served there until Aug. 12, 1905, when, owing to his strenuous efforts to get two Americans released from prison or given a fair trial, his exequatur was cancelled by President Zelaya. He proceeded to Washington with the case, got the American citizens pardoned and was appointed to his present position as American consul at Port Limon, Costa Rica. Mr. Donaldson delights in all kinds of athletics, baseball, football, lawn tennis, jumping, long distance runs, wrestling, boxing, and he still holds the world's record, which he has held for over twenty-two years, for a stone-gathering race, for thirty stones one yard apart, his speed exceeding all other races of this kind at any distance from ten stones up. He served seven years in the 22d Regiment, New York National Guard; is a member of the Society of International Law and the Delta Upsilon fraternity and has been president of the Limon Sports Club for three successive years. Mr. Donaldson married in New York City, Dec. 23, 1886, Edith Maduro, and they have a son and a daughter. Address: American Consulate, Port Limon, Costa Rica.

DONAHUE, Patrick James:

Catholic bishop of Wheeling; born in Malvern, Worcestershire, England, April 15, 1849. He was graduated from the University of London in 1869, and the degree of LL.D. was conferred upon him by Columbian (now George Washington) University. In 1873 he came to the United States and settled at Washington, D. C., where he practised law until 1882. He studied for the priesthood at St. Mary's in Baltimore, 1882-1885, and was ordained priest, Dec. 23, 1885; was chancellor of the archdiocese of Baltimore, 1886-1891; rector of Baltimore Cathedral, 1891-1894; and on April 8, 1894, was consecrated Bishop of Wheeling. Address: Wheeling, W. Va.

DONOHUE, Denis:

Journalist and lawyer; born in Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 19, 1861; son of Denis Donohoe, British consul, and Eliza Hamilton (Ruxton) Donohoe. He was educated in private schools in New Orleans and Baltimore, Bishop's College, Lennoxville, Can., one year. University of Bonn, Germany, 1879-1880, Columbia Law School LL.B., and was admitted to the New York Bar in 1882; was special counsel in employ of British Government to secure extradition of Butler, winning the case against strong opposition, and securing return of Butler to Australia, where he was tried and found guilty of the murder of fourteen people, and executed; was general counsel of the British consul-general at San Francisco, 1880-1900. He was city editor of the New York Star, 1886-1889; has been a writer of short stories since 1890; also of special articles; financial editor N. Y. Commercial since 1904. Mr. Donohoe is a member of the Sons of the American Revolution and of the Press Club of San Francisco. He married in New York City, June 1, 1885, Marie Paule Parot. Residence: 360 Fordham Road, Bronx. Office: 8 Spruce Street, New York City.

DORCHESTER, Liverus Hull:

Methodist Episcopal clergyman; born in Charlestown, Mass., Aug. 27, 1864; son of Rev. Daniel Dorchester, D.D., and Mary Payson (Davis) Dorchester. After a careful preparatory education he entered Boston University, from which he was graduated as A.B. in 1886, and he was graduated as S.T.B. from the School of Theology in 1889. He entered the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the New England Conference and was pastor of Saint Luke's Church at Springfield, Mass., 1889-1894, the First Church at Westfield, Mass., 1894-1899, the People's Temple at Boston, 1899-1902, and the Methodist Episcopal Church at Newton Centre, Mass., 1902-1903. In the latter year he was transferred to the St. Louis Conference where he was pastor of the Lindell Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church of St. Louis, until May, 1907, when he became pastor of Elm Park Methodist Episcopal Church, Seranton, Pa., in the Wyoming Conference. He married at Natick, Mass., June 10, 1889, Nellie E. Hardy, and they have two children. Address: Elm Park, Parsonage, 718 Linden Street, Seranton, Pa.

DOREMUS, Arthur Lisenard:

Manufacturer; born in New York City, Sept. 3, 1869; son of Robert Ogden and Estella Emma (Skidmore) Doremus. He was educated at MacMullen's private school, New York City, and the College of the City of New York, in the class of 1890. He entered the employ of The Crocker-Wheeler Company, then the Crocker-Wheeler Electric Company, manufacturers and electrical engineers, in March, 1892; and after going through several departments was appointed a salesman in the latter part of 1893. Later he was assistant to the general sales manager, and on the death of the general in 1896, was elected secretary in charge of the sales division. In 1904 he was elected to his present position of second vice-president and director, but also continues as secretary. As second vice-president, he has full charge of the sales division of the company, and he has established nineteen branch offices, traveling to all parts of the United States, also visiting, every year since 1897, England, Scotland, France, and Germany, on agency and other business matters for the company. Mr. Doremus is a member of the New York Electrical Society, the Alpha Delta Phi fraternity and the New York Athletic Club. Residence: The Strathmore, Broadway and 52d Street. Address: 32 Cortlandt Street, New York City.

DOREMUS, Charles Avery:

Chemist; born in New York City, Sept. 6, 1851. He was graduated from the College of the City of New York, with the degree of A.B. in 1870; studied in Heidelberg and Leipzig, 1870-1883, received the degrees of A.M. and Ph.D. at Heidelberg in 1873 and the honorary degree of M.D. from the University of Buffalo. He was assistant in chemistry at the Bellevue Hospital Medical College, 1875-1879; was adjunct professor of chemical toxicology and medical jurisprudence at Bellevue, 1879-1897; professor of chemistry and toxicology at the Medical department of the University of Buffalo, 1879-1882; professor of chemistry in the American Veterinary College, New York City, 1882-1892; emeritus professor of chemistry, 1892-1898; assistant in chemistry and physics in the College of the City of New York, 1892-1897; assistant professor of chemistry and physics, 1897-1903, and acting professor of chemistry from 1903 to 1904. He was the United States reporter at the Vienna Exposition, 1898, the Paris Exposition, 1900, and the Berlin Exposition, 1903. Dr. Doremus has acted as chemical expert in many poison cases in New York and other States and is an expert in patent causes and consulting chemist. Dr. Doremus is author of the section of Gaseous Poisons in Text-Book of Legal Medicine and Toxicology, and is a contributor of many papers to scientific societies. He is a fellow of the New York Academy of Sciences, and a member of the American Chemical Society, the Society of Chemists at Paris, the Deutsche Chemische Gesellschaft, Society of Chemical Industry; American Electro-Chemical Society, Medico-Legal Society, the American Institute of Electrical Engineering, and other scientific societies. Address: 55 West Fifty-third Street, New York City.

DOS PASSO, John R.:

Lawyer; born in Philadelphia, Pa., July 31, 1844. He attended law lectures at the University of Pennsylvania and served in the militia of Pennsylvania during the Civil War. He practised his profession in Philadelphia and later in New York. In his early practice he was counsel in many notable criminal cases and secured the acquittals of Edward S. Stokes for the murder of James Fisk, and in the case of Emil Endre. Of late years he has made a specialty of the law of corporations and of stock brokers' practice. With John E. Parsons he formed the Sugar Trust—receiving for same the largest fee on record at that time. He is author of: The Interstate Commerce Act; Commercial Trusts; The Anglo-Saxon Century; A Trustee on the Law of Stock Brokers and Stock Exchanges. He is a charter member of the Pennsylvania Society. Mr. Dos Passos is owner of a large plantation in Virginia, and is much interested in farming. He is a member of the Lawyers, Manhattan, Strollers, and American Yacht Clubs of New York City; the Metropolitan Club of Washington, D. C., and the Eastern Yacht Club of Boston. Residence: 18 East 56th Street, New York City. Address: 20 Broad Street, New York City.

DOUBLEDAY, Frank Nelson:

Publisher; born in Brooklyn, N. Y., Jan. 8, 1862. He was educated in the Polytechnic School at Brooklyn. He entered the employ of Charles Scribner's Sons, where during an apprenticeship of twenty years, he acquired a full knowledge of the publishing business. He revived, in 1884, The Book Buyer, which grew to be a well known periodical, and when Scribner's Magazine was issued in 1886, he was appointed its manager. In 1897, he joined the S. S. McClure Company, and shortly afterward a partnership with Mr. McClure was formed under the name of Doubleday and McClure Company. During the first year, he published some very successful books, notably Mr. Kipling's The Day's Work. In 1900 the firm of Doubleday, Page and Company was formed, with Walter H. Page, H. W. Lanier, H. S. Houston and S. A. Everitt as partners, and within a year a new magazine, The World's Work, was founded, the first number being issued in November, 1900. They established Country Life in America, 1901, and The Garden Magazine in 1905. Early in 1904 Doubleday, Page and Company became an incorporated company with Mr. Doubleday as president, and in November, 1908, that company also acquired the book business of the S. S. McClure Company. He married in Plainfield, N. J., June 9, 1856, Neltje Delgraff (the well-known author "Neltje Blanchan"), and they have three children. Address: 133-137 East 16th Street, New York City.

DOUBLEDAY, Neltje De Graff ("Neltje Blanchan"):

Author; born in Chicago, Ill., Oct. 23, 1865; daughter of Liverius and Alice (Fair) De Graff. She was educated in St. John's School, New York City, and The Misses Masters School, Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., and married in Plainfield, N. J., June 9, 1886, Frank Nelson Doubleday. They have two sons and a daughter. Mrs. Doubleday, under the pen-name of "Neltje Blanchan," has written several of the most popular and useful books on birds and flowers, including: Bird Neighbors; Birds that Hunt and are Hunted; Nature's Garden, How to Attract the Birds; Birds Every Child Should Know; and The American Flower Garden; also magazine and newspaper articles on Agricultural Training; Negroes, Nature Study, Gardening, the North American Indians, and their Primitive Industries, Antique Furniture, critical essays and reviews of books, descriptions of travel, etc. Mrs. Doubleday is a member of the Armstrong Association, the History Class of Brooklyn, and the National Arts Club of New York. Address: Mill Neck, Long Island, N. Y.

DOUGLAS, Albert:

Lawyer and congressman; born in Chillicothe, Ohio, April 25, 1852. He was graduated from Kenyon College, A.B., 1872, from Harvard Law School, LL.B., 1874, and received from the University of Ohio in 1905 and from Kenyon College in 1906 the degree of LL.D. He was graduated from Harvard Law School, LL.B., 1874, and established in the practice of law at Chillicothe. He was elected prosecuting attorney of Ross County, 1876-1880; was elected presidential elector-at-large from Ohio, in 1896, and was chairman of the electoral college of Ohio. He was a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor in 1899. He was elected a member of the Sixtieth Congress in 1906 and to the Sixty-first Congress in 1908 from the Eleventh Ohio District. He is one of the leading members of the local bar, and he is a trustee of Kenyon College and of the Ohio State University. He married, April 14, 1880, Lucia C. Taylor of Brooklyn, N. Y. Address: Chillicothe, Ohio.

DOUGLAS, Robert Martin:

Jurist; born at Douglas, Rockingham County, N. C., Jan. 28, 1849; son of Stephen A. Douglas, United States senator from Illinois, and Martha Denny (Martin) Douglas. He was graduated from Georgetown University in the District of Columbia, A.B., 1867, and later received the degrees of A.M. and LL.D. from the same institution. He was private secretary to the governor of North Carolina, 1868, and was a colonel of North Carolina Militia, 1868-1871. Colonel Douglas was secretary to President Ulysses S. Grant, 1869-1873, and United States marshal for North Carolina, 1873-1883. He engaged in practice and was general counsel for and director in several corporations. He was standing master in chancery of the United States Circuit Court, 1888-1896, and associate justice of the Supreme Court of North Carolina, 1897-1905. He was renominated by acclamation for the Supreme Court judgeship by the Republican State Convention, but was defeated for reelection, together with the entire Republican ticket. He resumed practice at the close of his judicial term, and is senior member of the law firm of Douglas & Douglas. He has been a Republican ever since he became a voter, and has written extensively on historical, political and economic subjects. He married at Greensboro, N. C., June 23, 1874, Jessie M. Dick, daughter of United States District Judge R. P. Dick. He was a delegate to the Universal Congress of Lawyers and Jurists, at St. Louis in 1904; where he delivered an address in opposition to granting alimony in cases of divorce a vinculo. He was nominated by acclamation by Republican State Convention in 1906 for Corporation Commissioner, and led the ticket, but was defeated. Address: Greensboro, N. C.

DOUGLAS, William Lewis:

Manufacturer, ex-governor; born at Plymouth, Mass., Aug. 22, 1845; son of William and Mary G. (Vaughan) Douglas. He was only five years old when his father died, and at the age of seven he began work pegging shoes for an uncle. He returned to his mother for a short time in his eleventh year, and then went back to his uncle's shop until he was 15 years old. He had, during the time he was with his uncle, a few brief and irregular periods of attendance upon the public schools, but beyond this his education has been self-acquired. At the age of fifteen he went to work in a cotton-mill at Chiltonville, Mass., then learned bootmaking in factories at Hopkinton and South Braintree, Mass. In 1865 he went to Colorado, working as a journeyman for two years, and in 1867 starting on his own account. He sold out his establishment there in 1868, and returned to Massachusetts, becoming first journeyman and afterward foreman in a shoe factory at Brockton until 1876. In the latter year he began on his own account as a shoe manufacturer at Brockton, with small facilities and little help, but from that modest beginning he has built up a business which is one of the largest in the country, with two factories at Brockton with a capacity of over seventeen thousand pairs of shoes daily; 70 retail stores in large cities owned and operated by the W. L. Douglas Shoe Company. Mr. Douglas has filled numerous elective offices; was a member of the House of Representatives in the General Court of Massachusetts, 1883-1884, of the Massachusetts Senate in 1886, was mayor of Brockton in 1891 and elected governor of Massachusetts in 1904, declining a re-nomination. He has always been a Democrat, was a delegate from his district to the National Democratic Conventions at Chicago in 1884, 1892 and 1896, and from Massachusetts at large to the National Democratic Convention at St. Louis in 1904. He married at Chiltonville, in the town of Plymouth, Mass., Sept. 6, 1868, N. Augusta Terry, and has two married daughters. Address: Brockton, Mass.

DOUGLAS, William W.:

Jurist; born in Providence, R. I., Nov. 26, 1841; son of Rev. William and Sarah (Sawyer) Douglas. His education was begun in the schools of Providence, from which he went to Brown University, whence he was graduated A. M., with Phi Beta Kappa honors in 1861, afterward receiving the degree of LL.D. from that institution. He served as second lieutenant to captain of U. S. Volunteers, 1861-1864, then entered the Albany Law School of Union University, and was graduated LL.B., 1866. He practised law at Providence, R. I., 1867-1891, was elected one of the justices of the Supreme Court of Rhode Island, 1891, serving until 1908, chief justice of that court from February, 1905 to July 13, 1908, when he resigned. Judge Douglas is a Republican; was a member of the General Assembly of Rhode Island, 1871-1873, member of the Common Council of Providence, 1873-1876, and of the Rhode Island Senate in 1890. He was Division judge advocate of Rhode Island Militia, 1866-1874, assistant adjutant-general in 1881, and adjutant-general of Rhode Island in 1882. Judge Douglas is a companion of the Massachusetts Commandery of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, and was its senior vice commander in 1889, and again in 1909; and was judge-advocate-general of the Grand Army of the Republic of the United States, 1871-1877. He married at Newton, Mass., June 30, 1884, Anna Jean Bennett. Address: 107 Prospect Street, Providence, R. I.

DOVER, Elmer:

Former secretary, Republican National Committee; born at McConnelville, Ohio, April 14, 1873. He received a common school education and became newspaper reporter and editor from 1889-1897. In the latter year he became secretary to the late Senator M. A. Hanna, serving in that capacity until the Senator's death. During this period he was actively connected with the national politics of the Republican party, was elected secretary of the Republican National Committee serving until the re-organization of the Committee for the campaign of 1908. He also became identified with the large business interests of Senator Hanna, and now occupies important positions with relation to these interests. He married at Portsmouth, Ohio, Jan. 25, 1898, Martha Peebles. Address: National Metropolitan Bank Building, Washington, D. C.

DOW, Frederick Neal:

Newspaper publisher; born at Portland, Maine, Dec. 23, 1840; son of General Neal and Maria Cornelia Durant (Maynard) Dow. He was educated at Portland Academy and the Friends' School at Providence, R. I. Mr. Dow has always been active in the Republican Party in Maine, and has been chairman of the State Republican Committee. He has held various local offices in the city government and school committee of Portland; was a member of the State Executive Council of Maine, 1872-1873; chairman of council, 1874; commissioner from Maine to the Centennial at Philadelphia in 1876; was a delegate to the Republican National Convention at Chicago, in 1880; for some years chairman of the Republican City Committee, Republican State Committee and Republican State Executive Committee, succeeding Hon. James G. Blaine; collector of the port of Portland, Maine, 1883-1885 and 1890-1895, a member of the House of Representatives in the Maine Legislature, 1887-1888, and 1889-1890, and was speaker of the House during the last named term. He is president of the Evening Express Company and directs the editorial policy of the Portland Evening Express, the most widely circulated newspaper in Maine. Mr. Dow is also president of the Casco National Bank of Portland; president of the Evening Express Publishing Company of Portland, Maine; president of the Portland Gas Light Company; first vice-president of the Union Safe Deposit and Trust Company; director of the Mercantile Trust Company and the Casco Bay Steamboat Company. He is trustee of the Maine Eye and Ear Infirmary, and was formerly president of the Board. Mr. Dow is a member of the Sons of the American Revolution, Military Order of the Loyal Legion, is a Mason and Knight Templar, and a member of the Portland, Lincoln, State Parish and Economic Club of Portland. He married in Portland, Oct. 22, 1864, Julia Dana Hammond, and they have two children. Residence: 714 Congress Street. Office: 12 Monument Square, Portland, Maine.

DOW, William Hammond:

Newspaper publisher; born in Portland, Maine, Dec. 25, 1866; son of Frederick Neal and Julia Dana (Hammond) Dow. He was educated in the Portland public schools and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where for three years he studied civil engineering. He entered newspaper work in 1888, and except for two years in the lumber business in Bangor, Maine, has been engaged in newspaper work ever since, now being director, treasurer and business manager of the Evening Express Publishing Company of Portland, Maine. He served three years (president one year) of the Common Council and two years in the Board of Aldermen of Portland, being one year chairman of that Board. He is a member and was president, 1906-1907, of the Maine Press Association; member of the Portland Society of Natural History, the Portland Board of Trade, Portland Society of Art and Portland Camera Club, the Maine Charitable Mechanics Association, Associated Charities and various Portland clubs and societies. Mr. Dow married, June 16, 1897, Kate Turner Wade, and they have one daughter and one son. Residence: 9 Dow Street. Office: 12 Monument Square, Portland, Maine.

DOWLING, Victor J.:

Jurist; born in New York City, July 20, 1866; son of Denis and Elizabeth Fierlants (Faier) Dowling. He was educated in St. Peter's School, De La Salle Institute and Manhattan College, being graduated A.B., 1883, A.M., 1885, and receiving the degree of LL.D., 1906. He studied law in the office of Judge James Fitzgerald and in the law school of the University of the City of New York, whence he was graduated LL.B., 1887, and received the degree of LL.D., 1908. From his admission to the bar in 1887 he was in continuous practice of law until 1905. He was a member of the Assembly from the Twenty-fourth District in 1894; State senator from the Eighteenth District, 1901-1904; and was elected, in 1904, justice of the Supreme Court of New York for the term expiring Dec. 31, 1918. Judge Dowling was an executive committeeman of the Twenty-fourth New York District Democratic organization, 1895-1898, and secretary of the Executive Committee. He was tendered a nomination for City Court judge by the United Labor party in 1899; was again executive committeeman of the Twenty-fourth District of Tammany Hall, 1902-1903, and a sachem of the Tammany Society from 1903 to 1904. Judge Dowling has several times been a delegate to the State and national conventions of his party. He was a member of the Catholic Committee of the Washington Centennial in 1889; was State secretary of the Catholic Benevolent Legion, 1888-1894; supreme representative of the same legion, 1894-1899; State president, 1899-1900, and served as a delegate to the Catholic Congresses in Baltimore and Chicago, and was a member of the Committee of three of the Catholic Columbian Parade in 1892. Judge Dowling is a member of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, New York State Bar Association, the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, Friends of Ireland, American Catholic Historical Society, United States Catholic Historical Society, Bibliophile Society of Boston, the Columbian Order, Catholic Benevolent Legion, Knights of Columbus, and the Manhattan, Catholic, Wyandot and Oakland Golf Clubs. Judge Dowling married at Middletown, Conn., June 16, 1891, Mary Agnes Ford. Address: Country Court House, New York City.

DOWNES, William Howe:

Art critic, author; born in Derby, Conn., March 1, 1854; son of William Elijah and Jane M. (Howe) Downes. He was educated in private day schools at Derby and later under private tutors (Professors Delfosse and Beers) at New Haven, Conn. He went as correspondent to the International Exposition at Vienna, 1873, for the New Haven Journal and Courier, and was one of the editors of The American Youth, published at that exposition, and subsequently became a reporter on the St. Paul (Minn.) Dispatch, 1874, Boston Globe, 1874-1878, Boston Advertiser, 1880-1883; since 1883 art critic on the Boston Evening Transcript. He is author of: Twelve Great Artists; Arcadian Days; Spanish Ways and Byways; The Tin Army of the Potomac; Original Etchings by A. H. Bicknell; Book Plates selected from the Works of Edmund H. Garrett; also many contributions to magazines and several essays in Volume I of Noteworthy Paintings in American Private Collections, edited by John La Farge and August F. Jaccaci. Mr. Downes is a member of the American Social Science Association, the Metropolitan Improvement League, The Brac-Burn Country Club, and the Paint and Clay Club of Boston. Residence: 83 Sutherland Road. Office: 324 Washington Street, Boston.

DOWNEY, David George:

Clergyman; born in Ireland, Sept. 21, 1858; son of Archibald and Mary Anne (Hawksley) Downey. He was graduated from Wesleyan University, A.B., 1884, and attended Drew Theological Seminary, and he received the degree of A.M., 1887, and D.D., 1899. He entered the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1884, and has ever since been a member of the New York East Conference, in which he filled several pastorates. He was chaplain of the Connecticut House of Representatives, 1886, and of the Connecticut Senate, 1887. Dr. Downey was a member of the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1904 and 1908, and was appointed by the General Conference, in 1908, corresponding secretary of The Board of Education and Sunday Schools of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He is a trustee and secretary of the Board of Trustees of Wesleyan University, and member of the Board of Managers of the Methodist Episcopal Missionary Society. Dr. Downey is author of Modern Poets and Christian Teaching. He is a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity. Address: 57 Washington Street, Chicago, Ill.

DOWNING, Robert L.:

Evangelist; born in Washington, D. C., 1857. He entered the dramatic profession in 1877 at Baltimore and later supported Mary Anderson, Edwin Booth, John McCullough, John E. Owens, Joseph Jefferson, and others. From 1889 to 1908 he starred under his own management as Virginus, "Sparticus" in The Gladiator, Othello, Ingomar, and other heroic roles. In 1908 he announced his permanent retirement from the stage and later in the year took up evangelistic work in which he has achieved marked success. He married Eugenia Blair, an actress. Address: Sedgemoor, Benning, D. C.

DOYLE, Alexander:

Sculptor; born in Steubenville, Ohio, Jan. 28, 1857; son of George and Alice Catherine (Butler) Doyle. He was educated in private schools in Italy and the Louisville (Ky.) High School; began the study of sculpture in the academies of Carrara and Florence, Italy, and afterward studied for years in Rome and Paris. He has executed many statues, chiefly for public monuments, including those of Horace Greeley for N. Y. City; Senators Benton, Blair, and Kenna, for U. S. Capitol; Generals Johnston and Lee for New Orleans; Philip Schuyler for National Monument, Saratoga; Emma Willard for Troy, N. Y.; Senator Hill and Henry W. Grady for Atlanta, Ga.; Soldiers' Monument at New Haven, and statue of General Garfield in Tomb at Cleveland, Ohio; Soldiers' Monument, Montgomery, Ala. He succeeded, 1898, to the stone quarrying business of his father, and now sole proprietor of George Doyle & Company, quarriers of Bedford (Ind.) limestone. Mr. Doyle is a member of the Ohio Society of New York; president of the Squirrel Island (Maine) Athletic and Yachting Associations, and the New York Athletic Club. He married in Hallowell, Maine, Dec. 31, 1880, Fannie Belle Johnson, and they have one daughter. They have a summer home on Squirrel Island, Maine. Residence: Hotel San Remo. Office: 287 Fourth Avenue, New York City.

DRACHMAN, Bernard:

Theologian and author; born in New York City, June 27, 1861; son of Benjamin and Matilda (Stein) Drachman. He was graduated from Jersey City High School, 1873, Columbia College, A.B. (with thesis on the Poets and Poetry of the Karaites); studied three years in Germany, attending the University of Breslau, the Jewish Theological Seminary, Breslau and Heidelberg University, where he received the degree of Ph.D., multa cum laude, also was made rabbi at Breslau, and made special studies of Jewish theology, Semitic languages and philosophy. Dr. Drachman has been rabbi of the Congregation Zichron

Ephraim of New York City, 1889-1909; and since 1909, rabbi of the Congregation Ohab Zedek, in New York City. In 1887, he was appointed to the chair of Biblical exegesis and Hebrew philosophy in the Jewish Theological Seminary, and in 1889 dean of the institution; these positions he held until 1892, when the seminary was merged into the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, then appointed instructor in Bible and reader in rabbinical codes in the new institution until he resigned in 1908. Dr. Drachman is a warm adherent to the traditional or orthodox faith of Judaism. He is author of: The Place and Importance of Jehuda Hayyug in the History of Hebrew Grammar, Breslau, 1885; Translator: The Nineteen Letters of Ben Uziel, from the German of Samson Raphael Hirsh, 1899; The Second Book of Samuel, from the original Hebrew for new Bible translation of Jewish Publication Society of America; contributor to theological and rabbinical literature; has published a volume of Jewish tales, under the title From the Heart of Israel, and, 1908, a Hebrew Ms. of the Middle Ages, called Dibre Riboth, with commentaries. Rabbi Drachman married in New York City, Feb. 15, 1888, Sarah Weil, daughter of the well-known philanthropist. Address: 128 West 121st Street, New York City.

DRAPER, Andrew Sloan:

Commissioner of education; born in Otsego County, N. Y., June 21, 1848; son of Sylvester Bigelow Draper and Jane (Sloan) Draper. He is descended on his father's side in direct line from James Draper, "the Puritan," who settled at Roxbury, Massachusetts, in 1646; and through Mary Pratt, his paternal great-grandmother is descended from Degory Priest, a Mayflower pilgrim. His mother was Scotch-Irish, her parents coming from the north of Ireland in 1812; one paternal great-grandfather was an officer in King Philip's War, and another was an officer in the Revolutionary War. He attended the Albany public schools and was graduated from the Albany Academy in 1866; the Albany Law School of the Union University, with the degree of LL.B., in 1871. He afterward received the LL.D. degree from Colgate University in 1899; from Columbia University in 1903 and from the University of Illinois in 1905. He taught in the Albany Academy and other institutions from 1866 to 1870; was a member of the law firm of Draper and Chester from 1871 to 1886; and was a member of the Albany Board of Education from 1879 to 1881, and from 1890 to 1892. He was a member of the New York Legislature in 1881; and was a member of the State Normal College Board from 1882 to 1886. Dr. Draper was appointed a judge of the United States Court of Alabama Claims and served from 1884 to 1886; was State superintendent of public instruction of New York from 1886 to 1892; superintendent of instruction of the Cleveland public schools from 1892 to 1894, and president of the University of Illinois from 1894 to 1904. Upon the unification of the two State educational departments in New York, he was made in 1904, by special provision in the statute, and election by the Legislature, the first Commissioner of Education of the State of New York, which office he now holds. He declined the position of assistant United States attorney for the Northern District of New York in 1882, the position of Secretary of the Board of Regents in 1889, and the position of first superintendent of schools of Greater New York in 1898. He was president of the National Association of School Superintendents from 1889 to 1891; president of the North Central Association of Colleges and Preparatory Schools from 1903 to 1904; honorary member of the New York State Historical Society, the Illinois State Historical Society, the Wisconsin State Historical Society, the Chicago Historical Society, the St. Louis Railway Club, chairman of the Department of Education of International Congresses at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition; and was appointed in 1902 by President Roosevelt a member of the United States Board of Indian Commissioners, and is now chairman of the Board. He is also a director of the National Commercial Bank, and a trustee of the National Savings Bank of Albany, New York. He is a trustee of the First Presbyterian Church of Albany. Mr. Draper is author of: The Rescue of Cuba; also a monograph on Educational Organizations and Administration in the United States for which he received the silver medal of the Paris Exposition in 1900. He was editor of the Department of Education, Encyclopaedia Americana, and editor-in-chief of Self-Culture for Young People, which embraces ten volumes. He was awarded a gold medal and two commemorative diplomas for educational writings and one of the two grand prizes conferred for conspicuous service to education by the Louisiana Purchase Exposition at St. Louis in 1904. In 1872 he married Miss Abbie Louise Lyon, of New Britain, Conn. Mrs. Draper, like her husband, is descended from the earliest New England stock. They have two children, Charlotte Leland, married May 8, 1907, to Arthur A. Brown, Pittsburgh manager of the Westinghouse, Church, Kerr Company, and residing in Pittsburgh, Pa.; and Edwin Lyon, a physician and surgeon in practice at Albany, married Oct. 14, 1908, to Miss Mary Frances Headen, of Shelbyville, Ill. The family home is at 133 Lake Avenue, south, Albany, N. Y.

DRAPER, Daniel:

Meteorologist; born in New York City, April 2, 1841; son of Professor John William and Antonia C. de P. (Gardner) Draper. He was educated in New York University, from which he received the degree of Ph.D. in 1880. He was assistant to his father for several years in chemistry and physiology at New York University, and amanuensis to his father for his Intellectual Development of Europe and other works. He served a five years' apprenticeship at the Novelty Iron Works, New York City and he assisted his brother, Henry Draper, M.D., LL.D., in constructing the observatory at Hastings-on-Hudson, New York; and he was also assistant port engineer of a line of steamships between New York and New Orleans. He established in 1869 and has since been director of the New York Meteorological Observatory in Central Park, inventing for it many instruments and making other improvements. In 1871 he began investigations showing that clearing land of trees did not diminish rainfall, and also that American storms cross the Atlantic. This led to the reporting of United States disturbances in Great Britain. Dr. Draper is president of the Draper Manufacturing Company of 152 Front Street, New York City. He is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and a member of the American Philosophical Society and of the National Geographic Society. He married in St. Louis, Mo., April 28, 1887, Ann Maury Ludlow, and they have three children. Residence: Hastings-on-Hudson, New York. Address: New York Meteorological Observatory, Central Park, New York City.

DRAPER, Eben Sumner:

Governor of Massachusetts; born at Hopedale, Worcester County, Mass., June 17, 1858; son of George Draper. He was educated in Allen's School, West Newton, Mass., and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and after that went through a thorough course of training in machine shops and cotton mills. He was admitted to the firm of George Draper & Sons, and when the business was reorganized and incorporated as The Draper Company, in 1896, he became its selling agent, and he continues in that capacity. He was until recently a director of the New England Cotton Yarn Company, Old Colony Trust Company, National Shawmut Bank, and Boston and Albany Railroad. Mr. Draper is a director of the Milford National Bank and Queen City Cotton Company, and is a member of the corporation of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, of the Board of Trustees of the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital Fund, vice-president of the American Unitarian Association. In 1898, through the Massachusetts Volunteer Aid Association, he raised two hundred thousand dollars for the hospital ship Bay State, for the Spanish-American War. Mr. Draper is an active member of the Home Market Club at Boston; was chairman of the Republican State Committee in 1892, and chairman of the Massachusetts delegation to the Republican National Convention at St. Louis in 1896, where he was a leader in securing the strong declaration of the platform in favor of the gold standard. He was chairman of the Massachusetts Commission to the Nashville Exposition in 1897, and was elected in 1900 as a McKinley and Roosevelt elector from the Eleventh Massachusetts District; and he served as lieutenant-governor prior to his election in November, 1908, to his present office as governor of Massachusetts. Residence: Hopedale, Mass. Official address: Boston, Mass.

DRAPER, Frank Winthrop:

Physician; born in Wayland, Mass., Feb. 25, 1843; son of James Sumner and Emeline Amanda (Reeves) Draper. He was graduated from Wayland High School, Brown University, A.B., 1862, A.M., 1865, and Harvard, M.D., 1869. Dr. Draper has been engaged in the general practice of medicine since 1869. He is medical examiner of Suffolk County, Mass.; and is professor of legal medicine in Harvard Medical School. He is a member and was president, 1900-1902, of the Massachusetts Medical Society, a member of the Massachusetts State Board of Health, and a trustee of Tufts College. Dr. Draper is a companion of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion, having served in the Civil War as a private in the 35th Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry, and afterward as captain of the 39th U. S. Colored Troops. Address: 514 Harvard Street, Brookline, Mass.

DRAPER, William Franklin:

Capitalist and diplomat; born in Lowell, Mass., April 9, 1842; son of George and Hannah (Thwing) Draper, and a descendant of Abijah Draper, a Revolutionary soldier. He was educated in the public schools, and began his preparation for entering Harvard College, but did not enter as on Aug. 9, 1861, he enlisted in a volunteer company which his father had been largely instrumental in raising, and which was subsequently incorporated in the 25th Massachusetts Regiment; and he was chosen second lieutenant of the company. His first important duty was in connection with General Burnside's Expedition to North Carolina, during which he became signal officer on the general's staff, and participated in the battles of Roanoke Island, Newbern and Fort Macon, during which service he was commissioned first lieutenant. He was commissioned captain in August, 1862, and transferred to the 36th Massachusetts Regiment, which he joined Sept. 14, 1862, just after the battle of South Mountain. He was present at the battles of Antietam, and Fredericksburg, afterwards engaged in the pursuit of Morgans Cavalry, joined General Grant in the siege and capture of Vicksburg and in the subsequent march to Jackson and engagements in that locality, the severity of the campaign reducing the regiment from 650 in June to 198 in September. He was promoted to major, participated in the siege of Knoxville, and the battles of Blue Springs, Campbell's Station and Strawberry Plains, and after Oct. 20, 1863, had command of the regiment, Colonel Goodell having been wounded. At the battle of the Wilderness, while leading his regiment in a charge over a Confederate rifle pit, he was shot through the body and left on the field. After the position had been successively captured and recaptured he was finally rescued and sent to a hospital in Washington. He received his commission as lieutenant-colonel and served as colonel of his regiment until the close of his service, resuming active service in front of Petersburg, and commanding the brigade during the severe engagement at the Weldon Railroad. On Oct. 12, 1864, his term of service having expired and his wounds being of a troublesome character, he accepted his discharge and returned home, having received the brevets of colonel and brigadier-general for gallant service. Soon after the close of the war General Draper became engaged in the manufacture of cotton machinery, in which he attained great success and he is now at the head of the firm of George Draper and Sons, being besides, president and director in numerous manufacturing, railroad or insurance companies. He is a mechanical expert and an inventor with a record of over fifty patents. He is a well known writer on economics and was for one year president of the Home Market Club. General Draper served for three years on the staff of Governor Long, and made a strong fight for the Gubernatorial nomination in 1880. He was subsequently elected to Congress from the Eleventh Massachusetts Congressional District; and served as United States ambassador to Italy from 1897 to 1900. Address: Hopedale, Mass., and 1705 R Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

DRAPER, William H.:

Congressman; born in Worcester County, Mass., June 24, 1841; son of Stephen and Harriet Draper. He moved to Troy in 1847 and has resided there ever since. He attended the public schools until 1856 and then entered upon a mercantile career. He is now engaged in manufacturing cordage and twine under the firm name of William H. Draper & Son. He was a trustee of the village of Lausenburg and from 1896 to 1900 was commissioner of jurors for Rensselaer County, N. Y. He was elected in 1900 to the Fifty-seventh Congress from the 22d District of New York and reelected to the Fifty-eighth and Fifty-ninth, Sixtieth, and again, in 1908, to the Sixty-first Congress. He married at Schenectady, N. Y., 1864, Miss Livingston, and they have three children. Address: Troy, N. Y.

DREISER, Theodore:

Author, editor; born in Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 27, 1871; son of John Paul and Sarah (Shanab) Dreiser. He was educated in the public schools of Warsaw, Ind., and the State University of Indiana. He entered newspaper work on the Chicago Daily Globe, June 15, 1892; was dramatic editor and traveling correspondent of the St. Louis Globe Democrat, 1892-1893, and traveling correspondent of the St. Louis Republic, 1893-1894. He visited Toledo, Cleveland, Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, and New York City as a general newspaper writer and reporter. Mr. Dreiser was editor of Every Month, a literary and musical publication, 1895-1898, and after that he was in special work for Harper's, McClure's, Scribner's, Cosmopolitan and Munsey's magazines. He was editor of Smith's Magazine, 1905-1906; managing editor of the Broadway Magazine, 1906-1907; editor-in-chief of The Butterick publications, The Delineator, The Designer, and The New Idea, since June, 1907. Mr. Dreiser is author of: Studies of Contemporary Celebrities, 1900; and Sister Carrie (a novel), 1901. He is a member of the American Social Science Association and of the Salmagundi Club. In November, 1907, Mr. Dreiser inaugurated for the Butterick Company the National Child Rescue campaign, which resulted in a National Conference at Washington, called by the then President Roosevelt, and the adoption of a set of principles governing the care and control of the dependent child. These rules are already in force in several states. Mr. Dreiser married in Washington, D. C., Dec. 28, 1898, Sarah Osborne White. Residence: 439 West 123d Street. Office: The Butterick Building, New York City.

DRESSER, Horatio Willis:

Author and philosopher; born in Yarmouth, Maine, Jan. 15, 1866. He was graduated from Harvard University, A.B., 1895, A.M., 1904, and Ph.D., 1907. He has been assistant in philosophy at Harvard University, since 1903. He is the author of several works on philosophical topics, their scope being indicated by their titles, which are as follows: Living by the Spirit; The Power of Silence; A Book of Secrets; In Search of a Soul; Voices of Hope; Health and the Inner Life; Man and the Divine Order; The Christ Ideal; The Perfect Whole; Voices of Freedom; The Heart of It; Education and the Philosophical Ideal; The Greatest Truth; The Philosophy of the Spirit. He married in Boston, March 17, 1898, Alice Mae Reed. Address: 2 Gorham Street, Cambridge, Mass.

DRESSER, Solomon Robert:

Manufacturer, inventor and ex-congressman; born in Litchfield, Hillsdale County, Mich., Feb. 1, 1842; son of Parker and Lydia (Cronklate) Dresser. He attended the Hillsdale College, and then conducted the Dresser farm with his father until 1865, when the oil development of West Virginia began to attract attention and companies were formed for oil operation. In one of these he took stock and soon became its manager, and continued in this capacity until 1872, when he went to Pennsylvania to engage in the production of oil and gas. Here he gained the practical experience which, combined with his inventive genius, placed his name foremost among the men of brains whose business energy invented and developed the machinery and appliances used in the oil and gas industry. Among his inventions are a packer for oil and gas wells, which has taken the lead from the first day it was placed on the market, a rubber pipe coupling which by providing for contraction and expansion makes a perfectly tight joint, and an insulated pipe coupling which prevents the destruction of water and gas pipes by electrolysis. He is a larger employer of labor and has never had a strike or any trouble with his employees. Mr. Dresser was elected to the Fifty-eighth Congress in 1902 and reelected in 1904 to the Fifty-ninth Congress from the Twenty-first Pennsylvania District. He married, first in 1863, Vesta E. Stimson, who died in 1883, and second, Dec. 21, 1885, Caroline Kirsch. Residence: 149 Jackson Avenue. Office: 54 Boylston Street, Bradford, Pa.

DREW, John:

Actor; born in Philadelphia, Nov. 13, 1853; son of John Drew, Irish comedian, who died in 1862, and Mrs. John Drew, actress and manager, who died in 1891. He was educated at the Protestant Episcopal Academy at Philadelphia and by private tutors. He went on the stage when nineteen years of age, and was for many years a member of Augustin Daly's Company. Since 1892 he has starred under the management of Charles Frohman, notably in Rosemary, Richard Carvel, the Duke of Killarankie; His House in Order, De Launcy and many others. He is a member of the Actors Fund Association and the Lambs', Players', The Brook, Racquet and Tennis, and the Westchester Country Clubs. Mr. Drew married Josephine Baker, of Philadelphia, and they have one daughter. Address: Easthampton, Long Island, N. Y.

DREXEL, George W. Childs:

Capitalist; born in Philadelphia, 1868; son of the late Anthony J. Drexel, banker and philanthropist. He was educated in private schools and by tutors. He became connected with the Philadelphia Ledger in association with the late George William Childs, whom he succeeded as editor and publisher of that paper, conducting it until 1903, when the paper was sold, and retired. He married at Vincentown, Burlington County, N. J., Nov. 18, 1891, Mary S. Irick. Besides their town house at Locust and Eighteenth Streets, Philadelphia, Mr. Drexel has a country home at Wootton, Bryn Mawr, Pa. Office: 608 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

DRINKER, Henry Sturgis:

President of Lehigh University; born at Hong Kong, China, Nov., 8, 1850; son of Sandwith and Susannah (Budd) Drinker. He was graduated from Lehigh University in 1871, as mining engineer; and he received the degree of LL.D. from Lafayette College, 1905. He was colliery clerk with the Lehigh Valley Coal Company, 1871-1872, after which he entered the service of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, in the engineering department, and from 1872 to 1875 had charge of the building of the Musconetcong Tunnel. He then entered the main office, and after studying law and being admitted to the bar in 1878, became, later, general solicitor of the same road. He is author of: Tunneling; Explosive Compounds and Rock Drills; and editor of a revised and enlarged edition of Ball's General Railroad and Telegraph Laws of Pennsylvania; contributor of many technical papers. He has been president of Lehigh University since 1905. He married at Philadelphia, Dec. 2, 1879, Aimée Ernesta Beaux. Address: South Bethlehem, Pa.

DRISCOLL, Michael Edward:

Lawyer, congressman; born in Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 9, 1851; son of Michael and Ellen Driscoll. He was educated in district schools, Monro Collegiate Institute, Elbridge, Onondaga County, and Williams College, A.B., 1877. He was admitted to the bar in 1879, and since has been practising law at Syracuse, N. Y. He is a Republican; was elected to the Fifty-sixth, Fifty-seventh, Fifty-eighth, Fifty-ninth, and Sixtieth Congresses, and reelected to the Sixty-first Congress from the 28th N. Y. District. Mr. Driscoll married in Syracuse, N. Y., 1886, Mary McLean. Address: University Block, Syracuse, N. Y.

DROPPERS, Garrett:

Professor of political economy; born in Milwaukee, Wis., April 12, 1861; son of John Dirk and Gertrude (Boyink) Dropers. He was graduated from Harvard, A.B., 1887; took special studies in economics, finance, and political science, in Harvard and at the University of Berlin, and received the honorary degree of Ph.D. from the University of South Dakota. He was professor of economics, at the University of Tokyo, Japan, 1889-1898, and was secretary of the Asiatic Society of Japan, 1894-1898. In 1899 he became president of the University of South Dakota, serving until 1906, when he left to accept the position of Professorial lecturer in political economy in the University of Chicago. He left that institution in 1907 to become secretary of the Massachusetts Commission on Commerce and Industry, serving in this capacity until 1908, when he took his present chair as professor of political economy at Williams College. Professor Droppers married in Cambridge, Mass., Jean Tewkesbury Rand, and they have four children. Address: Williams College, Williamstown, Mass.

DROUET, Robert:

Actor and dramatist; born in Clinton, Iowa, in 1870. He joined a theatrical company at the age of sixteen, and in a few years had a company of his own in Shakespearean repertoire. He later played leading parts with Joseph Haworth, Ellie Ellsler, Mary Mannering, and stock companies; was original "John Storm" in The Christian in Viola Allen Company; also "Col. Jack Brereton," in Janice Meredith; in Clyde Fitch's Girl With the Green Eyes; Woman in the Case, Toast of the Town; and with Margaret Anglin in The Eternal Feminine and The Measure of a Man, Genesee Hills and The Mills of the Gods. Mr. Drouet is author of the plays: Tomorrow; An Idyl of Virginia; Doris; The White Czar; Montana; Fra Diano; Captain Bob. He married in 1897, Mildred, daughter of M. A. Loring. Address: The Players, Gramercy Park, New York City.

DRYDEN, John Fairfield:

United States senator; born near Farmington, Maine, Aug. 7, 1839; son of John and Elizabeth B. Dryden. He removed with his parents, when in his seventh year, to Massachusetts, was fitted for college at Worcester, Mass., and entered Yale University, intending to adopt the legal profession, but before fully completing his course was obliged to leave on account of ill health. Subsequently he was graduated with the class of 1865. During a period of enforced rest he made a special study of life insurance, and in 1875 at Newark, N. J., originated and founded the Prudential Insurance Company of America, becoming its first secretary, and in 1881 became its president, a position he still holds, and he was also one of the Founders of the Fidelity Trust Company. He is identified with the management of various street railways, banks, and other large financial enterprises of New Jersey and New York. Mr. Dryden has been a Republican all his life, but was more active in business than in politics. He was one of the New Jersey Presidential electors at large in 1896 and 1900 and was elected to the United States Senate to succeed the late William J. Sewell, Jan. 29, 1902, for the remainder of the term of office which expired March 3, 1907. Address: 1020 Broad Street, Newark, N. J.

DU BOIS, Augustus Jay:

Civil engineer and educator; born at Newton Falls, Ohio, April 25, 1849. He was graduated from Sheffield Scientific School, Yale University, Ph.B., 1869, C.E. in 1870, Ph.D. 1873. He studied mechanics two years in the Mining School at Freiberg, Saxony, became professor of civil and mechanical engineering at Lehigh University, 1874-1876; professor of mechanical engineering, 1877-1884, and since 1884 has been professor of civil engineering in Sheffield Scientific School of Yale. He is author of: Elements of Graphic Statics; The New Method of Graphical Statics; Strains in Framed Structures; Elements of Mechanics; Mechanics of Engineering. He also translated and edited from the German: Hydraulics and Hydraulic Motors, and Heat, Steam and the Steam Engine, by Professor Weisbach; The Calculation of the Strength and Dimensions of Iron and Steel Construction by Professor Weyrauch; The Principles of Thermodynamics by Professor Röntgen, and has contributed papers in technical journals and articles on the relation of science to the spiritual and supernatural. Address: 334 Edwards Street, New Haven, Conn.

DU BOIS, William Edward Burghardt:

Professor of sociology in Atlanta University; born at Great Barrington, Mass., Feb. 23, 1868; son of Alfred and Mary S. Du Bois, of African descent. He was graduated from Harvard, A.B., 1890, was a fellow there, 1890-1892, and received then the degrees of A.M., 1891, Ph.D., 1895. He is also A.B. of Fisk University, 1888, and has studied at the University of Berlin. Professor Du Bois is generally recognized as the leader of the movement for the higher education for persons of African descent, and of the agitation against race discrimination. He is general secretary of the Niagara Movement, an association intended to secure results along these lines. He was a teacher at Wilberforce University, 1894-1896, and an assistant instructor at the University of Pennsylvania in 1896, before going to Atlanta University, where he is titular professor of economics and history, devoting his teaching, however, to the study of sociological phenomena. His book, The Souls of Black Folk, attracted universal attention. He is also author of The Suppression of the Slave Trade, and The Philadelphia Negro, and is editor of the Atlanta University studies of the Negro Problem. He is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. He married at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, 1896, Nina Gomer, and has one daughter. Address: Atlanta University, Atlanta, Ga.

DU BOIS, Edwin W.:

Dredging contractor; born in New York City, July 18, 1868; son of Charles and Emily A. (Wells) Du Bois. He was educated in the public and high schools of Brooklyn. Mr. Du Bois has been connected with the dredging interests for years and is now vice-president and secretary of the Henry Du Bois Sons Company, and also a director of the Marine Manufacturing and Supply Company. He has traveled extensively through the United States, Canada, and Europe, and he has represented the dredging interests of New York on several occasions before Congress in legislative matters. Mr. Du Bois is president of the Board of Trustees of the Church of the Evangel (Congregational) in Brooklyn. Mr. Du Bois is a member of the Royal Arcanum, an executive member of the Association for the Protection of the Commerce of the Port of New York, and a member of the Flatbush Taxpayers' Association, and of the Union League Club of Brooklyn. Mr. Du Bois married Etta M. Beardsley of Brooklyn, and they have two children. Address: 62 Marlborough Road, Flatbush, Brooklyn, N. Y.

DUCEY, Thomas James:

Catholic clergyman; born in Lisnore, Ireland, Feb. 4, 1843. He came to this country at the age of five years and was adopted by James T. Brady in 1859. He was educated at the College of St. Francis Xavier, New York City; studied theology at the Troy Theological Seminary, and was ordained to the priesthood in 1868, and appointed to the Church of the Nativity in 1869, where he preached sermons denouncing the Tweed ring. He was connected with St. Michael's Church in 1872, and began the organization of the Roman Catholic Societies in 1873. He established the Church of St. Leo in 1880 and has since been its pastor. Father Ducey is one of the founders of the People's Municipal League and the Social Reform Club, and during the Lexow Investigation took a fearless and independent course, which attracted the attention of the entire country. Address: 16 East 29th Street, New York City.

DUDLEY, Charles Rowland:

Librarian; born at Easton, Conn., June 26, 1853; son of Rev. Martin and Sarah (Rowland) Dudley. He was educated at Monson Academy, Monson, Mass., and then entered the Law School of Yale University, from which he was graduated LL.B., 1877. He was admitted to the Hampden County bar in Massachusetts in 1878 and practised at Monson, Mass., until 1882, when he removed to Denver, of which he has since been a citizen. Since 1886 he has been librarian of the Denver Public Library, and, since 1887, also secretary of the State Historical Society of Colorado. Mr. Dudley was a regent of the State University of Colorado, 1888-1900, and again elected in 1906 for a term of six years. He married, Sept. 14, 1893, Rose A. Smith, and they have three daughters. Residence: 1274 Marion Street. Office: Public Library, Denver, Colo.

DUDLEY, Edgar Swartwout:

Brigadier-general U. S. Army (retired); born in Oppenheim, N. Y., June 14, 1845; son of James M. and Maria (Swartwout) Dudley. He was educated in the Johnstown (N. Y.) Academy, the United States Military Academy, Albany Law School, Union University, LL.B., and received the degree of LL.D. from the University of Nebraska, June 9, 1904. He served as second lieutenant 1st New York Light Artillery Volunteers, May 28 to Nov. 28, 1864; cadet in U. S. Military Academy, Sept. 1866 to June, 1870; commissioned second lieutenant 2d U. S. Artillery, June 15, 1870; 1st lieutenant Oct. 29, 1875; captain, assistant quartermaster U. S. A., Dec. 20, 1892; major and judge advocate, U. S. A., Feb. 2, 1901; lieutenant-colonel and judge advocate, May 24, 1901, colonel, judge advocate, Nov. 22, 1903, brigadier-general, U. S. A., retired, June 14, 1909, at age limit. He was professor of military science and tactics, University of Nebraska, 1876-1879, and 1884-1888; judge advocate and legal adviser of the military governors of Cuba (Generals John R. Brooke and Leonard Wood, U. S. A.), from beginning of the first military occupation of that island, Dec. 1898, until May 21, 1901; professor of law, U. S. Military Academy, July 31, 1901 to his retirement June 14, 1909. He is author of Dudley's Military Law and the Procedure of Courts Martial. General Dudley is president of the Alumni Association of Albany Law School of University, Albany, N. Y.; member of the American Society of International Law, National Geographic Society, New York State Historical Society, Society of Colonial Wars, Sons of the American Revolution, Society of the War of 1812, Military Order of the Loyal Legion, Society of the Army of the Potomac, Naval and Military Order of the Spanish-American War; one of the founders of the Johnstown (N. Y.) Historical Society; member of the Union League and Army and Navy Clubs of New York City, Army Clubs at Fort Monroe, Va., Fort Thomas, Ky., Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and West Point, N. Y., and the Colonial Club at Johnstown, N. Y. Address: Johnstown, N. Y.

DUDLEY, Irving Bedell:

Ambassador; born at Jefferson, Ashtabula County, Ohio, Nov. 30, 1860; son of Rev. H. C. Hamilton Dudley and Mary (Eastwood) Dudley. He was graduated from Kenyon College, A.B., 1882, (LL. D., 1908) and was graduated from the Law Department of Columbian (now George Washington) University at Washington, LL.B., 1885, LL.M., 1886. He went to California and engaged in the practice of law at San Diego, 1888-1897. He served as city judge of San Diego for two terms, became active and prominent in the politics of his State as a Republican, and was a member of the Republican State Executive Committee of California in 1897. In June, 1897, he entered upon his diplomatic career, being appointed by President McKinley envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States to Peru, in which position he remained until promotion to ambassadorial rank and transfer, in Dec., 1906, as the American ambassador to Brazil in which post he is now serving. Address: American Embassy, Rio Janeiro, Brazil.

DUELL, Charles H.:

Jurist; born in Cortland, N. Y., April 13, 1850; son of R. Holland and Mary Ledyard (Cuyler) Duell. He was educated at the Cortlandville Academy and was graduated from Hamilton College with the degree of A.B., 1871, and from the Hamilton College Law School with the degree of LL.B., 1872, and he received the degree of LL.D. from Hamilton in 1906. He practised law in New York City, 1874-1880; in Syracuse, 1880-1898, and again in New York City, 1901-1904, his specialty being patent law. He was a member of the New York Assembly, 1878-1880; commissioner of patents, 1898-1901, but resigned to resume the practice of his profession. In Dec., 1904, he was appointed by President Roosevelt associate justice of the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia, but resigned Sept. 1, 1906, to resume the practice of his profession in the firm of Duell, Warfield and Duell. In 1908 was at the head of the Republican electoral ticket of New York and received the highest vote cast for any elector; was President of the Electoral College which met at Albany in Jan., 1909. He was assistant treasurer of the Republican National Committee in 1904; president of the McKinley League of Onondaga County of New York, in 1896, and director of the Carter-Crume Company and Vice-President of William A. Rogers, Limited, both of Toronto, Canada and President of The Klauderweldon Dyeing Machine Co., of Amsterdam, N. Y., a Presbyterian in his denominational adherence. Judge Duell is a member of the American Bar Association; and of the Sons of the American Revolution, and is also a member of the Union League Republican and West-Side Republican Clubs of New York City, and the Cosmos Club of Washington, D. C. Judge Duell married at Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 20, 1879, Harriet M., daughter of William A. Sackett, of Saratoga Springs, N. Y. They have four children: Hon. Holland S. W. Sackett, Mary L., and Charles H., Junior. Residence: 335 West End Avenue. Office: 2 Rector Street, New York City.

DUFFIELD, Pitts:

Publisher; born at Detroit, Mich., Jan. 22, 1869; son of Henry M. and Frances (Pitts) Duffield. He was graduated from Harvard, A.B., 1892. He was formerly secretary of Fox, Duffield and Company, publishers; and is now president, treasurer and director of Duffield and Company, publishers (incorporated). He is a member of the American Publishers' Association, the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity (Harvard), the University Players' and Harvard Clubs of New York and the Hasty Pudding Club of Harvard. Mr. Duffield married at Washington, D. C., Jan. 6, 1904, Isabel, daughter of Justice McKenna, of the United States Supreme Court, and they have a daughter, Carolyn Pitts Duffield, born in 1905. Residence: 135 East 66th Street. Address: 36 East 21st Street, New York City.

DUGGIN, Charles:

Retired architect; born in London, England, June 19, 1830; He was educated as an architect in England, came to New York in 1853, arriving April 15, and on April 20 obtained employment as an architect's assistant; and in 1856 he began independent practice as an architect. In 1858 Mr. Duggin had an exhibit of designs for churches, villas, etc., and models of country houses, churches, etc., which he made with his own hands and which attracted much favorable attention at the New York Crystal Palace in Bryant Square. The burning of that building, with his exhibit, Oct. 15, 1858, was a severe loss to him. In 1859 his design was chosen, over those of about two dozen competitors, for Henry Ward Beecher's proposed new church; but in consequence of the Civil War the building of that church was abandoned. Mr. Duggin continued in successful practice, and also acquired valuable property which he improved, and in 1870 he established the business of the "manufacture of homes," building a factory on property he had purchased at Park Avenue and 41st Street. The following year he abandoned the practice of architecture, and J. M. Crossman, who had been his assistant in practice from 1862, became his partner in the house manufacturing business. In April, 1872, Mr. Duggin retired from business, leaving Mr. Crossman as his successor; but the latter becoming embarrassed in his operations because of the panic following Jay Cooke's failure in 1873, Mr. Duggin resumed his connection with the business, under the old firm name of Duggin & Crossman. They retired from business in 1879, selling out to Charles Buck & Co., which firm was reorganized in 1881 with Mr. Duggin, who had repurchased control, as special partner, which partnership continued until 1884, when he finally retired from business. From the years 1866 to 1884, inclusive, more than two hundred first-class residences in New York City were designed, planned, manufactured, and sold by his establishment. He is a member of the Union League and Manhattan Clubs, and a life member of the New York Athletic Club. Mr. Duggin married in 1862, Emilie Bailey, of Philadelphia. Address: 25 East 38th Street, New York City.

DUGRO, Philip Henry:

Jurist; born in New York City, Oct. 3, 1855; son of Anthony Dugro. He was graduated from Columbia College, as A.B. in 1876, A.M., in 1876; and from Columbia Law School as LL.B. in 1878. He was elected a member of the Assembly of the State of New York in 1878, and a member of Congress, in 1880. He was nominated for comptroller of the City of New York, by the Democratic Party, in 1884, but owing to his father's death immediately after nomination, he declined it. In 1886, he was nominated by the governor of New York as emigration commissioner of the State, but while the nomination was pending in the State Senate, he was elected judge of the Superior Court of the City of New York. In 1896, by constitutional amendment, he was made justice of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, and in 1900, was elected to the same position for a term expiring in 1914. Judge Dugro has always been Democrat in politics. He built the Hotel Savoy and the Hotel Seville. He married in 1875, Sophia Goeller, and has a son and a daughter. Address: Hotel Savoy, New York City.

DUKE, James B.:

Manufacturer and capitalist; he was engaged in the manufacture of smoking tobacco at Durham, N. C., as a member of the firm of Duke Brothers and Company, which was absorbed in 1890 by the American Tobacco Company, of which he is president; he is also president of the Continental Tobacco Company, incorporated in 1898, and the Consolidated Tobacco Company, incorporated in 1901. He is a chairman of the Board of Directors of the British-American Tobacco Company Limited; director of American Cigar Company, American Snuff Company, Harry Weissinger Tobacco Company, Havana-American Company, Havana Commercial Company, Havana Tobacco, Imperial Tobacco Company of London, and of the Morton Trust Company and National Bank of Commerce. Residence: Somerville, N. J. Office: 111 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

DULLES, Heatly Courtonne:

Stock broker and banker; born in Philadelphia, March 17, 1867; son of Rev. John W. Dulles, D.D. and Natalie (Baynard) Dulles. He was educated in Lawrenceville School, New Jersey. He is a member of the firm of Wurts, Dulles & Company. His favorite recreations are horseback riding, tennis, swimming and rowing. Mr. Dulles is a Republican and Presbyterian. He is a member of the Philadelphia, University Barge, Merion Cricket and Whitemarsh Valley Hunt Clubs. Residence: 311 South 22d Street, Philadelphia. Address: 125 South 4th Street, Philadelphia.

DULLES, William:

President of manufacturing corporations; born in Philadelphia, Oct. 25, 1857; son of Rev. John Welsh Dulles, D.D., and Harriet L. (Winslow) Dulles. He was graduated from Princeton, A.B., 1878, A.M., 1880, receiving various prizes (junior orations, Maclean prize, Lyde debate prize, etc.), and has been president of his class from graduation. He was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania, LL.B., 1880; practised law in Philadelphia, 1880-1882; removed to New York City, 1882, entering financial business as private secretary, assistant secretary and treasurer of the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago Railroad, 1884-1889. He was treasurer of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, 1889-1897; became president of the Appert Glass Company, 1897, vice-president of the Mississippi Wire Glass Company from its organization, 1901, and in 1904 also vice-president of the Mississippi Glass Company; also treasurer and a director of both companies. With E. W. Humphreys, president of the Mississippi Wire Glass Company, he has been especially active in the development of the manufacture and use of wire glass, now so extensively used as a fire retardant in window openings, elevator shafts and other exposures, and as security against breakage in skylights, etc. He is a director of the Vulcan Mining Company and the American Stoker Company. He is a member of the Board of Education of Englewood, N. J., trustee and secretary of Mackenzie College, Brazil; member of the Pennsylvania Society, Presbyterian Union, American Museum of Natural History, New York Zoölogical Society, American Society of International Law; the University, Lawyers', University of Pennsylvania, National Arts, Princeton and Pilgrims Clubs of New York City; University Club of Philadelphia; Duquesne Club of Pittsburgh; and the Englewood, Englewood Field and Englewood Golf Clubs. He married in Lake Forest, Ill., Jan. 15, 1891, Sophea Rhea, and they have had four children (one now deceased). Residence: Englewood, N. J. Office: 115 Broadway, New York City.

DU MAZUEL, Edmond Guy Ferdinand R. (Marquis):

Consulting engineer; born in Paris, France, in 1876; son of Dr. Edmond R. and Antonia R. du Mazuel. He studied at St. Charles College, principality of Monaco, graduating as B.L. and B.S. in 1893; became a student of the École Polytechnique and received the degree of Licentiate ès Science at Paris in 1897. The marquis du Mazuel was assistant engineer to Mr. Bressand of Montmélian for estimates on roads for the Isère section, France (the estimates amounting to $2,000,000); chief of staff for the improvements of the harbor of Algiers (Algeria); chief assistant engineer for Brousseau d'Essex, C. E. on the location, erection and construction of a $3,000,000 rack railway of La Turbie (Alpes Maritimes), and on soundings, estimates, etc., of proposed piers for the harbor of the principality of Monaco, 1898-1899-1900. He gave special lectures in hydraulic engineering for the École Polytechnique, Paris, 1900-1901; and since 1902 has been in New York City, doing private bridge work; and occasionally working for different firms and companies, including the New York Central Railroad; Tribus & Massa, hydraulic engineers, as their field engineer for the Larchmont dam and the Caldwell water works (the works amounting to about $400,000); was engaged on road location and topographical work on Long Island; was with the firm of Dr. F. S. Pearson on computations relating to works of the Necaxa Power Company, the Electrical Development Company of Ontario, Limited, and the Sao Paulo Railway Company (each of these works costing over $1,000,000). He was at the American Asbestos Mills of Black Lake, Province of Quebec, Canada, designing and supervising during the erection of the mills; was chief of the engineering department of the Iroquois Construction Company and of the Niagara, Lockport and Ontario Power Company (companies sold out by the Messrs. J. G. Robin and C. M. Wicker to New York Central and Westinghouse interests in 1905); became with Mr. C. M. Wicker, one of the promoters and directors of the Consolidated Engineering Company of America, running the affairs of said company until the latter part of 1907, when he severed all connections with Mr. C. M. Wicker, and became alone the financial backer of that company. He is a director and officer of the Concrete Interlocking Steel Corporation. The marquis du Mazuel was one of the few promoters of reinforced concrete construction in this country; was the designer, architect and engineer for St. Edmund's Church of New York City, the first reinforced concrete church in America; was the first to introduce the consumption of garbage and refuse by reinforced concrete inverted retort distillation of same, thus doing away with all purifiers, etc., and producing a gas of high power and caloric, which can be stored indefinitely in tanks. The marquis du Mazuel has become a silent factor in the steel industry; has designed labor saving machinery for the drawing and rolling of light steel sheets to long lengths, as well as other machinery for steel sheet work, and is now utilizing same, in Pittsburgh, Pa., for manufacturing the "du Mazuel" reinforcement for concrete, which is the cheapest, lightest and strongest reinforcement on the market that does away with all form-work and skilled labor. Address: 41 Wall Street, New York City.

DUMONT, Charles Walter:

Law publisher; born at Juneau, Wis., 1860; son of Dr. John E. and Julia (Wardford) Dumont. He was educated at the University of Wisconsin, Mr. Dumont was principal and superintendent of various public high schools in Wisconsin for six years; was formerly treasurer of the Edward Thompson Company of Northport, Long Island, N. Y., law publishers; and is now president and manager of The American Law Book Company. He was the originator of the idea of the Cyclopedia of Law and Procedure CYC., a forty volume work, which is universally conceded to be the greatest work in the law. Mr. Dumont may very properly be called the father of CYC. Mr. Dumont has visited most of the European countries. He is a Republican in politics, and a member of the Odd Fellows Order. His favorite recreations are yachting and driving. He is a member of the New York Athletic and Northport Yacht Clubs. He is also a member of the Empire State Society Sons of the American Revolution. Mr. Dumont married at Juneau, Wis., in 1879, Jennie Hargraves, and he has three children: George Dumont (born in 1880), Dorothea Dumont (born in 1885) and Charles W. Dumont (born in 1898). Residence: Glendale, Northport, Long Island. Address: 60 Wall Street, New York City.

DUNBAR, James Robert:

Lawyer; born in Pittsfield, Mass., Dec. 23, 1847; son of Henry W. and Elizabeth (Richards) Dunbar. He was educated in the public schools of Pittsfield, and Williams College, where he received the degree of A.B., and at the Harvard Law School. He was admitted to the bar in 1874, and has ever since been engaged in practice, now being senior partner of the law firm of Dunbar and Rackemann, which holds an enviable position at the Boston bar. He is a director of the Boston Safe Deposit and Trust Company. He has served as a member of the Massachusetts Senate, and also as district attorney and from 1888 to 1898 as judge of the Superior Court of Massachusetts; has been chairman of the Taxation Commission and is now chairman of the Suffolk County Court House Commission. He is president of the Evening Law School and a trustee of Williams College. Mr. Dunbar is a member of the Boston Bar Association. He has traveled extensively in Europe and the United States, Canada, and the West Indies. He is a member of the Beacon, Curtis, Massachusetts Agricultural, New Algonquin and Seapuit Clubs. He married at Westfield, Mass., May 15, 1875, Harriet P. Walton, and they have five children:

Ralph W., Philip R., Ruth, Helen L., and Henry F. Residence: Brookline, Mass. Office: Ames Building, Boston, Mass.

DUNHAM, Sylvester Clark:

President of the Travelers Insurance Company; born in Mansfield, Conn., April 24, 1846; son of Jonathan Lyman and Abigail (Eldridge) Dunham. He was educated in common schools and was for a short time a student at Mount Union College, Ohio. He practised law in Hartford, 1873-1885, then became general counsel for the Travelers Insurance Company; afterwards vice-president, and then president. He has traveled throughout the United States, Canada, Mexico and Europe. He has been corporation counsel of Hartford and a member of Water Board, and of several civic societies and like organizations. He is president, director and chairman of the Finance Committee, Travelers Insurance Company, and of the Travelers Indemnity Company, vice-president and director of the City Bank, Connecticut Fire Insurance Company, American Hardware Company, New Britain, Conn., American Surety Company, New York City, and the Metropolitan Bank, New York City. Mr. Dunham is president of the National Board of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, and is a member of the Executive Committee of the Life Insurance Presidents Association. In politics he is an independent Republican. Mr. Dunham is a member of the Union League Club of New York City, and the Hartford, Country, Twentieth Century, and Travelers Clubs of Hartford. He married in Bristol, Conn., Oct. 18, 1877, Mary Austin, and has a son. Address: Hartford, Conn.

DUNLAP, Frederick Levy:

Chemist; born in Chillicothe, Ohio, May 16, 1870. He was educated in the Ohio State University, and the University of Michigan, B.S., 1892; and received the degree of Sc.D. from Harvard University in 1895 and from Yale in 1896. He was instructor in industrial chemistry at the Worcester Polytechnic Institute, 1896-1900, and in inorganic chemistry in the University of Michigan 1900-1901; instructor in analytical chemistry, 1901-1906, and has been assistant professor of analytical chemistry from 1906 in that university. He was also instructor at the Summer School at Harvard, 1893-1895. Dr. Dunlap is a member of the American Chemical Society, and of the Deutsche Chemische Gesellschaft. He was appointed a member of the U. S. Board of Food and Drug Inspection in Washington, D. C. in April 1907, and associate chemist of the Bureau of Chemistry. His principal researches have been in the chemistry of oils, fats and waxes and in organic chemistry. He has written papers on products formed during the boiling or oxidation of linseed oil, and other chemical subjects. Address: Bureau of Chemistry, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

DUNN, Charles Bullen:

Banker; born in the County of Cornwall, England, in 1837; son of Robert Dunn and Mary Ann (Rowe) Dunn, he is descended from two old yeoman families in North Cornwall, near Tintagel, England. He was educated in Saint Anstell Grammar School in Cornwall. He emigrated to the United States in 1853, and was cashier for his cousin, John Grigg, late publisher and banker, from 1853 to 1860. He acted as trustee and executor for the Estates of John Grigg and his son, John W. Grigg, until 1867. In conjunction with his brothers Joseph H. and Robert M. Dunn, he organized the present firm of Dunn Brothers, bankers, in 1868. Mr. Dunn is a director and chairman of the Finance Committee of the Midvale Steel Company of the City of Philadelphia, and president and director of the Independence Trust Company of the City of Philadelphia, a director of the Edgemoor Iron Company of Wilmington, Delaware. He is a Democrat in politics and an Episcopalian in his religious views. Mr. Dunn is a member of the Art Club of Philadelphia and the Arts Club and Lotos Club of New York. He married in Philadelphia in 1865. Residence: Norwood Avenue, Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia. Office address: 115 South Fifth Street, Philadelphia, and 2 Wall Street, New York City.

DUNN, Henry E.:

President and director of the Bradstreet Company; born in Brooklyn, Dec. 9, 1868. He was educated in the public school. He is president and director of the Bradstreet Company. Mr. Dunn is a member of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York. He married at Rochester, N. Y., June 24, 1896, Elizabeth Wadsworth Ives, and they have three children. Residence: 53 East 79th Street. Office: 346 Broadway, New York City.

DUNNE, Edward F.:

Jurist, ex-mayor; born at Waterville, New Haven County, Conn., Oct. 12, 1853; son of P. W. and Delia M. (Lawler) Dunne. The family removed to Illinois in his boyhood, and he was graduated from the high school at Peoria, Ill., 1870. He went to Trinity College of Dublin University, Ireland, but left the University at the end of three years without finishing the course because of his father's failure in business. He took up the study of law, and he was graduated from the Union College of Law, Chicago, LL. B., 1877, and he later received the honorary degree of LL.D. from the St. Ignatius College Chicago. He was admitted to the bar of Illinois by the Supreme Court, in 1877; and he was engaged in the practice of law until elected in 1892, judge of the Circuit Court of Cook County, Ill. He was reelected in 1898 and 1904, but resigned on his election in April, 1905, as mayor of Chicago for a two year term which expired in April, 1907. He was elected as the regular Democratic candidate upon a platform strongly favoring the municipal ownership of the traction lines of Chicago. He gave to the city a clean administration and fought valiantly against a hostile majority in the City Council for the traction reformed to which he was pledged, and secured the approval of his policy on a referendum vote in 1906, but when he was a candidate for reelection in 1907, he was opposed by a strong combination of corporation influences, and was defeated. Judge Dunne has always been a Democrat, and was Democratic nominee for presidential elector, 1900. He has twice been president of the Iroquois Club of Chicago, and twice president of the Monticello Club. He is a prominent Catholic layman. Judge Dunne was elected in 1905 vice president of the National Civic Federation, and in 1906 was elected president of the League of American Municipalities, was selected as delegate-at-large from the State of Illinois to the Democratic National Convention held in Denver 1908. He married in Chicago, Aug. 16, 1881, Elizabeth J. Kelly, and they have thirteen children. Residence: 3127 Beacon Street. Office: 806-807 Ashland Block, Chicago.

DUNNE, Edward Joseph:

Catholic Bishop of Dallas; born in Tipperary, Ireland, April 23, 1848. When a year old he was brought by his parents to the United States, settling in Chicago, and he was educated in the parochial schools of that city and at the College of St. Mary's of the Lake, Chicago. He received his theological training at the Seminary of St. Francis de Sales, at Milwaukee, and at St. Mary's Seminary at Baltimore; and he was ordained to the priesthood at Baltimore, June 29, 1871. He began his ministry as assistant in Chicago churches until 1875, when he was appointed pastor of All Saints Parish, Chicago, continuing with much success there for eighteen years until his consecration, Nov. 30, 1893, as bishop of Dallas, Tex. He has since devoted his attention to the episcopal duties in his diocese, which has prospered greatly under his administration. Address: Dallas, Tex.

DUNNE, Finley Peter:

Author and Journalist; born in Chicago, July 10, 1867; son of Peter and Ellen (Finley) Dunne. He received his education in the public schools and West Division High School of Chicago, and in 1885 began as a reporter on a Chicago newspaper. He was for a time on the staff of the Chicago Daily News, afterward with the Chicago Tribune, city editor of the Chicago Times, editorial writer on the Chicago Times-Herald and the Chicago Evening Post (upon which later paper Mr. Dunne first introduced to the public the now famous philosopher, Mr.

Dooley of the Archey Road); and from 1897 to 1899, was editor of the Chicago Journal. He has traveled extensively, and one of the assignments of his early reportorial career was to go around the world with the Chicago National Baseball Team, then the champions, for the Chicago Tribune. From 1900 he has been occupied with literary work and he is now associate editor of the American Magazine. His Dooley articles have attained popularity scarcely equalled by any other humorous productions of the last decade and many of them have been collected into the volumes: Mr. Dooley in Peace and in War, 1898; Mr. Dooley in the Hearts of His Countrymen, 1898; Mr. Dooley's Philosophy, 1900; Mr. Dooley's Opinions, 1901; Observations by Mr. Dooley, 1902; Dissertations by Mr. Dooley, 1906. Mr. Dunne, is a member of the Racquet and Tennis, Metropolitan, Riding and Brook Clubs of New York. He married in New York City, Dec. 9, 1902, Margaret Abbott, a daughter of the late Mary Perkins Abbott, a popular journalist and author of Chicago. Residence: 114 East 78th Street. Office: 341 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

DUNNING, Albert Elijah:

Clergyman, editor; born at Brookfield, Fairfield County, Conn., Jan. 5, 1844; son of Elijah Starr and Abigail (Beach) Dunning. He was graduated from Yale with the degree of B.A. and Phi Beta Kappa honors in the class of 1867, and he was graduated from Andover Theological Seminary in 1870. He was ordained in the ministry of the Congregational Church in 1870, and was pastor of the Highland Congregational Church at Boston, 1870-1881. He was general Sunday school secretary for Congregational churches, 1881-1889, and since May 2, 1889, has been editor-in-chief of The Congregationalist. Beloit College, Wis., conferred upon him the degree of D.D. in 1889. Dr. Dunning was secretary of the International Sunday School Lesson Committee, 1897-1902. He is author of: The Sunday School Library, 1883; Bible Studies, 1886; The Congregationalists in America, 1894. He married at Kingston, N. Y., Dec. 27, 1870, Harriet W. Westbrook. Residence: Brookline, Mass. Office: 14 Beacon Street, Boston, Mass.

DU PONT, Alfred Camille:

Physician and educator; born in New York City, Oct. 28, 1867. He is of a French ancestry, and received his early education both in France and America. He was graduated from New York University in 1895, has received the degrees of B.A. and M.D., and is a member of the Alumni of New York University. Dr. Du Pont is an examiner in lunacy for the State of New York; fellow of the Medical Society for Greater New York; life member of the Society of Science, Letters and Art of London, England. Colonel of the National Volunteer Emergency Service; member of the Masonic Order, chapter, commandery and Mystic Shrine; active member of the Sovereign Grand Consistory and Supreme Council, is grand secretary in this body and was created 33° at ritum. Member of the order of Elks and other orders; one of the organizers of the Pleiades Club, and many others; and he is a devotee of music and art. Address: 310 West 23d Street, New York City.

DU PONT, Henry Algernon:

United States senator; born near Wilmington, Del., July 30, 1838; son of Henry Du Pont and grandson of Eleuthere Irenee Du Pont de Nemours and great-grandson of Pierre Samuel Du Pont de Nemours. French economist and statesman, who died in Delaware in 1817. Mr. Du Pont was graduated from West Point, May 6, 1861, at the head of his class. He was promoted second lieutenant of engineers, and first lieutenant of the Fifth Artillery, May 14, 1861. On July 16, 1861, he was appointed regimental adjutant; from 1862 to 1863; was acting assistant adjutant-general of the troops in New York Harbor, and on March 24, 1864, he was commissioned captain of the Fifth Artillery. At the battle of New Market, W. Va., he was in command of the battery and he took part in the battles of Piedmont and Lynchburg as chief of artillery and later was commander of the artillery in the corps of General Crook. He took part in the battles of Winchester, Fisher's Hill and Cedar Creek, and for gallantry at Winchester and at Fisher's Hill he was brevetted major, and was also brevetted lieutenant-colonel Oct. 19, 1864, for distinguished services at Cedar Creek, and was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor for distinguished gallantry. In 1874 he resigned from the army, and became president and general manager of the Wilmington and Northern Railroad Company. After a long deadlock in the Delaware Legislature he received fifteen of the thirty votes cast on May 9, 1895. The election was contested on the question of right of the ex-speaker of the Delaware Senate, Watson, (then acting as governor) to vote. Without his vote Colonel Du Pont had a majority of one, the committee reported in his favor, but the United States Senate, by a strict party majority of one, declined to seat him. In 1906, however Mr. Du Pont was elected as a Republican, by the Legislature of Delaware United States Senator for the term expiring in 1911. Address: Winterthur, Del.

DURAND, Edward Dana:

Director of the Census of the United States; born in Romeo, Mich., Oct. 18, 1871; son of Cyrus Yale and Celia (Day) Durand. He was graduated from Oberlin College, A.B., 1893 and from Cornell University, Ph.D., 1896. Mr. Durand was legislative librarian in the New York State Library, 1896-1897, and assistant professor of political science and finance, at Stanford University, 1898-1899. From 1899 to 1902, he was secretary of the United States Industrial Commission, at Washington, and from 1902 to 1903 was lecturer on economics at Harvard University. In 1903, Mr. Durand became connected with the United States Bureau of Corporations, Washington, D. C., in the capacity of Special Examiner, which position he held until 1907, when he was appointed Deputy Commissioner of Corporations, which he held until June, 1909, when he was appointed to his present office as Director of the Census. He is a member of the American Economic Association, the American Political Science Association, and the Cosmos Club, of Washington. He married in New York City, July 15, 1903, Mary Elizabeth Bennett, and they have two children. Residence: 3325 Holmead Place. Office: Bureau of Corporations, Washington, D. C.

DURAND, William Frederick:

Professor of mechanical engineering; born at Bethany, Conn., March 5, 1859; son of William L. and Ruth (Coe) Durand. He was graduated from the United States Naval Academy in 1880, and received the degree of Ph.D. from Lafayette College, 1888. He served in the engineer corps of the United States Navy 1880-1887; was on special duty at Lafayette College, 1883-1885; was professor of mechanics and superintendent of the Mechanical Department of the Michigan Agricultural College, 1887-1891, professor of marine engineering at Cornell, 1891-1904 and professor of mechanical engineering at Stanford University since 1904. He was an advisory editor of Marine Engineering from 1901 to 1906. Professor Durand received the gold medal of the Society of Naval Engineers in 1900. He is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, member of the American Institute of Mechanical Engineers, Society of Naval Engineers, Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers, the Franklin Institute of Philadelphia and the Société Technique Maritime of France. He is the author of text books on the Resistance and Propulsion of Ships and on Marine Engineering, as well as of numerous smaller publications and papers dealing with a wide variety of engineering topics. After the destruction of the buildings of Stanford University by the earthquake of April 18, 1906, he was appointed a member of the Commission of Engineers (three), having in charge the reconstruction and rehabilitation of the buildings of the University. Dr. Durand is a member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity and Acacia Society (college) and of the Masonic Order. He married at Shelton, Conn., Oct. 23, 1883, Charlotte Kneen, and they have one son. Address: Stanford University, Calif.

DURBIN, Winfield Taylor:

Manufacturer, ex-governor; born at Lawrenceburg, Dearborn County Ind., May 4, 1847; son of William S. and Eliza A. Durbin. He was educated in the public schools of his native place, leaving to enter the Union Army, as a private, serving until the war closed. After the war he taught school until 1869, and in that year went to Indianapolis where he became connected with a wholesale dry goods house in the office and afterward as a traveling salesman. In 1879 he removed to Anderson, Ind., and established in banking business. He was connected with the first fuel gas company that installed a distributing system in Anderson, and also a fuel supply company, and he is interested as an officer and director in numerous electric railways and manufacturing corporations. He was colonel of the One Hundred and Sixty-first Indian Regiment in the Spanish-American War. He has always been an active Republican, and one of the influential party leaders in Indiana. He served for several years as a member of the Republican State Committee of Indiana, and was chairman of its Executive Committee, and he was the Indiana member of the National Republican Committee and of its Executive Committee, 1896-1900. In 1900 he was elected governor of the State of Indiana, and served the four-year term ending in January, 1905. Governor Durbin is a prominent member of the Methodist church and also of the Masonic order, in which he has attained the thirty-third degree. He married, at Anderson, Ind., Oct. 6, 1875, Bertha McCullough, and has a son Fletcher M. Durbin, who was an officer in the 161st Indiana Volunteer Infantry in the Spanish-American War. Address: Indianapolis, Ind.

DU RELLE, George:

Jurist; born at York, Livingston County, N. Y., Oct. 18, 1852. He removed with his parents to Louisville, Ky., 1859. He was educated in the Hopkins Grammar School at New Haven, Conn., and Yale College, but left the University at the close of his sophomore year in 1870. He taught school in Louisville and at the same time attended the Law Department of the University of Louisville, from which he was graduated LL.B., 1874. He was admitted to the bar at Louisville in 1874; was assistant U. S. attorney for the District of Kentucky, 1882-1886, and from 1889-1891; and was judge of the Court of Appeals of Kentucky, 1895-1902, resuming practice at Louisville on the expiration of his term. He was appointed U. S. attorney for the Western District of Kentucky in June, 1906. Judge Du Relle has always been an active Republican, and is one of the leaders of his party in Kentucky. Address: Louisville, Ky.

DURHAM, John Stephens:

Lawyer; born in Philadelphia, July 18, 1861; son of Samuel and Elizabeth (Stephens) Durham. He was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania, A.B., 1886, and from the Engineering Department of the same university, C.E., later. He was an editor on the staff of the Evening Bulletin, Philadelphia, 1887-1890, and afterward U. S. minister to Haiti and Chargé d'affaires to Santo Domingo. Mr. Durham spent a considerable time in Cuba as U. S. assistant attorney, preparing the defenses against claims before the Spanish Treaty Claims Commission. He is author of: Diane, Priestess of Haiti, also of contributions to magazines. He is now engaged in law practice in Philadelphia. Mr. Durham was vice-president of the Pennsylvania League of Republican Clubs, 1900-1904, and he is a member of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, and of the Contemporary Club of Philadelphia. Residence: 4816 Florence Avenue, West Philadelphia. Office: 411 Crozier Building, Philadelphia.

DURYEA, Hiram:

President of the National Starch Company; born in Manhasset, L. I., April 12, 1834. At the age of twenty-one he became a partner in the starch manufacturing business of his father, by whom the process of making starch was originated. He was vice-president and president of the Glen Cove Starch Manufacturing Company for many years and afterwards became president of the National Starch Company, which succeeded the Glen Cove Company. In 1855 he was commissioned by Governor Myron Clark first lieutenant of artillery in the Forty-eighth Regiment of the State Militia, a commission which he held for several years. At the beginning of the Civil War he promptly tendered his services to the State, and on April 25, 1861, was commissioned captain in the Fifth New York Infantry, known as the Duryea Zouaves. On Aug. 15, 1861, he was commissioned major in the same regiment, and on Sept. 2, lieutenant-colonel. After the siege of Yorktown he commanded the regiment in the Peninsula and Maryland Campaigns; in the Seven Days' Battle and in operations before Richmond, the regiment was specially mentioned for its gallantry and efficient service, being one of the most famous of the New York commands in the war, and he was several times commended in official reports for distinguished service. He was appointed colonel of the same regiment, Oct. 29, 1862, and on May 26, 1866, was commissioned by the President of the United States as brevet brigadier-general of volunteers for distinguished conduct at the battle of Gaines Mills, Va. General Duryea retired from the service December, 1862, in consequence of many injuries received in the field, which incapacitated him for further duty. He is now president of the Veterans' Association and a member of the Veterans' Association of the Regiment which he commanded during the war, and is also a member of the Society of the Fifth Army Corps, the United Service Club, and the Military Order of the Loyal Legion. Address: 80 Madison Avenue, New York City.

DUTTON, Edward Payson:

Publisher; born in Keene, N. H., Jan. 4, 1831. He removed to Boston in 1833, and was educated in the public and Latin schools. He was a member of Ide and Dutton, booksellers of Boston, 1852-1858, bought out Ide's interest and continued as E. P. Dutton and Company. He bought the retail business of Ticknor and Field in 1864, and also that of the General Protestant Episcopal Sunday School Union and Church Book Society of New York, and in 1869 moved the business to New York. Mr. Dutton married in 1856, a daughter of Jacob Sleeper of Boston. Address: 31 West 23d Street, New York City.

DUTTON, Samuel Train:

Educator; born at Hillsboro, N. H., Oct. 16, 1849; son of Jeremiah and Rebecca Train. He was educated at New London (Conn.) Academy; graduated from Yale University, A.B., 1873, A.M., 1890. He was in charge of schools at South Norwalk, Conn., 1873-1878; principal of Eaton School, New Haven, 1878-1882; superintendent of schools of New Haven, 1882-1890; superintendent of schools of Brookline, Mass., 1890-1900; lecturer in pedagogy at Harvard, 1895-1897, at Chicago University, 1897-1898; Boston University in 1898; and since then has been professor of school administration and superintendent of schools, Teachers College (Columbia University). He has made seven journeys abroad, and read a paper at the International Conference of Drawing at Berne, 1904. Mr. Dutton is a member of the American Historical Association, the National Educational Association, secretary of the Peace Society of the City of New York, chairman of the Executive Committee of National Arbitration and Peace Congress in 1907, member of the Berae Bureau of the International Peace, and a trustee of the American College for Girls, Constantinople. He is author of: Morse Speller; Social Phases of Education; School Management; joint-author of The Administration of Public Education in the United States, and is editor of the Historical Series published by the Morse Company, and of the World at Work Series by the American Book Company. Mr. Dutton is a member of the Schoolmasters', Yale Fortnightly, and McDowell Clubs. He married at New Haven, Conn., Oct. 8, 1874, Cornelia North, and they have two children. Address: Teachers College, New York City.

DUTTON, William J.

Insurance president; born at Bangor, Penobscot County, Maine, Jan. 23, 1847; son of Henry and Frances (Stevens) Dutton. He removed in boyhood, with his parents, to San Francisco, and he received his education in the public schools and City College in that city until January, 1867, when he became a clerk in the office of the agency of the North British and Mercantile Insurance Company, at San Francisco. In May, 1867, he inaugurated the Marine Department of the Fireman's Fund Insurance Company of San Francisco, and in 1869 became secretary of that department, and he continued the management of that branch of the business until 1881, also being assistant secretary of the company from 1873 until 1881, when he became general secretary. He was vice-president and general secretary from 1886 to 1890, vice-president and general manager from 1890 to 1900, and since 1900 he has been president of the Fireman's Fund Insurance Company. He was also vice-president from 1892 to 1896, and since then has been president of the Home Fire and Marine Insurance Company of San Francisco. He has been president of the Board of Marine Underwriters of San Francisco since 1888. He was president in 1885 and vice-president for several years of the Board of Fire Underwriters of the Pacific Coast, and a member of its Executive Committee from 1884 to 1902. Mr. Dutton is a Congregationalist in his religious affiliations and is chairman of the Board of Trustees of the First Congregational Church of San Francisco. He was president in 1903 of the California Society of Sons of the American Revolution and is a member of the Pacific Union Club. Mr. Dutton married in San Francisco, in 1868, Mary Heyden Feldt. Residence: Fairmont Hotel, San Francisco. Office address: California and Sansome Streets, San Francisco, Calif.

DUVENECK, Frank:

Artist; born in Covington, Ky., in 1848. He studied art in Munich for over ten years, and has attained international repute as a specialist in portrait and figure painting, in which department of art he is represented in the leading art collections of America and Europe. He lived for some time in Boston, but since 1881, chiefly in Florence, Italy, painting and teaching. He was elected, in 1908, academician of the National Academy of Design. Address: Covington, Ky.

DWIGHT, John Wilbur:

Congressman and banker; born at Dryden, May 24, 1859; son of Jeremiah W. and Rebecca A. (Cady) Dwight. He was educated at New Haven, Conn. Mr. Dwight was elected to Congress in 1902, to fill the vacancy in the 57th Congress, caused by the resignation of George W. Ray, who was appointed U. S. judge, and reelected to the Fifty-eighth, Fifty-ninth, Sixtieth and again in 1908 to the Sixty-first Congress from the Thirtieth New York District. Mr. Dwight is a member of the Union League and Republican Clubs of New York. He married at Los Angeles, Calif., in 1895, Emma Childs. Residence: Dryden, N. Y. Office: Elmira, N. Y.

DWIGHT, Thomas:

Professor of anatomy; born in Boston, Oct. 13, 1843. He was graduated from Harvard, A.B., 1866, M.D., 1867, and has received the degree of LL.D. from Georgetown University, 1889. He studied abroad for two years after graduation and then returned to Boston and established medical practice. He was instructor in comparative anatomy in Harvard, 1872-1873; lecturer and professor of anatomy in Bowdoin College, 1872-1876; instructor in histology in Harvard Medical School, 1874-1883, and in 1883 he succeeded Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes as Parkman professor of anatomy in Harvard Medical School. Dr. Dwight edited the Boston Medical Journal, 1873-1878, and is author of many papers on human and vertebrate anatomy. Residence: Nahant, Mass.

DWIGHT, Timothy:

Former president of Yale University; born in Norwich, Conn., Nov. 16, 1828; son of James and Susan (Breed) Dwight, and grandson of Rev. Timothy Dwight, eighth president of Yale, 1795-1817. He was graduated from Yale, A.B. (salutatorian), 1849; was tutor in Yale, 1851-1855, and student in Yale Theological Seminary, 1853-1855; student in the Universities of Bonn and Berlin, 1856-1858; elected professor of sacred literature in Yale Theological Seminary, Sept. 16, 1858, and was ordained to the ministry of the Congregational Church, Sept. 15, 1861. He received the degree of D.D. from Chicago Theological Seminary, 1869, from Yale, 1886, LL.D., Harvard, 1886, Princeton, 1888, was chosen twelfth president of Yale College 1886, serving until 1899, when he resigned. President Dwight was a member of the American Committee for the Revision of the English version of the Bible; edited several volumes of Meyer's Commentary on the New Testament, to which he added extended notes, and is author of: Thoughts of and for the Inner Life; Memories of Yale Life and Men, and various articles on theological and educational subjects. He married in New Haven, Conn., Dec. 31, 1866, Jane Wakeman Skinner. Address: 56 Hillhouse Avenue, New Haven, Conn.

DWYER, Jeremiah:

Stove manufacturer; born in Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 22, 1838; son of Michael and Mary (O'Donnell) Dwyer. A few months after his birth his parents removed to Detroit, Mich., locating on a farm four miles from the city. His father was killed in an accident in 1848, and after the farm was sold, the family removed to the city. He was educated in the common schools of Detroit, and left school as a boy to work in a saw and planing mill. From there he went to the Hydraulic Iron Works in Detroit to learn the foundry trade. After four years there, he worked as a journeyman in several foundries until 1861, when he and his brother, James Dyer, established themselves as stove founders under the firm name of J. Dwyer & Company, meeting with much success. In 1864 it became the Detroit Stove Works, in which he continued until 1869, when he sold out and went South for the benefit of his health. In 1871 he returned to Detroit and established the Michigan Stove Company which he developed into the largest stove manufacturing enterprise in the world, and of which he is still the president. He is also a director of the Ideal Manufacturing Company, also director of The Michigan Copper and Brass Company, and of the Peoples State Savings Bank, at Detroit. Mr. Dwyer is a Democrat in politics and a Catholic in religious belief. He is a member of the Detroit Club and of the Detroit Country Club. He married at Detroit, Nov. 22, 1859, Mary Long, and he has six sons and one daughter. Residence: 692 Jefferson Avenue. Office: 1022 Jefferson Avenue, Detroit, Mich.

DYE, Eva Emery:

Author; born in Prophetstown, Ill., daughter of Cyrus and Caroline (Trafton) Emery. She was graduated from Oberlin College, A.B., 1882, A.M., 1889, and was married in July, 1882 (just after graduation), to her college classmate, Charles H. Dye, of Ft. Madison, Iowa (A.B., Oberlin, 1882, LL.B., University of Iowa, 1887), now prominent lawyer and member of the Oregon Legislature and they have three sons and a daughter. Mrs. Dye is a descendant of Sir Gilbert de Amory (or Emery), who accompanied William the Conqueror in the conquest of England, whose estate at Romsey, Hants, England, is still in the family, also descendant of Anthony Emery, who with his elder brother, John, landed in Boston, June 3, 1635, on the ship James, of London, and also, in fifth generation from Colonel Caleb Emery, who fought in the French, Indian and Revolutionary Wars, and whose son William married Mary Salter (Mrs. Dye's great-grandmother) whose father, Captain Titus Salter, of Portsmouth, N. H., captured in 1774, the powder in a British fort at the mouth of the Piscataqua River, which was used a year later at the Battle of Bunker Hill. Mrs. Dye is author of: McLoughlin and Old Oregon, 1900; The Conquest, The True Story of Lewis and Clark, 1902; McDonald of Oregon, 1906; also Stories of Oregon for use in the public schools, the plates of which were destroyed in the San Francisco earthquake and fire. Mrs. Dye was the originator of the Willamette Valley Chautauqua Assembly, now in its fourteenth year, and camps there every summer at Gladstone Park on the Clackamas River. Mrs. Dye has taken the foremost place among the woman-writers of Oregon, and as historian-novelist of the Northwest. Address: Oregon City, Oregon.

DYER, David Patterson:

Jurist; born in Henry County, Va., Feb. 12, 1838; moved to Missouri in 1841. He was educated in St. Charles (Mo.) College; was admitted to the bar in Bowling Green, Mo., 1859, and practised law in Pike County and adjoining counties in Missouri until 1875. He was a member of Congress, 1869-1871, was appointed U. S. district attorney in 1875 and removed to St. Louis, where he prosecuted the famous "Whiskey Ring Cases" in 1875 and 1876. He has long been a leader of the Republican Party in Missouri; was Republican candidate for Governor of Missouri in 1880, and a delegate at large to the National Republican Conventions of 1888 and 1900. He was U. S. attorney for the Eastern District of Missouri, from 1902 to April, 1907, when he was appointed by President Roosevelt to his present office as judge of the U. S. District Court of the Eastern District of Missouri. Residence: 3807 Delmar Avenue. Office: U. S. Custom House, St. Louis, Mo.

DYER, Elisha, Jr.:

Banker; born in Providence, R. I.; son of Governor Elisha Dyer and Nancy A. (Viall) Dyer. He was graduated from Brown University, A.B., 1883, and from Columbia Law School, 1885, LL.B. He was admitted to the bar in 1885, but engaged in business as a banker and broker. Mr. Dyer is president and director of the Popp

Compressed Air and Electric Power Company, and is also director of the Seaside and Brooklyn Bridge Elevated Railroad Company and is otherwise interested in corporations. He is a member of the Brown University Alumni Association and the Knickerbocker, Manhattan, Union, The Brook, New York Yacht, and Country Clubs, the Automobile Club of America, and the Turf and Field Club. Mr. Dyer married Mrs. Sydney Turner Swan. Residence: 37 West 56th Street, New York City. Office: 30 New Street, New York City.

DYRENFORTH, Robert St. George:

Patent lawyer; born in Chicago, Oct. 17, 1844; son of Julius and Caroline Dyrenforth. He was educated in Breslau, Neisse, and Berlin, Germany, served in the Union Army, 1861-1866, returned to Germany and was graduated from the Polytechnic School at Carlsruhe, Baden, M.E., and from Heidelberg University, Ph.D., 1869, afterward studying law and medicine in Columbian (now George Washington) University in Washington, D. C. His Civil War service began in April 1861 in the Schambeck Dragoons, Illinois Cavalry under Generals McClellan and Rosecrans in West Virginia, and later as captain and major in the 12th, 13th and 17th regiments of Illinois Cavalry. He served as acting engineer officer in charge of the work of fortifying the mouth of the Missouri River in advance of Price's raid in 1864, and after the Civil War closed he finished his military service in the Indian campaigns on the Western Plains. In 1871 he entered the U. S. Patent office in which he held various positions, and was assistant commissioner under President Arthur. He resigned when Mr. Cleveland became President in 1885, but at his request remained for ten days as commissioner of patents. Since 1885 he has been engaged in practice in Washington, giving his attention to patent and corporation law. Mr. Dyrenforth married in Chicago in 1866, Jane de Laey. Residence: 14th and Benney Streets, N. W. Office: Washington Loan and Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

E

EAGER, George Eugene:

Consul; born at Enfield, Mass., March 15, 1859; son of John D. and Clarissa (Lathrop) Eager. He was educated in public schools and General Russell's Military Academy at New Haven, Conn., where he was prepared for Yale. His health became so impaired that he was compelled to forego his intention to take the college course, and he went to Germany, deciding to embark on a musical career and entering the Royal Conservatory of Music at Leipzig. He remained there for four years, pursuing his studies under Dr. Jadassohn and Gustav Schreck in musical theory and under Professor Dr. Carl Reinecke and Bruno Zwintcher in Piano, and at the end of the four years course he was awarded the Helbig prize of the conservatory for excellence. He returned to America and engaged in teaching in New York, and was also pianist of the Mozart Club of that city, playing in numerous concerts. He went to Chicago in 1892 and taught private pupils there and at the same time was head of the music department of Lake Forest University at Lake Forest, Ill., until appointed consul at Barmen in 1906. He married in 1900, Ruth F. Spalding of Norwich, Conn., and has two daughters. Address: American Consulate, Barmen, Prussia, Germany.

EAKIN, Robert:

Jurist; born in Elgin, Ill., March 15, 1848; son of Stewart B. and Catherine (McEldowney) Eakin. He was graduated from Willamette University, Salem, Ore., B.S., then studied law, was admitted to bar, and located at Union, Ore., practising there until he went upon the bench. He was judge of the Circuit Court for the Eighth District of Oregon from March, 1895, until Jan. 1, 1907; since Jan. 14, 1907 justice of the Supreme Court of Oregon. He married at Eugene, Ore., June 21, 1876, Mary Walker, and they have had five children of whom two are now deceased. Address: 1088 State Street, Salem, Ore.

EAKINS, Thomas:

Artist; born in Philadelphia, July 25, 1844. He secured his academic education in the high schools of Philadelphia. He studied art under Geromé at the École des Beaux Arts, Paris. After this, he was professor and lecturer on anatomy and painting in various schools of art. He assisted Samuel Murray, his pupil, to model the colossal figures of the prophets which decorate the Witherspoon Building, Philadelphia. The reliefs on the Trenton Battle Monument, and on the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument in Brooklyn are also his work. Since 1902 he has been an academicien of the National Academy of Design. He was given awards at the Columbian Exposition, 1893; the Paris Exposition, 1900, and Pan American Exposition, 1901; gold medal at St. Louis, 1904; the Proctor prize of the National Academy of Design, and the Temple gold medal of the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts. Address: 1729 Mt. Vernon Street, Philadelphia.

EAMES, Francis L:

Retired stock broker; born in Fall River, Mass., in 1844; son of Asa and Harriet (Seabury) Eames. He was educated in the schools of Fall River, Mass., and in 1866 he was elected a member of the New York Stock Exchange, and he was a member of the firm of Eames & Moore, stock brokers, New York City, from 1869 until 1903, when he retired. Mr. Eames organized the clearing system of the New York Stock Exchange, in 1892, in recognition of which he was presented by the exchange with a service of silver in 1893. He was elected president of the Stock Exchange in 1894, 1895, 1896, and 1897, is a member of the Governing Committee and chairman of Trustees of the Gratuity Fund of the Exchange, and a trustee of the New York Stock Exchange Building Company. He is a trustee of the Brooklyn Hospital, the Long Island Historical Society, and the Brooklyn Savings Bank, a member of the Sons of the Revolution, Society of Colonial Wars, the Chamber of Commerce of New York and the Hamilton Club of Brooklyn. Address: 125 Remsen Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

EAMES, John C.:

Merchant; born in New York City, Aug. 1, 1860; son of Edward Everett and Mary (Capen) Eames. He was educated at St. John's Military Academy, Sing Sing, from which he was graduated with honors in 1878. Immediately after graduation he entered the dry goods establishment of H. B. Claflin & Company; later he went West where he became interested in various enterprises. He returned to New York in 1895 and again became connected with The H. B. Claflin Company; he was its vice-president and afterwards its general manager. He is treasurer of the Dry Goods Auxiliary of the Hospital Saturday and Sunday Association; trustee of the Grant Memorial Association; member of the order of Founders and Patriots of America; member of the New England Society; one of the founders of the Merchants' Association of New York—during the past five years, he has held the positions of secretary and vice-president and is now actively engaged on several of the most important committees; commissioner and trustee of the Hudson-Fulton Celebration Commission. He is a member of the Englewood Golf, Englewood Field, Lakewood Country, Merchants', and Union League Clubs. He married at Denver, Colo., in 1886, Sophie S. Cary, of Louisville, Ky. Address: H. B. Claflin Company, New York City.

EAMES, Wilberforce:

Librarian and bibliographer; born in Newark, N. J., Oct. 12, 1855; son of Nelson and Harriet P. (Crane) Eames. He was educated in the public schools and in 1896, he received the honorary degree of A. M. from Harvard. He was assistant of the Lenox Library, 1885; assistant librarian, 1892; librarian, 1893 until the consolidation in 1895, with the Astor Library and the Tilden Trust as the New York Public Library, librarian Lenox branch since 1895. He edited volumes 15-20 of Sabin's Dictionary of Books Relating to America, 1885-1892, and has resumed the editing of this work since its resuscitation in 1906, under the auspices of a grant from the Carnegie Institution. Articles by him in that work on Bibliographies of the Bay Palm Book, 1885; of Ptolemy's Geography, 1886; and of Sir Walter Raleigh, have been printed separately. He is the author of a large number of works on bibliographical subjects. He collected a large, private library of over 18,000 volumes on history, travels, philology, religious bibliography, archeology and ethnology, parts of which were dispersed at auction during 1903-1907. Mr. Eames is now concentrating his collecting upon his Indian library, and still retains his large collections on India, China, Japan, Africa and Oceanica. He is a member of the American Library Association, of the Bibliographical Society of America (Librarian since 1905), of the American Antiquarian Society, a corresponding member of the Massachusetts Historical Society, a life member of the New York Historical Society, a member of the Colonial Society of Massachusetts, an officer d'Academie d'Instruction Publique des Beaux Arts et des Cultes of France, and member of the New York Library Club (vice-president, 1897-1899; president, 1900-1901). Residence: 2752 Fulton Street, Brooklyn. Address: Lenox Library, 895 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

EAMES, William S.:

Architect; born in Clinton, Mich., Aug. 4, 1857; son of William H. and Laura Maria (Schofield) Eames. He was graduated from Washington University, St. Louis, A.B., and studied art and architecture in the Ecole des Beaux Arts, Paris, and in Rome. Since 1882 he has been engaged in architectural practice in St. Louis, and is senior member of the firm of Eames & Young, which designed and carried on the construction of the United States penitentiaries at Leavenworth, Kan., and Atlanta, Ga. Each of these represent the results of comprehensive study and research in prison construction, and are believed to be the most advanced types of penal architecture in the United States, if not in the world. Mr. Eames has also been the architect of many public, business, institutional and residence structures in St. Louis and other cities. Mr. Eames was deputy commissioner of public buildings of St. Louis, 1881-1883; U. S. representative to the International Congress in Madrid, Spain, 1904. He is a member, was director for fifteen years and president 1904-1905 of the American Institute of Architects; life member of the American Academy in Rome; member of the Architectural League, International Society of State and Municipal Building Commissioners; member of the Board of Appeals of the Building Department of St. Louis, National Society for Civic Improvement of Municipalities, and of the St. Louis and Algonquin Country Clubs of St. Louis and the Cosmos Club of Washington. Residence: 3334 Washington Avenue. Office: Lincoln Trust Building, St. Louis, Mo.

EARL, Charles:

Solicitor for the Department of Commerce and Labor; born in Cambridge, Mass., April 21, 1869. He was graduated from Georgetown University, LL.B., 1895, LL.M., 1896, and was admitted to the bar, practising in the District of Columbia and Maryland, 1896-1903. Mr. Earl was special attorney for the Bureau of Corporations, Department of Commerce and Labor, 1903-1906; assistant attorney for the Department of Justice from June to September, 1906, when he returned to the Department of Commerce and Labor as solicitor. He is a member of the University Club of Washington. Mr. Earl married Kathleen Rogers of Painscourtville, La. Residence: Riverdale, Md. Office: Department of Commerce and Labor, Washington, D. C.

EARLE, Franklin Sumner:

Botanist and horticulturist; born on a farm in Grundy County, Ill., Sept. 4, 1856; son of Parker and Melanie (Tracy) Earle. He was educated in but not graduated from the University of Illinois, and he received the honorary A.M. degree from the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, 1902. He was assistant in mycology in the University of Illinois, 1886; branch superintendent of the Mississippi Agricultural Experiment Station, 1892-1895; assistant pathologist, U. S. Department of Agriculture, 1895; associate professor of horticulture, Alabama Polytechnic Institute and horticulturist of the Alabama Agricultural Experiment Station, 1896; professor of biology and horticulture Alabama Polytechnic Institute, and biologist and horticulturist of the Alabama Agricultural Experiment Station, 1896-1901; assistant curator of the New York Botanical Garden, 1901-1904; director of the Estacion Central Agronomica de Cuba, 1904-1906; since 1908 agricultural inspector for the Cuban-American Sugar Company. Professor Earle has made important contributions to systematic mycology and to the horticulture of the Southern United States, and tropical agriculture, and is author of a Text-Book on Southern Agriculture. He is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, member and was president 1906-1907 of the Botanical Society of America; member of the American Mycological Society, and the Torrey Botanical Club. He married, first at Cobden, Ill., 1886, Susan B. Skehan, and second at Ocean Springs, Miss., to Esther J. Skehan. Address: Herradura, Cuba.

EARLE, George H.:

Lawyer and financier; born in Philadelphia, July 6, 1856. He was educated in Harvard University, then studied law and was admitted to practice in the profession of which his father and grandfather had been notable members. He became a member of the legal firm of Earle and White, which existed for twelve years, and conducted a large and lucrative practice, in which Mr. Earle showed high ability and was markedly successful. He was elected president of the Pennsylvania Warehousing and Safe Deposit Company, and vice-president of the Guarantee Trust and Safe Deposit Company. His many duties in these positions obliged him to withdraw from the active practice of the law. The great ability which he manifested as a financier led later to his being made president of the Finance Company of Pennsylvania and of the Tradersmen's National Bank, resigning at the same time his vice-presidency in the Guarantee Company. He has successfully filled other important financial positions and in 1898 he was appointed receiver for the Chestnut Street National Bank, and associated with R. Y. Cook, was assignee of the Chestnut Street Trust and Saving Fund Company. The affairs of the defunct institutions he conducted to a successful termination. He became also a member of the board of the Philadelphia Record Publishing Company and a director of the Equitable Trust Company and many others. He has a national reputation as a financial rebuilder, having taken numerous tottering enterprises and built them up to stability and success. Mr. Earle has taken a deep interest in political affairs and has been a strong element in the struggle for municipal reform. He was an active member of the Committee of One Hundred and has always taken great interest in the cause of honest administration. He is a lover of fine horses and has one of the largest stock farms in Pennsylvania, at his summer country seat, Broad Acres, near the Radnor Hunt. He married in Philadelphia, 1881, Catherine H. French. Residence: Devon, Pa. Office: 232 Fourth Street, Philadelphia.

EARLING, Albert J.:

Railway president; born at Richfield, Washington County, Wis., Jan. 19, 1849. He was educated in the common schools of Wisconsin until 1866, when he entered the employ of the Chicago, Milwaukee and Saint Paul Railway, with which he has been connected ever since. For the first six years he was a telegraph operator, five years a train despatcher, and four years assistant superintendent of the road, then became division superintendent, 1882-1884, assistant general superintendent, 1888-1890, general manager, 1890-1899, and also second vice-president, 1895-1899. Since Sept. 23, 1899 he has been president of the Chicago, Milwaukee and Saint Paul Railway Company. He is also director of the Central Trust Company of Illinois, the Continental National Bank of Chicago and the Saint Paul Coal Company. Residence: 514 North State Street. Office: Railway Exchange, Chicago.

EASLEY, Ralph Montgomery:

Chairman of the Executive Council of the National Civic Federation; born in Schuyler County, Ill., Feb. 25, 1858; son of Charles L. and Elizabeth J. (Berry) Easley. He was educated in the public schools of Quincy, Ill. Mr. Easley went to Hutchinson, Kan., in 1875, and was a teacher in the public schools 1877-1888. He was proprietor and editor of the Hutchinson Daily News, 1883-1891; postmaster of Hutchinson, 1882-1887; and afterward on the staff of the Chicago Inter-Ocean, in charge of the politico-economic department. He organized the Civic Federation of Chicago in 1893 and was its secretary for seven years; organized the National Civic Federation in 1900 and has since been chairman of its Executive Council, with headquarters in New York City. He was promoter of the National Conference on Primary Election Reform in New York City, Jan., 1898, National Conference on Foreign Policy at Saratoga, Aug., 1898, National Conference on Trusts and Combinations at Chicago, Sept., 1899, and the National Conference on Taxation, at Buffalo, 1901. He married at Mechanicsburg, Ohio, March 23, 1881, Nerva C. Cheney. Residence: New Canaan, Conn. Office: New York City.

EASTMAN Annis Ford:

Minister of the Congregational Church; born in Peoria, Ill., daughter of George and Catherine (Stehley) Eastman. She was educated in Peoria High School and Oberlin College, and married in 1874, Rev. Samuel E. Eastman, and she has had four children, of whom three are living. Mrs. Eastman was ordained to the ministry in 1885, and in 1893 was called as an associate pastor with Thomas K. Beecher in the Congregational Church at Elmira, N. Y., of which she is now in charge, associated with her husband. Address: Elmira, N. Y.

EASTMAN, Charles Alexander ("Ohiyesa"):

Physician and author; born in Minnesota, 1858; son of Jacob and Nancy Eastman; father a full blooded Sioux Indian (native name Many Lightnings); mother the daughter of a native chief's daughter and an army officer. He received preparatory training from Beloit College, Knox College and Kimball Union Academy; was graduated from Dartmouth College, S.B., 1887, and Boston University School of Medicine, M.D., 1890. Dr. Eastman was Government physician at Indian agencies in South Dakota, 1890-1893, and 1900-1903, and since 1903 holds appointment to revise the family names and allotment rolls of the Sioux Indians. He was traveling secretary for the Y. M. C. A. in charge of the Indian field, 1893-1896, and represented the Sioux at Washington, 1896-1900. He is the author of: Indian Boyhood, 1902; Red Hunters and the Animal People, 1904; Old Indian Days, 1907; Wigwam Evenings, Sioux Folk-Tales Retold, 1909. For several seasons he has been a successful lecturer, addressing about fifty audiences each winter on the American Indian. He is a member of the Congregational Church. Dr. Eastman married in New York City in 1891, Elaine Goodale, the author, and they have a son and five daughters. Address: Amherst, Mass.

EASTMAN, Charles Rochester:

Geologist and paleontologist; born in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, June 5, 1868; son of Austin Vitruvius and Mary (Scoville) Eastman; the later a descendant of Captain Reuben Ballou of Rhode Island, a noted officer of the Revolutionary War. He was graduated from Harvard University, A.B., 1890, A.M., 1891; took graduate work at Johns Hopkins University, 1892, and at Munich, Ph.D., 1894. He first engaged in teaching geology and paleontology in Harvard and Radcliffe Colleges, and was later appointed curator in charge of vertebrate paleontology in the Museum of Comparative Zoölogy of Harvard, which position he has held ever since. He has served as assistant geologist on the New England Division of the United States Geological Survey, and he has been engaged as expert assistant on various State Geological Surveys. Dr. Eastman has made several trips abroad, once as foreign delegate representing the Geological Society of America, and also in behalf of the Harvard Museum and the Carnegie Museum at Pittsburgh. He translated and edited von Zittel's Text-Book of Paleontology (Macmillan), and he is author of various scientific memoirs published by both of the above institutions and by different State Geological Surveys; also of numerous minor contributions to vertebrate paleontology, especially North American and European paleichthyology. Dr. Eastman is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science; member of the American Society of Naturalists, Geological Society of America, American Society of Zoologists, American Paleontological Society (Executive Council and Editor), American Association of Anatomists, National Geographic Society, the Boston Society of Natural History and one or two foreign scientific societies. He married in 1892, Caroline A., daughter of Alvan G. Clark, the famous maker of astronomical telescopes, and he has one son, Alvan Clark Eastman. Residence: 35 Brookline Street. Office: Harvard University Museum, Cambridge, Mass.

EASTMAN, Edwin Gamage:

Lawyer; born in Grantham, N. H., Nov. 2, 1847; son of William Henry and Paulina Sibley (Winter) Eastman. He was graduated from Dartmouth College, A.B., 1874, studied law at Bath, N. H., with Judge A. P. Carpenter and was admitted to practice in the courts of New Hampshire at Haverhill, N. H., in 1876. He entered the office of General G. Marston in 1876 and two years later became his partner and was associated with him for fourteen years. He is now head of the law firm of Eastman, Seamon & Gardner. In 1876 Mr. Eastman was elected by the Republican party to the lower house of the New Hampshire legislature and in 1889 to the State Senate. He was solicitor for Rockingham County, 1881-1885, and in 1892 he was appointed attorney-general of New Hampshire and has retained that position to date, by successive reappointments. He was a delegate to the Constitutional Convention of 1901, for the revision of the New Hampshire Constitution. He is vice-president of the Exeter Banking Company and of the Union Five Cents Savings Bank (also trustee); he is also on the Board of Directors and is the president of the Exeter manufacturing Company and has been a member of the Board of New Hampshire Bar Examiners since 1893. Mr. Eastman has been twice married: first, at Newport, N. H., March 12, 1877, to Elma E. Dodge; second, at Exeter, March 15, 1885, to Margie A. Follansby. Address: Exeter, N. H.

EASTMAN, Elaine Goodale:

Author and educator; born at Mt. Washington, Mass., Oct. 9, 1863; daughter of Henry S. and Dora H. (Read) Goodale. She was educated at home by parents and tutors, and was teacher and supervisor of Indian schools, 1883-1891, and in 1891 she married Dr. Charles A. Eastman, by whom she has six children. She and her sister, Dora Reed Goodale, during their girlhood wrote and published three volumes of verse: Apple Blossoms, 1878; In Berkshire With the Wild Flowers, 1879; and All Round the Year, 1880, which attracted much attention; and since then she has written much in verse and prose for the magazines. She is a member of the Woman's National Indian Association and the Amherst Woman's Club. Address: Amherst, Mass.

EASTMAN, John Coates:

Newspaper publisher; born at Eaton, Ohio, Dec. 19, 1862; son of John and Harriet Ardella (Davis) Eastman. He was educated in the public schools and Ohio State University, Columbus, taking a course of studies preparatory to the civil engineering profession, 1878-1880. He was engaged in various engineering and newspaper capacities until 1890, when he entered the newspaper field in Chicago as a reporter on the city staff of Chicago Herald. In 1895 he became the business manager of the Chicago Chronicle, and from that he went in 1898 to New York City, where he became associate advertising manager of the New York Journal. In July, 1900, when the Chicago American was established he became its treasurer and business manager until 1904. On April 1, 1904, he bought the Chicago Journal, the oldest newspaper in Chicago, and he has since been president and treasurer of the Chicago Journal Company. Under his management the business and circulation of the Chicago Journal have greatly increased. Mr. Eastman is a member by inheritance of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, a member of the Midlothian, Glen View, South Shore, Chicago Automobile, Chicago Kennel, Forty and Chicago Athletic Clubs of Chicago. He married at Marion, Ind., July 20, 1886, Eva Harter. Residence: 2718 Michigan Avenue. Office: 117 Market Street, Chicago.

EASTMAN, John Robie:

Astronomer; born in Andover, N. H., July 29, 1836; son of Royal Friend and Sophronia (Mayo) Eastman. He was graduated from Dartmouth College, B.S., 1862, M.S., 1865, Ph.D., 1877. He was assistant astronomer U.S. Naval Observatory, 1861-1865, and since 1865 has been professor in mathematics U. S. Navy. He has been engaged in astronomical observations, computations and research since 1862, and was attached to the U. S. Naval Observatory, 1862-1898. Most of his published work is in the annual volumes of the U. S. Naval Observatory. He was in charge of the Meridian Circle work at the observatory, 1874-1891; observed the total solar eclipses Aug. 7, 1869, at Des Moines, Iowa, and at a number of other places; was in charge of the Eclipse Expedition to Las Animas, Colo., 1878, and of the Transit of Venus Expedition to Cedar Keys, Fla., 1882. He prepared and edited the Second Washington Star Catalogue, which contains the results of nearly 80,000 observations made at the U. S. Naval observatory, from 1866 to 1891. He was retired from the Navy for age, July 29, 1898, with the rank of captain, but was retained on active duty till Oct. 12, 1898, and was promoted to the rank of rear-admiral U. S. Navy, retired June 29, 1906. He is now a trustee of Dartmouth College; and is a member of the New Hampshire State Board of Equalization of Taxes. He is author of: Transit Circle Observations on the Sun, Moon, Planets and Comets. Rear-admiral Eastman is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science of which he was assistant general secretary, 1882, general secretary, 1883, and vice-president 1887 and 1892; member of the Astronomical and Astrophysical Society of America, and member and the first president of the Washington Academy of Sciences and member and ex-president of the Washington Philosophical Society. He married in 1866, Mary J. Ambrose. Address: Hanover, N. H.

EASTMAN, Linda Anne:

Librarian; born in Oberlin, Ohio, 1867; son of William Harvey and Sarah Ann (Redrup) Eastman. The family have been residents of Northern Ohio since 1828, and are descendants of Roger Eastman, who came to America in 1636; and her paternal great-grandmother was a Standish—descendant of Miles. Miss Eastman was educated in the Cleveland public schools and by private study; taught in the public schools of West Cleveland and Cleveland, Ohio; assistant Cleveland Public Library, 1892-1894; librarian of the Miles Park Branch of the Cleveland Public Library, 1894-1895; assistant librarian and cataloger, Dayton (Ohio) Public Library, 1895-1896; since 1896 vice-librarian of the Cleveland Public Library. Also, since 1904, member of the Faculty of the Western Reserve University Library School. Miss Eastman has been a member since 1894 and member of the council since 1905 of the American Library Association; charter member from 1895, and was the first woman president, 1903-1904, of the Ohio Library Association, member of the New York State Library Association since 1903. She is a frequent contributor to the Library Journal and Public Libraries, and was literary editor of the Little Chronicle, 1900-1901. Residence: 2126 Fairmount Road. Office: Public Library, Cleveland, O.

EASTON, Edward Denison:

Lawyer, organizer of the talking machine business; born at Gloucester, Mass., April 10, 1856; son of Denison Mitchell Easton and Mary (Lyle) Easton. He was educated in the public school of Arcola and the Waters Seminary of Paterson, N. J.; he is a graduate of the law school of the University of Georgetown. He studied shorthand at home in Arcola and became an expert stenographer, doing newspaper and court work for New York newspapers; he was reporter and assistant editor in 1873-1874 of the Hackensack (New Jersey) Republican; in 1874 he became stenographer for the United States Lighthouse Board, Washington, D. C.; he reported the Guiteau trial and the Star Route trials for the government, the debates of Congress, and nearly every event of national importance for fifteen years. He was admitted to the bar of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia; he made corporation law a specialty. With the invention of the Graphophone, he made the development of the talking machine industry a life work. In 1889, he organized the Columbia Phonograph Company and became its president; in 1893, when his company consolidated with the American Graphophone Company, he was made president and counsel of both companies. In 1897 the headquarters of the business were removed from Washington, D. C., to New York City. He is also president of the Burt Company, and of the Volta Graphophone Company; he is vice-president of the Hackensack Trust Company, vice-president of the Hackensack Hospital Association, trustee of the Arcola M. E. Church, member of the Hackensack Golf Club, Oritani Field Club and New Jersey Automobile and Motor Club. He married first Jan. 24, 1876, at Washington, D. C., Hattie Kaldenbach, and second, May 24, 1883, at Washington, D. C., Helen Mortimer Jefferis; he has a son, Mortimer D., and four daughters, Mrs. Charles W. Woddrop, Mrs. Earl Godwin, Florence Lyle and Helen. His principal recreation is automobiling, in which he was one of the pioneers. Residence: Arcola, N. J. Address: Tribune Building, New York City.

EATON, Amasa Mason:

Lawyer; born at Providence, R. I., May 31, 1841; son of Levi Curtis Eaton. He was graduated from Brown University, A.B., 1861, engaged in business pursuits for several years, then took up the study of law, and was graduated from the Harvard Law School, LL.B., in 1878. His practice is extensive and he includes among his clients many of the larger corporations and manufacturers of Providence and Pawtucket. He was a member and president of the town council of North Providence, 1863-1865; member of the Rhode Island House of Representatives, 1865-1866 and 1872-1874; member of the Providence common council, 1874-1875; and of the Providence Board of Aldermen, 1875. He has been Rhode Island Commissioner on Uniformity of State Legislation since 1897 and president of the National Conference on the same since 1901. He is ex-president of the Rhode Island Horticultural Society. Mr. Eaton is a member of the American Bar Association, American Historical Association, American Political Science Association, National Municipal League, Harvard Law School Association; and the University Club, of Providence. He is the author of: Constitution Making in Rhode Island, 1899; and also of numerous articles in law review, reports, etc. He married at Pawtucket, R. I., Sept. 15, 1873, Maude Dunning. Residence: 701 Smith Street. Office: 59 Studley Building, Providence, R. I.

EATON, Frederick Heber:

Manufacturer; born in Berwick, Pa., April 15, 1863; son of Ralph H. and Eliza Knapp (Dickerman) Eaton. He was educated in the public schools, and he has been engaged in manufacturing since 1880; has been president and director of the American Car and Foundry Company since 1901; also vice-president and director of the Susquehanna, Bloomsburg & Berwick Railroad; director of the Columbia Trust Company, Seaboard National Bank, Hoyt & Woodin Manufacturing Company, Sligo & Eastern Railway; trustee of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York. Mr. Eaton is a member of the Chamber of Commerce, the Union League, New York Athletic, and Metropolitan Clubs of New York City, and the Union League Club of Philadelphia. He married in Bloomsburg, Pa., in 1881, C. Elizabeth Furman, and they have a daughter. Residence: 40 Central Park South. Office: 165 Broadway, New York City.

EATON, Homer:

Clergyman and publishing agent; born in Enosburg, Vt., Nov. 16, 1834; son of Bennett and Betsy Maria (Webster) Eaton. He was educated in public schools, in Bakerville (Vt.) Academy and the Theological Seminary at Concord, N. H., and received from Syracuse University the degree of D.D. in 1878, and of LL.D., 1908. He was admitted to the Troy Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1857, was its first assistant secretary, 1861-1870, and secretary, 1870-1877. He was in the pastorate of several important churches until Feb., 1889, when he was elected publishing agent of the Methodist Book Concern at New York City. Mr. Eaton was a delegate to the Methodist Episcopal General Conference at Brooklyn in 1872; a fraternal delegate to the General Conference of the Methodist Church in Canada, a reserve delegate to the General Conference in 1876 and for eight consecutive sessions. He was also a delegate to the Ecumenic Conference at London in 1881; and served as presiding elder of the Albany district, and of the Cambridge district. He is treasurer of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and trustee of several universities and theological institutions. Dr. Eaton married, at Shelton, Vt., April 28, 1858, Hannah Saxe. Address: 150 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

EATON, Marquis:

Lawyer; born in Michigan, April 5, 1876; son of General Charles L. Eaton and Nellie (Joiner) Eaton. He is a graduate of the University of Michigan. He was associate reporter of the Michigan Supreme Court, 1897-1901, exclusively engaged in writing the head notes or syllabi of the decisions. For eight years he has been a member of the firm of Cody and Eaton, 135 Adams Street, Chicago, engaged in the active practice of law, particularly in the corporation branches. He also holds the official position of counsel for the Chicago city treasurer. He is president and director of The Idaho Company, Limited, and a director of the Allied Securities Company, Carlsbad Mineral Spring Company, Kirby Equipment Company, Midland Casualty Company, and Snow Manufacturing Company. He is a member of the Illinois State and Chicago Bar Associations, the Zeta Psi and Alpha Omega fraternities and the Masonic orders; vice-president of the Chicago Law Institute; member of the Law Club of Chicago; and from May, 1908, to May, 1909, was president of the Hamilton Club of Chicago, the largest organization of its kind in the world, and the leading Republican club of the West. Mr. Eaton has been actively identified with political affairs and has campaigned extensively under the auspices of the various Republican State Central Committees. His achievements in behalf of a safe and sane celebration of Independence Day have been notable. He has been president since its organization of the incorporated Sane Fourth Association, which secured for Chicago in 1909, a type of celebration whereby the casualties attending the use of explosives were reduced to less than 20 per cent of the number in previous years. He is a member of the University Congregational Church of Chicago, a director of the Chicago Congregational Club and of the Congregational Brotherhood of Chicago. He married at Flint, Mich., June 8, 1904, Jacqueline Hunter of San Francisco, Calif.; they have one son. Residence: 5623 Washington Avenue. Address: 135 Adams Street, Chicago.

EATON, Seymour:

Author and library founder; born in Epping, Ontario, Canada, 1859. He was educated in Canadian schools and taught in district schools seven years. Mr. Eaton became a resident of Boston in 1886, and from there went to Philadelphia in 1892. He founded, in the United States and the British Isles, the Booklovers' and Tabard Inn libraries, and is now vice-president of the Booklovers' Corporation. For five years he was director of Drexel Institute. Mr. Eaton was, for five years, a daily contributor to the Chicago Record and has done other important work in journalism, founded and edited the Booklovers' Magazine until it was merged into the present Appleton's Magazine, is author of several college textbooks, of the novel: Dan Black, Editor and Proprietor; was the originator of the famous Teddy Bears and author of The Teddy Bears Musical Comedy, The Roosevelt Bears, and The Telepath (drama). Mr. Eaton married in Winnipeg, Manitoba, Jan. 15, 1884, Jennie V. Adair. Residence: Lansdowne, Pa. Office: 333 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

EATON, Walter Prichard:

Dramatic critic; born in Malden, Mass., Aug. 24, 1878; son of Warren E. and Mary (Prichard) Eaton. He was educated in the Phillips Andover Academy, and Harvard College, A.B., 1900. Mr. Eaton went on the staff of the Boston Journal after his graduation and two years later entered the New York Tribune, where he did reportorial and editorial work until 1907. He was then for one year dramatic critic of The Sun. He is author of The American Stage of To-day, 1908 (Small, Maynard & Co.), The Runaway Place (with Elise M. Underhill), 1909 (Henry Holt & Co.), and of numerous stories, essays and poems in current American magazines. He is a member of the Harvard Club of New York, and of the Cranford Golf Club. Address: 80 Washington Square, New York City.

EATON, Willard Lee:

Lawyer and railroad commissioner; born in Delhi, Iowa, Oct. 13, 1848; son of Arial K. and Sarah (Jarnagin) Eaton. He was educated in the public schools, Cedar Valley Seminary and the law school of the Iowa State University, from which he has received the degrees of B.S., LL.B. and LL.D. Mr. Eaton has been successfully engaged in the practice of law since 1874. He is also prominent in politics as a Republican, was elected to the Twenty-seventh, Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth General Assemblies of Iowa, and was speaker of the House of Representatives in the Twenty-ninth General Assembly. He was elected railroad commissioner for Iowa in 1896, for a four-year term, which he is now serving. Mr. Eaton is a director of the Farmers' National Bank and the Home Trust and Savings Bank, both of Osage, Iowa. He was trustee of the Cedar Valley Seminary for many years, and is now a trustee of the Upper Iowa University. He is a member of all Masonic bodies, both of the York and Scottish Rites, and was formerly Worshipful Grand Master of Masons of Iowa; is a member of the Knights of Pythias and Elks and of the Grant Club of Des Moines. Mr. Eaton married in Waverly, Iowa, Sept. 11, 1874, Laura R. Annis, and they have a son. Residence: Osage, Iowa. Official address: Des Moines, Iowa.

EATON, William Colgate:

Commodore U. S. Navy, retired; born in Hamilton, N. Y., Feb. 4, 1851; son of Rev. George W. Eaton, D.D., LL.D., and Eliza H. (Boardman) Eaton. He was graduated from Colgate University, A.B., with Classical Oration, 1869, A.M., 1872, Ph.D., 1881, and was graduated from the U. S. Naval Academy in 1874. He served in the various duties of an officer in the Navy, chiefly in the Department of Engineering; was detailed as head of the Department of Engineering in Colgate University, 1888-1890; was appointed by Viceroy Li Hung Chang examiner of naval engineering graduates in the Imperial University, Tientsin, China, 1892, was fleet engineer of the Pacific Squadron, 1899-1900; commissioned chief engineer, June 1, 1905; captain, Nov. 18, 1907; retired as commodore at his own request, June 30, 1908, but still retained on duty as inspector of ordnance and engineering material. Commodore Eaton is a member of the Sigma Phi fraternity and the Phi Beta Kappa Society. He married in Brooklyn, Sept., 1890, Lizzie Blish, and they have one son. Residence: 194 Clinton Street, Brooklyn. Office: Room 5, Post Office Building, Brooklyn, N. Y.

EBY, Frederick:

Instructor in the history of education; born in Berlin, Canada, Oct. 26, 1874; son of Aaron Eby, M.D., and Matilde C. (Bowlers) Eby. He was graduated from McMaster University, A.B., 1895; graduate student in the University of Chicago, 1895-1897; scholar and fellow in Clark University, 1898-1900, Ph.D. 1900; student in Berlin, 1905-1906; professor of philosophy and education in Baylor University, Texas, 1900-1909; instructor in the history of education University of Texas, from 1909. Dr. Eby married in Toronto, Canada, Dec. 26, 1900, Elizabeth Newman, and they have three children. Address: University of Texas, Austin, Texas.

ECCLES, Robert Gibson:

Physician; born in Scotland, Jan. 1, 1848; son of David and Isabella Gibson Eccles. He was educated in the Long Island Medical College, where he received the degree of M.D. in 1882; the Scio (Ohio) College, with the degree of Ph.D. and the Brooklyn College of Pharmacy, with the degree of Ph.D. Dr. Eccles was dean of Brooklyn College of Pharmacy, Government chemist, etc., and served for ten years on the Committees of Revision of the United States Pharmacopoeia and chairman of the section on the active principles of drugs. He was former president of the New York State Pharmaceutical Association; president of the Chemical Section of the Brooklyn Institute and chairman of the Section of Education of the American Pharmaceutical Association. He is a discoverer of a number of new active principles of plants. Dr. Eccles is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, member of the American Geographical Society, American Medical Association, American Anatomical Association, American Pharmaceutical Association, and the National Geographic Society. He married at Kansas City, Mo., Sept., 1876, Mary Hance. Address: 191 Dean Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

ECKERT, Thomas Thompson:

President and general manager Western Union Telegraph Company; born at St. Clairsville, Ohio, April 23, 1825. He was postmaster and telegrapher at Wooster, Ohio, in 1849; and in 1852 he supervised the construction of a telegraph line from Pittsburg to Chicago, and was its superintendent until it became a part of the Western Union Telegraph Company. He resigned in 1859, becoming superintendent of a gold mining company in North Carolina. He was superintendent of military telegraph, Army of the Potomac, with rank of captain, and later general superintendent of military telegraph with rank of major; he reached the brevet rank of brigadier-general; and he became assistant secretary of war, 1864-1866. General Eckert was general superintendent, Eastern Division, Western Union Telegraph Company, 1866-1875; president of the Atlantic and Pacific Company, 1875-1881; president American Union Telegraph Company, 1880-1881; vice-president and general manager Western Union Telegraph Company, 1881-1892; president and general manager of the Western Union Telegraph Company, 1881-1892; president and general manager of the Western Union Telegraph Company since 1892. He is a director of the Union Pacific Railroad Company; of the Texas and Pacific Railway Company, and the American Telegraph and Cable Company. He is a member of the Union League and Riding Clubs of New York City. Residence: 549 Fifth Avenue. Address: 195 Broadway, New York City.

ECKSTORM, Fannie Hardy:

Author; born Brewer, Me., June 18, 1865; daughter of Manly and Emma Freeman (Wheeler) Hardy. She was educated in Bangor High School, Abbot Academy, and Smith College, being graduated with B.A. degree (class poet), 1888. She was married in Portland, Ore., Oct. 24, 1893, to Rev. Jacob A. Eckstorm, and has had a daughter, now deceased, and a son, still living. Mrs. Eckstorm is author of: The Bird Book, 1900; The Woodpeckers, 1900; The Penobscot Man, 1904; David Libbey, 1907; and is a contributor to The Atlantic and other periodicals. Address: 173 Wilson Street, Brewer, Me.

EDDY, Clarence:

Concert organist; born in Greenfield, Mass., June 23, 1851; son of George Sanger and Silence (Cheney) Eddy. He studied music under Dudley Buck and in Berlin, Germany, under Albert Loeschhorn and August Haupt. He was engaged as organist in the leading churches of Chicago for over twenty years, and has given recitals in the principal American and European cities. Mr. Eddy is author of organ works; The Church and Concert Organist (three volumes); The Organ in Church; and Concert pieces for the Organ. He is now organist and director of music of the Tompkins Avenue Congregational Church of Brooklyn. Residence: 930 West End Avenue, New York City.

EDDY, Henry Turner:

Professor of mathematics and mechanics in the College of Engineering and Dean of the Graduate School, University of Minnesota; born at Stoughton, Mass., June 9, 1844; son of Henry and Sarah H. (Torrey) Eddy. He was educated at Yale, receiving the degree of A.B. in 1867, Ph.B. from the Scientific School in 1868, A.M. in 1870; he received the degree C.E. from Cornell in 1870 and Ph.D. in 1872; from Center College, he received the degree LL.D. in 1892; he studied at Berlin in 1879 and at Paris in 1880. After filling the position of instructor in various educational institutions, including Cornell, Princeton, University of Cincinnati and Rose Polytechnic Institute, he was appointed professor of Engineering and Mechanics in the University of Minnesota in 1894; he was made dean of the Graduate School in the same University in 1906 and advanced to his present position in 1907. He is a director in the St. Anthony Falls Bank, Minneapolis, in the Barnard-Cope Manufacturing Company, and also in the Pillsbury Settlement House Minneapolis. Besides being a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, he is a member of the American Philosophical Society, of the American Mathematical Society, of the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education, of the American Physical Society, and of the Sigma Xi and Phi Beta Kappa fraternities. He is the author of several mathematical and engineering works, including an Analytic Geometry, 1874, and Researches in Graphical Statics, 1878; besides this, he has contributed numerous scientific and technical papers to the proceedings of Engineering Societies. He married at New Haven, Conn., Jan. 4, 1870, Sebella E. Taylor; they have five children and six grandchildren. In politics he is a Republican, and in religion, a Congregationalist. Residence: 916 6th Street, S. E. Minneapolis, Minn. Address: University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minn.

EDDY, Spencer Fayette:

Diplomatist; born in Chicago, June 18, 1874; son of Augustus and Abbie Louise (Spencer) Eddy. After his graduation from Harvard, A.B., 1896, and a year in the Universities of Berlin and Heidelberg, he became private secretary to the late John Hay, then ambassador to Great Britain, 1897-1898; was clerk in the Department of State in Washington, 1898-1899, and during part of the latter year third secretary in the American Embassy in London; second secretary in the American Embassy in Paris, 1899-1901; first secretary and chargé d'affaires in American Legation in Constantinople, 1901-1903; first secretary in American Embassy at St. Petersburg, 1903-1906, and one year chargé d'affaires there; first secretary in the American Embassy in Berlin, 1906-1907; envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to the Argentine Republic, 1907-1909; appointed, 1909, American envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Roumania and Serbia and diplomatic agent for Bulgaria, which office he now holds. Mr. Eddy is a member of the Chicago Club of Chicago and the Metropolitan Club of Washington. He married in Paris, France, in 1906, Lurline Elizabeth Spreckels, of San Francisco. Address: American Legation, Bucharest, Roumania.

EDENBORN, William:

Capitalist; born in Westphalia, Prussia, March 20, 1848. He was educated in the schools of his native place and came to America in 1867. He worked as a mechanic in St. Louis, 1869-1871; was president of the St. Louis Wire Mill Company, 1871-

1882; president of the Consolidated Steel and Wire Company, 1882-1898, when he became vice-president and a member of the Executive Committee of the American Steel and Wire Company. During this long connection with the wire industry Mr. Edenborn invented important patented improvements in wire and wire-making machinery. He was a member of the executive and advisory committees of the United States Steel Corporation, 1901-1904, and he is now president of the Louisiana Railway and Navigation Company; vice-president of the Louisiana Central Construction Company; president of the Pittsburgh and Southern Coal Company; director of the St. Louis Iron and Machine Works, Urania Lumber Company of Louisiana and of the United States Steel Corporation. Address: Hibernia Building, New Orleans, La.

EDES, Robert Thaxter:

Physician and surgeon, author and investigator; born in Eastport, Me., Sept. 23, 1838; son of Rev. Richard Sullivan and Mary (Cushing) Edes. He is a descendant of John Edes, who came from England to Charleston, Mass., previous to 1840; John May, Jamaica Plain, 1640; Matthew Cushing, Hingham, 1638, and Thomas Thaxter, Hingham, 1638. He was graduated from the Bolton High School, from Harvard in the class of 1858, and from Harvard University Medical School as M.D. in 1861. He was appointed acting assistant surgeon in the United States Navy Sept. 10, 1861, serving until he resigned from service June 1, 1865, as passed assistant surgeon. He studied in Europe, principally at Vienna. He practised in Hingham for three years and then removed to Roxbury (Boston) in 1865. He was assistant professor of materia medica in Harvard University, 1870-1875, full professor 1875-1884, and Jackson professor of clinical medicine, 1884-1886. He was also physician to Boston City Hospital, 1872-1886, and removed to Washington, D. C., in 1886, where he was a practising physician, 1886-1891, physician in the Garfield Memorial Hospital, 1889-1891, and lecturer in Georgetown University Medical School from 1886 to 1891. He was resident physician at Adams Nervine Asylum, Jamaica Plain, Mass., from 1891 to 1897, and lecturer in materia medica at Dartmouth, 1891. He removed from Jamaica Plain to Reading, Mass., 1903. He was a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences of Boston; of the Philosophical Society of Washington, D. C., and is a member of the American Medical Association, the Association of American Physicians, of which organization he was a founder, and the American Neurological Association, of which he was president. Dr. Edes is a companion of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States. He is the author of: Physiology and Pathology of the Sympathetic or Ganglionic Nervous System (O'Reilly prize essay), 1869; Therapeutics and Materia Medica, 1893; A Therapeutic Handbook of the United States Pharmacopœia, 1886; and contributed articles to many medical periodicals. He has also published two novels: Mugwumps, by One of Them, and Parson Gay's Three Sermons. Residence: Reading, Mass. Office: 419 Boylston Street, Boston.

EDESON, Robert:

Actor; born in New Orleans, where his father was a well known comedian and stage manager. He was educated in Brooklyn, N. Y. In 1886 Mr. Edeson was box office clerk at the Park Theatre in Brooklyn under the management of Colonel Sinn. The following year, when Cora Tanner was to produce Fascination there, an actor, who had a minor part, became ill, and Mr. Edeson volunteered to play the part — which he did most successfully. Later he appeared in Augustin Daly's and in Charles Dickson's companies. In 1896 he joined the Empire Stock Company and became well known as understudy to William Faversham in Under the Red Robe. He was very successful as leading man with Maude Adams in The Little Minister, and with Amelia Bingham in The Climbers. Since then he has starred in Augustus Thomas' dramatization of Richard Harding Davis's novel, Soldiers of Fortune, and in Strongheart, an Indian play. He married Ellen Barg, an actress, who died in June, 1906. Address: The Lambs' Club, New York City.

EDGAR, William C.:

Editor and publisher; born in La Crosse, Wis., 1856; son of J. C. and Lucy D. Edgar. He removed to St. Louis, Mo., in boyhood and was educated in the public and high schools of that city until 1874. He was employed by a business firm in St. Louis until 1882, when he went to Minneapolis to take a position with the Northwestern Miller, which is the leading trade journal representing the flour milling industry of the United States. Since 1884 he has been manager of that journal and since 1886 its editor and president of its publishing company. In 1891, when a great famine afflicted the peasants of Russia, he organized a relief movement for their benefit, with the result that the millers of America contributed a shipload of flour, the collection of which, as well as its shipment and subsequent distribution, were under the personal direction of Mr. Edgar, whose efforts in this humanitarian enterprise were recognized by Emperor Alexander III, by the present to him of a golden flagon. Mr. Edgar has contributed extensively to other periodicals as well as to his own journal, and is author of: The Story of a Grain of Wheat, a book published in 1903, and of pamphlets on The Russian Famine, 1893, and The Miller's Evil Genius (published by the American Free Trade League in 1902). He is a member of the American Social Science Association, the National Municipal League, the American Free Trade League, and the Voters' League, and is a member of the Executive Committee of the latter. He is president of the Minnesota Trade Press Association, and is a member of the Minneapolis, Lafayette and Minikahda Clubs of Minneapolis, the St. Louis Club of St. Louis, and the Reform Club of New York. Mr. Edgar married in St. Louis in 1883, Anne Page Randolph Robinson. Residence: 66 Groveland Terrace, Office, address: Miller Building, Minneapolis, Minn.

EDISON, Thomas A.:

Electrician and inventor; was born in Milan, Ohio, Feb. 7, 1847. The Edisons are of Dutch origin. The first of the name of whom Thomas Alva is in descent was John, who came to America as early as 1737, and became a banker in New York; but being a loyalist in the struggle of the Colonies and siding with the British interests, he found it convenient to change his residence to Nova Scotia. There Samuel, father of Thomas Alva, was born. When Samuel Edison had arrived at the age of manhood he received a grant of land from the Government, located on the shores of Lake Erie, and moved to and settled upon it. But in 1838 he became involved in what was known as the Papineau rebellion, and his lands were forfeited to the crown. His personal liberty being endangered, he fled for safety to United States territory and settled in Milan, Ohio, where he married a woman of Scotch descent. Of this union Thomas Alva was born. Mr. Edison was early thrown upon his own resources, indeed early made a contribution to the family support. His first regular employment was as a newsboy on the Grand Trunk Railway. Later he learned the art of telegraphy and was operator at various places in the United States and Canada. He showed inventive skill from boyhood, and at the age of twenty-two he was in Boston, holding a position requiring the utmost skill, operating the crack wire from New York. It was while in this position that he conceived the idea of the duplex system, by which two messages could be sent over a wire at the same time. In 1871 he was made superintendent of the Gold and Stock Company, and a year later he not only perfected his duplex system, but developed it into a quadruple system, making a single wire do the work previously done by four, and saving to the telegraph companies millions of dollars. He established a factory in Newark, N. J., ostensibly for the manufacture of his stock quotation machines; but his time was chiefly, if not wholly, given to experimentation, though still in the line of telegraphy. It was not long before the sextuplex system appeared. Devices, improvements and new inventions relating to telegraphy flowed from his fingers and brain, almost without number, and the dominating telegraph company was kept busy in securing control of them, lest they should fall into rival hands. In 1876 Mr. Edison removed to Menlo Park and built the first of those buildings intended for merely experimental purposes, and where he has produced some of the most wonderful inventions of the age. Among these his carbon telephone transmitter for telephones, the phonograph, the microphone, the megaphone and the kinoscope are among those which have brought his name into the greatest prominence, together with the wonderful improvements he has made in electric lighting, in which field his greatest achievements have been obtained. Here he stands unrivaled and unassailable. In his accomplishment of the incandescent light no one claims to divide honors with him. Mr. Edison is a member of the Essex Country Club. He married Mina M. Miller. Address: West Orange, N. J.

EDMONDS, Franklin Spencer:

Lawyer; born in Philadelphia, March 28, 1874; son of Henry R. and Catharine Ann (Huntzinger) Edmonds. He was graduated from the Central High School of Philadelphia, A.B., 1891, A.M., 1896, University of Pennsylvania, Ph.B., 1893, LL.B., 1903; Andrew D. White fellow in political and social science in Cornell University, 1894-1895. He was assistant secretary of the American University Extension Society, 1893-1894; instructor and professor of political science in the Central High School of Philadelphia, 1895-1904, and since then honorary lecturer in that institution. Since 1904 he has been practising law in Philadelphia, being a member of the law firm of Mason and Edmonds, and is professor of law in Swarthmore College, Pa. Mr. Edmonds is solicitor of the Fairmount Savings Trust Company of Philadelphia, the Pocono Pines Assembly, Pennsylvania Museum and School of Industrial Art and solicitor of the Philadelphia Teachers' Association. He was candidate for the Select Council of Philadelphia on the City Party ticket in 1905, for receiver of taxes on the same ticket in 1907; chairman of the City Committee of the City Party in 1905 and chairman of two City Party County Conventions; and was a member of the Lincoln Party State Committee in 1905-1906. He is a Republican in politics. Professor Edmunds was editor of The Teacher, 1898-1901, and president of the Educational Club of Philadelphia, 1900-1903. He is author of: The Century's Progress in Education; History of Central High School, Philadelphia, from 1838 to 1902; and of many educational articles. He is a member of the American Historical Association, American Economic Association, American Political Science Association, American Statistical Association, American Academy of Political and Social Science, Pennsylvania Historical Society; member of the Board of Public Education, Beta Theta Pi fraternity, Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity, and the University, City, Franklin Inn, Schoolmen's, Lawyers', and Church Clubs. Address: 614 Franklin Building, Philadelphia.

EDMUNDS, Albert Joseph:

Librarian and Buddhist scholar; born in Tottenham, England, Nov. 21, 1857; son of Thomas and Rebecca (Hallat) Edmunds. He was educated in the Friends' School, Croydon, 1866-1873; Flounders Institute, Aekworth, 1876-1877; and was honorary M.A., University of Pennsylvania, 1907. Since 1891 he has been engaged for four hours a day with the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, so as to secure leisure for his literary work, and he is author of: Buddhist and Christian Gospels Now First Compared from the Originals, Tokyo, 1905, and a new edition, Philadelphia, 1908-1909, 2 volumes, edited by Professor M. Anesaki, of the University of Tokyo; and he has also contributed to various journals on comparative religions. Mr. Edmunds is a member of the Ethical Culture Society, the Oriental Club of Philadelphia and the Pennsylvania History Club. Address: 1300 Locust Street, Philadelphia.

EDMUNDS, George Franklin:

Lawyer and former senator; born in Richmond, Vt., Feb. 1, 1828. After attending the common schools of Vermont and taking advance studies under private tuition, he began reading law, was admitted to the bar as soon as he attained his majority in 1849 and in 1851 removed to Burlington, Vt., where he became a leader at the bar. His practice as a lawyer became very large and Mr. Edmunds has long been known as one of the leading constitutional lawyers of the United States. In politics and statesmanship he was also for many years one of the leaders in the Republican party, and in the councils of the nation. He was a member, 1854-1859, and speaker, 1856-1859, of the House of Representatives of Vermont; member and president pro tempore of the State Senate of Vermont, 1861-1862; was elected United States senator in 1866 and four times reelected, serving until 1891, when he resigned. Senator Edmunds was a member of the Electoral Commission of 1877; was author of the act, known as the Edmunds Act, passed in 1882 for the suppression of polygamy in Utah and the disfranchisement of those who practise it, and author of the Anti-Trust Law of 1890. He was president pro tempore of the United States during the Presidential term of General Chester A. Arthur. Senator Edmunds was a leader of his party in the Senate during his quarter-century of service, and in 1897 he was chairman of the Monetary Commission appointed by the Executive Committee of the Indianapolis Monetary Conference. Address: Philadelphia.

EDSALL, Samuel Cook:

Bishop of Minnesota; born at Dixon, Ill., March 4, 1860; son of James K. and Caroline Florella (More) Edsall. He entered Racine College, Racine, Wis., receiving the degree of M.A. in 1888. He also received the degree of D.D. from Illinois College in 1898, and of S.T.D. from the Western Theological Seminary in 1900. He was engaged in the practice of law from 1882, and after being ordered deacon in the Episcopal Church, in 1888, he was ordained to the priesthood in 1889 by Bishop McLaren. He then became rector of St. Peter's Church, Chicago (which he had founded as a lay reader in 1887), officiating until 1899, when he became Bishop of North Dakota, being consecrated by Bishops McLaren, Gilbert, Nicholson, Seymour, Walker, Hale and White. He was elected Bishop of Minnesota in 1901. He is author of: Prayer Book Preparation for Confirmation (1898), and numerous addresses and sermons. Address: 2642 Portland Avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.

EDSON, John Jay:

President, Washington Loan and Trust Company; born at Jefferson, Ohio, May 17, 1846. He was graduated from the law department of Columbia University in 1869, and was admitted to the bar, at the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, 1869. He enlisted in the Civil War in the 61st New York Volunteers, 1861-1863; was a clerk in the United States Treasury Department, 1863-1875; he was an attorney-at-law, patent practice, 1875-1881; organized and was secretary of the Equitable Cooperative Building Association, 1879-1889, and has been its president since 1893; and he has been president of the Washington Loan and Trust Company since 1894. He is also a director in many corporations. Mr. Edson was president of the National Homeopathic Hospital, 1889-1895; president Civil Service Reform Association of the District of Columbia, 1895-1904; chairman of the executive committee for reception and entertainment of the Grand Army of the Republic, 1892; and served on the Presidential Inaugural Executive Committee, 1889, 1893, 1897, 1901, 1905. Mr. Edson was chairman of the McKinley Second Inaugural Executive Committee, 1901; president of the Board of Trade, 1900-1901; a member of the government board of charities, 1900-1905; treasurer of George Washington University, 1903-1905; member of the Washington Sanitary Improvement Company, 1899-1905; member of the Associated Charities, 1905. He is a member of the Grand Army of the Republic. He declined the position of commissioner of the District of Columbia, tendered by President Harrison, 1893, and by President McKinley, 1901. Address: Washington Loan and Trust Company, Washington, D. C.

EDWARDS, Charles Gordon:

Lawyer and congressman; born in Tattall County, Ga., July 2, 1878; son of Thomas J. and Annie (Conley) Edwards. He was educated in the common schools, and afterward at Gordon Institute, Barnesville, Ga., the Florida State College, and the University of Georgia, whence he was graduated B.L. He began practising law in Reidsville, Ga., at the age of 19, moved to Savannah in Dec., 1900, and has since practised there. At the age of 21 he was nominated as Representative of Tattall County by the Democratic party and endorsed by the Populists; this nomination, he declined. Nov. 6, 1906, he was elected to Congress from the First District of Georgia, and he was re-elected in 1908 to the Sixty-first Congress. He is a member of the Savannah Bar Association; steward of the Wesley Monumental Methodist Church; is a Mason, Knight Templar and Shriner, member of the Odd Fellows and Knights of Pythias orders, the Sons of Confederate Veterans and a trustee of the South Georgia College at McRae, Ga. Mr. Edwards married at Wayercross, Ga., Dec. 17, 1902, Ora Beach, and they have one son, Charles Beach Edwards. Residence: 302 Thirty-sixth Street, West Savannah, Ga. Address: 910 Sorrel Building, Savannah, Ga.

EDWARDS, George Wharton:

Artist; born in Fair Haven, Conn., 1859. He was educated abroad, at Antwerp and Paris, and it was in the latter city where his art education was chiefly obtained. He began his professional career in the early eighties, and has also done much literary work. He has received medals from Art exhibitions in Boston and from the Pan-American, Charleston and Foreign Expositions. He is a member (elected 1883) of the American Water Color Society, National Arts Club; New York Water Color Club; Authors' Club; Ex Libris Society of London. He was the director of the Art Department, Collier's, 1898-1903; and of the American Bank Note Company, 1904-1907. He painted the mural decoration, Henrik Hudson, in the officers' mess at the West Point Military Academy, and designed the diploma for Jamestown Exposition, 1907. He is the author of: Thumbnail Sketches, 1886; P'tit Matinée Monotones, 1887; The Rivalries of Long and Short Codiae, 1888; Break O' Day and Other Stories, 1889; A Reading Journey in the Hollow-land, 1908; Holland of To-day, 1909. He is the illustrator of: O. W. Holmes' Last Leaf, 1885, Austin Dobson's Sun Dial, 1892; Spenser's Epithlamion, 1895; Old English Love Songs, 1896; Old English Ballads, 1897; The Christmas Book, 1909, etc. He married, March, 1886, Anne Johns Cox, daughter of General John C. Cox, of Quincy, Ill. Residence: 345 Franklin Place, Plainfield, N. J. Studio: Flatiron Building, New York City.

EDWARDS, Harry Stillwell:

Author; born in Macon, Ga., April 23, 1855. He was educated in the schools of his native place and in the law department of Mercer University at Macon, where he was graduated LL.B., 1877. He began newspaper work in 1881 as assistant editor of the Macon Telegraph of which he later became editor until 1887; then editor of the Macon Evening News and Sunday Times for a year. After that he engaged in law practice and literary work, and in 1900 he was appointed postmaster of Macon, Ga., which office he has held ever since. He is one of the most prominent Republicans of the South, and for that section seconded the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt at the National Republican Convention of 1904, and took a prominent part in the Convention of 1908. He is author of Sons and Fathers, a novel which was awarded the $10,000 prize of The Chicago Record over 816 other competitors, and is also author of: The Marbeau Cousins; Two Runaways and Other Stories; His Defense and Other Stories, and also many songs and poems, contributed to various magazines and other publications. He married in Sparta, Ga., in 1881, Marie Roxie Lane. Address: Macon, Ga.

EDWARDS, Stephen Ostrom:

Lawyer; born in Glen, N. Y., Jan. 22, 1855; son of William Henry and Helena Schenck (Mount) Edwards. He was graduated from Brown University, A.B., 1879, A.M., 1882, and attended the law school of Boston University, 1882-1883. Mr. Edwards taught a country school, 1872-1873; was a teacher in Providence High School, 1879-1882, was admitted to the Rhode Island bar in February, 1884; instructor in mathematics and logic in Brown University, 1886-1887. He practised law alone, in Providence, R. I., until May, 1894 when he formed partnership with Walter F. Angell in the present law firm of Edwards & Angell. Mr. Edwards was clerk of the Rhode Island House of Representatives, 1889-1891, and member of the Commission on Revision of the Judicial System of Rhode Island, 1904-1905. He is a director of the Providence Journal Company and the Rhode Island Hospital Trust Company; trustee of Brown University; director of the Providence Lying-in Hospital, Providence Society for Organizing Charity, a member of Phi Beta Kappa Society, St. Johns Commandery of Knights Templar, and the Hope, University, Agawam, Hunt, Providence Bar, Rhode Island Bar and Providence Art Clubs. Mr. Edwards married in Providence, June 30, 1887, Ellen A. Chace, and they have a son and two daughters. Residence: 181 Lloyd Street. Office: 170 Westminster Street, Providence, R. I.

EDWARDS, Clarence Edgar:

Author and lecturer; born in Staunton, Va., Nov. 15, 1856; son of John L. and Marie J. (Widen) Edwards. He was graduated from the St. Louis Medical College, M.D., 1877, and Heidelberg University, 1879. He engaged in literary work, becoming managing editor of the Kansas City Journal, 1893-1896. He traveled in Mexico writing for syndicates and magazines; was on the editorial staff of the San Francisco Call and Chronicle, 1897-1905, and is now chief of the Literary Bureau of the California Promotion Committee. He is author of: Campfires of a Naturalist; Inch by Inch;

Six Months in Hell; Fallen Leaves (poems). Dr. Edwards lectures on travel and on Hunting With a Camera. He has traveled in Europe, Mexico, Central America and the South Sea Islands, and he served through the Apache campaigns in the Medical Department of the United States Army. He has found his recreation in natural history study in the field, and he is a member of the National Geographic Society and of the Commonwealth Club of California. Dr. Edwards married in Denver, Colo., Oct. 17, 1897, Elizabeth M. Estes. Residence: 2186 Green Street. Office: California Building, Union Square, San Francisco.

EELLS, Richard Latimer:

Stock broker; born in Simsbury, Conn., in 1839; son of Erasmus Latimer and Phebe Eells. He was educated at the Westfield (Mass.) Academy, and took a business course at Hartford, Conn. He was for some time engaged in the dry goods business and since then as a gold and stock broker. Mr. Eells is a member of the Hartford City Guard. He was connected with the late Dr. T. DeWitt Talmage for many years as superintendent of a Sunday School. He is a Republican in politics and a Presbyterian in his religious denomination. He is also a member of the Prospects Heights Citizens' Association and a member of the Brooklyn League Club. He married in Brooklyn, N. Y., in 1860, Cornelia A. Boyer. Address: 51 Exchange Place, New York City.

EGAN, Maurice Francis:

Diplomatist, author and educator; born in Philadelphia, May 24, 1852; son of Maurice and Margaret (MacMullen) Egan. He was graduated from La Salle College A.M., 1873, entered Georgetown (D.C.) College in 1875, received the degrees of A.M. from Notre Dame, 1878; LL.D. from Georgetown, 1879; J.U.D. from Ottawa University, 1891; and Ph.D. from Villanova College in 1907. In 1877 he became sub-editor of McGee's Illustrated Weekly and in 1879 of the Catholic Review; was editor of Freeman's Journal 1880-1888; professor of English literature at the University of Notre Dame, Ind., 1888-1895; professor of English language and literature in the Catholic University of America, 1895-1907, resigning that chair upon his appointment as envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Denmark. Dr. Egan is author of: A Garden of Roses; Stories of Duty; The Life Around Us; The Theatre and Christian Parents; Modern Novelists; Lectures on English Literature; A Gentleman; Jack Chumleigh; Jack Chumleigh at Boarding School; Preludes (poems); Songs and Sonnets, and Other Poems; the translations: Coppee's Pater (for Mr. Augustin Daly), and the Sonnets of José de Heredia (in World's Best Literature), and a number of other works. He is also one of the editors of the World's Best Literature; the Encyclopædia of Irish Literature. He married in 1880, Katharine Mullin, of Philadelphia. Address: American Legation, Copenhagen, Denmark.

EGBERT, James Chidester:

Professor of Latin; born in New York in 1859; son of Rev. James C. and Louisa (Drew) Egbert. He was graduated from Columbia University in 1881; and later received the degrees of A.M. and Ph.D. He held a prize fellowship, 1882-1885; was assistant in Greek, 1885-1887; tutor in Latin, 1888-1891; instructor in Latin, 1891-1895; adjunct professor of Latin, 1895-1900; professor of Roman archaeology and epigraphy, 1900-1906; professor of Latin, 1906; director of the Summer Session of Columbia University since 1902; professor of Latin in the American School of Classical Studies in Rome, 1903-1904. He is a member of the Archaeological Institute of America; the American Philological Association; the Phi Beta Kappa Alumni Association, New York (president, 1904-1905); a member of the managing and executive committees American School, Rome; a member of the Board of Education, Jersey City, 1898-1903. He is the author of: Macmillan's Shorter Latin Course, 1892; Introduction to the Study of Latin Inscriptions, 1895. Professor Egbert is editor of Macmillan's Series of Latin Classics; wrote The Equestrian Cursus Honorum in Classical Studies in Honor of Henry Drisler, 1894, and also several articles in Harper's Dictionary of Classical Antiquity and the New International Cyclo-pedia. He married in New York in 1884, Emma G. Pennington. Address: 425 West 146th Street, New York City.

EGGLESTON, George Cary:

Journalist and author; born in Vevay, Ind., Nov. 26, 1839; son of Joseph Cary and Mary Jane (Craig) Eggleston. He attended Indiana Asbury University, 1856-1857; Richmond (Virginia) College, 1858-1859, and Brockenborough's Lexington (Virginia) Law School, 1859-1860. He was admitted to the bar in Virginia and practised one year, before the Civil War, in that State, and for four years after the war in Cairo, Ill. He entered newspaper work in New York City in 1870; was literary editor of the Evening Post from 1875 to 1881; editor-in-chief of Hearth and Home, 1872-1874; editor of the American Homes Magazine, 1874-1875; editor-in-chief of the New York Commercial Advertiser, 1884-1889, and editorial writer of the New York World, 1889-1900. Mr. Eggleston served in the Confederate Army from the beginning to the close of the war. He is author of: How to Educate Yourself, 1872; A Man of Honor, 1873; A Rebel's Recollections, 1874; How to Make a Living, 1875; The Big Brother, 1875; Captain Sam, 1876; The Signal Boys, 1877; Red Eagle, 1878; The Wreck of the Red-bird, 1882; Strange Stories from History, 1885; A Primary History of the United States, 1885; Juggernaut (with Dolores Marbourg), 1891; Southern Soldier Stories, 1898; The Last of the Flatboats, 1900; A Carolina Cavalier, 1900; Camp Venture, 1900; The American Immortals, 1902; Dorothy South, 1902; The Bale marked Circle X, 1902; The Master of Warlock, 1903; The First of the Hoosiers, 1903; Running the River, 1904; A Captain in the Ranks, 1904; Evelyn Byrd, 1904; Our First Century, 1905; A Daughter of the South, 1905; Life in the Eighteenth Century, 1905; Blind Alleys, 1906; Jack Shelby, 1906; Love is the Sum of it All, 1907, and Long Knives, 1908; Two Gentlemen of Virginia, 1908; The Warrens of Virginia (founded on the De Mille Play), 1908; Irene of the Mountains, 1909. He is also editor of: French History for English Children, 1882; Haydn's Dictionary of Dates (American edition), 1883; American War Ballads (two volumes), 1889; Liber Scriptorium, 1893. Mr. Eggleston is a member of the Authors Club, the American Historical Association, the New York State Historical Association, the Royal Arcanum, Knights of Honor, and is honorary president of The Dickens' Fellowship. He married at Cairo, Ill., Sept. 9, 1868, Marion Craggs, and they have two sons. Summer residence: Culross, Lake George, N. Y. Address: 188 West 135th Street, New York City.

EILERS, Frederic Anton:

Mining engineer and metallurgist; born in Laufenselten, Nassau, Germany, Jan. 14, 1839; son of E. J. A. F. Eilers, chief forester and Elizabeth (Dielmann) Eilers. He was educated in the gymnasia at Weilburg, and Wiesbaden, the Mining School at Clausthal and the University of Göttingen, 1852-1859, coming to the United States in the latter year. He was assistant to Adelberg & Raymond, mining engineers, 1863-1866; in charge of mines and copper smelting works in Virginia, 1866-1869; deputy U. S. Commissioner of mining statistics, 1869-1876; part owner and manager of the Germania Smelting and Refining Works, Salt Lake City, 1876-1879; in the smelting business, as a member of the firm of Billing & Eilers, Leadville, Colo., 1879-1882; president of the Colorado Smelting Company of Pueblo, Colo., 1883-1899, and manager, director and vice-president of the United Smelting and Refining Company of Montana and Chicago, 1890-1899; since 1899 director and member of the executive committee of the American Smelting and Refining Company, also of the American Smelters Securities Company and the United Missouri River Power Company; and he is a director and vice-president of the Last Dollar Gold Mining Company and the Seneca Mining Company. Mr. Eilers has written extensively on mining and metallurgical subjects. He was one of the earliest members and has been a manager and vice-president of the American Institute of Mining Engineers; is a member of the National Geographic Society, Colorado Scientific Society, American Forestry Association, American Association for the Advancement of Science, Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, Technical Society of New York, the Engineers Club of New York, German and Germania Clubs of Brooklyn, and the Denver and Alta Clubs of Salt Lake City. Residence: 751 St. Marks Avenue, Brooklyn. Office: 165 Broadway, New York City.

EIS, Frederick:

Catholic bishop of Sault Sainte Marie and Marquette, Mich.; born in Arbach, near Coblenz, Germany, Jan. 20, 1843. In 1855 he came with his parents to the United States, settling in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan, and after completing his preliminary education he studied for the priesthood at seminaries in Milwaukee, Wis., and in Canada. In 1870 he was ordained to the priesthood by Bishop Mrak, at Marquette, Mich., and entered upon his pastoral labors in Saint Peter's Cathedral Parish at that place. He was afterwards pastor of the Sacred Heart Church at Calumet, Mich.; Saint Ann's Church at Hancock, Mich.; Saint Paul's Church at Negaunee, Mich., and at Crystal Falls, Mich. Upon the death of Bishop Vertin, in March, 1899, he was appointed administrator of the diocese of Sault Sainte Marie and Marquette, and was consecrated as successor to that prelate, Aug. 24, 1899. Address: Marquette, Mich.

EISEN, Gustav August:

Biologist; born in Stockholm, Sweden, Aug. 2, 1847; son of Franz August and Amalia (Markander) Eisen. He was graduated from the University of Upsala, Sweden, Ph.D., 1873, becoming docent in zoölogy in that institution in the same year. He made biological explorations in Central America and Mexico at various times from 1880 to 1900, and in Europe from 1904 to 1907. Dr. Eisen was editor of California in 1889; curator of the California Academy of Sciences, 1893-1900, and in the Lloyd Tevis Aquarium and Biological Station, 1904-1907. He was a member of the jury of Award of the California Midwinter Fair, 1895; is a member of the California Academy of Sciences, president of the San Francisco Microscopical Society; corresponding member of the Prag Wissenschaften Gesellschaft, and of the Swedish Society of Anthropology and Geology. His principal researches have been in Oligochaeta (earthworms), cytology, caprification of the fig, and the plasmodocytes of human and batrachian blood. His chief writings are on Oligochaeta, cytology and horticulture. Address: California Academy of Sciences, San Francisco.

ELAM, John B.:

Lawyer; born at Spring Valley, Ohio, Dec. 16, 1845; son of Ambrose and Susan (Babb) Elam. He served in an Ohio volunteer regiment in the Civil War, participating in many important battles; was graduated from Miami University, Ohio, A.B., 1870, and from the Law Department of the University of Michigan, LL.B., 1872, and in the same year he went to Indianapolis, where he was admitted to the bar. He served as prosecuting attorney and afterward was in partnership with the late President Benjamin Harrison. Mr. Elam is a member of the Marion, Commercial and other leading Clubs of Indianapolis. He married, July 22, 1875, Emma Lee, of Oxford, Ohio. Residence: 1320 Park Avenue. Address: Newton Claypool Building, Indianapolis Ind.

ELDER, Samuel James:

Lawyer; born at Hopeville, R. I., Jan. 4, 1850; son of James and Deborah (Keen) Elder. He was graduated from Yale University with the degree of A.B. in 1873, and taking up the study of law at Boston, was admitted to the bar of Massachusetts in 1875. He is a prominent lawyer of general practice in Boston, and a specialist in copyright law. Many of his arguments have been published. He is a well known after-dinner speaker. He received the degree of LL.D. from Yale, 1908. Mr. Elder was one of the senior counsel for the United States in the North Atlantic Fisheries Arbitration with Great Britain at The Hague. On May 10, 1876, he married at Hastings-on-Hudson, N. Y., Lilla S. Thomas. Residence: Winchester, Mass. Office: Pemberton Building, Boston.

ELIOT, Amory:

Lawyer and trustee; born in Chicopee, Mass., May 26, 1856; son of William Prescott and Eleanor (Chapin) Eliot; grandson of Harvey and Sarah (Stockwell) Chapin and of William Harvard and Margaretta (Bradford) Eliot, and a descendant from William Bradford and John Alden, Mayflower, 1620, and from Andrew Elliot, the immigrant, 1668, and Thomas Dudley, 1630. He was educated in Phillips Academy, Exeter, N. H., and Harvard, A.B., 1877; attended Harvard Law School, 1878-1879, and became a practising lawyer in Boston, 1880. He is treasurer of the Good Government Association of Boston, trustee of the Board of Trade Trust, Business Real Estate Trust, Congress Street Building Trust, Suffolk Savings Bank; Oliver Building Trust, and Real Estate Improvement Trust; director of the Webster and Atlas National Bank, Atlantic Cotton Mills, and Boston Real Estate Exchange. He is a member of the Tennis and Racquet Club, the Country Club, the Essex County Club, of which he is chairman, and the Exchange Club of Boston, of which he is treasurer. He was a Cleveland Democrat, and is now an Independent Republican. He married, Dec. 7, 1881, Mary, daughter of Henry A. and Lydia (Sumner) Clarke, and a descendant of Lawrence Wilkinson, Rhode Island, 1647; and of this marriage there are four children. The city home of Mr. Eliot is on Beacon Street, and his residence at Manchester-by-the-Sea. Office: 131 State Street, Boston.

ELIOT, Charles William:

Former president of Harvard University; born in Boston, Mass., March 20, 1834; son of Samuel Atkins and Mary (Lyman) Eliot. He was fitted for college at the Boston Latin School, was graduated from Harvard in 1853 and received the degree of LL.D. from Williams College and from Princeton, 1869, Yale, 1870, Johns Hopkins, 1902. He was tutor in mathematics at Harvard and student under Professor Joseph P. Cooke in chemistry, 1854-1858; and from 1858 to 1863, he was assistant professor of chemistry and mathematics at the Lawrence Scientific School, Harvard. He studied chemistry and investigated educational methods in Europe, 1863-1865; and was professor of analytical chemistry at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 1865-1869, and was president of Harvard University from 1869 until his voluntary retirement in 1909. President Eliot is a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, the American Philosophical Society; officer de la Légion d'Honneur de France, corresponding member of the Académie des Sciences Morales et Politiques of the Institute de France. He has delivered many addresses on educational and scientific subjects. He is author of: Manual of Qualitative Chemical Analysis (with Professor Francis H. Storer); Manual of Inorganic Chemistry (with Professor Storer); Five American Contributions to Civilization and Other Essays; Educational Reform; Charles Eliot — Landscape Architect, 1902; Annual Reports of the President of Harvard University from 1869 to 1909; More Money for the Public Schools, 1903; John Gilley, 1904; Four American Leaders, 1906. Under the Administration of President Eliot, the progress of Harvard University was greater than during any corresponding period of its remarkable history. President Eliot has been twice married, first in Boston, Oct. 27, 1858, to Ellen Derby Peabody, who died in 1869, and second in Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 30, 1877, to Grace Mellen Hopkinson. Address: Cambridge, Mass.

ELIOT, Samuel Atkins:

President American Unitarian Association; born at Cambridge, Mass., Aug. 24, 1862; son of Charles W. and Ellen D.

(Peabody) Eliot. He received from Harvard, the degree of A.B. in 1884 and A.M. in 1889; from Bowdoin, S.T.D. in 1900. He was minister of Unity Church, Denver, Colo., 1889-1893; Church of the Savior, Brooklyn, N. Y., 1893-1898; secretary of the American Unitarian Association 1898-1900; president since 1900; also, since 1907 president of the International Unitarian Council. He married at Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 22, 1889, Frances S. Hopkinson. Residence: 25 Reservoir Street, Cambridge, Mass. Address: 25 Beacon Street, Boston, Mass.

ELIOT, Walter Graeme:

Civil engineer; born in New York City, Nov. 16, 1857; son of Augustus G. Eliot and a member of the family of which the Earl of St. Germans is head. He was graduated from the School of Mines of Columbia College with the degrees of M.E. and Ph.B. in 1878, and afterward received the degrees of Ph.D. from Columbia College and of LL.D. from St. Francis Xavier College. Engineer of the New York Board of Health; in 1892. He was engaged as sanitary engineer and inspector of tenements; assistant chemist and inspector of foods; and was engineer agent of the Tenth United States Census on Water Works of the United States cities in 1881. He was connected with various business corporations until May, 1891, when he took charge of the University Magazine as one of the proprietors and managing editor. He is vice-president of the Zeta Psi fraternity, and is president or director in many corporations and a contributor to many periodicals. Mr. Eliot is author of: Noted Physicians of New York; History of the Eliot family; College Presidents of the United States, and a History of the Stoutenburgh Family. He is a member of the Society of Colonial Wars; the Society of Municipal Engineers; and a member of the Seventh Regiment of the National Guard of New York, and of the rifle team of that regiment, which won in the years 1904, 1905 and 1906. He married, Feb. 2, 1892, Maude Stoutenburgh, and they have three children. Residences: Cedarhurst, L. I., and Hyde Park-on-Hudson, N. Y.

ELKIN, John P.:

Jurist; born in Indiana County, Pa. He was educated in the Indiana State Normal School, and the law department of the University of Michigan, LL.B., 1884, and was admitted to the bar of Indiana County, Pa., in 1885. Mr. Elkin's legal practice has been active and successful, though broken into by legislative duty for the State, he being elected a member of the House of Representatives in 1884, before his admission to the bar, and reelected in 1886. While in the House he was chairman of several committees and has served as chairman of the State Committee of his party, and delegate to several Republican State Conventions. He was appointed in 1895 deputy attorney general of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and in 1899 was appointed attorney-general of the State. He was a prominent candidate for Governor in 1902, but, though popular with the people, he was defeated in the State Convention. When Mr. Pennypacker became governor, Mr. Elkin retired from the office of attorney general and devoted himself actively to legal practice in Indiana County, in whose concerns he has taken an active interest, having been president of its school board for the past nine years, a trustee of the Indiana State Normal School, and active in the development of its coal fields. He is president of the Farmer's Bank of Indiana, one of the leading financial institutions of the county. In March, 1904, on the declination of Governor Pennypacker to be a candidate for the vacancy on the bench of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, Mr. Elkin was unanimously nominated for that judicial position and elected. Address: Indiana, Pa.

ELKIN, William Lewis:

Astronomer; born in New Orleans, April 29, 1855; son of Lewis and Jane (Fitch) Elkin. He was graduated from the Royal Polytechnic School of Stuttgart, Germany, C.F., 1876, and University of Strassburg, Ph.D., 1880. He was associated as a volunteer under Sir David Gill, in the Royal Observatory at the Cape of Good Hope, investigating the parallaxes of Southern Stars, and he received the honorary degree of M.A. from Yale University in 1893. Dr. Elkin became astronomer in the Yale Observatory, 1884-1896, and since then has been director of that institution. He has been a member of the National Academy of Sciences from 1895; is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science; member of the Astronomical and Astrophysical Society of America, the Connecticut Academy of Sciences; associate of the Royal Astronomical Society and of the Deutsche Astronomische Gesellschaft. Dr. Elkin has published in astronomical journals and in the Transaction of Yale Observatory the results of his researches, especially in connection with stellar parallaxes, star clusters and the photography of meteors. Address: Yale Observatory, New Haven, Conn.

ELKINS, Stephen Benton:

United States Senator; born in Perry County, Ohio, Sept. 26, 1841. He received his early education in the public schools of Missouri and was graduated from the University of that State, at Columbia, with the class of 1860. He was admitted to the bar in 1864 and in the same year went to New Mexico, where he acquired a knowledge of the Spanish language and began the practice of law. He was a member of the Territorial legislature Assembly of New Mexico in 1864 and 1865, and held the office of territorial district attorney, attorney-general and United States district attorney. He was elected to the Forty-third Congress and while abroad was nominated and elected to the Forty-fourth Congress. During his first term in Congress he was made a member of the Republican National Committee on which he served for three Presidential campaigns. After leaving Congress he moved to West Virginia and devoted himself to business affairs. He was appointed Secretary of War, Dec. 17, 1891, and served until the close of President Harrison's administration in February, 1894, when he was elected to the United States Senate to succeed Hon. Johnson N. Camden, and re-elected in 1901 by the unanimous vote of the Republican members of the Legislature. He was also re-elected, in January, 1907, to succeed himself. His term of service will expire in 1913. Address: Elkins, W. Va.

ELLERBE, James Edwin:

Congressman; born near Marion, S. C., Jan. 12, 1867; and has been a farmer all his life. His early education was received at Old Pine Hill Academy. In October, 1882, he entered the South Carolina College where he spent one year, and in October, 1884, he entered Wofford College, at Spartanburg, S. C., where he spent three years, and was graduated from there with the degree of A.B., in June, 1887. In 1894 he was elected to the State Legislature, and in 1895 represented in part, Marion County, in the State Constitutional Convention. He was elected to the Fifty-ninth Congress in 1904, from the Sixth South Carolina District, and re-elected in 1906 to the Sixtieth Congress without opposition, and was re-elected in 1908 to the Sixty-first Congress. He married, Nov., 23, 1887, Nellie Converse Elford, of Spartanburg, S. C., and they have had five children, three of whom are now living. Address: Marion, S. C.

ELLIOTT, Charles Burke:

Jurist; born near McConnellsville, in Morgan County, Ohio, Jan. 6, 1861; son of Edward and Angeline Elliott. After passing through the schools of Morgan County and the Academy of Marietta College, Ohio, he entered the law department of the University of Iowa, from which he was graduated LL.B. in 1881, and he afterward took post-graduate work at the University of Minnesota, receiving the degree of Ph.D. for special work in Roman and International Law in 1887. He practised law at Minneapolis until appointed in January, 1890, a judge of the Municipal Court of that city. He was appointed judge of the District Court for the Fourth District of Minnesota in 1893, and after eleven years of service there he was appointed and thereafter elected one of the associate justices of the Supreme Court of Minnesota, in which office he is still serving. Judge Elliott was professor of corporation and international law in the University of Minnesota, 1890-1897, and is now lecturer on International Law; received the honorary degree of LL.D. from the University of Iowa in 1895, and from Marietta College in 1904. He is a frequent contributor to legal and other periodicals of this country and Europe and wrote as his doctor's thesis in 1887, a discussion under the title: The United States and the North-eastern Fisheries, which was published by the University of Minnesota in 1887. Among his legal works are The Law of Public Corporations, 1898; Minnesota Practice, 1900; The Law of Private Corporations, 1900, and The Law of Insurance, 1902. He has also made many addresses on legal and other subjects which have been published. He married at Muscatine, Iowa, May 13, 1884, Edith Winslow, and has five children. Residence: 2634 Portland Avenue, Minneapolis. Official address: State Capitol, Saint Paul, Minn.

ELLIOTT, George Frank:

Major-general, commandant of the U. S. Marine Corps; born in Alabama, Nov. 30, 1846. He entered the U. S. Marine Corps from New York, Oct. 12, 1870; was promoted to first lieutenant May 30, 1870, and after that received other promotions until he became commandant of the U. S. Marine Corps with the rank of brigadier-general, Oct. 3, 1903, and was advanced in rank to major-general, commandant, May 13, 1908. He made an active cruise of nearly three years while commanding the marine guard of the U. S. S. Alliance; commanded U. S. Marines in protection of the American Legation at Seoul, Korea, 1894; served in China in protection of American interests during the Japanese-Chinese War; commanded Company C, First Battalion of Marines, organized for service in Cuba during the Spanish-American War, April 22 to Sept. 22, 1898, and was advanced three numbers in his grade for eminent and conspicuous conduct in the battle of Guantanamo, June 11, 1898. He was in the Philippines, 1899-1900, commanded marines in the engagement at Novalleta, P. I., Oct. 8, 1899; also commanded the expeditionary brigade of marines on the Isthmus of Panama, Dec., 1903, to March, 1904. Address: Headquarters U. S. Marine Corps, Washington, D. C.

ELLIOTT, John Stuart:

Commissioner of the Interior of Porto Rico; born in Savannah, Ga., March 20, 1859; son of Stuart and Lucy Irland (Sorrel) Elliott. After attending schools in the United States and for five years in Europe he entered the University of Pennsylvania in 1875, and was graduated B.S., 1879 and C.E., 1886, being awarded the Senior Engineering prize. He was instructor in civil engineering in the University of Pennsylvania, 1884-1885, and afterward practised as civil and mining engineer in the Northwest, in Cincinnati, in Mexico and Jamaica and in New York City, and in 1905 he was appointed commissioner of the Interior for Porto Rico. He is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, the American Institute of Mining Engineers, the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity and the Racquet and Tennis Club of New York City. He has written various papers and translations from the German on engineering subjects. He married in New York City, Sept. 4, 1890, Helena Forsyth Ellis, now deceased. Address: San Juan, Porto Rico.

ELLIS, Wade H.:

Lawyer; born at Covington, Ky.; son of A. C. and Kate (Blackburn) Ellis. Educated at High School and Chickering Institute, Cincinnati, and Washington & Lee University, Virginia. Graduated at university 1889 with degree of LL.B., having won law scholarship and honors of his class. Received honorary degree of LL.D., from Miami University (Ohio) in 1904. Admitted to the bar in 1889. Practised in Cincinnati. Was managing editor of Cincinnati Tribune and later of Commercial Tribune in 1896. Served as first assistant corporation counsel of Cincinnati, 1897-1903. Was elected Attorney General of Ohio in 1903, and reelected in 1905, serving until his appointment in 1908 as Assistant to the Attorney General of the United States.

Drafted the municipal code for the government of Ohio cities, which was passed by the legislature in 1902, and is the author of Ellis' Ohio Municipal Code, Annotated. Wrote the National Republican Platform, which was adopted by the convention at Chicago in June, 1908, and served as a member of the committee on resolutions of that body. Lectured on the law of private corporations at the Ohio State University for several years and is the author of numerous addresses and essays on legal and economic subjects. Was married in Covington, Ky., in 1894, to Dessie Corwin Chase. Residence: Cincinnati, Ohio. Address: Department of Justice, Washington, D. C.

ELLIS, William R.:

Jurist; born at Waveland, Montgomery County, Ind., April 23, 1850; son of James and Susan (Stone) Ellis. When he was five years old his parents removed to Guthrie County, Iowa, where he attended the district school and worked on the home farm. After reaching the age of eighteen divided his time between farm work and teaching school winters and later attending the Iowa State Agricultural College at Ames, and afterward the law department of the Iowa State University at Iowa City, from which he was graduated with the degree of LL.B. in 1874. After his graduation he practised law at Hamburg, Iowa, until 1883, and he was for two terms city attorney and one term mayor of that city. He removed to Oregon in 1883, resided at Heppner until 1901 and has since been a citizen of Pendleton, Ore., where he engaged in practice of law, and where he also became prominent in politics as a leading Republican. He was superintendent of schools of Morrow County, and three terms district attorney of the Seventh Judicial District of Oregon. In 1892 he was elected to the 53rd Congress. In 1894 he was elected to the 54th Congress from the Second Oregon District, and he was elected to the 55th Congress in 1896. In 1900 he was elected as judge of the Sixth Judicial District of Oregon, served six years. Was elected in 1906 to 60th Congress and reelected to 61st Congress in 1908.

Judge Ellis has twice married, first at Hamburg, Iowa, March 31, 1880, Jennie B. Edwards, who died Jan. 24, 1882, and second, at Walla Walla, Wash., June 16, 1885, Mrs. Ida J. Stott. Address: Pendleton, Ore.

ELLWOOD, Isaac Leonard:

Manufacturer and Capitalist; born at Salt Springville, Otsego County, N. Y., Aug. 3, 1833; son of Abram and Sarah (DeLong) Ellwood. He went to Illinois and became interested in various business enterprises, and in the early seventies he became an associate of J. F. Glidden in the then new business of manufacturing and selling of barbed wire as a fencing material for the western prairies. Mr. Glidden sold his interest to the Washburn and Moen Manufacturing Company, and the business developed rapidly and later became known as I. L. Ellwood & Co., of which Mr. Ellwood became managing partner and afterward sole owner. He built large manufacturing establishments at De Kalb, Ill., which he conducted under the names of the I. L. Ellwood Manufacturing Company, and the Ellwood Wire and Nail Company, both of which he sold to the American Steel and Wire Company upon its organization in 1898, and he took a responsible position in the management of that corporation, which afterward became one of the subsidiary companies of the United States Steel Corporation. Mr. Ellwood has taken a deep interest in the development which has advanced De Kalb, Ill., from a sleepy country village to a thriving manufacturing city, and his enterprise has been a leading factor in this advance. It was also through his efforts, chiefly, that the Northern Illinois State Normal School was established at De Kalb. Mr. Ellwood married, Jan. 27, 1859, Harriet Miller. Address: De Kalb, Ill.

ELLYSON, J. Taylor:

Merchant; born in Richmond, Va., May 20, 1847; son of Henry K. and Elizabeth P. Ellyson. He attended public schools and Richmond College, but suspended his college work to join the Second Company of Richmond Howitzers, with which he served in Lee's Army until the surrender at Appomattox in 1865, following which he entered the University of Virginia, from which he was graduated A.B., 1869. Since then he has been engaged in business in Richmond, which city he has served as president of the city Council, president of the Board of Public Interests, chairman of the City School Board sixteen years, and for three terms mayor of Richmond. He served in the Virginia State Senate, 1885-1888. Since 1891 Mr. Ellyson has been chairman of the Democratic State Committee of Virginia, and the Virginia member of the Democratic National Committee, and has attended nearly all the Virginia State and National conventions of the Democratic Party. He is a prominent Baptist; for thirty-five years an executive member of the Educational Board of the Baptist General Association; and he has been president of the Virginia State Baptist Association, vice-president of the Southern Baptist Convention and a member of its Orphanage and Education Boards; and is vice-president of the Board of Trustees of Richmond College. Mr. Ellyson is a member of the Robert E. Lee and George E. Pickett Camps of United Confederate Veterans; president of the Richmond Howitzer Association; former president of the Jefferson Davis Monument Association; and is a member of the Confederate Memorial and Literary Society, the Society for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities, and the Westmoreland and Commonwealth Clubs of Virginia. He married in Howardsville, Va., in 1869, Lora E. Hotchkiss. Address: Richmond, Va.

ELMER, Herbert Charles:

Educator; born at Rushford, N. Y., March 30, 1860; son of Charles Jefferson and Lucy Jane (Ashley) Elmer. He was graduated from Cornell University, A.B., 1883; he received the degrees of Ph.D. from Johns Hopkins, 1888; was holder of the State scholarship to Cornell University, 1879-1883. He was tutor in Latin in Johns Hopkins University, 1888; assistant professor of Latin, Cornell University, 1888-1909; full professor of Latin since 1909; studied in the universities of Bonn and Leipzig, Germany, 1885-1886; traveled in Europe, 1895-1896. He is a member of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity, Phi Beta Kappa Society and of the American Philological Association. He is author of: The Copulative Conjunctions, Que, Et and Atque, in the Inscriptions in Terrence and Cato; The Latin Prohibitive; Studies in Latin Moods and Tenses; and numerous articles in the American Journal of Philology, Translations and Proceedings of the American Philological Association, the Classical Review, the Latin Leaflet, etc. He is editor of editions of the Captivi of Plautus and the Phormio of Terence. He married, first at Baltimore, Md., in 1886, Rose Elmore; and second, at East Aurora, N. Y., in 1891, Bertha E. Beebe. Address: 113 Oak Street, Ithaca, N. Y.

ELROD, Samuel H.:

Lawyer and ex-governor; born near Coatesville, Ind., May 1, 1856; son of Jesse F. and Lydia (Pursel) Elrod. He was graduated from De Pauw University, A.B., 1882, later receiving the A.M. degree. While at college he also studied law, so that at his graduation he was ready to take his bar examinations. In that year he removed to Clark, S. Dak., where he was admitted to the bar and established himself in the practice of law. Before the admittance of South Dakota to Statehood, he served one year as probate judge, and served a term as attorney-general of the State. He has always been prominent in the Republican party, and in 1904 he was elected governor of South Dakota for a term of two years. He holds a considerable interest in various public utilities, and is vice-president of the Water, Light and Power Company at Clark, and member of the Board of Directors of the Clark County National Bank. He married at Coatesville, Ind., Nov. 11, 1881, Mary Ellen Masten. Address: Clark, S. Dak.

ELSON, Louis Charles:

Lecturer, author, critic, teacher; born in Boston, April 17, 1848; son of Julius and Rosalie (Schnell) Elson. He received his general education in the Boston Schools, and received his earliest instruction in music from his mother, who was a musical amateur of much ability, his later studies being under distinguished American and European teachers, including August Hamann of Boston, and August Kreissmann, vocal and Carl Gloggmer-Castelli, composition, of Leipzig. He has been at the head of the Department of Musical Theory in the New England Conservatory of Music of Boston since 1882. He has lectured before many of the Universities and colleges, delivered a series of eighteen lectures before the Lowell Institute, and others before clubs, musical societies, academies, churches, in lyceum and chautauqua courses, and other places. He was editorially connected with Vox Humana, a Boston journal devoted to organ music, later becoming editor of the Musical Herald, correspondent and editorial writer of Musical and Drama, Musical Courier, and other musical papers, and occasional correspondent from Europe to the Boston Transcript, New York Tribune, New York Evening Post and other newspapers; became musical editor of The Boston, 1880, and musical editor of the Boston Advertiser in 1888. He is author of: Curiosities of Music; History of German Song; The Theory of Music; The Realm of Music; The National Music of America and Its Sources; European Reminiscences; Great Composers; Famous Composers and Their Works; Shakespeare in Music; History of American Music; Elson's Dictionary of Music, also Elson's Pocket Dictionary of Music. He also wrote the Essay on Music (a condensed history) in the Encyclopædia Americana. Mr. Elson was elected president of the National Music Teachers' Association in 1904, but was unable to accept because of other duties. He has founded a public musical lectureship in connection with the municipal concerts given by the City of Boston, delivering from 35 to 40 lectures to the masses each season. This kind of instruction in musical auditorship being the first in America or in the world. He married in Boston, Jan. 29, 1872, Bertha Lissner, and they have a son. Residence: 811 Beacon Street. Office: New England Conservatory, Boston.

ELVERSON, James:

Proprietor of the Philadelphia Inquirer since 1879; born in England in 1838; moved with his parents to Newark, N. J., in 1847, and received a common school education. He became a telegraph operator, and had charge of Willard Hotel office during the Civil War. In 1865 he was one of the founders of the Philadelphia Saturday Night, and since 1879 its sole proprietor. He established, in 1880, Golden Days, a weekly publication. He is a member of the Arts, Country, and Union League Clubs of Philadelphia, the Metropolitan Club of Washington, D. C. Mr. Elverson married Sallie Du Val. Residence: 2024 Walnut Street. Office: The Inquirer, Philadelphia.

ELWELL, Frank Edwin:

Sculptor and writer; born at Concord, Mass., June 15, 1858; son of John Wesley and Clara (Farrar) Elwell. He studied Sculpture at the École des Beaux Arts, Paris, Ghent, Belgium, and finally under Jean Alexandre Falquière, a member of the Institute of France. He received the highest reward at the Chicago Exposition in 1893; two gold medals from the Art Club of Philadelphia; silver medal from Leopold II of Belgium; at Royal Art School of Ghent, Belgium. He was in Europe for seven years and visited Mexico, Egypt and South America. He is the first American sculptor to model a statue in America that was erected in Europe. Among his better known works are the monument at Edam, Holland, The Death of Strength; bust of the Lord Provost of Aberdeen, at Aberdeen, Scotland; statue of the Awakening of Egypt, in Paris; equestrian statue of General Hancock at Gettysburg; monument to Edwin Booth at Mount Auburn, Cambridge; the two fountains of Kronos and Ceres at the Pan-American Exposition, Buffalo; Dickens and Little Nell at Fairmount Park, Philadelphia; the statue of New Life, Lowell, Mass.; Greece and Rome, New York Custom House; the Dispatch Rider at Orange, N. J.; and the busts of Hon. Levi P. Morton and Garret A. Hobart in the Senate Chamber at Washington, D. C., the heroic busts of Dante and Shakespeare for the Seranton Memorial Library, Madison, Conn., "The Flag" 7th Rhode Island State Monument at Vicksburg, Miss., "Lincoln" for East Orange, N. J., Heroic statue in bronze, and has made the busts of Hon. S. B. Chittenden, Yale University; Elihu Yale for the Yale Club; bust of Miss L. M. Alcott, Concord Library, Mass.; Hon. Frank B. Sanborn, Topeka, Kan., and Colonel Van Horn for the Journal Office, Kansas City, Mo. He is a veteran member of the Concord Artillery Company, having served two enlistments, and an executive member of the Old Colony Club. He is an honorary member of the Art Club of Cincinnati, Son of the American Revolution, Orange Chapter, Orange, N. J., Curator of Ancient and Modern Sculpture until the death of General L. P. di Cesnola, director, at Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York City. Address: 14 Hudson Place, Weehawken, N. J.

ELY, Robert Erskine:

Lecturer on economics; born in Binghamton, N. Y., Sept. 13, 1861; son of Richard and Sarah (Roseboom) Ely. He was graduated from Amherst College, A.B., 1885, and the Union Theological Seminary, New York, B.D., 1888. He was president of Prospect Union (Cambridge, Mass.), 1891-1901, and since then has been director of the League for Political Education, in New York City. He is the Executive Director of the Civic Forum, secretary of the Economic Club of New York, and secretary of the Academy of Political Science. Mr. Ely is a member of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, American Economic Association, the American Social Science Association, the City Club of New York and the Twentieth Century Club of Boston. He is one of the best known organizers of and lecturers and writers on economics and sociological movements in the United States. Mr. Ely married in Binghamton, N. Y., June 7, 1905, Rudolphine Schaffer, of Amsterdam, Holland. Residence: 353 West 57th Street. Office: 23 West 44th Street, New York City.

ELY, Richard Theodore:

Economist and educator; born in Ripley, N. Y., April 13, 1854; son of Ezra Sterling and Harriet G. Ely. He was graduated from Columbia College, A.B., 1876, A.M., 1879, and was fellow in letters there, 1876-1879; graduate student in the Universities of Halle, Heidelberg (Ph.D., 1879), Geneva, and in the Royal Statistical Bureau at Berlin; and he received the degree of LL.D. from Hobart College, 1892. Dr. Ely was head of the department of political economy in Johns Hopkins University, 1885-1892, and since then has been professor of economics of the University of Wisconsin. He was secretary of the American Economic Association from its inception in 1885 to 1892, and its president, 1899-1901; was first president of the American Association for Labor Legislation, 1900-1907, founder in 1904, and ever since director of the American Bureau of Industrial Research. He is author of: French and German Socialism, 1883; The Labor Movement in America, 1886; Taxation in American States and Cities, 1888; Political Economy, 1889; Outlines of Economics, 1893; Socialism and Social Reform, 1894; The Coming City, 1902; Studies in the Evolution of Industrial Society, 1903; and he is editor of Macmillan's Citizen's Library of Economics, Politics and Sociology. Professor Ely married in Richmond, Va., June 25, 1884, Anna Morris Anderson. Address: Madison, Wis.

ELY, Smith:

Ex-mayor of New York City; born in Hanover, N. J., April 17, 1825; studied law at the University of New York, but never practised the profession, engaging in mercantile pursuits. He served as school trustee, 1856-1860; State senator, 1857; county supervisor, 1860-1868; member of Congress, 1871-1876; mayor of New York City, Jan. 1, 1877, to Dec. 31, 1878; Democratic Presidential elector, 1880; Central Park Commissioner, 1897-1898. He is a member of the Sons of the Revolution, Society of the War of 1812, Society of Colonial Wars; and of the Century, Manhattan, and Merchants' Clubs of New York City. Residence: 47 West 57th Street. Address: 103 Gold Street, New York City.

ELY, Theodore Newell:

Chief of motive power, Pennsylvania System; born at Watertown, N. Y., June 23, 1846; son of Adriel and Evelina (Foster) Ely. He was graduated from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N. Y., as C.E. in 1866, and he received the honorary degree of M.A. from Yale in 1897, and Sc.D. from Hamilton College in 1904. Immediately after his graduation he was engaged as engineer at the Fort Pitt Foundry in Pittsburg, experimenting under General Rodman with projectiles. Since 1868 he has been engaged in railway service, beginning in the engineering department of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway at Pittsburg, and soon after was appointed assistant engineer of the Philadelphia and Erie Railroad Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad; division superintendent, 1869-1870; assistant general superintendent, Philadelphia and Erie Division, 1870-1873; superintendent of motive power, same division, 1873-1874; superintendent of motive power, Pennsylvania Railroad Division, 1874-1882; general superintendent of motive power of Pennsylvania Lines east of Pittsburg and Erie, 1882-1893; and since March, 1893, chief of motive power of the entire Pennsylvania System east and west of Pittsburg. Mr. Ely is president of the Eastern Railroad Association; and a member of the permanent Commission of the International Railway Congress. He is a member of the Board of Directors of the Pennsylvania Steel Company, and the Cambria Steel Company; and trustee of Drexel Institute and of the Philadelphia Commercial Museum. He is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, the Institution of Civil Engineers of Great Britain, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, American Institute of Mining Engineers, the American Philosophical Society, and the Franklin Institute; fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science; is vice-president of the American Academy in Rome, and an honorary member of the American Institute of Architects. He is also a member of Sons of the Revolution, the Philadelphia and Merion Cricket Clubs of Philadelphia, Century, University and Engineers' Clubs of New York, and the Metropolitan Club of Washington. Residence: Bryn Mawr, Pa. Office: Broad Street Station, Philadelphia.

EMANUEL, John Henderson, Jr.:

Banker; born in Brooklyn, May 8, 1870; son of John Henderson and Margaret Waters (Sayre) Emanuel. He is a member of the firm of Emanuel, Parker & Company, bankers. Mr. Emanuel is a trustee of the Long Island Loan and Trust Company. He is a member of the New York Zoölogical Society, the American Museum of Natural History, the New York Botanical Society, and the Metropolitan Museum of Art; and also a member of the Union League, Crescent Athletic, Long Island Automobile, Railroad Club, Englewood Golf Club, Marine and Field Club, and of the Automobile Club of America. Mr. Emanuel married Nov. 1, 1898, Jennett Idele Englis, and has two children. Address: 304 Clinton Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

EMERSON, Edward Randolph:

Merchant, author, banker and wine grower; born in New York City, Oct. 22, 1856; son of Jesse Milton Emerson and Sophia Thankful (Pierson) Emerson. He was educated in the public schools and with a private tutor. He has traveled extensively in the United States, Europe, and the Holy Land. Mr. Emerson is president of the Brotherhood Wine Company; president of First National Bank, Washingtonville, Orange County, N. Y. He is a Congregationalist in his religious affiliations. Mr. Emerson is a member of the St. Andrew's Society, and a Royal Arch Mason; a member of the Albany Burgesses Corps. He is author of: Story of the Vine, 1901; A Lay Thesis on Bible Wines, 1902; Beverages Past and Present (Putnam), 1908; and is a contributor to magazines. Mr. Emerson is also a member of the Ark-wright and Orange Lake Clubs, and an honorary member of the New York Press Club. He married at Titusville, Pa., June 24, 1874, Idanthea De Lacey, and they have one child, Mrs. Jessie Emerson Mofatt. Residence: 335 West 29th Street, New York City. Country residence: Washingtonville, Orange County, N. Y. Office address: 332 Spring Street, New York City.

EMERSON, Edward Waldo:

Physician, writer and instructor in art anatomy; born in Concord, Mass., July, 1844; son of Ralph Waldo Emerson, the distinguished poet and philosopher, and Lidian (Jackson) Emerson. He was graduated from Harvard in 1866 and from the Harvard Medical School in 1874. Dr. Emerson was instructor of art anatomy at the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston from 1885 to 1906. He is author of: Emerson in Concord, 1888; edited the correspondence of John Sterling and Ralph Waldo Emerson, with a sketch of Sterling's life, 1897; and is also editor of the Centenary Edition of the Works of Ralph Waldo Emerson, 1903, and of the Life and Letters of General Charles Russell Lowell, 1907; and has made numerous contributions to magazines. Address: Concord, Mass.

EMERTON, Ephraim:

Historian; born in Salem, Mass., Feb. 18, 1851; son of James and Martha (West) Emerton. He was graduated from Harvard College, A.B., 1871, and from the University of Leipzig, Ph.D., 1876. He became a tutor in history at Harvard in 1876, and since 1882 has been Winn professor of ecclesiastical history at Harvard. He is author of: Synopsis of the History of Continental Europe; The Study of Church History; The Practical Method in Higher Historical Education; An Introduction to the Study of the Middle Ages, 1888, and Mediaeval Europe, 1894, the two last named being widely accepted as standard authority on the middle ages, both in England and America. He also wrote Desiderius Erasmus in the "Heroes of the Reformation" Series, 1899. Dr. Emerton married in Cambridge, Mass., April 18, 1877, Sibyl M. Clark. Address: Cambridge, Mass.

EMERY, Lucilius Alonzo:

Jurist; born at Carmel, Penobscot County, Me., July 27, 1840; son of James Seamon and Eliza Wing Emery. He was educated in Hampden Academy and Bowdoin College, A.B., 1861, A.M., 1864, LL.D., 1894. He studied law and engaged in practice at Ellsworth, Me., in partnership with United States Senator Hale. He became active in political affairs as a Republican, and was elected to the State Senate in 1874, 1875 and 1881, and was attorney-general of Maine, 1876-1879. In 1883 he was appointed one of the associate justices of the Supreme Judicial Court of Maine, and in 1906 was appointed chief justice, in which office he is still serving. Chief Justice Emery is lecturer on Roman law in the University of Maine, and professor of medical jurisprudence in the Medical School of Maine, and he is a member of the Board of Trustees of Bowdoin College. He married, at Hampden, Me., Nov. 9, 1864, Annie S. Crosby, and they have two children. Address: Ellsworth, Me.

EMERY, Z. Taylor:

Physician and surgeon; born in Novi, Oakland County, Mich., Feb. 22, 1847; son of John Cutter and Mary (Yerkes) Emery. He was educated in the Ann Arbor (Mich.) High School, took a special course in the Literary Department and one year in the Medical Department of the University of Michigan, was graduated from the Detroit Medical College, M.D., March 5, 1874, and Long Island College of Medicine, M.D., June 21, 1874. Dr. Emery practised medicine in Brooklyn, 1874-1904; since 1895 medical director of the Manhattan Life Insurance Company, of which he is also a director. He was attending physician and surgeon of the Central Dispensary for nine years; attending physician of the Graham Institute for twelve years, Brooklyn Orphan Asylum for thirteen years, King's County Hospital, eleven years. He has been a member since 1874 of the Medical Society for the County of Kings, and has been secretary, vice-president, president and trustee of that society; regent of the Long Island College Hospital for the past twenty years; and he is a member of the American Medical Association. Dr. Emery was commissioner of health of the City of Brooklyn from 1894 to 1897 inclusive. He is a member of the Union League Club of Brooklyn. He married in Scotland, Jan. 17, 1889. Residence: Union League Club, Brooklyn. Office: 66 Broadway, New York City.

EMMONS, Samuel Franklin:

Geologist of the U. S. Geological Survey since 1879; born in Boston, Mass., March 29, 1841; son of Nathaniel H. and Elizabeth (Wales) Emmons. He was graduated from Harvard, A.B., 1861, A.M., 1866; studied at the École Impériale des Mines, Paris, 1862-1864, and at the Bergacademie at Freiberg, Saxony, 1865-1867; honorary D.Sc., Columbia and Harvard, 1909. He has been geologist in the government employ since 1867, and has been a leader in the application of geology to the development of the mineral resources of the United States. Mr. Emmons is a member and treasurer of the National Academy of Sciences and was president of the Geological Society of America in 1903. He was general secretary, 1891, and vice-president in 1897 and 1903 of the International Congress of Geologists; is a member of the American Philosophic Society; fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, and Geological Society of London. He is author of: Descriptive Geology of the Fortieth Parallel Region (with Arnold Hague), 1877; Statistics and Technology of the Precious Metals (with George F. Becker), 1880; The Geology and Mining Industry of Leadville, Colo., 1886; Geological Guide Book of the Rocky Mountains; Geological Distribution of the Useful Metals in the United States, 1893; Geology of Lower California, 1890; Geology of the Denver Basin in Colorado, 1896; Secondary Enrichment of Ore Deposits, 1900; Theories of Ore Deposition Historically Considered; Biography of Clarence King; and others. Mr. Emmons married first, Aug. 5, 1876, Weltha Anita Steeves; second, Feb. 14, 1889, Sophie Dallas Markoe, who died June 19, 1896; and third, Aug. 4, 1903, Suzanne Earle Ogden Jones. Address: 1721 H Street, Washington, D. C.

EMORY, William Hemsley:

Rear-admiral U. S. Navy, retired; born in Washington, D. C., Dec. 17, 1846; son of Major-General W. H. Emory, U. S. A., commanding the 19th Army Corps during the Civil War. He was appointed to the U. S. Naval Academy, Sept. 2, 1862, and was graduated in 1866. He was promoted ensign in April, 1868; master, March 26, 1869; lieutenant, March 21, 1870; lieutenant-commander, May, 1887; commander, Dec., 1895; captain, April 14, 1901; rear-admiral, Nov. 2, 1906. He has served on numerous duties and at various stations. As a lieutenant he commanded the U. S. S. Palos on the Asiatic Station in 1873, and the U. S. S. Bear of the Greeley Relief Expedition of 1884, the U. S. S. Despatch, 1885-1886, and the U. S. S. Thetis, on duty with the Bering Sea Whaling Fleet, 1887-1888. He was naval attaché to the U. S. Embassy in London, 1890-1893; commanded the U. S. S. Petrel, 1894-1897 on the Asiatic Station and at New Chang, Manchuria, during the Chino-Japanese War; commanded the Yosemite during the Spanish-American War; as captain commanded the training-ship Monongahela, 1900, and the battleship Indiana from Aug., 1901, to Jan., 1904. As rear-admiral he commanded the Second Division of the U. S. Atlantic Fleet as far as San Francisco, and the Second Squadron of the same fleet until after the ceremonies attending the visit of the Second Squadron to Amoy, China, when he proceeded home by mail steamer to his retirement from active service. He married Oct. 5, 1876, Blanche, daughter of Richard Storrs Willis. Addresses: Roslyn, L. I., N. Y., and 1301 Connecticut Avenue, Washington, D. C.

ENDICOTT, Mordecai Thomas:

Civil engineer, with the rank of rear-admiral; born at May's Landing, N. J.,

Nov. 26, 1844; son of Thomas Doughty and Ann (Pennington) Endicott. He was graduated from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, C.E., 1868, and was appointed civil engineer in the Navy July 14, 1874, and after serving at various stations, and as consulting engineer to the Bureau of Yards and Docks, he became in 1898 chief of the Bureau of the Yards and Docks in the Navy Department, and was reappointed in 1902, for another term of four years, and again in 1906 for a third term, serving until a time after the date of his retirement, Nov. 26, 1906. In 1895 he was appointed by President Cleveland a member of the Nicaragua Canal Commission, and in 1905 was appointed by President Roosevelt a member of the Isthmian Canal Commission. Admiral Endicott reflected great credit on his corps while serving as chief of bureau, and as a member of the Isthmian Canal Commission. One of his brothers is a judge of the Circuit Court of New Jersey, and another is a physician and surgeon of prominence. Admiral Endicott is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, of the Engineers' Club of New York, and the Army and Navy and Cosmos Clubs of Washington. He married in 1872, Elizabeth Adams. Address: 1330 R Street, Washington, D. C.

ENGLEBRIGHT, William F.:

Mining engineer and congressman; born in New Bedford Mass., Nov. 23, 1855. He removed to Vallejo, Calif., in childhood and was educated in public schools, then entered the service of the United States at the Mare Island Navy Yard as a house-joiner's apprentice, 1872-1875. He afterwards entered a civil engineer's office and there completed his studies in engineering, and later established himself in practice as a mining engineer at Nevada City, Calif. He was superintendent of the South Yuba Water Company, and is vice-president of the Orestonoh Gold Mining Company. He has been prominent in all matters relating to mining legislation and litigation, and is a generally recognized authority upon mining and irrigation problems. He was elected, as a Republican, in the November election of 1906 to fill the unexpired term in the Fifty-ninth Congress of James N. Gillett, resigned, and at the same time to the full term in the Sixtieth Congress, and was reelected in 1908 to the Sixty-first Congress from the First California District. Mr. Englebright is a member of the executive committee of the California State Miners' Association. He married in Nevada City, Calif., in 1882, Kittie F. Holland, and they have three sons. Address: Nevada City, Calif.

ENGLER, Edmund Arthur:

President of Worcester Polytechnic Institute; born in St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 23, 1856. He was graduated from Washington University, St. Louis, A.B., 1876, Ph.B., 1877, A.M., 1879, Ph.D., 1892, LL.D., 1901. He was professor of mathematics, 1881-1901, and dean of the School of Engineering, 1896-1901, in Washington University, and since 1901 president of Worcester Polytechnic Institute. He was a member of the Eclipse Party sent by Washington University to Norman, Calif., Jan. 1, 1889; chairman of jury in the Department of Manufactures of the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo, N. Y., 1901; and chairman of the International Jury on Instruments of Precision of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition at St. Louis, 1904. He married in St. Louis, June 17, 1886, Catherine A. Ashbrook. Residence: 11 Boynton Street, Worcester, Mass.

ENGLISH, William Eastin:

Capitalist, ex-soldier and ex-congressman; born at "Englishton Park," in Scott County, Ind., Nov. 3, 1850; son of Hon. William H. and Emma Mardulia (Jackson) English. He was educated in Northwestern Christian University, now known as Butler University, and was graduated from the Law Department of the University as LL.B., and engaged in the practice of law in Indianapolis until 1880. His father was one of the most prominent members of the Democratic party, and was the nominee of that party for vice-president on the ticket with General Winfield S. Hancock, in 1880. Mr. English also became active in politics as a member of the same party, becoming a member of the State, county and city committees of the Democratic party in Indiana and chairman in 1878 of the Indianapolis City Democratic Committee and the Marion County Democratic Committee. He was a member of the Indiana Legislature from Marion County, 1879-1880, and was elected to the Forty-eighth Congress in 1882, declining a renomination in 1884. He was a delegate to the Democratic National Conventions at Chicago in 1892-1896, but left the party after its adoption of the radical platform of the latter year and has since been a Republican in politics. He was president of the Board of Park Commissioners of Indianapolis in 1898-1899, and of the Board of Police and Fire Commissioners of Indianapolis, in 1901-1902. During the war with Spain he was commissioned a captain of U. S. Volunteers, served as aide-de-camp on the staff of General Joseph Wheeler during the campaign in Cuba, and was seriously injured as a result of his horse being wounded and falling upon him in the battle before Santiago, July 1, 1898. He was afterward appointed inspector-general and aide-de-camp with the rank of colonel on the staffs of Governors Mount, Durbin and Hanly. Captain English is owner of the English Block, the Hotel English, the English Opera House and other valuable property interests in Indianapolis. He has been an extensive traveler in foreign countries, and some years ago published his experiences under the title: Letters from Europe. He is a prominent Mason of the thirty-second degree, a Knight Templar, and a member of the Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, has been grand master of Masons of Indiana, and is author of a History of Masonry. He is also past grand exalted ruler of the Order of Elks of the United States. He has served as commander-in-chief of the National Association of United Spanish War Veterans, and as president of the Indiana Society of Sons of the American Revolution, and the Indiana Society of Colonial Wars, and as vice-president of the Northwest Genealogical Society and the Indiana Historical Society. He is a member of the Order of the Cincinnati, Order of Foreign Wars, Huguenot Society of New York, Holland Society of Chicago, Lambs' Club, New York. Army and Navy Club, Washington, D. C., University, Columbia and Country Clubs, Indianapolis, and was formerly president of the Commercial Club of Indianapolis. Captain English married in Indianapolis, Jan. 5, 1898, Helen Orr, and they have a daughter. City residence: Hotel English, Indianapolis. Country residence: "Englishton Park," Scott County, Ind. Office: 102 Monument Place, Indianapolis, Ind.

ENNIS, William:

Brigadier-general U. S. Army, retired; born in Newport, R. I., Dec. 26, 1841; son of William and Eliza A. (Whitehorne) Ennis. He was educated in public and private schools, the United States Military Academy, being graduated thence in 1864, and from the Artillery School at Fort Monroe, Va., 1876. He was commissioned second lieutenant 4th Artillery, June 13, 1864; promoted first lieutenant May 8, 1866; captain, Oct. 5, 1877; major 6th Artillery, Aug. 1, 1901; assistant adjutant-general, July 30, 1902; colonel Artillery Corps, April 17, 1903, and retired at his own request after over forty years' service Nov. 7, 1905. He served in the Civil War and was brevetted first lieutenant, Nov. 30, 1864, for gallant services in the battle of Franklin, Tenn., and captain, March 13, 1865, for gallant services at Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 15-16, 1864. He was aide-de-camp to General Schofield, 1866-1875, and thereafter filled various duties as an officer of artillery, and was commissioned July 18, 1898, and served until his honorable discharge, Dec. 31, 1898, as lieutenant-colonel of volunteers and chief ordnance officer. He is a member of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States; subscriber to the Newport Reading Room, member of the West Point Mess and the Fort Monroe Club. Address: Newport, R. I.

ERLANGER, Abraham L.:

Dramatic manager; born in Buffalo, N. Y., May 4, 1860. He was educated in Cleveland, Ohio. He is a member of the firms of Hayman, Klaw & Erlanger; and Hayman, Frohman, Klaw & Erlanger; president of the American Checkogram Company, the Klaw & Erlanger Company, the Klaw & Erlanger New Orleans Theatres Company, the New York Theatre Company, the Auditorium Theatre Company, Chicago; the Klaw and Erlanger Construction Company, the United States Amusement Company; treasurer of the Hayman and Davis Company, of the Mount Carmel Cemetery Association, of the Throggs Neck Realty Company; secretary of the Nixon and Zimmerman Amusement Company; a director in the Commercial Trust Company, and in the Interstate Amusement Company; he is a member of the Lambs', Green Room and Democratic Clubs. Residence: 232 West End Avenue. Address: New Amsterdam Theatre Building, New York City.

ERLANGER, Joseph:

Professor of physiology, University of Wisconsin; born in San Francisco, Jan. 5, 1874; son of Hermann and Sarah (Gallinger) Erlanger. He was graduated from the University of California, B.S., 1895, and from Johns Hopkins Medical School, M.D., 1899; was a fellow at Johns Hopkins in 1900; resident medical officer at Johns Hopkins Hospital, 1899-1900; assistant in physiology Johns Hopkins University, 1900-1901. He went to the University of Wisconsin as instructor, 1901-1903, associate, 1903-1904; associate professor, 1904-1906, and professor of physiology in the University of Wisconsin since 1906. He is a member of the Physiological Society and of the Society for Experimental Biology and Medicine. His chief researches have been on Metabolism in dogs with shortened small intestines, on clinical methods of determining blood pressure, and on heart-block. His principal writings are on the Influence of Pulse Pressure on Renal Secretion; Mechanism of the Circulation; he has also written articles on the rhythmicity of auricles. He married at San Francisco, June 21, 1906, Aimee Hirstel. Residence: 148 West Gorham Street. Office: University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis.

ERLANGER, Mitchell L.:

Jurist; born in Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 15, 1857; son of Leopold and Reginald Erlanger. He was educated in public schools, and Columbia College Law School, LL.B., 1882; was admitted to the New York bar, 1882, and engaged in practice. He was elected sheriff of New York County, serving 1904-1906, and elected, 1906, a judge of the Supreme Court of New York for the First District, for the term expiring Dec. 31, 1920. Judge Erlanger is a director of the Hebrew Infant Asylum, Hebrew Immigrant Aid Society, Montefiore Home; member of the United Hebrew Charities, Mount Sinai Hospital, Jewish Publication Society. He is a thirty-second degree Mason, and a member of the National Democratic, Harmonie, Green Room, and Brooklyn Yacht Clubs. Residence: The Armonde, Broadway and Seventieth Street, New York City.

ERNST, Harold Clarence:

Bacteriologist; born in Cincinnati, Ohio, July 31, 1856; son of Andrew H. and Sarah (Otis) Ernst. He was graduated from Harvard, A.B., 1878, M.D., 1880, A.M., 1884. He became demonstrator, 1885, instructor, 1889; assistant professor, 1891, and has been professor of bacteriology in Harvard Medical School since 1895; and he has taken an active part in bacteriological research, in connection with which he has contributed to various scientific and medical magazines. Dr. Ernst is editor of The Journal of Medical Research and author of: Infectiousness of Milk; Infection and Immunity; Animal Experimentation; Modern Theories of Bacterial Immunity. He is secretary of the American Association of Pathologists and Bacteriologists, president of the Boston Society of Medical Sciences; fellow of the American Association of Physicians and of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. He married in Boston, Sept. 20, 1883, Ellen Lunt Frothingham. Address: 8 Greenough Avenue, Boston.

ERNST, Oswald Herbert:

Brigadier-general, U. S. A., retired; born near Cincinnati, June 27, 1842; son of Andrew H. and Sarah (Otis) Ernst; and the grandson of a burgomaster in Germany, who emigrated in 1812 to escape the oppression of Napoleon. On his mother's side he is descended from Richard Warren of the Mayflower. He attended Harvard, 1858-1860, and was graduated from the United States Military Academy in 1864 as first lieutenant in the corps of engineers. He served as assistant chief engineer of the Army of the Tennessee; then was assistant engineer on the fortification of the Pacific Coast, 1864-1868, and was astronomer with the United States Commission to observe the solar eclipse in Spain in 1870. He was instructor in practical military engineering, military signaling and telegraphy at West Point 1871-1878; as engineer in charge of western river improvements, 1878-1886; and in charge of harbor improvements on the Texas coast, 1886-1889, where he inaugurated the great work which resulted in deepening the channel at the entrance to Galveston harbor from twelve feet to twenty-six feet. He was also engineer on numerous boards, 1880-1905; was in charge of public buildings and grounds at Washington, 1889-1893; and served as superintendent of the United States Military Academy, 1893-1898. He was promoted through every intermediate grade, and was commissioned colonel, Feb. 20, 1903, and brigadier-general of volunteers in May, 1898. He served in the war against Spain, going to Porto Rico, Aug. 7, 1898; and he had immediate command of the troops in the affair at Coamo, Aug. 9, 1898. He was division engineer of the Northwest Division from Aug., 1901, until he was promoted to brigadier-general, and retired, June 27, 1906. Brigadier-general Ernst was a member of the Isthmian Canal Commission, 1889-1904; president of the Mississippi River Commission, 1903-1906; and has been, since 1905, and is now a member of the International Commission upon the condition and use of waters adjacent to the boundary lines between the United States and Canada. He was reappointed a member of the Isthmian Canal Commission in 1905. Brigadier-general Ernst is a member of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion, Order of Foreign Wars, the Porto Rico Society, and the American Society of Civil Engineers; and an honorary vice-president of the Wisconsin National Guard. He is author of: A Manual of Practical Military Engineering. General Ernst married, Nov. 3, 1866, Elizabeth Amory, daughter of W. R. Lee, of Roxbury, Mass. Address: 132 Connecticut Avenue, Washington, D. C.

ESCH, John Jacob:

Congressman and lawyer; born near Norwalk, Monroe County, Wis., March 20, 1861, of German parents. In 1865 his parents moved to Milwaukee and five years later to Sparta, Wis., where they both still reside. After being graduated from the Sparta High School, he entered the modern classical course of the State University at Madison, Wis., and took his degree with the class of 1882. For three years following he engaged in teaching and the study of law, and in 1886 he entered the law department of the State University, and was graduated in 1887. Since being admitted to the bar he has practised law in La Crosse. The only elective office held by him previous to his Congressional career, was that of city treasurer of Sparta in 1885. In 1883 he organized the Sparta Rifles, afterwards known as Company I of the Third Regiment of the Wisconsin National Guard and, was was commissioned captain, retaining the office until 1887. Upon his removal to La Crosse he helped organize Company M of the same regiment, being first lieutenant, and afterwards captain. In Jan., 1894, he was commissioned acting judge-advocate-general with the rank of colonel, by Governor W. H. Upham, holding the office for two years. He was elected in 1898 to the Fifty-sixth Congress from the Seventh Wisconsin District, and reelected in 1900, 1902, 1904, 1906 and 1908; and is now serving in the Sixty-first Congress. Address: La Crosse, Wis.

ESENWEIN, Joseph Berg:

Editor of Lippincott's Magazine; born in Philadelphia, May 15, 1867; son of Augustus and Katharine (Angelo) Esenwein. He received the degree of B.S. from Albright College in 1884; studied pedagogy at the Millersville Normal School; received the degree of A.M. from Lafayette College in 1894, Ph.D. from Richmond College in 1896, and Litt.D. from the University of Omaha in 1896. He was president of Albright Collegiate Institute, 1895-1896; educational director of the Young Men's Christian Association, Washington Heights, New York City, 1897; from 1898 to 1899 was engaged in literary work with Charles Dudley Warner and in foreign travel; was professor of English language and literature at the Pennsylvania Military College at Chester, Pa., 1899-1903; manager of the Booklovers' Magazine, 1903-1905, and has been editor and manager of Lippincott's Magazine since 1905, and literary adviser of the J. B. Lippincott Co. since 1908. Is a member of the National Authors' Guild, a director of the Periodical Publishers' Association of America, and a member of the National Press Club. He is president of the Board of Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association; member of the Advisory Committee on Industrial Work of the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association, and vice-president of the Society of Arts and Letters. He is the author of: Songs for Reapers, 1895; Modern Agnosticism, 1896; Feathers for Shafts, 1897; How to Attract and Hold an Audience, 1901; Writing the Short Story, 1909. He is a lecturer, song writer, and contributor to various magazines and reviews. In politics he is a Republican, and in religion a Presbyterian (ruling elder). He married at Pine Grove, Pa., March 21, 1889, Caroline Deats Miller (B.E., Albright College, M.A., Richmond College), and they have one son. Residence: Narberth, Pa. Address: East Washington Square, Philadelphia.

ESTABROOK, Henry Dodge:

Lawyer; born at Alden, N. Y., Oct. 23, 1854; son of Experience and Caroline Augusta (Maxwell) Estabrook. He removed to Nebraska (of which territory his father was appointed United States attorney-general) in 1855. He was educated in the Omaha public schools, and was graduated from the law department of Washington University in 1875. He practised law at Omaha, 1875-1896; at Chicago, 1896-1902 as a member of the firm of Lowden, Estabrook & Davis, and since 1902 he has been solicitor for the Western Union Telegraph Company in New York City. He is a member of the New York State and American Bar Associations. He is a member of the Union League, Lawyers', Lotos, Metropolitan, Republican, Automobile of America, and Magnetic Clubs of New York City, the Deal Golf Club of New Jersey, the Ardsley Club of New York, and honorary member of the Marquette Club of Chicago. He married at Omaha, Oct. 23, 1889, Clara Campbell, and they have one daughter, Mrs. Karl G. Roebbling of Trenton, N. J. His only sister was the late wife of R. C. Clowry, president of the Western Union Telegraph Company. Residence (summer): Tarrytown, N. Y.; (winter): 301 West 76th Street, New York City. Office: 195 Broadway, New York City.

EVANS, Dudley:

President Wells, Fargo and Company; born in Morgantown, Va., Jan. 27, 1838. He was graduated from the Washington and Jefferson College in 1859. Mr. Evans was a member of the Virginia Legislature 1863-1865; lieutenant-colonel Twentieth Regiment, Virginia Cavalry, Confederate States of America. He is a member of the Army and Navy Society of the Confederate States, of Maryland; of the Sons of the Revolution; of the Colonial Wars Society; War of 1812 of the Lee-Jackson Camp of Confederate Veterans, Lexington, Va., of the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity; and of the Lawyers' and the Englewood clubs. He married in 1878, Miss N. Seelye. Residence: Englewood, N. J. Office: 51 Broadway, New York City.

EVANS, Henry:

Insurance president; born in Houston, Texas, April 14, 1860. He became a resident of New York City in 1866, and was educated in the Brooklyn public schools, the Shelleek School of Norwalk, Conn., and one year in the Columbia School of Mines. He entered the office of the Continental Fire Insurance Company, as a minor clerk in March, 1878, and was elected secretary May, 1888, second vice-president in January, 1889; first vice-president in January, 1892 and has been president since January, 1903. He is president of the Fidelity Fire Insurance Company and of the Continental Fire Insurance Company, and is also president of the Alabama White Marble Company, the Fidelity Fire Insurance Company of New York, and the Central Trust Company of New York. Mr. Evans is a member of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Society of Mayflower Descendants, the Chamber of Commerce, the New York Board of Trade and the Merchants' Association, and the Players' and Lawyers' Clubs of New York City. Address: Continental Fire Insurance Company, Box 2038, New York City.

EVANS, Henry Clay:

Former United States consul-general at London; born in Juniata County, Pa., June 18, 1843; son of Jesse B. Evans and Anna (Single) Evans. He was educated in the schools of Platteville and Lancaster, Wis. He served in the Forty-first Wisconsin Regiment, 1862-1864, after that civilian in the Army at Chattanooga and later in Texas. Returned to Chattanooga, 1870; became iron and car manufacturer; was twice mayor; member of Fifty-first Congress, 1889-1891; assistant postmaster-general, 1893. Mr. Evans was elected governor on face of returns, 1894, but Turney, Democrat, claimed irregularities, and was seated. He stood second in the balloting for vice-president of the United States at the National Republican Convention in 1896, and was appointed

United States Commissioner of pensions, serving from 1897 to 1902. He served as United States consul-general at London, 1902-1905. Address: 203 East Terrace Street, Chattanooga, Tenn.

EVANS, Robley Dunglison:

Rear-admiral of the United States Navy; born in Floyd County, Va., Aug. 18, 1846; son of Dr. Samuel Andrew Jackson Evans. He was educated in the public schools of Washington and appointed to the United States Navy, from Utah, Sept. 20, 1860. He was graduated from the United States Naval Academy in 1863; promoted ensign, Oct. 1, 1863; lieutenant, July 25, 1866; lieutenant-commander, March 12, 1868, commander, July, 1878; captain, June 27, 1893, and rear-admiral, Feb. 11, 1901. He served in the Civil War; participated in both attacks on Fort Fisher, and received two severe wounds from rifle shots. He commanded the battleship Iowa during the Spanish-American War, and after the destruction of Cervera's squadron, off Santiago, July 3, 1898. He also commanded the Asiatic fleet for three years, and shortly after his return home he was ordered to command the North Atlantic fleet, subsequently increased to the battleship fleet comprising the largest number of battleships ever placed under one officer's command. He commanded this fleet in its successful trip through the Straits of Magellan to the Pacific Coast, where he hauled down his flag as rear-admiral. He retired on account of age Aug. 19, 1908. He is author of: A Sailor's Log, 1901. Address: Care Navy Department, Washington, D. C.

EVANS, Walter:

Jurist; born on a farm in Barren County, Ky., Sept. 18, 1842; son of Joseph Warden and Matilda (Ritter) Evans. He was educated in private schools in Kentucky, entered the Union Army in 1861, and afterward studied law and was admitted to the bar of Kentucky in 1864. He engaged in practice at Hopkinsville, Ky., 1864-1874, and after that at Louisville. He was elected to the House of Representatives of the Kentucky Legislature from Christian County in 1871, and to the State Senate in 1873. After his removal to Louisville he was a Republican candidate for Congress in 1876 and for governor in 1879, and was commissioner of internal revenue of the United States under appointment by President Arthur from May, 1883, to April, 1885, at which time he resumed his law practice at Louisville. He was elected in 1894 a member of the Fifty-fourth Congress and reelected to the Fifty-fifth Congress in 1896, serving from 1895 to 1899. On March 4, 1899, he was appointed by President McKinley to his present position as judge of the United States District Court for the Western District of Kentucky. He married at Hopkinsville, Ky., June 9, 1868, Louise Gowen, and they have a daughter. Address: Louisville, Ky.

EVARTS, Allen W.:

Lawyer; born in New York City, Dec. 10, 1848; son of William M. Evarts and Helen Minerva (Wardner) Evarts. He was graduated from Yale University as B.A. in 1869 and M.A. in 1872 and studied law at the Columbia Law School from 1870 to 1871. He is a member of the firm of Evarts, Choate and Sherman. Mr. Evarts is president of the Garden City Company, secretary of the United Metals Selling Company, a member of the New York City Bar Association, the Society of Medical Jurisprudence; the Metropolitan Museum of Art; the American Museum of Natural History; New York Zoological Society; the New England Society; and Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity. Mr. Evarts is a trustee of Vassar College. He is also a member of the Century Association and the Union, University, Yale, New York Athletic, Manhattan, Grolier, Whist, Turf and Field, and Garden City Golf Clubs and the Metropolitan Club of Washington, D. C., and the St. Stephen's Club of London. Address: 60 Wall Street, New York City.

EVERETT, Walter Goodnow:

Professor of philosophy; born in Rowe, Mass., Aug. 21, 1860; son of Samuel P. and Aleesta (Goodnow) Everett. He was graduated from Brown University, as valedictorian of his class with highest honors, A. B., 1885, A.M., 1888, Ph.D., 1895. After graduation he was for some years tutor in an English family, then became instructor in Greek and Latin, 1890-1895 in Brown University, in which institution he became associate professor of philosophy, 1895-1899, and since 1899 has been professor of philosophy and natural theology. He studied in the Universities of Berlin and Strassburg, 1895-1896. Dr. Everett was for three years president of the Providence Public Education Association, and three years president of Rhode Island Alpha of the Phi Beta Kappa Society. He is a contributor to various philosophical journals. He is a member of the American Psychological Association, the American Philosophical Association, Delta Upsilon fraternity and Phi Beta Kappa Society. Residence: 116 Governor Street. Office: Brown University, Providence, R. I.

EVERMANN, Barton Warren:

Biologist, author; born in Monroe County, Iowa, Oct. 24, 1853; son of Andrew and Netty (Gardner) Evermann. He was educated in the public schools of Indiana, Howard College, Kokomo, Ind., Butler College, Indiana, and the University of Indiana, B. S., 1886, A.M., 1888, Ph.D., 1891. He was a teacher in public schools in Indiana, 1871-1879, and in California, 1879-1881; superintendent of schools of Carroll County, Ind., 1883-1885; and professor of biology and geology in the Indiana State Normal School, 1886-1891. Dr. Evermann has been ichthyologist of the U. S. Fish Commission since 1891; assistant in charge of the Division of Scientific Inquiry, U. S. Bureau of Fisheries since 1903, and curator Division of Fisheries, U. S. National Museum since 1905. He has been vice-president of the Board of Education of the District of Columbia since 1906. He was special lecturer at Stanford University, 1893-1894; lecturer on fish culture and fish and game protection in Cornell University, 1899-1903, and at Yale Forest School from 1904. He was appointed a member of the U. S. Fur Seal Commission, 1892, and received a gold medal from the Paris Exposition of 1900. Dr. Evermann was joint author with President David Starr Jordan of the four-volume work on Fishes of North and Middle America (more than 3,200 pages and 392 plates); and is author of American Food and Game Fishes (Doubleday, Page & Co.); The Fishes of Porto Rico; The Aquatic Resources of the Hawaiian Islands; The Fishes of Alaska; The Golden Trout of the Southern High Sierra; Laphe the Quail; and many papers and reports, chiefly on birds and fishes. He is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and of the American Ornithologist Union; member of the National Geographic Society, the Plant Preservation Society, Washington Academy of Sciences (editor since 1903), California Academy of Sciences, Indiana Academy of Sciences; Washington Biological Society (president 1903-1904). He married in Burlington, Ind., Oct. 24, 1875, Meadie Hawkins. Residence: 1425 Clifton Street. Office: Bureau of Fisheries, Washington, D. C.

EWART, Hamilton Grover:

Jurist; born in Columbia, S. C., Oct. 23, 1849; son of James B. and Mary Ann Ewart. He was educated in the schools of Columbia and afterward took the law course at the University of South Carolina, from which he was graduated LL.B., 1876. In the same year he was admitted to the bar, located at Hendersonville, N. C., and engaged in the practice of law. He became active in political affairs as a Republican, was an elector on the Hayes and Wheeler ticket in 1876, and was elected to the North Carolina Legislature in 1884 and 1887. In 1888 he was elected to be Fifty-first Congress, and served until 1891. He was elected judge of the Western Criminal District of North Carolina in 1895, and served until he was appointed in 1898 by President McKinley to his present office as judge of the District Court of the United States for the Western District of North Carolina. He married at Hendersonville, 1879, Sarah C. Ripley. Address: Hendersonville, N. C.

EWELL, Marshall Davis:

Lawyer, microscopical and handwriting expert; born in Oxford, Mich., Aug. 18, 1844; son of Edmund C. and Frances E. (Davis) Ewell. He was graduated from the Michigan State Normal School, 1864, University of Michigan, LL.B., 1868, LL.D., 1879; received the honorary degree of A.M. from Northwestern University, 1879, and afterward studied medicine in the Chicago Medical College, whence he was graduated M.D., 1884. He was admitted to the Michigan Bar in 1868, practising there for several years; became professor of common law in the Union College of Law, Chicago, from 1877 until 1892, when he resigned and founded the Kent College of Law, of which he was president and dean until 1902. Dr. Ewell has made a specialty of medico-legal cases, and he is a noted handwriting expert and microscopist, and a fellow of the Royal Microscopical Society of London. He is author of: Leading Cases on Disabilities, 1876; The Law of Fixtures, 1876, second edition, 1904; Essentials of the Law, 1882; Manual of Medical Jurisprudence, 1887; and he has edited editions of various standard legal works. He married in Armada, Mich., in 1870, Abbie L. Walker. Residence: 747 Hinman Avenue, Evanston, Ill. Office 59 Clark Street, Chicago.

EWING, Adlai Thomas:

Lawyer; born in McLean County, Ill., Feb. 5, 1846; son of John Wallace and Maria McClellan (Stevenson) Ewing. He was graduated from the Illinois State University, studied law in the office of his brother, Hon. James S. Ewing, and was admitted to the Illinois bar in 1868. He was appointed by President Harrison one of the Illinois members of the United States Commission for the World's Columbian Exposition at Chicago, and served on the committees on Permanent Organization and on Fine Arts, and was also a member of the Executive Committee, in all of which positions he rendered efficient service. He was one of the earliest and most active workers in the scheme for the sanitary drainage of the city of Chicago. He was also the original promoter of the boulevard connecting Union Park with Douglas Park in that city. He is now president of the Marine Iron Works, and is identified with other large business enterprises. He is a Democrat. He was one of the organizers of the Union Club and is a charter member and ex-president of the Iroquois Club. He married in Buffalo, in 1879, Kate Hyde. Residence: 3745 Ellis Avenue. Office: 108 La Salle Street, Chicago, Ill.

EWING, Hampton D.:

Lawyer; born in Washington, D. C., June 18, 1866; son of General Thomas and Ellen (Cox) Ewing. He was graduated from Columbia University, A.B., 1888, A.M., 1889, and held the prize fellowship in science in that institution, 1888-1891. He is a member of the law firm of Ewing & Ewing, and a member of the American Bar Association, and of the New York State, New York City, and Westchester County Bar Association, the Medico-Legal Society of New York, the Phi Beta Kappa Society and the Alpha Delta Phi and Phi Delta Phi fraternities. He is trustee of the First Presbyterian Church, at Yonkers, N. Y., and president of the Yonkers Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution. Mr. Ewing is also a member of the University, Alpha Delta Phi and Columbia University Clubs; a director of the Amaskasson Club and a member of the Athelstan Club of Mobile, Ala. He married in Richmond, Va., April 14, 1898, Marie L. Dunlop, and they have two children. Address: 27 Belmont Terrace, Yonkers, N. Y.

EWING, Nathaniel:

Jurist; born in Uniontown, Pa., June 17, 1848; son of Judge John K. and a grandson of Judge Nathaniel Ewing of Fayette County. He was graduated from Princeton College in 1869; read law with his father and his uncle Judge A. A. Wilson, and was admitted to the bar of Fayette County in 1871. After a period of active practice, he succeeded to the honorable position which had been held by his father and grandfather, being elected president judge of Fayette County in 1887. In 1889 he retired from the bench and returned to practice at the bar; and in 1906 he was appointed U. S. District judge for Western District of Pennsylvania, which position he resigned Feb. 1, 1908, to accept the position of chairman of the Pennsylvania State Railroad Commission. In 1903 Judge Ewing was elected to the presidency of the Pennsylvania Bar Association. Address: Uniontown, Pa.

EWING, Presley Kittredge:

Lawyer; born at Lafourche, La., July 21, 1860; son of Dr. Fayette Clay and Eliza Josephine Ewing, nee Kittredge. He was graduated from the University of Mississippi, Ph.B., 1881, and having in the meantime taken the necessary law courses, he received in the same year the degree of LL.B., cum laude. The following year he was admitted to the bar in the State of Texas, where he has since practised. He has appeared in many important cases in the United States Supreme Court, and is recognized as a pioneer in the settlement of many important principles of Texas jurisprudence. He served several ad interim terms in some of the district courts of Texas, and in 1905 was commissioned chief justice of the Supreme Court of that State. He is a prominent member of the Texas Bar Association, having been elected its president in 1899. He is an ardent Democrat, and orator of extensive reputation, and was one of the distinguished group of Southern speakers who campaigned in New York and other states of the East in 1908 under the auspices of the National Democratic Committee. He is a social leader, and is president of the Z. Z. Club, the oldest social organization of its kind in Texas. He married at Lafourche, La., Feb. 16, 1885, Mary Elinor Williams. Address: Houston, Texas.

EWING, Thomas, Jr.:

Lawyer and patent solicitor; born in Leavenworth, Kan., May 21, 1862; son of Thomas Ewing (chief justice of Kansas, major-general of U. S. Volunteers, and member of the Forty-fifth and Forty-sixth Congresses from Ohio) and Ellen Ewing (Cox) Ewing. He was educated in public schools at Lancaster, Ohio, 1871-1877; at the Wooster (Ohio) University, 1879-1881, Columbia University, A.B., 1885, A.M., 1886, and was in the Columbia Law School, 1887-1888. Mr. Ewing was tutor in the Columbia School of Mines, 1885-1888, and received from Georgetown University Law School the degree of LL.B. in 1890, having studied there while assistant examiner, United States Patent Office, 1886-1890. His patent office experience has given direction to his practice and since 1891 he has practised in New York City, his firm, Ewing, Whitman and Ewing, being constantly identified with the most important patent law litigations. He has also solicited some well-known patents, notably the fundamental patent of Frank J. Sprague on the multiple unit system of electric tram operation; and Professor M. I. Pupin's patents on long-distance telephony. Mr. Ewing is president of the Current Literature Publishing Company, and a director of the Crocker-Wheeler Company. He was the Democratic candidate for mayor of Yonkers in 1897 and in 1899; a member of the Yonkers School Board, 1897-1903; a member of the Commission to revise the charter of Yonkers, 1904-1905; is vice-president of the Ohio Society of New York; a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Society, and of the University and the Columbia University Clubs of New York City. He is author of: Jonathan, a Tragedy, 1902. He married in Yonkers, 1894, Anna Phillips Cochran. Residence: Yonkers, N. Y. Address: 67 Wall Street, New York City.

EYCLESHYMER, Albert Chauncey:

Professor of anatomy; born at Cambridge, N. Y., June 16, 1867; son of David C. Eycleshymer and Anna M. (Perry) Eycleshymer. He received the degree of B.S. from the University of Michigan in 1891; was appointed fellow at Princeton in 1891; a fellow at Clark from 1891 to 1892; a fellow at Chicago from 1892 to 1893; received the degree of Ph.D. from the University of Chicago in 1894; studied at Cambridge, England, from 1895 to 1896; was Austin fellow at the Harvard Medical School from 1900 to 1901. Was assistant in animal morphology, University of Michigan in 1889; in botany, in 1890; chief assistant, Allis Lake Laboratory, from 1890 to 1891; assistant in biology, University of Chicago, from 1893 to 1895; associate, anatomy, from 1895 to 1897; instructor from 1897 to 1902; assistant professor from 1902 to 1903; director, Department of Anatomy, St. Louis University, from 1903. Was lecturer on human embryology, Rush Medical College, from 1897 to 1898; assistant professor from 1898 to 1899. He is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, of the American Society of Naturalists of the American Society of Zoölogists, of the American Association of Anatomists, the Academy of Science, St. Louis, and of the University Club. His chief researches have been on Vertebrate Embryology. He received the grand prize at St. Louis Exposition for embryological researches. He married at Chicago, Ill., Sept. 23, 1895, Mary Elizabeth Donovan; they have three children: Ethel M., aged nine, Albert D., aged seven, and Lois E., aged two. Address: St. Louis University, Medical Department, St. Louis, Mo.

EYRE, Wilson, Jr.:

Architect; born in Florence, Italy, Oct. 30, 1858; son of Wilson and Louisa (Lear) Eyre. His early education was obtained in Italy, and later in the schools of Newport, R. I., Lenoxville, Canada, and Woburn, Mass., and he took a special course in architecture in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in the class of 1876. He was associated with James P. Sims, architect, 1876-1881; and since then has been engaged in independent practice. He has been architect of many prominent buildings in New York City and Philadelphia, having offices in both cities. Among his works are the Detroit Club Building, Detroit, buildings for the Newcomb Memorial College, New Orleans, and many others. Mr. Eyre is a member of the American Institute of Architects, American Social Science Association, the T-Square Club, and the Philadelphia Art Club of Philadelphia. Office: 35 West 21st Street, New York City, and 929 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

F

FABER, John Eberhard:

Manufacturer; born in New York City, March 14, 1859; son of Eberhard and Jenny (Haag) Faber. He was educated at Columbia College, School of Mines, 1878; also France. He entered the office of his father, the well-known lead pencil manufacturer, in 1876, and since the death of his father in 1879, he has had entire charge of the business, still conducting it under name of Eberhard Faber. He is president of the United States Trade-Mark Association; trustee and director of the Stationers' Board of Trade, Northern Fire Insurance Company. He married first, Dec. 22, 1886, Abby B. Adams, who died May, 1898; second April 20, 1904, Roberta A. Heim. Address: 37 Greenpoint Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

FAHS, Charles Harvey:

Editor; born at Richview, Ill., May 18, 1872; son of Rolando Zeigler and Mary M. (Houston) Fahs. He was graduated from Northwestern University, A.B., 1898, and from the Drew Theological Seminary, B.D., 1901. He was assistant editor of the Association Men (Chicago) 1897-1898; managing editor of the Intercollegian (New York), 1898-1901; assistant editor of the Northwestern Christian Advocate (Chicago), 1901-1902; editor of the Board of Foreign Missions, Methodist Episcopal Church (New York) since 1902. For two months in 1898 he was among the soldiers of the Seventh Army Corps, in Jacksonville, Fla., as an army secretary of the International Committee of Young Men's Christian Associations. Mr. Fahs is a Republican in politics and a Methodist Episcopalian in his religious belief. He is a fellow of the American Geographical Society; member of the National Geographic Society. He married at Waukegan, Ill., June 14, 1902, Sophia Blanche Lyon, and they have two daughters and one son. Residence: Madison, N. J. Address: 150 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

FAIRBANKS, Charles Warren:

Former vice-president of the United States; born on a farm near Unionville Center, Union County, Ohio, May 11, 1852; son of Loriston M. and Mary A. (Smith) Fairbanks. He was graduated from the Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, Ohio, in 1872 in the classical course. Mr. Fairbanks was admitted to the bar by the Supreme Court of Ohio in 1874; removed to Indianapolis in the same year, where he practised his profession until his admission to the United States Senate. He never held public office prior to his election to the United States Senate in 1897; was elected a trustee of the Ohio Wesleyan University in 1885. He was chairman of the Indiana Republican State conventions in 1892 and 1898 was unanimously chosen as the nominee of the Republican caucus for United States Senator in the Indiana Legislature in January, 1893, and subsequently received his entire party vote in the Legislature, but was defeated by David Turpie, Democrat; was elected to the United States Senate Jan. 20, 1897, to succeed Daniel W. Voorhees, Democrat; took his seat March 4, 1897, and was reelected in 1903. He was appointed a member of the United States and British Joint High Commission which met in Quebec in 1898, for the adjustment of Canadian questions, and was chairman of the United States high commissioners; was a delegate-at-large to the Republican National Convention at St. Louis in 1896, and was temporary chairman of the convention; was a delegate-at-large to the Republican National Convention at Philadelphia in 1900, and was chairman of the platform; was a delegate-at-large to the Republican National Convention at Chicago in 1904, and was chairman of the Indiana delegation; was unanimously nominated by that convention for Vice-President of the United States, and elected on the ticket with Theodore Roosevelt, receiving 337 of the 476 electoral votes, to 139 for Henry Gassaway Davis, of West Virginia, the Democratic candidate. Mr. Fairbanks resigned as United States Senator from Indiana to take effect March 4, 1905, at noon, on which day and hour he took the oath as Vice-President of the United States. He was an unsuccessful candidate for the nomination for the Presidency in 1908. His term of office expired March 4, 1909. Mr. Fairbanks married in 1874, Miss Cornelia Cole. Address: Indianapolis, Ind.

FAIRBANKS, Harold Wellman:

Geologist and geographer; born at Coneywango, Cattaraugus County, N. Y., Aug. 29, 1860. He was educated in the State Normal School at Fredonia, N. Y., and the University of Michigan, graduating B.S., 1890, and he received the degree of Ph.D. from the University of California, 1896. He has been engaged since 1890 upon the geology and geography of the Pacific Coast; was connected with the California State Mining Bureau, 1890-1894; assistant United States Geological Survey, 1897-1898; and since 1900, has been engaged in independent research. Dr. Fairbanks is a member of the Geological Society; the Geographical Society of America; the National Geographic Society; and the California Academy. He is the author of the text-books: Stories of Our Mother Earth; Home Geography; Physiography of California; Stories of Rocks and Minerals; The Western United States (a geographical reader) and Practical Physiography (for high schools). Address: Berkeley, Calif.

FAIRBANKS, Henry:

Manufacturer; born at Saint Johnsbury, Vt., May 6, 1830; son of the late Thaddeus Fairbanks, inventor of scales, and Lucy P. (Barker) Fairbanks. He was graduated from Dartmouth College, A.B., 1853 (Ph.D., 1880), and from there went to the Andover Theological Seminary whence he was graduated in 1857. He was ordained in the ministry of the Congregational Church and served in pastorates until 1860, when he became professor of physics at Dartmouth College. Later his chair at that institution was changed to that of professor of natural history, in which he continued until 1868, when he resigned in order to become actively identified with the manufacturing enterprise of E. and T. Fairbanks and Company with which he has ever since been connected, and of which he is now vice-president. Mr. Fairbanks is an inventor of distinction and has received over thirty patents for his inventions. He was for twenty-five years a Trustee of Dartmouth College, is President of St. Johnsbury Academy, and has been vice-president of the National Association of Manufacturers. He has been a member of eight of the National Councils of the Congregational Church, and of two of the International Councils, receiving appointment to the third, and is president of the Vermont Domestic Missionary Society. He has been twice married; first at Hanover, N. H., April 30, 1862, to Annie Noyes, (who died Sept. 11, 1872,) and second, May 5, 1874, to Ruthy Page of Newport, Vt. Address: St. Johnsbury, Vt.

FAIRCHILD, Benjamin Lewis:

Lawyer; born in Sweden, Monroe County, N. Y., Jan. 5, 1863; son of Benjamin and Calista (Schaeffer) Fairchild. He was educated in the public schools of the District of Columbia and the Law Department of Columbian (now George Washington) University, LL.B., 1883, LL.M., 1885. He was a draughtsman in the U. S. Patent Office at the age of thirteen; clerk in the U. S. Treasury Department, 1877-1885; since then practised law in New York City. Mr. Fairchild has large real estate interests in Pelham Heights. He was representative in Congress from the 16th New York District, 1895-1897. He is a member of the Union League, Lawyers, and New York Athletic Clubs of New York City. He married in New York City, Feb. 28, 1893, Anna E. Crumbie (who died Nov. 24, 1902), and has one son, Franklin Crumbie. Residence: Pelham Heights, N. Y. Address: 149 Broadway, New York City.

FAIRCHILD, Charles Stebbins:

Lawyer, banker; born in Cazenovia, N. Y., April 30, 1842; son of Sidney T. and Helen (Childs) Fairchild. He was graduated from Harvard College, A.B., 1863, Harvard Law School, LL.B., 1865, and received the LL.D. degree from Harvard and Columbia Universities in 1888. He was admitted to the New York Bar in 1865; practised law in Albany until 1876; was deputy attorney-general of the State of New York, 1874-1875; attorney-general 1876-1877; then established law practice in New York City. He was appointed assistant secretary of the United States Treasury by President Cleveland in 1885, and secretary of the same, 1887-1889. Upon retirement from the Treasury, he entered into banking business. Mr. Fairchild is president and director of the Atlanta & Charlotte Air Line Railway Company; president and trustee of Birkbeck Investment, Savings and Loan Company; director Erie and Pittsburgh Railway Company, National City Bank of New York; trustee British and American Manufacturing Company. He is a member of the American Economic Society, American Statistical Society, American and National Geographic Societies, Association of the Bar of the City of New York, Chamber of Commerce New York, State Charities Aid Association, Charity Organization Society of New York. He was formerly a trustee of the New York Life Insurance Company; member of the New York Institution for the blind, and a member of the Monetary Committee, appointed by Executive Committee of the Indianapolis Conference, 1897. He was formerly president of the Reform Club, is a member and ex-president of the Harvard Club and also a member of the Century, University, Midway, Delta Kappa Epsilon, Alpha Delta Phi, Ardsley and Garden City Golf Clubs of New York and the Metropolitan Club of Washington, D. C. His favorite recreations are golf, billiards and boating. Mr. Fairchild married in Cazenovia, N. Y., June 1, 1871, Helen Luckielean. Address: 40 West 8th Street, New York City.

FAIRCHILD, David Grandison:

Agricultural explorer in charge of the office of Seed and Plant Introduction of the United States Department of Agriculture; born at the Michigan State Agricultural College near Lansing, Mich., April 7, 1869; son of George T. and Charlotte P. (Halsted) Fairchild. He was graduated from the Kansas State Agricultural College, B.S., 1888 and later as M.S.; did post-graduate work in biology at the Zoölogical Station at Naples, at the University of Breslau, Berlin, Münster and Bonn, and at the Botanical Gardens at Buitenzorg, Java. He made, as agricultural explorer for Mr. Barbour Lathrop of Chicago, several scientific expeditions in search of seeds and plants to South America, South Africa, Australia, South Sea Islands, Malayan Archipelago, Arabia, China, Japan, India and Europe, and for the Department of Agriculture to Greece, Spain, Algiers, Egypt and the Dalmatian Coast. Mr. Fairchild has been professionally engaged as an agriculturist since 1889, has been in his present position since 1897; and organized in 1897 the work now carried on by the Office of Seed and Plant Introduction and Distribution in the United States Department of Agriculture. Residence: 1331 Connecticut Avenue. Office: United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

FAIRCHILD, George Winthrop:

Publisher, congressman; born in Oneonta, N. Y., May 6, 1854; son of Jesse Fairchild, and direct descendant of Thomas Fairchild, who settled in Stamford, Conn., in 1639; on mother's side, great grandson of Thomas Morenus, Revolutionary soldier and grandson of Jeremiah Morenus, veteran of the War of 1812. He was educated in the district schools of Oneonta, N. Y., in 1891; learned the printer's trade; entered the employ of Oneonta Herald, 1876; president of the Oneonta Herald Publishing Company, since 1890. President of the International Time Recording Company, Binghamton. Dey Time Register Company, Syracuse; vice president of the Guardian Trust Company, and the National Corporation securities Company, New York City. He was elected in November, 1906 as a Republican to the Sixtieth Congress from the Twenty-fourth New York District, and was re-elected in 1908 to the Sixty-first Congress. Mr. Fairchild married, in 1891, Josephine Mills Sherman, niece of the late Joseph G. Mills, of New York City. Address: Oneonta, N. Y.

FAIRCHILD, Herman Le Roy:

Professor of geology; born at Montrose, Pa., April 29, 1850; son of Harmon Canfield and Mary Amanda (Bissell) Fairchild. His paternal ancestry goes back to Thomas Fairchild of Stratford, Conn., while his mother's family, the Bissells, were from Cooperstown, N. Y., and still earlier from Rhode Island. Mr. Fairchild was graduated from Cornell University, B.S., 1874; was professor of natural sciences in Wyoming Seminary, near Wilkesbarre, Pa., 1874-1876, and engaged as a science lecturer in the schools and institutions of New York City and its vicinity until 1888; since then professor of geology in the University of Rochester. He was secretary of the Academy of Sciences of New York, 1885-1888, and he published a history of that organization in 1887. He has written and published about one hundred and twenty monographs and contributions on geology, paleontology and biology, and has made special investigations in the Pleistocene geology of Western New York, and particularly in reference to the glacial lakes which were held at the ice front during the retreat of the ice sheet across New York State. He is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, was secretary of its General Council in 1893, general secretary in 1894, and vice-president of Section E (geology) in 1898. He is a member and was president 1889-1902 of the Rochester Academy of Sciences, and from 1890 to 1907 was secretary of Geological Society of America. Address: University of Rochester, Rochester, N. Y.

FAIRFAX, Albert Kirby:

Lord Fairfax of Cameron (twelfth baron) in the peerage of Scotland, and merchant (title was confirmed by the House of Lords on Nov. 17, 1908); born at Northampton, Largo, Prince George County, Md., June 23, 1870; son of John Contee Fairfax, M.D. (eleventh baron), and Mary Kirby Fairfax (daughter of Colonel Edmund Kirby, United States Army). He received his education in Maupin's University School, Ellicott City, Md. He was fourteen years with Brown Brothers & Company, bankers, New York City; four years assistant manager London office International Banking Company of New York and now partner in William P. Bonbright & Company, London, and New York. He is a member and vice-president Yorkshire Society of London, on the Executive Committee of The Pilgrims in London, and American Society in London, and a member of the City of London, Bachelors and Sports Club of London and Union Club of New York City. Residence: 22 Upper George Street, London, W. Office: 16 George Street, Mansion House, London, E. C., England.

FALLOWS, Edward H.:

Lawyer; born at Appleton, Wis., 1865; son of Right Rev. Samuel and Lucy B. (Huntington) Fallows; graduated from Amherst College, (summa cum laude) B.A., 1886; A.M., 1890; Yale University, (post-graduate), 1890; Columbia Law School 1892. Admitted to bar, 1892; associated in practice with Governor Stewart L. Woodruff; began independent practice 1893; served in State Assembly from the Twenty-first District, New York City, 1898-1900. Author of text-book on Collateral Inheritance and Transfer Tax; Director and General Counsel American Brake Shoe and Foundry Company; Republican; Reformed Episcopalian; Member New York City and State Bar Associations, New York Law Institute. Recreations: Golf; tennis, auto-mobiling. Clubs: University, Yale, Engineers, Lambs', Republican, Ardsley, Automobile Club of America, New York Athletic, Crescent Athletic, Railroad Club. Mr. Fallows married, in 1893, Julia Haughton Kirtledge, and they have one daughter, Annette Richards. Residence: 219 West 79th Street. Office: 30 Church Street, New York City.

FALLOWS, Samuel:

Bishop of the Reformed Episcopal Church; born in Pendleton, Lancashire, England, Dec. 13, 1835; son of Thomas and Anne (Ashworth) Fallows. He came with his parents to America, 1848, settling in Wisconsin and was graduated from the University of Wisconsin, A.B., 1859, A.M. and received the honorary degree of LL.D. from that University and D.D. from Lawrence University and Marietta College. He was ordained in the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1859, was vice-president of Galesville (Wis.) University, 1859-1861, then entered the Union Army in the Civil War, attaining the rank of colonel and brevet brigadier-general U. S. V. He returned to the Methodist ministry after the war, becoming a pastor in Milwaukee until 1871, then State superintendent of public instruction of Wisconsin, 1871-1874; president of the Illinois Wesleyan University at Bloomington, Ill., 1874-1875, but retired from that position in 1875, when he left the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church and entered that of the Reformed Episcopal Church as rector of St. Paul's Church, Chicago, in which position he has ever since continued, and he has also been since 1876 one of the bishops of the Reformed Episcopal Church, and has seven times been elected presiding bishop of that church. Bishop Fallows is author of: Bright and Happy Homes, 1877; The Home Beyond, 1879; Synonyms and Antonyms, 1884; Handbook of Abbreviations and Contractions, 1884; Handbook of Briticisms, Americanisms, etc., 1884; Supplemental Dictionary of the English Language, 1887; Webster's Encyclopedic Dictionary, 1891; Past Noon, 1892; The Bible Looking Glass; Life of Samuel Adams, 1898; Splendid Deeds, 1900; Popular and Critical Biblical Encyclopedia, 1901; Story of the American Flag, 1903; Science of Health, 1904; Christian Philosophy, 1905; Memory Culture, 1905. Bishop Fallows has been president of the Board of Managers of the Illinois State Reformatory since 1891, was Chancellor of the University Association and chairman of the General Educational Committee of World's Congresses. He is commander of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, for the State of Illinois. He married, April 9, 1860, Lucy B. Huntington. Address: 967 West Monroe Street, Chicago.

FANNING, John Thomas:

Consulting engineer; born at Norwich, Conn., Dec. 31, 1837; son of John Howard and Elizabeth (Pridde) Fanning. He studied and practised civil engineering and architecture until 1861, when he entered the Third Regiment of Connecticut Volunteers and served the full time of the regiment in the Civil War. He afterwards entered the Connecticut State Military as lieutenant and was promoted to lieutenant-colonel. When the war closed he resumed his engineering practice, making a specialty of designing and constructing water-works and the mechanical development of water powers, first in New England, and afterward in the West, doing especially notable water-power work at Minneapolis, and on the Spokane River in Washington, and the Missouri River at Great Falls, and Helena, Mont.; and on the Wenatchee river in Washington for the electrification of the Great Northern Railway Cascade tunnel; was also consulting engineer for railways in the Northwest, etc. He has written extensively on hydraulic engineering; is a member and former director of the American Society of Civil Engineers; member and former president of the American Water-Works Association, and he has been a member since 1880 and a fellow since 1885 of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Mr. Fanning married at Providence, R. I., June 14, 1865, M. Louise Bensley. Address: Kasota Building, Minneapolis, Minn.

FANNING, William Joseph:

Lawyer; born in Crescent, Saratoga County, N. Y., July 12, 1850; son of James and Johanna (Fitzgerald) Fanning. He was educated at the Halfmoon Institute and the Law Department of the University of the City of New York where he was graduated LL.B., 1873; and has since then practised law in New York City. Mr. Fanning has been attorney for the Hotel Association since 1882; and was appointed by Mayor Strong, city magistrate, but declined. He is director, secretary and treasurer of the Sinclair Realty Company, and is a member of the Metropolitan Museum of Art; and was school trustee of the Eighteenth Ward for two years. He is also a member of the Manhattan, National Democratic, Catholic and Graduates' Clubs. Mr. Fanning married in New York City, Oct. 19, 1881, Annie Ashman. Address: 752 Broadway, New York City.

FARENHOLT, Oscar Walter:

Rear-admiral, U. S. Navy, retired; born in Texas, May 2, 1845. He was educated in Schools of San Antonio, Texas, New Orleans, La., and Pittsburg, Pa. He entered the Navy at New York as seaman, April 18, 1861; served on the frigate Wabash; participated in engagements and battles at Fort Hatteras, N. C., Port Royal, S. C., Fort Pulaski, Ga., and was severely wounded at battle of Pocotaligo, S. C., Oct. 22, 1862; sent to the Naval Hospital, New York, and discharged from the Navy. Having recovered from his wounds, he re-entered the Navy Feb., 1863, on the monitor Catskill; was in almost daily engagements with defences of Charleston, S. C., April, 1863 to April, 1864, participated in the unsuccessful storming party of Fort Sumter, Sept., 1863. He was promoted acting ensign Aug., 1864, and commanded schooner Henry James attached to squadron in Sounds of North Carolina. Participated in the recapture of Plymouth and several engagements on Roanoke, Chowan and Black Water Rivers, and capture of Fort Fisher, N. C. After the Civil War he had the varied duties of a naval officer at sea and ashore, and was inspector of the Thirteenth Lighthouse District from 1892 to July, 1896, when he was ordered to the command of the steamer Monocacy, in which he served on the Asiatic Station during the Spanish-American War, stationed at Shanghai as base of information and supplies for the fleet under Dewey; ordered to the Navy Yard, Boston, July 5, 1899, to command of the Navy Yard at Cavite, Philippine Islands, in 1900, and to the command of the Monadnock, Dec. 28, 1900, in which he served until his retirement with the rank of rear-admiral in 1901. Address: Care Navy Pay office, Washington, D. C.

FARLEY, John Murphy:

Archbishop; born at Newton-Hamilton, Ireland, April 20, 1842; son of Philip and Catherine (Murphy) Farley. He studied for the priesthood at St. Macartan's College, Monaghan, St. John's College, Fordham, St. Joseph's Seminary, Troy, and at the American College, Rome; was ordained priest at Rome June 11, 1870; assistant rector at St. Peter's Church, New Brighton, Staten Island, the same year; secretary to Archbishop McCloskey, 1872-1884; private chamberlain to pope, 1884, with the title of Monsignor vicar-general of New York Archdiocese, 1892; prothonotary apostolic, 1895; auxiliary bishop of New York, with title of Bishop of Zeugma, 1895; appointed administrator of New York, Sept. 15, 1902; and archbishop of New York, 1903. Archbishop Farley is author of: The Life of Cardinal McCloskey; Neither Generous nor Just; Why Church Property Should not be Taxed. Address: 452 Madison Avenue, New York City.

FARLEY, Robert Emmet:

Lawyer, banker; born in Fort Plain, N. Y., Sept. 28, 1871; son of Worthington S. and Helen Hall (Moyer) Farley. His father was a prominent hardware merchant in Fort Plains, N. Y., and master of Fort Plain Masonic Lodge for 17 years; his mother is an authoress who, under the pseudonym of Ernest Gilmore, has written many stories and books, and he is a grandson of John H. Moyer, former President of Fort Plain National Bank, one of the oldest banks in the Mohawk Valley; is cousin of Vice President James S. Sherman, being great-grandson of Dr. Jonathan Sherman of Utica, N. Y. He was educated in public and private schools, and graduated from the Clinton Liberal Institute, Fort Plain (president and valedictorian of class), 1888, Rutgers College, A.B. (rhetorical honors and president of the class), 1892, A.M., 1895, New York Law School, LL.B., cum laude, 1894, and was admitted to the New York State bar, May 15, 1894. Mr. Farley is senior member of the firm of Farley & Rumsey, of White Plains, N. Y., and New York City; is president of the Gramatan National Bank of Bronxville, N. Y., of the Scarsdale Estates, Eastern Mill and Material Co., and Westchester Land Exchange; and treasurer and director of the Westchester Syndicate. He is a member of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, Westchester County Bar Association, New York State Bar Association, Society of Medical Jurisprudence of New York City; governor of White Plains Hospital; president of the White Plains Young Men's Christian Association; president of Lake Mahopae Protective Association; vice-president of Mahopae Golf Club, director of the Scarsdale Golf and Country Club; vice-president of the Montgomery County Society of New York City; member of the Delta Phi fraternity; former president of the Rutgers College Alumni Association of the City of New York, and member of the University, New York Athletic, Hardware, Phi Delta Phi, and St. Elmo Clubs of New York City, and of the Rutgers, White Plains, and Lake Mahopae Golf Clubs, and the Scarsdale Golf and Country Club. Mr. Farley married in Brooklyn, N. Y., in Dec., 1897, Grace Hazard Colvin (daughter of William S. Colvin, then president of the Hazard Powder Company), and they have two sons and a daughter. They have a summer home on Canopus Island, Lake Mahopae, N. Y. Residence: White Plains, N. Y. Offices: White Plains, N. Y., and 56 Pine Street, New York City.

FARMAN, Elbert Eli:

Jurist; born in New Haven, Oswego County, N. Y., April 23, 1831; son of Zadok and Martha (Dix) Farman; and he is a descendant of William Foreman, a planter of Maryland, who came from London to Annapolis in 1675; and through the maternal line is a descendant of Leonard Dix, one of the settlers of Wethersfield, Conn., and of Governor Thomas Welles of Connecticut. He was graduated from Amherst College, A.B., 1855, A.M., 1858, LL.D., 1882. He was admitted to the New York State bar, 1858; to United States courts, 1862; was one of the publishers of the Western New Yorker, 1859-1861; in Europe, 1865-1867, studying languages and international law in the University of Berlin and Heidelberg; accompanied General Grant in voyage of the Nile, 1878; was in Mexico, Yucatan and Cuba, 1893; in France, winters of 1893-1897, 1899-1900; in Germany, winter of 1897-1898; in Egypt, 1898-1899; in Spain, winter of 1893-1894; Italy, 1905-1906. He secured the Egyptian obelisk for New York, 1879, and made large collections of coins and Egyptian antiquities, now in the Metropolitan Museum of Art. Mr. Farman was district attorney of Wyoming County, 1868-1875; United States diplomatic agent, and consul-general at Cairo, Egypt, 1876-1881; commissioner to revise the judicial code of Egypt for use of mixed tribunals of Egypt, 1880-1881; judge of mixed tribunals of Egypt, 1881-1884; United States member of commission to examine claims and determine amounts to be paid inhabitants of Alexandria for losses arising from bombardment and burning of city in 1882; commission passed upon 10,000 claims and awarded $20,000,000 damages. He delivered political addresses in Presidential campaigns, 1856-1888; and was a delegate to the National Republican Convention, 1872. Judge Farman was decorated by the Khedive of Egypt, Grand Officer of the Imperial Order of Medjidieh; is a member of the Sons of the Revolution, Psi Upsilon fraternity (Amherst), and the Union League Club of New York. He is author of: Along the Nile with General Grant, 1904; Egypt and Its Betrayal, 1908. He married, first, in Madison, Ohio, Dec. 24, 1855, Lois Parker (died June 27, 1881); and second, Galesburg, Ill., Oct. 9, 1883, Adelaide Frisbie, by whom he has two daughters and a son. Address: Warsaw, N. Y.

FARNAM, Henry Walcott:

Political economist and educator; born in New Haven, Conn., Nov. 6, 1853; son of Henry and Ann Sophia (Whitman) Farnam. He was graduated from Yale, A.B. with Phi Beta Kappa honors, 1874, and A.M., 1876; took post-graduate work in political economy at the Universities of Berlin, Göttingen and Strassburg, receiving the degree of R.P.D. in 1878, and then became a tutor at Yale until taking, in 1880, his present chair as professor of political economy in Yale University. Professor Farnam is one of the editors of the Yale Review, is distinguished as a civil service reformer and has been chairman of the New Haven City Civil Service Board and president of the Connecticut Civil Service Reform Association. He was a member of the Committee of Fifty, and one of the editors of Economic Aspects of the Liquor Problem. Professor Farnam is a member of the Century, University, Yale and Reform Clubs of New York, and the Graduates' and Country Clubs of New Haven. He married, June 26, 1890, Elizabeth U. Kingsley, and they have three children. Address: 43 Hillhouse Avenue, New Haven, Conn.

FARRAGUT, Loyall:

Author; born in Norfolk, Va., 1844; son of Admiral David G. Farragut and Virginia L. Farragut. He was graduated from the United States Military Academy in 1888, but later resigned and was in the employ of the Central Railroad of New Jersey. Mr. Farragut is author of: Life of David Glasgow Farragut, First Admiral of the United States. He is a member of the Naval Order of the United States, American Geographical Society, the Military Order of the Loyal Legion, the Association of Graduates of the United States Military Academy and the Century Association and the University Club. He married in New York City, 1869, Gertrude Metcalfe.

Address: 113 East 36th Street, New York City.

FARRAR, Edgar Howard:

Lawyer; born at Concordia Parish, La., June 20, 1849; son of Thomas Prince and Anna (Girault) Farrar. He received his academic education at the University of Charlottesville, Va., graduating in 1871 with the degree of A.M. Thence, going to Baton Rouge, La., he took up the study of law at the Louisiana State University and passed his bar examinations in 1872. Since then he has practised at New Orleans. In 1878 he was appointed by the mayor assistant corporation counsel for the city and two years later became full corporation counsel. Mr. Farrar is one of the leading members of the Democratic party at New Orleans and was one of the organizers of National Democracy in 1896, which refused to accept the silver platform as that of the party. As a citizen, he has always stood for good government and for many years has been chairman of the Committee of One Hundred, organized to keep the city government out of the hands of unprincipled politicians. He led the prosecution against the band of Mafia who assassinated the chief of police and caused the riots at New Orleans. He married at New Orleans in 1878, Lucinda Davis Stamps. Address: 2209 St. Charles Avenue, New Orleans, La.

FARRELLY, Stephen:

Head of the American News Company of New York; is a native of Ireland, in which country he was born in 1843. His father, Owen Farrelly, emigrated with his family to this country, in 1848, and settled at Penn Yan, N. Y., where he himself educated his sons. After some years he removed with his family to New York City, where, when seventeen years of age, Stephen entered the service of Dexter & Bro., at that time wholesale news agents, but later prominent members of the great distributing organization known as the American News Company, which was established in 1864. After the founding of the American News Company he went to Savannah, Ga., undertook the rehabilitation of the old book firm of John M. Cooper & Company, which had been before the war one of the largest book and stationery concerns in the South, reorganized it as Cooper, Olcott and Farrelly and made it a great success. He sold his interest in 1869 and returned to New York, where he established the National News Company. This company prospered under his management, as a rival to the American News Company, but after a few years its business was merged with that of the latter concern, in which Mr. Farrelly now became a director. His residence in Philadelphia began in 1878, he having accepted the position of manager of the Central News Company, a branch house which the American News Company had established in that city in 1869. He was formerly president of the Catholic Club, and a member of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, the Citizens' Municipal Association of Philadelphia, the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society and the Penn and Art Clubs. He was also a director of the St. Joseph's Orphan Asylum, of the City Trust, Safe Deposit and Surety Company, and of the Beneficial Savings Fund Society. In 1902 Mr. Farrelly was transferred to New York, to become, in succession to his brother, the late Patrick Farrelly, the head of the American News Company, and he has directed the affairs of this great business with signal success. Address: 39 Chambers Street, New York City.

FARRINGTON, Edward Silsby:

Jurist; born at Yreka, Calif., Sept. 6, 1856; son of Daniel and Elizabeth Ann (Silsby) Farrington. He received his college education at Amherst, where he was graduated in 1880 with the degree of A.B.; and he received the degree of LL.D. from the University of Nevada, 1908. Following his graduation from Amherst he became a teacher in the West and in 1883 was placed at the head of Nevada State University, then at Elko Reno, Nev. Two years later he took up the study of law at the Hastings Law School in San Francisco and in 1887, returning to Nevada, was admitted to the bar of the State, and practising law until appointed, in 1907, to his present office of United States district judge for Nevada. He was a candidate of the Republican party for representative to Congress in 1900 and 1902. In 1904 he was member of the National Republican Convention held at Chicago. He is an Odd Fellow and also belongs to the Sage Brush Club at Carson, Nev. He married at Salt Lake City, Aug. 14, 1892, Celia Taber. Address: Carson, Nev.

FARRINGTON, Oliver Cummings:

Geologist; born in Brewer, Me., Oct. 9, 1864; son of Joseph Rider and Ellen E. (Holyoke) Farrington. He was graduated from Maine State College, B.S., 1881, M.S., 1888, and from Yale University, Ph.D., 1891. He taught in Maine academies, 1883-1886; was tutor in mineralogy in Yale University, 1890-1891; assistant in mineralogy, U. S. National Museum, 1893; curator of geology in the Field Columbian Museum, Chicago, since 1894. He was lecturer in mineralogy in the University of Chicago, 1895-1898; member of the International Jury of Awards, Louisiana Purchase Exposition, 1904. Dr. Farrington is author of: Gems and Gem Minerals, and of various articles in scientific magazines. He is a fellow of the Geological Society of America and the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and a charter member of the American Association of Museums. He married in Gloversville, N. Y., Aug. 3, 1896, Clara Adaline Bradley. Residence: 5741 Monroe Avenue. Office: Field Museum of Natural History, Chicago.

FARWELL, Granger:

Banker and broker; born in Chicago, May 25, 1857; son of Judge William W. and Mary E. (Granger) Farwell. He was educated in the public schools of Chicago and at Yale University, being graduated from the latter in 1878. His collegiate course was followed by two years spent in the study of law, but he did not enter into practice. He chose a mercantile career, and in 1880 entered the employ of James H. Pearson & Company, of Chicago, lumber merchants, and in 1882 was admitted to partnership in the concern. In 1890 he withdrew from the firm to become a member of the brokerage firm of Lobdell, Farwell & Company, which association continued until 1898, when the firm of Granger, Farwell & Company was organized, which, in April, 1907, was succeeded by the Farwell Trust Company, of which he is president. He is a director Chicago Stock Exchange; president and director the Farwell Trust Company; director the Pyle-National Electric Headlight Company; Diamond Match Company; director the University Club; chairman Board of directors, Utah Gas and Coke Company; director State Bank of Lake Forest; director the Western Trust and Savings Bank. He is a member of the Chicago, University, Onwentsia, and Merchants' Clubs of Chicago, and also of the University Club of New York City. He married, Dec. 23, 1880, Sarah C. Goodrich. Residence: Lake Forest, Ill. Address: 226 La Salle Street, Chicago.

FARWELL, Oliver Atkins

Librarian, botanist and drug inspector; born in Boston, Dec. 13, 1867; son of Oliver Atkins and Charlotte L. (Brokway) Farwell. In early boyhood he removed to Michigan and he was educated in the public schools and the Ypsilanti Normal School in that State. He was a teacher in the public schools, 1889-1890, and in the Michigan Normal School, 1890-1892; and in the latter year he became curator of the herbarium and librarian for Parke, Davis and Company, the noted manufacturing pharmacists of Detroit. Mr. Farwell is a member of the Society of Botanists of the Central States, the Michigan Academy of Sciences, Torrey Botanical Club, New York Academy of Science, National Geographic Society, and formerly member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and the Agassiz Association. He has written various papers on Michigan flora, in connection with which he has made special researches. In politics he is a Democrat, and in church relations a Congregationalist. His favorite recreations are shooting and fishing. Mr. Farwell is a member of the Modern Maccabees, of the New England Society in Detroit. Residence: 449 McClellan Avenue. Office: Care Parke, Davis and Company, Detroit, Mich.

FARWELL, William Gilmore

Medical director, U. S. A., retired; born in Canada, April 5, 1843. After graduation in medicine he was appointed from Michigan to the Medical Corps of the U. S. Army, Nov. 10, 1868, and served in various sea and shore duties of a medical officer of the Navy, reaching the grade of medical director, Jan. 22, 1900, in which he was retired by operation of law with the rank of captain, April 5, 1905. Address: St. Francis Court, 135th Street and Riverside Drive, New York City

FASSETT, Jacob Sloat

Congressman and lawyer; was born in Elmira, N. Y., Nov. 13, 1853, and has always lived in Elmira. He was graduated from the University of Rochester in June, 1875; was admitted to the bar as attorney in 1878, and as counselor in 1879. Immediately thereafter he was appointed by Governor Lucius Robinson to the office of district attorney for the county of Chemung, which position he held for one year. He then became a student at Heidelberg University, at Heidelberg, Germany. He was elected to the New York State Senate in 1883, and served eight years as senator; was elected temporary president of the senate in 1889; was secretary of the Republican national committee for the campaign of 1888; Sept. 9, 1891, he was nominated for governor of New York by the Republicans in State convention held at Rochester, but was defeated by Roswell P. Flower; was temporary chairman of the Republican national convention in Minneapolis in 1892; was temporary chairman of the Republican State convention held at Saratoga in 1904. Mr. Fassett was elected to the Fifty-ninth Congress in 1904, and in 1906 and 1908 was reelected to the Sixtieth and Sixty-first Congresses. Address: Elmira, N. Y.

FAUNCE, Daniel Worcester:

Clergyman; born at Plymouth, Mass., Jan. 3, 1829; son of Peleg and Olive Faunce. He was graduated from Amherst College, A.B., 1850, and afterward pursued his theological studies in the Newton Theological Institute at Newton, Mass., and was ordained to the ministry of the Baptist Church in 1853. He filled several important pastorates in New England, Washington, D. C., and afterward at Pawtucket, R. I., and is now retired from pastoral activities, but still identified with church interests as a member of the Board of Managers of the American Baptist Missionary Union. He received the degree of D.D. from Amherst College in 1870. Dr. Faunce's career has been one of great usefulness and influence in his denomination and beyond its bounds, not only as a pastor and pulpit orator, but also in highly valued contributions to religious literature. Two of his works, The Christian in the World and Prayer as a Theory and a Fact, each received, in different years, the Fletcher prize at Dartmouth College, and among his other best known books are: The Words and Works of Jesus; The Words and Acts of the Apostles; A Young Man's Difficulties with his Bible; The Resurrection in Nature and in Revelation; Hours with a Skeptic; Shall We Believe in a Divine Providence; Inspiration Considered as a Trend; Advent and Ascension. Dr. Faunce has been twice married, first at Bristol, R. I., in 1853, to Mary P. Perry, and second, at Boston, in 1871, to Mary E. Tucker. His children are: Rev. William Herbert Perry Faunce, D.D., LL.D., president of Brown University, and George P. Faunce and E. Howard Faunce, of Lynn, Mass., and Albert B. Faunce, of Chicago. Address: Providence, R. I.

FAUNCE, William Herbert Perry:

President of Brown University; born at Worcester, Mass., Jan. 15, 1859; son of Rev. Daniel Worcester and Mary Parkhurst (Perry) Faunce. He was graduated from Brown University, A.B., 1880, and received the degree of A.M. in 1883. The degree of LL.D. was conferred upon him by the Universities of Baylor and Alabama in 1904 and the degree of D.D. by Brown, Yale and Harvard Universities. After his graduation from Brown University, he became instructor of mathematics at that college until 1883. In 1884 he was ordained to the Baptist ministry and accepted a call as minister at Springfield, Mass. In 1889 he resigned, going to New York in the same capacity, where he officiated for ten years. While he was still holding the latter position, he was elected a trustee of Brown University in 1897, and also of the Newton Seminary in 1898. In 1899 he was elected president of Brown University, which position he still holds. Dr. Faunce is one of the most prominent educators in the United States; he has delivered many lectures and addresses. He was lecturer at the University of Chicago from 1906 to 1907, and was appointed Lyman Beecher lecturer at Yale University for the year 1907-1908. He was president of the Religious Education Association, 1906-1907. Dr. Faunce is also trustee of the Rhode Island School of Design, a member of the Rhode Island Metropolitan Park Commission, of the University Clubs in Providence, Boston and New York City, and of the Hope and Agwam Clubs in Providence. He married at Lynn, Mass., in 1884, Sarah R. Edson, and has one son. Residence: 180 Hope Street. Address: Brown University, Providence, R. I.

FAVERSHAM, William Alfred:

Actor; born in London, England, Feb. 12, 1868, the youngest of thirteen children. His first appearance on the stage was in 1887, in support of Helen Hastings at the Union Square Theater, New York. He joined the Lyceum Company for a time, and after leaving that appeared as Leo, in Rider Haggard's She, and with Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske in a number of plays. Returning to the Lyceum Company he appeared in various plays with them, and then went to the Empire Theater, New York, and played second parts, where at the end of the second year he succeeded Henry Miller as leading man—making his first appearance in that capacity as Gil de Berauld, in Under the Red Robe. He also appeared in The Conqueror, Lord and Lady Algy, and other plays, and played Romeo to the Juliet of Maude Adams. Mr. Faversham is one of the largest breeders of bull terriers in America. He has also a farm in the south of England, where he imports and breeds American trotting horses. Address: 28 East 76th Street, New York City.

FAVILL, Henry Baird:

Physician; born in Madison, Wis., Aug. 14, 1860; son of John and Louise Sophia (Baird) Favill. After being graduated from the University of Wisconsin, B.A., 1880, he entered Rush Medical College, Chicago, from which he was graduated M.D., 1883. He engaged in the practice of medicine; was appointed Ingals professor of therapeutics and preventive medicine at Rush Medical College in 1898, and has been professor of clinical medicine, at the same institution, since 1906. In politics he is a Republican and became president of the Municipal Voters' League in 1907. Dr. Favill is a member of the American Medical Association, American Academy of Medicine, Illinois State Medical Society, Chicago Medical Society, Chicago Pathological Society, American Association for the Advancement of Science, Chicago Society of Social Hygiene (member of its board of directors); president of the Chicago Tuberculosis Institute; member of the board of trustees of the Home for Destitute Crippled Children, and a member of the Nu Sigma Nu and Beta Theta Pi fraternities, the University, City, Quadrangle, Chicago Golf and Chicago Literary Clubs of Chicago, University Club of Milwaukee, City Club of New York, and the Caledon Mountain Trout Club. Dr. Favill married in Brooklyn, N. Y., June 17, 1885, Susan Cleveland Pratt, and they have one son. Residence: 469 Elm Street. Office: 100 State Street, Chicago.

FAWCETT, M. Edward:

Bishop of Quincy; born at New Hartford, Iowa, Nov. 1, 1865, son of Rev. Dr. William and Sarah (Houghton) Fawcett. He studied in the Upper Iowa University, and was graduated B.A., 1886, M.A., 1890, and Ph.D. in 1893. He was ordered deacon of the Episcopal Church in 1897, and in the same year was ordained priest by Bishop McLaren, after which he accepted a call from the Church of the Redeemer, of Elgin, Ill. He was its rector until 1901, when he was called to the rectorship of St. Bartholomew's Church, Chicago, where he remained until 1904. He resigned in 1904 to become bishop of Quincy, Ill. He was consecrated by Bishops Tuttle, Nicholson, Anderson, Seymour, Grafton, Edsall, Morrison (Iowa), Williams (bishop coadjutor of Nebraska), and Weller. Bishop Fawcett married in Chicago, Nov. 3, 1887, Esther L. Faul. Address: Quincy, Ill.

FAXON, Charles Edward:

Botanical artist; born at Roxbury, Mass., Jan. 21, 1846; son of Elisha and Hannah Mann (Whiting) Faxon. He was graduated from the Lawrence Scientific School of Harvard University as S.B. in 1867, and received the honorary A.M. degree from Harvard in 1897. He has been instructor in botany at Harvard, and is now assistant director of the Arnold Arboretum of Harvard University, at Jamaica Plain, Mass., and is especially distinguished in botanical art, having made drawings for plates for the foremost botanical works and publications. Mr. Faxon is a member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, Boston Natural History Society and New England Botanical Club. Address: Jamaica Plain, Mass.

FAXON, Frederick Winthrop:

Bibliographer; born at West Roxbury, Mass., Aug. 24, 1866; son of Marcus and Augusta Chalmers (Fernald) Faxon. He was graduated from the Boston Latin School in 1885, and from Harvard as A.B. in 1889, and since the latter date he has been manager of the library department of the Boston Book Company. He was secretary of the American Library Association, 1900-1903, and has been editor of the quarterly Bulletin of Bibliography since 1897. Mr. Faxon is author and compiler of the Magazine Subject-Index, Vol. 1, 1907, and the Annual Magazine Subject-Index for 1908 (1909). He married at Boston, May 16, 1900, Adeline True Thompson. Residence: Roslindale, Boston. Office: 83 Francis Street, Fenway, Boston.

FAXON, Walter:

Zoölogist; born in Roxbury, Mass., Feb. 4, 1848; son of Elisha and Hannah Mann (Whiting) Faxon. He was educated at Harvard University, A.B., 1871, Sc.D., 1878. He was assistant in the Zoölogical Laboratory, 1873-1877; instructor, 1877-1881, and assistant professor of zoölogy, 1881-1886, in Harvard, and assistant in charge of mollusca and crustacea in the Museum, since 1886 in the Museum of Comparative Zoölogy at Cambridge, Mass. Dr. Faxon is a fellow of the American Ornithologists' Union; member of the Washington Academy of Sciences, Washington Biological Society and other zoölogical societies; and is author of numerous scientific monographs and contributions. Residence: Lexington, Mass. Address: Museum of Comparative Zoölogy, Cambridge, Mass.

FAY, Henry:

Chemist and educator; born in Williamsburg, Pa., Jan. 12, 1868; son of John Fay, M. D., and Sarah C. (Royer) Fay. He was graduated from Lafayette College, A.B., 1889, A.M., 1892, and Johns Hopkins University, Ph.D., 1895. He was assistant in the chemical laboratory of the Pennsylvania Railroad at Altoona, Pa., 1889-1890; lecture assistant in Johns Hopkins University, 1893-1895; instructor in analytical chemistry in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 1895-1900, assistant professor, 1900-1905, associate professor, 1905-1907, and professor of analytical chemistry since 1907 in the same institution. Dr. Fay has published many papers in scientific journals on analytical chemistry and metallography.

He is a member of the American Chemical Society, American Association for Testing Materials, American Academy of Arts and Sciences, British Iron and Steel Institute, Phi Kappa Psi fraternity, University and Technology Clubs of Boston, and Brae Burn Country Club. He married, Sept. 19, 1908, Marie F. Phelps, of Boston. Address: Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Boston.

FEARN, Richard Lee:

Chief of the Washington Bureau of the New York Tribune since 1902; born in Mobile, Ala., Aug. 31, 1862; son of Dr. Richard Lee and Elizabeth (Spear) Fearn. He was educated at the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn., the University of Alabama, and the Stevens Institute of Technology at Hoboken, N. J., from which he was graduated with the degree of M.E. in 1884. He began newspaper work with the Brooklyn Eagle in 1886, and was its Washington correspondent, 1887-1891. He was secretary of foreign affairs for the World's Columbian Exposition, 1891-1893; was on the Washington staff of the United Press, 1893-1895, and one of its London correspondents in 1895, joining the staff of the New York Tribune in 1897. He is a member of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity, and he has been secretary and vice-president and president of the Gridiron Club in Washington. Mr. Fearn married in Baltimore, April 21, 1887, Eleanor Egerton, and they have two children. Residence: 2202 Massachusetts Avenue. Office: 1322 F. Street, Washington, D. C.

FEDIGAN, John J.:

Provincial of the Order of Saint Augustine in the United States since July, 1898; born in County Meath, Ireland, April 27, 1812; son of James Fedigan and Ann (McGovern) Fedigan, with whom he came to the United States in childhood. He received his education at Westchester, Penn., and Wilmington, Del., until 1860, was graduated from Saint Mary's College in 1864. He then went to Ghent, Belgium, and entered the novitiate of the Augustinian

Fathers, where he completed the ecclesiastical course. He was ordained priest in 1868, filled various pastorates, built several churches, and in 1898 was made provincial of the Augustinian order. Address: Bryn Mawr, Pa.

FEEHAN, Daniel F.:

Catholic bishop; consecrated in 1907, bishop of the Diocese of Fall River in Massachusetts. Address: Fall River, Mass.

FELL, Thomas:

President of St. John's College; born in Liverpool, England, July 15, 1851; son of Thomas and Hannah (Corry) Fell. He was educated at the Royal Institution School in Liverpool, Kings' College, London, and the University of London, England, and for two years at the University of Munich. He has received the degrees of A.B., A.M., and Ph.D., and later the honorary degrees of LL.D. from Hampden-Sidney College, Virginia, and of D.C.L. from the University of the South. He was professor of ancient and modern languages in New Windsor College, Maryland, 1884-1886, has been president of St. John's College, Annapolis, Md., since July, 1886; and also became vice-chancellor of the University of Maryland in February, 1907. Dr. Fell made a tour of Egypt, India and China, 1874-1876, and of France, Germany and Italy, 1878-1879. He is a vestryman of St. Anne's Episcopal Church in Annapolis, a member of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, American Philological Society, the Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity, the Carpenters' Guild, of London, England, and the University Club of Baltimore. He married in London, April 21, 1881, Isabella L. Hunter, and they have two children. Address: St. John's College, Annapolis, Md.

FELLOWS, George Emory:

College president; born at Beaver Dam, Wis., June 9, 1858; son of George and Emeline (Gurnee) Fellows. He was graduated from Lawrence University, B.A., 1879. M.A., 1882, and received from that University the L.H.D. degree in 1902; attended the University of Munich and Berne, 1888-1890, received the Ph.D. degree from Berne, 1890; and the degree of LL.D. was conferred upon him by Bowdoin College in 1902. He served as principal of Eau Claire (Wisconsin) Seminary, 1879-1880; instructor at Ryan High School, Appleton, Wis., from 1883 to 1885; at Central High School, New Orleans, La., 1885-1888. He was principal of the Aurora (Ill.) High School, 1890-1891; professor of European history in Indiana University, 1891-1895; assistant professor of history at the University of Chicago, 1895-1902, and has been president and professor of history at the University of Maine since 1902. He is a member of the New Orleans Academy of Sciences, National Educational Association, American Historical Association; secretary of the National Association of State Universities, and he is a member of the University Club of Boston, and the Twentieth Century Club of Bangor, Me. Professor Fellows married in Randolph, Wis., Oct. 25, 1881, Lucia Russell, and they have three children. Address: Orono, Me.

FELT, Ephraim Porter:

Entomologist; born Salem, Mass., Jan. 7, 1868; son of Charles Wilson and Martha Seeth (Ropes) Felt. He was educated in the Massachusetts Agricultural College, and Boston University, being graduated B.S. in 1891; Cornell University, D. S., 1894 (fellow in entomology, 1892-1893). Dr. Felt is a specialist in entomology; he was teacher of natural sciences, in the Clinton Lincal Institute (Fort Plain, N. Y.), 1893-1895; assistant to State entomologist, 1895-1898; and has been New York State entomologist since December, 1898. Dr. Felt is editor of the Journal of Economic Entomology, associate editor of the Journal of the New York Entomological Society, entomological editor of the Country Gentleman, and consulting entomologist of the Garden Magazine, is a writer for several agricultural and horticultural papers and has published numerous articles on entomology. He has prepared numerous bulletins and reports issued by the State, the more important being: Scale Insects of Importance; Mosquitos of New York State; and a monograph on Insects Affecting Park and Woodland Trees. (a quarto volume of over 800 pages, illustrated by 70 plates). Important investigations on aquatic insects have been conducted under his direction. Dr. Felt is a member of the Society for the Promotion of Agricultural Science, the Western New York Horticultural Society, the New York State Fruit Growers' Association, Connecticut Promological Society, fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science; member of Sigma Xi, the Association of Economic Entomologists (past president) Entomological Society of Washington, Entomological Society of America, Société Entomologique de France, New York Entomological Society, Albany Entomological Society, Albany Institute, and the Historical and Art Society of Albany. Dr. Felt married at Berlin, Mass., June 24, 1896, Helen Maria Otterson, and they have three children. Address: Geological Hall, Albany, N. Y.

FELTON, Samuel Morse:

Railway president; born in Philadelphia, Feb. 3, 1853. He was educated in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Boston, and entered railroad service, 1868, as rodman on the Chester Creek Railroad; became leveller and assistant engineer of the Lancaster Railroad; 1870-1871: chief engineer of the Chester and Delaware River Railroad, 1873-1874; general superintendent of the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and St. Louis Railway, 1874-1881, general superintendent of the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and St. Louis, Little Miami and Cincinnati and Muskingum Valleys railways, 1881-1882; general manager of the New York and New England Railroad, 1882-1884. He became assistant to the president of the Erie Railroad from February to November, 1884; general manager of the New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio Railroad; 1884-1885, vice-president Erie Railroad, 1885-1890; president of the Cincinnati New Orleans and Texas Pacific Railway Company, 1890-1893 and after that receiver of the same road until 1899, and during a portion of this time also president East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railway and Louisville Southern Railroad, receiver Kentucky and Indiana Bridge Company, June 1, 1897, to Sept. 7, 1899. Was president of the Chicago and Alton Railroad from 1899 to 1907, and during the same period president of the Joliet and Chicago and the Kansas City, St. Louis and Chicago Railroads. Since 1907 he has been president of the Mexican Central Railroad and of the Mexican-American Steamship Company. He is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, Sons of the Revolution, Society of Colonial Wars, Ohio Society, and New England Society in New York; also member of the Chicago Athletic Association, and Chicago and Chicago Golf Clubs; the St. Louis and St. Louis Racquet Clubs; the Commercial Club of Cincinnati; the University and City Midday Clubs of New York, and the Jockey Club of the City of Mexico. Address: Chicago.

FENN, Harry:

Artist; born in Richmond, Surrey, England, Sept. 14, 1838; son of James and Marian (Bridges) Fenn. He was educated in England and came to the United States in 1857. He was the suggester and principal illustrator of: Picturesque America; Picturesque Europe; Picturesque Palestine, Sinai and Egypt; illustrator of many books and contributor to leading American magazines. He was the recipient of a medal from the World's Columbian Exposition, Chicago, 1893. Mr. Fenn was one of the founders of the American Water Color Society; is a member of the New York Water Color Club and the Salmagundi Club. He married in Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 10, 1862, Marian A. Thompson, and they have four daughters and a son. He has a summer home at Rockynck, East Gloucester, Mass. Address: The Majestic, 684 St. Nicholas Avenue, New York City.

FENN, William Wallace:

Dean of Harvard Divinity School; born in Boston, Feb. 12, 1862; son of William Wallace and Hannah Morrill (Osgood) Fenn. He was graduated from Boston Latin School, 1880, from Harvard, A.B., 1884, A.M. and B.D., 1887. He was ordained in the Unitarian ministry in 1890; was minister of Unity

Church, Pittsfield, Mass., 1887-1891, and of the First Unitarian Society of Chicago, 1891-1901; since 1901, Bussey professor of theology, and since 1906 dean of Harvard Divinity School. He married at Lanesborough, Mass., May 28, 1891, Faith Huntington Fisher, and they have a daughter and four sons. Address: Harvard Divinity School, Cambridge, Mass.

FEREBEE, Nelson Macpherson:

Medical director U. S. Navy, retired; born in North Carolina. He was appointed from that State assistant surgeon U. S. Navy Sept. 12, 1872, and served in various sea and shore duties as a medical officer of the navy, reaching the grade of medical director U. S. Navy Jan. 26, 1902. He was retired, Dec. 31, 1904, with the rank of captain for incapacity resulting from incident of service. Address: Oxford, N. C.

FERGUSON, Louis Aloysius:

Electrical engineer; born at Dorchester, Mass., Aug. 19, 1867; son of Denis and Louisa Ferguson. He was graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, B.S. in Electrical Engineering, 1888, and since that time has been engaged with the Chicago Edison Company, successively as electrical engineer, general superintendent, and since July, 1902, second vice-president of that company and of the Commonwealth Electric Company, the two companies controlling the electric lighting business of Chicago. Upon the consolidation of these companies in 1907 he was made second vice-president of the Commonwealth Edison Company. Mr. Ferguson was elected president of the Association of Edison Illuminating Companies in 1901 and again in 1902. The latter year he was also elected president of the National Electric Light Association. In 1908 he was elected president of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. He is a director of the North Shore Electric Company, and is a member of the Commercial, and Union League Clubs, Chicago Athletic Association, Midway and University Clubs of Chicago, Onwentsia and Glen View Golf Clubs and the Country Club of Evanston. Mr. Ferguson married in Dorchester, Mass., June 21, 1892, Martha Sargent Jenkins. They have had four children, Louis, John (deceased), Arthur and Martha. Residence, Evanston, Ill. Office: 139 Adams Street, Chicago.

FERGUSON, Samuel David:

Missionary bishop; born in Charleston, S. C., Jan. 1, 1842; son of Edward and Roseine Elizabeth Ferguson. He emigrated with his parents to Liberia in 1842, and was trained in the Mission Schools, received the degree of D.D. from Kenyon College in 1885, and that of D.C.L. from Liberia College in 1893. He was ordered deacon in 1865 and ordained to the priesthood of the Episcopal Church by Bishop Payne, in 1868. He has been missionary bishop of Cape Palmas and vicinity since 1885, having been consecrated in that year at Grace Church in New York City, by Bishop Lee, Stevens, Littlejohn, Starkey and H. C. Potter. He is author of numerous addresses, pamphlets, etc. Bishop Ferguson is the first of the African race to be consecrated to the episcopate of the Protestant Episcopal Church. He has been twice married, first in April, 1863, to Mary Leonora Montgomery, and after her death to Sarah Elizabeth Brown. Address: Monrovia, Liberia, West Africa.

FERNALD, Bert M.:

Governor of Maine; elected at the State election in September, 1908, on the Republican ticket, to the office of governor for the two-year term expiring in January, 1911. Address: Augusta, Me.

FERNALD, Charles Henry:

Entomologist and educator; born at Mt. Desert, Me., March 16, 1838; son of Eben and Sophronia (Wassgatt) Fernald. He attended public schools and worked on the home farm until seventeen years old; then went to sea during the summers, rising from the lowest position to the highest, and taught school winters and attended Maine Wesleyan Seminary; entered the U. S. Navy as seaman in 1862, serving until 1865 and becoming line officer, and resigned at the end of the war. He completed his college courses while serving in the Navy, became principal of Litchfield Academy one year, and of Houlton Academy five years; and he received the degree of A.M. from Bowdoin College, 1871, and Ph.D. from the University of Maine in 1886. He was professor of natural history in the University of Maine, 1871-1886, and since 1886 has been professor of zoölogy in the Massachusetts Agricultural College, of which institution he was acting president 1891-1892. Professor Fernald has attained distinction as a scientist in the field of entomology by his researches as entomologist of the State Board of Agriculture and independently in reference to the Crambidae Pterofordæ and Pyrolidæ of North America, and Tortricidæ of the world. He bore a prominent part in the gypsie moth investigations of the State of Massachusetts, and has written numerous monographs and articles on entomological subjects. He is a member and was president in 1896 of the Association of Economic Entomologists; member of the Boston Society of Natural History and fellow of the London Entomological Society. He married at Tremont, Me., Aug. 24, 1862, Maria Elizabeth Smith and they have one son, Professor Henry T. Fernald. Address: Amherst, Mass.

FERNALD, Henry Torsey:

Entomologist; born at Litchfield, Me., April 17, 1866; son of Professor Charles Henry and Maria Elizabeth (Smith) Fernald. He was educated at the University of Maine, from which he received the degrees of B.S. in 1885 and M.S. in 1888, then taking post-graduate studies at Johns Hopkins University, from which he received the degree of Ph.D. in 1890. He was professor of zoölogy in the Pennsylvania State College, 1890-1899, and State zoölogist of Pennsylvania, 1898-1899; and since 1899 has been professor of entomology in the Massachusetts Agricultural College; also State nursery inspector of Massachusetts, since 1902. Professor Fernald is a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Association of Economic Entomologists, American Society of Naturalists and other scientific societies. Dr. Fernald married in Baltimore, Md., 1890, Minna R. Simon, and they have one son and two daughters. Address: Amherst, Mass.

FERRIS, Harry B.:

Physician and professor of Anatomy; Medical Department, Yale University; born at Old Greenwich, Conn., May 21, 1865; son of Samuel Holmes Ferris and Mary F. (Clark) Ferris. He was graduated from Yale, B.A., 1887, and Yale Medical School as M.D. in 1890. He is a member of the Connecticut Medical Society, New Haven County and City Societies, American Naturalists, American Zoölogical Society, American Anatomy Society, American Microscopical Society, the Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi, Delta Epsilon Iota Chapter of Nu Sigma Nu (medical). Dr. Ferris is also a member of the Graduates' and Lawn Clubs. He married at Sound Beach, Conn., June 23, 1892, Helen Whiting Ferris, and they have two children. Residence: 395 St. Ronan Street. Office: 150 York Street, New Haven, Conn.

FERRIS, Madison J. H.:

Lawyer; born in New York City, Aug. 4, 1846; son of Oliver Lockwood and Hannah (Holmes) Ferris. He was educated in Charlier's French Institute, New York City, and finished his legal education in law school. He studied law in the office of the Hon. Roger A. Pryor, 1867; and was admitted to the bar in 1868, and engaged in politics in 1871, speaking in many States in support of the Democratic ticket in the national campaigns. Since 1895 he has given exclusive attention to the legal matters of the Salvation Army, throughout the United States, and has visited Europe twice in that connection. Mr. Ferris is a Democrat in politics and a Salvationist in his religious views. He is a member of the Colfax Lodge, Royal Arcanum; the New York County Lawyers Association, Trine Lodge No. 159 of F. & A. Masons at Arlington, N. J.; director in the Hudson County Building and Loan Association; director in and counsel to the Arlington Home Protective Association; trustee of the Salvation Army corporation; director of the Reliance Realty Company, Industrial Homes Company; trustee in The Incorporated Trustees of The Salvation Army in Pennsylvania and secretary of the Board, and director in The Salvation Army of Massachusetts Incorporated and secretary of the Board. He married first, in New York City in 1873, Laura Barker, who died in 1884; and second, July 9, 1902, Mrs. Caroline L. Welsh, and has five children: Eva Bruce, born in 1881, Madison B., born in 1885, Ruth E., born in 1884, Charles R., born in 1886, and Henry J. L., born in 1889. Address: 120 West 14th Street, New York City.

FESSENDEN, Franklin Goodridge:

Jurist; born in Fitchburg, Mass., June 20, 1849; son of Charles and Martha Elizabeth (Newton) Fessenden, grandson of Nathan and Jane (Goodridge) Fessenden, and of Martin and Susan (Chamberlain) Newton, and a descendant of Nicholas and Margaret (Cheney) Fessenden, who came from Canterbury, England, to Cambridge, Mass., in 1674; of William Goodridge, Watertown, 1636, and Richard Newton, Sudbury, Mass., 1640. Mr. Fessenden was graduated from the Fitchburg High School and then studied in Paris, France. He was instructor in French at Harvard. He took the full three-year course at the Harvard Law School, 1870-1873, and received LL.B. He practised law in Fitchburg, 1873, and in Greenfield, Mass., 1874-1891. He was admitted to practice in the United States Courts in 1883; was a lecturer on criminal law in Dane Law School, Harvard University, 1882-1883. He was master in chancery for many years; was attorney for the National Bank of Greenfield and district attorney pro tempore for the Northwestern District of Massachusetts. He served as a trustee of the Prospect Hill School from 1881; of the Franklin Savings Institution from 1884, and became vice-president of the board. He was appointed by Governor William E. Russell a justice of the Supreme Court of Commonwealth of Massachusetts, in August, 1891. He is a member of the Greenfield Club; of the Colonial Club of Cambridge, and of the Union, University and Tavern Clubs of Boston. He is a contributor to the Harvard Law Review on intricate points of law. He married, Oct. 3, 1878, Mary Jane Rowley. Residence: High and Main Streets, Greenfield, Mass.

FESSENDEN, Reginald Aubrey:

Electrical engineer; born at Bolton, Province of Quebec, Canada, Oct. 6, 1866; son of Rev. E. J. Fessenden, of a New England family of Cambridge, Mass., and Clementina (Trendolm) Fessenden. He was educated at the De Veaux Military School at Suspension Bridge, N. Y., and Trinity College School, Port Hope, Ontario, until 1883, then studied electrical engineering practically. He held prominent positions with the Edison Company, New York, the laboratory of Thomas A. Edison at Menlo Park, New Jersey, and with the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company at Newark, N. J. He was professor of physics and electrical engineering in Purdue University, 1892-1893, and professor of electrical engineering in the Western University of Pennsylvania from 1893 to 1900, when he became special agent of the United States Weather Bureau. He is now general manager of the National Electric Signalling Company, having perfected a number of inventions in connection with wireless telegraphy, developing the Fessenden system of aerial communication. He is author of many papers and monographs relating to physics and electricity. Mr. Fessenden married in 1889, Helen May Trott, of Bermuda, and they have a son. Address: Brant Rock, Mass.

FETTEROLF, Adam H.:

President of Girard College since 1883; born in Perkiomen, Pa., Nov. 25, 1841. He was educated in Ursinus College, Pa., received the honorary degrees of A.M., 1866 and Ph.D., 1878, from Lafayette College, Pa., and Hon. LL.D. from Delaware College, Del., 1886. He began life as a public school teacher; became principal of Freeland Seminary, now Ursinus College, in 1865; principal of Andalusia Hall, Pennsylvania, 1870-1880; vice-president of Girard College, 1880-1883, and since then president. Dr. Fetterolf married first, in 1865, Annie, daughter of George Hergesheimer of Germantown, Pa., and second, in 1883, Laura M., daughter of William D. Mangum of New York City. Address: Girard College, Philadelphia.

FEWKES, Jesse Walter:

Ethnologist; born at Newton, Mass., Nov. 14, 1850. He was graduated from Harvard College, A.B., 1875, A.M. (in natural history) and Ph.D., 1877; then studied zoology at the University of Leipzig, 1878-1880. He was assistant at the Museum of Comparative Zoology of Harvard College, 1881-1889, editor of the Journal of Ethnology and Archeology, 1890-1894 and since 1895 has been ethnologist of the Bureau of American Ethnology in the Smithsonian Institution at Washington. Dr. Fewkes is a fellow of the American Association of the Advancement of Science; member of the American Society of Naturalists, American Folk-lore Society; fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, Washington Anthropological Society and the Deutsche Anthropologische Gesellschaft. He is author of many monographs on American archaeology and ethnology, and is especially well-known for his researches in relation to the ceremonies of the Moqui Indians, and the ruins of the Southwest. He has also had charge of the excavation and repair of Casa Grande, Ariz., Cliff Palace and Spruce Tree House, in the Mesa Verde National Park, Colo., for the Smithsonian Institution and the Department of the Interior. Dr. Fewkes married at Cambridge, Mass., April 4, 1898, Harriet O. Cutler. Address: Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D. C.

FIALA, Anthony:

Author, lecturer; born in Jersey City Heights, N. J., Sept. 19, 1869; son of Anthony and Annie (Kohout) Fiala. He was educated in the public schools of Jersey City and Brooklyn, Cooper Union and the National Academy of Design. He began business life as designer and stone artist in lithography; later was assistant in a physical and chemical laboratory; five years newspaper artist and cartoonist. He installed the photo-engraving plant for the Brooklyn Daily Eagle and was in charge of Art and Engraving Department of that paper, 1891-1899. He was war correspondent for the Brooklyn Daily Eagle while a trooper in Troop C, 1st New York Volunteer Cavalry in the Spanish-American War, 1898; took part in the engagement of Coamo, and in skirmishes at Asomante and Aibonito. He was commissioned battalion quartermaster and 1st lieutenant, 11th Regiment National Guard of New York, June 18, 1900, and was instructor of military engineering of the same; commissioned second lieutenant and quartermaster Squadron "C" National Guard of New York, May 22, 1908; photographer of the Baldwin-Ziegler Polar Expedition, 1901-1902; commanding officer of the Ziegler Polar Expedition, 1903-1905. He reached 82 degrees 4 minutes North Latitude; explored Franz Josef Archipelago, discovering new islands, etc., the scientific results of this Ziegler Polar Expedition, being published by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C., 1907. He is secretary and treasurer of the Ziegler Publishing Company for the Blind, and advertising manager of the Realty Trust Company, New York City. Mr. Fiala is a member of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, American Geographical Society, National Geographic Society; honorary member of the Yukon Polar Institute; honorary member of the Societa dei Reduci Dalle Patrie Battaglie di San Giovanni in Persicoto, Bologna, Italy, and a member of the Explorers, Arctic and Ends of the Earth Clubs of New York City. He is author of: Troop C in Service, 1899; Fighting the Polar Ice, 1906. Mr. Fiala married in Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 6, 1906, Mary Clare Puryear, and they have two sons. Residence: 221 Eastern Parkway, Brooklyn. Office: 60 Liberty Street, New York City.

FIEBEGGER, Gustave Joseph:

Engineer, soldier, educator; born in Akron, Ohio, May 9, 1858; son of Joseph and Rosalie May Fiebeger. He was graduated from the U. S. Military Academy, West Point, 1879. He served as officer in the Corps of Engineers, U. S. A., 1879-1896; was detailed to river and harbor improvements in Virginia, North Carolina, and Washington, D. C., and since 1896, has been professor of civil and military engineering in the U. S. Military Academy, with the rank of colonel, U. S. A. He is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, and of the Century Association of New York City. He married in Akron, Ohio, in 1887, Anna Perkins Upson. Address: West Point, N. Y.

FIELD, Roswell Martin:

Journalist and author; born in St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 1, 1851; son of Roswell M. Field, and brother of the late Eugene Field, poet and literateur. He was educated in Phillips Exeter Academy, New Hampshire and in the University of Missouri. After leaving the University, Mr. Field engaged in Newspaper work; and he has been connected with leading daily papers in San Francisco, St. Louis, Kansas City, New York and, during recent years in Chicago, where he has been on the staff of the Evening Post, Chicago Tribune and other papers. He collaborated with his brother Eugene, in some of his most famous productions, including imitations and new renderings of the classics. Besides many newspaper and magazine contributions Mr. Field is author of the books: In Sunflower Land; Echoes from the Sabine Farm; The Passing of Mother's Portrait; The Romance of an Old Fool; The Bondage of Ballinger; Little Miss Dee; Madeline. Residence: 35 Bittersweet Place, Chicago.

FIELD, Wells Lafin:

Rear-admiral U. S. Navy, retired; born in St. Louis, Jan. 31, 1846; son of Matthew D. and Clarissa (Lafin) Field. He was appointed from New York to the U. S. Naval Academy, Nov. 20, 1862, was graduated in the class of 1867; promoted ensign, 1868; master, 1879; lieutenant commander, 1892; commander, April, 1898; captain, June 16, 1902; and retired Nov. 20, 1902, after more than forty years' service, with the rank of rear admiral. He is a member of the Army and Navy Club of Washington, D. C., and of the University, New York Yacht and Larchmont Yacht Clubs of New York City. Address: 190 Montague Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

FILLEBROWN, Charles Bowdoin:

Manufacturer and political economist; born at Winthrop, Me., Dec. 26, 1842; son of James Bowdoin and Almira (Butler) Fillebrown. He was educated at Kent's Hill, Me., and at Phillips Academy, Exeter, N. H., in 1862, and from that school entered the Twenty-fourth Maine Infantry for nine months, then to the Twenty-ninth Maine Infantry, in which he served for three years in the First Division of the Nineteenth Army Corps. He was aide-de-camp on staff of General William Dwight, commanding the First Brigade during Banks' Second Red River Expedition, and again when he commanded the Division in Sheridan's Shenandoah Valley Campaign. The last year of service ending June 1866, he was acting assistant adjutant-general of the Military District of Eastern South Carolina, garrisoned by the First Brigade. He attended the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 1866-1867, and has since been engaged in the dry goods business. From 1881 to 1903 he was president and general manager of the Glenark Knitting Company at Woonsocket, R. I. Mr. Fillebrown has attained great prominence as a writer and propagandist of the Single Tax theory of Henry George, and his more important contributions to this subject are preserved in book form in "The A B C of Taxation," Doubleday, Page & Co., 1909. He married at Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 9, 1873, Mary Louise Hall, who died in 1887; he has one daughter, Mrs. Louise Jackson Murray. Residence: Newton, Mass. Office: 68 Essex Street, Boston, Mass.

FILLER, Mervin G.:

Professor of Latin; born at Boiling Springs, Pa., Oct. 9, 1873; son of Peter P. and Elizabeth (Shuh) Filler. He was graduated from Dickinson College A.B., 1893, A. M., 1895; studied in the University of Chicago in 1900-1901, and the University of Pennsylvania, 1906-1907. He was vice-principal of Dickinson Preparatory School, 1893-1899, and has been professor of Latin in Dickinson College since 1899. He served as dean of the Pennsylvania Chautauqua Summer School for teachers, 1902-1907, and in 1907 he was elected Chancellor of the Pennsylvania Chautauqua and Summer School. He is a member of the American Philological Association, Archaeological Institute of America, Phi Beta Kappa Society, and the Phi Kappa Sigma Fraternity. He married at Boiling Springs, Pa., June 12, 1895, Mildred E. Beitzel, and they have three children. Address: Carlisle, Pa.

FINCH, Edward Ridley:

Lawyer; born in New York City, Nov. 15, 1873. He was graduated from Yale as A.B., 1895 (received special honors in political science and law); from the Columbia University Law School, LL.B., 1898, and was admitted to the New York bar in 1898. He was a member of the firm of Tappan and Finch, now Finch and Coleman. Mr. Finch was a member of the New York State Assembly, 1901-1904; author of bill placing those who fail to register and vote upon preferred list for jury service; also laws designed to protect the labor of women and children, known as child labor laws; identified with educational laws and movements, and author of important measures affecting the government of the City of New York. He is a writer and a lecturer on Municipal Government; a member of the National Bar Association, State Bar Association, Association of the Bar of the City of New York, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, St. Nicholas Society, Phi Beta Kappa Society, Sons of the American Revolution. He is identified in New York City with the work of the betterment and uplifting of boys and young men, and is a trustee of the Southern Dispensary and a director of Legal Aid Society. He is a member of the City, Republican, and Yale Clubs, Baltusrol Golf and Plainfield Tennis and Golf Clubs and the Fort Orange Country Club of Albany, N. Y. Residence: 37 Fifth Avenue. Office: 32 Nassau Street, New York City.

FINCH, John Wellington:

Geologist and mine manager; born at Lebanon, N. Y., Nov. 3, 1873; son of De-

Loss and Mary Ellen (Lillibridge) Finch. He was graduated from Colgate Academy, 1890, from Colgate University, A.B., 1897, instructor in geology and physics, and A.M. in 1898 at Colgate University, and graduate student and instructor in geology in the University of Chicago, 1898-1899. He was engaged in geological work in Indian Territory and Texas for the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway in 1899; was geologist for the Gold Coin, Doctor and other mines in Cripple Creek in 1900 for the Portland Gold Mining Company, and Stratton's Independence, Limited, in 1901; made examinations in Colorado, Arizona, Mexico, Montana, Wyoming, Utah and Nevada for the Guggenheim Exploration Company, Amalgamated Copper Company, etc., 1901-1903; conducted a geological engineering office in Denver, 1903-1906, and was State geologist of Colorado, 1901-1906. In 1906 and 1907 he was general manager for United States Senator George S. Nixon and George Wingfield, and director and general manager of the Goldfield Consolidated Mines Company and other mining companies of Nevada and California, and he spent the year 1908, in travel in Europe. Mr. Finch has visited nearly every State in the United States, much of Mexico and some of Canada. He is a member of the American Institute of Mining Engineers, the Colorado Scientific Society, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the Nevada Mining and Scientific Society, and is president of the latter; and he is a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity. Mr. Finch is a member of the Denver, University, Country and Mile High Clubs of Denver, and the Rocky Mountain Club of New York City. He married in Philadelphia, April 10, 1900, Ethel Ione Woods, and they have a daughter, Ione Lillibridge Finch. Offices: Rooms 14-17, No. 71 Broadway, New York City, and 811-812 Ideal Building, Denver, Colo.

FINCK, Henry Theophilus:

Journalist and author; born in Bethel, Mo., Sept. 22, 1854; son of Henry C. and Beatrice (Pink) Finck. He was graduated from Harvard University as A.B., with highest honors in philosophy in 1876; and the Harris Fellowship in Berlin and Heidelberg. Since 1881 he has been musical critic and general editorial writer on the staff of the New York Evening Post and the Nation. In politics he is an Independent. Mr. Finck is author of: Pacific Coast Scenic Tour; Spain and Morocco; Lotos Time in Japan; Romantic Love and Personal Beauty; Primitive Love; Wagner and his Works; Chopin and other Musical Essays; Paderewski and His Art; Songs and Song Writers; Grieg and his Music; Development of Musical Instruments. Mr. Finck married in 1890, Abbie H. Cushman. Address: Evening Post, New York City.

FINE, Henry Burchard:

Mathematician and educator; born in Chambersburg, Pa., Sept. 14, 1858; son of Lambert Suydam and Mary (Burchard) Fine. He was educated in Princeton, A.B., 1880, and the University of Leipzig, and received the honorary degree LL.D. from Williams College, 1909, Ph.D., 1885. He was tutor in mathematics at Princeton, 1881-1884; assistant professor, 1885-1890, and since 1891 has been Dod professor of mathematics in Princeton University, of which he has also been dean of the faculty since 1908. Professor Fine is author of: The Number System in Algebra; also of a College Algebra, and (with Professor H. D. Thompson) of a Coördinate Geometry; and is also author of Monographs and Papers on the singularities of curves, the functions defined by differential equations, the number concept and other mathematical subjects. Address: Princeton, N. J.

FINK, Evert Scott:

Real estate; born in Wheeling, W. Va., May 5, 1873; son of John and Elizabeth (Scott) Fink. He was educated at the University of Zürich, Switzerland. He is president of the Celtic Avenue Realty Company, president, Metropolitan Dredging Company; vice-president, Turner-Fink Company, Maurice Realty Company, and Mercantile Land and Improvement Company; director Dauphin Realty Company, Conestoga Realty Company, Thompson Avenue Realty Company. He is a Republican and a member of the Illinois Society of New York, of the Lawyers', and City Clubs, and the Fairfield County Golf Club. He married at Watseka, Ill., Nov. 8, 1898, Alice Alter. Address: 115 Broadway, New York City.

FINK, Henry:

Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Norfolk & Western Railway; born in Germany, Nov. 29, 1831. He was educated in the Polytechnic School of Darmstadt. Mr. Fink has been in railway service since March 20, 1851; was rodman and transitman of the Western Maryland Railroad, 1851; typographer and draughtsman on surveys and location of the Parkersburg Branch of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, 1851-1852, resident engineer on construction of the same branch, 1852-1855, resident engineer on construction of the Norfolk & Petersburg Railroad, 1855-1858; master road and master of transportation, Norfolk & Petersburg Railroad, 1858-1867; superintendent of transportation of the same road and South Side and Virginia and Tennessee Railroads, 1867-1871; superintendent of transportation of the Atlantic, Mississippi and Ohio Railroad, 1871-1876; receiver and general manager of the same road, 1876-1881; second vice-president and general manager of the Norfolk & Western Railroad, 1881-1883; vice-president and general manager of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railway, and general manager of the Virginia, Tennessee & Georgia Air Line, 1881-1888; receiver of the East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia Railway, 1885-1886, vice-president of the same road, 1886-1892; vice-president of the Richmond & Danville Railroad, April-December, 1887; vice-president of the Memphis & Charleston Railroad, 1887-1892; vice-president of the Cincinnati, New Orleans & Texas Pacific Railway, 1890-1893; vice-president of the Alabama Great Southern Railroad, 1890-1893; receiver of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railway, 1892-1894; receiver of the Memphis & Charleston Railroad, 1892-1898; receiver of the Norfolk & Western Railroad, 1895-1896; president of the reorganized company, the Norfolk & Western Railway, 1896-1902, and chairman of the Board of Directors, same road, since 1902. Residence: Plaza Hotel. Office: 40 Exchange Place, New York City.

FINLEY, David Edward:

Congressman and lawyer; born at Trenton, Ark., Feb. 28, 1861. He was educated in South Carolina College, and afterward studied law and engaged in practice at Yorkville, S. C. He was a member of the House of Representatives of South Carolina in 1890-1891, and of the State Senate, 1892-1896, was elected to the Fifty-sixth, Fifty-seventh and Fifty-eighth, Fifty-ninth Congress, and Sixtieth Congresses and in 1908 to the Sixty-first Congress, from the Fifth South Carolina District. Address: Yorkville, S. C.

FINLEY, William Wilson:

President of the Southern Railway; born at Pass Christian, Miss., Sept. 2, 1853; son of Lewis Augustus and Lydia Rebecca Finley. He became vice-president's stenographer of the New Orleans, Jackson and Great Northern Railroad, and the Chicago, St. Louis and New Orleans Railroad, and served in various positions up to assistant-general freight agent from March 1, 1883, when he became assistant-general freight agent of the Texas and Pacific Division of the Missouri Pacific Railway; he was assistant general freight agent for the receiver for the Texas and Pacific Railway from December, 1885, to July, 1886, and then general freight agent of the same road until Sept. 15, 1888. Then, until May, 1889, he was general freight agent of the Pan-Handle Route, comprising the Fort Worth and Denver City, the Denver, Texas and Fort Worth, and the Denver, Texas and Gulf Railroads. He was then chairman of the Trans-Missouri Traffic Association at Kansas City, Mo., until Oct. 1, 1890, and then, until May 20, 1892, chairman of the Western Passenger Association at Chicago, Ill. In May 1892, he became general traffic manager of the Great Northern Railway and the Montana Central Railway, leaving that position April 10, 1895, to become commissioner of the Southern States Passenger Association. From Oct. 1, 1895, to May 15, 1896, he was third vice-president of the Southern Railway Company, and was third vice-president of the Great Northern Railway until Sept. 15, 1896, when he became second vice-president of the Southern Railway. He continued in that position until December, 1906, when he was elected president of the Southern Railway in succession to the late Samuel Spencer. Mr. Finley married at Pass Christian, Mississippi, in 1883, Lillie Vidal Davis, and they have five children. Address: 2019 Massachusetts Avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C.

FISH, Frederick Perry:

President, American Telephone and Telegraph Company; born at Taunton, Mass., Jan. 13, 1855; son of Frederick L. and Mary Jarvis (Perry) Fish. He was graduated from Harvard A.B., 1875, and was at the Harvard Law School, 1875-1876. Mr. Fish practised law in New York City and Boston until July 1, 1901; was president and director of the American Bell Telephone Company; the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, and the Western Telegraph and Telephone Company, 1901-1907; also a director of the City Trust Company (Boston), the New England Trust Company (Boston), and the Old Colony Trust Company (Boston). May 1, 1907, resumed the practice of law as a member of the firm of Fish, Richardson, Herrick and Neave. Mr. Fish is an associate member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, and member of the Union, University, Grolier, National Arts, and Harvard Clubs of New York City, and the Union, St. Botolph, University, and Exchange Clubs of Boston. He is an overseer of Harvard College, a member of the corporation and of the Executive Committee of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, an associate of Radcliffe College and a member of the Massachusetts State Board of Education. He married, April 7, 1880, Clara P. Livermore, of Cambridge, Mass. Residence: Brookline, Mass. Address: 5 Nassau Street, New York City, and 84 State Street, Boston.

FISH, Hamilton:

Lawyer; born at Albany, N. Y., April 17, 1849; son of Hon. Hamilton Fish and Julia (Kean) Fish. He was educated in Churchill's School, Sing Sing, N. Y., and at the Chateau de Laney, Geneva, Switzerland; was graduated from Columbia College, A.B., 1869, and from the Columbia Law School, LL.B., 1873. Mr. Fish has traveled extensively over the United States and Europe; was private secretary to his father, Hon. Hamilton Fish, secretary of State under President Grant, from 1869 to 1871; aide-de-camp on staff of Governor John A. Dix, 1873-1874; served eleven terms in the Assembly of the State of New York, being speaker for two terms, 1895-1896. Mr. Fish was appointed assistant treasurer, United States, at New York City, by President Roosevelt in 1903, and reappointed in 1907. He is a member of the Metropolitan, Union, Union League, Republican and St. Nicholas Clubs of New York. He married, April 28, 1880, Emily M. Mann. Address: Garrison, N. Y.

FISH, Stuyvesant:

Banker and railway official; born in New York City, June 24, 1851; son of Hon. Hamilton Fish, secretary of state in President Grant's Cabinet, and Julia (Kean) Fish. He was graduated from Columbia College, A.B., 1871, A.M., 1874; and entered railway service as clerk in the New York office of the Illinois Central Railroad June 20, 1872, afterward becoming secretary to president of the same company. He was clerk with Morton, Bliss & Co., New York City, and Morton, Rose and Co., London; managing clerk (holding power of attorney) of Morton, Bliss & Co., 1876-1879, and member of the New York Stock Exchange. On March 16, 1876, he was elected director of the Illinois Central Railroad and appointed treasurer and agent for the purchasing committee of the New Orleans, Jackson and Great Northern Railroad; Nov. 8, 1877, elected secretary of the Chicago, St. Louis and New Orleans Railroad, and March, 1882, vice-president of the Chicago, St. Louis and New Orleans Railroad. He became second vice-president Jan. 7, 1883, vice-president April 2, 1884, and president May, 1887, to Nov. 7, 1906, of the Illinois Central Railroad. Mr. Fish was president of the American Railway Association, 1904-1906; chairman Seventh Session International Railway Congress, Washington, D. C., May, 1905; member of the Monetary Commission created by the Indianapolis Monetary Conference, 1897; trustee of New York Life Insurance and Trust Company; for many years vice-president and director National Park Bank, New York, and director of other fiscal and fiduciary institutions. Trustee of Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York from 1883, until his resignation in 1906, owing to disapproval of methods then brought to light among certain of his co-trustees. He is a member of the Union, Metropolitan, Down Town, and St. Anthony's Clubs, member of St. Nicholas Society. He married Marian G. Anthon. Residence: 25 East 78th Street. Address: 52 Wall Street, New York City.

FISH, William Hansell:

Chief justice of Georgia; born in Macon, Ga., May 12, 1849; son of George W. and Martha E. (Hansell) Fish. He was graduated from the University of Georgia, A.B., 1869, studied law in the University of Virginia; was admitted to the Georgia bar, and practised law until 1891, when he became judge of the Circuit Court, serving until 1896, in which year he was elected one of the justices of the Supreme Court of the State of Georgia, upon the duties of which he entered Jan. 1, 1897, serving as associate justice and later becoming chief justice, in which office he continues. Judge Fish has been a trustee of the University of Georgia since 1893 and of the Wesleyan Female College of Georgia since 1895. He married in Washington County, Ga., 1876, Mary P. Hines. Address: Atlanta, Ga.

FISHER, Albert Kenrick:

Naturalist; born at Sing Sing, N. Y., March 21, 1856; son of Hiram and Susan E. (Townsend) Fisher. He was educated in Holbrook's Military High School at Sing Sing, and took the medical course at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, graduating as M.D. in 1879, although his career has chiefly been in the field of economic zoölogy. He was assistant ornithologist to the United States Department of Agriculture, 1885-1896; assistant biologist, 1896-1902; assistant chief of the Biological Survey, 1902-1906, and in charge of economic investigations in biology since 1906. He was engaged in the biological surveys of the Death Valley Expedition and many other surveys sent out by the Department of Agriculture in 1891 and subsequent years; has done field work in all but three States of the Union, and was a member of the Harriman Alaska Expedition in 1899. He is vice-president of the American Ornithologists' Union, member of the Washington Academy of Science, Biological Society of Washington, D. C., American Forestry Association, and the Cooper Ornithological Club; corresponding member of the Linnean Society of New York; member of the Nuttall Ornithological Club, and president of the Washington Biologists' Field Club. Dr. Fisher is interested specially in faunal and economic zoölogy and geographic distribution, and is author of: Hawks and Owls of the United States, 1893; Birds of the Death Valley Expedition, 1893; and a number of minor papers. His favorite recreations are shooting and fishing. Dr. Fisher is a member of the Cosmos Club and Sängerbund of Washington, D. C. He married at Sing Sing, N. Y., in 1876. Alwilda Merritt, and they have three children living. Address: Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

FISHER, George Huntington:

Lawyer; born at Oswego, N. Y., May 7, 1832; son of George and Elizabeth P. (Huntington) Fisher. He was graduated from Harvard, A.B., 1852; studied at Harvard Law School. Admitted to the bar at Utica, N. Y., 1854, and has since practised law in New York City and Brooklyn, with offices in Brooklyn. Served two terms in the Legislature, representing the Seventh Assembly District, Kings County, 1860-1861; served nearly nine years in Brooklyn Common Council, and afterward in Kings County Board of Supervisors for one term, also register in bankruptcy, appointed by Judge Salmon P. Chase; several times member of the Brooklyn Board of Education, and member of the Board of Park Commissioners in Mayor Low's administration. He served in the National Guard of the State of New York as private in the 47th Regiment, and after as judge advocate of the 11th Brigade. Since 1871 he has been a member of the law firm of Fisher & Voltz; from its inception, 1866, trustee, secretary and counsel of the German Savings Bank of Brooklyn; director and counsel from incorporation, 1894, of the Broadway Bank of Brooklyn; trustee for over twenty-five years and secretary of the Industrial School Association of Brooklyn, secretary of the Law Library in Brooklyn; one of the founders and original directors of the New England Society in Brooklyn. He is a Republican in politics and a Unitarian-Universalist in religion. He is an honorary member of the 139th New York Volunteer Veteran Association, having participated in the formation of the regiment as a member of the Senatorial Committee, appointed by Governor Morgan. Mr. Fisher is a trustee of the Eastern District Hospital, Hospital Saturday and Sunday Association, Long Island Throat Hospital, Law Department of Brooklyn Institute; member of the Brooklyn League. Mr. Fisher spends his summers at cottage at Sheephead Bay. He is a member of the Hanover and University Clubs. He married, first, in Brooklyn, N. Y., Dec. 25, 1857, Emma Chichester (died, 1888), and second, at East Norwich, Long Island, Nov. 6, 1889, Katharine Weeks, and has one son, George Chichester Fisher, of San Francisco, Calif. Address: 84 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y.

FISHER, Harrison:

Illustrator; born in Brooklyn, July 27, 1875; son of Hugo A. Fisher. He was educated in the schools of San Francisco. For several years, Mr. Fisher has been professionally engaged as illustrator for The Saturday Evening Post (Philadelphia), McClure's, Scribner's Ladies' Home Journal, Life, Puck, etc.; also illustrator of books, including The Market Place (Harold Frederic); Three Men on Wheels (Jerome K.

Jerome); The Eagle's Heart (Hamilton Garland). He is author of The Harrison Fisher Book, a collection of drawings. Address: 7 West 32d Street, New York City.

FISHER, Irving:

Professor of political economy; born in Saugerties, N. Y., Feb. 27, 1867; son of Rev. George Whitefield and Elmira (Westcott) Fisher. He was graduated from Yale, A.B., 1888, Ph.D., 1891; studied in Berlin and Paris, 1893-1894. He was tutor in mathematics in Yale University, 1891-1893; assistant professor of mathematics, 1893-1895; assistant professor of political economy, 1895-1898. He spent the years from 1898 to 1901 in Colorado and California, regaining lost health, and resumed work at Yale in 1901 as professor of political economy. Professor Fisher is editor of the Yale Review, a contributor to economic journals and is president of the Committee of One Hundred appointed by the American Association for the Advancement of Science to advocate the establishment of a National Bureau of Health; also a member of the President's National Conservation Commission. He is joint author (with Professor A. W. Phillips) of Elements of Geometry, published by the American Book Company in 1896, and translated into Japanese, 1900. He assisted in translating and editing Cournot's Mathematical Theory of Wealth, for which he also wrote the Bibliography of Mathematical Economics, 1897 (Macmillan); and is author of: A Brief Introduction to the Infinitesimal Calculus, 1897 (Macmillan), translated into German, 1904; The Nature of Capital and Income, 1906 (Macmillan); The Rate of Interest, 1907 (Macmillan); also numerous articles, monographs, etc. Professor Fisher is a member of the American Economic Association, the British Economic Association, American Mathematical Society, American Association for the Advancement of Science, American Statistical Association; fellow of the Royal Statistical Society; member of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, the Connecticut Academy of Arts and Sciences, Washington Academy of Arts and Sciences, New England Free Trade League and New York Reform Club. He married June 24, 1893, Margaret, daughter of Rowland Hazard, and they have three children. Address: 460 Prospect Street, New Haven, Conn.

FISHER, Walter Lowrie:

Lawyer; born in Wheeling, W. Va., July 4, 1862; son of Rev. Daniel W. Fisher, now president of Hanover College, and Amanda K. (Kouns) Fisher. He was educated in Marietta College, Ohio, and Hanover College, Ind.; went to Chicago in 1884, and studied law in offices. He was admitted to the bar in 1888 and is now of the firm of Matz, Fisher and Boyden. From 1900 to 1905 he was secretary and from 1905 to 1906 he was president of the Municipal Voters' League, which he made a powerful influence for civic reform, and he founded the City Club of Chicago in 1903. As special traction counsel of City of Chicago he drafted and was chiefly instrumental in securing the passage of ordinances settling the street railway controversy, which had been the chief issue in local politics for years. These ordinances contained many novel provisions securing public rights and giving the city the option to purchase the system at any time on six months' notice. Residence: 463 North State Street. Office: 107 Dearborn Street, Chicago.

FISHER, William Arms:

Musical editor; born in San Francisco, Calif., April 27, 1861. He attended the public schools of Oakland, Calif., studied the piano, organ and harmony, with John P. Morgan, of Oakland, canon and fugue, with Horatio W. Parker, of New York; composition and orchestration, with Anton Dvorák, and singing with William Shakespeare, of London, England. He was instructor in harmony for three years in the National Conservatory of Music, New York City, and since Jan. 1, 1897, has been musical editor and publishing manager of the Oliver Ditson Company, Boston. Mr. Fisher has published with Schirmer, Ditson, and Luckhardt & Belder more than fifty songs, besides anthems, part-songs, and other compositions. He is a member of the Twentieth Century, Puddingstone and Boston City Clubs of Boston. Residence: 45 Lanark Road, Brookline, Mass. Office: 150 Tremont Street, Boston.

FISK, Everett Olin:

President of the Fisk Teachers' Agencies; born in Marlboro, Mass., Aug. 1, 1850; son of Rev. Franklin and Chloe Catherine (Stone) Fisk. He was graduated from Wesleyan Academy, 1869, from Wesleyan University, A.B., 1873, and A.M., 1876. He taught in Wallingford and Enfield, Conn., 1873-1875; was New England agent for Ginn & Company, 1875-1885; and has been president of The Fisk Teachers' Agencies since 1885, including offices in Boston, New York, Washington, Chicago, Minneapolis, Denver, Spokane, Portland, San Francisco and Los Angeles. He is treasurer of the Board of Trustees of the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Boston; a manager of the New England Conference Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church; he is also a vice-president of the American Peace Society, trustee of the New England Deaconess' Home and Hospital; trustee of the New England Home for Little Wanderers; trustee of the Wesleyan Association Building, and a director of the National League for the Protection of the Family. Mr. Fisk married in Wilbraham, Mass., Sept. 12, 1882, Helen Chase Steele, who died Aug. 31, 1901, and he has one daughter, Harriet Storer Fisk, born Oct. 14, 1884. Residence: 29 Fern Street, Auburndale, Mass. Address: 2 A Park Street, Boston.

FISK, Herbert F.:

Educator and clergyman; born in Stoughton, Mass., Sept. 25, 1840; son of Rev. Franklin and Chloe Catherine (Stone) Fisk. He was graduated from Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., A.B., 1860, A.M., 1863, D.D., 1888, and received the degree of LL.D. from Allegheny College, 1899, and from Northwestern University, 1904. He taught in West Brookfield and Hull, Mass., and Middletown, Conn., 1856, 1858 and 1860; in Delaware Literary Institute, Franklin, N. Y., 1860-1861; principal of Shelburne (Vt.) Academy, 1861-1863; teacher of Latin and Greek in Cazenovia (N. Y.) Seminary, 1863-1867; Wesleyan Academy, Wilbraham, Mass., 1867-1868; principal of Genesee Wesleyan Seminary, Lima, N. Y., 1868-1873; principal of the Academy of Northwestern University, 1873-1904; professor of pedagogy in Northwestern University since 1888. Dr. Fisk entered the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1866 as a member of the Oneida (N. Y.) Annual Conference, in which he remained until 1878, since which time he has been a member of the Rock River (Ill.) Annual Conference. He served as pastor of Methodist churches in Middlebury, Vt., 1862; Oneida, N. Y., 1866; Wilbraham, Mass., 1867; and Evanston, Ill., 1876. He is secretary of the Fisk Teachers' Agencies, and has been manager of the Chicago office of the Fisk Teachers' Agencies since 1905. He is a member of the National Geographic Society, National Educational Association, American Association for the Advancement of Science, North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, The Society of College Teachers of Education, Phi Nu Theta, and Alpha Delta Tau fraternities, Phi Beta Kappa Society, the New England Society of Chicago and the University Club of Chicago. He married in Portageville, N. Y., July 11, 1866, Anna Green, and they have two daughters. Residence: 1625 Judson Avenue, Evanston, Ill. Office: 203 Michigan Avenue, Chicago.

FISK, Walter L.:

Colonel of engineers, U. S. A.; born in Illinois, Jan. 8, 1855. He was appointed from Iowa as a cadet in the United States Military Academy Sept. 1, 1873, was graduated and commissioned second lieutenant of engineers June 15, 1877; promoted first lieutenant April 9, 1880, captain Jan. 10, 1887; major July 5, 1898, lieutenant-colonel, Oct. 15, 1905, and he was promoted to colonel of the Corps of Engineers, Aug. 7, 1908. Address: Federal Building, Buffalo, N. Y.

FISKE, Bradley Allen:

Captain, United States Navy; was born at Lyons, N. Y., June 13, 1854. He was appointed to the United States Naval Academy, Sept. 21, 1870, and was graduated second in class, May 30, 1874. Served in U. S. S. Saratoga, Constellation, Pensacola, Plymouth, Powhatan, Minnesota, Brooklyn, Atlanta, Yorktown, Petrel, Monadnock and Massachusetts, Minneapolis, Arkansas and Tennessee. In 1877 invented his detaching apparatus for lowering boats in a seaway, which is still in use on many ships. In 1883 wrote Electricity and Electrical Engineering, which is still (1909) selling, in its tenth edition. In 1884 was member of the First International Congress of Electricians. In 1889 he invented the naval telescope sight, which is now used in all the navies and has revolutionized naval gunnery. In 1892 invented the stadimeter, a portable little optical instrument, by means of which the distance of a ship can be quickly measured, if the height of her mast be known. This instrument is used in all the ships of our navy. In 1894 Lieutenant Fisk adapted the Ward Leonard system of electric motors to handling the turrets of battleships, the culminating invention for adapting it being made and patented by Lieutenant Fiske. He invented the electric solenoid warning whistle in 1896, which is used in all the larger ships of our navy; and the same year invented the naval electric semaphore; and later also a somewhat similar device, operated by mechanism. He invented in 1901 the naval telescope mount, which renders it possible to use large telescopes on shipboard. These are now (1909) being supplied to the larger ships of our navy. In 1904 Commander Fiske invented the turret target range-finder, an optical instrument by means of which an observer can measure the distance of the enemy while himself protected inside the turret. Lieutenant Fiske was in Valparaiso in the Yorktown in 1892, during the critical times following the Baltimore incident, and in 1894 he was in Rio, in Admiral Benham's flagship, when the fleet was cleared for action, and enforced neutral rights. At the battle of Manila Bay he was navigator of the Petrel. With the permission of the captain he arranged an observing station aloft, and there he stationed himself, above the smoke, with his stadimeter, and kept the captain continually informed of the distance of the enemy, and of all that was going on. This was the first time that "fire control" from aloft was ever used in battle. He was reported to the Department by the captain for eminent and conspicuous conduct in battle for his work that day. Lieutenant Fiske, besides being navigator of the Petrel at the capture of Manila, was also navigator of the monitor Monadnock during the first four months of the Filipino insurrection, when the Monadnock's light draught and heavy battery enabled her to support the flank of our army in its operations on the east side of Manila Bay. During this time, besides minor engagements, he took part in the bombardments of Paranaque and Malabon. As executive officer of the Yorktown, he took part in the bombardment of San Fernando. Commander Fiske was a member of the Naval Wireless Telegraph Board in 1904-1905. He received the Elliott Cresson gold medal from the Franklin Institute in 1893, and the gold medal for the prize essay by the United States Naval Institute in 1905. He is the author of many papers on electrical and naval subjects, of which his series of articles in The United Service Magazine, Recollections of Manila, received the most attention. Commanded United States Steamship Minneapolis and United States Steamship Arkansas in 1906 and 1907. In 1906 invented the horizometer. Promoted to captain, Aug., 1907. In 1907, demonstrated and published his method "Navigating Without Horizon," a distinct contribution to nautical science. Commanded flagship Tennessee, 1908-1909. In 1909, demonstrated and published his method "To Adjust Range Finders Before Battle," which gives to naval range finders an element of reliability never had before. On Jan. 20, 1909, while in command of the "fire and rescue parties" of four armored cruisers, put out a large fire in Coquinta, Chile, and was officially commended for it by the Navy Department. Address: Care Navy Department, Washington, D. C.

FISKE, Harrison Grey:

Editor, playwright, and theatrical manager; born at Harrison, Westchester County, New York, July 30, 1861; son of Lyman and Jane Maria (Durfee) Fiske. He was educated at private schools in New York, and the University of the City of New York. He is editor of the Dramatic Mirror; president of the Dramatic Mirror Corporation; manager of Mrs. Fiske and the Manhattan Company (theatrical), George Arliss and Guy Bates Post and their companies (theatrical); president of the National Humane Alliance. Mr. Fiske is a member of the Sons of the Revolution, Zeta Psi fraternity, and of the American Society of Dramatists and Composers, New York Athletic, Lotos, Manhattan and Knollwood Country Clubs. Mr. Fiske married at Larchmont, N. Y., March 19, 1900, Mary Augusta Davey (Minnie Maddern). Address: 12 West 40th Street, New York City.

FISKE, James Porter:

Surgeon; born in New York City, Nov. 22, 1866; son of Thomas Scott and Clara (Pitman) Fiske. He was graduated from the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia University, M.D., 1891. He has been practising in New York City from 1891 with a specialty in surgery, and particularly the correction of deformities and errors of development and he is author of papers on the deformities of children. Dr. Fiske is president of the Guild for Crippled Children of the City of New York, one of the founders and attending surgeon of the Free School for Crippled Children; charter member of the W. H. Davis School for Crippled Children; lecturer on surgery in the New York Post-Graduate Medical School; orthopedic surgeon of Roosevelt Hospital, 1893-1901; assistant surgeon and lecturer on surgery in the Medical Department of Cornell University, 1901-1903; obstetric surgeon of the Church Hospital, attending surgeon of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, since 1893; assistant surgeon of Bellevue Hospital, 1899-1900; orthopedic sur-

He was surgeon of the Charity Hospital, and New York Maternity Hospital, 1891-1900; surgeon of New York Hospital, since 1904. 1892. Dr. Fiske is a member of the American Medical Association, New York State Medical Society, Medical Association of Greater City of New York, New York County Medical Society, and fellow of the New York Academy of Medicine, and member of the Columbia University Club of New York City. Dr. Fiske married in Albany, N. Y., June 14, 1906, Amy Treadwell. Address: 76 West 86th Street, New York City.

FISKE, Stephen:

Author, dramatist, journalist; born in New Brunswick, N. J., Nov. 22, 1840. He was educated at Rutgers College, class of 1862; and was admitted to the New York bar in 1864. He became editorial writer and special correspondent for the New York Herald; accompanied the Japanese princes, the Prince of Wales (now Edward VII) and President Lincoln on tour; telegraphed the Bible from Niagara Falls to hold the wire; war correspondent 1861; dramatic critic, New York Herald, 1862-1866. He went to England in 1866, in the Henrietta yacht race; was with Garibaldi at Rome; is manager of St. James' Theater, and the Royal English Opera Company, in London, and Fifth Avenue Theater, New York City; introduced Mme. Modjeska and Mary Anderson. Mr. Fiske was founder of the New York Dramatic Mirror, and originator of the Actors' Fund, and is now dramatic critic of Sports of the Times. He is author of the plays: Corporal Cartouche; Martin Chuzzlewit; My Noble Son-in-Law; and Robert Rabagas. Mr. Fiske also wrote the books: English Photographs; Holiday Tales; Oil-land Portraits of Prominent New Yorkers, etc. He is a member of the Lotos, Pen, Press, Dramatists, and Rutgers Clubs of New York City, and the Savage, and Scribblers' Clubs of London. Address: 47 West 93d Street, New York City.

FITCH, Clyde:

Dramatist and author; born in Elmira, N. Y., May 5, 1865; son of Captain William Goodwin and Alice (Clarke) Fitch. He was graduated from Amherst, A.B., 1886, and received from that college the honorary degree of A.M. in 1902. He has devoted himself to literary and dramatic authorship, and is known as one of the most successful of American dramatists. Among his best known plays are: Nathan Hale; Bean Brummel; Barbara Frietchie; The Moth and the Flame; The Cowboy and the Lady; Pamela's Prodigy; The Climbers; The Last of the Dandies; Lover's Lane; The Way of the World; Frederick Lemaitre; A Modern Match; His Grace de Grammont; Mistress Betty; Captain Jinks of the Horse Marines; The Girl and the Judge; The Stubbornness of Geraldine; The Girl with the Green Eyes; Her Own Way; The Woman in the Case; Her Great Match; Major Andre; The Coronet of the Duchess; The Truth; The Straight Road; The Girl Who Has Everything, etc., besides many adaptations. He is also author of the books: A Wave of Life; The Knighting of Twins; Some Correspondence and Six Conversations; The Smart Set; Nathan Hale; Barbara Frietchie; Captain Jinks of the Horse Marines. Address: 113 East 40th Street, New York City.

FITCH, William Edward:

Physician, surgeon and author; born in Burlington, N. C., May 29, 1867; son of Colonel William James and Mary Elizabeth (King) Fitch. He was educated in Union College, Union Ridge, N. C., Medical Department of University of New York, and College of Physicians and Surgeons, Baltimore, M.D., 1891; and did post-graduate work in the New York Post-Graduate School and Hospital. Dr. Fitch engaged in practice as physician and surgeon, with a specialty in the diseases of women. He is attending physician to the Vanderbilt Clinic of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, and attending gynecologist Presbyterian Hospital Dispensary, New York City, was formerly lecturer on surgery in Fordham University School of Medicine in Fordham, New York City, and now a member of the Faculty of the University of the State of New Jersey. He is president and treasurer of Gaillard's Southern Medicine, Inc., and editor of Gaillard's Southern Medicine (medical journal), and a director of the Cuban Commercial Company. He was assistant surgeon of the U. S. Public Health and Marine Hospital Service during the Spanish-American War, and is now major and surgeon in the National Volunteer Emergency Service. Dr. Fitch is a member of the American Medical Editors' Association, the West Side Clinical Society of New York City, Clinical Society of the Presbyterian Hospital of New York City, North Carolina State Medical Association and Medical Association of the State of Georgia. Dr. Fitch is interested in historical matters, and is author of: Some Neglected History of the Revolution; Some Things the Colony of North Carolina Did and Did First in the Founding of English-Speaking America; Some Neglected History of North Carolina, and other historical contributions. He is a member of the New York Society of the Order of Founders and Patriots of America, and registrar-general of the General Court of the Order; member of the Sons of the American Revolution, the New York State Historical Society, the Drawing-Room Club of New York City and the Hussars and Yacht Clubs of Savannah, Ga. Dr. Fitch married in Jerusalem, Davie County, N. C., Oct. 5, 1892, Minnie, daughter of James A. and Elizabeth (Hearne) Crump, and he has two daughters and a son. Address: 320 Manhattan Avenue, New York City.

FITTS, George H.:

Jurist; born in Cohoes, N. Y., Sept. 29, 1851; son of Lucien and Lemira M. (Sloum) Fitts. He was graduated from the Williston Seminary at Easthampton, Mass., 1869; from Dartmouth College, A.B., 1873, and from Albany Law School, LL.B., 1874; and he was engaged in the active practice of law at Cohoes, 1875-1896; associated with Charles F. Doyle, 1878-1891; with Walter H. Westum, 1893-1896; city attorney of Cohoes, 1888-1896; surrogate Albany County, 1896-1906; and in 1905 he was elected on the Republican ticket to the office of justice of the Supreme Court of New York for the term expiring Dec. 31, 1919. Judge

Fitts is president of the Masonic Temple Association of Cohoes, and vice-president of the Mechanics' Savings Bank of Cohoes. He married in Cohoes, N. Y., June 4, 1906, Clara B. Bogue. Address: 69 Grant Street, Cohoes, N. Y.

FITZ, Reginald Heber:

Physician: born at Chelsea, Mass., May 5, 1843; son of Albert and Eliza Roberts (Nye) Fitz. He was graduated from Harvard Medical School as M.D. in 1868 and received from Harvard the degree of LL.D. in 1905; practised medicine in Boston since 1870; he is also Hersey professor of the theory and practice of physic, emeritus in Harvard Medical School. He was joint author with Dr. Horatio C. Wood of The Practice of Medicine, 1897. Address: 18 Arlington Street, Boston.

FITZGERALD, Adolphus Leigh:

Chief justice of Nevada; born in Rockingham County, N. C., Oct. 27, 1840; son of Richard and Martha Jones (Hooper) Fitzgerald. He was graduated from the University of North Carolina, A.B. and A.M., and studied law while engaged as an educator, becoming professor of Latin and Greek in the Pacific Methodist College, Calif., 1866-1868, then became deputy superintendent of public instruction of California until 1871, when he returned to the Pacific Methodist College as president until 1876. He was admitted to the California bar in Jan., 1878, and practised law in Nevada until 1886, when he was elected judge of the District Court of Nevada, in which position he continued until 1901, when he was elected as nominee of the Democratic and Silver parties as one of the justices of the Supreme Court of Nevada, and later became chief justice of that court, in which position he continues. Judge Fitzgerald married, at Eureka, Nev., in April, 1884, Mrs. Fannie Chappell. Address: Carson City, Nev.

FITZGERALD, James:

Jurist; born in Ireland, Oct. 28, 1851; son of James and Delia Fitzgerald. He was educated in Jesuit's Seminary, Limerick, the New York City public schools, Cooper Union, and Columbia College Law School. He was a member of the State Assembly, 1878; State senator, 1882-1883; assistant district attorney of New York City, 1884-1889; judge of the Court of General Sessions, 1890-1898, and has been justice of the Supreme Court, New York State, since 1899. He is a member of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York (honorary), Veteran Corps, 69th Regiment, National Guard of New York, Knights of Columbus, New York Historical Society, Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, and of the Manhattan, National Democratic, Arkwright, Catholic, and Reform Clubs of New York City. He married, in New York City, 1884, Ann Tynan, and they have two children. Address: 140 East 79th Street, New York City.

FITZGERALD, John Francis:

Editor, mayor of Boston; born in Boston, Feb. 11, 1863; son of Thomas and Rosanna Fitzgerald. He was educated in the Eliot Grammar School and the Boston Latin School and was afterward a student at Harvard. He is editor of The Republic, a weekly journal, and has been prominently identified with Democratic politics in Boston. He was a member of the Boston Common Council in 1892, of the Massachusetts Senate, 1893-1894, and in 1894 was elected to Congress and reelected in 1896 and 1898, serving in the Fifty-fourth, Fifty-fifth and Fifty-sixth Congresses, 1895-1901, and he was mayor of Boston, 1906-1907. Mr. Fitzgerald married at South Acton, Mass., Sept. 18, 1889, Josephine Mary Hannon. Address: Dorchester, Mass.

FITZGERALD, John Joseph:

Lawyer; born in Brooklyn, N. Y., March 10, 1872; son of Patrick P. and Catherine (McMahon) Fitzgerald. He was educated in the Sacred Heart Academy, Westchester, N. Y., Manhattan College, A.B., M.A., New York Law School, (LL.B. cum laude from Regents of State of New York). Mr. Fitzgerald was elected as a Democrat to the Fifty-sixth and Fifty-seventh Congresses from the Second, and to the Fifty-eighth, Fifty-ninth, Sixtieth and Sixty-first Congresses from the Seventh New York District. He is a director of the People's Home Realty Company. He is a member of the St. Patrick's Society, Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum Society, Manhattan College Alumni Association, Brooklyn Lodge, B. P. O. Elks; Brooklyn Council Knights of Columbus (charter member and past grand knight); Catholic Young Men's Diocesan Union of Brooklyn, and of the Brooklyn, Kings County, and Third Ward Young Men's and First Assembly District Democratic clubs. He married in New York City, Jan. 29, 1901, Kathleen L. Ferris. Residence: 418 Pacific Street. Office: 215 Montague Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

FITZGERALD, Oscar Penn:

Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church South; born in North Carolina, Aug. 24, 1829. He received his education in the common schools of the South and after that was employed in a printing office in Virginia. He took up the studies for the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and was admitted in 1853, to the Georgia Conference, in which he began his ministry. He went to California in 1855, and became editor of the Pacific Methodist and Christian Spectator. He was superintendent of public instruction for California, 1867-1871, and by virtue of that office was also editor of the California School Journal. In 1878 he was elected editor of the Nashville Christian Advocate, and continued in that position until elected by the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, in 1890, to the office of bishop. Bishop Fitzgerald has, in his long ministry, pastoral and episcopal, exerted a deep influence upon the affairs and policy of his denomination. He is the author of numerous volumes published by the Southern Methodist Publishing House at Nashville: Glimpses of Truth; California Sketches; Christian Growth; Dr. Summers—A Life Study; Bible Nights; Centenary Cameos; The Whetstone; Eminent Methodists; The Epworth Book; Judge Longstreet; The Day and the Word; Sunset Views, and Upper Room Meditations in ad- dition to which many of his sermons have been published. Bishop Fitzgerald received the honorary degree of D.D. from the University of the South. He married at Enoa, Ala., Feb. 16, 1855, Sarah Banks. Address: 17 Garland Avenue, Nashville, Tenn.

FITZMAURICE, John E.:

Catholic bishop of Erie; born in Ireland, Jan. 8, 1840; son of James and Katherine Fitzmaurice. He received his education in schools of Ireland and the United States, made his divinity studies at the Saint Charles Seminary in Philadelphia, and was ordained to the priesthood in 1862. He filled pastorates in the archdiocese of Pennsylvania until consecrated, in 1898, bishop of Erie. He received the degree of D.D. from Georgetown University. Address: Erie, Pa.

FITZPATRICK, Morgan C.:

Lawyer and ex-congressman; son of J. M. and Elizabeth Fitzpatrick. He was educated in the public schools of Tennessee and at the University of Ohio, following with a course in the law department of Cumberland University at Lebanon, Tenn., from which he was graduated in 1890 with the degree of A.B. He was admitted to the bar, and has practised law at Hartsville, Tenn., from 1890, and he edited the Hartsville Vidette, 1895-1896. He has long been prominent as a Democratic leader in Tennessee, and was chairman of the State Democratic Committee, 1898-1902. He was a member of the Tennessee Legislature, 1894-1898, and its speaker 1897-1898; was State superintendent of schools, 1899-1903, and in 1902 was elected from the Fourth Tennessee District and served in the Fifty-eighth Congress, 1903-1905. Address: Hartsville, Tenn.

FITZSIMONS, Paul:

Medical director, U. S. Navy; born in Georgia, Feb. 27, 1849. After graduation in medicine he was appointed to the Medical Corps, U. S. Navy as assistant surgeon and has since served in the various sea and shore duties of a medical officer of the Navy, receiving his present commission as a medical director, with the rank of captain, Nov. 19, 1900; now being in command of the Naval Medical Supply Depot in New York City. Address: Naval Medical Supply Depot, New York City.

FLAGG, Charles Albert:

Librarian; born in Sandwich, Mass., Oct. 1, 1870; son of Samuel Benjamin and Anna B. (Allcott) Flagg. He was graduated from Bowdoin College, A.B., 1894, the University of the State of New York, B.L.S., 1899, George Washington University, A.M., 1902. He was principal of the High School, Hopdale, Mass., 1894-1895; in New York State Library, 1896-1900; in Catalogue Division, Library of Congress, 1900. He is author of: Family of Asa Allcott, 1899; Reference List on Connecticut Local History, 1900; Bibliography of New York Colonial History, 1901; In Memoriam—Samuel Benjamin Flagg, 1901; Descendants of Eleazer Flagg, of Grafton, Mass., 1903; Descendants of Benjamin Rockwood of Grafton, 1905; Guide to Massachusetts Local History, 1907. He is a member of the American Library Association, American Historical Association, New England Historic-Genealogical Society, Delta Kappa Epsilon, Phi Beta Kappa. He married, first, in East Orange, N. J., June 21, 1900, Harriet D. Valentine, who died April 28, 1901; second, Washington, D. C., Feb. 18, 1909, Ethel M. Flinder. Residence: The Newton, 6th and E. Streets. Office: Library of Congress, Washington, D. C.

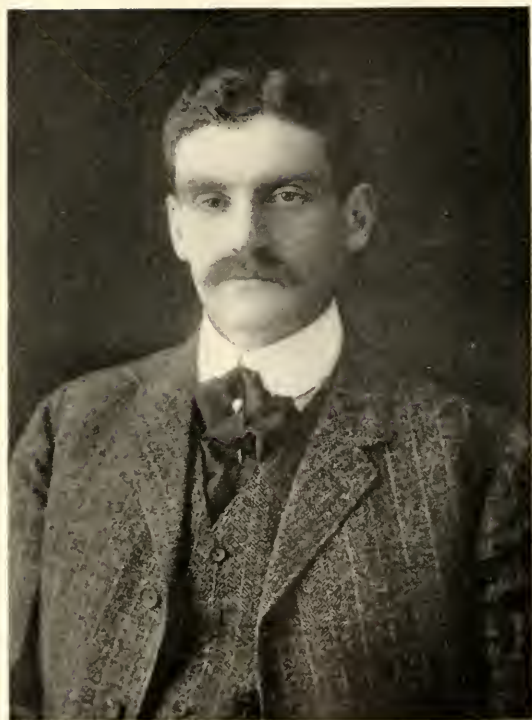

FLAGG, Charles Noel:

Artist; born in Brooklyn, N. Y., Dec. 25, 1848; son of Rev. Jared Bradley and Louisa (Hart) Flagg. He was educated at Hopkins Grammar School, New Haven, Conn., and afterward studied art ten years in Paris, France, under L. Jacquesson de la Chevreuse. He has long been professionally engaged as an artist and founded and is the director of the Connecticut League of Art Students, a free evening art school for men, at Hartford. He is a member of the Connecticut State Capitol Commission of Sculpture, and he was the first president and is now a director in the Municipal Art Society of Hartford; is ex-vice-president of the Hartford Yacht Club; chairman of the Art Committee of the Hartford Club; member of the Cercle Francais of Hartford. Mr. Flagg is represented by portraits in Connecticut State Capitol, Federal Building Wadsworth Athenaeum, Hartford Club and many other public buildings in Hartford. Also in Yale University and New Haven City Hall, in City Hall at Bridgeport, Minnesota Club, St. Paul, Independence Hall, Philadelphia, Hillyer Art Gallery at Northampton, Mass., and in many other places. Mr. Flagg won the Thomas R. Proctor Prize (for the best portrait) in the winter exhibition 1908, National Academy of Design, New York. Elected associate member, N.A.D., 1909. Author of "The Evolution of an Equestrian Statue," published in Scribner's Magazine March, 1909. Has written for Atlantic Monthly, New England Magazine, Connecticut Quarterly, &c., &c. Delegate from the Connecticut Commission of Sculpture and the M.A.S. of Hartford to the National Art Convention, Washington, D. C., 1909. Address: Ballerstein Building, Washington, D. C.

FLAGG, Edward Octavius:

Clergyman, poet and lecturer; born in Charleston, S. C., Dec. 13, 1824; son of Henry Collins and Martha (Whiting) Flagg. He was educated in the Laneasterian School and Hopkins Grammar School, New Haven, Conn., and was graduated from Trinity College, Hartford, in the class of 1848, received the degree of D.D. from New York University, and of LL.D. from St. John's College, Annapolis, Md., 1898. He studied civil engineering, and afterward began studies for the Episcopal ministry under Rev. Drs. Crosswell, Pitkin and Cook. He was ordered deacon in 1848 and ordained priest, 1849, and first settled as assistant of Christ Church, Norwich, Conn. He was the first rector of Trinity Church, Norwich, and while at that church inaugurated the parish of Grace Church, Yantic, Conn.; was next associate rector St. Paul's Church, Baltimore; took charge for a time of Trinity Church, New Orleans, but declined a call to its rectorship; accepted a call to St. Paul's Church, Paterson, N. J., and while there planted the church first known as St. John the Divine, but now known as the Church of the Holy Communion. In consequence of ill health Dr. Flagg traveled abroad for a year, and after that accepted a call to All Saints' Church, New York City, and while there planted the Church of the Resurrection. He was subsequently assistant to Bishop Potter and Dr. Huntington in Grace Church for nearly six years. His last clerical duty was as rector of St. Mark's Washington Irving Memorial Church, Tarrytown, and he is now on the retired list of the clergy, and engaged in literary work. Dr. Flagg has delivered lectures on history and literature in the Van Norman and Gardner Institutes and in Miss Dana's School in Morristown, N. Y., as well as in public. He was formerly secretary of the Society of American Authors, member of the Executive Committee of the New York Huguenot Society of America; is a member of the Sons of the Revolution and the Church Educational Society; also of the Alpha Delta Phi, and was poet at its Fifty-second Annual Convention; was chaplain of the Prince of Orange Masonic lodge, and also of the Ninth Regiment. He is an extensive contributor to its press, and an author of numerous poems, and of a national anthem Rejoice for Liberty (words and music), which was accepted by the Jamestown Exposition of 1907 and sung there by 5,000 children; also the words and music of Live it Down, and of several Christmas and Easter carols. He married, first, Eliza Winstanly McNeil, and second, Mary L. Ferris, and he has two daughters. Address: 152 East 35th Street, New York City.

DEWITT C. FLANAGAN
Capitalist

FLAGG, Ernest:

Architect; born in Brooklyn, in 1860. He was admitted to the École des Beaux Arts, Paris, 1889. He is the architect of St. Luke's Hospital, Morningside Heights, New York City; the Coreoran Gallery of Art, Washington; the Naval Academy at Annapolis; the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company's building at Hartford, Conn.; the Scribner Building, Fifth Avenue, New York; St. Margaret's Memorial Hospital Pittsburgh, Pa.; Naval Hospital, Washington, D. C.; Naval Hospital, Annapolis, Md.; the Singer Manufacturing Company's building Broadway and Prince Street and Broadway and Liberty Street, New York City; and many other public buildings and private residences. He wrote articles on the École des Beaux Arts, published in the Architectural Record, and in an article, published in Scribner's Magazine in 1893, entitled The New York Tenement House Evil and Its Cure, he was the first to call attention to the fact that all the worst evils of the tenement house system of New York lay in the plan and the 25x100-foot lot. Address: 35 Wall Street, New York City.

FLAGLER, Henry M.:

Capitalist; born in Canandaigua, N. Y., in 1830. He was educated in public schools. He early became a clerk in a store in Orleans County, Mich.; subsequently removed to Saginaw, Mich., and conducted salt works there; later became a resident of Cleveland, and one of the pioneers in the petroleum business there; he joined Messrs. Rockefeller and Andrews in firm of Rockefellers, Andrews & Flagler, which was succeeded by the Standard Oil Company; and has been prominently identified with its management since its organization, until his recent retirement. Director, Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway, Minnesota Iron Company, Duluth and Iron Range Railroad, Western Union Telegraph Company, International Bank Note Company, Jacksonville, Tampa and Key West Railway, and other companies. Built and is owner of the Ponce de Leon and Alcazar hotels in Florida, and has built about six hundred miles of railroad in that State. Member of the New England Society also the Union League, Metropolitan, City, Larchmont, New York, American Yacht, Knollwood Golf Clubs. He married Mary L. Keman. Address: 26 Broadway, New York City.

FLANAGAN, John:

Sculptor; born in Newark, N. J. He studied under Augustus St. Gaudens (N. Y.).

and Henry Chapu and Alexandre Falguiere, École des Beaux Arts, Paris. Mr. Flanagan was awarded silver medals by the Paris Exposition, 1900, Pan-American Exposition, Buffalo, 1901, Louisiana Purchase Exposition, 1904; and is represented in the French National Collection of Living Artists in the Luxembourg Museum, Paris. Among his more notable works are bronze high relief, Public Library, Newark, N. J., and Monumental Clock in the Congressional Library at Washington, D. C. He is a member of the Art Students League, and the New York Athletic Club of New York City. Residence: 23 North 7th Street, Newark, N. J. Studio: 107 East 27th Street, New York City.

FLANAGAN, Webster:

Lawyer, United States official; born at Cloverport, Ky., Jan. 9, 1832; son of James W. Flanagan who became United States Senator in 1871. He has been a resident of Texas since 1843, and held several local offices in Rusk County, Texas, prior to the Civil War in which he served in the Confederate Army as brigadier-general. After the war he became identified with the Republican Party, was appointed judge of the Fifth Judicial District of Texas in 1865, was a member of the State Constitutional Convention of 1869-1875, lieutenant-governor of Texas from 1871 to 1873, member of the State Senate in 1875, collector of internal revenue of the Fourth Texas District in 1884-1885, collector of customs at El Paso, Texas, from 1891 to 1893, and since 1897, collector of internal revenue of the Third Texas District. He has served as delegate to all the National Republican Conventions from 1872, except those of 1876 and 1900. Address: Austin, Texas.

FLEET, Alexander Frederick:

Superintendent of Culver Military Academy; born in King and Queen County, Va., June 6, 1843; son of Dr. Benjamin and Maria Louise (Wacker) Fleet. He was graduated from the University of Virginia in 1867, studied one year in the Medical Department of that University, and received the degree of A.M. from Columbian College

(now George Washington University) at Washington, D. C., in 1869, and of LL.D. from Richmond College (Virginia) in 1889. He served as an officer in the Confederate Army through the Civil War, surrendering as adjutant-general in General H. A. Wise's Brigade at Appomattox, April 9, 1865. He was professor of Greek at William Jewell College, at Liberty, Missouri, 1868-1873; president of Lexington Female College, Missouri, 1873-1879; professor of Greek in the University of Missouri, 1879-1890; founder and superintendent of Missouri Military Academy, 1890-1896, and since then superintendent of Culver Military Academy. Address: Culver, Ind.

FLEISCHMANN, Julius:

Manufacturer and banker; born in Cincinnati. He is president of Fleischmann & Company, of the Union Grain and Hay Company, and of the Market National Bank of Cincinnati and was mayor of Cincinnati, 1901-1904. Address: 3555 Washington Avenue, Avondale, Cincinnati, Ohio.

FLEMING, George Elliott:

Lawyer, writer, composer; born at Shelbyville, Ind., June 20, 1877; son of Thomas W. and Anna (Rowen) Fleming. He was graduated from Harvard College A.B. in 1899, and afterwards attended the Harvard Law School and the Harvard Graduate School. He is engaged in corporation practice in New York and Indiana, being admitted to the bar of Indiana in 1900, and of New York in 1904. He was on the editorial staff of the American and English Encyclopedia of Law, and is the author of: The Laws and Decisions relating to Attorneys, now in preparation; campaign speaker; treasurer and director of the New York and Eastern Telegraph and Telephone Company; director of the American District Telegraph Company, the Kenai Mining and Trading Company, and the Poster People, Publishers; president of the Lactobacilline Co., the sole manager of the famous products of Professor Metchnikoff of the Pasteur Institute in Paris; secretary and treasurer of the Southern Fuel and Iron Corporation, and president of the American Timber Corporation. Mr. Fleming is actively engaged in railroad and mining enterprises in Washington and Idaho, in Nevada and in Alaska; interested in charity and mission work; is secretary of the Indiana Society of New York, of which he was one of the organizers. He has traveled extensively in Europe, making a special study of sociological and economic conditions. He is a strong advocate of centralization of power in the Federal government and the pioneer in the effort to have the chartering of corporations taken away from the States and lodged only in the Federal Government. He is the author of the proposed law providing for the deportation of all aliens convicted of crime, as proving thereby that they are not the kind of persons that will ever make the citizens we want, or have the right to harbor. Also an advocate for the coinage of a two-and-a-half-cent piece, as a means of solving the street car fare problem and other public service overcharges; also of an effort to abolish the collection agencies and their resulting abuses of limiting collections to legal channels only. He is actively fighting for a total restriction of child labor by the Federal Government, and of making the infringement of patents and copyrights a crime instead of a civil wrong, as at present, in order to protect poor patentees who have a right to feel secure in their rights, having paid the government for protection. Also for a national uniform law of Divorce, and a national uniform law on naturalization and voting qualifications. Author of: Cecil Gray (a novel), and a Beggar in Evening Dress. Composer of: The Celebrity. He is a member of The Equal Franchise Society, The Pennsylvania Society of the Sons of the Revolution, the Sons of the American Revolution, the Masonic Order, the National Civic Federation and the Lawyers' Club. Residence: 741 Fifth Avenue. Address: Box 1419, New York City.

FLEMING, Rufus:

Consul, journalist; born in Indiana, in 1853. He was educated at the University of Michigan and on leaving college began newspaper life as a reporter on the Missouri Republican at St. Louis. In 1882 he became managing editor of the Cincinnati Times-Star, and continued in that capacity until his appointment, Oct. 5, 1897, to his present position as United States consul at Edinburgh, Scotland. Mr. Fleming is known as a writer of exceptional ability on commercial and economic subjects. He married in 1878 Annabel Lee Hutchins, daughter of Carleton B. Hutchins, president of the Hutchins Refrigerator Car Company, and they have their home at Avondale, one of the most beautiful residence sections of Cincinnati. Address: American Consulate, Edinburgh, Scotland.

FLEMING, William Hansell:

Author, editor and lecturer; born in Philadelphia, Aug. 23, 1844; son of George M. and Sarah Ford (Hansell) Fleming. He was educated in the public schools of Philadelphia, and in Princeton University, Class of 1865, and received from Princeton the honorary A.M. degree in 1900. Mr. Fleming has lectured on literature for the Board of Education of Greater New York, and for The American Society for the Extension of University Teaching. He is author of: A Bibliography of the First (Shakespeare) Folios; How to Study Shakespeare, 4 volumes; Shakespeare's Plots; also papers on Shakespearean subjects in various magazines. Editor of Much Ado About Nothing, and I. and II. King Henry the Fourth, in the Bankside Edition of Shakespeare; also editor of the Looker-On, a magazine. Mr. Fleming has been a member and secretary of the Shakespeare Society of New York for eight years. Address: 60 West 38th Street, New York City.

FLEMING, William Henry:

Lawyer and ex-congressman; born in Augusta, Ga., Oct. 18, 1856; son of Porter and Catherine B. (Moragne) Fleming. He was brought up on the family farm near Augusta; was graduated from the University of Georgia as C.E. in 1875, and afterward received the degree of A.M. He was superintendent of schools of Augusta and Richmond County, Ga., 1877-1880, and was admitted to the bar in 1880, practising law in Augusta ever since. Mr. Fleming has been prominent in politics as a Democratic leader, and was a member, 1888-1894, and speaker in 1894, of the Georgia Legislature; and member of the Fifty-fifth, Fifty-sixth and Fifty-seventh Congresses from the Tenth Georgia District, 1897-1903. He has been president of the Georgia State Bar Association, and grand commander of Knights Templar of Georgia. In 1908 he published a volume entitled "The Tariff, Civil Service, Income Tax, Imperialism, The Race Problem, and Other Addresses" (A. B. Caldwell Publisher Atlanta, Ga.) Mr. Fleming married at Rome, Ga., Aug. 22, 1900, Marie Celeste Ayer. Address: Augusta, Ga.

FLETCHER, Austin Barclay:

Lawyer; born in Mendon, Mass., March 13, 1852; son of Asa A. and Harriet (Duckee) Fletcher. He was graduated from Tufts College, A.B., 1876, and received from that college the LL.D. degree, 1899; was graduated from Boston University, School of Oratory, 1878, School of Science, A.M., 1879, and School of Law, LL.B., 1880. He engaged in practice as a bank and corporation lawyer; has reorganized many large corporations and business concerns, and is president of the Eppinger & Russell Company; director of the Monmouth Electric Company and the Pequonnock National Bank (Bridgeport, Conn.). Mr. Fletcher is a Republican in politics; president of the Fletcher Family Union; trustee of Dean Academy, of Tufts College, and of Boston University. He is a member of the Union League, Metropolitan, New York Athletic and Lawyers' Clubs of New York City, the Phi Beta Kappa Society and Zeta Psi fraternity, and a Knight Templar. He married in New York City, Jan. 26, 1882, Hortense M. Follett, who died in 1905. Address: 165 Broadway, New York City.

FLETCHER, Frank Friday:

Captain U. S. Navy; born in Iowa, Nov. 23, 1855. He was appointed a cadet midshipman in the U. S. Naval Academy Sept. 23, 1870. He has performed the varied duties of a naval officer and is known as one of the ablest ordnance experts of the Navy. He has commanded the naval vessels Cushing, Kanawha, Eagle and Raleigh and is now in command of the battleship Vermont. Address: Navy Department, Washington, D. C.

FLETCHER, Henry:

Lawyer; born in Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 29, 1877; son of George Harley (A.B. Dartmouth, 1872) descendant of Robert Fletcher who came to America in 1630, and Ida (Sharp) Fletcher; educated in the Reichs Gymnasium in Hanover, Germany; graduated from Adelphi Academy, Brooklyn, 1894; Yale University, A.B. (Phi Beta Kappa), 1898, A.M., 1901; Harvard University Law School, LL.B. (cum laude). He was editor for two years of the Harvard Law Review; Mr. Fletcher has traveled much in Europe, Africa, and North America; has been a cowboy and camped and traveled over Western part of United States, northern Canada, and in Hudson Bay County territory. Senior member of the firm of Fletcher, Sillocks & Leahy; member of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, the Selden Society of Great Britain, Society of Medical Jurisprudence of New York, Bibliophile Society of Boston. He is a member of the Phi Delta Phi fraternity, Phi Beta Kappa Society, the Society of Colonial Wars, Sons of the Revolution, the Harvard, Yale, New York Athletic, Phi Delta Phi, City Lunch and Drugum Chemical Clubs of New York, Spring Lake Casino, University, and Lawyers Clubs of Brooklyn. Residences: Pine Knoll, Vroom Avenue, Spring Lake, N. J. (summer home); 214 Lincoln Place, Brooklyn, and 49 West Forty-fourth Street, New York City. Office: City Investing Building, 165 Broadway, New York City.

FLETCHER, Horace:

Author, lecturer on dietetics; born in Lawrence, Mass., Aug. 10, 1849; son of Isaac and Mary A. (Blake) Fletcher. He was educated in the Science Department of Dartmouth, in the class of 1870. He is an extensive traveler and constant student; has been in all parts of the world and made special study of the development of Japan and other researches in sociology; also interested in art subjects; in more recent years has made researches in laboratories of Yale and of the University of Cambridge, and elsewhere in physiological chemistry and dietetics, with special reference to the minimum quantity of food requisite for the best human efficiency and the physiological and psychological aids or detriments of nutrition, and lectures on these and other subjects. Author: A B C of Snap Shooting; Menticulture; Happiness; That Last Waif; or Social Quarantine; What Sense? or Economic Nutrition; Nature's Food Filter; Glutton or Epicure; A B C of Our Nutrition; Optimism; Nature Knows. He is a member of the Japan Society of London. Resides most of the year in Venice, Italy, where, with his son-in-law, Dr. Ernest H. Van Someren, an English physician and surgeon residing in Venice, he pursues his studies and experiments. He is a member of the Arts Club of London, and the Tavern Club of Boston. He married Grace A. Marsh. Address: Care Barrett Manufacturing Company, 17 Battery Place, New York City.

FLETCHER, Loren:

Merchant and manufacturer; born at Mount Vernon, Kennebec County, Maine; he was educated in public schools and at Maine Wesleyan Seminary, Kents Hill, Maine; in 1853 he removed to Bangor, Maine, where he was employed as clerk by a mercantile and lumber company; in 1856 he removed to Minneapolis, Minn., where he has since resided, engaged in manufacturing and mercantile pursuits, largely in the manufacture of lumber and flour; was elected to the State Legislature in 1872, and reelected seven times; the last three terms served as speaker, having been unanimously elected the last term. He was elected as a Republican to the Fifty-third, Fifty-fourth, Fifty-fifth, Fifty-sixth, and Fifty-seventh Congresses, and reelected to the Fifty-ninth Congress, serving, 1893-1903, and 1905-1907. Address: Minneapolis, Minn.

FLETCHER, Robert Howe:

Director of the Mark Hopkins Institute of Art, San Francisco, since 1899, and director of the San Francisco Institute of Art since 1907; born in Cincinnati, Ohio, July 21, 1850; son of Dr. Robert and Anna (Howe) Fletcher. He was graduated from the United States Naval Academy in the class of 1872. After graduation he was transferred to the army and appointed second lieutenant of the 21st Infantry, July 27, 1872. He was promoted first lieutenant April 23, 1877, and retired Oct. 21, 1886, for disability contracted in the line of duty. He served on the Indian frontier and in California, and he was brevetted captain Feb. 27, 1890, for services in the Nez Percés Indian War. Captain Fletcher has resided in San Francisco since his retirement from the service, and in addition to his duties as director of the Art Institute he has devoted himself to literature, being author of: A Blind Bargain; The Johnstown Stage; Marjorie and Her Papa; Annals of the Bohemian Club, and short stories and essays in various publications. He married at San Francisco, Aug. 1, 1878, Octavia Shreve Miller, and has one son. Address: San Francisco Institute of Art, San Francisco.

FLETCHER, William Isaacs:

Librarian; born in Burlington, Vt., April 28, 1844; son of Stillman and Elizabeth (Severance) Fletcher. He was educated in the public schools of Winchester, Mass., afterward devoting himself to library work. He conducted a summer school of library economy in the Amherst Summer School, 1891-1905; is librarian of Amherst College, and is an active member and ex-president of the American Library Association. He received the honorary degree of A.M. from Amherst in 1884. Mr. Fletcher was joint editor of Poole's Index to Periodical Literature from 1876, and since the death of Dr. Poole in 1894 has edited the volumes in continuation of that work, and is author of: Public Libraries in America; the American Library Association Index to General Literature; the Coöperative Index to Periodicals, and other publications. Address: Amherst, Mass.

FLEXNER, Simon:

Physician, and pathologist; born in Louisville, Ky., son of Morris and Esther (Abraham) Flexner. He was educated in the public schools; was graduated from the University of Louisville, as M.D. in 1899 (Hon. D.Sc. from Harvard), and took post-graduate studies in Johns Hopkins, Strassburg and Berlin Universities. He was associate professor and professor of pathological anatomy in Johns Hopkins University, 1891-1899; professor of pathology, in the University of Pennsylvania, 1899; member of the Johns Hopkins University Commission for Investigation of Tropical Diseases, sent to the Philippine Islands, 1900; member of the commission appointed by the secretary of the Treasury of the United States, to investigate the bubonic plague in San Francisco, Calif., 1901; director of the Ayer Clinical Laboratory, Pennsylvania Hospital, 1901; Pathologist of the University Hospital, 1900; and since 1903 director of the laboratories of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, New York City. Dr. Flexner was elected a member of the National Academy of Sciences, 1908, is a fellow of the Academy of Medicine, New York City; member of the Association of American Physicians, American Philosophical Society, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, American Association of Pathologists and Bacteriologists; corresponding member of the Medico Chirurgial Society, Bologna, Italy, and of the Société de Pathologie Exotique de France; and a member of the Century Club of New York City. Dr. Flexner is author of various monographs and papers relating to pathological and bacteriological subjects, snake-venom, bubonic plague, dysentery, meningitis and other infections. Dr. Flexner married at Bryn Mawr, Pa., in 1903, Helen Whitall Thomas, and they have two children. Address: The Rockefeller Institute, 60th Street and Avenue A, New York City.

FLICKINGER, Daniel Kumler:

Bishop of the United Brethren; born at Seven Mile, Butler County, Ohio, May 25, 1824. He was educated in local academies, and entered the ministry of the United Brethren. He was corresponding secretary of the United Brethren Church Missionary Society, 1875-1885, and has been foreign bishop of that church since the latter date. He has made twelve missionary tours in Africa, and has written several books on missionary topics. Address: 318 South D. Street, Hamilton, Ohio.

FLINN, Alfred Douglas:

Civil engineer; born in New Berlin, Pa., Aug. 4, 1869; son of Matthew Bonner and Sarah Jane (Jones) Flinn. He was educated in the public schools of Worcester, Mass., and was graduated in 1893 from the Worcester Polytechnic Institute, receiving the degree of S.B. and the Salisbury prize. He was assistant on rapid transit surveys and water works in Boston, 1893-1896; assistant engineer of the Metropolitan Water Works, for Boston and vicinity, 1896-1902, being for the last few years of that period in charge of the designs for the Wachusett dam, the Weston aqueduct, etc. He was for two years a lecturer on water-works and sewerage to the senior engineering classes in the Lawrence Scientific School of Harvard University. Mr. Flynn was managing editor of The Engineering Record, in New York City, 1902-1904; and 1904-1905 was general engineering inspector for the Aqueduct Commissioners of New York City, during which service he designed the Cross River dam and reservoir and made preliminary studies for the Croton Falls dam and reservoir. Since August 1, 1905, he has been department engineer of Headquarters Department, Board of Water Supply of New York, in charge of designs, organization and general matters of the Engineering Bureau, in connection with the works for obtaining from the Catskill Mountains an additional supply of water for New York City; also charge of surveys and construction for tunnels and large pipe lines for distributing Catskill Mountain water to the five boroughs of the city. He has conducted investigations and superintended the preparation of designs and contracts for the Ashokan Reservoir and the Catskill Aqueduct, each the largest ever undertaken, the estimated cost of which is $162,000,000. Mr. Flinn is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, Boston Society of Civil Engineers, New England Water-Works Association, Harvard Engineering Society, Municipal Engineers of the City of New York, National Geographic Society, Worcester Polytechnic Institute Alumni Association, Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity and the Park Hill Country Club of Yonkers. He married in Boston, Nov. 1, 1900, Mary Brownell Davis. Address: Glenbrook Avenue, Park Hill, Yonkers, N. Y.

FLINT, Albert Stowell:

Astronomer; born at Salem, Mass., Sept. 12, 1853; son of Simeon and Ellen Rebecca (Pollard) Flint. He was graduated from Harvard College as A.B. in 1875, was a student at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 1876-1877, and received the degree of A.M. in astronomy from the University of Cincinnati. He has been engaged in astronomical work since 1878, and is now astronomer at the Washburn Observatory of the University of Wisconsin. He has contributed portions of the series of publications of the Washburn Observatory, and a few papers on astronomical subjects. His principal work has been the meridian determinations of stellar parallaxes. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa (Harvard), Sigma Xi, the Astronomical and Astrophysical Society of America; Astronomische Gesellschaft; fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, ex-secretary of the Wisconsin Academy of Sciences, Arts, and Letters, ex-secretary of the Madison Choral Union; and an active member of the Unitarian Church. Mr. Flint married at Washington, D. C., Oct. 22, 1884, Helen Alfreda Thomas, and has three children. Address: 450 North Charter Street, Madison, Wis.

FLINT, Austin:

Physiologist, alienist, consulting physician; born at Northampton, Mass., March 28, 1836; son of Austin Flint, distinguished physician, and Annie S. Flint. He was a student at Harvard, 1852-1853, and received his professional education in the Medical Department of the University of Louisville and in Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, from which latter he was graduated M.D., 1857, and received the honorary degree of LL.D., 1885. He practised medicine in Buffalo, N. Y., 1857-1859, and in New York City since 1859. He was professor of physiology in the Medical Department of the University of Buffalo, 1858-1859; in the New York Medical College, 1859-1860; in the New Orleans School of Medicine, 1860-1861; was one of the founders, and professor of physiology in Bellevue Hospital Medical College, 1861-1898; professor of physiology, in Long Island College Hospital, 1862-1868; in Cornell University Medical College, 1898-1906, meritus, 1906. Dr. Flint was surgeon-general of the State of New York, 1874-1878; consulting physician, State Hospital for Insane, since 1896 (president of Consulting Board, 1899). He is a fellow of the New York State Medical Association (president, 1895); member of the Medical Association of the Greater City of New York (president, 1899); member of the Executive Committee of the New York Prison Association, 1896. He was decorated with the Order of Bolivar (third class) of Venezuela, in 1891; is a member of the American Medical Association, New York County Medical Association; American Academy of Medicine (honorary), American Medico-Psychological Association, Association of Military Surgeons of the United States, fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and a member of the Academy of Natural Sciences (Philadelphia). He is author of: Physiology of Man (five volumes); Clinical Examination of Urine in Disease; Physiological Effects of Severe and Prolonged Muscular Exercise; Text-Book of Human Physiology; Source of Muscular Power; Handbook of Physiology; Collected Essays and Articles on Physiology and Medicine, two volumes, 8 vo.; also many contributions to medical literature. He married at Ballston, N. Y., Dec. 23, 1862. Elizabeth B. McMaster, and they have four children. Address: 118 East 19th Street, New York City.

FLINT, Charles Ranlett:

Merchant: born at Thomaston, Maine, Jan. 24, 1850; son of Benjamin and Sarah (Tobey) Flint. The progenitor of the family in this country, Thomas Flint, emigrated to America from Wales in 1642, and settled at Salem, Mass. Mr. Flint was educated in the public schools of his native town, and those of Brooklyn, N. Y. In 1868 was graduated from the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn, being president of his class and of the alumni. In 1869 he entered the employ of W. R. Grace, and in 1871 organized the firm of Gilchrist, Flint & Company, ship chandlers; in 1872, with W. R. and M. P. Grace, he established the firm of W. R. Grace & Company, and in 1876 Grace Brothers & Company of Gallae, Peru, and was appointed consul in New York for the Republic of Chili, and in the absence of the chargé d'affaires attended to the business of the Chilean Legation. He held this position until Chili declared war against Peru in 1878, when owing to his firm being the financial agents of the Peruvian Government, he cabled his resignation to Chili. In 1880 he became the President of the U. S. Electric Light Company, of which Farmer Maxim and Weston were the electricians, and was the first to use the incandescent light in the city of New York. 1881 visited Brazil and arranged for the export during succeeding years of large quantities of rubber from the Amazon. Upon his return he was appointed consul of Nicaragua in New York. In 1885 he entered the firm of Flint & Company, successors of the shipbuilding and shipowning firm of Chapman & Flint, established in 1837, then composed of his father and his brother. Mr. Flint rendered important services as a delegate of the United States to the International American Conference held in Washington in the winter of 1889-1890, having an intimate knowledge of the resources and trade of the South American countries. In that Conference he represented the United States on the Committee on Banking and as a member of the Committee on Custom Regulations formulated a report for unifying the Custom Regulations for the American Republics, and in that report, after consulting Andrew Carnegie and the other United States delegates, recommended the organization of the Bureau of American Republics, which was adopted by the Conference and to which Mr. Carnegie has recently given $750,000. In 1890 he acted as intermediary between Secretary Blaine and the Brazilian Minister in negotiating and formulating the first Reciprocity Treaty under the Aldrich Amendment. In 1893, during the Mello Da Gama Rebellion in Brazil he acted for President Piexoto in the purchase of vessels and munitions of war; and in 1895, during the Chinese-Japanese War he purchased the cruiser Esmerelda from Chili and delivered her to Japan. In 1898, both before and during the war with Spain, he rendered valuable services to the United States Government in the purchase of vessels and munitions of war. In several instances he blocked the Spaniards in their efforts to purchase foreign war vessels and supplies; he gave the United States information of the departure of the Spanish fleet from Cape Verde, and twelve hours later, the direction in which the fleet was steaming. He also advised the Government of the sailing of the colliers to the rendezvous with the Spanish fleet off Venezuela. In 1895-1898 he established in the City of Manaus, which is located 1,000 miles up the Amazon River, a modern trolley road, electric light system, water works and the asphalt block pavement. During the Russo-Japanese War Mr. Flint was pro-Russian and at the outset of the war purchased for the Russian Government all the available ordnance and projectiles in the United States, and bought and shipped to Russia the submarine Protector, five other submarines and ten torpedo boats. Under the diplomatic passports of the Russian Government, he went to St. Petersburg, was granted an audience by the Emperor, receiving letters of credit of de Rothschild Freres of Paris, aggregating 150,000,000 francs and conducted important negotiations in preventing the sale of the Argentine and Chilian war vessels to Japan and Turkey, visiting Constantinople for that purpose. During the past fifteen years Mr. Flint has devoted himself largely to the consolidation of industrials and the existence of some thirty-nine consolidations, having an outstanding capitalization of over $346,000,000 bear witness to his success and industry, and he has become widely known as the "Father of Trusts." He has given much attention to yachting, being a member of the New York, Seawanhaka, Larchmont, and Atlantic Yacht Clubs; and he is also a member of the Century, Union and Metropolitan Clubs. He married, in 1883, E. Kate Simmons, of Troy, N. Y. Residence: 4 East Thirty-sixth Street. Address: 25 Broad Street, New York City.

FLINT, Frank Putnam:

U. S. senator, lawyer; born in North Reading, Mass., July 15, 1862; son of Francis Eaton and Althea (Hewes) Flint. He removed with his parents in 1869 to San Francisco, where he was educated in the public schools. He removed to Los Angeles in 1888, studied law and in 1892 he was admitted to the bar and appointed assistant U. S. attorney, serving in that capacity until 1893, and after that was in private practice until 1897, when he was appointed U. S. attorney for the Southern District of California. He was elected Jan. 11, 1905, as a Republican, to the United States Senate from California, for the term expiring March 3, 1911. He married in Los Angeles, Calif., Feb. 25, 1890, Katherine J. Bloss, and they have two children. Address: Los Angeles, Calif.

FLINT, James Milton:

Medical director U. S. Navy, retired; born in Hillsborough, N. H., Feb. 7, 1838; son of Amos and Mary (Stickney) Flint. He was educated in the public schools and the Pembroke (N. H.) Academy, was graduated from the Medical Department of Harvard University, M.D., 1860. He was appointed assistant surgeon, U. S. Navy, April 14, 1862; promoted surgeon in 1874, medical inspector 1893, medical director, 1897, and retired Feb. 7, 1900, with the rank of rear admiral, U. S. N. He has served as honorary curator in the Division of Medicine, U. S. National Museum, 1880-1884, 1888-1891, and again since 1895; was a member of the Commission on Revision and Publication of the U. S. Pharmacopœia, 1880-1890; was surgeon of the U. S. Fish Commission steamer Albatross, on its expedition for deep-sea explorations, 1884-1887, and has attained distinction as a biologist, as well as in his record in medicine and as a naval officer. He has made notable researches in pharmacology and in the history of medicine, and in the biology of the Foraminifera, and has written reports and bulletins of the U. S. National Museum on the deep-sea deposits of the Pacific Ocean, and other subjects. He is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science; member of the American Anthropological Association, Washington Academy of Sciences, Washington Biological Society, and Washington Philosophical Society; also member of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion, Sons of the American Revolution and Society of Colonial Wars. Address: Stoneleigh Court, Washington, D. C.

FLINT, Joseph Marshall:

Surgeon and anatomist; born in Chicago, July 8, 1872; son of Francis and Sarah Elizabeth (Dancy) Flint. He attended Princeton University, 1891-1893, and the University of Chicago, 1893-1895, receiving the degree of B.S. in 1895; was graduated from Johns Hopkins Medical School, M.D., in 1900, and received the honorary M.A. degree from Princeton, in 1900. Dr. Flint was an associate in anatomy at the University of Chicago in the summer of 1897, and again in 1901, and assistant with the Johns Hopkins Medical Commission to the Philippines in 1898; served on special plague duty with the United States Marine Hospital Service in San Francisco in 1900; was professor of anatomy, 1901-1907, in the University of California; professor of surgery at Yale University since 1907;

also chief surgeon to New Haven Dispensary and attending surgeon to the New Haven Hospital. Dr. Flint traveled in China, India and the Philippines on the Medical Commission and studied at Europe during the year 1896, and again, 1905-1907. He is a member of the Morphologische Physiologische Gesellschaft of Vienna, the Manila Medical Society, and the Alpha Delta Phi fraternity, the Graduates Club of New Haven, University and Princeton Clubs of New York. Dr. Flint married at Hacienda del Pozo de Verona, Calif., Sept. 15, 1903, Anne Drucilla Apperson. Address: Yale University, New Haven, Conn.

FLINT, Peter:

Lawyer; born in Ticonderoga, N. Y., Dec. 6, 1856; son of Charles Northrop and Anna Maria (Thompson) Flint. He was educated in the high school at Fort Henry, N. Y., the Hopkins Grammar School at New Haven, and Yale University, whence he was graduated A.B., 1880. He was admitted to the bar at Saratoga, N. Y., 1883; was a member of the law firm of Benedict and Flint, 1898-1900; since then practising alone in New York City. Mr. Flint won the first case (MacGregor vs. Southmayd) tried under the New York State Tenement House Law relative to keeping lights burning in halls of flat-houses, securing a verdict in the Supreme Court of Brooklyn for the plaintiff, who had fallen down the stairs of a tenement owned by the Astor Estate, and has been identified with many important cases. At the latter part of the Spanish War he went as a member of a committee of the Sons of the American Revolution, under orders of the United States, in charge of about $8,000 worth of delicacies, wines, provisions, cots, bedding, medicines, and other supplies contributed by Sir Thomas Lipton and Miss Helen Gould, for U. S. soldiers in hospitals at San Juan and Ponce, Porto Rico, and Santiago, Cuba; and inspected these hospitals, distributing supplies and leaving a large quantity with General Leonard Wood at Santiago. Mr. Flint is secretary of the Yale Alumni Nathan Hale Statue Committee, a movement to place a full-sized statue of Hale, by William Ordway Partridge, on the campus in front of the old South Middle College at Yale. He originated and is secretary of the Sons of Oriskany, a patriotic society of lineal descendants of soldiers of Nicholas Herkimer's regiment, who won a signal victory, Aug. 6, 1877, in hand-to-hand conflict with a force of twice their numbers, composed of Tories, English regulars and Indians under Colonel Barney St. Leger; and Mr. Flint has devoted much time to the effort to bring the importance of the battle of Oriskany to the attention of the American people. He is greatly interested in forestry, fishing, and hunting, in the Eagle Lake section of Essex County, near his birthplace, where he has his summer home, and has been a continuous contributor to the New York Tribune, Press and Sun on these subjects. He was originator and is secretary of the K. W. Y. A. A. (Know What You Aim At), a voluntary organization of men who hunt in the Adirondacks, bound by a pledge never to aim at any object until its nature is known, and which has saved many lives. He is a member of the New York County Lawyers' Association, New York State Historical Association, Yale Club of New York City, Theatre-goers of America, and the Ticonderoga Gun Club. He married in New York City, June 30, 1899, Alice Morlan, a portrait and miniature painter of distinction. Summer home: Arden Lodge, Eagle Cliff P. O., Ticonderoga, N. Y. Address: Care New York Lawyers' Association, Room 2675, 165 Broadway, New York City.

FLOOD, Henry Delaware:

Lawyer and congressman; born in Appomattox County, Va., Sept. 2, 1865; son of J. W. and Ella W. Flood. He was educated in the Washington and Lee University and in the Law Department of the University, being graduated LL.B., 1886, and admitted to the Virginia Bar, Sept. 15, 1886. He engaged in practice in his native county, served as attorney for the Commonwealth for Appomattox County, and as a member of the House of Delegates and of the Senate in the General Assembly of Virginia, was a presidential elector on the Democratic ticket in 1892, a member of the Virginia Constitutional Convention of 1901-1902; was defeated for Congress in 1896, but elected to the Fifty-seventh, Fifty-eighth, Fifty-ninth, and Sixtieth Congresses, and reelected in 1908 to the Sixty-first Congress from the Tenth Virginia District. Mr. Flood was appointed by Governor Swanson in 1906, a member of the Board of Visitors for the University of Virginia. Address: Appomattox, Va.

FLORANCE, Ernest Touro:

Lawyer; born at Pass Christian, Miss., July 30, 1854; son of Benjamin and Rebecca (Kursheedt) Florance. He was educated in schools and academies in New Orleans, and was admitted to the bar at New Orleans in 1875. He has attained especial distinction as a commercial lawyer and president at the Commercial Law League of America. Residence: 318 Royal Street. Office address: 610-612 Maison Blanche Bldg., New Orleans, La.

FLOYD, John Charles:

Congressman and lawyer; born in Sparta, White County, Tenn., April 14, 1858; son of John Wesley and Eliza Jane (Snodgrass) Floyd. He moved with his parents to Benton County, Ark., in 1869, where he worked on a farm and attended the common and high schools until he was eighteen years old; in 1876 he entered the State University, at Fayetteville, Ark., whence he was graduated A.B., 1879. He taught school, 1880-1881, was admitted to the bar in 1882, and has ever since practised law in Yellville, Ark. In 1888 was elected representative of Marion County in the State legislature; in 1890 and again in 1892 was elected prosecuting attorney of the Fourteenth Circuit, each time without opposition; was elected to the Fifty-ninth Congress and reelected to the Sixtieth and Sixty-first Congresses, from the Third Arkansas District. He married in Yellville, Ark., Nov. 24, 1887, Sarah Virginia Berry. Address: Yellville, Ark.

FLYNN, Denis T.:

Lawyer; born at Phenixville, Pa., Feb. 13, 1862. His boyhood was spent at Buffalo, N. Y., in the schools of which city he was educated, and in 1880 he removed to Riverside, Iowa, where he studied law and was admitted to the bar. He established there the Riverside Leader, but afterward removed to Kiowa, Kan., where he practised law and edited the Kiowa Herald, and was the first postmaster and city attorney there. He went to Oklahoma in 1889, and was postmaster of Guthrie, Okla., 1890-1893, and delegate in Congress from Oklahoma in the Fifty-third, Fifty-fourth, Fifty-sixth, and Fifty-seventh Congresses. Mr. Flynn is a Republican. Address: Oklahoma City, Okla.

FOCHT, Benjamin K.:

Editor and congressman; born at New Bloomfield, Pa., March 12, 1863. His father was of German descent and a scholar, orator and Lutheran preacher of note, who died when his son was one year old. Some of his paternal ancestors served in the Revolutionary War. Mr. Focht's maternal grandfather was of English descent, and in the early days owned a large part of what is now Lewisburg, Pa., and operated a number of flouring mills in the neighborhood. Since childhood Mr. Focht resided at Lewisburg, Pa., his present residence. He is married and has two daughters and a son and his home life is ideal. After attending Bucknell University, Pennsylvania State College and the Susquehanna University, Mr. Focht learned the printing and publishing business, and at the age of eighteen years founded a newspaper which he still owns. He immediately engaged in politics, and as a mere boy received his political tutelage in heated campaigns from the elder Cameron, his son Donald and M. S. Quay. He is a talented and forceful newspaper writer, and like his father before him, is an orator of ability. His career for thirty years in politics and business has been as distinguished and successful as it has been stormy. He has been a recognized Republican leader in Central Pennsylvania politics for many years. He served as State delegate, many times a Congressional Conference, League Club delegate, belongs to a Republican Club in New York and one in Philadelphia, was three times a member of the Assembly at Harrisburg, served four years in the Pennsylvania State Senate, is author of one hundred laws now on the statute books, served as chairman on important committees in the House and Senate, addressed Presidents McKinley and Roosevelt, as head of special committees, and was chairman of the committee which had charge of the ceremonies attending the inauguration of Governor Pennypacker. While successfully engaged in enterprises in Philadelphia and New York as a member of the firm of Davis and Foelt, he still retains his ownership of the newspaper he founded at Lewisburg when a boy. He was elected in 1906, on the Republican ticket from the Seventeenth Pennsylvania District in the Sixtieth Congress, and re-elected by ten thousand majority in 1908, to the Sixty-first Congress. Address: Lewisburg, Pa.

FOGARTY, Thomas:

Artist, illustrator; born in N. Y. City, in 1873. He was a pupil of H. Siddons Mowbray, and took the scientific course in De La Salle Institute, N. Y. City; then entered the publishing house of Charles Scribner's Sons; studied art at the Art Students' League; began illustrating on Harper's Young People, 1892; also published a few drawings in Life, and drew for school books and histories for the American Book Company. Mr. Fogarty illustrated: Riis' The Making of An American; Battle with the Slums, 1902; The Melon Farm; The Blazed Trail; The Merry Anne and the Forest (the latter work being the result of a canoe trip into the Canadian wilderness with the author); Tommy & Company (Jerome K. Jerome), Debbonaire (W. F. Payson); is on staff of McClure's and the American magazines, and contributor to other leading periodicals. He is also instructor in illustration in the Art Students' League, and a member of the Society of Illustrators, and The Players Club of New York City. Address: 38 East 22d Street, New York City.

FOLLANSBEE, Mitchell Davis:

Lawyer; born in Chicago, Jan. 23, 1870; son of George Alanson and Susan Dana (Davis) Follansbee. He attended public and private schools; was graduated A.B., at Harvard in 1892, and LL.B., at Northwestern University Law School in 1894, and has since practised law. He is a member of the firm of Follansbee, McConnell & Follansbee. He is an editor of the Illinois Law Review, a professor in the Northwestern University Law School, a member of the Chicago Bar Association, Illinois State Bar Association; is a member of the Law, the Legal, University, Chicago Mid-day, and Saddle and Cycle Clubs of Chicago, and the Harvard and University Clubs of New York, and is a director of the United Charities of Chicago. He married at Seabreeze, Fla., April 14, 1903, Julia Rogers McConnell, and they have three children: Eleanor McConnell, Mitchell D., Jr., and Rogers McConnell. Residence: 52 Bellevue Place. Business address: 205 La Salle Street, Chicago.

FOLEY, John Samuel:

Catholic bishop of Detroit; born in Baltimore, Md., Nov. 5, 1833. He received his classical education at Saint Mary's College, Baltimore, and after his graduation there in 1850, entered upon his divinity studies at the Saint Mary's Ecclesiastical Seminary in Baltimore, afterward completing them at the Roman Seminary. He was ordained to the Catholic priesthood in 1856; was rector of Saint Bridget's Parish in Baltimore, and afterward for six years at Ellicott City, Md. After that he was assistant pastor of Saint Peter's, Baltimore. He founded and became pastor of Saint Martin's, Baltimore, in which charge he worked faithfully until his consecration as bishop, establishing new parochial schools, developing the Saint Joseph's House of Industry and the Sisters of the Good Shepherd. In November, 1888, he was consecrated bishop of Detroit, and has since devoted his energies to the oversight of that diocese. Address: Detroit, Mich.

FOLGER, William Mayhew:

Rear Admiral U. S. Navy, retired; born in Massillon, Ohio, May 19, 1844; son of Robert and Amelia (Hayden) Folger. He was appointed from Ohio to the U. S. Naval Academy, Sept. 21, 1861, was graduated in the Class of 1864, and promoted through all the grades until commissioned rear-admiral U. S. Navy, June 1, 1904, with which rank he was retired on his own application after forty years' service June 30, 1905. He served on many duties and stations, and became especially well known as an ordnance officer, becoming chief of the Bureau of Ordnance, with the rank of commodore, 1890-1893. After that he commanded the Yorktown, commanded the cruiser New Orleans during the war with Spain, and later the Kearsarge; was light-house inspector for the Third District, 1901-1904; commanded the Philippine Squadron of the Asiatic Fleet, April to September, 1898, and after that the Cruiser Squadron of the Asiatic Fleet to March, 1905, then commanded the Asiatic Fleet until retired. Address: Windsor, Vt.

FOLK, Joseph Wingate:

Lawyer and ex-governor; born in Brownsville, Tenn., Oct. 28, 1869; son of Henry B. and Martha (Estes) Folk. He was graduated from Vanderbilt University, LL.B., 1890, and after practising for a year in his native town, went to St. Louis, where he established an extensive civil practice. He is a life-long Democrat, and he took the stump for the Democratic ticket in 1896 and 1900. In the summer of 1900, when the great street-car strike paralyzed the industries of St. Louis, Mr. Folk was appealed to by the strikers and succeeded in settling the dispute and bringing the strike to an end. In October, 1900, when the City Democratic Convention met in St. Louis, the Democratic managers, who had prepared a slate almost solidly representing the so-called "gold element" of the party, were reminded that the Bryan men had been given no recognition, and it was suggested that it would be wise to put Mr. Folk on the ticket for circuit attorney, which was done without his solicitation or desire, as it meant a financial sacrifice to him. He was finally persuaded to accept the nomination, was elected by three thousand majority and won national fame by his prosecution of those guilty of election frauds, bribery and municipal corruption, and against the most vigorous opposition, legal and political, brought about a complete purging of the city government. Seven convictions of election bribers were secured, but set aside on the ground that the penal clauses of the law were unconstitutional; and for bribery charges there were nineteen trials and eighteen convictions. Then he turned his attention to State matters in which he showed that legislation was sold to the highest bidder, forced the resignation of Lieutenant-Governor Lee and his confession to disgraceful corruption, involving senators and representatives; and incidentally he secured a treaty between the United States and Mexico covering bribery. The record thus made secured his nomination for governor in 1904, when he was elected, receiving fifty thousand votes more than other candidates on his ticket. His term, which expired in January, 1909, was notable for the fearless and unbiased enforcement of every law on the statute books of Missouri. Governor Folk has also attained great popularity as a lecturer in Chautauqua and lyceum courses. He resumed the practice of law in St. Louis after the expiration of his gubernatorial term. He married in Brownsville, Tenn., in 1896, Gertrude Glass. Address: St. Louis, Mo.

FOLKS, Homer:

Social worker; born in Hanover, Mich., Feb. 18, 1867; son of James and Elizabeth (Woodliff) Folks. He was graduated from Albion College, A.B., 1889, and from Harvard College, A.B., 1890. Mr. Folks was general superintendent of the Children's Aid Society of Pennsylvania 1890-1893; secretary of the State Charities Aid Association of New York, 1893-1902; commissioner of Public Charities of New York City, 1902-1903, and again since 1904, secretary of the State Charities Aid Association. Mr. Folks has published a History of the Care of Destitute, Neglected, and Delinquent Children in the United States, contributed to the Charities Review during 1899-1900, and published in book form by the Macmillan Company in January, 1902, and numerous reports, pamphlets and magazine articles. He was a member of the Board of Alderman of New York City, 1898-1899, and is president of the State Probation Commission of New York, established in 1907, and also of the National Association of Probation Officers. Mr. Folks is a member of the Board of Trustees of the City Club of New York; vice-chairman of the National Child Labor Committee, member of the Central Council of the Charity Organization Society; member of the Board of Directors of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis; member of the Executive Committee of the Civil Service Reform Association; member of the Board of Directors of the Loeb Convalescent Home; and member of the Advisory Board of the State Health Department. He is a member of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity and of the City, Republican and National Arts Clubs of New York City. Mr. Folks married in Albion, Mich., Dec. 22, 1891, M. Maude Beard, and they have three daughters: Lalitha, Gertrude and Evelyn. Residence: 428 Hawthorne Avenue, Yonkers, N. Y. Office: 105 East 22d Street, New York City.

FOLWELL, Arthur H.:

Editor; born in Brooklyn, Nov. 22, 1877; son of Arthur and Agnes H. (Cahoon) Folwell. He was educated in the Brooklyn public schools at the Boy's High School of Brooklyn. Mr. Folwell was for seven years on the staff of the Brooklyn Daily Eagle in various capacities, until June, 1902; was literary editor, 1902-1905, and since 1905 has been editor, of Puck. Mr. Folwell married in Brooklyn, June 12, 1901, Edna M. Neal. Residence: 427 Macon Street, Brooklyn, N. Y. Office: Puck Building, New York City.

FONTAINE, William Morris:

Professor in geology and natural history in the University of Virginia; born in Louisa County, Virginia, Dec. 1, 1835; son of James and Juliet (Morris) Fontaine. He was graduated from the University of Virginia, A.M., 1859. He served as second lieutenant of artillery in the Army of the Confederate States until 1862, then as first lieutenant of ordinance until April 9, 1865. He attended the School of Mines at Freiberg, Saxony, 1869-1870; was professor of chemistry and geology in the University of West Virginia, 1873-1879; and since then has held his present chair at the University of Virginia. He is a fellow of the Geological Society of America and a member of the Huguenot Society of America. Professor Fontaine is distinguished for scientific research, especially in the realm of paleobotany, is part author of: Resources of West Virginia, and of Report on the Permian Flora of Southwest Pennsylvania and West Virginia; author of Monographs VI and XV of the United States Geological Survey; Bulletins of the same Survey on The Potomac Formation, and of various papers on fossil botany, published in the monographs and annual reports of the Survey; and of various papers on geology and mineralogy, published in the American Journal of Science. Address: University Station, Charlottesville, Va.

FOOTE, Arthur:

Musician; born in Salem, Mass., March 5, 1853; son of Caleb and Mary Wilder (White) Foote. He was graduated from Harvard, A.B., 1874, A.M., 1875. In 1876 he began his successful career as teacher of piano playing in Boston, and since 1878 has been organist of the First Unitarian Church in Boston. He has given many recitals on the organ and piano, and has published a large number of musical compositions, including about seventy songs and forty piano pieces, besides orchestra suites and overtures, cantatas, church and organ music, etc. He is the author, with W. R. Spalding, of the Standard textbook "Modern Harmony." Mr. Foote is president of the Cecilia Society of Boston, Honorary President of the American Guild of Organists; member of the Essex Institute, Salem, Mass., the Harvard Musical Association, the St. Botolph and Tavern Clubs of Boston and the Norfolk Country and Norfolk Golf Club of Dedham, Mass. He married in Boston, July 7, 1880, Kate Grant Knowlton, and has one daughter. Residence: Denham, Mass. Office: 6 Newbury Street, Boston.

FOOTE, Mary Hallock:

Author and illustrator; born in Milton, N. Y., Nov. 19, 1847; daughter of Nathaniel and Anne (Burling) Hallock; descendant on both sides of old Quaker families of New York State. She received her education at home, in childhood, and latter in the Poughkeepsie (N. Y.) Female Seminary and in the New York School of Design for Women. She married in Milton, N. Y., in 1876, Arthur De Wint Foote, a civil engineer, and she has a son and daughter living, and had another daughter, now deceased. Her husband's professional connections have caused her to reside chiefly in the West (in Colorado, Idaho, Mexico and California), and she has devoted herself to literature and art. Mrs. Foote was one of the Jury of Award in the Black and White Department, Fine Arts Committee, at the World's Columbian Exposition of Chicago. She is author of: The Led Horse Claim (a novel); John Bodewin's Testimony; The Last Assembly Ball; In Exile, and Other Stories; Coeur d'Alene; The Chosen Valley; The Cup of Trembling; The Desert and the Sown; The Prodigal; The Little Fig Tree Stories; A Touch of Sun and Other Stories. Among her chief illustrations are: Longfellow's Hanging of the Crane; Marble Martin; The Skeleton in Armor, and The Scarlet Letter. She also illustrated her own stories when they were published as serials in the Century Magazine. Address: Care of North Star Mines, Grass Valley, California.

FOOTE, Nathaniel:

Justice of the Supreme Court of New York; born in Morrisville, N. Y., Nov. 15, 1849; son of Nathaniel and Olivia M. (Knox) Foote. After a preparatory education in the Morrisville Union School, and Cazenovia Seminary, he entered Hamilton College in the class of 1870, and he received the B.A., M.A., and LL.D. degrees from that institution. He practised law at Morrisville, N. Y., until 1873; then removed to Rochester and continued the practice of law there until his appointment as justice of the Supreme Court by Governor Higgins on Jan. 2, 1905; and in Nov., 1906, he was elected for the full term of fourteen years, expiring Dec. 31, 1919. Judge Foote was a delegate to the New York State Constitutional Convention of 1894, and was chairman of its Committee on Revision and Engraving. He was the first president of the Rochester Bar Association on its organization in 1892, and is now a member of the New York State Bar Association, the Rochester Bar Association, Rochester Historical Society, American Society of International Law, National Geographic Society, and the American Institute of Civics. Judge Foote is a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, the Genesee Valley Club, Country Club, and Church Club of Rochester. He married in Rochester, N. Y., Jan. 10, 1872, Charlotte A. Campbell; and they have five children. Residence: 245 Culver Road, Rochester, N. Y.

FORAKER, Joseph Benson:

Former U. S. Senator; born on a farm near Rainsboro, Highland County, Ohio, July 5, 1846. He enlisted July 14, 1862, as a private in Company A, 89th Regiment of Ohio Volunteer Infantry, with which organization he served until the close of the war, at which time he held the rank of first lieutenant and brevet captain. He was graduated from Cornell University, July 1, 1869; was admitted to the bar and entered upon the practice of law at Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 14, 1869; was elected judge of the superior court Cincinnati in April, 1879; and resigned on account of ill health May 1, 1882. He was the Republican candidate for governor of Ohio in 1883, but was defeated; was elected to that office in 1885, and re-elected in 1887; was again nominated for governor and defeated in 1889. He was chairman of the Republican State conventions of Ohio for 1886, 1890, 1896, and 1901, and a delegate-at-large from Ohio to the National Republican conventions, of 1884, 1888, 1892, 1896, 1900 and 1904. He was chairman of the Ohio delegation in the conventions of 1884 and 1888, and presented to both of these conventions the name of Hon. John Sherman for nomination for the Presidency. In the conventions of 1892 and 1896, he served as chairman of the committee on resolutions, and as such reported the platform each time to the convention, presented the name of William McKinley to the conventions of 1896 and 1900 for nomination to the Presidency; was elected United States Senator Jan. 15, 1896, to succeed Calvin S. Brice, for the term beginning March 4, 1897; elected Jan. 15, 1902, to succeed himself for the term which expired March 3, 1909; and he has resigned active law practice. Address: Traction Building, Cincinnati, Ohio.

FORBES, Allan:

Capitalist; born in Boston, Mass., Nov. 20, 1874; son of John Murray and Alice (Bowditch) Forbes; grandson of John Murray Forbes (1813-1898), a Boston merchant engaged in the East India trade, and a descendant of James Forbes, who immigrated to Hartford Colony from Culloden, Scotland. He was graduated from Harvard, A.B., 1897, and in 1899 became Assistant Treasurer and later vice-president and actuary of the State Street Trust Company; he is treasurer of the Riverbank Improvement Company; trustee of the Franklin Savings Bank, of Boston; President of the Bankers' Electric Protective Association; director of the Blue Hill Street Railway Company; Boston Water Power Company and Boston Wharf Company, Cape Breton Electric Company Limited; secretary of the Hotel Somerset Company, and trustee of the Boston Floating Hospital; and the Dana Bank; treasurer of the Dallas Ice and Power Company. He is vice-president of the Massachusetts Bankers' Association and a member of the Somerset, Boston Tennis and Racquet, Delta Phi and the Dedham Polo Clubs. Residence: Milton, Mass. Office: State Trust Company, Boston.

FORBES, Harrye R. P. (Mrs. A. S. C.):

Author; born in Everett, Pa., daughter of William Piper and R. Lavinia (Kay) Smith. On the paternal side she is great-granddaughter of Col. James Smith, who was captured by the Indians near Raystown, later becoming famous as the leader of the "Black Boys" and the capturer of Fort Bedford, and also descendant of Colonel John Piper of Piper's Fort. Through her mother she is a direct descendant of John Kaye, the first child born within the present city limits of Philadelphia, and whose parents came over in the Ship Welcome, with William Penn. She married in Wichita, Kan., Feb. 10, 1886, Armitage S. C. Forbes son of the Rev. Edward Forbes, D.D., Paris, France. Mrs. Forbes has long resided in California, taking a great interest in Californian interests and history, and has travelled along the entire Pacific Coast from Alaska to Mexico, gathering Indian legends and folk-lore. She is author of: California History and Landmarks; Mission Tales in the Days of the Dons; and various articles on California and Indian subjects; and her syndicated articles on "China" during the Boxer War were published by all the leading newspapers of that time. She frequently uses the pen-name "Harry Forbes." Mrs. Forbes is secretary of El Camino Real Association that has for its object the rehabilitation and reconstruction of the Camino Real (King's Highway) which in the earliest days of Spanish occupation connected the twenty-one Missions, the Pueblos, Presidios and many of the large Indian rancherias of California. Mrs. Forbes created and established the National Naval Memorial Ceremony of casting flowers on the sea in memory of the Naval Dead. This ceremony was endorsed by Admiral Dewey, Rear-Admirals Sampson, Schley, Robley D. Evans, Sigsbee, Higginson, Farquhar, Torry and Mead; also Captains V. Q. Cottman, Glass, Robinson, Rockwell, Blanchard and others, as well as members of the Army, among them being Major-General Shafter. The service for the Naval Memorial has been adopted by the Naval Association, the Grand Army of the Republic, Woman's Relief Corps and Sons of Veterans. The ceremony is observed not only in America but by our ships in foreign ports. Mrs. Forbes is honorary member of the National Association of Ladies of Naval Veterans; of Hopkins Squadron, No. 11, U. S. Veteran Navy, of the U. S. S. Pinto Detachment, Engineers Division of Naval Militia of California. She is also member of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Woman's Relief Corps, National Indian Association, Governor Pico Museum and Historical Society, Ruskin Art Club, Friday Morning and Landmarks Clubs of Los Angeles, and the Sequoia League; and for three years was state chairman of California History and Landmarks for the Woman's Federated Clubs of California. Address: 618 Laughlin Building, Los Angeles, Calif. Residence: 1104 Lyndon Street, South Pasadena, Calif.

FORBES, Robert Humphrey:

Agricultural chemist; born at Cobden, Union County, Ill., May 15, 1867; son of Henry Clinton and Laura Jane (Gorham) Forbes. He was graduated from the Princeton (Illinois) High School, in 1888, from the University of Illinois, B.S., 1892 and M.S., 1897; taking special research work at Harvard 1893-1894. He was instructor at the University of Illinois, 1891-1893, and in 1894 became professor of chemistry in the University of Arizona and chemist of the Arizona Agricultural Experiment Station until 1899; since then director and chemist of the Arizona Agricultural Experiment Station. He married at Tucson, Ariz., Jan. 16, 1902, Georgie Hazel Scott. Address: Tucson, Ariz.

FORBES, Stephen Alfred:

Naturalist; born in Stephenson County, Ill., May 29, 1844; son of Isaac Sawyer and Agnes (Van Hoesen) Forbes. He was educated in the Beloit (Wis.) Academy, Rush Medical College and the Illinois State Normal University, and received the degree of Ph.D. from Indiana State University and LL.D. from the University of Illinois. He served four years and two months in the Civil War as first Sergeant, second lieutenant and captain of Company B, Seventh Illinois Cavalry, and was prisoner of war for four months. He became instructor in zoölogy in the Illinois State Normal School and founded, 1877, and has since been director of the Illinois State Laboratory of Natural History. Dr. Forbes has been State entomologist of Illinois since 1882, and professor of zoölogy in the University of Illinois since 1884. He is author of: Biennial Reports of the State Entomologist of Illinois; Studies of the Food of Birds, Fishes and Insects; Contagious Diseases of Insects; also various papers on the Entomostraca of North America, and on other zoölogical and educational subjects. Dr. Forbes received the first-class medal of the Société d'Acclimatation de Paris; is a member of the Signa Xi Society and the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity, the Washington Academy of Sciences, St. Louis Academy of Sciences, Société Entomologique de France, American Zoölogical Society, American Society of Entomologists, Association of Economic Entomologists, and the Country, University and Chaos Clubs of Chicago. Professor Forbes married at Normal, Ill., Dec. 25, 1873, Clara Shaw Gaston, and they have three daughters and a son. Residence: 1209 Springfield Avenue, Urbana, Ill.

FORBES, Theodore Freylinghuysen:

Brigadier-general U. S. A., retired; born in Hawaii, July 13, 1840; son of Cochran and Rebecca Denman (Smith) Forbes. He received an academic education and entered the Union Army for service in the Civil War Nov. 9, 1861, and served as corporal and sergeant of Company G, 102d New York Infantry, until Oct. 28, 1862, then as second lieutenant in the same Company until honorably mustered out March 7, 1863. He was commissioned second lieutenant in the Veteran Reserve Corps, Aug. 13, 1863, and honorably mustered out Oct. 12, 1866, having been commissioned second lieutenant in the Forty-second Infantry in the Regular Army. He was severely wounded at the Battle of Cedar Mountain, Va., Aug. 9, 1862, and remained in the hospital on account of his wounds until Feb., 1863. In the Regular Army he was assigned to the 5th Infantry Nov. 15, 1869, promoted first lieutenant Aug. 31, 1875, captain, Oct. 8, 1885; major 4th Infantry, Feb. 27, 1899, transferred to the 5th Infantry, March 20, 1899; lieutenant colonel 26th Infantry, Feb. 2, 1901, Colonel 4th Infantry, May 28, 1902, brigadier-general, Aug. 14, 1903, and retired Aug. 15, 1903 at his own request, after forty years' service. Brigadier-General Forbes is a member of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion, Order of Indian Wars, Order of Foreign Wars and the Army and Navy Club of Washington, D. C. Address: The Connecticut, Washington, D. C.

FORBES, William Cameron:

Secretary of commerce and police of the Philippine Islands; born at Milton, Mass., May 21, 1870; son of William Hathaway and Edith (Emerson) Forbes. He was graduated from Harvard College, A.B., 1892, then engaged in business, and since 1899 has been a member of the firm of J. N. Forbes and Co. He was also connected as officer and director in several banks in Boston until 1904, when he was appointed a member of the Philippine Commission and secretary of commerce and police. He is a member of the Union, Saint Botolph and Tavern Clubs, of Boston, the University Club of New York City, and the University Club of Manila. Address: Manila, Philippine Islands.

FORCE, William H.:

Merchant; born in Brooklyn, May 11, 1852; son of William Force and Sophia (Emmons) Force. He was educated at the Dutchess County Academy, Poughkeepsie, N. Y. His present business (shipping and forwarding), he established in 1873; he is senior member of the firm of William H. Force & Co. He is a director of the Staten Island Rapid Transit R. R. Co., and United Casualty Co., and the New York Board of Trade, and Transportation; member of the New York Chamber of Commerce, the New York Coffee Exchange and the Down Town and New York Yacht Clubs of New York City, and the Hamilton and Crescent Clubs of Brooklyn; and is secretary and treasurer of the Robbins Island Gun Club. He married Katherine Arvilla Talmadge; and they have two daughters. Address: 78 Front Street, New York City.

FORD, Arthur Younger:

Trust Company officer; born at Parkville, Mo., Nov. 11, 1861; son of Salem H. and Sallie (Beauchamp), Ford. He removed in early boyhood to Owensboro, Ky. He was educated in Centre College, Ky., and Brown University, A.B., 1884. Published the Owensboro (Ky.) Inquirer, 1884-1889, and in 1890 became a member of the staff of the Louisville Courier-Journal, of which he was State editor, 1890-1892, editorial writer, 1892-1894, and then managing editor of the paper until 1905. He then left the newspaper field to become Treasurer and subsequently Vice-President of Columbia Trust Co. He rendered valuable services as president of the Kentucky Exhibit Association, 1904-1905, and was chairman of the Kentucky State Commission to the Louisiana Purchase Exposition in St. Louis in 1904. Mr. Ford is a trustee of Georgetown College, Kentucky; Treasurer of the Baptist Education Society of Kentucky; and a member of the Board of Trustees of various charitable organizations. He is a member of the Filson, Pendennis, and Louisville County Clubs; and an honorary member of the Louisville Commercial Club. He married at Cloverport, Ky., Jan. 3, 1887, Esther Brown. Residence: 1261 First Street. Office: Columbia Trust Co., Louisville, Ky.

FORD, Henry Jones:

Born in Baltimore, Md., Aug. 25, 1851; son of Franklin and Annie Elizabeth (Jones) Ford. He was graduated from Baltimore City College in 1868. He became editorial writer of the Baltimore American in 1872, was later city editor of the Baltimore Sun, managing editor of the Baltimore American, sub-editor of the New York Sun, managing editor of the Pittsburgh Commercial Gazette, managing editor of the Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph, and editor of the Pittsburgh Gazette, retiring in 1905. In 1906 he took up university work as lecturer on political science at Johns Hopkins University and the University of Pennsylvania. In 1908 was appointed Professor of Politics in Princeton University. Author of: The Rise and Growth of American Politics, and various monographs on subjects pertaining to political science. Address: Princeton, N. J.

FORD, John:

Jurist; born at Knowlesville, Orleans County, N. Y., 1862; son of Michael and Sarah (O'Malley) Ford. He was graduated from Cornell University as A.B. in 1890. He was a member of the State Senate, from 1896 to 1900; active in municipal affairs; candidate for comptroller, City of New York, on Hearst ticket, 1905 and was elected justice of the Supreme Court, State of New York, First Judicial District, on the Democratic and Independence League ticket, 1906. He is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Society, Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, Order of Elks, Royal Arcanum, Fellowship of Solidarity. He is also a member of the Republican, Cornell University, and Daleasson Clubs. He married in New York City, in 1891, Lulu Fairchild Van Aken, and they have two daughters: Esther, born in 1893, and Edith, born in 1895. Address: County Court House, New York City.

FORD, John Donaldson:

Rear-Admiral U. S. Navy; born in Maryland; son of Thomas C. and Isabella (Logie) Ford. He was educated in public schools, of Baltimore; was graduated from the Maryland Institute School of Design, June, 1861, receiving the Peabody prize; graduated from Potts School of Mechanical Engineering, June, 1862; entered the U. S. Navy as third assistant engineer, July 30, 1862; promoted second assistant engineer, Feb. 13, 1864; first assistant engineer, June 6, 1868; passed assistant engineer, Feb. 24, 1874; chief engineer, Dec. 27, 1890. During the Civil War, he took part in the recapture of Baton Rouge, La., March, 1863, battles of Mobile Bay, 1864; was on Arizona, destroyed by fire off Poverty Point, Mississippi River, Feb. 27, 1865. Was wrecked, in the Sacramento, on Coramandel coast of India, June, 1867; served on many expeditions and stations; detached and ordered to start Baltimore Manual Training School March 13, 1884; at Maryland Agricultural and Mechanical College, from 1894 to 1896; on United States Steamship Brooklyn, from 1896 to 1898; Baltimore (flagship) January 25, 1898; and fleet engineer, Pacific Station; joined Asiatic Fleet; took part in actions of April 30, May 1, and Aug. 13; the destruction of the Spanish fleet off Cavite; the destruction of the batteries at Cavite and at Sangley Point, and the capture of the forts at Corregidor and the capture of Manila; commissioned commander, March 3, 1899, and later advanced in that grade for eminent and conspicuous conduct in battle; promoted captain, March 5, 1902; rear-admiral and placed on retired list, May 19, 1902, but continued on duty as inspector of machinery and ordnance of Baltimore, and Sparrow's Point, Md. He is author of several pamphlets on Manual Training, An American Cruiser in the East, 1900; and many professional papers. Address: Baltimore, Md.

FORD, Sewell:

Author; born in South Levant, Me., March 7, 1868; son of John S. and Susan (Morrill) Ford. He was graduated from the Haverhill (Mass.) High School in 1887. He is a contributor to magazines, and is one of the most popular of present day short-story writers. Mr. Ford has created several types of modern American life that are universally recognized as unusually true to life. He is also author of the books: Truigate of Mogador, and Shorty McCane. He is a member of the Salmagundi Club of New York. He married in Haverhill, Mass., Dec. 14, 1889, Lillian M. Sylvester. Address: Hackensack, N. J.

FORD, Simeon:

Proprietor of the Grand Union Hotel. He has been engaged in hotel business from youth, and he is also a well known after-dinner speaker. Mr. Ford is president of the Hotel Red Book and Directory Company; director of the Columbia Bank; trustee of the American Safe Deposit Company; director of the Manhattan Life Insurance Company, Rye Land and Improvement Company, and Fireproof Elevator Hatchway Company, and treasurer of the United Agency Company, and the General Electric Inspection Company. Address: Grand Union Hotel, New York City.

FORD. Worthington Chauncey:

Editor, historian and statistician; born in Brooklyn, N. Y., Feb. 16, 1858; son of Gordon Lester and Emily (Fowler) Ford. He was educated in the Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute and Columbia University, and received from Harvard the honorary degree of A.M., 1907. He was appointed chief of the Bureau of Statistics in the Department of State at Washington, serving 1885-1889; chief of the Bureau of Statistics in the U. S. Treasury Department, 1893-1898; was connected with the Boston Public Library, 1898-1902; chief of the Division of Manuscripts, Library of Congress, Washington, D. C., 1902-1908; since 1908, editor of the publications of the Massachusetts Historical Society. He is author of a Life of George Washington; American Citizens' Manual; The Standard Silver Dollar; and contributions to various publications and has edited The Writings of George Washington, and other historical works. He was lecturer on statistics in the University of Chicago, 1901. Mr. Ford is a member of the Century and Grolier Clubs of New York City, the Union Club of Boston, and the Chevy Chase Clubs, of Washington. He married Bettina Fillmore Quin, of Washington, D. C. Address: The Massachusetts Historical Society, Boston, Mass.

FORDHAM, Herbert Latham:

Lawyer; born in Greenport, Suffolk County, N. Y., Nov. 23, 1869; son of Thomas D. and Lydia M. (Latham) Fordham. He is a descendant of Rev. Robert Fordham, first minister of Hempstead from 1643 to 1647; and second minister of Southampton from 1647 to 1671. Mr. Fordham was graduated from Greenport Union School in 1887; and attended Cornell University, whence he was graduated as Ph.B. in 1894 and LL.B. in 1895. While at Cornell he was prominent in intercollegiate debates; was an editor of the Cornell Magazine; and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. He was admitted to the bar of New York State in 1895, and began practice in New York City in 1896. He takes an active part as a public speaker in the campaigns of Republican party. Mr. Fordham is a member of the American Bar Association, the New York State Bar Association; the Association of the Bar of the City of New York; the New York County Lawyers' Association, the Suffolk County Bar Association, the Sons of the Revolution, Suffolk County Historical Society, Phi Beta Kappa Alumni Association, Delta Chi fraternity; the Cornell University, Republican, Lawyers', and Brooklyn Clubs. He married in New York City, June 21, 1900, Inez G. Robbins. Residence: Greenport, Suffolk County, N. Y. Office: 49 Wall Street, New York City.

FORDNEY, Joseph Warren:

Lumberman and congressman; born in Blackford County, Ind., Nov. 5, 1853. He received a common school education, living with his parents on a farm until sixteen years of age; came to Saginaw in June, 1869; began life in the lumber woods, logging and estimating pine timber, thus acquiring a thorough knowledge of the pine land and lumber industry, which has occupied his attention since; is also interested in an artificial-ice plant at Hartford City, Ind.; was vice-president of the Saginaw Board of Trade; was elected alderman in 1895 and reelected in 1897; was elected to the Fifty-sixth, Fifty-seventh, Fifty-eighth, Fifty-ninth and Sixtieth Congresses, and again in 1908 to the Sixty-first Congress from the Eighth Michigan District. Address: Saginaw W. S., Mich.

FORDYCE, John Addison:

Physician; born in Guernsey County, Ohio, Feb. 16, 1858; son of John and Mary A. (Housman) Fordyce. He was graduated from Adrian (Michigan) College, A.B., 1878, Ph.D., 1901; Chicago Medical College, M.D., 1881; University of Berlin, M.D., 1888. Dr. Fordyce practised medicine at Hot Springs, Ark., 1883-1886; studied in Vienna, Berlin and Paris, 1886-1888; and he practised in New York City since 1888. He is a member of the American Dermatological Association, New York Academy of Medicine, American Medical Association, New York Dermatological Society, American Academy of Medicine, New York State Medical Society, New York Academy of Sciences, American Museum of Natural History; is professor of dermatology and syphilology in the Medical Department New York University, and visiting dermatologist to the City Hospital. Dr. Fordyce was editor of the Journal of Cutaneous and Genito-Urinary Diseases, 1888-1896; contributor to Morrow's System of Genito Urinary Diseases, Syphilology and Dermatology, 3 volumes, 1893; Parkes' Surgery by American Authors, 1896; Bangs'-Hardaway's American Text-Book of Genito-Urinary Diseases, Syphilology and Diseases of the Skin; Wood's Reference Handbook of the Medical Sciences, and to Keen's Surgery; and author of numerous monographs on medical subjects. He married in New York City, 1886, Alice Dean Smith and they have two children: Residence: 8 West 77th Street, New York City. Address: 80 West 40th Street, New York City.

FOREST, John Anthony:

Catholic bishop of San Antonio; born at Saint Martin's, Saint Germain, France, Dec. 25, 1838. He was educated for the priesthood and advanced to the diaconate in France, emigrated to the diocese of Galveston in 1863 and was advanced to the priesthood, and was stationed at Saint Mary's Settlement in Lavaca County, Tex., and later was pastor of the Sacred Heart Parish at Hallettsville, Tex., continuing until his consecration by Archbishop Janssens of New Orleans, as bishop of San Antonio, Oct. 28, 1895, and since then has administered that see. Address: San Antonio, Tex.

FORGAN, James Berwick:

President of the First National Bank of Chicago; born in St. Andrews, Scotland, April 11, 1852; son of Robert and Elizabeth (Berwick) Forgan. He was educated in the Madras College, St. Andrews, and Forres Academy, Forres, Scotland. At the age of seventeen, after having spent a short time in a lawyer's office, he entered the employ of the Royal Bank of Scotland at its St. Andrews' branch; after three years apprenticeship in the Royal Bank, he secured a position with the Bank of British North America in London and was sent by that institution to Montreal, Canada; after filling various clerical positions in its Montreal, New York, and Halifax offices, he joined the service of the Bank of Nova Scotia as paying teller, at the last-named city. Later he became agent of the bank at Liverpool, N. S., and again at Woodstock, N. B., and subsequently was promoted to the position of inspector of branches. In 1885 he established and took charge of a branch of that bank in Minneapolis, Minn., and three years later, on the invitation of the directors of the Northwestern National Bank, of Minneapolis, he accepted the cashiership of that institution. In 1892 at the request of Mr. Lyman J. Gage, president of the First National Bank of Chicago, he was elected vice-president of that bank, and Jan. 9, 1900, he succeeded to the presidency. He is also president and director of the First Trust and Savings Bank, and of the National Safe Deposit Company; chairman of the Board of Directors of the Security Bank of Chicago; director of the Standard Safe Deposit Company, American Radiator Company, Chicago Title and Trust Company, Metropolitan West Side Elevated Company, Guarantee Company of North America, Fidelity and Deposit Company of Maryland, and the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States; and he is a member of the Western Board of Control of the Audit Company of New York. He is also a director of the Presbyterian Hospital of Chicago. He is a member of the Chicago Golf, Chicago, Union League, Midway Union and Saddle and Cycle Clubs of Chicago, and the Exmoor Country Club of Highland Park, Ill. He married in Halifax, N. S., Oct. 19, 1875, Mary Ellen Murray, and they have four children. Residence: 514 Dearborn Avenue. Office: First National Bank, Chicago.

FORMAN, Allan:

Editor of the Journalist; born in Matituck, L. I., N. Y., Sept. 27, 1860. He was educated in private school and by tutors in Brooklyn, and at Williams College, where he specialized in economics and English literature. He is a dramatic critic and contributor to current periodicals; established the Journalist in 1884, and has since conducted it. He is a member of the Long Island Historical Society, and of the Underwriters' Club. He married Xesia Carlstedt. Residence: 10 East 16th Street. Office: 41 Liberty Street, New York City.

FORMAN, Henry James:

Editor; born in New York City, Feb. 17, 1879. He was graduated from Harvard University, A.B., (with special distinction in philosophy), in 1903. Mr. Forman served on the staff of the New York Sun, 1903-1905; in the summer of 1905, he was special correspondent of the N. Y. Sun, with President Roosevelt during the Russo-Japanese Peace Conference, and member of the President's suite on board the U. S. S. Mayflower when the President brought together the Russian and Japanese envoys; political editor of the Literary Digest, Dec. 1905 to Oct. 1906; associate editor and general manager of the North American Review since Oct. 1906. Mr. Forman has contributed to the leading magazines; was literary editor of Appleton's Magazine, July, 1905 to Oct., 1906; American delegate to the Esperanto Congress, Cambridge, England, 1907. He is a member of the Harvard, and The Vagabonds Clubs of New York City. Residence: 111 East 23d Street. Office: North America Review, Franklin Square, New York City.

FORMAN, Justus Miles:

Author; born in Le Roy, Genesee County, N. Y., Nov. 1, 1875; son of J. M. and Mary (Col.) Forman. After graduation from Yale as B.A. in 1898 he took up art, went to Paris and was a student in the Académie Julian, meanwhile becoming a contributor of short stories to the leading New York Magazines, and making such success that he has made literature his chief vocation. Mr. Forman is author of: The Garden of Lies, 1902, and Journey's End, 1903. Address: 28 West 26th Street, New York City.

FORSE, Charles Thomas:

Rear-admiral, U. S. Navy, retired; born in Pittsburg, Dec. 29, 1846; son of William and Marianne (Boyer) Forse. He entered the Naval Academy, Oct. 1, 1864, and was graduated 1868. He served on the store-ship Guard, European Fleet, 1868; Jamestown, Pacific Fleet, 1868-1869; promoted to ensign, 1869; Alaska, Asiatic Fleet, 1869-1872; promoted to master, 1870; and commissioned as lieutenant, 1873; Ossipee, North Atlantic Station, 1873-1876; Tuscarora, Pacific Station, 1877-1881; Ranger, Pacific Station, 1881-1884, commanding C. S. S. Earnest, 1884-1887; inspector of steel, new cruisers, 1887-1892; Kearsarge, North Atlantic Station, 1892-1894; inspector of steel, 1894-1897; lieutenant-commander, June, 1894; commanding Endeavor, 1897-1898; Paterson, April, 1898; commanding Lebanon; promoted to commander, March 3, 1899; lighthouse inspector, Fourteenth District, March 13, 1899; commanding Celtic, 1900-1903; captain, 1902; retired with rank of rear admiral, Dec. 26, 1903. Address: Morewood Avenue, Pittsburgh.

FORSYTH, James McQueen:

Rear admiral, U. S. Navy, retired; born on Long Island, in the Bahamas, Jan. 1, 1842; son of James and Catherine Ann (Taylor) Forsyth. He was educated in the schools of Philadelphia and was graduated from the Central High School of that City in 1858. He became a sailor on a merchant vessel immediately upon leaving school, and entered the Volunteer Navy in Aug., 1861; was appointed acting master's mate, Sept. 25, 1861, and took part in the capture of Forts Clarke and Hatteras, the engagements with the Confederate ram, Arkansas, under Farragut on the Mississippi, engaged with Forts Sumter, Moultrie and other fortifications in Charleston Harbor. He was promoted acting ensign, Sept. 5, 1862; active master, Aug. 1, 1864 and having passed the competitive examination for the Regular Navy, was commissioned master, March 12, 1868; lieutenant, Dec. 18, 1868, lieutenant-commander, May, 1878; promoted to commander in August, 1889; captain, March 3, 1899; retired Sept. 25, 1901, at his own request, after forty years' service, with the rank of rear-admiral. He commanded the cruiser Brooklyn, and the U. S. battleship Indiana; chief of staff to the Rear Admiral J. C. Watson commanding the Philippine Fleet, 1899-1900. He is a companion of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion; member of the Naval Order of the United States, Grand Army of the Republic, and of the Union League Club of Philadelphia. He married in Philadelphia, first Aug. 1, 1871, Mary I. Perkins, who died, and by whom he has a son, James Perkins, and second, Oct. 7, 1903, Caroline A. Helfenstein. Address: Shanwater, Pa.

FORT, John Franklin:

Governor of New Jersey; born at Pemberton, Burlington County, N. J., March 20, 1852; son of Andrew H. Fort. After a careful preparation at Mount Holly Institute and Pennington Seminary, in New Jersey, he took the course at Albany Law School, from which he was graduated LL.B., 1872. He was admitted to the bar in 1873, and engaged in practice until elevated to the bench. He was journal clerk for the New Jersey Legislature, 1873-1874; judge of the District Court of Newark, N. J., 1878-1886; president judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Essex County, N. J., 1896-1900, justice of the Supreme Court of New Jersey, 1900-1907. In Nov., 1907, he was elected governor of New Jersey for the term expiring Jan., 1911. He married at Newark, N. J., April 20, 1876, Charlotte E. Stainsby, and they have three children. Address: East Orange, N. J.

FORWOOD, William Henry:

Surgeon-general, U. S. Army; was born in Brandywine Hundred, Del., Sept. 7, 1838, and received his preliminary education in the public schools and Crozier Academy, Chester, Pa. After graduating in the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania, he was appointed assistant surgeon in the army, 1861; serving first as executive officer of the Seminary Hospital at Georgetown, D. C., but after a few months was assigned to active service, first as surgeon of the 14th Infantry and later as acting medical director of Sykes Division, Fifth Corps, Army of the Potomac. On duty in the office of the medical director in Washington for five months, he again saw eight months' active service as surgeon of the Sixth Cavalry in Stoperman's Division, when he was disabled by wounds received in action. His Civil War service was concluded with tours of duty as executive officer of the Satterlee Hospital in Philadelphia, and in command of the medical storeship, Marey C. Day, and the Whitehall General Hospital near Bristol, Pa. Whitehall General Hospital, which had a capacity of 2,000 beds, was built by General (then Lieutenant) Forwood and remained under his command to the end of the war. He took part in numerous engagements, including Yorktown, Gaines' Mills, Malvern Hills, the second Bull Run, Antietam, Gettysburg and Brandy Station. His horse was killed under him at the battle of Fairfield and he was severely wounded through the right breast at the battle of Brandy Station. His gallantry in bringing off Lieutenant James F. McElhone, Fourteenth Infantry, who had fallen severely wounded within the enemy's lines at Gaines' Mills was an instance of the conspicuous valor which uniformly attended the performance of his duty. At Fort Riley, in 1866, he fought alone an epidemic of cholera which carried off twenty-seven out of fifty-nine cases. In 1870, he devoted a leave of absence to the study of yellow fever at the quarantine station near Philadelphia, in order that he might familiarize himself by actual contact with that disease. He served in the Department of the Missouri, 1866-1870; he was at Fort Brady, Mich., 1870-1872, in Texas, 1872-1876, Department of the South, 1876-1879, and Department of the Platte, 1879-1882. During this latter tour of duty, he acted as surgeon and naturalist to the military reconnaissances and exploring expeditions conducted in the Northwest by Lieutenant-

General Sheridan. He was attending surgeon on the staff of General Sheridan at Chicago, 1882-1886; surgeon of the Department of Dakota, 1886-1890, and then for a long time on duty at the Soldiers' Home near Washington. During most of his service here he occupied the chair of surgical pathology, and for a time that also of military surgery in the medical department of Georgetown University, which conferred upon him the degree of LL.D. When the Army Medical School was organized, he became professor of military surgery, until the suspension of its work consequent upon the Spanish War. Upon the resumption of its sessions after the war, he returned to the school, this time as president, a position which he held until his promotion to the command of his corps. Upon the return of the army of invasion from Cuba to Montauk Point, he was assigned to duty as chief medical officer of the great convalescent camp which terminated the first stage of the Spanish War; and by the tact, energy, and efficiency which he manifested, he brought order out of chaos and placed the work of the camp in an excellent sanitary situation. When later the return of the volunteer regiments necessitated the establishment of a great general hospital at Savannah, General Forwood selected the location and supervised the work of construction, until in Dec., 1898, he was ordered to San Francisco as chief surgeon of the Department of California. Early in 1901, he returned to Washington as principal assistant to the surgeon-general, a duty which he continued to perform until his own promotion to that office, which he held until retired by operation of law, Sept. 7, 1902. General Forwood is the author of numerous important professional contributions, conspicuous among which are his monographs upon Military Surgery in Dennis' System of Surgery and in Warren and Gould's International Text-book of Surgery. He was for a number of years editor of The Military Surgeon, published in Washington in connection with the National Medical Review. He married Sept. 28, 1870, Mary A. Y. Osborne, daughter of Antrim Osborne, owner and operator of the Rose Valley Woolen Mills in Delaware County, Pa. Address: 1425 Euclid Place, Washington, D. C.

FOSDICK, Charles Austin ("Harry Castlemon"):

Author of juvenile stories; born in Randolph, N. Y., Sept. 6, 1842. He was educated in the Central High School of Buffalo, N. Y. In Civil War he served as landsman on the magazine ship Illinois, in the Mississippi Squadron; also on the store ship Sovereign; made a trip down the river to provision the ironclads that were blockaded by low water at St. Helena; served as paymaster's steward on the gunboat St. Clair, on the Cumberland River, and during the Yazoo Pass Expedition, and other operations, ending in the surrender of Vicksburg; was on the Choctaw as captain's clerk during the Red River Expedition, under Lieutenant-Commander (now rear-admiral) Francis M. Ramsay; was ordered to Mound City to accept promotion, and was chief officer of the coal supply of the squadron when the war closed. He began writing at age of 15, and has written over forty books for boys, many of which have become very popular, notably the "Gunboat Series" and the "War Series." Mr. Fosdick is a member of the Grand Army of the Republic. He married, in 1873, Sarah Elizabeth Stoddard. Address: Westfield, N. Y.

FOSDICK, Frederick:

Manufacturer; born in Groton, Mass., April 24, 1850; son of Rev. David Fosdick, Jr., and Sarah Lawrence (Woodbury) Fosdick; descendant in eighth generation from Stephen Fosdick, who emigrated from England to Charlestown, Mass., in 1635. He was educated at home, under his father's direction, and started in business in 1870 as an office boy in the Burleigh Rock Drill Company of Fitchburg, Mass.; was employed in erecting coal mine machinery in Pennsylvania, 1871-1872; was draftsman for the Haskins Machine Company, 1872-1876; became treasurer and general manager of the Fitchburg Steam Engine Company in 1876 and has been president and general manager of the same concern since 1879. He was mayor of the city, 1887-1888; and is trustee of the Worcester North Savings Institution. He was president of the Young Men's Christian Association of Fitchburg for eight years and has been a member of the Association's State Executive Committee from 1890. He also served as Massachusetts commissioner to the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo, 1901-1902. He is chairman of Board of Trustees of the Foxboro State Hospital; president of the board of trustees of the Massachusetts Anti-Saloon League and a speaker at religious, temperance and mission meetings. He has contributed to mechanical and engineering journals and patented several engine movements and details in engine building. He is a member of the Royal Arcanum and the Mayors' Club of Massachusetts. Mr. Fosdick married, April 24, 1873, Lucy Maria Hill, and has four children. Address: Fitchburg, Mass.

FOSDICK, James William:

Artist; born in Charlestown, Mass., Feb. 13, 1858; son of William and Elizabeth T. (Pierce) Fosdick. He was educated in the Boston public schools and in the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, was student of art under Boulanger, Lefebvre, and Collin, in Paris. His specialty in art is mural painting, and he has done work of this kind in the residences of the Goulds, Havemeyers, Lewisoins, etc., in and around New York City. He has work in the permanent collections of the Pennsylvania Museum of Fine Arts, Philadelphia, and the St. Louis Museum of Fine Arts. Mr. Fosdick was the introducer of fire etching into U. S., and his work, The Glorification of Joan of Arc, in burnt wood, is widely known. He received a gold medal for the mural decoration, The Field of the Cloth of Gold, at the Atlanta Exposition. He is chairman of the Committee on Decoration of the Architectural League of New York; secretary of the National Society of Mural Painters; vice-president of the National Society of Craftsman; president of the Julian (Paris) Academy Association of America, and member of the Lotos and National Arts Clubs of New York City. He is author of: The Honor of the Braxtons, 1902; also of short stories, and articles on art and travel in leading magazines. He married in Richmond, Va., Oct. 22, 1890, Gertrude, daughter of Supreme Court Judge Joseph Christian, and they have one daughter. Address: 33 West 67th Street, New York City.

FOSS, Cyrus David:

Methodist Episcopal bishop; born at Kingston, N. Y., Jan. 17, 1834; son of Rev. Cyrus and Jane (Campbell) Foss. In 1854 he was graduated from Wesleyan University; received the degree of D.D. from the same institution in 1870, the degree of LL.D. from Cornell College, Iowa, in 1879, and LL.D. from the University of Pennsylvania, in 1889. He was instructor in America (N. Y.) Seminary, 1854-1855, and principal of the same, 1856-1857. He entered the itinerant ministry in New York in 1857; was pastor at Chester, N. Y., 1857-1859; pastor in Brooklyn and in New York City sixteen years, 1859-1875; president of Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., 1875-1880. He was consecrated a bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1880. In 1878 he was fraternal delegate to the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South; and in 1886 to the British Wesleyan Conference, which met in the City Road Chapel, founded by John Wesley (in London). He officially visited the Methodist Episcopal Missions in Europe in 1886, those in Mexico in 1893, and those in India and Malaysia, 1897-1898, and made the second tour round the world, inspecting the missions of the church, 1906-1907. Address: 2043 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

FOSS, Eugene M.:

Manufacturer; born at West Berkshire, Vt., Sept. 24, 1858; son of George E. and Marcia (Noble) Foss. He entered the class of 1881, University of Vermont, but left at the end of two years to engage in business, and the degree of A.B. was conferred upon him in 1901. He is now treasurer and general manager of B. F. Sturtevant Company; president of Becker-Brainard Milling Machine Company, Mead-Morrison Manufacturing Company, Burgess Mills; director of the American Trust Company of Boston, American Pneumatic Service Company of Boston, Bridgewaters Water Company (president), Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, Chicago Junction Railways and Union Stock Yards Company, Hyde Park (Mass.) National Bank, Manhattan Railway Company, Massachusetts Electric Companies. He visited Europe three times, making special study of the tariff and reciprocity situation, 1906. Mr. Foss was twice Republican candidate for Congress from the Eleventh Massachusetts District. He has been a leader in the movement for tariff revision and reciprocity, particularly with Canada; and has been a candidate for public office several times, solely to advance this cause. Mr. Foss is a Baptist; trustee of Newton Theological Institution, Colby College, Moody School, Vermont Academy, Robert B. Brigham Hospital for Incurables, Boston Baptist Hospital, Boston Young Men's Christian Association, Hebron Academy; and he is a member of the New Algonquin, Exchange, Massachusetts Country, Jamaica, Eliot, Boston Art, Boston City Clubs of Boston. He married at Boston, June 12, 1884, Lilla R. Sturtevant, and they have four children. Residence: 11 Revere Street, Jamaica Plain, Mass. Address: 34 Oliver Street, Boston.

FOSS, George Edmund:

Congressman and lawyer; born at Berkshire, Franklin County, Vt., July 2, 1863; graduated from Harvard College, 1885; attended the Columbia Law School and School of Political Science in New York City, and was graduated from the Union College of Law of Chicago in 1889, LL.B. Mr. Foss was admitted to the bar the same year and began the practice of law in Chicago; never held any political office until elected to the Fifty-fourth Congress; was reelected to the Fifty-fifth, Fifty-sixth, Fifty-seventh, Fifty-eighth, Sixtieth and Sixty-first Congresses from the Tenth Illinois District. Residence: 47 Gordon Terrace. Office: First National Bank Building, Chicago.

FOSS, Sam Walter:

Librarian; born in Candia, N. H., son of Dyer Foss and Polly (Hardy) Foss. He was graduated from Portsmouth High School, Tilton Seminary and in 1882 from Brown University. He was editor of the Lynn Saturday Union, 1883-1887; The Yankee Blade, 1887-1894; contributor to many publications from 1894 to 1898, and has been librarian of the Somerville Public Library since 1898. He is author of: Back Country Poems; Whiffs from Wild Meadows; Dream in Homespun; Songs of War and Peace, and Songs of the Average Man; all published by Lothrop, Lee and Sheppard, Boston. In politics he is an Independent. He is a member of the American Library Association, the Massachusetts Library Club (formerly president), The Twentieth Century Association and the Authors' and Economic Clubs of Boston, and is president of the Somerville Boys' Club; a member of the Beta Theta Pi and Phi Beta Kappa. Mr. Foss married in Providence, R. I., July 13, 1887, Carrie M. Conant, and they have two children. Residence: 249 Highland Avenue. Office: Public Library, Somerville, Mass.

FOSTER, Agness Greene:

Lecturer, impersonator and author; born in Athens, Ala., Dec. 6, 1863; daughter of John and Mary Stuart (Pinkerton) Greene, and great-granddaughter of Lady Agness Stuart of Belfast, Ireland. She was graduated from the Stillwater (Minn.) High School, and from The American College of Oratory. She won a scholarship which enabled her to enter the Woman's Oratorical Department of the University of Dublin. She also attended M^{lle}. Piquot's School in Blois, France. She married in Stillwater, Minn., Aug. 31, 1886, William Clarence Foster, a scholarly man and an accepted authority on the law of taxation. Mrs. Foster is distinguished as a writer, a lecturer and an orator; her illustrated lectures on the "Artistic Side of Ireland" and other themes have met wide recognition, while as a dramatic reader she has gained distinction. In literature she is author of: By the Way (travels); Promises; Commands; Answers; Admonitions; Blessings; You and Some Others (a book of poems now in its 13th edition); Christmas Chimes (poems); Alpha and Omega (poems); A Royal Road, a brochure on success, which was a tremendous success; Painting of Life's Day (poem); Friendship; Weaving of Life's Fabric (poems); My Wish for You (song). Mrs. Foster is a much traveled woman and is a member of the League of American Pen-Women, of Washington, D. C., and of other organizations. Address: Mrs. William C. Foster, The Plaza, Chicago.

FOSTER, Ben:

Artist; born in N. Anson, Me., July 31, 1852; son of Paulinus Mahew and Lydia Ring (Hutchins) Foster. He was a pupil of Abbott Thayer, New York City, and of Luc Oliver Merson and Aimé Morot, Paris. He was awarded bronze medals at the World's Columbian Exposition, 1893; 2d prize for water colors at Cleveland, 1895; silver medal Pan-American Exposition, Buffalo; bronze medal at the Exposition Universelle, Paris, 1900; silver medal at the International Exhibition, Carnegie Institute, Pittsburgh, Pa., 1900, and at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, St. Louis, 1904, the Webb Prize of the Society of American Artists, N. Y., 1901; Carnegie Prize and Inness medal at the National Academy of Design, New York, 1909. Mr. Foster was art critic for several years of the Evening Post of New York and an occasional contributor to the Nation, etc. He is represented in the Luxembourg (Paris), Brooklyn Institute, and Corcoran Art Gallery (Washington), Pa., Academy of Fine Arts, Montreal Art Association, Richmond Art Association, and Boston Art Club. He is an academician of the National Academy of Design and is a member of the American Water Color Society, of the Century Association, and of the Lotos, and Water Color Clubs of New York City. Address: 253 West 42d Street, New York City.

FOSTER, David Johnson:

Lawyer and congressman; born at Barnet, Vt., June 27, 1857; son of Jacob Prentiss and Matilda Foster. He was graduated from the St. Johnsbury (Vt.) Academy and from Dartmouth College, A.B., 1880; studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1883, at Burlington, Vt., where he has ever since been engaged in the practice of law. Mr. Foster has always taken an interest in politics as an active Republican, and has held the offices of State's attorney for Chittenden County, State senator, State tax commissioner, and chairman of the State Railroad Commission. He was elected in 1900 from the First Vermont District to the Fifty-seventh Congress, and has been reelected biennially since then, and is now serving in the Sixty-first Congress. Mr. Foster married at Chelsea, Vt., Oct. 4, 1883, Mabel M. Allen. Address: Burlington, Vt.

FOSTER, Edna:

Author and editor; born in Sullivan Harbor, Me.; daughter of Charles W. Foster, architect, and Sarah (Dyer) Foster. She was educated in the schools of Lowell and Boston, engaged in magazine work and later became assistant editor of The Household; and since 1900 has been editor of the Children's Page of The Youth's Companion. Miss Foster is author of Hortense, A Difficult Child, and its sequel, Cordelia's Pathway Out, both published by Lothrop, Lee & Shepard, Boston. Address: 102 Harris-hof Street, Boston.

FOSTER, Frank P.:

Physician and editor; born in Concord, N. H., Nov. 26, 1841. He was educated in the Concord High School and the College of Physicians and Surgeons of New York, M.D., 1862, followed by two years in hospitals in New York City. He served as acting assistant surgeon, U. S. Army, 1865, and since then has been in active practice in New York City. He is now editor of the New York Medical Journal; and he is co-author of the Illustrated Encyclopedic Medical Dictionary. He is a member of the Century and Aldine Clubs of New York City. Dr.

Foster married in New York City, Oct. 18, 1869, Georgiana Molleson. Address: 66 West Broadway, New York City.

FOSTER, George Burman:

Professor of the philosophy of religion in the University of Chicago; born at Alderson, Monroe County, W. Va.; son of Oliver Harrison and Helen Louise Foster. He was graduated from the West Virginia University, A.B., 1883, A.M., 1885, and from the Rochester Theological Seminary in 1887, becoming pastor of the First Baptist Church of Saratoga Springs, N. Y., until 1891. He studied at the Universities of Gottingen and Berlin one year; was professor of philosophy at McMaster University, 1892-1895, then entered the University of Chicago as professor of systematic theology, later taking his present chair. He received the degree of Ph.D. from Denison University, Ohio, in 1902. Dr. Foster is author of The Finality of the Christian Religion, published by the University of Chicago Press, 1896, and of The Function of Religion in Man's Struggle For Existence, which was severely attacked by the Baptist Ministers organization in Chicago. Dr. Foster is also an associate editor of The American Journal of Theology and author of articles in various magazines. He married at Morgantown, W. Va., Aug. 6, 1884, Mary Lyon, daughter of Professor Franklin Lyon of the West Virginia University, and they have five children. Address: 145 East 51st Street, Chicago.

FOSTER, John Gilman:

Consul-general; born at Derby Line, Vt., March 9, 1859; son of Austin T. and Sarah H. (Gilman) Foster. He was graduated from Goddard Seminary at Barre, Vt., 1876, and from Tufts College, A.B., 1880. He was admitted to the bar of the State of Vermont in 1881, and from that time until 1897 was principally engaged in banking and in the management of trust estates at Derby Line, Vt. He has held the positions of vice-president of the National Bank of Derby Line and president of the Massachusetts Valley Railway Company. He represented the town of Derby in the Vermont Legislature, 1892-1894, as a Republican, and was a colonel on the staff of Governor Levi K. Fuller of Vermont, 1892-1894. Colonel Foster began his consular service, June 23, 1897, when he was appointed by President McKinley United States consul-general at Halifax, Nova Scotia, and since June 18, 1903, he has been consul-general of the United States at Ottawa, Canada. He married, June 9, 1886, Clara Merriman, daughter of Judge Amos Lee Merriman, of Peoria, Ill. Address: United States Consulate-General, Ottawa, Ont., Canada.

FOSTER, John Hopkins:

Congressman; born in Evansville, Ind., Jan. 31, 1862. He was educated in the common schools; is a graduate of Indiana University, class of 1882, and of the law department of Columbian, now George Washington, University, of Washington, D. C., class of 1884; began the practice of law in 1885; was elected to the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of Indiana in 1893; elected judge of the Superior Court of Vanderburg County in 1894 and reelected in 1898 and 1902. He was elected to the Fifty-ninth Congress in 1904, and reelected to the Sixtieth Congress, his service ending March 4, 1909. Address: Evansville, Ind.

FOSTER, John Watson:

Lawyer and diplomat; born in Pike County, Ind., March 2, 1836; son of Judge Matthew Watson and Eleanor (Johnson) Foster. He was graduated from the Indiana State University, A.B., 1855, and then was one year at the Harvard Law School before engaging in the practice of law in Indiana; and he has received the LL.D. degree from Yale, Princeton, Pennsylvania and Indiana Universities and Wabash College. He served as major, lieutenant-colonel and colonel of Indiana regiments in the Civil War, and after its close he became editor of the Evansville Daily Journal at Evansville, Ind.; was postmaster at Evansville, 1869-1872; United States minister to Mexico, 1873-1880, and to Russia, 1880-1881. On his return from that mission he engaged in the practice of international law in Washington, and in that practice was the representative of leading foreign legations before various commissions, arbitration boards and other tribunals. He was appointed in 1883 as envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States to Spain, serving until 1885, and then resuming his practice at Washington. In 1891 he was appointed special representative of the United States to negotiate reciprocity treaties with Brazil, Spain, Germany, the British West Indies and other countries; was Secretary of State of the United States, in 1892-1893, and appointed agent of the United States before the Behring Sea Arbitration at Paris in 1893. Later, on the invitation of the Emperor of China, he took part in the peace negotiations between that country and Japan, and in 1897 he was commissioned by President McKinley on a special mission to Great Britain and Russia. He was a member of the Anglo-Canadian Commission in 1898, and agent of the United States before the Alaskan Boundary Tribunal at London in 1903. In 1907 he represented China as a delegate to the Hague Peace Conference. Mr. Foster's abilities as a diplomat and international lawyer have met world-wide recognition, and he has contributed in a valuable way to the history of diplomacy in the books: Century of American Diplomacy, 1900; American Diplomacy in the Orient, 1903; Arbitration and the Hague Court, 1904; and The Practice of Diplomacy, 1906. He has also written a Biography of Matthew Watson Foster (his father), which was published in 1896. He married in 1859, Mary Parke McFerson. Address: 1323 Eighteenth Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

FOSTER, Mabel Grace:

Author, teacher and lecturer; born in Boston in 1869; daughter of Rev. Addison P. Foster, D.D., and Harriet (Day) Foster. She was educated in Hasbrouck Institute, Jersey City, class of 1886, and in the Massachusetts Normal Art School, and afterward engaged in educational work, engaged in teaching in Medford, Mass. For several years Miss Foster has been a lecturer before women's clubs and classes, throughout New England on Italian Art, Literature and Immigration, the Art Galleries of Europe and general historical and literary subjects. She has traveled over Europe, and lived for a long time in Italy, where she studied Italian sociological conditions under Professor Francesco S. Nitti of the Royal University of Naples, Italian language and literature with Cavaliere Vincenzo Bocca-furni of Rome and Professor I. Perella of Florence, and painting with Professor Nardi of Rome. While living in Italy Miss Foster was the vice-president for Italy of the International Press Club, and she is now a member of the New England Woman's Press Association. She is author of various short stories and of art and travel papers in the newspapers, also of the novels: The Heart of the Doctor, 1902; Leonardo, 1909. Address: 8 Beacon Street, Boston.

FOSTER, Martin D.:

Physician and member of congress; born near West Salem, Edwards County, Ill., Sept. 3, 1861; son of Blashel and Emily (Housler) Foster. He was educated in Eureka College, Ill.; was graduated from the Eclectic Medical Institute of Cincinnati, 1882, and from the Hahnemann Medical College of Chicago, M.D., 1894. He has practised medicine since 1882 in Olney, Ill., of which place he was elected mayor in 1895 and again in 1902. He was a member of the Board of the United States Examining Surgeons, 1885-1889, and 1893-1897. Dr. Foster was surgeon of a regiment raised in Illinois during the Spanish-American War. He became active in the politics of the Democratic party, and was elected to the Sixtieth Congress from the 23d Illinois District in 1906, and reelected in 1908 to the Sixty-first Congress. He married in Olney, Ill., in 1891, Lula Cliffe. Address: Olney, Ill.

FOSTER, Murphy J.:

United States Senator; born at Franklin, La., Jan. 12, 1849. After the Civil War he attended preparatory school at White's Creek, near Nashville, Tenn., for two years; Washington and Lee College, 1867-1868; then went to Cumberland University, Lebanon, Tenn., was graduated in 1870. He attended the law school of Tulane University, New Orleans, graduating in 1871; in 1872 was elected member of the John McEnery legislature, but owing to the fact that this government was never recognized and that the Kellogg government was, did not take his seat; in 1879 was elected a member of the senate of the State of Louisiana under the constitution of that year, and was returned for three consecutive terms of four years each; was elected president pro tempore of the senate in 1888-1890; led the anti-lottery fight in the legislature in 1890, and in 1892 was nominated by the anti-lottery convention as candidate for governor; was elected for four years, and in 1896 was nominated to be his own successor and again elected; at the end of eight years in the governor's office was unanimously elected to the United States Senate to succeed Hon. Donelson Caffery, Democrat, for the term beginning March 4, 1901. When the Democratic party of Louisiana adopted the plan of selecting nominees for State offices by a general primary election, he requested, inasmuch as the members of the general assembly to be so elected would select his successor, that the United States Senatorship be included in the primary, and announced his candidacy to succeed himself. His term of service will expire March 3, 1913. Address: Franklin, La.

FOSTER, Robert Frederick:

An authority on games of cards; for the past twelve years card editor of the New York Sun; born at Edinburgh, 1853. Educated as an Architect and Civil Engineer and practised until 1893, when he gave it up for literature. Author of: Foster's Whist Manual; Foster's Bridge Tactics; Foster on Bridge; Foster's Bridge Manual; Foster's Whist Tactics; Foster's Duplicate Whist; Common Sense in Whist; Modern Whist; Whist at a Glance; American Leads; Common Sense Leads; Whist and Its Masters; Foster's Encyclopedia of Indoor Games; Chess; Cinch; Poker; Hearts; Dice and Dominoes; Whist Inferences; Practical Poker; Call-Ace Euchre; Foster's Bridge Maxims; The Bridge Player's Handbook; The Gist of Bridge; Foster on Skat; and Foster's Com- plete Bridge. He is inventor of the Foster Whist Markers and the Self-Playing Whist and Bridge Cards; the Pocket Card Player, etc.; originator of the "eleven rule" at Bridge. Has written many gambling stories for the magazines, and is author of the novel, "Cab No. 44." He is a member of the Savage and National Liberal Club of London, the Bridge Whist and the Fox-Hills Golf Club, of New York. Mr. Foster married Mary E. Johnson of New York City. Address: New York Sun, New York City.

FOSTER, Roger:

Lawyer, author; born at Worcester, Mass., April 21, 1857; son of Dwight (attorney-general and justice Supreme Court, Massachusetts), and Henrietta Parkins (Baldwin) Foster (daughter Roger S. Baldwin, governor and United States senator from Connecticut). He was graduated from Yale, B.A., 1878, M.A., 1881; Columbia Law School, LL.B., 1889; and admitted to the New York Bar, 1880. Mr. Foster was counsel for the Carob heirs in cases which established liability of elevated railroad companies to abutters in New York City, 1880-1884; appointed tenement house commissioner by Governor Flower, 1894; drafted tenement house laws of 1895; as special counsel for New York City Board of Health, 1896-1898; prosecuted proceedings which established the constitutionality of one of these laws, and resulted in the condemnation and destruction of more than seventy unsanitary tenement houses; in 1896, procured appointment of the receivers of Bay State Gas Company (subsequently criticized by Thomas Lawson in Frenzied Finance — for which Lawson apologized); in 1902, procured decision of New York Supreme Court, holding unconstitutional section of charter which forbade pensioners positions in civil service of New York City. Author: Taxation of the Elevated Railroads of New York City (pamphlet); Treatise on the Federal Judiciary Acts of 1875 and 1877; A Treatise on Federal Practice (four editions, 1890, 1892, 1901, 1909); Commentaries on the Constitution of the United States (volume I), 1895; Treatise on the Income Taxes of 1894; also several pamphlets and articles in periodicals; Trial by Newspaper (N. American Review, May, 1887), in which were first used the phrase "trial by newspaper" and "court of public opinion;" and article in Albany Journal which caused abandonment of the proceedings instituted in Pennsylvania to try riotous strikers for treason; has also edited articles in Cyclopaedia of Law and Procedure. Address: 35 Wall Street, New York City.

FOSTER, Scott:

Banker; born near Newburgh, N. Y., May 19, 1837; son of Dr. John L. and Harriet (Scott) Foster. Dry goods clerk for Jeremiah Lambert New York, 1853-1859. Member of firm Foster Brothers dry goods, New York, and Fort Wayne & Terre Haute, Ind., 1859-1882. Mr. Foster became vice-president 1882, and since 1884 has been president of the People's Bank. He is an elder in Rutger's Presbyterian Church, and a member of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions. He is a member of the Chamber of Commerce of New York, Historical Society of New York Zoological Society, Metropolitan Museum of Art, American Museum Natural History, New York Botanical Garden, the Presbyterian Union, and the Union League and Quill Clubs. Mr. Foster is executor and trustee of a number of large estates; treasurer of the Northern Dispensary and the North Eastern Dispensary. He married at Pottersville, New Jersey, 1867, Emeline Hegeman (died July, 1906); he has four children: J. Hegeman, of the Stock Exchange firm Foster & Lounsbury, Eugene Gray and Howard Crosby both of Stock Exchange firm, Foster & Adams, and Jennie Groendyke. Residence: 332 West 72d Street. Address: 395 Canal Street, New York City.

FOSTER, Theodosia Foll:

Author and teacher; born in Verona, N. Y.; daughter of Daniel D., and Ruth Holister (Hills) Toll. On her father's side she is descended from Karl Hansen Toll, a Norwegian who came to America early in the 17th Century and settled in the Mohawk Valley, and the Toll Homestead in Verona, where she resides has been in the family for nearly a century. His grandmother was Susan Condé, of the family of the French Princes Condé, Huguenots who fled to Holland during the persecutions, and later came to America, at least two brothers who settled in Schenectady, N. Y. She was educated in the public schools and Oneida Seminary, and she was married in Verona, N. Y., in December, 1869. James Henry Foster, who died in 1872, by whom she has two sons. Mrs. Foster engaged in educational work, and is principal of the Home School for Girls at Oneida, N. Y. She has written numerous books, using the pen-name "Faye Huntington," and is author of: A Modern Exodus; St. Paul's Problem; Transformed; His First Charge; A Break in Schedule Time, and others. Mrs. Foster is president of the Oneida County Woman's Christian Temperance Union. Address: Verona, N. Y.

FOSTER, William Eaton:

Librarian, author; born at Brattleboro, Vt., June 2, 1851. He was graduated from Brown University, A.B., 1873, and is now librarian of the Providence Public Library. Mr. Foster has written extensively on historical and economic subjects, and is author of: Town Government in Rhode Island; Stephen Hopkins, a Rhode Island Statesman; The Civil Service Reform Movement; The Literature of Civil Service Reform in the United States. He is a member of the American Historical Association and of the American Library Association. Address: 240 Bowen Street, Providence, R. I.

FOULKE, William Dudley:

Lawyer, author; born in New York City, Nov. 20, 1848; son of Thomas and Hannah S. Foulke. He was graduated from Columbia College, A.B., 1896, A.M., 1872, and from Columbia Law School as LL.B., 1871; and he received the degree of LL.D. from Earlham College, Ind., in 1906. He removed to Indiana in 1876 and engaged in practice there; and he became greatly interested in reform in the civil service and in suffrage laws, becoming president of the Indiana Civil Service Reform Association, of the American Proportional Representation League, and of the American Woman Suffrage Association; and he was chairman of the Suffrage Congress at the World's Columbian Exposition in 1893. Mr. Foulke served in the Indiana Senate, and was U. S. Civil Service Commissioner, 1901-1903. He is author of the volumes: Slav or Saxon?; Life of Oliver P. Morton; Maya, a Story of Yucatan; Protean Papers; and of a translation of the History of the Langobards by Paul the Deacon. Address: Richmond, Ind.

FOULKROD, William Walker:

Merchant and member of Congress; born in Frankford, Philadelphia, Nov. 22, 1846. He was educated in public and private schools in Philadelphia, and entered upon a business career in a wholesale dry-goods house, later becoming a member of the wholesale dry-goods firm of Hood, Foulkrod & Co.; and after the retirement of that firm from business he became interested in manufacturing, and is also president of the Frankford Mutual Fire Insurance Company. He helped to organize and was president for twelve years of the Trades League of Philadelphia, and is now chairman of its Harbor and Navigation Committee, and identified with other organizations of Philadelphia. He was elected as a Republican, in 1906, to the Sixtieth Congress, and reelected to the Sixty-first Congress in 1908. He married Mary C. Buckins, and has two children. Address: 4716 Leiper Street, Frankford, Philadelphia.

FOUNTAIN, Samuel Warren:

Brigadier-general, U. S. A., retired; born in Parkersburg, W. Va., Dec. 13, 1846; son of Chauncey and Ruhama (Ogle) Fountain. He served in the Union Army as a private in Company K, 140th Ohio Infantry from May to September, 1864, and July 1, 1866, was appointed from Ohio as a cadet to the U. S. Military Academy, from which he was graduated and commissioned second lieutenant in the 8th Cavalry, June 15, 1870; promoted first lieutenant Oct. 22, 1878, captain, April 11, 1889; major 9th Cavalry, Feb. 2, 1901; lieutenant-colonel 13th Cavalry, Aug. 26, 1903, transferred to the 4th Cavalry, Aug. 28, 1903, brigadier-general, April 10, 1905, and retired with that rank April 11, 1905. He participated in the campaigns against the Apaches under Geronimo, 1885-1886; against hostile Sioux Indians, 1890-1891; served in Cuba during the Spanish-American War in 1898, and after that in the Philippines as adjutant-general of the Departments of Mindanao and Jolo. He commanded the Jefferson Guards at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition at St. Louis in 1904. Brigadier General Fountain is a companion of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion; member of the Grand Army of the Republic, the National Geographic Society, the University Club of St. Louis and the Army and Navy Club of Washington. He married first in 1879, Emily M. Kaufman, who died in 1885, and second, in Philadelphia, Jan. 11, 1887 Katherine G. McGrath. Address: Devon, Pa.

FOUST, Julius Isaac:

Normal college president; born in Graham, N. C., in 1865; son of Thomas C. and Mary (Robbins) Foust. He was educated at the Graham High School and was graduated from the University of North Carolina with the degree of Ph.B. He was principal of the Goldsboro (N.C.) schools, from 1890 to 1891; superintendent of Wilson schools, 1891-1894; superintendent of Goldsboro schools, 1894-1902; professor of pedagogy at the State Normal and Industrial College at Greensboro, N. C., 1902-1907, and is now president of that institution. He has been president of the North Carolina Association of City School Superintendents, and of the North Carolina Teachers' Assembly. Mr. Foust married at Wilson, N. C., in 1892, Sallie Price, and they have two children: Henry P., and Mary R. Address: Greensboro, N. C.

FOWLER, Charles Newell:

Congressman; born in Lena, Ill., Nov. 2, 1852. He was graduated from Yale, B.A., 1876, Chicago Law School, LL.B., 1878. He removed to Elizabeth, N. J., where he has been engaged in the banking business. He was elected in November, 1894, to the Fifty-fourth Congress and has been biennially reelected since, and he is now representative from the Fifth Congressional District of New Jersey in the Sixty-first Congress. While in Congress, Mr. Fowler has been a consistent advocate of currency reform. He drew the Fowler Bill which was widely discussed; and as chairman of the Committee on Banking and Currency has taken a leading part in the formulation of currency legislation. Address: Elizabeth, N. J.

FOWLER, Frank:

Portrait and figure painter; born in Brooklyn, N. Y., July 12, 1852; son of John and Margaret (Westervelt) Fowler. He was educated in the Adelphi Academy (now Adelphi College) in Brooklyn, and by private tutors in New York also at Florence, Italy; and in Paris at the École des Beaux Arts and under Carolus Duran. He painted the portraits of Charles A. Dana, Samuel J. Tilden, Archbishop Corrigan, Arthur T. Hadley, president of Yale University, W. D. Howells, Governor Tilden, Governor Greenhalge, Gen. Alexander S. Webb; also many officers and professors at the United States Military Academy, West Point, N. Y., and of Parke Godwin and John Bigelow. Mr. Fowler is a writer in the current magazines on art topics. He is an academician of the National Academy of Design; trustee of the American Fine Arts Society; member of the Artists' Fund Society, Artists' Aid Society, the Century Association and the Lotos Club of New York City. He married in Paris, France, Nov. 28, 1878, Mary, daughter of Bishop Odenheimer of New Jersey. Residence: Yonkers, N. Y. Studio: 106 West 55th Street, New York City.

FOWLER, John:

Consul-general; born in New York City, May 9, 1858. He was educated in the public schools of Winchester, Mass., and at Phillips Academy, Exeter, N. H. He entered the service of the United States Government as clerk in the Naval Rendezvous at Washington, remaining there until 1881, then became clerk on the U. S. Steamer Tallapoosa until that vessel was wrecked in August, 1885. He served as captain's clerk, later as clerk to the Secretary of the Navy and to the President, and cruised around the world, 1886-1889. Mr. Fowler entered the consular service under appointment by President Harrison, Feb. 27, 1890, as consul of the United States at Ningpo, China. He was transferred by President Cleveland to Chefoo, July 1, 1896, and promoted to consul-general by President Roosevelt, Feb. 2, 1904, in which position he still remains. He received resolutions of thanks from many societies in the United States, Canada, and Europe, for services during the boxer Rebellion, and was given by the Emperor of China the decoration of the Order of the Double Dragon of the First Class. He has also received the thanks of the Japanese Government for services rendered in the Chinese-Japanese War of 1905, and the Russian-Japanese War of 1906. Mr. Fowler is a member of the Society of International Law and of the Army and Navy Union. He has made numerous contributions to various magazines on Chinese and other oriental subjects. Address: American Consulate-General, Cheefoo, China.

FOWLER, Nathaniel Clark, Jr.:

Author, lecturer, and business advisor; born in Yarmouth, Mass., Jan., 21, 1858. In 1880 he founded the Pittsfield, Mass., Daily Journal, and at that time was supposed to be the youngest daily newspaper editor and proprietor in the world. He later founded the Worcester Light, and in 1897 founded and managed the first correspondence school of advertising. For the past twenty-five years he has practised the business-profession of advertising and business advisor and counsellor without connection with an advertising agency. He has planned advertising and selling campaigns for many of the largest concerns in America, and is said to have written over 10,000 advertisements. He is the author of: About Advertising and Printing, 1889, the first comprehensive book on advertising published; Building Business, 1893; Dollars and Sense, 1896; Practical Publicity, 1896;

Fowler's Cyclopaedia of Advertising and Printing, 2,000 illustrations, 1897; Ayes of Advertising, 1900; The Boy, How to Help Him succeed, 1902; How to Get and Keep a Job, 1907; Gumption, and Starting in Life. He is also the author of a large number of syndicate articles on business methods, advertising and similar subjects. He is a member of the Twentieth Century Club, Puddingstone Club, Boston Authors, and Boston City Club of Boston; Massachusetts Civic League, Massachusetts Press Association, Agate Club of Chicago secretary and treasurer of Puddingstone Club, Boston; and is a Mason and Knight of Pythias. He married April 27, 1882, Fanny Alice Foot, and has two boys and two girls. Address: Pemberton Building, Boston.

FOWLER, Thomas Powell:

President of the New York, Ontario and Western Railway; born in Newburgh, N. Y., Oct. 26, 1851. He was graduated from the Columbian Law School, LL.D., 1874, was admitted to the New York bar in the same year and has been, since then, engaged in practice in New York City. He became a director of the Shenango and Allegheny Railroad, 1879; director of the Lehigh and Hudson River Railroad Company, 1881; director of the West Pennsylvania and Shenango Connecting Railroad, 1883, New York, Ontario and Western Railway, 1884; appointed receiver of the Shenango and Allegheny Railroad, March 15, 1884, and president of the same road March 31, 1884; director of the Carthage and Adirondack Railroad since Jan., 1886; president of the New York, Ontario and Western Railway, since Jan. 20, 1890; also president and director of the Ellenville and Kingston Railroad; Ontario, Carbondale and Scranton Railroad; Port Jervis, Monticello and Summitville Railroad; Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway; Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Railway; Lehigh and Hudson River Railway; Santa Fe, Prescott and Phoenix Railway; California Eastern Railway; Randsburgh, Sonora and New York City Railway; Santa Fe Pacific Railroad; Southern California and Wharton Valley Railroad, Niagara; trustee of the New York Life Insurance Company, American Estates Association, English Association of American Bond and Share Holders, Ltd.; director of the Interborough-Metropolitan Company, Fidelity Bank, Mechanics' National Bank, Temple Iron Company, etc.; member of the Sons of the Revolution, and of the Metropolitan, Grolier, Down Town and Tuxedo Clubs of New York. He married Isabelle Dunning. Residence: 39 East 68th Street. Office: 56 Beaver Street, New York City.

FOX, Austen G.:

Lawyer; born Sept. 7, 1849. He was educated at Choules School, Newport, R. I., and at Churchill's Military School at Sing Sing, N. Y. He was graduated from Harvard as A.B., 1869, and was admitted to the bar in 1872. He was special assistant district attorney in the prosecution of police officials after the Lexow Committee Investigation, from 1894 to 1896, and chairman of the Citizens' Committee of Nine on reorganization of the New York police force in 1905. He is a member of the Bar Association of the City of New York, the New York Historical Society; was president of the St. Nicholas Society, 1905-1907; president of the Alumni Association of Harvard University, 1908; is a member of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, a member and president, 1908-1909, of the Harvard, and a member of the University, Century, Players', City, and Nineteenth Century Clubs. He married, in 1877, Alice Hoppin. Residence: 37 East 39th Street, New York. Office: 45 Wall Street, New York City.

FOX, Emma A.:

Teacher of parliamentary law; born in Binghamton, N. Y.; daughter of Allen Goff and Caroline (Scott) Stowell. She was educated in public and private schools and taught in the North Division High School of Chicago until 1876, when she was married in Peoria, Ill., to Charles Edgar Fox, of Massachusetts, by whom she has two sons. Mrs. Fox removed, on her marriage, to Detroit, Mich., where she has ever since resided. She soon became interested in women's clubs, and later in the scientific study of parliamentary law. She was president of the Detroit Women's Club three years, president of the Michigan State Federation of Women's Clubs, and has been recording secretary and vice-president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. She has lectured at many State federation meetings of women's clubs, and Chautauqua assemblies and has been the official parliamentarian of several Continental Congresses of the Daughters of the American Revolution, the United Daughters of the Confederacy, and many other National societies, and her book, Parliamentary Usage for Women's Clubs, has been adopted as authority by the General Federation of Women's Clubs. She has been treasurer of the Women's Hospital and Infants' Home of Detroit; was elected and served as a member of the Board of Education of the City of Detroit; is president of the Twentieth Century Club of Detroit (330 members), and president of its Board of Trustees, president of the Detroit Parliamentary Law Club, and member of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Address: Detroit, Mich.

FOX, Frances Margaret:

Author; born in South Framingham, Mass., June 23, 1870; daughter of James and Frances Mary (Franks) Fox. She was educated in the Kalamazoo Seminary, at Kalamazoo, Mich. Miss Fox is a writer of short stories for children and author of the books: Farmer Brown and the Birds; Betty of Old Mackinaw; The Little Giants' Neighbors; What Gladys Saw; Mother Nature's Little Ones; Little Lady Marjorie; Brother Billy; The Rainbow Bridge; How Christmas Came to the Mulvaney's; The Country Christmas; Carlota; Alan's Jungle Story; Seven Christmas Candles, and others. Home address: Bay City, Mich. Present address: Long Beach, Calif.

FOX, George Henry:

Physician; born at Ballston Spa, N. Y., Oct., 1846; son of Norman and Jane De Hart (Freeman) Fox. He was graduated from the University of Rochester, as A.B., A.M., and University of Pennsylvania, as

M.D. He enlisted during his college course in 1864 in the 77th Regiment of the New York Volunteers, and served eight months, was one year, 1870, in Philadelphia Hospital; studied three years in Berlin, Vienna, Paris and London, and traveled in Greece and Turkey. He began medical practice in New York City in 1873. Dr. Fox is a member and ex-president of the Medical Societies of the County and State of New York, New York and American Dermatological Societies; was professor of dermatology at Columbia University, 1880-1896; is a trustee of the New York Skin and Cancer Hospital. He is author of Atlas of Skin Diseases, etc. He is a member of the University, Psi Upsilon (ex-president), Barnard and Camera Clubs. Dr. Fox married at Titusville, Pa., Aug. 29, 1872, Harriet Louisa Gibbs, and they have four children. Address: 18 East 31st Street, New York City.

FOX, Joseph J.:

Catholic bishop of Green Bay; born at Green Bay, Wis., Aug. 2, 1855; son of Paul and Francis (Bartel) Fox. He was educated in the Cathedral School at Green Bay, studied the classics at Saint Francis Seminary at Milwaukee, and philosophy and theology at the American College and University of Louvain, Belgium, receiving the degree of D.D. He was ordained priest June 7, 1879, and began pastoral duties at New Franken, Wis., then took charge of St. John's Church, Green Bay, and acted as secretary to Bishop Krauthauer. He became rector of Our Lady of Lourdes Church at Marinette, Wis., in 1893 and 1894, vicar-general of the diocese of Green Bay, 1894-1904; was appointed domestic prelate to Pope Leo XIII in 1898, and consecrated bishop of Green Bay July 25, 1904. Address: Green Bay, Wis.

FOX, Reuben L.:

Bureau of Legislative and Department Information, Albany, N. Y. He served with the Republican State Committee as chief clerk and afterwards secretary and member for twenty-nine years; was deputy State engineer and surveyor in 1882. He gave to the village of Oneonta, in 1900, a hospital in memory of Mrs. Fox, called The Aurelia Osborn Fox Memorial Hospital. He was born in Chenango County, N. Y.; son of H. and Sally M. (Finch) Fox; and was educated at Cazenovia Seminary. He is a director in the Central Hudson Transportation Company, National Electrolytic Company, T. F. Marvell Shipbuilding Company, Staples and Hanford Manufacturing Company. Clubs: Union League, Lotos, Republican. Fort Orange (Albany), Oneonta (Oneonta). He married at Oneonta, N. Y., Aurelia Osborn. Address: Republican Club, 54 West Fortieth Street, New York City.

FOX, Williams Carlton:

Diplomat; born in St. Louis, Mo., May 20, 1855; son of Elias Williams and Eusebia (Johnson) Fox. He was educated at Washington University, St. Louis, and the Pennsylvania Military College, Chester, Pa. He was American consul at Brunswick, Germany, 1876-1888; and American vice-consul-general at Teheran, Persia, 1891-1892, and was in charge of the American Legation at Teheran, and during the cholera epidemic there organized and financed the American Missionary Hospital and Dispensary, for which work he received the thanks of the Shah of Persia, and of the American Board of Foreign Missions. He was appointed in 1893, secretary to the American minister to Greece, Roumania and Serbia. Mr. Fox was chief clerk of the Bureau of American Republics, 1898-1905, and director of that Bureau 1905-1907, and in 1907 was appointed to his present office as envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States to Ecuador. Designated July, 1907, by President Roosevelt as arbitrator in the controversy between the government of Ecuador and the Guayaquil and Quito Railway Co. He represented the International Union of the American Republics at the Second and Third International American Conferences at the City of Mexico, 1901, and Rio de Janeiro, 1906. Mr. Fox was formerly president of the New Jersey Republican Association of the District of Columbia. He was a member of the Government Board of Management of the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo, 1901, the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, St. Louis, 1904, and the Lewis and Clark Exposition, Portland, Ore., 1905. Mr. Fox established the first diplomatic journal in the United States, and is a writer on diplomatic subjects and international questions, having contributed to various publications in Europe and America. He is a 32d degree Mason, member of the Society of the War of 1812, the Cosmos Club of Washington, D. C., and other societies. He married in Brunswick, Germany, 1880, Louise Ludewig. Address: American Legation, Quito, Ecuador.

FOXCROFT, Frank:

Journalist; born in Boston, Jan. 21, 1850; son of George A. Foxcroft, also a journalist, and well known to newspaper readers of his day as the writer of the "Job Sass" letters, and of Harriet E. (Goodrich) Foxcroft. He was graduated from Williams College, A.B., 1871, and then became first an assistant editor and then associate editor of the Boston Journal, retaining the latter position until 1904. He has been a department editor of The Youth's Companion since 1895, and editor of Littell's Living Age since 1896. He was appointed a civil service commissioner of Massachusetts in July, 1904, and reappointed in 1907. He published a volume of original verse in 1868; edited "Resurgit," a collection of hymns and songs of the resurrection; and has contributed articles to the Atlantic Monthly, the Nineteenth Century and other magazines and reviews. He is a member of the Boston City, Twentieth Century, Cambridge, Congregational, and Puddingstone Clubs. He married, first, in 1872, Elizabeth True Howard, who died in 1888; second, in 1891, Lily Sherman Rice. Residence: 25 Hillside Avenue, Cambridge, Mass. Office: 6 Beacon Street, Boston.

FOY, Eddie (Edwin Fitzgerald):

Actor; born in New York City; son of Richard and Ellen (Hennessy) Fitzgerald. He made his first public appearance in 1869 at a benefit at the Newsboys' Home at Chicago, in a clog dance. From 1876 until 1881 he was dancing and doing turns at concert halls in Chicago and Kansas City. In 1881 he appeared at the Adelphi Theater, San Francisco, in white face specialties in the opening Olios, and played leading parts in the dramas which wound up the show. Later he was a member of Emerson's Minstrels, and of the Carnecross Minstrels in Philadelphia. After that he appeared with various companies, making his first comedy hit as the Lunatic, with Kate Castleton, in 1888. Since then he has starred in a number of parts, playing in Topsy Turvy for one hundred and fifty nights at the Herald Square Theater in New York. He was playing in Mr. Bluebeard at the Iroquois Theater, Chicago, when the great disaster occurred there, and barely escaped with his life. He starred in The Earl and the Girl, 1906-1907; The Orchid, 1907-1908, and Mr. Hamlet of Broadway, 1908-1909. Mr. Foy married, in 1895, Madeline Morando, premier dancer. Address: Post Road, New Rochelle, N. Y.

FRACKELTON, Susan Stuart:

Potter and art lecturer; born in Milwaukee, Wis., June 5, 1848; daughter of Edwin H. and Mary S. (Robinson) Goodrich, and of New England lineage on both sides. She was educated in private schools in Milwaukee and New York City; was married in Milwaukee, July 19, 1859, to Richard G. Frackelton, and has three sons and a daughter. Mrs. Frackelton has, for several years, been engaged as a lecturer before women's clubs, State federations, teachers' institutes, Chautauqua assemblies, schools, and drawing-room audiences, her subjects being connected with the Arts and Crafts movement, illustrated by specimens of craft work in metal, weaving, pottery, baskets, lace, wood-carving, jewelry, leather, cloth painting, also lectures on "Early Colonial Weaving and Modern American Rug Weaving," and on "The Indian in His Playtime." Mrs. Frackelton has been identified with Keramics since 1876, and earned distinguished honors as a potter and decorator, including the International gold medal and a silver medal at Atlanta, 1881; the International medal from Mexico, being the first foreign medal ever awarded by that country to an artist in ceramics; awards at Philadelphia (U. S. Potter's Association), 1889; Buffalo, 1892; St. Louis, 1892 (special medal of honor); Birmingham, 1892 (first award for gold and colors); New York, 1892 (first prize for "conventional design." New York Society of Ceramic Arts, and Tiffany prize for "best original work"); World's Columbian Exposition, 1893; eight awards, Antwerp, Belgium, 1894; New York, 1894 (first prize for originality of design from the National League of Mineral Painters); and at the Paris Exposition of 1900. Mrs. Frackelton founded the National League of Mineral Painters and was its first president; is a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and of the Chicago Womans' Club. She is author of Tried by Fire, a work on china painting, and of much magazine and newspaper work. Address: 1025 Fine Arts Building, and 203 Michigan Avenue, Chicago.

FRAILEY, Leonard August:

Pay director U. S. Navy, retired; born in Washington, D. C., Aug. 8, 1843; son of Charles S. and Caroline M. B. Frailey. He was educated in Union Academy, Gonzaga College and the Young Commercial College and Aug. 20, 1864, was appointed acting assistant paymaster. U. S. Navy. He was promoted through the grades, reaching that of pay director Aug. 29, 1899, and was retired at his own request, after forty years' service, with the rank of rear-admiral U. S. Navy, Feb. 17, 1905. He married in Boston, Sept. 28, 1869, Helen Watson Freeman. Address: 1506 Twenty-first Street, Washington, D. C.

FRANCIS, Charles Spencer:

Ambassador to Austria-Hungary; born in Troy, N. Y., June 17, 1833; son of John Morgan Francis, distinguished, journalist and successively American minister to the courts of Greece, Portugal and Austria-Hungary, and of Harriet E. (Tucker) Francis. He was graduated from Cornell, A.B.,

1877, and while a student there he repeatedly won the single-scull championship of the University. He represented Cornell in the contest for the intercollegiate single-scull championship at Saratoga Lake in 1876, winning it by sculling two miles in thirteen minutes and forty-two and three-fourth seconds, which time still stands as the world's intercollegiate record. Before matriculating at Cornell University he entered the office of the Troy Times, and learned the printing trade. He was successively compositor, reporter, city editor and manager of that journal, in which he acquired an interest in 1881. He became equal partner with his father in 1887, and in 1897, on the death of his father, succeeded to the editorial direction and sole ownership of The Times, and is also sole owner of the Times Building. Mr. Francis was secretary to his father during the latter's three years' residence at Athens as United States minister to Greece, and was envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Greece, Roumania and Serbia, 1900-1903. He was appointed, in March, 1906, American Ambassador to Austria-Hungary. Mr. Francis was colonel and aide-de-camp on the staff of Governor Alonzo B. Cornell, of New York, 1881-1883, and was earlier captain, major and lieutenant-colonel on the staff of Major-General J. B. Carr of the National Guard of New York. He was twice elected an alumni trustee of Cornell University, and is vice-president of the New York Scenic and Historic Preservation Society. Mr. Francis is a member of the Sons of the Revolution, the Society of the War of 1812, the Hudson-Fulton, New York State Commission, the Zeta Psi fraternity, treasurer and founder in 1887 of the Troy Times Fresh Air Fund; director of the Troy Trust Company and the Albany Trust Company; and was a regent of the University of the State of New York from 1903 to 1906—twice elected by the Legislature and resigning a ten-year term upon accepting diplomatic mission to Austria-Hungary. He is a member of the Troy, Laureate Boat and Rensselaer County Republican Clubs of Troy, and the Republican and Cor- nell University Clubs of New York City. Mr. Francis married, at Ithaca, N. Y., May 23, 1878, Alice Evans, daughter of the late Professor Evans of Cornell, and they have five children. Address: Troy Times, Troy, N. Y., or American Embassy, Vienna, Austria.

FRANCIS, David Rowland:

Merchant and ex-governor; born at Richmond, Ky., Oct. 1, 1850; son of John B. and Eliza Francis. He was graduated from Washington University, St. Louis, A.B., 1870, and has received the LL.D. degrees from the University of Missouri, 1891, Shurtleff College, 1904, St. Louis University and Washington University, 1905. He entered the employ of the firm of Shryock and Rowland. He founded, 1877, the firm of D. R. Francis, which later became D. R. Francis and Brother, and D. R. Francis and Brother Commission Company, grain merchants, of which he is president. He also founded, in 1898, the financial house of Francis Brothers and Company, of which he is senior partner. He was mayor of St. Louis, 1885-1889, governor of Missouri, 1889-1893, and was in President Cleveland's cabinet as secretary of the interior, 1896-1897. Governor Francis was president of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, elected in May, 1901, and reelected each succeeding year. He was president of the Merchants' Exchange of St. Louis in 1884, is vice-president of the Merchants'-Laclede National Bank of St. Louis, president of the Madison County Ferry Company, director of the Mississippi Valley Trust Company. In connection with the Louisiana Purchase Exposition he received decorations from the rulers of the principal countries of Europe and Asia. He is a member of the St. Louis University, St. Louis Country, Log Cabin Field, Round Table, Commercial, Noonday, Racquet and Kinloch Clubs, of St. Louis, and of the Metropolitan Club and National Geographic Society of Washington, D. C. He married in St. Louis, in 1876, Jane Perry, and they have six sons. Residence: 421 Maryland Avenue. Office: 214 North Fourth Street, St. Louis, Mo.

FRANCIS, Joseph Marshall:

Bishop of the Episcopal Church; born Eaglesmere, Pa., April 6, 1862; son of James B. and Charlotte A. (Marshall) Francis. He was graduated from Racine College, Wis., and later completed his studies in the University of Oxford, England. He received the degree of B.D. from Nashotah (Wis.) Theological Seminary in 1889, and of D.D. from Hobart College and Nashotah. He was ordered to the diaconate in 1884 and was attached to the Cathedral staff, Milwaukee, with the charge of St. Edmund's Church, Milwaukee, and St. Peter's, Greenfield, Wis., was ordained to the priesthood by Bishop Welles, 1886, was canon of the Cathedral of Milwaukee, 1886-1887, and rector of St. Luke's, White-water, Wis., 1887-1888. Following this he went to Japan, where, in 1891, he became professor at the Trinity divinity school at Tokyo, being made sub-dean in 1894. He also held the office of priest in charge of Trinity Cathedral at Tokyo, 1892-1897; rector of St. Paul's Church, Evansville, Ind., 1897-1899; elected Bishop of Indiana, June 8, 1899, and was consecrated bishop on Sept. 21, 1899. Bishop Francis married in 1887, Kate Stevens, of Milwaukee, Wis. Address: 1549 Central Avenue, Indianapolis, Ind.

FRANCKE, Kuno:

Scholar and author; born in Kiel, Germany, Sept. 27, 1855; son of Judge A. W. S. and Marie (Jensen) Francke. He was educated in the Gynnasium at Kiel, and the Universities of Berlin, Jena and Munich, receiving the degrees of Ph.D., Munich, 1878, and LL.D. from the University of Wisconsin, 1904. Dr. Francke was associate editor of the Monumenta Germaniæ Historica, Berlin, 1882-1884. He was called to Harvard University in 1884 as instructor in German literature, and since 1896 has been full professor; since 1903 curator of the Germanic Museum, and since 1906 professor of the history of German culture in Harvard University. Dr. Francke is author of: Social Forces in German Literature, 1896; Glimpses of Modern German Culture, 1898; History of German Literature, 1901;

Handbook of the Germanic Museum, 1906; German Ideals of To-day, 1907. He is a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences; member of the American Philosophical Society; chevalier of the Royal Prussian Order of the Red Eagle, and of the Order of the Crown. He married in Gilbertsville, N. Y., June 27, 1889, Katharine Gilbert, and they have a daughter and two sons. Residence: 3 Berkeley Place. Office: Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass.

FRANK, Henry:

Lecturer and author; born in LaFayette, Ind., Dec. 31, 1854; son of Jacob Henry and Henrietta (Auerbach) Frank. He was educated in the Chicago common and high schools, Phillips' Andover Academy, Northwestern and Harvard Universities. He was professor of English and literature in Cornell College, Mt. Vernon, Iowa, for a year, then was for several years in the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Kansas and Wisconsin. He resigned from that ministry, becoming pastor of the First Congregational Church of Jamestown, N. Y., for two years until 1888, when he renounced orthodoxy and organized the Independent Congregational (New Theology) Church. In 1897 he founded the Metropolitan Independent Church (Independent Ethical) in New York City, which met in the Carnegie Lyceum; and he is now independent, liberal and radical, lecturing for the Independent Liberal Congregation in Berkeley Theater, New York City, on Sundays, and conducting a work which is absolutely non-sectarian and creedless, but devoted to social reform and the highest ethical progress without necessity of subscription to antiquated dogmas. Mr. Frank is author of several volumes which have awakened wide interest, including: The Triumph of Truth, or the Doom of Dogma; The Kingdom of Love; The Mastery of Mind; The Shrine of Silence; Modern Light on Immortality. The latter work presents a unique and novel argument based on thorough scientific research. Mr. Frank is a member of the American Institute for Scientific Research, The American Civic Alliance, Medico-Legal Society, Sigma Chi fraternity and the Century, Theater, Press, Single Tax and Social Reform Clubs. He married in Mansfield, La., Jan. 14, 1886, Alice Roberta Field, and has one son. Address: 132a West 79th Street, New York City.

FRANKFORTER, George Bell:

Chemist and educator; born in Potter, Wood County, Ohio, April 22, 1860; son of Andrew and Elizabeth (Chunk) Frankforter. He was graduated from the University of Nebraska, A.B., 1886, A.M., 1888, and from the University of Berlin, Ph.D., 1893. He was instructor in chemistry, 1885-1887, and professor of chemistry, 1893-1894, in the University of Nebraska; and since 1894 has been dean and director of the School of Chemistry in the University of Minnesota. He was appointed by President McKinley a member of the United States Mint Commission in 1900. Professor Frankforter has made valuable contributions to chemical research and chemical literature, especially with reference to the pitch of the Northern pine, formaldehyde, veratrin and eugenol. He is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science; member of the American Chemical Society, the Electrochemical Society, Society of Chemical Industry, Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education, Deutsche Chemische Gesellschaft and Electro-Chemische Gesellschaft. Address: 525 East River Parkway, Minneapolis, Minn.

FRANKLIN, Edward Curtis:

Chemist and educator; born in Geary City, Kan., March 1, 1862; son of Thomas Henry and Cynthia Ann (Curtis) Franklin. He was graduated from the University of Kansas, B.S., 1888, M.S., 1890; was graduate student in the University of Berlin, 1890-1891, and at Johns Hopkins University, where he received his Ph.D., 1894. He was assistant professor of chemistry, 1889-1894, associate professor, 1894-1899, and professor of physical chemistry, 1899-1903, in the University of Kansas; associate professor, 1903-1906, and professor since 1906 of organic chemistry in Leland Stanford, Jr., University. He was engaged as chemist to sugar plantations in Donaldsonville, La., 1888, and to a gold mining company at Miramar, Costa Rica, in 1897. Dr. Franklin has made noteworthy contributions to chemical research, especially in relation to the action of liquid ammonia as an electrolytic solvent. He was a member of the United States Assay Commission, 1907. He is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and the American Chemical Society; life member of the Kansas Academy of Sciences; member of the Deutsche Chemische Gesellschaft, National Geographic Society, Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi, Phi Delta Theta fraternity, and the Bohemian and Sierra Clubs of San Francisco. He married in Denver, Colo., July 11, 1897, Effie June Scott, and they have three children. Residence: 1057 Ramona Street, Palo Alto, Calif. Office: Stanford University, Calif.

FRANKLIN, Fabian:

Editor, mathematician; born at Egar, Hungary, Jan. 18, 1853; son of Morris J. and Sarah (Neilprin) Franklin. After being graduated from Columbian (now George Washington) University, as Ph.B., in 1869, he was engaged in civil engineering and surveying until 1877 when he went to Johns Hopkins University as fellow until 1879, then associate professor and professor of mathematics at Johns Hopkins until becoming editor of the Baltimore News. He received the degree of Ph.D. from Johns Hopkins University in 1880, and that of LL.D. from the George Washington University in 1904. Mr. Franklin is a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, member of the American Mathematical Society, and American Economic Association and Phi Beta Kappa Society, and of the University and Johns Hopkins Clubs of Baltimore, and the Baltimore Country Club. Mr. Franklin married at Windsor, Conn., Aug. 24, 1882, Christine Ladd, and they have one daughter. Address: 103 West Monument Street, Baltimore, Md.

FRAZER, Robert Sellers:

President judge; born in Fayette City, Pa., Sept. 18, 1849. He was educated at West Chester (Pa.) Academy and Western University of Pittsburg; was admitted to practise in the courts of Allegheny County, Pa., March 29, 1873; member of the State House of Representatives from Allegheny County in 1877, 1878, 1879 and 1880. He was elected judge of the Court of Common Pleas Number 2, Allegheny County, in 1896, for a ten years' term, and was commissioned president judge of the same court, Nov. 5, 1900. He was reelected in 1906 without opposition and commissioned as president judge for ten years beginning on the first Monday of Jan., 1907. He is a Republican in politics and a member of the Union Club, of Pittsburgh. Address: 1100 Shady Avenue, Pittsburgh.

FRAZIER, James B.:

United States senator; born in Pikeville, Bledsoe County, Tenn., Oct. 18, 1856; son of Judge Thomas N. and Margaret (McReynolds) Frazier. He was graduated from the University of Tennessee in June, 1878; read law with his father, at Nashville, Tenn., was admitted to the bar and removed to Chattanooga in 1881, and practised law there continuously until 1902; was elector for the States-at-large on the Democratic ticket in 1900; was elected governor of Tennessee in 1902, and again in 1904; was elected to the United States Senate March 21, 1905, to fill out the unexpired term of Hon. William B. Bate, who died during the session of the General Assembly, and resigned the office of governor of Tennessee on March 27, 1905; took his seat Dec. 4, 1905. His term as senator will expire March 3, 1911. He married at Athens, Tenn., in 1883, Miss Louis Douglas Keith. Address: Chattanooga, Tenn.

FREAR, Walter Francis:

Governor of Hawaii; born in Grass Valley, Nevada County, Calif., Oct. 29, 1863; son of Rev. Walter and Francis E. (Foster) Frear. He was graduated from Oahu College, 1881, from Yale, A.B., 1885, and from Yale Law School, LL.B., 1890. He practised law in Honolulu, 1890-1892. He was appointed second judge of the First Circuit Court, Kingdom of Hawaii, in 1893; second associate justice of the Supreme Court of the Provisional Government of Hawaii in 1893 first associate justice of the Supreme Court of the Republic of Hawaii, in 1896; chief justice of the Territory of Hawaii in 1900; governor of Hawaii in 1907. He was a member of the Hawaiian Commission in 1898; chairman of the Hawaiian Code Commission in 1903, and chairman of the Hawaiian Tax Commission in 1907. Governor Frear is a member of the Honolulu Social Science Association, the Hawaiian Historical Society, and the Pacific University and Country Clubs of Honolulu. He married in Honolulu, Aug. 1, 1893, Mary Emma Dillingham, and they have two daughters. Residence and address: 1434 Punahou Street, Honolulu, Hawaii.

FREEMAN, Abraham Clark:

Lawyer, author; born in Hancock County, Ill., May 15, 1843; son of O. S. and Nancy (Clark) Freeman. He was educated in the district schools of his native place, went to California with his father in 1861, taught school in Joaquin County, Calif., for two years and studied law, and he was admitted to the California bar in 1864. He was a member of the Constitutional Convention of California in 1878 and 1879, and was a member of the committee appointed by the governor to propose such amendments as were necessary to harmonize the codes of California with the new Constitution. He became editor of American Decisions in 1879, and of American State Reports in 1888. Address: 488 Parrott Building, San Francisco.

FREEMAN, Henry Blanchard:

Brigadier-general U. S. A., retired; born in Mt. Vernon, Ohio, Jan. 17, 1837. He entered the army as a private in Company G, 10th Infantry, July 16, 1855, and was discharged Feb. 5, 1856. He reenlisted July 8, 1861, serving as private and first sergeant of Company B, 2d battalion, 18th Infantry, and commissioned second lieutenant of the same regiment Oct. 30, 1861, first lieutenant, May 30, 1862, captain, July 28, 1866; transferred to 27th Infantry Sept. 21, 1866, to 7th Infantry Jan. 7, 1870; major 16th Infantry, June 19, 1891; lieutenant-colonel 5th Infantry, Jan. 30, 1895, colonel 24th Infantry, Oct. 4, 1898; brigadier-general, Jan. 16, 1901, and retired by operation of law, Jan. 17, 1901. He was captured at Chicamauga, and confined in Libby prison; escaped, but was recaptured and again escaped and served as acting assistant adjutant-general of the 17th Army Corps, and he was brevetted for gallant and meritorious services as captain for Stone River and major for Chicamauga, and also received the Congressional Medal of Honor for most distinguished gallantry at Stone River. He served for years on the frontier, and participated in the war against the Sioux, 1867-1868, on Powder River and Fort Phil Kearney against the Cheyennes, and in Kansas, 1868-1869; in war against the Sioux on the Yellowstone, 1876, and against the Utes in Colorado, 1879. He also served in Cuba and the Philippines. He married, April 26, 1866, Sarah E. Darlington, of Zanesville, Ohio. Address: Douglas, Wyo.

FREEMAN, Henry Varnum:

Jurist; born at Bridgeton, Cumberland County, N. J., Dec. 20, 1842; son of Henry and Mary (Bangs) Freeman; and he is of Pilgrim Ancestry. He was educated in the schools of New Haven, Conn., Freeport, Ill., and Beloit, Wis. He enlisted Aug. 6, 1862, in Company K, 74th Illinois Volunteer Infantry and became its first sergeant until Aug. 24, 1863, when he was commissioned captain in the Twelfth United States Colored Infantry, serving as such in the Army of the Cumberland until honorably discharged at the end of the war in July, 1865. He entered Yale College, from which he was graduated as A.B. in 1869, and received the degree of A.M. in 1874. He studied law in New Haven, Conn., and in Chicago, and was admitted to the bar in 1872, practising law in Chicago until elected judge of the Superior Court in November, 1893. He was re-elected in 1898 and 1901 and was appointed justice of the Appellate Court of Illinois in 1898. Address: 5760 Woodlawn Avenue, Chicago.

FREEMAN, James Edward:

Clergyman; born in New York City, July 24, 1866; son of Henry Freeman and Mary (Morgan) Freeman. He was educated in the New York public schools and subsequently for orders in the Episcopal Church. He was in the railroad business with the New York Central Railroad, 1882-1894; was ordered deacon in the ministry of the Episcopal Church, May 20, 1894, and ordained as priest by Henry C. Potter, April 28, 1895. Mr. Freeman became assistant to the rector, St. John's Church, Yonkers, May, 1894, assuming charge of St. Andrew's Chapel in South Yonkers; has been rector of the New St. Andrew's Memorial Church since its organization in the fall of 1894; and during the summer, is the rector of the Church of the Redeemer, Sorrento, Me.; and was sometime acting rector of St. John's Church, Dresden, Germany. Mr. Freeman is vice-president and chairman of the Board of Directors of Hollywood Inn, Yonkers, president of the Yonkers Sanitary League and director of the Yonkers Tuberculosis Sanitarium and the St. John-Land Home, Long Island; and he is a member of the Transportation and Church and Parkhill Country Clubs, Yonkers and the Corinthian Yacht Club. He is author of: If not the Saloon; What?; Certain Aspects of the Master-Life; Themes in Verse. He married at New York City, April 16, 1890, Ella Vigelius, and they have three children. Address: 47 Livingston Avenue, Yonkers, N. Y.

FREEMAN, John Ripley:

Hydraulic engineer; born at West Bridgeton, Me., July 27, 1855; son of Nathaniel D. and Mary Elizabeth (Morse) Freeman. He was graduated in 1876 as B.S. from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and received the honorary Sc.D. degree from Brown University in 1904, and from Tufts University in 1905. He was principal assistant engineer of the Water Power Company at Lawrence, Mass., 1877-1880; principal assistant to Hiram F. Mills, consulting hydraulic engineer, 1880-1886; and has since been engaged in individual practice as a consulting engineer. Mr. Freeman was chief engineer and superintendent of inspection of the Association of Factory Mutual Insurance Companies, 1887-1889; engineer member of the Massachusetts Metropolitan Water Board, 1895-1896; president and treasurer of the Manufacturers Mutual Fire Insurance Company since 1896; and consulting engineer of the New York City Water Supply since 1900; also consulting engineer to Baltimore and various other cities on public water supply extensions. He served as a member of the United States Gun Carriage Test Board in 1901; consulting engineer in the construction of the Owens River Aqueduct for Los Angeles, Calif., 1906; to the Isthmian Canal in 1907 and 1909, the St. Lawrence River Power Company, on damming the river at Long Sault, 1907-1909. He was also consulting engineer to the Massachusetts Metropolitan Park Commission in 1903 on the drainage and sanitation of the marshes at Cambridge, Mass., and has been consulting engineer to various manufacturing companies. Dr. Freeman has been a lecturer in and is a member of the corporation of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He has twice been awarded the Norman gold medal of the American Society of Civil Engineers, and was vice-president of the Society in 1902; is a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and was its president 1904-1905; and of the New England Water Works Association, Boston Society of Civil Engineers (president, 1894). He is a director of the Rhode Island Hospital Trust Company, National Bank of Commerce, Providence Gas Company, and trustee of the People's Savings Bank and Butler Hospital, all in Providence, and is a member of the Engineers Clubs of New York, University Club of Providence and Technology Club of Boston. Residence: 235 Arlington Avenue. Office: 815 Banigan Building, Providence, R. I.

FREEMAN, Joseph Edwin:

Lawyer; born at Unity, Me., Feb. 14, 1876; son of Joseph Hewitt and Aletta (Stone) Freeman; graduate of University of Chicago and Georgetown Law School, post-graduate work at Harvard Law School. Was three years accountant in United States Treasury Department, and for a brief period in the banking business. Member of law firm of Stover, Hall & Freeman, and N. Y. Stock Exchange firm of Freeman, Rollins & Co.; director of Trojan Powder Company, Seashore Municipal Railroad Company; Land & Lake Association, and Link Chain Belt Company. He is a member of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York City, Military Order of the Loyal Legion, Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, and the Harvard Club. Address: 60 Wall Street, New York City.

FREER, Charles Lang:

Capitalist, art connoisseur; born in Kingston, N. Y., 1856; son of Jacob R. and Phæbe Jane (Townsend) Freer. He was educated in the public schools of Kingston and afterward engaged in railway service for several years, then became a manufacturer in Detroit but has for several years been retired from business. Mr. Freer has long been a patron and collector of art, and made a Whistler collection which gained recognition as the finest in the United States, and presented it along with his other art collections, to the Smithsonian Institution at Washington. His services to education have also been notable and he received from the University of Michigan the degree of A.M. and is a director of the American Academy in Rome. He is a member of the Grolier and Players' Clubs in New York, the Caxton Club of Chicago, the Copley Society of Boston, and the Detroit, University, Witenagemote, Yondotega and Lake St. Clair Fishing and Shooting Clubs of Detroit. Residence: 33 Ferry Avenue. Office: Union Trust Building, Detroit, Mich.

FREER, Otto Tiger:

Physician; born in Chicago, Aug. 8, 1857; son of Joseph Warren and Katherine (Gatter) Freer. He was educated in Ludwig's Gymnasium, Munich, Bavaria, in the Central High School, Chicago, and Rush Medical College, Chicago, where he was graduated as M.D. in 1879; and one semester each in the universities of Munich, Vienna and Heidelberg after graduation. He was house physician and surgeon of Cook County Hospital in 1880; attending physician at the German Hospital of Chicago, 1890-1896; laryngologist at the German Hospital, 1896-

1905 and is professor of laryngology and rhinology in the Chicago Polyclinic since 1898. Dr. Freer was president of the Section on Laryngology and Otology of the American Medical Association in 1906; president of the Chicago Laryngological and Otological Society in 1906, was elected a member of the American Laryngological Association in 1904, and was chosen a member of the Royal Society of Medicine, London, in 1908. In politics he is a Democrat. He is a member of the University Club of Chicago. Residence: 224 Ontario Street, Chicago.

FRÉMONT, John Charles:

Captain. U. S. Navy; born in San Francisco, Calif., April 19, 1849; son of Major General John Charles Frémont. U. S. A., the famous soldier, "Pathfinder," and Presidential candidate, and Jessie (Benton) Fremont, daughter of U. S. Senator Thomas H. Benton of Missouri. He was graduated from the U. S. Naval Academy, 1872, has since served in various duties as a naval officer, and was commissioned captain Oct. 10, 1906. He commanded the U. S. S. Pinta, 1875-1877; suppressed the riots in Baltimore in 1877; commanded the U. S. S. Drift, 1883-1885; the torpedo-boat Porter in the Spanish-American War; was commandant of the Navy Yard at Cavite, P. I. 1899-1901; U. S. S. Calgoa, 1902-1903; U. S. Monitor Florida, 1903; afterward on duty on boards; naval attaché to the American embassies in Paris and St. Petersburg, 1906-1907; commanding U. S. S. battleship Mississippi since Feb. 11, 1908. Captain Frémont is a member of the New York Athletic and University Clubs of New York, Army and Navy Club of Washington, D. C., and the Carabou Club of Manila. He married in New York City, May 27, 1877, Sally Anderson. Address: Care of Navy Department, Washington, D. C.

FRENCH, Allen:

Author; born in Boston, Nov. 28, 1870; son of John J. and Frances M. (Stratton) French. He was graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, B.S., 1892, studied a year in the University of Berlin and a year in Harvard University, A.B., 1894. He is author of The Junior Cup, 1901; The Colonials, 1902; Sir Marrook, 1903; The Barrier, 1904; The Story of Rolf, 1904; Heroes of Iceland, 1905; The Reform of Shaun, 1905; Pelham and his Friend Tim, 1906; The Book of Vegetables, 1907; The Story of Grettir the Strong, 1908. Mr. French is a member of the Delta Psi fraternity. He married in Providence, R. I., April 14, 1898, Ellen R. Dorrance, and they have three daughters. Address: Concord, Mass.

FRENCH, Amos Tuck:

Banker; born in Boston, Mass., July 20, 1863; son of Francis O. and Ellen (Tuck) French. He was graduated from Harvard, A.B., 1885. Mr. Tuck was a member of the New York Stock Exchange for three years. He is vice-president and director Manhattan Trust Company for fifteen years, Northern Securities Company, Northern Pacific Railway. He is a member of the New York Chamber of Commerce, New York Historical Society; director Lying-in-Hospital of New York; and of the Knickerbocker, Metropolitan, Union, Grolier, Harvard, New York Yacht, Down Town, Turf and Field, Tuxedo, and Coney Island Jockey Clubs. He married in Newport, R. I., Dec. 2, 1885, Pauline Le Roy, and they have six children. Residence: Tuxedo Park, N. Y., and Chester, N. H. Address: 20 Wall Street, New York City.

FRENCH, Asa Palmer:

Lawyer; born in Braintree, Mass., Jan. 29, 1860; son of Asa and Sophia B. (Palmer) French. He received his preparatory education in the Boston public schools, Adams Academy, and Thayer Academy, and was graduated from Yale as A.B., in 1882. He was clerk to the judges of the Court of Alabama Claims at Washington, 1885-1886; district attorney for the Southeastern District of Massachusetts, 1901-1906, and has been U. S. attorney for the District of Massachusetts since January, 1906. He is also president of the Randolph Savings Bank, of Randolph, Mass., is president of the Norfolk County Bar Association; trustee of Thayer Academy, Braintree, Mass., governor of the Massachusetts Society of Mayflower Descendants, and a member of the Psi Upsilon fraternity, the Masonic order, the University Club of New York and the University Club of Boston. Mr. French married in Randolph, Mass., Dec. 13, 1887, Elizabeth Ambrose Wales, and they have two children. Residence: Randolph, Mass. Address: 87 Milk Street, Boston.

FRENCH, Burton Lee:

Lawyer; born near Delphi, Ind., Aug. 1, 1875; son of Charles A. and Mina P. French. He moved with his parents to Kearney, Neb., in 1880, and moved to Idaho in 1882; was graduated from the University of Idaho A.B., 1901, and was fellow in the University of Chicago, 1901-1902, being graduated in 1903 with the degree of Ph.M. He is an attorney at law, was elected upon the Republican ticket to the house of representatives to the fifth and sixth sessions of the Idaho legislature, serving 1898-1902, and in the latter session he was the Republican caucus nominee for speaker. He was elected to the Fifty-eighth and Fifty-ninth Congresses and reelected to the Sixtieth Congress as member at large. His term of service ended March 4, 1909. He married, June 28, 1904, Winifred Hartley. Address: Moscow, Idaho.

FRENCH, Calvin H.:

President of Huron College; born in Williamsburg, Ohio, June 13, 1862; son of Rev. Charles P. and Mary J. (Brown) French. He was graduated from Lake Forest (Ill.) University, A.B., 1888, A.M., 1891, from the Union Theological Seminary, 1891, and received the D.D. degree from Wooster (Ohio) University, 1900. He was pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Scotland S. Dak., 1891-1898, and since 1898 has been president of Huron College. He married at College Springs, Iowa, July 27, 1897, Anna E. Long, and they have three sons. Address: Huron, S. Dak.

FRENCH, Daniel Chester:

Sculptor; born in Exeter, N. H., April 20, 1850; son of Henry Flaggs and Anne (Richardson) French. He was educated in the Cambridge public and Amherst high schools, attended the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 1868-1869, and received the degree of A.B. from Dartmouth College. Mr. French studied art in Boston and in Florence, Italy, and has been professionally engaged as a sculptor since 1869, and since 1887 has resided in New York. Some of his principal works are: the statues of the Minute Man at Concord, Mass., and of John Harvard, at Cambridge, Mass., the Milmore Memorial in Forest Hills Cemetery in Boston, the Gallaudet group and the statue of Lewis Cass at Washington, D. C.; the statue of Alma Mater at Columbia University, New York City; groups of "Europe," "Asia," "Africa" and "America" on the New York Custom House, and the statue of Hon. George H. Hoar at Worcester, Mass. He was awarded a medal by the Paris Salon in 1892, and the Medaille d'Honneur of the Exposition Universelle at Paris in 1900. Mr. French has long been a member, and was elected in 1906 president, of the National Sculpture Society; was a member of the Municipal Art Commission of New York for the first seven years of its existence, and is a member of the New York City Improvement Commission. He is a member of the National Academy of Design; the Accademia di San Luca, Rome, Italy; Legion d'Honneur of France (1900); is a trustee of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York City, and of the American Academy in Rome. Mr. French is also a member of the National Institute of Arts and Letters, the Academy of Arts and Letters, the Century Association, and National Arts Club of New York City, and the Technology Club of Boston. He married in Washington, D. C., in 1888, Mary Adams French, and they have a daughter. Summer residence: Glendale, Berkshire County, Mass. Address: 125 West 11th Street New York City.

FREUND, John C.:

Musical editor and publisher, dramatist and writer on Social Economics; born London, England, Nov. 22, 1848, where his father, Dr. Jonas Charles Hermann Freund, was the leading foreign physician for many years; Deputy Inspector of Hospitals during the Crimean War, Surgeon in the British Army, founder and first directing physician of the German Hospital, Dalston, London, and author of a number of leading medical works. His mother, Amelia Louisa (Rudiger) Freund, was the niece and companion of Christian Huettnier, a noted linguist, who, as secretary and interpreter, accompanied Lord Macartney's first English Embassy to China. Under the nom-de-plume, Amelia Lewis, she gained an international reputation as a writer on Social Economics. Mr. Freund went to Oxford University with the Times (London) and Carpenter Scholarships, won in open competition. Remained at the University three years, but before finishing the full course came to the United States. While at Oxford, and before he was twenty-two, started and edited the Dark Blue Magazine, to which the Rossettis, Swinbourne and William Morris, the poets, Professors Blackie, Dowden and Sylvester, Rev. J. G. Wood, the naturalist, Thomas Hughes and other distinguished writers contributed. He produced his first play, The Under-Graduate, at the Queen's Theatre, London, in 1870, in which Miss Hodson, now the wife of Henri Labouchere, the Radical leader, editor of Truth (London) played the leading role. Mr. Freund came to the United States in 1871 and became connected with trade journalism in New York City, first on staff of the Wine and Spirit Gazette, and then as proprietor of the Hat, Cap and Fur Trade Review, which he started. He later purchased and conducted the Arcadian, a critical weekly. One of the pioneers in musical, and dramatic and music trade journalism in the United States. Was the first to start a musical and music trade paper in the English language, in New York, in 1873. Later developed from it the Musical and Dramatic Times, which was sold. Then, after a year in Colorado and New Mexico, he returned to New York and established a weekly called Musie, which later became Music and Drama, which was developed into a daily and was very successful for a time. In 1885 he produced his second play, True Nobility, at McVicker's Theatre, Chicago, in which, with Viola Allen and Robert B. Mantell, he played the leading character part. Was after that in Frank Mayo's company, and later played leading character parts with Mme. Janish and Henry Miller. Mr. Freund returned to journalism in 1887 as editor of the American Musician, until 1890. He then established the Music Trades and he edited the Dolgeville Herald, from 1891 to 1893. Since then, editor of the Music Trades, and president and director of the Music Trades Co. Also editor of Musical America, which he established in 1898, and president and director of the Musical America Co., and editor of the annual, The Piano and Organ Purchaser's Guide. He is a member of the National Civic Federation, the National Geographic Society, the West End Association, St. John's Guild, and other societies. His favorite recreations are those of out door life. He has traveled and visited many countries. He is a member of the Pleiades Club of New York City. Mr. Freund married, in 1887, Florence Smith (now deceased) by whom he had one daughter, Florence Louise, born in 1889. He again married, in 1890, Anna C. Hughes, and of that union there are two daughters: Annette, born in 1896, and Marjorie, born in 1904. Residence: 760 West End Avenue, New York City. Address: 135 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

FRICK, Henry Clay:

Capitalist; born in West Overton, Westmoreland County, Pa., Dec. 19, 1849; son of John W. and Elizabeth (Overholt) Frick. He attended the public schools of West Overton, and for a short time the Chester (Pa.) Military Academy, and Otterbein University, Ohio, and at the age of sixteen was engaged as a clerk. At twenty-one he became agent of Morgan & Company, coke-dealers, at Pittsburgh, later went into the coke business for himself, organizing the corporation of Frick & Company. He increased the business rapidly, and in 1882 re-organized it as the H. C. Frick Coal and Coke Company which is now the largest coke producer in the world, operating nearly forty thousand acres of coal and twelve thousand coke ovens with a daily capacity of 25,000 tons of coke. He became interested in Carnegie Brothers & Company, Limited, and chairman of that corporation, and in 1892 bought the Duquesne Steel Works and consolidated it into the Carnegie Steel Company, Limited. Mr. Frick had charge of the resistance of that company to the demands of the strikers in the Homestead strike and persisted until he won it. He was assaulted, shot and stabbed July 23, 1892, by a Russian anarchist named Berkman, from New York, but after thirteen days returned to the office and resumed charge of the strike situation, continuing to a successful conclusion. He continued in the management of the Carnegie Steel Company until disputes arose between him and Mr. Carnegie which was finally settled by the organization in 1900 of The Carnegie Company, in which Mr. Frick had a share of $31,000,000, about equally divided between stocks and bonds, and in the subsequent sale to the United States Steel Corporation, he received about $45,000,000 in stocks and nearly $16,000,000 in bonds of the later corporation; has bought largely and is now one of the principal owners of the corporation. He built the Frick Building, the largest and finest office building in Pittsburgh, in 1904, and later added to it the Frick Building Annex; is said to be the largest stockholder in Pennsylvania Railroad; has large interests in Cambria Steel Company, Norfolk and Western Railroad, and Baltimore and Ohio; extensive interests also in Philadelphia and Reading Railroad; director and member of the executive committee of the Union Pacific Railroad; and he is the largest owner of real estate in Pittsburgh, and an officer and director in many of the large corporations of Pittsburgh. He was a member of the Board of Directors of the Equitable Life Assurance Society and chairman of the Committee which investigated the charges against Alexander and Hyde. Mr. Frick is a member of the Union League Club of Philadelphia and of the Metropolitan, Lawyers, Engineers, Union League, Automobile Club of America and other clubs of New York City. He married in Pittsburgh, Dec. 15, 1881, Adelaide Howard Childs. Address: Pittsburgh, Pa.

FRIEDMAN, William Sterne:

Rabbi; born in Chicago, Oct. 24, 1869; son of Nathan and Bertha (Sternberg) Friedman. He was graduated from the University of Cincinnati, A.B., 1889, and from the Hebrew Union College, Cincinnati, as rabbi, 1889 and received from the University of Colorado the degree of LL.D., 1906. Dr. Friedman has been rabbi of Temple Emanuel, Denver, Colo., since Aug. 1, 1889, having refused many calls to other pulpits. He was founder in 1890 of the National Jewish Hospital for Consumptives at Denver, the first free tuberculosis sanitarium in America, a non-sectarian institution with 130 patients. He has been a member since 1901, and president since 1905 of the Colorado State Board of Charities and Correction; a member since 1906 of the Board of Library Commissioners of Denver, and chairman of its book committee; vice-president of the Colorado State Conference of Charities since 1905; vice-president of the Hospital Saturday and Sunday Association since 1905; vice-president of the Charity Organization Society of Denver, 1890-1901; president of the Central Committee of the Rocky Mountain Region for the Relief of Oppressed Jews. He married in New Orleans, La., April 29, 1903, Juliet Freyhan, and they have a son. Address: 1060 Emerson Street, Denver, Colo.

FRISSELL, Algernon S.:

President of the Fifth Avenue Bank of New York; born in South Amenia, N. Y., Feb. 1, 1845; son of Rev. A. C. and Lavinia (Barker) Frissell. He was educated in the Amenia Seminary and a private school at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., entered the employ of the City Bank at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., in 1862, and has been actively engaged in the banking business ever since. In 1875 he was loan clerk at the Importers and Traders National Bank in New York City, and was called from that position to accept the position of cashier of the Fifth Avenue Bank, which was being organized. For ten years he served it as cashier, and was then elected president of the bank, which position he has since held. He is also second-vice president and a trustee of the Greenwich Savings Bank; is a director of The Associates Land Company, the Southern Improvement Company of New York and the Woodlawn Cemetery Company. Mr. Frissell was a member of the Board of Education of the City of New York, 1901-1905; is treasurer of the New York Kindergarten Association and of the Civil Service Reform Association; and is a member of the Century, City and Barnard Clubs of New York City, the Cosmos Club of Washington, D. C., and the National Club of London. Mr. Frissell married, May 12, 1870, Susan Brinkerhoff Varick, who died in 1885, and their living children are: Lewis F., M.D., and Lavinia B. Residence: 7 West 43d Street. Business: 530 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

FRISSELL, Hollis Burke:

Principal of Hampton Normal and Agricultural Institute; born in Amenia, N. Y., July 14, 1851. He was graduated from Yale in 1874 and from Union Theological Seminary in 1879, and received the degrees of D.D. from Howard University, S.T.D. from Harvard in 1900, and LL.D. from Yale in 1901, and from Richmond College in 1909. In religion he is a Presbyterian. Dr. Frissell is a member of the Century and Yale Clubs of New York, and the Cosmos Club of Washington, D. C. Also member of the Southern Education Board, which he helped to organize; member of the General Education Board; and of the Negro Rural School Fund, Anna T. Jeanes Foundation; Chairman of the Calhoun Colored School Board of Trustees; and of the Penn N. A. & I. Board of Trustees, and actively interested in the management of various other colored schools in the South as well as in a number of Educational and Industrial Associations for the benefit of the Indians. He married in Bloomfield, N. J., Nov. 8, 1883, Julia F. Dodd, and they have one son. Address: Hampton, Va.

FROHMAN, Daniel:

Theatrical manager; born in Sandusky, Ohio, 1853; son of Henry and Barbara Frohman. He received his education in the schools of Sandusky and New York City.

He was office boy with the New York Tribune, in 1866 and continued in the newspaper business for five years. He then became manager of traveling theatrical companies through the United States; manager of the Fifth Avenue Theatre and Madison Square Theatre, New York City in 1879; manager of Lyceum Theatre, New York City, from 1885, and is now manager of the new Lyceum Theatre, also of Daly's Theatre, New York and the Daniel Frohman Stock Company as well as several English and American stars. Mr. Frohman is president of the Actors' Fund of America; also at one time president of the Theatrical Managers' Association of Manhattan and president of the New York Symphony Orchestra, and also several others. He married, in New York City, in November, 1903, Margaret Illington. Address: 159 West 79th Street, New York City.

FROST, George Henry:

Newspaper publisher; born in West Hawkesbury, Ontario, July 9, 1838; son of Ebenezer and Caroline (Harwood) Frost; both natives of Vermont. He removed to Smith's Falls, Ontario, 1839 was educated in public school there, in private academies, Glover, Vt., one year, and McGill University, Canada, C.E., 1860, P.L.S. (Provincial Land Surveyor), 1863. He served as Civil engineer with the Chicago & Northwestern Railway, Chicago, 1863-1867; city surveying in Chicago, 1867-1874; founded Engineering News, April, 1874; removed to New York City, 1878; incorporated the business Jan. 12, 1883, and is now president of The Engineering News Publishing Company. He has been a resident of Plainfield, N. J., since 1886, and is president of the Courier News Publishing Company of Plainfield. Mr. Frost is an associate member of the American Society Civil Engineers, member of the Canadian Society of Civil Engineers, and of sundry engineering associations of the United States and Canada, the New England Historic Genealogical Society, and he is a member of the Country Club of Plainfield. He married Louisa, daughter of Edwin Hunt, hardware merchant of Chicago, and they have four children. Residence: 745 Watchung Avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Office: 220 Broadway, New York City.

FROST, William Goodell:

President of Berea College; born in Le Roy, N. Y., July 2, 1854; son of Rev. Lewis P. and Maria (Goodell) Frost. He entered the Beloit College in 1872, but completed his course at Oberlin College, where he was graduated A.B., 1876; and took post-graduate work at Harvard and Goettingen Universities; received the degree of Ph.D. from the University of Wooster in 1893, and that of D.D. from Oberlin College, 1893, and Harvard, 1907, and LL.D. from Oberlin, 1908. He was professor of Greek language and literature at Oberlin College, 1879-1892. In 1885 he was candidate for lieutenant-governor of Ohio on the Prohibition ticket and is now a member of the Republican party. Dr. Frost is chiefly known as bringing his attention to the educational needs of the Southern mountaineers, and their worth and promise, and making for them important educational adaptations in methods and courses. He has gained great prominence by his addresses in behalf of the mountain people of Kentucky. He is author of the articles on Kentucky and Appalachian America in the Encyclopedia Americana; Our Contemporary Ancestors, in the Atlantic Monthly; Southern Mountaineers, in the Review of Reviews; and Educational Pioneering, in the Outlook, and various others. He married first at Painesville, Ohio, Aug. 15, 1876, Louise Rancy (deceased); and second at Oberlin, Ohio, July 5, 1891, Ella Marsh. They have had five children. Address: Berea, Ky.

FROTHINGHAM, Arthur Lincoln:

Professor of archæology; born in Boston, June 21, 1859; son of Professor Arthur Lincoln and Jessie (Peabody) Frothingham. He received his early education in the Academy of the Christian Brothers at Rome, from 1868-1873; took special courses in Oriental languages in the Catholic Seminary of Saint Apollinaire, and at the Royal University of Rome, 1875-1880, and in Germany, 1880-1883; receiving the A.M. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Leipzig, 1883; and he was fellow in Semitic languages and lecturer in archæology in Johns Hopkins University, 1883-1885. He has been professor of archæology and the history of art in Princeton University since 1887, and also of ancient history since 1898. Professor Frothingham has written extensively on archæological and historical subjects, was editor of the American Journal of Archæology, and is a member and was formerly secretary of the American Institute of Archæology. Address: Princeton, N. J.

FROTHINGHAM, Louis Adams:

Lawyer; born in Boston, July 13, 1871; son of Thomas B. Frothingham and Anne P. (Lunt) Frothingham. After being graduated from Harvard as A.B. in 1893 he entered Harvard Law School, and was graduated as LL.B. in 1896. He has since been engaged in the practice of law in Boston. Mr. Frothingham is a Republican in politics; was speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives in 1904 and 1905 and Republican candidate for mayor of Boston in 1905, and was elected lieutenant-governor of Massachusetts in Nov., 1908. He served as second lieutenant of the United States Marine Corps in 1898. He is a Unitarian in religious belief; is a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon and Alpha Delta Phi fraternities, and of the Country, Union and Tennis and Racquet Clubs of Boston. Residence: 140 Beacon Street, Boston. Office address: Barristers' Hall, Boston, Mass.

FROTHINGHAM, Paul Revere:

Clergyman; born at Jamaica Plain, July 6, 1864; son of Thomas B. and Anne P. (Lunt) Frothingham. He was graduated from Harvard as A.B., A.M. and S.T.B. Has been minister of the Arlington Street Church (Unitarian), Boston, since 1900 and was preacher to Harvard University, 1899-1902. He is an overseer of Harvard College and trustee of the Massachusetts School for the Blind; also a member of the Country and Union Clubs. Author of: The Temple of Virtue; William Ellery Chauning. Mr. Frothingham married, June 14, 1892, Anna C. Clapp. Address: 294 Beacon Street, Boston.

FROTHINGHAM, Theodore Longfellow:

Lawyer; born in Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 10, 1863; son of James Harding and Wilhelmine E. (Victor) Frothingham. He was educated at the Brooklyn Collegiate and Polytechnic Institute from 1875 to 1880; and was graduated from Harvard University, A.B. in 1884 and from Harvard Law School, LL.B. in 1887. He was admitted to the New York bar in 1887, and ever since engaged in practice. Director in various business and financial corporations. Member of the Association Bar of the City of New York, Harvard Law School Association; trustee of the Brooklyn Hospital, Brooklyn Public Library, Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute; director of New England Society, Brooklyn; chairman of Committee on Hospitals, State Charities Aid Association. Is a member of the University, Harvard and Lawyers' Clubs of New York City, and Hamilton, Twentieth Century and Brooklyn Heights Casino Clubs of Brooklyn. He married in Brooklyn, N. Y., Dec. 2, 1901, Elizabeth F. Mason, and they have two children: Theodore Frothingham, born March 2, 1904, and Elizabeth Frothingham, born Nov. 9, 1908. Address (summer): South Yarmouth, Mass. Office address: 32 Liberty Street, New York City.

FRYE, William Pierce:

United States Senator, lawyer; born in Lewiston, Me., Sept. 2, 1831; graduated at Bowdoin College, Me., 1850; studied and practised law; was a member of the State Legislature in 1861, 1862, and 1867; was mayor of the city of Lewiston, 1866-1867; attorney-general of the State of Maine in 1867, 1868, and 1869; was elected a member of the national Republican executive committee in 1872 and reelected in 1876 and 1880; was elected a trustee of Bowdoin College in June, 1880, received the degree of LL.D. from Bates College in July, 1881, and the same degree from Bowdoin College in 1889. Mr. Frye was a Presidential elector in 1864; was a delegate to the national Republican Conventions in 1872, 1876 and 1880; was elected chairman of the Republican State Committee of Maine in place of Hon. James G. Blaine, resigned, in November, 1881; was elected a representative in the Forty-second, Forty-third, Forty-fourth, Forty-fifth, Forty-sixth, and Forty-seventh Congresses; was elected March 15, 1881, to the United States Senate to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of James G. Blaine, appointed Secretary of State, and took his seat March 18, 1881; was reelected in 1883, 1888, 1895, 1901, and 1907; was elected president pro tempore of the Senate Feb. 7, 1896, and reelected March 7, 1901; was a member of the commission which met in Paris, Sept., 1898, to adjust terms of peace between the United States and Spain. His term of service will expire March 3, 1913. Address: Lewiston, Me.

FUERTES, James Hillhouse:

Consulting engineer; born in Ponce, Porto Rico, Aug. 10, 1863; son of Estevan Antonio and Mary Stone (Perry) Fuertes. He was graduated from the College of Civil Engineering in Cornell University, 1883, and since then has been engaged in practice. He has made reports upon plans for and supervision of construction of municipal and engineering works, including the sanitation of the city and port of Santos, Brazil; water supply of Lynchburg, Va.; filtration and water supply of Harrisburg, Pa., Steelton, Pa., and the Tome Institute, Port Deposit, Md.; report of water supply of Winnipeg, Canada, Mechanicsburg, Pa., New York City, Eastport, Me.; sewerage of Lebanon, Pa., Alexandria, La., Harrisburg, Pa., Ithaca, N. Y., and other cities. Mr. Fuertes is especially distinguished as an expert on hydraulic and sanitary matters. He is a member and secretary of the Metropolitan Sewerage Commission of New York, and consulting engineer for various municipalities. He is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, the Cornell University Association of Civil Engineers, American Water Works Association, the Engineers' Club of New York City, and the Harrisburg Club of Harrisburg, Pa. Mr. Fuertes is author of: Water and Public Health, 1897; Water Filtration Works, 1901; The Waste of Water in New York, and its Reduction by Meters and Inspection, 1906, (published by the New York Merchants' Association); and he is a contributor to scientific and technical journals, and author of many printed reports on municipal improvements and public works. He married in Camden, Ark., Jan. 16, 1895, Mary Hill Cable. Address: 140 Nassau Street, New York City.

FUERTES, Louis Agassiz:

Artist, illustrator, ornithologist; born in Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 7, 1874; son of Professor Estevan Antonio and Mary (Perry) Fuertes. He was educated in public schools, Ithaca High School, and Cornell University, whence he was graduated A.B., 1897. Has made a specialty of ornithological illustration and among other books has illustrated: Birding on a Broncho; Citizen Bird; Song Birds and Water Fowl; Birdcraft; The Woodpeckers; Second Book of Birds; Birds of the Rockies; Handbook of Birds of Western North America; Coues's Key to North American Birds; plates for report of New York State Game, Forest and Fish Commission; Upland Game Birds, and companion volume, Waterfowl, The Birds of New York State, as well as other illustrations for books, scientific journals, and Government reports. Is a member of the American Ornithologists' Union. Address: Cornell Heights, Ithaca, N. Y.

FULLER, Charles E.:

Congressman and lawyer; born near Belvidere, Ill.; son of Seymour and Eliza A. (Mordorf) Fuller. He was admitted to the bar of Illinois in 1870; was city attorney of Belvidere two terms; State's attorney for Boone County one term; representative in the General Assembly of Illinois three terms; State senator two terms; circuit judge for six years; raised a regiment for the Spanish-American War in 1898, and was commissioned colonel by Governor Tanner, but the regiment was never called into the service. Mr. Fuller was elected to the Fifty-eighth Congress, and re-elected to the Fifty-ninth, Sixtieth and Sixty-first Congresses as a Republican. Address: Belvidere, Ill.

FULLER, Charles Houston:

Advertising agent; born at Rome, Pa., Oct. 17, 1843; son of Lucius and Candace (Newell) Fuller. His parents removed to Belvidere, Ill., while he was yet in his infancy, and he received his education in the public schools at that place and at Rockford and Lee Center in the same State. He was engaged in the hardware trade in Belvidere five years before removing to Chicago, in 1871, where he obtained employment in the newspaper business with the Chicago Daily Mail, and later with the Chicago Daily News, where he remained until 1880, when he established on his own account a newspaper and magazine advertising business, which became incorporated in 1888, under the name of the Charles H. Fuller Advertising Agency, of which Mr. Fuller has since been the president. Retired from advertising business June, 1908. He is a member of the Masonic order and of the Chicago Athletic, the Union League and Atlas Clubs. He married in New York State, in 1867, Alice E. Doolittle, and has one son, Lucius Chapman Fuller. Residence: 1734 Asbury Avenue, Evanston, Ill. Office: 378 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

FULLER, Edward:

Author and journalist; born in Syracuse, N. Y., June 30, 1860; son of George and Mary Griffiths Fuller. He was graduated from Harvard, A.B., 1882, and in the following year engaged in journalism, in which he has continued ever since. Mr. Fuller was general reporter, and afterward assistant to the dramatic editor and editorial writer on the Boston Advertiser, 1883-1886; editorial writer and dramatic editor of the Boston Post, 1886-1891; since then with the Providence Journal, of which he was editorial writer and literary editor, 1891-1900, and since Feb., 1908, has been chief editorial writer in charge of the editorial page. He is a member of the Pi Eta and O. K. college societies, of the University Club of Providence and the City Club of New York City. He was editor of The Dramatic Year (London and Boston, 1888); author of the novels: Fellow Travellers (London, 1886); Complaining Millions of Men (New York, 1893); and The Malcolms (Providence, 1904); also of the plays: Fetters; The Price of Silence. He married in Boston, July 3, 1885, Anne Devens Robinson. Residence: 261 Benefit Street. Office: The Journal, Providence, R. I.

FULLER, George Warren:

Sanitary engineer; born in Franklin, Mass., Dec. 21, 1868; son of George Newell and Harriet (Craig) Fuller. He was graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, S.B., 1890, and was a graduate student of the University of Berlin. He served under the Massachusetts State Board of Health at the Lawrence Experiment Station, 1890-1895, and was in charge there, 1893-1895; was in charge of tests for Louisville, Ky., and Cincinnati, Ohio, on most available method for purification of water; practising since 1899, as sanitary and hydraulic engineer in firm of Hering & Fuller. He has acted in advisory capacity in connection with filtration plants of New York City, Washington, New Orleans, Baltimore, Columbus. He is a member of the Manhattan, Engineers, and Technology Clubs of New York City. Residence: 160 Boulevard, Summit, N. J. Office: 170 Broadway, New York City.

FULLER, Melville Weston:

Chief Justice of the United States; born in Augusta, Me., Feb. 11, 1833. He was graduated from Bowdoin College in 1853; studied law, attended a course of lectures at Harvard Law School, and was admitted to the bar in 1855; formed a law partnership in Augusta, Me., and was an associate editor of a Democratic paper called The Age. In 1856 became president of the common council, and served as city solicitor; removed to Chicago in 1856, where he practised law until appointed Chief Justice; in 1862 was a member of the State constitutional convention; was a member of the State Legislature from 1863 to 1865; was a delegate to the Democratic national conventions of 1864, 1872, 1876, and 1880; the degree of LL.D. was conferred upon him by the Northwestern University and by Bowdoin College in 1888, by Harvard in 1890, and by Yale and Dartmouth in 1901. He was appointed chief justice April 30, 1888, confirmed July 20, 1888, and took the oath of office Oct. 8, same year. Residence: 1801 F Street, Washington, D. C.

FULLER, Myron Leslie:

Geologist and hydrologist; born in Brocton, Mass., April 19, 1873; son of Albert H. and Phoebe A. Fuller. He was graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, B.S., 1896, and remained on the teaching force of that Institute as assistant and afterward as instructor in geology until 1900, when he became connected with the U. S. Geological Survey as assistant geologist until 1903; organized and became chief of the Eastern Section of the Division of Hydrology in 1903, and since 1907 has been geologist on the U. S. Geological Survey. He has done much field work in connection with coal, oil, gas and artesian water problems and has made extensive researches in relation to glacial and stratigraphic geology, and has written extensively on these subjects. Mr. Fuller was reviewer for mineralogical and geological chemistry of the Technology Quarterly and the Review of American Chemical Research, 1897-1900; special agent of the Paris Exposition, 1899-1900. He received the Walker Prizes of the Boston Society of Natural History in 1897 and 1905 for geological essay. He is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science; member of the Geological Society of America, the Washington Geological Society, National Geographic Society and Seismological Society. He married in Brocton, Mass., April 26, 1897, Lillian A. Gaynor. Residence and office: 104 Belmont Avenue, Brocton, Mass.

FULLER, Williamson Whitehead:

Lawyer; born in Fayetteville, N. C., Aug. 28, 1858; son of Thomas C. and Caroline D. (Whitehead) Fuller. He was graduated from the University of Virginia, A.B., 1878; studied law at Dick and Dillard's Law School, Greensboro, N. C., 1879; was admitted to the bar in 1880, and engaged in practice. He is now general counsel of the Consolidated Tobacco Company, the American Tobacco Company, Continental Tobacco Company, and many subsidiary and affiliated corporations. Mr. Fuller is a member of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, the University of Virginia, Alumni Association in New York, North Carolina Society in New York, Southern Society, Metropolitan Museum of Art, Aldine Association, and the National Democratic, Pilgrims, and Ardsley Clubs of New York. He married in Greensboro, N. C., Feb. 19, 1880, Annie M. Staples. Residence: 1072 Fifth Avenue. Office: 111 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

FULLERTON, George Stuart:

Professor of philosophy in Columbia University; born in Fategarh, India, Aug. 18, 1859; son of Rev. Robert S. and Martha (White) Fullerton. He was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania, A.B., 1879, A.M., 1882, Yale, B.D., 1883; and he received from Muhlenberg College the honorary degrees of Ph.D., 1892, and LL.D., 1900. He was instructor in philosophy, 1883-1885, adjunct professor, 1885-1887, and professor of philosophy, 1887-1903 in the University of Pennsylvania, where he was also dean of the Department of Philosophy, 1889-1898, dean of the College, 1894-1896, and vice-provost of the University, 1894-1898. He has been professor of philosophy in Columbia University since 1904. Dr. Fullerton was part author of the Preliminary Report of the Seybert Commission on Spiritualism, 1887; and is author of: The Conception of the Infinite, 1887; A Plain Argument for God, 1889; On Sameness and Identity, 1890; The Philosophy of Spinoza, 1894; On Spinoistic Immortality, 1899; A System of Metaphysics, 1904; An Introduction to Philosophy, 1906. Dr. Fullerton is a member of the American Philosophical Association, the American Psychological Association (of which he was president in 1895), and the Phi Beta Kappa Society. Professor Fullerton married first, in Alexandria, Va., Jan. 26, 1884, Rebekah Daingerfield Smith (died May 5, 1892), and second, in Philadelphia, March 8, 1897, Julia Winslow Dickerson. Address: Columbia University, New York City.

FULTON, Charles William:

Lawyer and former U. S. Senator; born in Lima, Ohio, Aug. 24, 1853; son of Jacob and Eliza A. Fulton. In 1871 his parents moved to Pawnee City, Neb., at which place he took up the study of law. In 1873 and 1874 he taught school, and during part of the time attended an academy; in the spring of 1875 he determined to remove West, and early in that year landed in Oregon; taught school one term at Waterloo, Linn County; settled in June, 1875, in Astoria, which has since been his home. In 1877 he formed a law partnership with J. W. Robb, and through him became interested in politics as a Republican, being elected to the State Senate in 1878. In the early eighties he was elected city attorney, and in 1888 was a Presidential elector, carrying to Washington the vote of Oregon and casting it for President Harrison. He was elected to the State Senate in 1890, 1898 and 1902, and was president at the sessions of 1893 and 1901, and was elected to the U. S. Senate, Feb. 28, 1903, to succeed Joseph Simon, for the term beginning March 4, 1903. His term of service expired March 3, 1909. Senator Fulton married, Sept. 5, 1878, Miss Ida Hobson and they have one son. Address: Astoria, Ore.

FULTON, Robert Burwell:

Chancellor of the University of Mississippi, 1892-1906, and president of the Miller School (technical), Albemarle County, Va., since 1906; born in Sumpter County, Ala., April 8, 1849; son of William and Elizabeth K. Fulton. He was educated in private schools to 1866; University of Mississippi, A.B., 1869; A.M., 1873; and received the LL.D. degree from the University of Nashville, 1893. South Carolina College, 1905, and University of Alabama, 1906. He taught in high schools in Alabama, 1869-1870, in New Orleans, 1870-1871; was assistant professor in the University of Mississippi, 1871; adjunct professor of physics, 1872; professor of physics and astronomy, 1875-1906. He is a fellow (by election) of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, since 1888, was president of the Department of Higher Education in the National Educational Association, 1898; president Southern Educational Association, 1899; president National Association of State Universities, 1896-1902; contributor to Britannica, ninth edition and supplement Encyclopædia, and is author of various papers on educational and scientific subjects. Chancellor Fulton is a member of the Chi Psi Club. He married, first, in 1871, Ammie Rose Garland, who died in 1893, and second, in 1903, Florence Thompson. Address: Miller School, Virginia.

FUNK, Isaac Kaufman:

Author, publisher, clergyman; born at Clifton, Ohio, Sept. 10, 1839. He was graduated from Wittenberg College with the degree of B.D. in 1860 (LL.D. 1896). He filled various pastorates from 1867 to 1872, the last being St. Matthew's English Lutheran Church in Brooklyn. He is editor-in-chief of the various periodicals of the Funk and Wagnalls Company; editor-in-chief of the Standard Dictionary; chairman of the editorial board that produced the Jewish Encyclopedia; founder-editor of the Metropolitan Pulpit (now the Homiletic Review), 1876; in connection with his house, founded the Voice, 1880; the Missionary Review, 1888; the Literary Digest, 1889; and in 1906 established The Circle, and has published numerous works of reference. In 1878 he entered into partnership with A. W. Wagnalls, merging, in 1890, into the Funk and Wagnalls Company, of which he is president. Dr. Funk is editor of: Tarry Thou Till I Come, with introduction, 1901, and author of: The Next Step in Evolution, 1902; The Widow's Mite and Other Psychic Phenomena, 1904; The Psychic Riddle, 1907. He is treasurer of the Prohibition Park Company, Staten Island; member of the Simplified Spelling Board (on Executive Committee); a member of the National Geographical Society; of the Aldine Club, and of the Brooklyn Clerical Union. Residence: 22 Upper Mountain Avenue, Montclair, N. J. Address: 44-60 East 23d Street, New York City.

FUNKHOUSER, Abram Paul:

President of Lebanon Valley College; born at Dayton, Va., Dec. 10, 1853; son of Samuel and Elizabeth (Paul) Funkhouser. He was educated in various schools and entered the ministry of the United Brethren Church; founded the Shenandoah Institute at Dayton, Va., in 1876, and from 1876 to 1881 was pastor and presiding elder of the Virginia United Brethren Conference. He took the scientific course at Otterbein University and was graduated as B.S. in 1882, and received the A.M. degree from Otterbein and the D.D. degree from York College, Neb., in 1907. He became superintendent of schools of Rockingham County, Va., until 1886, when he resigned to give his time entirely to the editing of the State Republican of Harrisonburg, Va., which he had been publishing for three years and continued to publish until 1898. He was superintendent of the Shenandoah Valley Chautauqua, 1892-1905; president of the Western College of Toledo, Ohio, 1893-1894; associate editor of the Religious Telescope, Dayton, Ohio, 1897-1898; postmaster at Harrisonburg, Va., 1898-1906; and since then has been president and trustee of Lebanon Valley College, Annville, Pa. He is also trustee of the Shenandoah Institute in Dayton, Va. Mr. Funkhouser is a member of the Republican State Committee and has been delegate to the National Conventions of 1888 and 1900. He was a delegate in the General Conferences of the United Brethren in Christ in 1889, 1893, 1897, 1901 and 1905, and represented his church in the Tri-church Council of Congregational, United Brethren, and Methodist Protestant Churches in 1906 and 1907. He married at Westerville, Ohio, June 23, 1880, Minnie King, and has four children. Address: Annville, Pa.

FUNSTEN, James Bowen:

Protestant Episcopal bishop; born in Clark County, Va., 1856; son of Col. Oliver Ridgeway and Mary (Bowen) Funsten. He was graduated from the Virginia Military Institute, 1875, from the University of Virginia, B.L., 1878, and from the Virginia Theological Seminary, 1882; and he received the D.D. degree from the University of the South, 1902. He was ordered deacon, 1882, and ordained priest, 1883, in the Episcopal Church by Bishop Peterkin. He was connected as deacon and priest, during the years 1882-1884, with churches at Marion, Va., and Bristol, Tenn.; as eight years rector of Christ's Church, Richmond, Va., and in 1890 became general missionary of Virginia. In 1892 he was called to the rectorship of Trinity Church, Portsmouth, Va., remaining there until 1899, when he was made bishop of Boise. In 1907 he became bishop of Idaho and on the declination of the bishop-elect for Wyoming was also placed in charge of that diocese. He was consecrated by Bishops Whittle, Randolph, Talbot, Cheshire, Penick, Peterkin, Poret and Gibson. He is author of several tracts and numerous other publications. Address: Boise City, Idaho.

FUNSTON, Frederick:

Brigadier-general, U. S. Army; born in New Carlisle, Ohio, Nov. 9, 1865; son of Edward H. and Ann Eliza (Mitchell) Funston, who moved to Kansas in 1867. He lived on a farm during boyhood, attending the district school, was a teacher, 1883-1884, and was graduated from Iola (Kan.) High School, 1886; entered the University of Kansas in 1886 and remained there until 1890, except one year and a half in the employ of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway and as a newspaper reporter in Kansas City. In 1890, after leaving the University, he was appointed special agent of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, in which capacity he did work in North Dakota, and was assistant botanist of the Death Valley Expedition of 1891. He spent the years 1892, 1893 and 1894 in Alaska crossing the Territory from the South Coast to the Arctic Ocean and from the British Boundary to the Bering Sea; returned to San Francisco in Oct., 1894, and left the service of the Department of Agriculture. He traveled in Southern Mexico in 1895, and in 1896 went to Cuba on a filibustering expedition and served for nearly two years in the Cuban Insurgent Army under Generals Maximo Gomez and Calixto Garcia, as captain, major and lieutenant-colonel; returned to the United States in Jan., 1898, and at the beginning of the Spanish-American War was appointed colonel of the 20th Kansas Volunteer Infantry, and sailed with that regiment for the Philippine Islands, Oct. 27, 1898, participating in all the battles of the Second Division of the Eighth Army Corps from the beginning of the insurrection until July, 1899; promoted brigadier-general U. S. Volunteers, May 1, 1899; wounded in action at Santo Tomas, May 4, 1899; granted Congressional Medal of Honor for distinguished gallantry in action in the engagement at Calumpit, April 27, 1899, crossing the Rio Grande de la Pampanza with small detachment, and turning the enemy out of his trenches. General Funston returned to the United States for a few weeks, but was ordered back to the Philippine Islands, and during 1900 and 1901 commanded the Fourth District, Department of Northern Luzon, participating during this time in many engagements and expeditions. He organized and led the expedition which captured Aguinaldo, and was, on April 1, 1901, appointed brigadier-general U. S. Army. He returned to the United States in Jan., 1902, and since that time has commanded various departments in the United States. Address: War Department, Washington, D. C.

FUREY, John Vincent:

Brigadier-general, U. S. A., retired; born in Brooklyn, N. Y., May 22, 1839; son of Robert and Mary Furey. He was educated in the schools of Brooklyn, N. Y., and enlisted in the Volunteer service during the Civil War as private of the 14th N. Y. State Militia and 84th U. S. Volunteer Infantry, in April, 1861. He participated in the battles of Bull Run, the Peninsular Campaign of 1862, and battle of Antietam. Took a civil appointment in quartermaster's department, and served as such, 1862-1864; was appointed captain assistant quartermaster, U. S. Volunteers, 1864; vacated his commission, March, 1867; was brevetted major U. S. Volunteers in March, 1865; appointed captain assistant quartermaster, U. S. A., 1867; major and quartermaster, Nov. 11, 1887; lieutenant-colonel, deputy quartermaster-general, Aug. 21, 1896; colonel assistant quartermaster-general, Aug. 21, 1896; colonel assistant quartermaster-general, Aug. 12, 1900; brigadier-general U. S. A., Feb. 25, 1903, retired Feb. 26, 1903. He served under Generals Terry Hancock, Ruger, Merritt and Brooke in the Department of Dakota, with General George Crook in Arizona, 1872-1874, and in the Northwest in the field as chief quartermaster Big Horn and Yellowstone Expedition, 1876-1877; as depot quartermaster at Omaha, Neb., 1877-1883, chief quartermaster at Santa Fe, N. M., 1883-1884, disbursing quartermaster at Chicago, 1884-1886, Philadelphia Depot, 1886-1890, chief quartermaster Department of Dakota, 1891-1896; depot quartermaster Philadelphia, 1896-1903. Residence: 10 Eighth Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

FURNESS, Horace Howard:

Author; born in Philadelphia, Nov. 2, 1833; son of Rev. William Henry Furness and Annis P. (Jenke) Furness. He was graduated from Harvard as A.B., in 1854, A.M., 1858; Ph.D., University of Halle-Wittenberg, 1878; LL.D., University of Pennsylvania, 1879. Harvard, 1894, Yale, 1901; LL.D., Columbia University, 1887; Litt.D., University of Cambridge, England, 1899. He was admitted to the bar in 1859, and engaged in practice in Philadelphia; became deeply interested in Shakespeare, and began to work on his now famous Variorum Edition of Shakespeare, of which the first published volume was Romeo and Juliet in 1871, and other plays have appeared at intervals since then. During the past seven years his son, Horace Howard Furness, Jr., has been associated with him. Dr. Furness has been a trustee of the University of Pennsylvania and is a member of the American Philosophical Society and the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, and of the Academy of Arts and Letters. He married Helen Kate Rogers, who died Oct. 30, 1883. Residence: Wallingford, Pa.

FYLES, Franklin:

Author and journalist; born in Troy, N. Y., 1847; son of Frederick and Mary J. (Jones) Fyles. He was educated in the public schools of Troy, N. Y., afterward engaging in newspaper work in New York City, and he was dramatic editor of the New York Sun, 1885-1903. Author of numerous dramas, etc., including: Cumberland '61; The Girl I Left Behind Me; The Governor of Kentucky; The Theater and Its People; A Ward of France; Drusa Wayne. Mr. Fyles married in New York City, 1871, Sarah E. Oliver, and they have two children: Vanderheyden and Florence Tyler. Address: 114 West 94th Street, New York City.

G

GABRIELS, Henry:

Catholic bishop of Ogdensburg, N. Y.; born in Wannegem, Belgium, Oct. 6, 1838; son of Leopold and Rosalie (Moerman) Gabriels. He was educated in the church schools of Belgium; was graduated from Louvain (Belgium) S.T.L., 1864; D.D., 1882. He became professor of theology in St. Joseph's Seminary, New York, 1864-1892, and was its president from 1871, until consecrated bishop in 1892. Bishop Gabriels is author of a Book on Rubrics, and of a translation of Rudiments of Hebrew and a Historical Sketch of St. Joseph's Seminary, Troy, N. Y. Address: Ogdensburg, N. Y.

GAEHR, Paul Frederick:

Instructor in physics; born in Thun, Switzerland, May 15, 1880; son of Gottlieb and Jacobea (Zurbrugg) Gaeher. He was graduated from Oberlin (Ohio) Academy in 1898, then entered Cornell University, from which he was graduated A.B., 1902, A.M., 1905. Mr. Gaeher was instructor at the Cascadilla Preparatory School, Ithaca, N. Y., from 1899-1901; assistant in physics at Cornell University, 1901-1903, instructor in physics, 1903-1908; and has been head professor of mathematics at Robert College, Constantinople, Turkey, since 1908. He is a member of the American Physical Society, member of the American Mathematical Association, American Association for the Advancement of Science, and Sigma Xi. Mr. Gahr has made researches in photometry, with principal reference to the study of instruments and standards and on the fitting of empirical equations to curves plotted from experimental data. Permanent address: Ithaca, N. Y. Temporary address: Robert College, Constantinople, Turkey.

GAFFNEY, Thomas St. John:

United States consul-general; born in Limerick, Ireland, May 17, 1864; son of Alderman Thomas Gaffney, J. P. and Agnes Mary (Clune) Gaffney. He was educated at Clongowes Wood College and the Royal University of Ireland. He became active in all the patriotic efforts of his time in support of Irish nationality, and was especially identified with the movement under the leadership of the late Charles Stewart Parnell. In 1882 he came to the United States and studied for the New York Bar, to which he was admitted and, subsequently, became a strong advocate of the principles of the Republican party. He was secretary of the McKinley League of the State of New York in the campaign of 1896. He has been a frequent contributor to magazines and newspapers on national and international subjects. He has been an extensive traveler in European countries and was decorated with the Cross of the Legion of Honor by President Loubet in 1902, and the King of the Belgians made him an officer of the Order of Leopold the Second in February, 1906. In 1907 he was presented to the German Kaiser. Mr. Gaffney was nominated consul-general to Dresden, Saxony, by President Roosevelt immediately after his election. Mr. Gaffney is a member of the American Irish Historical Society, the Knights of Columbus, the Republican Club of New York, the Gaelic Society, and the Irish Texts Societty of London; and he is also a member of the Royal Saxon Automobile Club, the Dresden Golf Club, the German Touring Club of Munich, and the Touring Club of France. Address: Dresden, Saxony.

GAGE, Lyman Judson:

Former secretary of the Treasury; born in DeRuyter, N. Y., June 28, 1836; son of Eli A. and Mary (Judson) Gage. He was educated in the Academy at Rome, N. Y., then became at 14, an employe of the Rome post-office, and later mail agent on the Rome & Watertown Railroad, and eighteen months in the Oneida Central Bank at Rome, N. Y. He went to Chicago at the age of 19, became bookkeeper for a lumber yard and planing mill for three years, and in August, 1858, became bookkeeper with The Merchants' Savings, Loan and Trust Company, of which he later became paying teller, then assistant cashier, and from 1860 to 1868 cashier. In the latter year he became cashier of the First National Bank of Chicago, in which he gained a high reputation as a banker, and in 1882, when the bank secured a new charter and was reorganized, Mr. Gage was elected vice-president of the bank. He became president of the bank in 1891, and held that office until appointed, in 1897, secretary of the Treasury in the Cabinet of President McKinley. He resigned that office in 1902 and became president of the United States Trust Company in New York City, from which he resigned in 1906. Since then he has made his home in California. Mr. Gage was elected president of the American Bankers' Association in 1892, and was twice reelected. He was the first president of the Board of Directors of the World's Columbian Exposition, twice president of the Civic Federation of Chicago, was first president of the Chicago Bankers' Club, and is a trustee of the Carnegie Institution in Washington, D. C. He has received the LL.D. degree from Beloit College, 1897, and New York University, 1903 in Washington, D. C. Mr. Gage has been twice married, first, in 1864, Sarah Etheridge of Hastings, Minn., who died in 1874; and second, June 7, 1887, Mrs. Cornelia Washburn Gage, of Denver, Colo. Address: Point Loma, Calif.

GAGE, Simon Henry:

Histologist, embryologist and educator; born in Otsego County, N. Y., May 20, 1851; son of Henry Van Tassel and Lucy Ann (Grover) Gage. He was graduated from Cornell, B.S., 1877; was assistant and instructor in vertebrate Zoology, 1878-1881, assistant professor 1881-1889, associate professor 1889-1896, and professor of histology and embryology, 1896-1908, in Cornell University. In June, 1908, he was retired from teaching at own request for purpose of research, was granted a Carnegie allowance for twenty-five years' service and made professor of histology and embryology, emeritus, by Cornell University. He is co-editor of the American Journal of Anatomy; and was chairman of the Section of Embryology of the International Congress of Arts and Sciences, St. Louis, 1904. Professor Gage is author of: The Microscope; Origin and Use of the Projection Microscope; Anatomical Technology (with Professor Burt G. Wilder); also a contributor to scientific journals on comparative histology and embryology. He is a fellow and was vice-president, 1885-1892 and 1899, of the American Association for the Advancement of Science; member of the Advisory Board of the Wistar Institute for Anatomy and Biology of Philadelphia; member of the American Society of Naturalists, American Society of Zoologists, Association of American Anatomists, American Microscopical Society (president, 1895-1906), Washington Academy of Sciences, New York State Science Teachers' Association (president 1896); associate member of the American Medical Association, honorary member of the New York State Veterinary Medical Association; Member of the Delta Upsilon and honorary member of the Omega Upsilon Phi fraternities. He married in Morrisville, N. Y., Dec. 15, 1881, Susanna Stewart Phelps, and has a son. Address: 4 South Avenue, Ithaca, N. Y.

GAGE-DAY, Mary:

Physician; born in Worcester, N. Y.; daughter of Henry van Tassel Gage and Lucy Ann (Grover) Gage. She was educated in the village school of her native place and in Charlotteville, and one year special work at Cornell University was graduated from the University of Michigan, M.D., 1888, and afterward took a post-graduate course in the New York Post-Graduate Medical School and Hospital. Dr. Gage-Day was, after graduation, resident physician of the Home for Dependent Children at Coldwater, Mich.; practised six years at Wichita, Kan., and has practised at Kingston, N. Y. since 1897. She is attending gynecologist and secretary of the Benedictine Sanitarium and Hospital staff of the Ulster County Committee for the Prevention of Tuberculosis; secretary of Ulster County Medical Society; medical gynecologist of the City of Kingston Hospital. Dr. Gage-Day is an occasional contributor to medical journals, the most important being on "The Toxicity of the Loco weed." She is a member of the American Medical Association, Medical Society of the State of New York, Woman's Medical Society of the State of New York, the National Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, American Association for the Advancement of Science, Kingston Library Association, Woman's Auxilliary of the Benedictine Sanitarium; permanent member of the Alumni Association of the University of Michigan; member of the Woman's Federation of Clubs of Kingston and the Twalfskill Club. She is a member of St. John's Episcopal Church. Address: Kingston, N. Y.

GAILOR, Thomas Frank:

Bishop of Tennessee; born at Jackson, Miss., Sept. 17, 1856; son of Frank M. and Charlotte (Moffett) Gailor. He was graduated from Racine (Wis.) College, B.A., (Greek prize), 1876, M.A., 1879, General Theological Seminary New York City, (Greek prize), S.T.B., 1879, S.T.D., 1893; and he has received the D.D. degree from Trinity College, Hartford, 1892, University of the South, 1893; S.T.D. Columbia University, 1890. He took orders as deacon of the Episcopal Church, 1879, and was ordained priest in 1880 by Bishop Quintard; was connected with the Church of the Messiah, of Pulaski, Tenn., 1879-1882, and following that became chaplain and professor of ecclesiastical history, in the University of the South. In 1890 he became vice-chancellor and after three years was elected and consecrated bishop coadjutor of Tennessee. He was made bishop of Tennessee in 1893. Bishop Gailor is author of: Manual of Devotion; Sermons; The Puritan Reaction, 1889; The Apostolic Succession, 1890; The Divine Event of All Time, 1892; Things New and Old, 1895; The Master's Word and Church's Act, 1895; The Trust of the Episcopate, 1896. Address: Memphis, Tenn.

GAINES, Joseph Holt:

Lawyer and member of Congress; born in the District of Columbia, Sept. 3, 1864; son of Theophilus and Ariadne (Stockton) Gaines. He was taken by his parents to Fayette County, W. Va., in 1867; was educated at the University of West Virginia and Princeton, A.B. from the latter institution in 1886; and was admitted to the bar in Fayette, W. Va. in 1887. He was appointed U. S. district attorney for West Virginia by President McKinley, in 1897, and resigned in 1901. Mr. Gaines was elected to the Fifty-seventh, Fifty-eighth, Fifty-ninth and Sixtieth Congresses, and reelected in 1908 to the Sixty-first Congress from the Third West Virginia District, as a Republican. He married in Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 23, 1898, Marjorie Lewis Gentry. Address: Charleston, W. Va.

GALBRAITH, Anna Mary:

Physician and author; born in Carlisle, Pa.; daughter of Thompson Moore and Elizabeth (Woods) Galbraith, and great-granddaughter of John Moore, of the Revolutionary Army. She was educated in public schools in Pennsylvania, in Vassar College, 1875-1879, and the Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania, M.D., 1884, followed by two years of post graduate work in Vienna and Munich, and she was the first woman to be admitted as resident physician in the Woman's Hospital of Munich. Dr. Galbraith was clinician and assistant on the gynecological staff of the Woman's Hospital of Philadelphia, 1886-1889, and since 1889 has practised medicine in New York City.

She was attending clinician and instructor in clinical medicine in the New York Infirmary, 1889-1903, and attending physician in the Neurological Department of the New York Orthopaedic Hospital and Dispensary, 1889-1908, having been the first woman physician to receive an appointment on the staff of that hospital. Dr. Galbraith is author of Hygiene and Physical Culture for Woman, 1895; The Four Epochs of Woman's Life, 1901; and many contributions to the medical and general press. Dr. Galbraith was one of the founders and is a member of the New York branch of the Vassar Students' Aid Society, and was its president, 1892-1893; is a member and was president 1897-1899 of the Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania; member of the New York County Medical Society, New York State Medical Association and American Medical Association, and fellow of the New York Academy of Medicine. Address: 15 West 91st Street, New York City.

GALLAGHER, Nicholas Aloysius:

Catholic bishop of Galveston; born in Temperanceville, Ohio, Feb. 19, 1846. He received his education in Mount St. Mary's Seminary, from which he was graduated in 1868, and on Christmas Day of the same year was ordained to the priesthood. After serving as assistant priest of St. Patrick's Church, in Columbus, Ohio, he became president of St. Aloysius Seminary in Columbus in 1871, and after five years there returned to St. Patrick's Church as its pastor, 1876-1878. He was administrator of the Diocese of Columbus, 1878-1880; pastor of St. Patrick's and vicar-general of the Diocese of Columbus, 1880-1882. He was appointed bishop of Canopus and administrator of the Diocese of Galveston, Texas, Jan. 10, 1882, was consecrated to the episcopal office April 30, 1882, and became bishop of Galveston, Dec. 16, 1892. Address: St. Mary's Cathedral, Galveston, Texas.

GALLAUDET, Edward Miner:

President of Gallaudet College for the Deaf; born in Hartford, Conn., Feb. 5, 1837; son of Thomas Hopkins Gallaudet.

He was graduated from Trinity College, B.S., 1856 and received the degree of LL.D. from Trinity, 1869 and from Yale, 1895. and Ph.D. from Columbian (now George Washington) University in 1869. He taught in his father's institution for the Deaf at Hartford, 1856-1857, and then organized the Columbia Institution for Deaf and Blind at Washington, of which Gallaudet College, founded in 1864 is a department; and he is professor of moral and political science in that college. Dr. Gallaudet is president of the Convention of American Instructors of the Deaf, and appeared by invitation before the Royal Commission (British) in 1886, in the interest of the deaf-mute education. He is author of: Popular Manual of International Law, and of Life of Thomas Hopkins Gallaudet. Address: Kendall Green, Washington, D. C.

GALLINGER, Jacob:

United States Senator; born on a farm in Cornwall, Ontario, March, 28, 1837; son of Jacob and Catherine (Cook) Gallinger. He was a printer in early life; studied medicine and was graduated with honors in 1858, and followed the profession of medicine and surgery in the city of his present residence from April, 1862, until he entered Congress. He was a member of the House of Representatives of New Hampshire, 1872-1873 and 1891; member of the State Constitutional Convention, 1876; of the State Senate in 1878, 1879, and 1880, being president of that body the last two years; was surgeon-general of New Hampshire with the rank of brigadier-general in 1879-1880; received the honorary degree of A.M. from Dartmouth College in 1885; and is a trustee of George Washington University, Washington, D. C. He was chairman of the Republican State Committee of New Hampshire, 1882-1890, when he resigned the place, but was again elected to the position in 1898, reelected in 1900, 1902, 1904, and 1906; was chairman of the delegation from his State to the Republican National Convention of 1888, and made a speech seconding the nomination of Benjamin Harrison. He was also chairman of the New Hampshire delegation to the Republican National Conventions of 1900, 1904 and 1908; was for a time a member of the National Republican Committee; was chairman of the Merchant Marine Commission of 1904-1905, composed of five senators and five representatives in Congress, and is vice-chairman of the National Waterways Commission, composed of seven senators and five representatives in Congress. He was elected to the Forty-ninth and Fiftieth Congresses, and declined nomination to the Fifty-first Congress; was elected United States senator to succeed Henry W. Blair, for the term beginning March 4, 1891; and was reelected in 1897 by a unanimous vote of the Republican members of the Legislature and the votes of five Democratic members; was again unanimously reelected in 1903 (the first time in the history of the State that anyone had been elected United States senator for three full terms); and was again reelected in 1909 for the term which will expire March 3, 1915. He married in 1860, Mary Anna Bailey, of Salisbury, N. H., who died in Washington, D. C., Feb. 2, 1907. Address: Concord, N. H.

GALLUP, Asa Oran:

Lawyer, estate manager; born in Alexandria, Va., Sept. 24, 1865; son of Asa and Welthy P. (Palmer) Gallup. He was graduated from Yale, B.A. with special honors in English, 1888; New York Law School, LL.B., 1903. He was engaged as a tutor in Evansville, Ind., 1888-1889; examiner in science, New York State University (Albany-Regent's office), 1889-1890; report clerk of the University of the State of New York, 1890-1891; chief clerk, 1892-1895; deputy secretary, 1893-1895; regent's special commissioner for greater New York, 1895; president and treasurer of the New York preparatory school system; lecturer on English and political and elementary science, 1895-1904. He was admitted to the New York bar in October, 1903, and was manager of the sales department of the American Real Estate Company, 1902-1904; general manager of the Belle-Terre estate and Belle-Terre Club, Port Jefferson, Long Island, 1906-1907, and has been secretary, treasurer and general manager of the Lake Placid Club since 1900. He was elected the Republican Presidential (Taft) elector, 1908 for the 26th Congressional District of New York, vice-president Bank of Lake Placid. Mr. Gallup married at Oneida, N. Y., June 29, 1889, Almira Dewey, and has two children. Address: Lake Placid Club, Essex County, N. Y.

GALLOWAY, Beverley Thomas:

Chief of the Bureau of Plant Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture; born in Millersburg, Mo., Oct. 16, 1863. He was graduated from the University of Missouri, B.S., 1884, and received from that university the degree of LL.D., 1902. He was assistant in horticulture in the University, 1884-1887; assistant pathologist of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, 1887-1888; pathologist and chief of the Division of Vegetable Pathology and Physiology, 1888-1901; since then chief of the Bureau of Plant Industry. Dr. Galloway is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and was secretary of Section G, 1893 and 1895; is a member of the Botanical Society of America, and of the Society for Plant Morphology and Physiology. He is author of numerous papers on botany, plant physiology and pathology to scientific journals and proceedings, and to the publications of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Residence: Takoma Park, D. C. Office: U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

GAMBLE, James:

Contractor; born in Ballincollig, Ireland. June 22, 1835; son of John and Eleanor (Parfit) Gamble. He was educated in a private school and in Christ's Hospital, London, England, familiarly known as the Blue Coat School. Mr. Gamble is president of the Hames Gamble Contract Company, Public Utilities Company, Patent Purchase Company, Goshen (New York), Illuminating Company, and American Cheekogram Company, and treasurer of the Clarendon Syndicate. His recreation is pedestrianism. He married in London in October, 1862, Emily Bishop, who died in May, 1892. One child survives, Eleanor Emily. Residence: 204 Columbia Heights, Brooklyn. Address: 15 William Street, New York City.

GAMBLE, Robert Jackson:

United States senator and lawyer; born in Akron, N. Y., Feb. 7, 1851; son of Robert and Jennie A. (Abernathy) Gamble. He removed to Fox Lake, Wis., in 1862; was graduated from Lawrence University, Appleton, Wis., A.B., 1874; and received the degree of LL.D. from that institution in June 1909. He located at Yankton in 1875, where he has since been engaged in the practice of law; was district attorney for the Second Judicial District of the Territory in 1880; city attorney of Yankton for two terms; State senator in 1885; was elected as a Republican to the Fifty-fourth and Fifty-sixth Congresses, and elected to the United States Senate, Jan. 23, 1901; and reelected Jan. 23, 1907, for the term expiring March 3, 1913. He is a member of the Cosmos Club of Washington, D. C. He married, March 26, 1884, Carrie S. Osborne. They have one son, Ralph A., who is a graduate of Princeton University, of the class of 1909. Address: Yankton, S. Dak.

GANNETT, Henry:

Geographer of the United States Geological Survey; born in Bath, Me., Aug. 24, 1846; son of M. F. and Hannah T. Gannett. He was graduated from the Lawrence Scientific School of Harvard University, B.S., 1869, M.E., from Hooper Mining School, 1870, and he received the degree of LL.D. from Bowdoin College in 1899. He was assistant in Harvard College Observatory, 1870-1872; topographer of the Hayden Survey, 1872-1879, and has been geographer of the U. S. Geological Survey since 1882. Dr. Gannett was geographer of the Tenth, Eleventh and Twelfth Censuses, and was detailed as assistant director of the census of the Philippine Islands. He is chairman of the U. S. Board on Geographic Names; was secretary of the Eighth International Geographic Congress; is a member of the American Geographical Society and associate editor of its Bulletin; member of the National Geographic Society, Geological Society of America, and the Royal Scottish Geographical Society. Mr. Gannett is author of: Manual of Topographic Surveying; Statistical Atlases of the Tenth and Eleventh Censuses; Commercial Geography; Dictionary of Altitudes; Building of a Nation; The United States; Stanford Compendium of Geography; Census of Cuba (part author); Census of Porto Rico (part author); Census of the Philippine Islands; Gazeteers of Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey, Kansas, Texas, Utah, Virginia, West Virginia, District of Columbia, Maryland, and Indian Territory; Magnetic Declination in the United States; also reports on forest conditions in the United States. He was a contributor on geographical topographical and statistical subjects to the Encyclopædia Britannica, Johnson's Universal Cyclopedia and the New International Encyclopædia, and other publications. Dr. Gannett is a member of the Cosmos Club of Washington. He married in Waterville, Me., Nov. 24, 1874, Mary E. Chase. Residence: 1829 Phelps Place, N. W. Office: U. S. Geological Survey, Washington, D. C.

GANNON, Frank S.:

Railway official; born in Spring Valley, N. Y., Sept. 16, 1851; son of John and Mary (Clancy) Gannon. He was educated in the public schools of Port Jervis, N. Y. He was a telegraph operator on the Erie Railway, 1868-1870; clerk, terminal agent and train dispatcher with the New Jersey Midland Railway, 1870-1875; train dispatcher, 1875 and later master of transportation until 1881, Long Island Railroad; supervisor of trains Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, 1881; general superintendent of the New York City and Northern Railroad, 1881-1886; general superintendent, 1886-1894; and general manager, 1894-1896, Staten Island Rapid Transit Railroad; president of the Staten Island Railway, 1893-1896; general superintendent of the New York Division of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, 1890-1896; third vice-president and general manager of the Southern Railway 1896-1903; vice-president and director New York City Railway, 1903-1906; director of the Broadway and Seventh Avenue Railroad, Forty-second Street and Grand Street Ferry Railroad, Fulton Street Railroad, Metropolitan Securities Company, Thirty-fourth Street Cross-town Railway, Twenty-third Street Railway, president and director of the Norfolk and Southern Railway Company, vice-president and director of J. L. Roper Lumber Company of Norfolk, Va., president and director of the Montana, Wyoming & Southern R. R. Co. Mr. Gannon is also a trustee of the Emigrants' Industrial Savings Bank, New York, and president of the Catholic Club of New York. He married in Jersey City, Sept. 24, 1874, Marietta Burrows. Address: 2 Rector Street, New York City.

GANONG, William Francis:

Professor of botany; born in St. John, N. B., Feb. 19, 1864; son of James Harvey and Susan Elizabeth (Brittain) Ganong. He was graduated from the University of New Brunswick, A.B., 1884; Harvard University, A.B., 1887; and from the University of Munich, Germany, Ph.D., 1894. He was assistant and instructor in botany in Harvard University, 1887-1903, and has been professor of botany in Smith College, Northampton, Mass., since 1904. Mr. Ganong is author of books and papers on botany (especially upon plant morphology and ecology), and upon natural history, etc., of the Province of New Brunswick. He is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science; member of the Botanical Society of America; corresponding member of the Royal Society of Canada, and of other scientific societies. He married in Boston, April 4, 1888, Jean Murray Carman. Residence: 11 Massasoit Street. Office: Smith College, Northampton, Mass.

GANSE, Franklin W.:

Life insurance underwriter; born in New York City, May 31, 1859; son of Rev. Hervey D. and Emma E. (Wile) Ganse. He was educated in New York public schools, St. Louis (Mo.) High School and the St. Louis Law School. He practised law in Chicago, 1888-1903, then became Chicago manager and later supervisor for the Central Department of The Columbian National Life Insurance Company, and was elected vice-president and director of agencies of the same company in 1905, when he removed to Boston. Mr. Ganse is a member of the Life Underwriters' Associations of Boston and Chicago, a director of the Newton Young Men's Christian Association and a member of the Brae Burn Country Club of West Newton, the Hamilton and Union League Clubs of Chicago and the Phi Delta Phi fraternity. He has done much campaign speaking for the Republican party, but has never been a candidate for office. He married in Chicago, April 22, 1891, Helen Seymour Woodbridge and they have four daughters: Elizabeth, Helen W., Mary F. and Katharine V. Residence: 90 Waban Park, Newton, Mass. Office: 176 Federal Street, Boston.

GARDAM, William:

Clergyman; born in Clitheroe, England Oct. 18, 1851; son of James Briggs and Ellen (Hothersall) Gardam. He was educated in the schools of his native town. Headingly College, England, 1872-1875. Lincoln Theological College, 1875-1877, London University, 1875, and received the degree of B.D. from Seabury College, Minn., 1895. He was ordained priest in Lincoln Cathedral, England, by Bishop Wordsworth; was minister for two years in Bourne Abbey Church, Lincolnshire, England, and has labored in the United States from 1880. He was dean of the Cathedral of Our Merciful Saviour, at Farribault, Minn., 1887-1896. Mr. Gardam is a member of the Standing Committee of the Diocese of Michigan, and examining chaplain. Since 1896 he has been rector of St. Luke's, at Ypsilanti, Mich. He is secretary of the standing committee and a deputy to the General Convention. He is a contributor to various magazines including the Church Eclectic of New York, and was for some time editorial writer on the New York Churchman and writer of many biographical and other sketches. He has traveled extensively in Europe and America. Mr. Graham married at Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 27, 1881, Mary Chase, great-granddaughter of Rt. Rev. Philander Chase, First Bishop of Ohio and Illinois. Address: Ypsilanti, Mich.

GARDENER, Cornelius:

Colonel of U. S. Army; born in the Netherlands, Sept. 4, 1849; son of Rev. Wynand and Barendina (Visser) Gardener. He was graduated from Hope College, Holland, Mich., as A.B., then entered the United States Military Academy, from which he was graduated in 1873, and commissioned second lieutenant U. S. Army, and passed through all intermediate grades of the Regular Army until commissioned colonel of the 16th Infantry Regiment, Dec. 26, 1905. He served in Indian wars on the Plains, 1874-1881; commanded the 31st Michigan Volunteers during the war with Spain, at Chicamanga and in Cuba, 1898, commanded the 30th U. S. Volunteer Regiment in the Philippine Islands, 1899-1900, in the Philippine insurrection, and was governor of the Province of Tabayas, Philippine Islands, 1901-1902. Colonel Gardener is a member of the Order of Indian Wars, the National Geographic Society, the Wittenagemote, Yondegata and Detroit Clubs of Detroit, and the Omaha Club of Omaha. Colonel Gardner has been twice married, and was married to his present wife who was Miss Bessie Ratton, in Manila, P. I., in 1901. He has two sons and three daughters. Address: Fort Crook, Neb.

GARDINER, Asa Bird:

Lawyer and lieutenant-colonel, U. S. Army, retired; born in New York City, Sept. 30, 1839; son of Asa and Rebekah Willard Bentley Gardiner. He was graduated from the College of the City of New York, A.B., 1859, A.M., 1862, Dartmouth College, A.M., 1864; Columbia University, A.M., 1869, and received the degree of LL.D. from New York University, 1875, and L.H.D. from Hobart College, 1896. He entered the U. S. Army as lieutenant, May, 1861; brevetted captain for gallant and meritorious services; professor of law at the U. S. Military Academy, West Point, 1874-1878. President of the Rhode Island State Society of the Cincinnati since 1899; secretary general of the Society of the Cincinnati since 1884; in a member of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion; member and incorporator of the U. S. Military Service Institution; one of the founders and incorporators of the Sons of the Revolution; commandant Veteran Corps of Artillery, State of New York; member of Beta chapter Phi Beta Kappa, Nu Chapter of Delta Kappa Epsilon; deputy to the Long Island Diocesan Convention of the Episcopal Church; member of the Standing Commission on Archives of the General Convention of the Episcopal Church. He received the Medal of Honor of Congress for most distinguished conduct in action. He served as district attorney of New York County, 1897-1900. Colonel Gardiner is a member of the Union Metropolitan, West Point, Manhattan and Church Clubs, of the New England Historic Genealogical Society and of many State Historical Societies. He married first, Oct. 18, 1865, Mary Austen of Baltimore County, Md., (died in 1900); and married, second, Harriet Isabella Lindsay-Fitzpatrick, Nov. 5, 1902. Address: 24 Stone Street, New York City.

GARDNER, Augustus Peabody:

Congressman; born in Boston, Nov. 5, 1865; son of Joseph Peabody and Harriet (Amory) Gardner. He was graduated from Harvard, A.B.; 1886. He was a member of the Massachusetts State Senate for two terms; served as captain and assistant adjutant-general on the staff of Gen. James H. Wilson during the Spanish-American war; was elected as a Republican to the Fifty-seventh Congress to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of the Hon. W. H. Moody to become secretary of the Navy in the cabinet of President Roosevelt, and to the Fifty-eighth, Fifty-ninth, and Sixtieth Congresses, and reelected in 1908 to the Sixty-first Congress from the Sixth Massachusetts District. He married, June 14, 1892, Constance Lodge. Residence: Hamilton, Mass. Office: 22 Congress Street, Boston.

GARDNER, John J.:

Congressman; born in Atlantic County, N. J., in 1845. He served in a New Jersey Regiment in the Civil War, and afterward in the U. S. Veteran Volunteers to the end of the war. He engaged in farming in his native county, in which he became active in politics as a Republican. He served as alderman, councilman and for seven times as mayor of Atlantic City, and was for fifteen years a member of the New Jersey Senate prior to his election to the Fifty-third Congress, his first term beginning in March, 1893. He has since been biennially reelected, and is now serving in the Sixty-first Congress from the Second New Jersey District. Address: Atlantic City, N. J.

GARDNER, Washington:

Congressman; born in Morrow County, Ohio, Feb. 16, 1845; son of John L. and Sarah (Goodin) Gardner. When sixteen years of age he entered the Union Army, serving in the 65th Ohio Volunteer Infantry from October, 1861, to December, 1865. He was severely wounded in action at Resaca, Ga. He was graduated from the Ohio Wesleyan University, A.B., 1870; studied in the school of theology, Boston University, 1870-1871; was graduated from the Albany Law School,* 1876; practised law one year in Grand Rapids, Mich., and then entered the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in which he served twelve years. He was commander of the Department of Michigan of the Grand Army of the Republic, 1888; was made professor in and public lecturer for Albion College, 1889; and was appointed by Governor John T. Rich, secretary of State, in March, 1894, to fill out an unexpired term, and was subsequently twice nominated by acclamation and elected to succeed himself. He was elected in November, 1898, as a Republican, to the Fifty-sixth Congress, and has since been biennially reelected and is now serving in the Sixty-first Congress from the Third Michigan District. Address: Albion, Mich.

GARFIELD, Harry Augustus:

President of Williams College from 1908; born in Hiram, Portage County, Ohio, Oct. 11, 1863; son of President James A. and Lueretia (Rudolph) Garfield. He was graduated from Williams College in 1885; also studied one year at the Columbia Law School in New York City. He engaged in the practice of law in Cleveland, Ohio, 1888-1904; professor of politics, Princeton University, 1904-1908. Mr. Garfield was vice-president and trustee of the Cleveland Trust Company; was president of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, 1898-1899; was an organizer and was president, 1896-1904, of the Municipal Association of Cleveland; chairman of the Special Committee of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce on reorganization of the United States Consular Service, 1899-1907. He is a member of the American Historical Society, the American Economic Association and the National Municipal League. He married at Mentor, Ohio, June 14, 1888, Belle Hartford Mason. Address: Williamstown, Mass.

GARLAND, Hamlin:

Novelist, lecturer; born in West Salem, Wis., Sept. 16, 1860; son of Richard Hayes and Isabel (McClintock) Garland. He was educated in Cedar Valley Seminary, Osage, Iowa, and at Boston; taught school in Illinois, 1882-1883; took up a claim in McPherson County, Dakota, 1883; went to Boston in 1884; began to write stories, 1887; and went to the Klondike by trail in 1898. Mr. Garland has traveled extensively in America from Alaska to Central America; and spends several months trailing in the Rocky Mountains every summer. He is the president of the Cliff Dwellers of Chicago, a literary and artists club of which he was the originator. He is author of: Main Traveled Roads, 1890; Jason Edwards, 1891; A Little Norsk, 1891; Prairie Folks, 1892; A Spoil of Office, 1892; A Member of the Third House, 1892; Crumbling Idols (essays), 1893; Rose of Dutcher's Cooly, 1895; Wayside Courtships, 1897; Ulysses Grant (biography), 1898; Prairie Songs, 1894; The Spirit of Sweetwater, 1898; The Eagle's Heart, 1900; Her Mountain Lover, 1901; The Captain of The Gray Horse Troop, 1902; Hesper, 1903; Light of the Star, 1904; The Tyranny of the Dark, 1905; Money Magie, 1907; The Shadow World, a study of spiritualistic phenomena, 1908. He married in Hanover, Kansas, Nov. 18, 1899, Zulime Taft, and has two daughters. He has a summer home at his birthplace. Address: 6427 Greenwood Avenue, Chicago.

GARNER, James Wilford:

Professor of political science; born in Pike County, Miss., Nov. 22, 1871. He was graduated from the Mississippi Agricultural and Mechanical College, B.S., 1892; the University of Chicago, Ph.M., 1900; and received the Ph.D. degree from Columbia University, 1903. He was lecturer in history until 1903, when he became instructor in political science at the University of Pennsylvania, and since September, 1904, has been professor of political science at the University of Illinois. He is the author of: Reconstruction in Mississippi, 1901; History of the United States in 5 vols. (jointly with Senator Henry Cabot Lodge), 1906; and is also the author of about three hundred essays, articles, reviews, etc., on history and political science. Professor Garner is associate editor of the American Political Science Review, and American collaborator for the French Revue Politique et Parlementaire. He is a member of the American Political Science Association, the American Society of International Law, the American Academy of Political and Social Science, and the Phi Beta Kappa Society. He married in Mississippi, Dec. 24, 1895, Therese Leggett. Address: Urbana, Ill.

GARNER, John Nance:

Congressman and lawyer; born in Red River County, Texas, Nov. 22, 1869. He was admitted to the bar in December, 1890, and served two terms in the Texas House of Representatives. He was elected from the 15th Texas District to the Fifty-eighth Congress, and was reelected to the Fifty-ninth, Sixtieth and Sixty-first Congresses. Mr. Garner was a delegate to the National Democratic Conventions in Kansas City in 1900 and in St. Louis in 1904. He married, Nov. 25, 1895, Ettie Rheiner. Address: Uvalde, Texas.

GARRETSON, Garret James:

Jurist; born in Newton, N. Y., in 1847. He was educated at private schools and the Flushing (L. I.) Institute in New York. He was admitted to the New York bar, 1869; served as school commissioner of Queens County, N. Y., 1873-1875; surrogate, 1880, and county judge of Queens County, 1886-1896; member of the Greater New York Charter Commission, 1896. He was elected in 1896 justice of the Supreme Court of the State of New York for the term expiring Dec. 31, 1910. He married first, at Roslyn, N. Y., 1876, Eliza L. Eastman (died 1888) by whom he has two daughters and a son and he married, second, in Brooklyn, 1897, Sara Wilson. Address: Elmhurst, N. Y.

GARRETT, Alexander Charles:

Bishop of Dallas; born at Ballymot, County Sligo, Ireland, Nov. 4, 1832; son of Rev. John and Elizabeth (Fry) Garrett. He was graduated from Trinity College, Dublin, Ireland, with the degree of B.A., 1855, and received from his alma mater the degree of D.D. in 1882, and that of LL. D., from the University of Mississippi in 1876. He was ordered deacon in the Church of England by the Bishop of Winchester in 1856 and was ordained to the priesthood by the same bishop in 1857; was curate of East Warldham, Hants, 1856-1859, and following that he became missionary in the British Colonies, holding the office for ten years. He was rector of St. James' Church, San Francisco, 1870-1872, and dean of Trinity Cathedral, Omaha, Neb., 1872-1874. He was made bishop of Dallas, Texas, in 1874, and was consecrated by Bishops Clarkson, Tuttle, Hare and Spalding. Bishop Garrett is author of: Historical Continuity, 1875; The Eternal Sacrifice, and other Sermons, 1881; Baldwin Lectures on the Philosophy of the Incarnation, 1891, and occasional sermons and addresses. Address: Dallas, Texas.

GARRETT, Finis James:

Congressman and lawyer; born near Ore Springs, Weakley County, Tenn., Aug. 26, 1875; son of Noah J. and Virginia (Baughman) Garrett. He was graduated from Bethel College, McKenzie, Tenn., A.B., 1897.

He was for a time engaged in teaching in the city schools of Milan, Tenn.; studied law under the instructions and in the office of the late Charles M. Ewing, at Dresden, Tenn., and was admitted to the bar in 1899, practising at Dresden ever since. He was appointed master in chancery Sept. 1, 1900, and served until Jan. 24, 1905. He was elected to the Fifty-ninth Congress at the regular election in 1904, and reelected in 1906 to the Sixtieth Congress and in 1908 from the Ninth Tennessee District. He married in 1901, Elizabeth Harris Burns, of McKenzie, Tenn. Address: Dresden, Tenn.

GARRIGAN, Philip Joseph:

Catholic bishop of Sioux City; born in Ireland; son of Philip and Alice Garrigan. He was educated in the public schools of Massachusetts and St. Charles College, Maryland, afterward making philological and theological studies in St. Joseph's Provincial Seminary, Troy, N. Y. He was ordained priest, July 1, 1870; director of the Troy Seminary, 1872-1875; pastor of St. Bernard's Church, Fitchburg, Mass., 1875-1888, then became vice-rector of the Catholic University of Washington, until he was consecrated, May 25, 1902, first bishop of the new diocese of Sioux City. Address: Sioux City, Iowa.

GARVEY, Eugene A.:

Catholic bishop of Altoona; born in Carbondale, Pa., Oct. 6, 1845; son of Michael and Catherine (Boylan) Garvey. He was educated in schools of Dunmore, Pa., the Scranton (Pa.) High School, St. Charles College, Ellicott City, Md., and was graduated from St. Charles Seminary, Philadelphia, and ordained to the priesthood in 1870. He was assistant pastor at Hawley, Pa., 1870; pastor at Athens, Pa., 1871, at Williamsport, Pa., 1871-1899, and at Pittston, Pa., from 1899 until consecrated Sept. 8, 1901, bishop of Altoona. Address: Altoona, Pa.

GARY, Elbert Henry:

Chairman of the Board of Directors and chairman of the Finance Committee of the United States Steel Corporation; born in Wheaton, Ill., Oct. 8, 1846; son of Erastus and Susan (Vallette) Gary. He was educated in the Wheaton public schools, Wheaton College, and the Law Department of Chicago University, LL.B., 1867; and he received the degree of LL.D. from McKendree College, Illinois, 1906. His boyhood was spent on the paternal farm, and after attending college he taught school two winters, and studied law in the office of H. F. Vallette, his uncle, who was practising in Naperville, Ill. When he was graduated from the law school he was employed with the clerk of the courts in Cook County for three and a half years, but gave that up to practise law, entering his uncle's Chicago office. When Chicago's great fire came he was away from home, but a clerk saved his personal library. The day after the fire he rented a room and started for himself in Chicago, where he practised for twenty-five years; and he was elected president of the Chicago Bar Association in 1893. He also practised in Wheaton, 25 miles west of Chicago, where he held the office of county judge of DuPage County for two terms. He was also president of the village of Wheaton for three terms, and after its incorporation was its first mayor, holding the office for two terms. He organized the Gary-Wheaton Bank in 1874, and has been its president ever since. His Chicago practice became a very large one, he had retainers from many of the largest transportation, industrial and business enterprises in Chicago. His connection with corporations led him to discern possibilities which had not then been realized in the direction of the consolidation of manufacturing interests. Among his clients was John W. Gates, who was head of a wire company. Judge Gary thought it would be advantageous to unite several wire companies. He undertook the work, and in 1891 organized the Consolidated Steel and Wire Company, Capital $4,000,000, of which he was a director and Mr. Gates president. More mills were added seven years later, and the enlarged business was incorporated as the American Steel and Wire Company. The Illinois Steel Company was another large concern in which John W. Gates was president and Judge Gary a director, and a suggestion being made that the Company should buy a railroad to connect its plants Judge Gary proposed a much larger combination which should include mills, mines, railways, steamship lines, and coke plants. Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan became interested, and other large capitalists and a committee was appointed, of whom only Judge Gary and Robert Bacon of J. P. Morgan & Co. actually served, and the Federal Steel Company was organized in 1898 with a capital of $200,000,000 of which Judge Gary became president. Three years later when this great corporation was united with the Carnegie Steel Company and other great corporations in the United States Steel Corporation, Judge Gary became head of the Executive Committee, and later took his present place as chairman of the Board of Directors and of the Finance Committee. The charter of the corporation was drawn by Judge Gary, and its plan of government devised by him. Under this plan the chairman of the Board of Directors is the head of the corporation. Besides this office, Judge Gary is a director in about forty of the 213 subsidiary corporations. As a mark of esteem for his services the United States Steel Corporation has named its made-to-order city now approaching completion in Indiana, Gary. Judge Gary's policy for the corporation has made its competitors friendly, his idea being to harmonize interests, and his occasional dinners to the representatives of the steel trade both inside and outside of the corporation have contributed much to the peace of the steel interests. He is also persona grata with the steel magnates of Great Britain and the European continent, who have delighted to honor him publicly and his visits abroad. Outside of steel activities Judge Gary, has worked for unity of business interests in other prominent ways, notably by bringing together the previously conflicting and hostile interests now united in the International Harvester Company. He is a director in that company and in several banking and railroad corporations, besides the subsidiaries of the Steel Corporation. His home town of Wheaton has benefited much by his beneficence. He erected there in 1901, to the memory of his parents the finest memorial church in America and has recently completed a $100,000 mausoleum over their graves. He is a member of the New York Yacht, Lawyers, and Metropolitan Clubs of New York and the Union League Club of Chicago; is president of the Automobile Club of America, and member of the Automobile Clubs of Great Britain and Ireland, France and Germany. He is a connoisseur in art and the owner of a magnificent collection. Judge Gary has been twice married, first June 23, 1869, to Julia Graves of Aurora, Ill., who died June 11, 1902, and by whom he has two married daughters. He again married, Dec. 2, 1905, in New York City, Mrs. Emma T. Scott. Residence: The Waldorf-Astoria. Office: 71 Broadway, New York City.

GARY, Hampson:

Lawyer; born in Tyler, Texas, April 23, 1873; son of Franklin Newman and Martha Isabella (Boren) Gary. His father was an able lawyer and an officer in the Confederate Army, and his grandfather, Hampson Bioxen, was a lieutenant in the Army of the Republic of Texas. Mr. Gary was graduated from the Bingham School in the class of 1890 and from the University of Virginia in 1894. He was admitted to the Texas bar in Oct., 1894, and began the practice of law in Tyler. He has been successful, especially in corporation, property, banking and land matters. Mr. Gary's business capacity has been recognized by several financial concerns which have made him a director, and he is vice-president and director of the Royall National Bank of Tyler, Texas. He was captain of the 4th Texas Regiment, U. S. Volunteers in the Spanish-American War; is lieutenant-colonel of the 3d Infantry, Texas National Guard, and was aide-de-camp on staff of the governor of Texas, 1905-1907. He was representative for the counties of Smith, Upshur and Camp in the Texas Legislature, 1901-1902; delegate to the State Democratic Conventions, 1904 and 1906, and to the Democratic National Convention, 1908; was nominated presidential elector for the State at large, 1908, but declined, and was appointed a regent of the University of Texas by Governor Campbell in Jan., 1909. Mr. Gary was a trustee of the Tyler Public Library, 1904-1905. He married in Palestine, Texas, Dec. 18, 1901, Bessie, daughter of the late N. R. Royall, and they have a son and daughter. Residence: 407 South Broad Avenue. Office: 217 West Ferguson Street, Tyler, Texas.

GASTON, William Alexander:

Lawyer; born in Roxbury, Mass., May 1, 1859; son of William and Louisa Augusta (Beecher) Gaston. He was graduated from Roxbury Latin School, 1876, Harvard A.B., 1880, and was a student in Harvard Law School, 1881-1882. He was admitted to the Suffolk bar in 1883, and has been engaged in practice in Boston ever since. He has taken an active part in politics as a Democrat, was colonel on the staff of Governor William E. Russell of Massachusetts, 1900-1902; Democratic candidate for governor of Massachusetts, 1902 and 1903; delegate-at-large from Massachusetts to the National Democratic Convention in St. Louis, 1904, and was the nominee of the Democratic members of the Massachusetts Legislature for U. S. senator in 1905, and has served on the National and State Democratic Committees. Mr. Gaston is president of the Boston Real Estate Exchange, president of the National Shawmut Bank and the Commonwealth Trust Company; director of the National Rockland Bank, Columbian National Life Insurance Company, Eastern Audit Company, E. Howard Clock Company, Fore River Ship and Engine Company, and is trustee of the Roxbury Institution for Savings and the Forest Hill Cemetery. Colonel Gaston is a member of the Board of Overseers of Harvard College, a member of the Roxbury Military Association, the Bostonian Society, Massachusetts Horticultural Society, the Somerset, University, Algonquin, Democratic, Curtis, Tennis and Racquet and Country Clubs of Boston, and the Manhattan and Harvard Clubs of New York City. He married in Boston, April 9, 1892, Mary Davidson Lockwood. Residence: 97 Bay State Road. Office: 40 Water Street, Boston.

GATES, Eleanor (Mrs. Richard Walton Tully):

Author; born in Shakopee, Minn., Sept. 26, 1875; daughter of William Cummings and Margaret Ann (Archer) Gates. She was educated in the public schools of Dakota and California, one year in Stanford University, and also two years in the University of California, where she held a Phæbe A. Hearst scholarship while on staff newspaper work in San Francisco. She taught school four terms; was on the staff of the Examiner, Chronicle, and Call in San Francisco, and the Enquirer in Oakland, Calif. While in the University she was elected a member of the Prytanean Honor Society, which membership she still holds, and was actively identified with the student publication work in the University of California. She began professional writing in the fall of 1901, her first work being accepted by the Century Magazine. She is author of: The Biography of a Prairie Girl; The Plow Woman; Good-Night; Cupid, the Cow-Punch; also short stories or serials in Scribner's, The Century and the Book-Lovers' magazines and the Saturday Evening Post (Philadelphia). She is a member of the Pacific Coast Woman's Press Association and the National California Club. She married in Merced, Calif., Jan. 26, 1901. Richard Walton Tully, the playwright, but still uses her maiden name as a pen-name. She is a direct descendant of the Sir Thomas Gates to whom a very large part of what is now Virginia was granted by the English Crown, and she is also a direct descendant of Edmund Rawson and Richard Dana. The family has been distinguished for military service throughout the history of the United States, beginning at the battle of Lexington. Residence: El Rancho de las Rosas, Alma, Santa Clara County, Calif.

GATES, Frederick Taylor:

Chairman of the General Education Board; born in Maine, Broome County, N. Y., July 2, 1853; son of Rev. Grenville and Sarah J. (Bowers) Gates. He was graduated from the University of Rochester, A.B., 1877, A.M., 1879, with Phi Beta Kappa honors, and from Rochester Theological Seminary, 1880. He was ordained in the ministry of the Baptist Church, becoming pastor of the Central Baptist Church of Minneapolis, 1880-1888; corresponding secretary of the American Baptist Education Society, 1888-1893; and as such established the University of Chicago. Since 1893 he has been business and benevolent manager for John D. Rockefeller. Mr. Gates is chairman of the General Education Board, trustee of the University of Chicago, and a director of various corporations. He married in Racine, Wis., 1886, Emma L. Calhoun. Residence: 66 Mountain Avenue, Montclair, N. J. Office: 26 Broadway, New York City.

GATES, John Warne:

Capitalist; born on a farm in DuPage County, Ill., near Turner Junction (now West Chicago), Ill., 1855; son of Asel A. and Mary Gates. He was educated in the district schools of Kane and DuPage counties, Ill., and began business life as proprietor of a small hardware store at Turner Junction, Ill., and later at Wheaton, Ill., became traveling salesman for Isaac L. Ellwood, of the Ellwood Barbed Wire Works, DeKalb, Ill.; introduced barbed wire in Texas, and later established himself as a barbed wire manufacturer at St. Louis. Mr. Gates organized the Southern Wire Company, 1880, and afterward the Brad-dock (Pa.) Wire Company, which he combined with other wire factories, in 1892, as the Consolidated Steel and Wire Company, which sold to the Federal Steel Company, in 1898. He organized, in 1897, the American Steel and Wire Company, which is now a subsidiary company of the United States Steel Corporation; and has been identified with many large operations in railway and industrial stocks. Of recent years, Mr. Gates has been one of the most prominent figures on the American Turf, and one of the boldest and most successful speculators on Wall Street; notably the coup by which he secured control of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad. He was active in Illinois politics as a Republican, and was colonel on the staff of Governor John R. Tanner, of Illinois, 1897-1900. He is a director of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, the Western Maryland Railway Company, Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company, National Bank of North America, American Salt Company, New York Hippodrome, Republic Iron and Steel Company of New Jersey, and the United States Realty and Improvement Company. Mr. Gates married at St. Charles, Ill., Feb. 25, 1874, Dellora R. Baker, and has one son, Charles G. Gates. Address: 18 Wall Street, New York City.

GATES, Merrill Edwards:

Secretary of the United States Board of Indian Commissioners; born in Warsaw, N. Y., April 6, 1848; son of Hon. Seth M. and Fanny Jeanette (Parsons) Gates. He was graduated from the University of Rochester, A.B., 1870, A.M., 1873, and has received the degrees of Ph.D. from the University of the State of New York, 1880, LL.D. from Princeton and Rochester, 1882, Columbia, 1891, Williams, 1893; and the degree of LL.D. from Columbia in 1887. He was principal of the famous Albany Boys' Academy from 1870 to 1882, when he became president of Rutgers College, in 1882. In 1890 was chosen president of Amherst College, serving until 1899. In that year he resigned to become the secretary of the Board of Indian Commissioners, of which he had been a member since 1884, and was chairman, 1890-1899. The advancement of the Indians of the United States in education, Christianity and civilization, and their protection against the evils and dangers of transition from savagery to citizenship has commanded the active interest and has been greatly helped by the services of Dr. Gates, who is one of the authorities on Indian affairs in this country. He was president of the American Missionary Association, 1892-1898; eight years president of the Lake Mohonk Indian Conference; was long a member of the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association; is a vice-president of the American Bible Society, and of the American Tract Society; member of the American Philosophical Society, the American Historical Association, the American Social Science Association, the Century Club of New York, and the Cosmos and Chevy Chase Clubs of Washington. Dr. Gates is the author of: Sidney Lanier, Poet and Artist; Land and Law as Agents in Educating the Indians; International Arbitration: Highest Use of Wealth, and of many articles upon educational, social and religious themes. He is a licensed clergyman of the Congregational Church. He married at Orange, N. J., April 10, 1873, Mary C. Bishop of Rochester, N. Y., and has three children. Address: 1309 Rhode Island Avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C.

GATES, Susa Young:

Writer, lecturer; born in the Zion House, Salt Lake City, Utah, March 18, 1856; daughter of Brigham Young, president of the Church of Latter-Day Saints, and of Lucy (Bigelow) Young. She was educated in the University of Utah and the Brigham Young University of Provo, Utah. She was married at St. George, Utah, Jan. 5, 1880, to Jacob F. Gates, and has had thirteen children, of whom the two oldest girls are locally famous, Mrs. Widtsoe being the first graduated domestic scientist in Utah, and Miss Emma Lucy Gates being a soprano soloist of distinction. Mrs. Gates founded and edited the Young Woman's Journal, of Salt Lake City, for its first eleven years, then presented it to the Young Ladies' Mutual Improvement Association, of which it was the organ, and she is a member of the General Board of that association. She has published a volume of biography and magazine articles, sketches of Mormon women, has a department of genealogy in the Deseret Evening News at Salt Lake, and is a writer for all the home publications and has also written for Eastern papers. Mrs. Gates is a trustee of the Brigham Young University at Provo, Utah, and also of the State Agricultural College of Utah; has been a director of the National Household Economic Association and was chairman of the Press

Committee of the National Council of Women, 1900-1902; founder and State organizer of the Daughters of the Revolution in Utah; member of the National Press Club and assisted Mrs. Wells in founding the Utah Press Club, and she is president of the Daughters of Pioneers. She attended the International Council of Women held in London in 1899, and was U. S. delegate to the Executive Session of that Council held in Copenhagen in 1901. She established the Musical Department of the Brigham Young University at Provo at the age of 23 years and founded the Domestic Science Department in that school, 1898-1899. She is a member of the Church of Latter-Day Saints, has a city home in Salt Lake and a canyon summer home, and is especially interested in genealogy and music. Address: 672 North 1st West Street, Salt Lake City, Utah.

GAUL, Gilbert W.:

Historical and genre painter; born in Jersey City, N. J., March 31, 1855. He was educated in the public schools, pursued art studies in New York City under J. G. Brown and L. E. Wilmarth, 1872-1876. He opened a studio in New York City, but for several years past has resided in Nashville, Tenn. He was given the medal of the American Art Association in 1882, and was awarded two medals by the World's Columbian Exposition, Chicago, 1893. Mr. Gaul became an associate, 1880, and since 1882 has been an academician of the National Academy of Design. He married, Sept. 16, 1898, Marian, daughter of vice-Admiral G. A. Halstead, R. N. Address: 610½ Church Street, Nashville, Tenn.

GAUSS, Henry C.:

Government official, author; born in Salem, Mass. After completing his education he was actively engaged as a journalist until he entered the government service. Mr. Gauss was confidential clerk to secretaries of the Navy Moody and Morton. When Hon. Charles J. Bonaparte succeeded Hon. Paul Morton as secretary of the Navy, Mr. Gauss was appointed private secretary to the secretary of the Navy. When Mr.

Bonaparte, in the reorganization of the Cabinet in 1906, became attorney-general, he took Mr. Gauss with him to the Department of Justice, and he remained private secretary to the attorney-general until the end of the Roosevelt Administration, when he was appointed a special attorney in the Department of Justice, in which office he continues. Mr. Gauss is author of The American Government, 1908 (Hammersly); and is joint editor of Men and Women of America. Residence: 1359 Park Road. Office: Department of Justice, Washington, D. C.

GAY, Edward:

Artist; born in Dublin, Ireland, in 1837; son of Richard and Helen (Killduff) Gay. He was educated in Albany, N. Y., then went to Carlsruhe, Germany, and studied art. He opened a studio in New York City, and has attained a place among the foremost American landscape artists. Among his better known paintings are: Mountain Stream, 1860; Swabian Home, 1869; Late Afternoon, near Albany, 1870; Ready for Reapers, 1875; A Quiet Hour, 1876; The Slopes of the Mohawk, 1877; Eastchester, New York, 1878; The Last Load, Harvest Time, 1878; Gathering the Leaves, 1880; Old Estates, 1881; Banks of the Thames, 1882; On the Sogue Fjord, Norway, 1883; Norwegian Scene, 1884, etc. Water colors: Foggy Morning by the Lake, 1876; A Springy Morning, 1877; Waving Grain, 1884; Riverside, 1884; Haymaking, 1884; Rye Fields in Early June, 1885; Hillside, 1885; Oyster Beds in Pelham Bay, 1885; Salt Marshes, 1885. Mr. Gay took the Metropolitan Museum of Art prize of $2,000 in 1887 for the picture, Broad Acres, presented to the Metropolitan Museum; was awarded the Shaw prize of the Society of American Artists, for the painting entitled Mianus River, Connecticut, 1903; and at the Eighteenth Annual Exhibition of the National Academy of Design, 1905, was awarded the Inness gold medal for the best landscape in the exhibition. Mr. Gay was elected an associate of the National Academy of Design in 1868, and an academician in 1870, and he is also a member of the American Water Color Club, and was made a life member of the Lotos Club for his achievements in art in 1901. He married in 1862, Martha Fearey. Address: Mount Vernon, N. Y.

GAY, Walter:

Artist; born in Hingham, Mass., Jan. 22, 1856; son of Ebenezer and Ellen (Blake) Gay. After completing his studies in the Roxbury (Mass.) Latin School, he was for a short time employed in a Boston business office. In 1876 he went to Paris, where he became a pupil of Bonnat, and exhibited constantly at the Salon. His painting of "Le Bénédicité" was bought in 1888 by the French Government for the Luxembourg. The picture remained ten years in that museum, and after that period was transferred to the Museum at Amiens. "Las Cigarreras" was bought in 1894 for the Luxembourg, and since then two more of his pictures have been purchased for that museum: "Blue and White" in 1904, and "Les Portraits" in 1908. He is represented by paintings in the Pinacothec Museum at Munich; Museum of Fine Arts, Brussels; Luxembourg Museum, Paris; Amiens Museum, Amiens; Metropolitan Museum, New York City; Museum of Fine Arts, Boston; Carnegie Institute, Pittsburgh; and Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, Philadelphia. He represents, in Paris, the Museum of Fine Arts of Boston. Mr. Gay was awarded honorable mention in the Paris Salon of 1885, a gold medal by the Salon of 1888; gold medals at Antwerp, 1894, Vienna, 1893, Berlin, 1895, Budapest, 1895; was created chevalier in 1895 and officier in 1907 of the Légion d'Honneur of France. He was made sociétaire of the Société Nationale, Paris; made member of the National Institute of Arts and Letters of the United States, 1896; created fellow for life of the Metropolitan Museum of Art of New York. Address: 73 Rue Ampère, Paris.

GAYLEY, James:

Manufacturer; born in Lock Haven, Pa., Oct. 11, 1855. He was graduated from Lafayette College with the degree of M.E.

in 1876, and began his business life as chemist for Crane Iron Works, Catasauqua, Pa., 1877-1880; superintendent of furnaces for the Missouri Furnace Company in St. Louis, and for the E. and G. Brooke Iron Company at Birdsboro, Pa., 1880-1885. In 1885 he became superintendent of the Edgar Thompson Blast Furnaces, where in 1887, and again in 1890, he obtained the maximum yield of iron on record. He afterward became manager of the Carnegie Steel Company, and since 1901 has been first vice-president of the United States Steel Corporation. Mr. Gayley is the inventor of many improvements in blasting furnaces and Bessemer steel plants, and has written technical papers in various periodicals. He is a member of the University, Riding, Metropolitan, Ardsley, Engineers' Clubs of New York. He married Julia Gardner, and has three daughters. Residence: 8 East 69th Street. Address: 71 Broadway, New York City.

GAYLORD, Harvey Russell:

Surgeon, pathologist; born in Saginaw, Mich., Oct. 4, 1872; son of Augustine S. and Ellen Emeline (Warren) Gaylord. He was educated in the Bay City (Mich.) public schools, Cheltenham Academy, Ogontz, Pa., and the University of Pennsylvania, M.D., 1893. He became an interne in the Philadelphia Hospital, 1893-1894; volunteer assistant in pathology in the Pathological Institute of the University of Gottingen, Germany, 1895-1898; since then in practice of medicine at Buffalo. He has been director of the State Cancer Laboratory of Buffalo, since 1898; professor of surgical pathology in the University of Buffalo since 1899; pathologist to the German Hospital since 1899; surgeon to the Erie County Hospital since 1900; assistant surgeon to the Buffalo General Hospital; orthopedist to the Children's Hospital. Dr. Gaylord is a member of the Association Pathologists and Bacteriologists; a fellow of the Pathologische Gesellschaft, Berlin Komitee für Krebsforschung. He is joint author of Gaylord and Aschoff's Pathological Histology, also of various reports of the State Cancer Laboratory, and of papers in pathological research, particularly in reference to the etiology of cancer, and on fibrinoid degeneration. Dr. Gaylord married in Detroit, Mich., Oct. 4, 1893, Elizabeth May Ketcham. Address: 478 Delaware Avenue, Buffalo, N. Y.

GAYNOR, William Jay:

Jurist; born in Whitestown, N. Y., in 1851. He was educated at Whitestown Seminary, and later in Boston; from there went to Brooklyn in 1873, and engaged in journalistic work while pursuing the study of law. He was admitted to the bar in 1875; became known and feared as a foe of corruption in public life, and gained national reputation by effective work in breaking up "rings" within the Democratic party, of which party he was an adherent, and by the part he took in securing the conviction of a notorious and powerful Democratic boss for election frauds. He was elected a justice of the Supreme Court of New York, in 1893, on nomination of Republicans and Independent Democrats, for the term expiring Dec. 21, 1907, and was reelected in 1907 for the term expiring Dec. 31, 1921, and designated for service in the Second Appellate Division of the Supreme Court. Judge Gaynor, who is a Democrat in national politics, has frequently been solicited to become a candidate for non-judicial offices, but declined nominations for mayor of Brooklyn, 1896, for governor of New York, 1904, for Vice-President of the United States, 1908, etc. In 1909 he called attention to a case of public oppression which resulted in an entire reorganization of the New York police. He has written frequently on legal subjects for various publications. Address: 20 Eighth Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

GAZZAM, Joseph M.:

Lawyer; born in Pittsburgh, Dec. 2, 1842; son of Dr. Edward Despard Gazzam (physician, lawyer, statesman, one of organizers of the Free Soil Party and its first candidate for governor of Pennsylvania) and of Elizabeth Antoinette de Beelen de Bertholff, daughter of Constantine Antoine de Beelen de Bertholff and granddaughter of Baron Frederick Eugene François de Beelen de Bertholff (Austrian minister to the United States, 1783-1787). He was educated at the University of Western Pennsylvania. Admitted to the Allegheny County bar, Jan. 6, 1864; to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, Nov., 1867; to the Circuit and District Courts of the United States, May, 1869, and to the Supreme Court of the United States, March 19, 1870. He practised at Pittsburgh until 1879; member of the law firm of Gazzam and Cochran (Mr. Cochran being ex-member of Congress and vice-president of the Missouri Pacific Railroad), 1872-1879; and removed in 1879 to Philadelphia. He has since practised law in the latter city and associated with William S. Wallace and Edward Fell Lukens constitutes the firm of Gazzam, Wallace and Lukens. Mr. Gazzam is a Republican in politics, was a member of the City Council of Pittsburgh, 1869-1873 and elected State Senator in 1876, from the Forty-third Senatorial District of Pennsylvania. While so serving he introduced a bill for a marriage license law which was almost identical with the law now in force, but which was defeated in the lower house. He was author of the law which did away with the calls for special elections for State officers and thus effected a great saving to the State and many other important acts. He was appointed by Governor Stone, commissioner from Pennsylvania to the South Carolina Interstate and West Indian Exposition of 1902, and by Governor Pennypacker a member of the Pennsylvania Commission to the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, St. Louis. Mr. Gazzam is president of the Rees-Welsh Digest and Law Publishing Company, and of the Kramer Web Manufacturing Company, was one of the organizers of Quaker City National Bank of Philadelphia and fourteen years its vice-president; is president of the Ames-Bonner Company of Toledo, Ohio; vice-president of the Dent's Run (Pa.) Coal Company; chairman of the Board of Directors of Peale, Peacock & Kerr, Incorporated; director in the Delaware Company and others. He was one of the projectors of the Beech Creek Railroad and the town of Gazzam was named for him. Mr. Gazzam is a life member of the Pennsylvania Historical Society, the Fairmount Park Association, the Franklin Institute, Horticultural Association of Pennsylvania, the Pennsylvania Forestry Association, Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, Zoölogical Society, the American Academy of Political and Social Science, the Genealogical Society of Pennsylvania, the Archaeological and Palæontological Society of the University of Pennsylvania. He is a member and ex-president of the Pennsylvania Club, a life member of the Union League and Lawyers' Clubs of Philadelphia, a member of the Young Republicans of Philadelphia, National Arts and City Clubs of New York City, and the Toledo Club, Toledo, Ohio. Mr. Gazzam married, in 1893, Nellie M. Andrews of New Orleans, and they have two children. Residence: 265 South 19th Street. Office: Bailey Building, 1218 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

GEARIN, John M.:

Lawyer and former United States senator; born in Umatilla County, Ore., on the Emigrant Trail, Aug. 15, 1851. He attended St. Mary's College, San Francisco, 1863-1867; was graduated from Notre Dame University, Ind., A.B., 1871, and received the degree of LL.D. from this university in 1903. He began the study of law in 1871; was admitted to the Oregon bar in 1873, and has been in the active practice of the law ever since. He was a member of the Oregon Legislature in 1874; city attorney of the city of Portland in 1875; and was elected district attorney for Multnomah County, Ore., in 1884, and served two years; in 1878, when Oregon constituted one Congressional district, he was the Democratic candidate for Congress, but was defeated. When the celebrated opium frauds were unearthed, in 1893, he was appointed by President Cleveland as special prosecutor for the Government in the cases. Dec. 13, 1905, he was appointed by the governor of Oregon U. S. senator to fill the vacancy caused by the death of John H. Mitchell, and took his seat Dec. 21, 1905. Address: Portland, Ore.

GEER, Walter:

Lawyer and manufacturer; born in Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 19, 1857; son of Asahel and Helen Augusta (Danforth) Geer. He was educated in Greylock Institute, South Williamstown, Mass., Williams College, A.B., 1878, A.M., 1881, National University Law School, Washington, D. C., LL.B., 1881, LL.M., 1882. He was assistant manager for the Walter A. Wood Mowing and Reaping Machine Company at Chicago, 1882-1886, and since 1886 has been president and director of the New York Architectural Terra-cotta Company, New York City. He is also vice-president and director of the New York Knife Company, and of the Metropolitan Safe Deposit Company, and a director of the Brunswick Site Company. Mr. Geers is a member of the Association for the Protection of the Adirondacks, the American Museum of Natural History, Municipal Art Society, National Sculpture Society, New England Society, New York Historical Society, Phi Beta Kappa Society, Sons of the Revolution, Order of Founders and Patriots of America, Society of Colonial Wars, the Williams Alumni Association of New York, University, Manhattan, Strollers', National Arts and Lawyers' Clubs of New York City. Mr. Geer married in New York City, Sept. 26, 1883, Mary Potter, and they have three sons and a daughter. Residences: 246 West 72d Street, New York City, and Crow's Nest, Ossining, N. Y. Office: 1225 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

GEER, William Montague:

Clergyman; born in Balston, N. Y., April 9, 1848; son of Rev. George Jarvis Geer, D.D., formerly rector of St. Timothy's Church (now Zion and St. Timothy's), New York City, and Isabel (Montague) Geer. He was graduated from Columbia College, A.B., 1869, A.M., 1872, and from the General Theological Seminary in 1878. Mr. Geer was admitted to the bar of the State of New York in 1872, and was ordered deacon in 1878 and ordained priest in 1879 in the ministry of the Episcopal Church. He began his ministry as assistant to Rev. (afterward bishop) Henry Y. Satterlee, Wappingers Falls, N. Y., in 1878, became rector of St. John's Church, North Adams, Mass., in 1879; rector of Christ Church, Oyster Bay, L. I., 1880-1888; assistant minister, 1888-1894, and has been vicar since 1894 of St. Paul's Chapel, Trinity Parish, New York City. He is a member of the New York Churchmen's Association. (president 1898); trustee of the General Theological Seminary, Society for Promotion of Religion and Learning, Trinity School, and St. Agatha's; is a member of the Century Club, and honorary member of the Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht Club of which he was fleet-chaplain, 1900-1901. He inaugurated noonday services, and midnight (2.30 A.M.) services for printers and other night workers, in St. Paul's Chapel and founded the first Business Women's Club for stenographers, typewriters and others, 600 membership. Mr. Geer married in New York City, April 8, 1880, Katharine Gridley Throop, who died in 1906; and he has seven children. Residence: 60 West 84th Street, New York City. Office: 29 Vesey Street, New York City.

GELERT, Johannes Sophus:

Sculptor; born in Nybel, Schleswig, Denmark (now Prussia), Dec. 10, 1852; son of Ludwig Christian Frederick and Constance Andrea (Peterson) Gelert. He studied art at the Royal Academy of Copenhagen, 1870-1875, and began his artistic career as an apprentice to wood-carving in 1866-1870. After graduation he made a tour through Germany, then worked fifteen months in Paris and exhibited, at the Salon of 1878, a colossal group representing the Norse god, Thor, combating a bull. He worked on large monumental works in Berlin, 1879-1882; executed several decorative statues for a theater in Copenhagen, 1882; studied at Rome, on a scholarship awarded by the Danish Government, and then returned to Copenhagen. Mr. Gelert has been a resident of the United States since 1887 and citizen since 1892. He worked at his art in Chicago, 1887-1898; since then in New York City. He exhibited at the World's Columbian Exposition, Chicago, 1893 (member International Jury of Award), Paris Exposition, 1900 (honorable mention), Nashville Centennial Exposition, 1897 (gold medal) for his picture, "Wounded American Soldier"; Philadelphia Art Club, receiving a gold medal for the group, The Little Architect; American Art Society, Philadelphia (gold medal), honorable mention Buffalo Exposition. He is a member of the National Sculpture Society, and Municipal Art League. Among his important works are: Statue representing Denmark, for U. S. Custom House, New York City; colossal group, The Struggle for Work, at World's Columbian Exposition; statue representing Napoleon the Great, for Missouri State Building, Louisiana Purchase Exposition; statue representing Gothic Art, Fine Arts Building, St. Louis; Policeman Statue (Union Square), and Beethoven and Andersen statues (Lincoln Park), Chicago; four colossal statues for the Brooklyn Institute of Science and Art representing Roman civilization; statue of M. Furmen for Vanderbilt University, Nashville, and Grant Statue, Galena, Ill. He married in Chicago in 1896, Georgina J. B. Sundberg, and has three children. Residence: 470 Summit Avenue, South Orange, N. J. Studio: 11 East 14th Street, New York City.

GENTH, Frederick Augustus, Jr.:

Chemist; born in Philadelphia, Feb. 12, 1855; son of Dr. F. A. and Minna Pauline (Fischer) Genth. He was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania, B.S., 1876, and M.S., 1878. Mr. Genth was assistant in chemistry on the Second Geological Survey of Pennsylvania, 1877-1880; instructor at the University of Pennsylvania in analytical chemistry, 1881-1883; assistant professor of chemistry at the University of Pennsylvania, 1883-1888, inclusive, and since then has been in general practice as an analytical expert chemist. He was chemist to the Dairy Food Commission; Department of Agriculture in Pennsylvania, 1897-1903; also to the State Pharmaceutical Examining Board of Pennsylvania. Mr. Genth is one of the founders and a director of the West Philadelphia Title and Trust Company; is a member of the American Philosophical Society; the American Chemical Society; the Society of Chemical Industry of London; Société Chimique de Paris, and Deutsche Chemische Gesellschaft, Berlin; a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and was a director of the Lansdowne School District, 1900-1906. He has traveled extensively in the United States and abroad. Mr. Genth married at Philadelphia, in 1881, Louise T. Raht, who died in 1889; and in 1890, to Miriam S. DuBois. He had one child, Julius Frederick, born Oct. 1, 1885, who died March 4, 1886. Residence: 65 East Greenwood Avenue, Lansdowne, Pa. Office address: 222 Walnut Street, Philadelphia.

GEORGE, Henry:

Journalist, author; born in Sacramento, Calif., Nov. 3, 1862; son of Henry George, the famous philosopher and political economist. He was educated in the public schools; was secretary to his father on his lecture tour of Great Britain, 1883, and since 1881 has been engaged in newspaper and book writing and lecturing, mainly on the single tax question. He succeeded his father on his death, a few days before election day, 1897, as nominee for mayor of New York City on the Jeffersonian Democratic ticket. He went to Japan for a syndicate of newspapers in 1906, and around the world for several publications in 1909. Mr. George is author of: Life of Henry George; The Tragedy of the Great Pennsylvania Coal Strike. Who are the Criminals?; Modern Methods of Finance; The Menace of Privilege, 1905; The Romance of John Bainbridge, 1906. He is a member of the City and Authors' Clubs of New York. Address: 87 Hamilton Place, New York City.

GEORGE, William Henry:

President of Geneva College; born in Northwood, Ohio, Aug. 18, 1878; son of Henry Hosack and Sarah (Brown) George. He was graduated from Geneva College, A.B., 1900; Harvard University, A.B., 1902; the Reformed Presbyterian Theological Seminary at Allegheny, Pa., 1905; Princeton University, A.M., 1906. After a short term in the pastorate of the Reformed Presbyterian Church at Waukesha, Wis., he was called to Geneva College in 1907. Address: Beaver Falls, Pa.

GERARD, James Watson:

Jurist; born in Geneseo, N. Y., 1867; son of James Watson and Jenny (Angel) Gerard. He was educated in Wilson and Kellogg's School of New York City, St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H., Columbia College, A.B., 1890, A.M., 1891, and New York Law School, LL.B., 1892. After that he engaged in practice, becoming counsel for many large corporations and a number of celebrated cases, among them, Gusthal versus William M. Strong, mayor, involving the validity of the King's Bridge franchise granted to the Third Avenue Railroad; was one of the counsel for the Press Publishing Company, in the suit of that corporation against the Ramapo Water Company, and others, and in 1907 he was elected a justice of the Supreme Court of the State of New York for the term expiring Dec. 31, 1921. He entered the National Guard of New York, as second lieutenant of Company F, 12th Infantry, and in 1892 attained his captaincy; with that rank served as an aide on staff of General McCoskry Butt during the Spanish-American War, and in June, 1900, was appointed quartermaster with the rank of major, First Brigade, and resumed practice at the end of the war. Judge Gerard is a member of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, the Sons of the American Revolution, and the Union, Tuxedo, Country, University, New York Athletic, Riding, Fencers', and the National Democratic Clubs of New York City. Address: 725 Fifth Avenue; New York City.

GERHARD, William Paul:

Civil engineer; born in Hamburg, Germany, July 30, 1854; son of Bernhard and Mathilda (Hühm) Gerhard. He was educated in the Italian College at Alexandria, Egypt, the Latin School at Kiel, Germany, and the Technical University at Karlsruhe, Germany, whence he was graduated in 1875. He served as a volunteer in the Prussian Railroad Regiment, 1875-1876, practised a year as civil engineer in Hamburg, and came to the United States in 1877. He was assistant engineer to the Board of Public Works of St. Louis, 1877-1879; in Captain James B. Eads' office in St. Louis, 1879-1880; chief assistant to Colonel George E. Waring, Jr., at Newport, R. I., 1881-1883; chief engineer of the Durham House Drainage Company, New York City, 1883-1884, and since then practised as a consulting engineer for hydraulic and sanitary works, gas service and fire protection. He served on the staff of the State architect of New York, as sanitary engineer; was honorary consulting engineer to the Health Department of the City of Brooklyn, and is now engineer-general on the executive staff of the National Volunteer Emergency Service, with rank of brigadier-general. He is author of: House Drainage and Sanitary Plumbing (13 editions); Recent Practice in the Sanitary Drainage of Buildings; The Disposal of Household Wastes; Gas Lighting and Gas Fitting; Guide to Sanitary Inspections (4 editions); The Prevention of Fire; Theatre Fires and Panics; Their Causes and Their Prevention; Fire Protection, Comfort and Sanitation in Theatres; Sanitation and Sanitary Engineering; Sanitary Engineering of Buildings; The Superintendence of Piping Installations in Buildings, 1907; The Sanitation of Public Buildings, 1907; Modern Baths and Bath Houses, 1908; The American Practice of Gas Piping and Gas Lighting in Buildings, 1908; The Sanitation, Water Supply and Sewage Disposal of Country Homes, 1909; The Plumbing and Water Supply of Modern City Buildings, 1909; also of three German works; contributor of about 70 articles to the Dictionary of Architecture. He is a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the American Public Health Association, Brooklyn Engineers' Club, New England Water Works Association, National Geographic Society, and other societies; corresponding member of the American Institute of Architects, and honorary member of the British Fire-Prevention Committee. He married May 10, 1881, Selma Weiskirch of Milwaukee, Wis., who died Nov. 27, 1901, and has two sons. Residence: 39 Strong Place, Brooklyn. Office: 33 Union Square, New York City.

GERHART, Francis Henry:

Real estate capitalist; born in St. Louis, Mo., June 28, 1860; son of Peter George and Octavia Agnes (Flandrin) Gerhart. He was educated in St. Louis University, and by private tutors, and in the St. Louis Law School. Mr. Gerhart has been in the real estate business in St. Louis for the past thirty years, making a specialty of office buildings. He was one of the first citizens to advocate the St. Louis Free Municipal Bridge, involving a five-years' strenuous campaign, but now building; was one of the prime movers for legislation, which has been enacted, to abolish steam railroad grade crossings in St. Louis, and is now urging additional ordinances to that end and for other civic reforms. Mr. Gerhart is a member of the Merchants' Exchange and a director of the Real Estate Exchange for several years. He is a Democrat and a Catholic. Residence: 4900 Lindell Avenue. Office: 707 Chestnut Street, St. Louis, Mo.

GERRISH, Frederic Henry:

Physician; born in Portland, Me., March 21, 1845; son of Oliver and Sarah (Little) Gerrish. He was graduated from Bowdoin College, A.B., 1866, A.M., and M.D., in 1869, and the degree of LL.D. was conferred upon him by the University of Michigan in 1904, and by Bowdoin College in 1905. Dr. Gerrish was professor of materia medica and therapeutics, 1873-1882; professor of anatomy, 1882-1905, and has been professor of surgery since 1905 at Bowdoin College; was professor of physiology in the University of Michigan, 1874-1875, and is consulting surgeon of Maine General, St. Mary's and the Children's Hospitals. He is editor and in large part author of the Text-book of Anatomy by American Authors, 1899; author of articles in Keen's, Park's, and Dennis's System of Surgery; translator and editor of Championnière's Chirurgie

Antiseptique, and contributor to various medical and scientific journals. Dr. Gerish was the first president of the Maine State Board of Health, 1885-1889; is a member of the American Surgical Association, the Société Internationale de Chirurgie, Association of American Anatomists, American Academy of Medicine (ex-president), American Therapeutic Society (president 1908-1909), American Medical Association, American Public Health Association, Maine Medical Association (ex-president), Congress of American Physicians and Surgeons, American Society of Naturalists, American Association for the Advancement of Science, American Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, Maine Historical Society, Maine Genealogical Society, Society for Psychical Research and the Phi Beta Kappa Society. He is president of the Portland Charitable Dispensary; associate incorporator of Maine General Hospital; trustee of the Portland Public Library, and a member of the Board of Overseers of Bowdoin College; is a member of the Society of Colonial Wars, Alpha Delta Phi fraternity, and of the Cumberland, Portland Athletic, Portland Country, and Alpha Delta Phi Clubs. Dr. Gerrish married in Portland, Me., Dec. 31, 1879, Emily Manning Swan. Address: 675 Congress Street, Portland, Me.

GERRY, Elbridge Thomas:

Lawyer and humanitarian; born in New York City, Dec. 25, 1837; son of Thomas R. Gerry, U. S. N., and Hannah G. (Goellet) Gerry; grandson of Elbridge Gerry, signer of the Declaration of Independence and Vice-President of the United States during the second Madison administration, and, on the maternal side, grandson of Peter P. Goellet, of New York. Mr. Gerry was graduated from Columbia University, A.B., 1857, A.M., 1860, and was admitted to the New York bar 1860. He became member of the New York State Constitutional Convention in 1867, and was a member of its Committee on the Pardoning Power. Mr. Gerry became active in humane work in connection with the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and later in connection with the formation of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children, organized in 1874, of which he was president, 1874-1901, and which because of his long and efficient service still bears the popular designation of "The Gerry Society" in New York City. Mr. Gerry is especially distinguished as promoter of New York legislation for the benefit of children and animals. He was appointed by the State Senate of New York in 1886, with Hon. Matthew Hale and Dr. A. P. Southwick, as a Commission to consider the most humane and effective method of executing the death sentence on criminals, as a result of which the present electrical system of execution displaced the old system of hanging in the State of New York. Since 1885 has been a governor of the New York Hospital; was chairman of the executive committee of the Centennial Celebration of the Constitution, 1889; chairman of the commission to consider the best method of caring for the insane of New York City, 1892. He has been a trustee of the General Theological Seminary of the Episcopal Church since 1877; director of the Newport Trust Company, since 1901, and Industrial Trust Company, Providence, R. I., since 1902. Mr. Gerry is a member of the Newport Reading Room, Sons of the Revolution, St. Nicholas Society, N. Y. Yacht Club (commodore, 1886-1893), and the Knickerbocker, Metropolitan, Turf and Field, Merchants, Players, Tuxedo Larehmont Yacht, and Ardsley Clubs of New York City, the Somerset Clubs of Boston, and the Metropolitan Club of Washington, D. C. He married in 1867, Louisa M., daughter of Robert J. and Louisa M. (Storm) Livingston, and granddaughter of Morgan Lewis, governor of New York and grand master of Masons. They have two daughters and two sons. Residence: Seaverge, Bellevue Avenue, Newport, R. I. Office: 258 Broadway, New York City.

GIBBON, John Heysham:

Surgeon; born in Charlotte, N. C., March 16, 1871; son of Robert and Mary Amelia (Rogers) Gibbon. He was educated in private schools in North Carolina and received the degree of M.D. from Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia, 1891. Dr. Gibbon is surgeon to the Pennsylvania, Bryn Mawr, and Jefferson Medical College Hospitals, and has been professor of surgery at Jefferson Medical School since 1907. He was first lieutenant and assistant surgeon in the Third United States Volunteer Engineers, during the Spanish-American War, and is consulting surgeon of the Woman's Hospital of Philadelphia. Dr. Gibbon is a first lieutenant of the Army Medical Reserve Corps, and is a fellow of the Philadelphia College of Physicians, the Philadelphia Academy of Surgery, and a member of the American Surgical Association, the Society of Clinical Surgery, and of many State and county medical societies, and is also member of the Racquet, Southern and Merion Cricket Clubs. He is a contributor to the Reference Hand-book of the Medical Sciences, Keen's System of Surgery, 1907, and of many articles to surgical journals, besides being the author of a Text-Book on Surgery, published in 1907. He married at San Francisco, Calif., Sept. 2, 1901, Marjorie G. Young, and they have four children. Address: 1608 Spruce Street, Philadelphia.

GIBBONS, James:

Cardinal and archbishop of Baltimore; born in Baltimore, July 23, 1834, of Irish parentage. His parents returned with him during his early childhood to their former home in Ireland, and he began his education there until 1848, when, with his parents, he settled in New Orleans, La., and attended parochial schools. His higher education was received in St. Charles College, Maryland, 1855-1857, and St. Mary's Seminary, Baltimore. He was ordained to the priesthood of the Roman Catholic Church, June 30, 1861, and after a few months' service as assistant at St. Patrick's Church in Baltimore, he became pastor of St. Bridget's, Canton, Md., and latter became chancellor of the archdiocese and private secretary to Archbishop Spalding of Baltimore; vicar apostolic of North Carolina, 1868, bishop of Richmond, Va., 1872; coadjutor archbishop of Baltimore, May 20, 1877, succeeding to the see Oct. 3, 1877, and he was created cardinal by Pope Pius IX., and invested with the princely insignia June 30, 1866. He was assistant chancellor of the Second Plenary Council of the American Roman Catholic Church, in 1866, and presided over the Third Plenary Council at Baltimore in November, 1884. Cardinal Gibbons has written several books which have attained wide circulation, including: The Faith of Our Fathers; Our Christian Heritage; The Ambassador of Christ; True Manhood. Address: 408 North Charles Street, Baltimore.

GIBBS, George:

Author, illustrator; born in New Orleans, La., March 8, 1870; son of late Medical Inspector Benjamin E. Gibbs, U. S. Navy and of Elizabeth (Kellogg) Gibbs. After attending schools in Switzerland and Washington, D. C., he entered the U. S. Naval Academy, 1886, but resigned in 1888 to study art; student at the Art Students' League and the Corcoran Gallery, Washington, D. C., until 1893; then began book and magazine illustration. He removed to Philadelphia in 1898, to work as illustrator for the Curtis Publishing Company. He is author of: Pike and Cutlass; In Search of Mademoiselle; The Love of Monsieur; and he has also published American Sea Fights; a portfolio of his drawings. Address: Rosemont, Pa.

GIBBS, George:

Consulting engineer; born in Chicago, April 19, 1861; son of Francis and Eliza (Hosmer) Gibbs. He was graduated from the Stevens Institute of Technology in 1882, and afterward became engineer of tests and chemist, 1884-1887, and mechanical engineer, 1887-1897, with the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway Company. He was consulting engineer of the Baldwin Locomotive Works and Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, 1897-1901; consulting engineer of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, 1901-1905; first vice-president of Westinghouse Church, Kerr and Company, 1902-1905; member of the Electric Traction Commission of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad, 1902-1905; consulting engineer of the Metropolitan Securities Company, 1904-1905; member of the Board of Engineers of the New York Terminal of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company; chief engineer of electric traction of the Long Island Railroad Company, and of the West Jersey and Seashore Railroad; chief engineer of electric traction and station construction, Pennsylvania Tunnel and Terminal Railway, and consulting engineer of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Ry. Mr. Gibbs is a director of the American Society of Civil Engineers; member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, American Institute of Electrical Engineers, Institution of Civil Engineers of England, and of the Century, University, Down Town, and South Side Sportsmen's of New York City and the Rittenhouse Club of Philadelphia. Address: 10 Bridge Street, New York City.

GIBBS, William David:

President of New Hampshire College; born in Winchester, Ill., March 15, 1869; son of William C. and Margaret C. (Tankersley) Gibbs. He was graduated from the University of Illinois, B.S., 1893, M.S., 1894; and was a post-graduate student at the University of Wisconsin in 1894. He was appointed assistant professor of agriculture in 1895; associate professor 1896, and professor of agronomy in 1898 in the Ohio State University; was director of the New Hampshire Agricultural Experiment Station in 1902; dean and director of the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College in 1902, and since 1903 has been president of New Hampshire College. He is a member of the Sigma Xi Society, and Kappa Sigma fraternity, and is a trustee of the New Hampshire College of Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts. President Gibbs married in Toledo, Ohio, June 26, 1901, Perla Gray Bowman, and they have one son. Address: Durham, N. H.

GIBSON, Charles Dana:

Illustrator; born in Roxbury, Mass., Sept. 14, 1865; son of Charles De Wolf and Josephine Elizabeth Gibson. He received his general education in schools in Boston and Flushing, L. I., and attended the Art Students' League, 1883-1884. He devoted himself to illustrating from 1887, and in 1905 made an exclusive contract with Collier's Weekly, at the largest salary ever paid for black-and-white work, but at the end of that year went to Europe to study oil painting. He has illustrated: Richard Harding Davis' Soldiers of Fortune; Anthony Hope's Prisoner of Zenda, and Rupert of Hentzau, and other books, as well as many illustrations in magazines. Among the series of sketches made by him are: Americans, 1890; London as seen by C. D. Gibson, 1898; People of Dickens, 1898; Sketches in Egypt, 1898; Education of Mr. Pipp, 1899; The Widow and Her Friends, 1901, and a collection of these series, in two large volumes under the title of The Gibson Books, has attained an exceptionally large popular circulation. He is a member of the Players', Racquet and Meadow Brook Clubs of New York City. Mr. Gibson married, Nov. 7, 1895, Irene Langhorne, of Richmond, Va. Residence: 127 East 73d Street. Address: 19 West 31st Street, New York City.

GIBSON, Robert A.:

Bishop of Virginia; born at Petersburg, Va., July 9, 1846; son of Rev. Churehill J. and Lucy Fitzhugh (Atkinson) Gibson. He was graduated from Hampden-Sidney College, A.B., 1867, and from the Virginia Theological Seminary, 1870, and the D.D. degree was conferred upon him in 1897 by Kenyon College and by the University of the South. He was ordered deacon in the ministry of the Episcopal Church in 1870 by Bishop Whipple, and ordained priest by Bishop Johns. He was missionary of the South-Eastern Convocation, 1870-1872; assistant in St. James' Church, Richmond, Va., 1872-1878; rector of Trinity Church, Parkersburg, W. Va., 1878-1887, and rector of Christ Church, Cincinnati, Ohio, from 1887, until his consecration to the episcopate as Bishop of Virginia to which he was consecrated by Bishops Whittle, Peterkin, Vincent and others, in 1897. Bishop Gibson married, at Staunton, Va., Nov. 12, 1872, Susan Baldwin Stuart. Address: Richmond, Va.

GIBSON, Robert Williams:

Architect; born at Aveley, Essex, England, Nov. 17, 1854; son of Samuel Lodwick and Eliza (Williams) Gibson. He was educated in Ingress House School, Gravesend, Kent, and graduated from the Royal Academy of Arts, London, 1879, receiving a silver medal and scholarship. After graduation he traveled in Europe, 1880; came to the United States, 1881; practised architecture in Albany, N. Y., 1881-1888; since then in New York City; and became a naturalized citizen in 1887. Mr. Gibson was the designer and architect of the Albany Cathedral, New York Clearing House, New York Botanical Museum, New York Coffee Exchange, United States Trust Company Building, and the Randall Memorial Church (Sailor's Snug Harbor), Greenwich Savings Bank, and many banks, churches, residences, and other structures. Before coming to America he served seven years in the English Volunteers. Mr. Gibson is a member and ex-director of the American Institute Architects, Architectural League (twice president); member of the New York Academy of Sciences, New York Botanical Society, New York Horticultural Society, American Fine Arts Society, New York Chamber of Commerce, St. George's Society, and the Century, National Arts and Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht Clubs. He married in New York City, in 1880, Caroline Hammond, and they have four children. Residence: 15 East 77th Street. Office: 76 William Street, New York City.

GIDDINGS, Franklin Henry:

Educator and sociologist; born in Sherman, Conn., March 23, 1855; son of Rev. Edward J. and Jane (Fuller) Giddings. He was graduated from Union College, A.B., 1877, A.M., 1889, Ph.D., 1897; and received the degree of LL.D. from Oberlin College, 1900. He was engaged in newspaper work, 1877-1888, being editorial writer for the Springfield Republican, 1878, and the Springfield Union 1884-1888. He was lecturer on Political Science in Bryn Mawr College, 1888-1889, and associate, 1889-1891, associate professor, 1891-1892, and professor of Political Science, 1892-1894, in the same institution. He was lecturer on sociology in Columbia, 1891-1894, and since 1894 has been professor of sociology in Columbia University. He has been a member of the Editorial Board of the Political Science Quarterly since 1894. Professor Giddings was a member of the Central Council of the Charity Organization Society of New York in 1894; has been a trustee of Union College from 1902; has been a vice-president since 1890 of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, and was editor of its "Annals," 1890-1894; is a member of the American Economic Association, edited its "Publications," 1891-1893, and was its first vice-president, 1896-1897; vice-president of the American Sociological Society since 1906, fellow of the American Ethnological Society, the Philadelphia Academy of Sciences and Institut International de Sociologie de Paris. Professor Giddings is joint author, with Professor John Bates Clark, of The Modern Distributive Process, 1888; and is author of: The Theory of Sociology, 1894; Principles of Sociology, 1896; The Theory of Socialization, 1897; The Elements of Sociology, 1898; Democracy and Empire, 1900; Inductive Sociology, 1901; and Descriptive and Historical Sociology, 1906. Translations of his works have been made and published, into French, Russian, Hebrew, Spanish, Italian, Greek, and Japanese. He is a member of the Authors, Century and Barnard Clubs. Professor Giddings married Elizabeth P. Hawes, and they have a son and two daughters. Address: 150 West 79th Street, New York City.

GIEGERICH, Leonard A.:

Jurist; born in Bavaria, May 20, 1855; son of Leonard and Theresa (Kramer) Giegerich. He was educated in village, public and parochial schools and has received the honorary degree of LL.D., from Manhattan College, New York City. He was admitted to the New York bar, May 31, 1877, and practised law. He was a member of the New York Assembly, 1887; collector of United States Internal revenue, 1887-1890; justice of the City Court of New York. 1890; county clerk of New York County. 1891; judge of the Court of Common Pleas. 1891-1895; delegate to the Constitutional Convention of New York. 1894; justice of the Supreme Court. 1896, reelected November, 1906 for the term expiring Dec. 31, 1920. He is an honorary member of the New York State Bar Association; New York County Lawyers' Association; member of the Knights of Columbus, Catholic Benevolent Legion, St. Francis Xavier Sodality, Manhattan College Alumni Society, Tammany Society, New York Historical Society, Fidelity Gesang Verein; is treasurer of the Park District Protective League and member of the Catholic, Democratic Manhattan, Arion, German Press and New York Fishing, and Fordham Clubs. He married in New York City, Sept. 6, 1887, Louise M. Boll and they have two sons. Address: West 252d Street, and Arlington Avenue, Riverdale-on-Hudson, New York City.

GIES, William J.:

Biological chemist; born in Reisterstown, Md., Feb. 21, 1872; son of John and Ophelia (Ensminger) Gies. He was educated in Gettysburg College, B.S., 1893, M.S., 1896, Yale, Ph.B., 1894, Ph.D., 1897, was a student in the University of Berne, Switzerland, 1899, and in the Marine Biological Laboratory, Wood's Hole, Mass., 1901-1902. He was connected with Yale University as laboratory assistant in zoölogy, 1895, and in physiological chemistry, 1894-1896, assistant in physiological chemistry and tutor in physiology, 1896-1898. Since then he has been connected with the Faculty of Columbia University as instructor, 1898-1902, adjunct professor, 1902-1905, and professor, 1905-1907, of physiological chemistry, and since 1907 as professor of biological chemistry. He has also filled chairs of general chemistry in the College of Physicians and Surgeons of New York since 1904, and of physiological chemistry in the New York College of Pharmacy since 1904 and in New York Teachers College since 1909. He has been consulting chemist to the New York Botanical Garden since 1902, and secretary of the Faculty of Medicine Columbia University, since 1905. Professor Gies is a fellow and secretary of Section K, American Association for the Advancement of Science since 1904; secretary of the Society for Experimental Biology and Medicine since 1903; secretary of the American Society of Biological Chemists since 1906; member of the American Society of Naturalists, American Chemical Society, American Physiological Society, International Society of Botanists, German Chemical Society; fellow (and councillor since 1907) of the New York Academy of Science; member of the Harvey Society and the Torrey Botanical Club, president of the Society of Physiological Chemists, 1890-1902; secretary of the New York Gettysburg (College) Club, 1898-1906, and president since 1906; and secretary of the Physiological Congress, Louisiana Purchase Exposition, 1904. Professor Gies is a member of the Sigma Xi (honor society), and of the Nu Sigma Nu and Druid fraternities. He is author of scientific works, chief among which are: Biochemical Researches (volume I, 1903; volume II, 1906; volume III, 1908; volume IV, 1909); and is editor of the Proceedings of the Society for Experimental Biology and Medicine, also of the American Society of Biological Chemists, and collaborator of the Journal of Biological Chemistry. He was editor of the Gettysburg College Spectrum, 1892 (alumni editor, 1896-1897), and edited the Gettysburg College Monthly, 1891-1893. He founded the Pen and Sword at Gettysburg College, and is donor of annual literary and debating prizes at that college. Professor Gies is a Lutheran, was the choice of the Gettysburg College alumni for president in 1904, and was nominated an alumni member of the Board of Trustees of Gettysburg College in 1907 and elected in 1908. He has been actively interested in every important political campaign since 1892 as an independent Republican, took the stump for Roosevelt, Low, Jerome, etc.; elected Republican captain of the 43rd Election District of former 19th Assembly District; secretary of the Republican organization that elected Harry W. Mack as Republican leader of the New 15th Assembly District, 1906; delegate to the State Conventions that nominated Charles E. Hughes for governor, 1906 and 1908; treasurer of the Judge Spiegelberg Campaign Committee, 1907, and of the 15th Assembly District Organizations since 1908. He married in Millersburg, Pa., May 24, 1899, Mabel L. Lark, and they have two sons. Address: 437 West 59th Street, New York City.

GIFFORD, John Clayton:

Forester; born at Mary's Landing, N. J., Feb. 8, 1870. He was graduated from Swarthmore College, B.S., and was graduate student in the University of Michigan, Johns Hopkins University and the University of Munich, receiving from the latter the degree of D.O.Ec. (Doctor of Economics). He was instructor in economic botany at Swarthmore College, forester for the New Jersey Geological Survey and was formerly assistant professor of forestry in Cornell University, and special agent of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. He was founder and former editor of The Forester, now Conservation, the official organ of the American Forestry Association at Washington, D. C. Professor Gifford has written articles on forestry in the engineering magazines. The Forester, Swiss Journal of Forestry and Reports on Forestry to the Geological of New Jersey, and is author of: Practical Forestry (Appleton); The Luquillo Forest Reserve of Porto Rico; Silvicultural Prospects of the Coastal Plain of New Jersey. He is at present engaged in reporting on forests in South Florida and tropical America in general. He is a member of the Society of American Foresters. He married in Plainfield, N. J. May, 1896, Edith Wright. Address: Coconut Grove, Florida.

GIFFORD, Robert Ladd:

Engineer and inventor; born in Smithfield, Ohio, Sept. 12, 1867; son of William and Lydia (Ladd) Gifford. He was graduated from Cornell University in 1891. He has been president of the Illinois Engineering Company since 1900, and is nationally known as an inventor of steam appliances and a process for the recovery of sulphate of iron. He is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers; the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers, the Western Society of Engineers; is a director of the Anti-Cruelty Society of Chicago, and is a member of the Alpha Delta Phi fraternity, and the University, South Shore Country, and City Clubs of Chicago. He married in Chicago, Oct. 12, 1898, Evelyn A. Brooks, and has one son. Residence: 4908 Kimbark Avenue. Office: Monadnock Building, Chicago, and branches.

GILBERT, Alexander:

Banker; born in Elizabeth, N. J., Aug. 10, 1839; son of Thomas and Phebe M. Gilbert. He was educated in New Haven, Conn., and afterward engaged in banking in New York City, and at the age of twenty-four was appointed cashier of the Market and Fulton National Bank and for years was the youngest bank officer in New York City. He is now president of the Market and Fulton National Bank; was secretary of the New York Clearing House, 1893-1894; was member of the Clearing House Committee of New York City, 1903-1904; elected president of the New York Clearing House Association, October, 1906; treasurer of the Hillside Cemetery Association, of Plainfield, N. J.; mayor of Plainfield, N. J., serving 1890-1896 (elected two terms without opposition); president of Plainfield Public Library. Mr. Gilbert was a delegate to the National Republican Convention of 1892, and Presidential Elector in 1908. He is a member of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, N. Y. Board of Trade and Transportation, New York Chamber of Commerce and Union League, Republican and Fulton Clubs of New York City, and of the Plainfield Country and Park Clubs of Plainfield, N. J. Mr. Gilbert married June 6, 1865, Louise F. Randolph. Residence: Plainfield, N. J.

GILBERT, Cass:

Architect; born in Zanesville, Ohio, Nov. 24, 1859; son of Brigadier-General Samuel A. and Elizabeth Fulton (Wheeler) Gilbert. He was educated in the public schools of Zanesville and St. Paul, and in the Massaehusetts Institute of Technology. Mr. Gilbert began the study of architecture in 1876 and has been practising for himself since 1883. He is architect of the new United States Custom House, Union Club, Broadway Chambers, West Street Building, and others in New York City; Brazer Building and Suffolk Savings Bank in Boston; Art Building and Festival Hall, Louisiana Purchase Exposition; the new State Capitol of Minnesota; Public Library Building, St. Louis; and Essex County Court House in Newark, N. J. Mr. Gilbert is a member and founder of the Architectural League; president of the American Institute of Architects; a member of the Sons of Revolution; academicien member of the National Academy of Design; was member the Jury of Fine Arts, World's Columbian Exposition, Chicago, 1893, and the National Jury for Architecture at the Paris Exposition in 1900, and he is a member of the Century, Union and Lawyers' Club of New York City, the Cosmos Club of Washington and the Minnesota Club of St. Paul. Mr. Gilbert married in Milwaukee, Wis., in 1887, Julia T. Finch. Residence: 45 East 78th Street, New York City, and Ridgefield, Conn. Office address: 11 East 24th Street, New York City.

GILBERT, Grove Karl:

Geologist; born in Rochester, N. Y., May 6, 1843; son of Grove Sheldon and Eliza (Stanley) Gilbert. He was graduated from the University of Rochester, A.B., 1862; was teacher, 1862-1863; assistant at Ward's Natural History Museum, 1863-1869; assistant geologist in the Ohio Geological Survey, 1869-1871; geologist of the Wheeler Survey, 1871-1874; of the Powell Survey, 1874-1879; and has been geologist in the service of the United States Geological Survey since 1879. He was lecturer at Johns Hopkins, 1894-1895, and associate editor of Johnson's Encyclopedia. Mr. Gilbert received the Wollaston medal from the London Geological Society in 1899; the Walker Prize from the Boston Society of Natural History in 1907; the degree of LL.D. from Rochester University in 1898, from the University of Wisconsin in 1904, and from the University of Pennsylvania in 1908. He is a member of the National Academy of Sciences, American Association for the Advancement of Science (past president), American Society of Naturalists (past president); Geological Society of America (past president), National Geographic Society, American Philosophical Society, and the Washington Geological Society. He is author of: Geology of the Henry Mountains; Lake Bonneville; Introduction to Physical Geography; and numerous articles on geological subjects. He married at Cambridge, Mass., Fannie Loretta Porter and has two children. Address: United States Geological Survey, Washington, D. C.

GILBERT, William Ball:

United States circuit judge; born in Fairfax County, Va., July 4, 1847; son of John and Mary Catherine (Ball) Gilbert. He was graduated from Williams College, 1868, and from the Law School of the University of Michigan in 1872. He engaged in practice at Portland, Ore., in 1892, and became one of the leading lawyers at that bar, and also prominent in the councils of the Republican party of that State. In 1892 he was appointed by President Harrison to his present office of judge of the Circuit Court of the United States for the Ninth Judicial Circuit. Address: Portland, Ore.

GILCHRIST, Albert W.:

Governor of Florida; elected on the Democratic ticket in 1908, for the four-year term expiring in January, 1913. Address: Tallahassee, Fla.

GILDER, Jeannette Leonard:

Journalist and critic; born in Flushing, N. Y., Oct. 3, 1849; daughter of Rev. William H. and Jane (Nutt) Gilder. She was educated in St. Thomas Hall, a woman's college conducted by her father, and began her newspaper career at 18 as a writer on the Newark, (N. J.) Morning Register, conducted by her brother, Richard Watson Gilder, and as Newark reporter for the New York Tribune. She was later on editorial staff of the old Scribner's Monthly (now the Century Magazine); literary editor, 1875, and later dramatic and musical critic of the New York Herald until 1880. With her brother, Joseph B. Gilder, she founded in 1881, and has ever since been joint editor with him of The Critic (now Putnam's Magazine). Miss Gilder has been a correspondent of leading papers in Boston and Philadelphia, and of the London Academy, and is now regular correspondent and literary critic of the Chicago Tribune. She is author of: Taken by Siege; Pen Portraits of Literary Women (with Helen G. Cone); Essays from the Critic and Authors at Home, 1889; (with J. B. Gilder); Representative Poems of Living Poets, 1886; The Autobiography of a Tomboy, 1900; The Tomboy at Work, 1904. Miss Gilder is a member of the Colony Club of New York. Residences: 100 East 17th Street, New York City, and Redding Ridge, Conn. Office: Putnam's Magazine, 27 West 23d Street, New York City.

GILDER, Joseph B.:

Editor; born in Flushing, N. Y., June 29, 1858; son of Rev. William H. and Jane (Nutt) Gilder. He entered the U. S. Naval Academy, 1872; but resigned in 1874 and entered journalism in the capacity of reporter on Newark newspapers, 1874-1877, and was also a correspondent of the Boston Advertiser, Buffalo Courier, and other papers during the same period. He became a reporter for the New York Herald, 1877, and resigned as assistant city editor, Dec., 1880, in order to establish in January, 1881, with his sister, Jeannette L. Gilder, The Critic, of which was co-editor until Dec., 1901. He was president and treasurer of The Critic Company, 1893-1898; literary adviser to The Century Company, 1895-1902; U. S. despatch agent, London (succeeding the late B. F. Stevens), 1902-1904; editor, since July 1, 1906, of Putnam's Magazine (formerly The Critic). Mr. Gilder was treasurer of the American Copyright League, 1886; one of the organizers, 1891, and first secretary of the University Settlement Society of New York. He was author and composer of the patriotic song "In God We Trust" and editor of: James Russell Lowell's Impressions of Spain; Andrew Carnegie's Gospel of Wealth; Addresses of John Hay; The American Idea. Joint editor (with Jeannette L. Gilder): Essays from the Critic; Authors at Home. He is a member of the Century Club (New York), and Whitefriars (London). Address: 27 West 23d Street, New York City.

GILDER, Richard Watson:

Editor of the Century Magazine and author; born in Bordentown, N. J., Feb. 8, 1844; son of Rev. William Henry Gilder, A.M. and Jane (Nutt) Gilder. He was educated in his father's school and in Dr. James Strong's Greek and Hebrew classes and by private tutors. He has received the degree of A. M., Harvard, 1890; of LL.D. from Princeton (Sequoiacentennial), Yale (Bicentennial), and Columbia; LL.D. from Dickinson College and from Wesleyan (Bicentennial of Wesley); and was made chevalier of the Légion d'Honneur of France, 1908. Mr. Gilder was a private in the Union Army, 1863; student of law in Philadelphia; connected with the daily press of Newark, N. J.; editor (for the Scribner's) of Hours at Home (monthly) 1869; since 1870 on the editorial staff of what is now known as the Century (originally Scribner's) Magazine, and since 1881 its editor-in-chief. He is a member of the Academy of Arts and Letters; a founder of the Society of American Artists and of the American Copyright League; member of the Executive Committee of the National Civil Service Reform League; president of the New York Association for the Blind; member of the Museum of Safety and Sanitation, and of the Bureau of Municipal Research; president of the council of 100 of the Parks and Playgrounds Association; founder and first secretary of the New Jersey Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals; first president of the New York Kindergarten Association, and of the Public Art League of America; member and was first vice-president and acting president of the City Club; member of the Century, Authors (a founder), Players and National Arts Clubs. Mr. Gilder was a member of the Executive Committee of the Citizens' Union, and chairman of the New York Tenement House Committee, 1894. He is author of: The New Day, 1875; later,

The Celestial Passion; Lyrics; Two Worlds; The Great Remembrance, and Other Poems: For the Country. 1897 (collection); In Palestine and Other Poems, 1898; Poems and Inscriptions, 1901; A Christmas Wreath, 1903 (collection); In the Heights, 1905; A Book of Music, 1906 (collection). The Fire Divine, 1907; Complete "Poems," including the above and Helena's Garden, 1908. He married Helena de Kay, daughter of Commodore de Kay of New York (of the Navy of the Argentine Republic), and granddaughter of Joseph Rodman Drake (the poet); and they have living two sons and three daughters. Address: 33 East 17th Street, New York City.

GILDERSLEEVE, Henry Alger:

Jurist; born on a farm in Township of Clinton, Dutchess County, N. Y., Aug. 1, 1840; son of Smith J. and Rachel (Alger) Gildersleeve. He was educated in the Hudson River Institute, Claverack, N. Y., and College Hill, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; taught district school in Bull's Head District, town of Clinton, 1857; recruited a company, and was mustered in, Sept. 17, 1862, as captain of Company C, 150th New York Volunteer Infantry; served with the regiment at Baltimore, participating in the battle of Gettysburg and subsequent campaigns in Maryland and Virginia, in the Army of the Potomac; then served in Sherman's Army until the close of the war, including the March to the Sea; was made provost-marshal of the First Division, Twentieth Army Corps, on the staff of General Williams, of Michigan; promoted major of regiment and brevetted lieutenant-colonel, U. S. Volunteers, by President Lincoln "for gallant and meritorious service in the campaigns of Georgia and the Carolinas;" mustered out June, 1865. He studied law in the office of Henry W. Johnson, in New York City, and attended Columbia College Law School, was admitted to the bar at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., May, 1866, practised law in New York City from 1866; elected judge of the Court of General Sessions, New York City, 1875; was renominated in 1889, but failed of reelection; was appointed by Governor Hill, May, 1891, to fill a vacancy in the Superior Court of the City of New York, and elected November, 1891, to the same position; transferred to the Supreme Court of New York in January, 1896, under the provisions of new Constitution, abolishing the Superior Court; re-elected, 1905, for term expiring Dec. 31, 1919, and is now presiding justice of the Appellate Term in the First Department. He was elected lieutenant-colonel of the Twelfth Regiment, National Guard of New York, 1870, and during the Orange Riots in New York City, 1871, had command of the Twelfth Regiment, which was assigned to defense of the State Arsenal at Thirty-fifth Street and Seventh Avenue. He was distinguished as marksman and was a member of the American Rifle Team which won in contest with the Irish Team at Creedmore, 1874, and captain of the team in the contest (which it won) with the Irish team at Dollymouth, near Dublin, June 9, 1875; also in several competitions in England and Scotland. He is author of: Rifles and Marksmanship, 1896. Judge Gildersleeve is a member of the Manhattan, National Democratic, and New York Athletic Clubs, and of the Garden City and Oakland Golf Clubs, the Country Club of Westchester and the Robbins Island Hunting Club. He married in New York City, April 14, 1868, Virginia Crocheron, and has a son and a daughter. Address: 27 West 23d Street, New York City.

GILDERSLEEVE, Oliver:

Shipbuilder and merchant; born in Gildersleeve, Middlesex County, Conn., March 6, 1814; son of Henry and Emily (Fonette) Gildersleeve; descended in both lines from early English settlers in Connecticut. He was educated in the district schools of Gildersleeve, Conn., the Chase Private School in Middletown and public high school in Hartford, Conn. At seventeen he began his business life in his father's shipyard (S. Gildersleeve & Sons), and for ten years, interspersed with frequent trips over the United States, Canada, and Europe, continued to work as a practical shipbuilder. The firm built the U. S. gunboat Cayuga in 1861, and the yard has built one hundred and seventy-seven vessels since he became connected with the business. He was also interested, with his brother Sylvester, in the shipping commission business in New York City, 1881-1884, and he established in 1897, in New York City, an agency for selling and chartering vessels constructed at the Gildersleeve Ship Yard, and has since sold or profitably employed ninety-nine vessels of from 400 to 1250 tons burden, sent from the Gildersleeve Ship Yard. Mr. Gildersleeve is president of the Portland Water Company, Portland Manufacturing Company, and Middlesex Quarry Company, all of Portland, Conn., the Phoenix Lead Company of Silver Cliff, Colo., and the United States Graphotype Company, of New York City; director of the First National Bank of Portland, Alabama Barge and Coal Company, of Tidewater, Ala., Ideal Manufacturing Company of Gildersleeve, Conn.; trustee of Freeston Savings Bank of Portland, Conn.; trustee under the will of Henry Gildersleeve, deceased, and trustee of the S. Gildersleeve School Fund of Gildersleeve, Conn. He is chairman of the committee on River Improvements in The Association for the Permanent Improvement of the Lower Connecticut River, which association was organized in 1908, has a membership of 2,500, and has secured an order from Congress for the survey of the Lower Connecticut River, which is now being made at an estimated expense of $2,000, with a view to securing a 14-foot permanent channel. On Aug. 4, 1909, Mr. Gildersleeve was appointed, by the Governor of Connecticut, a member of the State Commission of five on Rivers and Harbors, whose duties are to investigate the condition of the rivers and harbors of Connecticut and to report to the next General Assembly their findings and make such recommendations as may seem best regarding the improvement of such rivers and harbors. He was Democratic nominee for Congress in 1900, and he is warden since 1884 of Trinity Church (Episcopalian) of Portland, Conn., superintendent of its Sunday School since 1872; established a Memorial Fund in connection with that church in 1900; and has been a delegate to the Diocesan Convention annually from 1884 and a member of the Diocesan Committee on Finance and of several other committees of the diocese. He is a member of the Middlesex County Historical Society, Civic Federation of New England, National Geographic Society, Economic Club of New York, and the Association of Descendants of Andrew Ward. He married, Nov. 8, 1871, Mary Ellen, daughter of Hon. Alfred Hall of Portland, Conn., and they have had eight children of whom two are now deceased. Residence: Gildersleeve, Conn. Office: 1 Broadway, New York City.

GILL, John, Jr.:

Congressman and lawyer; born in Baltimore City, June 9, 1850; son of George M. and Ann (McKim) Gill. He received his academic training at Hampden-Sidney College, Va., and studied law at the Maryland University. In 1871 Mr. Gill was admitted to the Baltimore Bar, and has for a number of years been senior member of the law firm of Gill & Preston. Mr. Gill at one time served as one of the legal advisers of Baltimore City, and for nine years was one of its police commissioners; in the years 1874, 1875, 1876 and 1877 he was a member of the Maryland house of delegates; in 1882 was elected to the Maryland Senate for a term of four years, and was reelected for a like term in 1904; it was while serving part of this second term that Mr. Gill was elected as a Democrat to the Fifty-ninth Congress. He was reelected to the Sixtieth and Sixty-first Congresses from the Fourth Maryland District. Address: 1007 North Charles Street, Baltimore.

GILL, Laura Drake:

Educator; born in Chesterville, Me., Aug. 24, 1860; daughter of Elisha and Hulda (Capen) Gill. She received her early education in the public schools of Brockton, Mass., was graduated from Smith College, A.B., 1881, and A.M., 1885; took post-graduate work in the University of Leipzig, 1890-1892, and in the Sorbonne, Paris, 1892-1893, and she received the degree of D.C.L. from the University of the South in 1907. Miss Gill was teacher of mathematics in Miss Capen's School, Northampton, Mass., 1880-1889 and 1893-1898; director of relief work of the Cuban Orphan Society in Cuba, 1898-1901; dean of Barnard College, 1901-1908. Since 1908 she has been in volunteer educational work as president of the Association of Collegiate Alumnae, president of the department of Women's Organizations in the National Educational Association and chairman of education of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. She is a trustee of Smith College and of the Clarke School for the Deaf; member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the Society for the Promotion of Industrial Education, National Red Cross Society, American Civic Association, National Municipal League, and the Barnard, Women's University and Smith College Clubs of New York City, College Club of Boston, and College Club of Baltimore. Address: 1326 19th Street, Washington, D. C.

GILL, Theodore Nicholas:

Professor of zoölogy; born in New York City, March 21, 1837; son of James Darrell and Elizabeth (Vosburgh) Gill, and a descendant of Nicholas Gill, who was admiralty judge of Newfoundland in 1722. He attended private schools and received instruction from special tutors, became adjunct professor of physics and natural history in Columbian University, 1861-1862, at the same time taking graduate studies, and he received from that University the degrees of A. M., 1865, M.D., 1866, and the honorary degrees of Ph.D., 1870, and LL.D., 1895. He was appointed in 1863 assistant and librarian in the Smithsonian Institution; was appointed assistant librarian of Congress in 1866, but resigned in 1874. He was lecturer on natural history, 1864-1866 and again, 1873-1884 in Columbian University, and since 1884 has been professor of zoölogy in the same institution. Professor Gill prepared reports on zoölogy for the Smithsonian Institution, 1879-1886. He is author of numerous works on systematic zoölogy and has written hundreds of articles on zoölogy for encyclopedias. He has been a member of the National Academy of Sciences since 1873; is a fellow and was president, 1896-1897 of the American Association for the Advancement of Science; fellow of the American Ornithologists' Union, and a member of about fifty other scientific societies. Residence: 321 John Marshall Place. Office: Smithsonian Institute, Washington, D. C.

GILLESPIE, George Lewis:

Major-general Corps of Engineers, U. S. Army, retired; born in Kingston, Tenn., June 17, 1843. He was graduated from West Point in 1862, one of the stars in his class, and was assigned to the Corps of Engineers, and served with distinction in the Civil War, being engineer officer on the staff of the general commanding the Army of the Potomac, 1862-1864, and after that chief engineer of the Shenandoah. He was present at Lee's surrender at Appomattox, was twice brevetted for gallantry, and received the Congressional Medal of Honor for bravery. At the close of the war in 1865, he became chief engineer in the reconstruction of the Gulf States and the restoration of the Republic of Mexico. He was twice brevetted for gallantry in the Civil War, was promoted second lieutenant, June 17, 1862; first lieutenant, March 3, 1863; captain, April 22, 1864; major, Sept. 5, 1871; lieutenant-colonel, Oct. 12, 1886; colonel, Oct. 2, 1895; brigadier-general, chief of Engineers, May 3, 1901; major-general, Jan. 23, 1904, and retired June 17, 1905. After the Civil War period he filled many important positions as an engineer officer, was president of the Mississippi River Commission in 1884, and during the War with Spain in 1898; commissioned brigadier-general, chief of Engineers, May 3, 1901; appointed major-general Jan. 23, 1904, and assigned as assistant chief of staff until retired by operation of law, June 17, 1905. Address: 1533 New Hampshire Avenue, Washington, D. C.

GILLESPIE, Oscar William:

Congressman and lawyer, born in Clarke County, Miss., June 20, 1858; son of T. J. and Mary E. Gillespie. He was graduated from Mansfield College in Tarrant County, Texas; admitted to the bar, November, 1886; served as assistant county attorney, 1886-1888, and as prosecuting attorney of Tarrant County, 1890-1894. He was elected to the Fifty-eighth and Fifty-ninth and Sixtieth Congresses and reelected to the Sixty-first Congress from the Twelfth Texas District, as a Democrat. He married, Dec. 23, 1884, Ada Kate Hodges, of Mansfield, Texas. Address: Fort Worth, Texas.

GILLETT, Charles Ripley:

Registrar and clergyman; born in New York City, Nov. 29, 1855; son of Rev. Ezra Hall (D.D.) and Mary Jane (Kendall) Gillett. He was graduated from New York University, A.B., 1874, B.S., C.E., M.A., 1876, honorary D.D., 1898; student in the Union Theological Seminary, 1877-1880, University of Berlin in Germany, 1881-1883; honorary L.H.D., Beloit College, 1899. He was librarian, 1883-1908, instructor of propædæutics, 1893-1908, registrar since 1908, secretary of the faculty since 1898, Union Theological Seminary New York City; assistant curator of the Department of Oriental Antiquities, Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York City, since 1900. Author: General Catalogues, Union Theological Seminary, 1886, 1898, 1908; Catalogue Egyptian Antiquities in Metropolitan Museum in N. Y.; Catalogue of Cypriote Stone Sculpture and of Pottery and Terra Cotta, in the Cesnola Collection in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, 1905; also the third volume of the Descriptive Atlas of Cypriote Antiquities in the Metropolitan Museum. He is the translator of Harnack's Monasticism, 1895, Kruger's History of Early Christian Literature, 1897; and was six years editor of the Literary Department of the Magazine of Christian Literature. Member of the Century Association, New York, and of the Wykagyl Country Club, New Rochelle, N. Y. He married in Yonkers, N. Y., April 26, 1881, Kate Van Kirk, and they have had five children, of whom two are now deceased. Residence: Pelham Manor, N. Y. Address: 700 Park Avenue, New York City.

GILLETT, Frederick Huntington:

Lawyer and congressman; born in Westfield, Mass., Oct. 16, 1851; son of Edward Bates and Lucy Douglass (Fowler) Gillett. He was graduated from Amherst College, A.B., 1874, and from Harvard Law School, A.B., 1877. He was admitted to the bar in Springfield in 1877; was assistant attorney-general of Massachusetts from 1879 to 1882; was elected to the Massachusetts House of Representatives in 1890 and 1891; was elected as a Republican to the Fifty-third, Fifty-fourth, Fifty-fifth, Fifty-sixth, Fifty-seventh and Fifty-eighth, Fifty-ninth and Sixtieth Congresses and reelected in 1908 to the Sixty-first Congress from the Second Massachusetts District. Mr. Gillett is an influential member of the Appropriations Committee and is chairman of the Committee on Reform in the Civil Service. Address: Springfield, Mass.

GILLETT, James Norris:

Governor of California; born in Viroqua, Wis., Sept., 30, 1860; son of Cyrus L. and Sarah J. Gillett. He was educated in Wisconsin schools, studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1881. He went to California and engaged in practice in San Francisco, and also became prominent in politics as a Republican; served in the State senate of California 1897-1899; was elected to the Fifty-eighth and Fifty-ninth Congresses from the First California District, and in November, 1906 was elected Governor for the four-year term expiring in January, 1911. Address: Sacramento, Calif.

GILLETTE, William:

Actor, dramatic author; born in Hartford, Conn., July 24, 1855; son of Francis Gillette, former United States senator. He was educated in Boston College and College of the City of New York. Went on stage in minor rôles, 1877; by 1881 was playing in his own dramas and has so continued since, with a few exceptional engagements. Author of plays (unpublished): The Professor; The Private Secretary; Esmeralda; A Legal Wreck; Held by the Enemy; Too Much Johnson; Ninety Days; Mr. Wilkinson's Widows; All the Comforts of Home; Because She Loved Him So; Settled Out of Court; The Red Owl; Clarice; Secret Service; A Maid-of-All-Work;

Sherlock Holmes. He is a member of The Players', The Lambs', American Dramatists' Clubs. Address: Empire Theater, New York City.

GILMAN, Bradley:

Author and clergyman; born in Boston, Jan. 22, 1857; son of Thomas R. and Ruth (Matthews) Gilman. He was graduated from Harvard University, A.B., 1880, and from Harvard Divinity School, S.T.B., 1884. He entered the Unitarian ministry, filling pastorates in Belmont and Waverly, 1884-1885, Concord, N. H., 1885-1892, Springfield, Mass., 1892-1903; since then pastor over the First Parish, Canton, Mass., a suburb of Boston. He is author of juvenile stories and The Drifting Island; Kibboo Ganey (under the pen-name of Walter Wentworth); also author of the juvenile stories: Kingdom of Coins; and a Son of the Desert; and The Musical Journey of Dorothy and Delia. He is also author, under his own name, of: The Parsonage Porch; Back to the Soil; Ronald Carnaqua, a Commercial Clergyman; and The Open Secret of Nazareth. Mr. Gilman has contributed to various magazines, and has translated Edmond Rod's Pastor Naudies Young Wife. Mr. Gilman is a member of the Twentieth Century, University, and Authors' Clubs of Boston. He married, Sept. 14, 1886, Mary Rebecca Foster, and has a daughter. Address: Canton, Mass.

GILMAN, Charlotte Perkins:

Author, lecturer; born in Hartford, Conn., 1860; daughter of Frederick Beecher and Mary A. Fitch (Westcott) Perkins; great-granddaughter of Lyman Beecher. She married, in 1884, C. W. Stetson; in 1900, G. H. Gilman. She has been a lecturer since 1890; also an extensive magazine contributor on subjects of sociology, ethics and economics; writer of verses and stories. Mrs. Gilman has written much in favor of the advancement of women along practical lines of economic and social progress, and on problems of labor. Author of: In This Our World (verse), 1898; Women and Economics, 1898;

The Yellow Wall-Paper, 1899; Concerning Children, 1900; The Home, Its Work and Influence, 1903; Human Work, 1904. Made speaking tours of Europe, 1896, 1899, 1905. Mrs. Gilman is a member of the American Sociological Association, League for Political Education, American Academy of Political and Social Science. She publishes The Forerunner, a monthly magazine, written entirely by herself. Address: The Charlton Co., 67 Wall Street, New York City.

GILMAN, Lawrence:

Musical critic, author; born in Flushing, Long Island, July 5, 1878; son of Arthur C. and Bessie (Lawrence) Gilman. He was educated in the public schools of New York City, and the Collins Street Classical School at Hartford, Conn.; studied painting under William M. Chase, and illustration at the Art Students' League, New York City; studied privately musical theory and composition, piano and organ. Mr. Gilman is author of: Phases of Modern Music, 1904; Edward McDowell (in "Living Masters of Music" series), 1905; Edward McDowell: A Study (revised and enlarged edition of the preceding), 1909; The Music of To-Morrow, 1906; A Guide to Strauss' Salome, 1907; Stories of Symphonic Music, 1907; A Guide to Debussy's Pelléas et Mélisande, 1907; Aspects of Modern Opera, 1908. He has been musical critic of Harper's Weekly since 1901, and assistant editor of the same since 1903, and is a contributor to musical and general publications. He was elected a member of the National Institute of Arts and Letters in 1908. Mr. Gilman married, in 1904, Elizabeth Wright Walter. Residence: 227 East 72d Street. Office: Care of Harper's Weekly, Franklin Square, New York City.

GILMAN, Mary Rebecca Foster:

Author and literary critic; born in Worcester, Mass., in 1859; daughter of Hon. Dwight Foster, judge of the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts and Henrietta (Baldwin) Foster, daughter of Governor Roger Sherman Baldwin of Connecticut. She was educated in Boston schools and in Europe, and lived in Boston until her marriage, Sept. 14, 1886, to Rev. Bradley Gilman, Unitarian clergyman and writer, since which time she has lived about six years in Concord, N. H., twelve years in Springfield, Mass., and since 1903 in Canton, Mass., a suburb of Boston, in which places her husband has held pastorates. They have a daughter, Dorothy Foster Gilman. Mrs. Gilman is well known as a literary critic, and has written for the Springfield Republican, the Boston Transcript, Critic and Literary World. She is author of: The Wit and Wisdom of George Meredith, and of the Life of St. Theresa in the "Famous Women Series." She edited and wrote an introduction to Hamerton's "Quest of Happiness." She is a member of the Fiction Committee of the Boston Public Library; member of the Massachusetts Society of Colonial Dames and of the Women's National Alliance. Address: Mrs. Bradley Gilman, Hemenway Chambers, Boston; or Canton, Mass.

GILMAN, Stella Scott:

Author; born in Tuscaloosa, Ala., April 9, 1844; daughter of David and Stella (Houghton) Scott. She was educated in Ingham University, New York. She married in Cambridge, Mass., July 11, 1876, Arthur Gilman, and they have two daughters and a son. With her husband she was originator of the Harvard Annex, now Radcliffe College; and was chairman for years of the Students' Committee of the Harvard Annex, and associate of Radcliffe College; and was president for years of the Mothers' Club of Cambridge, of which she is still a member. She is also a member of the Board of Visitors of The Gilman School (incorporated) of Cambridge; member of the Women's Education Society of Boston, the Society for the University Education of Women, and the Anti-Suffrage Society of Boston. She is a trustee of the Welcome House, and of the Bethesda Society, both of Boston. Mrs. Gilman is a writer under the nom de guerre of "Mrs. Marion Vaughn," and is author of: The Mothers' Record, and of Mothers in Council. Address: Cambridge, Mass.

GILMAN, Theodore:

Merchant; born in Alton, Ill., Jan. 2, 1841; son of Winthrop Sargent and Abid Swift (Lippincott) Gilman. Mr. Gilman was educated in private schools and Williams College. A.B., 1862, A.M., 1864. Mr. Gilman has been on Wall Street forty years, connected with various business enterprises, municipal, railroad and industrial. He is vice-president and director of Gilman, Son and Company; trustee of the Bessemer Ditch Company; president and trustee of the East Side Building Association; director of the Keokuk and Hamilton Bridge Company, New York Warehouse and Security Company; trustee and director of the North Platte Land and Water Company. Mr. Gilman prepared and presented a bill in Congress for the incorporation of clearing houses, and made statements in support of the bill before the House Committee on Banking and Currency. He is author of: A Graded Banking System, 1898; Federal Clearing Houses, 1899. He has also made important contributions on financial subjects to the Bankers' Magazine: The Completion of the National Banking System (Sept., 1893), The Philosophy of the History of Bank Currency in the United States (Oct., 1875); to The Chicago Banker: The Ninety-fifth Section of the National Bank Act (April-June, 1900), Reply to M. des Essars, statistician of the Bank of France (June, 1902); Our Democratic Banking System and Its Natural Ally, the Clearing House (Bankers' Monthly, June, 1904); Heredity versus Evolution (The Monist, Oct., 1893); The Clearing-House System (Journal of Political Economy, March, 1904); Ambiguities (open court, July, 1905); The Aldrich-Vreeland Bill (North American Review, Aug., 1908). There have also been published addresses by Mr. Gilman before the Washington State Bankers' Association, July, 1903, on Clearing House Emergency Circulation (resolution passed approving same); before the Nebraska State Bankers' Association, July, 1903, on A Clearing-House Currency; also address before the Founders and Patriots of America, Jan.

31, 1905, on Some Social Theories of the Revolution. Mr. Gilman is a deacon and elder of the Presbyterian Church; was treasurer, 1868-1869, and president, 1874-1876, of the New York Bible Society; member and for over twenty years treasurer of the New York Sabbath Committee; member of the Board of Managers of the American Bible Society, and of St. John's Riverside Hospital, Yonkers; president of the Young Men's Christian Association of Yonkers, and trustee of the Young Women's Christian Association of Yonkers. He is a member of the Williams College Alumni Association, the Anthropological Club of Yonkers, N. Y., Kappa Alpha fraternity, Founders and Patriots of America, Sons of the American Revolution, New England Society of New York and the Union League Club of New York City. He married in St. George's Church, New York City, Oct. 22, 1863, Elizabeth Drinker Paxson, and they have two sons and two daughters. Residence: Yonkers, N. Y. Office: 55 William Street, New York City.

GITTERMAN, Alice Elsberg Sterne:

Born in New York City; daughter of Hon. Simon and Mathilde (Elsberg) Sterne. She was graduated from Smith College, A.B.; Columbia, A.M.; holder of graduate scholarship from Yale University, and in 1908-1909 student in the Washington College of Law. She married John Milton Gitterman, A.M., LL.B., Ph.D. Mrs. Gitterman is an active worker in the cause of popular education; secured the first appropriation from Congress for free lectures to the people for the benefit of the working people of the District of Columbia, and was chairman of the volunteer committee appointed by the District Board of Education to arrange the first two lecture series (seasons of 1904-1906). She is deeply interested in ethnology; contributor on sociological, ethnological and educational subjects to various magazines. She is author of the Ethnological Study of the Dyaks of Borneo. Member of the College of Preceptors of England, New York State Charities Aid Association; was member of the Library Committee of the New York Public Library; one of the incorporators and member of the Executive Committee of the City History Club of New York City. Mrs. Gitterman was chairman of the 13th Senatorial District of New York of the League for Political Education. She was the founder and is president of the Public Education Association of Washington, D. C., which aided in the introduction and success in the first session of the 59th Congress, of the first compulsory education law for the District of Columbia, and the first Juvenile Court and first law regulating employment agencies in Washington City. She is also a member of the Authors' Committee of 100 on Public Health and a member of the Smith College Club. Mrs. Gitterman has written numerous magazine articles and of syndicate work on pending educational matters. Addresses: 116 C Street, N. E., Washington, D. C.; and 40 West 59th Street, New York City.

GLADDEN, Washington:

Clergyman and author; born at Potts Grove, Pa., Feb. 11, 1836; son of Solomon and Amanda (Daniels) Gladden. He was reared on a farm near Oswego, N. Y.; was educated in a country district school and Owego Academy, learned the printer's trade, then attended Williams College, from which he was graduated A.B., 1859, studied theology, was licensed to preach in 1860, and in that year was ordained pastor of the State Street Congregational Church, Brooklyn, N. Y., serving a year there. He was pastor at Morrisania, N. Y., 1861-1866, North Adams, Mass., 1866-1871; removed to New York City and became a member of the editorial staff of The Independent, 1871-1875; pastor of the North Congregational Church of Springfield, Mass., 1875-1882, and for part of the same period editor of Sunday Afternoon; since 1882 pastor of the First Congregational Church of Columbus, Ohio. Besides being one of the most distinguished divines of his denomination, Dr. Gladden has made for himself a prominent place as a public lecturer and reformer, and as author of about thirty books on religious, ethical and social subjects. He received the degree of D.D. from Roanoke College, Va., 1884, and of LL.D. from the University of Wisconsin, 1881, and from the University of Notre Dame, Ind., 1895. He is a member of the American Social Science Association, American Economic Association, the Ohio Archaeological and Historical Society and others. Address: Columbus, Ohio.

GLADDING, Albert F.:

Jurist; born in Pharsalia, Chenango County, N. Y., Dec. 9, 1813; son of James C. and Mary (Fargo) Gladding. He was educated in the public schools, and Norwich Academy. He was elected county judge and surrogate of Chenango County, in 1899, on the Republican ticket and reelected in 1895 and 1901; and was elected Nov. 6, 1906, justice of the Supreme Court for the Sixth Judicial District, for the term expiring December 31, 1920. Ju-tee Gladding is president of the Chenango National Bank. He has been president since its organization in 1900, of the Norwich Club. He married in Courtland, N. Y., March 16, 1881, Grace V. E. Owen, and they have three daughters. Address: Norwich, N. Y.

GLASS, Carter:

Journalist and congressman; born in Lynchburg, Va., Jan. 4, 1858. He was educated in private and public schools in the newspaper business; owns The Daily News, the morning paper of the city, and The Daily Advance, the afternoon paper; member of Virginia State Senate, 1899-1903, and Virginia Constitutional Convention, 1901-1902. He was for eight years a member of the Board of Visitors of the University of Virginia; and resigned from the Virginia State Senate to contest for seat in the Fifty-seventh Congress vacated by death of P. J. Otey. He was elected as a Democrat, in Nov., 1902, for the unexpired term in the Fifty-seventh and full term in the Fifty-eighth Congress, and reelected to the Fifty-ninth, Sixtieth and Sixty-first Congresses, from the Sixth Virginia District. Address: Lynchburg, Va.

GLASS, Chester:

Lawyer, banker; born in London, Canada; son of Hon. David Glass, K. C., and Sarah Dixon (Dalton) Glass. He received his education in Hellmuth College and Toronto University, and was admitted a barrister-at-law of Osgoode Hall, Toronto. In 1880 he spent a year and a half in traveling around the world. His book describing this tour had a wide circulation and was very favorably criticised in America and England. He practised law in Canada, and in 1889 successfully argued the well-known case of Attorney-General vs. Fonseca before the Supreme Court of Canada, at Ottawa. At Spokane, Wash., he engaged extensively and successfully in street railroad building, real estate, and mining, and still holds large interests there. Coming East in 1902, Mr. Glass became interested in extensive coal fields in Pennsylvania and real estate in New York State. He is director of the United Copper Company; and the Pittsburgh and New York Coal Company. In politics he is a Republican and in religion an Episcopalian. He is a member of the bar of the State of Washington, and is a member of the Calumet Club of New York and the Seawanhaka Yacht Club. Mr. Glass married in Canada, June 20, 1883, Beatrice Claus Kingswill, and they have two children: Gordon Goldin, and Dorothy Beatrice. Address: Calumet Club, New York City.

GLASSCOCK, William E.:

Governor of West Virginia; elected on the Republican ticket, in November, 1908, for the four-year term expiring in March, 1913. Address: Charleston, W. Va.

GLEAVES, Albert:

Commander, U. S. Navy; born in Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 1, 1858; son of H. A. and Eliza (Tannehill) Gleaves. He was appointed from the State of Tennessee at large, June 13, 1873, as cadet midshipman; was graduated from Naval Academy, June 20, 1877. His service afloat included duty on all the foreign stations. During his service ashore as a junior officer he had several tours of ordnance duty and was one of the early torpedo officers, commanding the torpedo boat Cushing in 1897. He was on the blockade of the Northern Coast of Cuba in 1898 and from 1901 to 1904 commanded the U. S. S. Dolphin and U. S. S. Mayflower on special service. While in command of the Dolphin, he discovered the greatest depth in North Atlantic Ocean, while running a line of deep sea soundings. He was ordered to command torpedo station at Newport, R. I., Nov. 16, 1904, and was ordered on special duty in Europe, June, July, 1907. He was promoted commander July 1, 1905, and has commanded U. S. S. St. Louis since April 21, 1908. He was awarded the diploma and decoration of Chevalier of the Légion d'Honneur of France, for services rendered the Rochambeau Commission, but its acceptance was not authorized by Congress. Commander Gleaves wrote the Life of Captain James Lawrence, the commander of the Chesapeake, which book has met with much success, and is regarded in England as the most impartial statement of the battle between the Chesapeake and Shannon that has yet been written. Commander Gleaves is regarded here and abroad as an authority on torpedoes and their manufacture. He married in Washington, D. C., June 12, 1889, Evelina M. Heap. Address: Care of the Navy Department, Washington, D. C.

GLENN, John Mark:

Director of the Russell Sage Foundation; born in Baltimore, Md.; son of William Wilkins Glenn and Ellen Mark (Smith) Glenn. He was educated in the Washington and Lee University, M.A., 1879 (LL.D., 1907), Johns Hopkins University, M.A. (honorary), 1901 University of Maryland, LL.B., 1882. He was engaged in law practice from 1882 in Baltimore; and director of the Provident Savings Bank of Baltimore. He was president of the Department of Charities of Baltimore, Md., 1904-1907; trustee of Johns Hopkins Hospital, 1906-1908, and upon the establishment of The Russell Sage Foundation by Mrs. Sage along broad lines, for the betterment of social and living conditions in the United States of America, Mr. Glenn was selected as its director. He is a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, and the Century and City Clubs of New York. Mr. Glenn married in Baltimore, in 1902 Mary Wilcox Brown. Address: 105 East 22d Street, New York City.

GLENN, Robert Brodnax:

Lawyer and ex-governor of North Carolina; born in Rockingham County, N. C., Aug. 11, 1854; son of Chalmers L. and Annie S. (Dodge) Glenn. He was educated in Davidson College, N. C., the University of Virginia and Pearson's Law School, Richmond Hill, N. C. He was admitted to the bar in 1878, and soon gained a prominent place at the North Carolina bar, becoming head of the firm of Glenn, Moody and Hendren at Winston-Salem. He served as attorney for the Western Union Telegraph Company, the Southern Railway and other large corporations. He has taken an active and leading place in the political affairs of his State as a Democrat, and has represented the State in National Conventions. He was a member of the North Carolina Legislature in 1881; State solicitor of North Carolina in 1886; Democratic Presidential elector in 1884 and 1892; U. S. attorney for the District of North Carolina, 1893-1897, and in 1904 was elected governor of North Carolina for the term expiring in 1909. In 1907 he attracted National attention by his attitude with reference to his right to executive State laws, as against the asserted right of a United States judge to suspend them pendente lite, but arranged a compromise by which the question at issue should be speedily decided by the United States Supreme Court in the case of the enforcement of the 2-cent rate law against the Southern Railway. He served in the National Guard of North Carolina, 1890-1903, as captain and major. Governor Glenn married in Knoxville, Tenn., Jan. 8, 1878, Nina Deaderick. Address: Raleigh, N. C.

GLENNAN, John Joseph:

Catholic archbishop; born in Kinnegad, County Meath, Ireland, June 14, 1862. He received his general education in St. Mary's College, Mullingar, and was graduated in divinity from All Hallows College, Dublin, 1883, being ordained a priest in the following year. He was assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Church in Kansas City, Mo., 1884-1887; pastor of the cathedral in Kansas City under Bishop Hogan, 1887-1892; vicar-general, 1892-1894, and administrator of the diocese of Kansas City, 1894-1895. He was appointed coadjutor bishop of Kansas City with the right of succession and consecrated titular bishop of Pinara in 1896; became coadjutor archbishop of St. Louis in April, 1903, and installed as archbishop Oct. 13, 1903. Address: St. Louis, Mo.

GLESSNER, John Jacob:

Manufacturer; born at Zanesville, Ohio, in Jan., 1843; son of Jacob and Mary (Laughlin) Glessner. He was educated in the Zanesville public schools and was afterward connected with local newspapers there until 1864, when he became a member of the firm of Warder, Bushnell & Glessner, manufacturers of harvesting machinery, and in 1870 becoming vice-president of the Warder, Bushnell & Glessner Company, established its administrative and executive headquarters at Chicago, retaining the factory at Springfield, Ohio, and built up a very large business in the Champion machines manufactured by the company. In the subsequent organization of the International Harvester Company, when the business of the Warder, Bushnell and Glessner Company was combined with the McCormick Deering and other large harvesting interests, he became vice-president of the company, and was elected to the position of chairman of the Executive Committee. He was president of the Citizens' Association of Chicago during the period when that organization prepared the bill for the establishing of the Sanitary District of Chicago and secured its passage through the Legislature of Illinois. Since 1905 he has been a director of the Chicago Relief and Aid Society. He is a trustee of the Chicago Orphan Asylum, of Rush Medical College (now the medical department of the University of Chicago), the Chicago Orchestral Association, and of the Art Institute of Chicago. He is a member and former president of the Commercial Club of Chicago, and is also a member of the Chicago Union League, Quadrangle and Literary Clubs. Mr. Glessner married, in Dec., 1870, Frances, daughter of James R. and Nancy (Bayard) Macbeth. They have a son, John George Macbeth Glessner (born in 1871), who is a graduate of Harvard and manager of the Utility Division of the International Harvester Company, and a daughter. Residence: 1800 Prairie Avenue. Office: Michigan Avenue and Harrison Street, Chicago.

GLORIEUX, Alphonsus Joseph:

Catholic bishop of Boise; born in Dottignies, Belgium, Feb. 1, 1844. He was educated in the parochial schools of his native place and in the college at Courtrai, Belgium, from which he was graduated in 1863; pursued divinity studies in the University of Louvain, 1863-1867, and was ordained to the priesthood. He became principal of St. Michael's College, Portland, Ore., 1871-1884; was consecrated bishop of Appolonia, in 1884, and appointed in 1893 to the see of Boise. Address: Boise City, Idaho.

GLOVER, Charles Carroll:

President of the Riggs National Bank of Washington, D. C.; born in Macon County, N. C., Nov. 24, 1846; son of Charles and Caroline (Piercy) Glover. After completing his studies at the Rittenhouse Academy in Washington he was clerk in a book store for three years and in 1866 he began his banking experience as a clerk with Riggs and Company, bankers, in which he became a partner, 1873, and since July 1, 1896, has been president of the Riggs National Bank. He is also vice-president of the Capital Traction Company; and was formerly vice-president of the National Safe Deposit and Trust Company, and is a member and former vice-president of the Washington Stock Exchange. He originated and succeeded in carrying through Congress the projects for establishing Rock Creek Park and Potomac Park, and securing, on behalf of the District of Columbia, a site for Fort Reno reservoir. He is a member of the Federal Committee on changing the date of the inaugural of the President of the United States, and of the Washington National Monument Society; vice-president and treasurer of the Corcoran Gallery of Art; treasurer of the American University (Methodist), and trustee of the Protestant Episcopal Cathedral Foundation. He married Jan. 10, 1878, Annie C., daughter of Rear-Admiral Poor, U. S. N. Residence: 1703 K Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

GLOVER, James Waterman:

Educator; born at Clio, Mich., July 24, 1868; son of James Polk Glover and Em-erette (Neff) Glover. He was graduated from the Saginaw (Mich.) High School in 1885, and the University of Michigan, as B.L., in 1892. He received an A.B. from Harvard in 1893, an A.M. in 1894, and a Ph.D. in 1895, having held a Morgan Fellowship in Mathematics during two years. Dr. Glover was appointed instructor in mathematics at the University of Michigan in 1895, senior instructor in mathematics in 1899, assistant professor of mathematics and lecturer on insurance in 1903, and since 1906 has held the position of junior professor of mathematics and insurance in that institution. Professor Glover has written numerous papers on mathematics, actuarial and insurance theory, and vital statistics. He established the courses in insurance at the University of Michigan in 1902. He served as expert to the Royal Commission on Insurance of Canada in 1906, as consulting actuary to the Wisconsin Legislative Insurance Investigation Committee in the same year, and to the Wisconsin Legislative Joint Committee on Banks and Insurance in 1907. He has been a member of several International Actuarial Congresses and is now a member of the American Mathematical Society, the Deutscher Verein für Versicherungs-Wissenschaft, and the Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi Societies. Dr. Glover married at Ann Arbor, Mich., Aug. 29, 1900, Alice Durfee Webber, and they have a son, James Webber Glover, born Sept.

16, 1901; and another son, born in 1903, died in infancy. Address: 620 Oxford Road, Ann Arbor, Mich.

GLOVER, John Franklin:

Lawyer, editor, minister; born in Hartleton, Pa., Sept. 16, 1845; son of William and Eliza (Fisher) Glover. He was graduated at the University of Wisconsin, with degrees of A.B., 1871, and A.M., 1874. In pioneer days in Northwestern Iowa, Mr. Glover was an editor of weekly newspapers; and he was clerk of Osceola County, Iowa, 1873-1876; a member of the Iowa Legislature, 1876-1877; mayor of Sibley, Iowa, for three years, and county attorney of Osceola County for two years. During the Civil War he served in the Thirty-eighth Regiment of Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry, and was promoted from private to lieutenant. In the battle of Petersburg (Battle of the Crater) during the retreat, with the help of three negro soldiers he carried a wounded Union officer from the Crater to the main Union line. He also participated, April 2, 1865, in the charge against Fort Mahone, resulting in the capture of Petersburg. In 1908, Mr. Glover was ordained as a Congregational minister, and is minister for the Congregational Church of Osceydon, Iowa. In 1909, he was appointed judge advocate on the staff of Commander J. S. Lothrop of Sioux City, of the Northwestern Iowa Veterans' Association. As a pulpit, camp-fire and political speaker, he speaks without manuscript. He is secretary of the Osceola County Bar Association; and a member of the Grand Army of the Republic. Mr. Glover married at Lakeville, Iowa, Sept. 19, 1876, Mary Frances Upton, who died May 23, 1886, and has one son, Lyn Fisher Glover. Address: Sibley, Iowa.

GOBIN, John Peter Shindel:

Lawyer and soldier; born in Sunbury, Pa., Jan. 26, 1837; son of Samuel S. and Susan (Shindel) Gobin. He is of Revolutionary stock, his paternal great-grandfather, Charles Gobin, having been captain in one of the Berks County associated battalions serving in the War for Independence in the Jersey campaign, and also on active duty on the frontiers of Pennsylvania in 1780; and his grandfather, Edward Gobin, was a soldier in the War of 1812-1814. He received an academic education, and the degree of LL.B. from Susquehanna University, learned the art of printing and was admitted to the Northumberland County bar, 1858. When the Civil War threatened, before the firing on Sumter, he tendered his services to Governor Curtin, was accepted, and, returning to Sunbury, organized what eventually became Company F, Eleventh Pennsylvania Volunteers, and was commissioned its first lieutenant. The company, which participated in the first fight at Falling Waters, voluntarily remained in service after the three months' enlistment expired, and he reorganized it and, Sept. 2, 1861, was mustered in as captain of Company C, 41st Pennsylvania Regiment, serving in the Army of the Potomac until Jan., 1862, after which the regiment went to Florida and garrisoned Fort Taylor, on the island of Key West, and Fort Jefferson, Dry Tortugas. In the summer of 1862 the regiment was sent to Hilton Head, S. C., to assist in the attack on the approaches to Charleston, took part in the battle of Pocotaligo and in the autumn of 1862 was the first regiment to re-enlist under the so-called Veteran Order, and subsequently participated in the Red River Expedition. Captain Gobin was especially commended for bravery in the battle of Pleasant Hill, and recommended to Governor Curtin for promotion by General J. W. McMillan, and for services rendered in the campaign he was detailed by General Banks to conduct all the prisoners, captured on the Red River Expedition, to New Orleans. The Regiment joined General Sheridan in the Shenandoah Valley in July, 1864, and he was promoted major, participating in that campaign and the battle of Cedar Creek. He was promoted lieutenant-colonel Nov. 4, 1864, and Jan. 3, 1865, colonel of the regiment, which became a part of Hancock's Veteran Corps on its organization in 1865. Colonel Gobin was brevetted brigadier-general, March 13, 1865, and placed in command of the Second Brigade, First Division, 19th Army Corps, coöperating with Grant, and was heading for Lynchburg when news arrived of the surrender of Lee. The 47th Regiment took part in the Grand Review and was afterward sent South. General Gobin was placed in command of Charleston, S. C., immediately after the war and at the same time was made provost judge and he was the only judicial officer in that city during the reconstruction period until his regiment was finally discharged Jan. 9, 1866. He returned to the practice of law in Lebanon. He was a member of the State Senate, 1884-1898. He for many years commanded the Pennsylvania National Guard with the rank of major-general, served as brigadier-general U. S. Volunteers in the war with Spain and was elected lieutenant-governor of Pennsylvania. He was commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, 1897-1898, is a member of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion, and grand master of the Grand Encampment of Knights Templar of the United States. He married in 1866, Annie M. Howe, of Florida. Address: Lebanon, Pa.

GODDARD, Morrill:

Editor New York Sunday American and Journal; born in Portland, Me., Oct. 7, 1866; son of Judge Charles W. and Rowena C. (Morrill) Goddard. He was graduated from Dartmouth College, 1885, and from 1885 to 1894, was successively city editor, Washington correspondent, Sunday editor and managing editor New York World. Since 1895 he has been editor of the Sunday edition New York American and Journal; has also been war correspondent, traveler, and magazine writer. He is a member of the Maine Society, the American Social Science Society, National Mosquito Extirmination Society, American Geographical Society, Palestine Exploration Fund Association, American Anti-Vivisection Society, American Forestry Association, Peace Society of New York, American Institute Scientific Research, American Society for Psychical Research, the Atlantic and Columbia Yacht, and Dartmouth Clubs, New York. He married, in 1899, Jessamine Rugg, of Hot Springs, Ark. Residence: 266 West 94th Street. Office: American and Journal, 2 Duane Street, New York City.

GODWIN, Hannibal Lafayette:

Congressman and lawyer: born on a farm near Dunn, Hartnett County, N. C., Nov. 3, 1873. He was educated in Trinity College, Durham, N. C., and was graduated from the Law Department of the University of North Carolina, and admitted to the bar in Sept., 1896. He was a member of the State Senate, 1903; elected Presidential elector for the Sixth Congressional District of North Carolina, 1904; was a member of the State Democratic Executive Committee, 1904-1906. He was elected to the Sixtieth Congress in 1906, and reelected in 1908 to the Sixty-first Congress. He married in Dunn, N. C., Dec. 23, 1896, Mattie B. Barnes. Address: Dunn, N. C.

GODWIN, Harold:

Journalist; born in Roslyn, N. Y., May 21, 1858; son of Parke and Fanny (Bryant) Godwin. He was graduated from Princeton University, A.B., 1879, and was a fellow in history there after graduation. He was for a time engaged in editorial work on the New York Evening Post, New York Evening Mail, and the New York Commercial Advertiser, having been managing editor of the latter in 1890; later he was editor of Current Literature, and president of the Short Stories Company; but is now retired from active business. He is a member of the New York University Club, the Lenox Club, of Lenox, Mass., and the Garden City Golf Club of Long Island. Mr. Godwin married in Matlock, England, May 31, 1884, Elizabeth Marquand, and they have three children. Residence: Roslyn, N. Y.

GOEBEL, Herman Philip:

Lawyer and congressman; born in Cincinnati, Ohio, April 5, 1853. He was educated in the public schools of Cincinnati and the Cincinnati Law School; was admitted to the bar in 1874 and has since been engaged in the active practice of law. He was elected a member of the House of Representatives of Ohio in 1875; was elected judge of the probate court of Hamilton County, Ohio, in 1884, and reelected in 1887. He was elected to the Fifty-eighth, Fifty-ninth, Sixtieth and Sixty-first Congresses, as a Republican, from the Second Ohio District. Address: Cincinnati, Ohio.

GOELET, Robert Walton:

Capitalist; born in New York City, March 19, 1886; son of Robert and Harriette (Warren) Goelet. He was graduated from Harvard, A.B., 1902, A.M., 1903, and from Columbia, LL.B., 1907. Mr. Goelet is a director of the Chemical National Bank of New York City, the Illinois Central Railroad Company, Lawyers' Mortgage Company, Mortgage Bond Company of New York; trustee of the Union Trust Company of New York. He is a member of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, Manuscripts Society, American Fine Arts Society, Holland Society, St. Nicholas Society, Aldine Association, Columbia University Alumni Association, the Knickerbocker, Union, Metropolitan, Players', New York Yacht, Tuxedo, Racquet and Tennis, and The Brook and Harvard Clubs and the Automobile Club of America. Residence: 591 Fifth Avenue. Address: 9 West 17th Street, New York City.

GOETHALS, George Washington:

Chairman and chief engineer, Isthmian Canal; born in Brooklyn, N. Y., June 29, 1858. He was graduated from the U. S. Military Academy in 1880, and from the Engineers' School at Willets Point in 1882. He was connected with the engineers' office, Department of the Columbia, 1882-1884, serving under General Merrill in the construction of dams, dikes and locks, and in charge of Mussel Shoals Canal, Tennessee River; and the beginning of construction work on the Colbert Shoals Canal. He was chief engineer of the First Army Corps, during the war with Spain; was detailed to the General Staff in 1903, and was appointed chairman and chief engineer of the Isthmian (Panama) Canal, in 1907, having particular charge of construction and engineering as well as general supervision over the whole of that stupendous undertaking. Address: Culebra, Canal Zone, Panama.

GOFF, Nathan:

Jurist: born in Clarksburg, Va., Feb. 9, 1843; son of Waldo P. and Harriet L. Goff. He attended the Northwestern Virginia Academy at Clarksburg, and Georgetown College until 1861. He enlisted as a private in the Union Army in the Third Virginia Infantry, was later promoted lieutenant, captain and major, and Jan. 20, 1864, was captured by the Confederates and confined for several months in Libby Prison. He was brevetted in March, 1865, brigadier-general of volunteers and discharged from the volunteer army. He was graduated from the law department of New York University in 1867, and engaged in the practice of law at Clarksburg, W. Va. He was elected to the West Virginia Legislature in 1867, and in 1868 was appointed by President Johnson U. S. attorney for West Virginia, to which office he was reappointed in 1872, 1876 and 1880, resigning in Jan., 1881, to accept the office of secretary of the Navy in the Cabinet of President Hayes. He served until March, 1881, when he was reappointed U. S. district attorney by President Garfield. He resigned in 1882, in which year he was elected to the Forty-eighth Congress, and was reelected in 1884 and 1886 to the Forty-ninth and Fiftieth Congresses, serving until 1889. In 1876 and again in 1888 he was the Republican candidate for governor of West Virginia. In 1892 he was appointed by President Harrison judge of the U. S. Circuit Court for the Fourth Circuit, in which office he is still serving. Address: Clarksburg, W. Va.

GOFFE, J. Riddle:

Educator, physician and surgeon; born in Kenosha, Wis., Aug. 10, 1851; son of William and Betsy (Riddle) Goffe. He was graduated from the University of Michigan, Ph.B., 1873, Ph.M., 1876, Bellevue Hospital Medical School, New York, 1881, Woman's Hospital, New York City, 1883, and studied in Paris and Vienna. Dr. Goffe is professor of gynecology in, and a trustee of, the New York Polyclinic Medical School and Hospital; attending gynecologist to the Polyclinic and Woman's Hospitals; consulting surgeon to the New York City Hospital, St. Joseph's Hospital, Yonkers, N. Y., and Mt. Vernon (N. Y.) Hospital and the Lawrence Hospital at Bronxville, N. Y. He is a member and ex-president of the American Gynecological N. Y. County Medical and New York Obstetrical Societies and the N. Y. State Medical Association; member of the American Medical Association, N. Y. State Medical Society, Southern Surgical and Gynecological Society; fellow N. Y. Academy of Medicine. Dr. Goffe is author of numerous monographs, including: Organization, the Watchword of Creation; The Scope and Limitation of Vaginal Section; A New Operation for Cystocele in Women; The Menstrual Function, etc. Dr. Goffe is a charter member of Squadron A, National Guard of New York and a member of the Psi Upsilon fraternity, and the University, Richmond Hill Golf and Dunwoodie Golf Clubs. Dr. Goffe married in New York City in 1890, Eleanor Taylor, who died in 1908. Residence: 550 Park Avenue. Office: 616 Madison Avenue, New York City.

GOLDEN, Richard:

Actor: born in Bangor, Me., July 6, 1854; son of Patrick and Matilda Golden. He was educated in the schools of Penobscot County, Me. Mr. Golden made his first professional appearance as a boy of thirteen years in the comedy Fashion, but his real debut was made in 1876, when he was a component part of the celebrated heifer in E. E. Rice's Evangeline in which he was later promoted to the parts of the Policeman and Le Blanc. He was for many seasons with the Rice Company, and in 1889 achieved national distinction by his creation of the type of the New England tavern keeper, Old Jed Prouty, in the play of that name of which he was co-author, 1889, of which over 3,000 performances were given. He was joint star with Pauline Hall in a revival of The Princess of Trebizonde, later with Alice Neilson in The Fortune Teller, and afterward took leading comedy parts in Princess Chic, The Tourists, The Bad Samaritan and other productions. He married in Cohoes, N. Y., Katherine Kittleman. He is a member of The Lambs and The Green Room Clubs of New York City. Address: Port Washington, N. Y.

GOLDFOGLE, Henry M.:

Jurist and congressman; born in New York City, May 23, 1856; son of Mayer Goldfogle. He was educated in the public schools and was admitted to the bar in 1877. He practised law until 1887, when he was elected justice of the Fifth District Court of New York and reelected in 1893. He became one of the Judges of the Municipal Court of New York and retired from the bench, Jan. 1, 1900, to resume the practice of law. In 1900 he was elected to Congress and was reelected in 1902, 1904, 1906 and 1908, from the Ninth New York District. Congressman Goldfogle has been a delegate to every State Democratic Convention for the past twenty-four years, and a delegate to the National Democratic Convention in 1896. He was formerly brand president of the District One, Independent Order of B'nai B'rith; is vice-president of Temple Rodeph Shalom of New York City; and master of the Empire City Lodge. Residence: 16 Columbia Street. Office: 271 Broadway, New York City.

GOLDMARK, Rubin:

Musician, composer, lecturer; born in New York City, Aug. 15, 1872; son of Leo and Augusta (Stern) Goldmark. He was educated in the College of the City of New York, three years, the Philosophie Faculty of the University of Vienna; student of the Vienna Conservatory of Music, under Professors Door in piano, and Fuchs in composition; subsequently pupil of Josefky and Antonin Dvorak; and he received the honorary degree of A.M. from Colorado College in 1899. Professor Goldmark was instructor in the National Conservatory of Music, New York City, 1891-1893; director of the Colorado College Conservatory of Music, 1895-1901; lecturer for H. W. Savage Parsifal Company, 1904-1905, and has given about 300 public lectures and recitals in the U. S. and Canada. Among his compositions are: Trio for piano, violin and 'cello; Sonata for piano and violin, and Quartet for piano and strings. He has also composed the orchestral works: Theme and variations (played by the late Anton Seidl), and the Overture Hiawatha (played by the Boston Symphony Orchestra and Vienna Concertverein). Address: 131 West 126th Street, New York City.

GOLDSBOROUGH, Winder Elwell:

Electrical engineer; born in Baltimore, Md., Oct. 10, 1871; son of Washington Elwell and Martha Pearce (Laird) Goldsborough. He was graduated from Cornell University, M.E., 1892; was in charge of the electrical engineering department of Arkansas Industrial University, Fayetteville, 1893-1894; professor of electrical engineering, 1894-1904, and director of the School Electrical Engineering of Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., 1898-1904; consulting engineer of the Editon Electric Illuminating Company, Baltimore, Md., 1894-1896; chief of electricity and member of the Superior Jury of the Universal Exposition, St. Louis, 1902-1905; vice-president of the International Electrical Congress, St. Louis, 1904; chairman of the executive committee of the Electrical Railway Test Committee, 1903-1906; major of the corps of cadets, Cornell University, 1892; major of the First Regiment of Arkansas National Guard, 1893-1894; and was decorated by Victor Emmanuel with the Cross of the Order of the Crown of Italy. Mr. Goldsborough was business manager of the engineering department of J. G. White and Company, Incorporated, 1905-1907; vice-president and general manager of the Denver Reservoir Irrigation Company; director of the Engineering and Electrical Securities Corporation. He is a member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, Institute of Electrical Engineers of England; International Electrical Congress, Chicago, 1893, Paris, 1900, St. Louis, 1904; member of the Committee of the National Electric Light Association on Arc Light-Photometry. He is also a member of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity, and the Lawyers, Engineers, National Arts and Cornell Clubs. He married at Lafayette, Ind., Dec. 20, 1899, Charlotte Poole Wallace, and has one son. Address: Ideal Building, Denver, Colo.

GOMPERS, Samuel:

President of the American Federation of Labor; born in England, Jan. 27, 1850. He learned the cigar-maker's trade, and from the age of fifteen has been actively identified with the trade union movement, and long a leader in the effort to unite trades unions into a national organization for the promotion of combined effort to obtain general ends. He was one of the founders and since 1882 has been, with the exception of one year, president of the American Federation of Labor and editor of its official publication, The Federalist. He is also first vice-president of the National Civic Federation. Mr. Gompers is a frequent and forceful lecturer and a prolific writer on subjects connected with general sociological conditions as well as with the labor movement. Address: 801-809 G Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

GOOCH, Frank Austin:

Professor of chemistry in Yale; born in Watertown, Mass., May 2, 1852; son of Joshua Goodale and Sarah Gates (Coolidge) Gooch. He was graduated from Harvard, A.B., 1872, student in Vienna, 1875-1876, Harvard A.M., Ph.D., 1877; honorary A.M., Yale, 1887. He was expert special agent of the U. S. Geological Survey in connection with the Tenth Census 1878-1881, chemist on the Northern Trans-continental Survey, 1881-1884, and the U. S. Geological Survey, 1884-1886, and has been professor of chemistry, Yale, since 1885. He is a member of the National Academy of Sciences; American Academy of Arts and Sciences; American Philosophical Society; American Association for the Advancement of Science; American Chemical Society, Connecticut Academy of Sciences, New York Academy of Science, Washington Academy of Science, Washington Philosophical Society, etc. He is editor of: Research Papers from the Kent Chemical Laboratory of Yale University. He is author of: Outlines of Inorganic Chemistry; Laboratory Experiments; Outlines of Qualitative Chemical Analysis, various contributions to scientific literature, and many research papers in the journals. He married, Aug. 12, 1880, Sarah Elisabeth Wyman. Address: 291 Edward Street, New Haven, Conn.

GOOD, James W.:

Lawyer; born near Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Sept. 24, 1866; son of Henry and Margaret E. (Combs) Good. He was graduated from Coe College, B.S., 1892, and from the Law Department of the University of Michigan, LL.B., 1893, being class orator in competition of over three hundred. Since 1893 he has been engaged in the practice of law at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and as city attorney of that place drew and successfully established the validity of an ordinance limiting the price which could be charged for gas at 90 cents per 1,000 cubic feet. He is president of The Realty Company, and vice-president of the Consumers Coal Company of Cedar Rapids. Mr. Good is a 32d-degree Mason and a member of the Country and Commercial Clubs of Cedar Rapids. Residence: 1905 B Avenue. Office: 208 Second Avenue, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

GOODELL, Charles LeRoy:

Clergyman; born in Dudley, Mass., July 31, 1854; son of Warren and Clarinda (Healy) Goodell. He was graduated from Boston University, A.B., 1877, N. Y. University, A.M., 1902, Wesleyan University, D.D., 1903. He was ordained in the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church, was pastor for years in Providence, R. I.; eight years in Boston, Mass.; seven years, Hansom Place Methodist Episcopal Church, Brooklyn; since 1904 at Calvary Methodist Episcopal Church, New York City, the largest Methodist Church in the world, now having a membership of over three thousand. Dr. Goodell is naturally known as one of the greatest orators, lecturers and preachers in Methodism. He has traveled in Europe, Palestine and Egypt, and is author of: My Mother's Bible; The Drill Master of Methodism; The Price of Winning Souls; Pastoral Evangelism; Pathways of the Best; The Old Darman; also contributions to magazines. Dr. Goodell is a trustee of Drew Theological Seminary and other educational institutions, and president of the Evangelistic Committee of 100 in New York City. He married in Boston, June 3, 1896, Mary F. Blair, and they have two sons and two daughters. Address: 186 West 130th Street, New York City.

GOODELL, Thomas Dwight:

Professor of Greek in Yale College; born in Ellington, Conn., Nov. 8, 1854. He was graduated from Yale College, A.B., 1877, Ph.D., 1884. His professional life has been spent entirely in Connecticut, as after a term of years as teacher in the schools of Hartford in that state, he was appointed assistant professor of Greek at Yale in 1888, and, in 1893, was appointed professor of Greek language and literature at that university. He has continued in the chair of Greek to the present time, and is one of the foremost among the Greek scholars of the United States. In addition to his studies in this country, he has had periods of study in Germany and Greece, and was professor in the American School of Classical Studies at Athens, by appointment of Yale University, 1894-1895. He is a member of the American Philological Association, the American Archaeological Institute, and a member of the Advisory Council of the Simplified Spelling Board. He is author of: The Greek in English, 1886; Greek Lessons, 1892; Chapters on Greek Metrie, 1901; Greek Festival Hymn for Yale University with music by Horatio Parker, 1901; School Grammar of Attic Greek, 1902; also a contributor of monographs to the Proceedings of the American Philological Association, and articles in magazines on Greece and the Greek language. He married at Rockville, Conn., May 9, 1878, J. Harriett Andross. Residence: 35 Edgehill Road, New Haven, Conn.

GOODHUE, Isaac W.:

Lawyer; born in Boston, Nov. 22, 1862; son of Henry A. and Emma (Burdette) Goodhue. He was educated in Harvard University, Columbia University, LL.B., 1901, Crozier Seminary, B.D., 1890. Mr. Goodhue was admitted to the bar of the State of New York in 1901; is a member of the law firm of Goodhue and Ray. He is president and director of the Continental Tale Company; vice-president and secretary of the Alba Mineral Company. He is a member of the New York County Lawyers' Association; member of the Alumni Association of Columbia University, Kane Lodge F. and A. Masons, and of the Republican Club of New York. Address: 41 Wall Street, New York City.

GOODLOE, Green Clay:

Brigadier-general U. S. Marine Corps, retired; born in Kentucky, Jan. 31, 1845. He served with distinction in the Union Army during the Civil War, and was commissioned second lieutenant in the U. S. Marine Corps, April 21, 1869; promoted first lieutenant, Jan. 12, 1876, major and paymaster, March 17, 1877, colonel and paymaster March 3, 1899; retired Jan. 31, 1909, with rank of brigadier-general, U. S. Marine Corps. Upon entering the Marine Corps in 1869 he was ordered to Marine Barracks at Washington, D. C.; to Fort Myer, October, 1869, for instruction in Army Code of Signals, and after finishing his course was for several months instructor at Brooklyn, N. Y., and Annapolis; took full cruise of three years in the Wachusett, 1871-1874, U. S. S. Michigan, 1875-1876; afterward ordered to the Marine Barracks at Washington, where he remained on duty as paymaster of the Marine Corps from March 17, 1877, until his retirement by operation of law. Brigadier-General Goodloe married Miss Beck, daughter of the late U. S. Senator Beck of Kentucky. Address: 1103 16th Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

GOODNOW, Frank Johnson:

Professor of law and author; born in Brooklyn, N. Y., Jan. 18, 1859; son of Abel

F. and Jane M. (Root) Goodnow. He was educated in private schools: Amherst College, A.B., 1879, A.M., 1887, LL.D., 1897, Columbia University, LL.B., 1882, LL.D., 1904, École Libre des Sciences Politiques, Paris, University of Berlin. He was admitted to the New York bar on graduation in 1882, and has been professor of administrative law and municipal science in Columbia University, since 1883. He was a member of the Commission to Revise the Charter of the City of New York, 1900-1901; member of the Commission of the National Civic Federation on Public Ownership, 1905-1906, member of the Association Bar of the City of New York, American Political Science Association, American Economic Association and the Century. University, Barnard and City Clubs of New York. He is author of Comparative Administrative Law, 1893; Municipal Home Rule, 1895; Municipal Problems, 1897; Politics and Administration, 1900; City Government in the United States, 1904; Principles of American Administrative Law, 1906. He edited: Selected Cases on the Law of Taxation, 1905; Selected Cases on Government and Administration, 1906; Professor Goodnow married in Brooklyn, N. Y., June 2, 1886. Elizabeth Lyall. Address: 49 Riverside Drive New York City.

GOODRICH, Caspar Frederick:

Rear-admiral U. S. Navy, retired; born in Philadelphia, Jan. 7, 1847; son of William and Sarah A. (Bearden) Goodrich. He was appointed to the U. S. Naval Academy from Connecticut, Dec. 9, 1861, and was graduated at the head of the class of 1864. After passing through the various grades he was commissioned as Lieutenant-commander Dec. 18, 1868. He was on duty at the Naval Academy, 1871-1873; Tennessee, Asiatic Squadron, 1875-1876; Kearsarge Asiatic Station, 1876-1878; Torpedo Station, 1878-1880; Lancaster, European Station, 1881-1884; naval attaché, on staff of Lieutenant-General Sir Garnet Wolseley, during the Tel-el-Kebir Campaign, 1882; special instructor of Ordnance, 1884-1886. He was a member of the Endicott Board of Fortifications, 1885; promoted to commander, September, 1884; in charge of Torpedo Station, 1886-1889; commanding the Jamestown, 1891-1892; commanding Constellation, 1892-1893; commanding Concord, 1893-1895; lecturer at Naval War College, 1896-1897; president of the Naval War College, 1897; gold medalist of the Naval Institute. He was commissioned captain in September, 1897; commanding St. Louis, April-August, 1898; Newark, 1898-1899, Iowa, 1899-1900. During the Spanish-American War he had the first engagement with the batteries at Santiago, while cutting cables, aided by the Wompatuck, and fought the last naval action of the war at Manzanillo. He was appointed lecturer at the Naval War College, July 1, 1900; promoted to rear-admiral Feb. 17, 1904; in command of the Pacific Squadron, from Aug. 1, 1904, to Dec. 28, 1906, and in 1907 was ordered as commandant of the New York Navy Yard, and retired by operation of law, Jan. 7, 1909. He married, Sept. 4, 1873, Eleanor Milnor, who died May 29, 1908. Admiral Goodrich is the father of Lieutenant Goodrich, who died from the result of injuries received from the explosion of powder in his turret in target practice on board the Georgia in July, 1907. Admiral Goodrich's contributions to the Proceedings of the United States Naval Institute and to other periodicals have been read with interest and pleasure by members of his own and foreign services. Address: Pomfret, Conn.

GOODRICH, Wallace:

Musician; born in Newton, Mass. May 27, 1871; son of John B. and Anna L. (Woodward) Goodrich. After graduating from the Newton High School in 1888, he attended the Royal Academy of Music in Munich, 1894-1895; and continued his studies in Paris and Leipzig, 1895-1897. From 1902 to 1907 he was conductor of choral works of the Worcester County (Massachusetts) Musical Association, and was also the founder and conductor of the Choral Art Society of Boston. In 1907 he founded and conducted the Jordan Hall Orchestral Concerts in Boston, and became conductor of the Cecilia Society. He has been organist of Trinity Church, Boston, since 1902 and organist at the concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and since 1897 has been a member of the faculty of the New England Conservatory of Music, of which he is now the dean. Upon the organization of the Boston Opera Company in 1908 he became one of its conductors. He is a member of the St. Botolph and Tavern Clubs of Boston. Mr. Goodrich married at Manchester, Mass., April 20, 1904, Madeline Boardman. Address: 145 Beacon Street, Boston.

GOODSELL, Daniel Ayres:

Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church; born in Newburg, N. Y., Nov. 5, 1840; son of Buel and Adeline (Ferris) Goodsell. He was educated in Clinton Academy, Keesville, N. Y., was graduated from New York University in 1859; and the degree of S.T.D. was conferred upon him by Wesleyan University. D.D. by New York University; and LL.D. by Dickerson College. He entered the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1859, was ordained in 1861; filled various pastorates, became literary editor of the Christian Advocate in New York City in 1880, and afterward secretary of the Board of Education of the Methodist Episcopal Church until elected by the General Conference of 1888 to the office of bishop. In connection with his episcopal duties he has traveled in China, Japan, Korea and Europe three times and resided in Europe two years. He is author of: Nature and Character at Granite Bay; The Things Which Remain; Peter the Hermit; and also of numerous contributions to reviews and other periodicals. He is a member of the Society of American Wars; Sons of the Revolution; and the Zeta Psi fraternity; and is a trustee of the Drew Theological Seminary, and Wilbraham Academy. Bishop Goodsell married in Whitestone, N. Y., June 6, 1860, Sarah F. Loweree, and they have two children. Residence: 15 St. Nicholas Place, New York City.

GOODSPEED, Thomas Wakefield:

Clergyman, and secretary and registrar of the University of Chicago; born in Glenn Falls, N. Y., Sept. 4, 1842; son of Stephen and Jane (Johnson) Goodspeed. After spending three years at the old University of Chicago, Mr. Goodspeed was graduated from the University of Rochester in 1863, and the Rochester Theological Seminary, 1866; and received the degree of D.D. from the University of Chicago. He was pastor of the Vermont Street Baptist Church of Quincy, Ill., 1866-1872; the Second Baptist Church of Chicago, 1872-1876, secretary of the Baptist Union Theological Seminary, 1876-1889, and has been secretary of the University of Chicago since 1890, and its registrar since 1895. He is a trustee of the Chicago Baptist Hospital, Baptist Theological Union, Rush Medical College, Frances Shimer Academy at Mount Carroll, Ill., the Chicago Manual Training School Association, and the University of Chicago. He was formerly president of the village of Morgan Park, Ill., and is a member of the Quadrangle Club of Chicago. Dr. Goodspeed married at Panton, Vt., Sept. 4, 1866, Mary Ellen Ten Broeke, and they have two sons. Residence: 5630 Kimbark Avenue. Address: The University of Chicago, Chicago.

GOODWIN, Henry Timrod:

Physician and surgeon; born in Charleston, S. C.; son of George Munro and Emily (Timrod) Goodwin, nephew of Henry Timrod, the South Carolina poet. He was graduated from the Long Island College Hospital, M.D., was for several years a medical officer in the U. S. Marine Hospital Service, as past assistant surgeon. In 1896, while in command of the U. S. Marine Hospital at Louisville, Ky., he resigned to take up private practice on Staten Island. He is surgeon to St. Vincent's Hospital, Richmond Borough, New York City, and local examiner to the New York Life Insurance Company. Dr. Goodwin is a member of the Richmond County Medical Society, fellow of the Medical Association of the Greater City of New York, the New York State Medical Association. Dr. Goodwin's great-grandfather, Henry Timrod, was president of the German Friendly Society of Charleston, S. C., organized in 1766; was a member of the German Fusilliers, a patriotic organization, and in May, 1775, when the thrilling news from Lexington and Concord was received, and was the first man to sign the document pledging to take up arms against Great Britain. Dr. Goodwin married in 1876, Laura Wineow, who died in 1881, leaving one son, Hugh Marriott; and in 1876 married Annie Moody, who died in 1891, leaving one son, George Munro. Address: 360 Richmond Road, Tompkinsville, Staten Island, N. Y.

GOODWIN, Nathaniel Carl:

Comedian; born in Boston, Mass., July 25, 1857. He was educated in the public schools, and the Little Blue Academy in Farmington, Me. He became a dry-goods clerk in Boston, and while so engaged devoted his attention to the study of Shakespeare and dramatic art. He began his professional career by giving impersonations of well-known men at private entertainments, and afterward was with several companies in utility parts, made his first New York appearance in a speaking part at Tony Pastor's in 1875, later played "Captain Crosstree" in the burlesque of Black-eyed Susan, and afterward went with E. E. Rice, creating the part of "Captain Dietrick" in Evangeline and afterward for three years, playing the leading part of "Le Blanc" in the same comedy. Since then he has appeared as Mr. Golightly in Lend Me Five Shillings; Modus in The Hunchback, the Gravedigger in Hamlet (Cincinnati Dramatic Festival, 1883); has played in England as well as United States; has produced many original plays, including: The Nominee; The Gold Mine; A Gilded Fool; In Mizouri; Ambition; An American Citizen; The Bookmaker; Nathan Yale; Cowboy and the Lady; When We Were Twenty-One; The Altar of Friendship; Hobbies; The Ramblers; Member from Slocum; Ourselves; The Skating Rink; Turned Up; also Confusion (burlesque of Sir Henry Irving in The Bells); Wolfoille; The Gen- ius, etc.; has made ornate revivals of The Merchant of Venice and A Midsummer Night's Dream; and produced an original comic opera, Big Pony. His present wife is Edna Goodrich, the actress. Address: 326 West End Avenue, New York City.

GOODYEAR, William Henry:

Curator of Fine Arts in the Museum of the Brooklyn Institute; born in New Haven, Conn., April 21, 1846; son of Charles Goodyear, the famous inventor of vulcanized rubber and most processes of its manufacture. He was graduated from Yale, A.B., 1867 (honorary A.M., Yale, 1904); studied history and art history at Heidelberg and Berlin, 1867-1870; traveled in Southern Europe and the Holy Land, 1869-1870; taught in private schools and at Cooper Union; was curator of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, 1881-1888, studied lotus ornament in Egypt, 1891, and architectural art in Italy and Northern Europe on several visits, and he was appointed curator of the Fine Arts Museum of Brooklyn Institute in 1899. He is author of: Ancient and Modern History, 1883; History of Art, 1887; The Grammar of the Lotus, 1891; Roman and Mediaeval Art, 1893; Renaissance and Modern Art, 1894; also magazine articles. Mr. Goodyear is a corresponding member of the American Institute of Architects; honorary member of the Edinburgh Architectural Association, the Architects' Society of Rome, Royal Academy of Fine Arts of Milan, Royal Academy of Fine Arts of Venice, a founder of the American Anthropological Association, 1902; and a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Address: 458 Lincoln Place, Brooklyn, N. Y.

GORDON, George Washington:

Member of Congress; born in Giles County, Tenn., Oct. 5, 1836; son of Andrew and Eliza K. Gordon. He was graduated from the Western Military Institute, Nashville, Tenn., 1859, and practised civil engineering until the beginning of the Civil War; enlisted in the military service of the State of Tennessee in June, 1861, in the capacity of drillmaster of the 1th Tennessee Infantry, and was soon thereafter transferred to the military service of the Confederate States of America, in which he was successively a captain, lieutenant-colonel and colonel of his regiment, and in 1864 was made a brigadier-general and served with that rank to the close of the war. Though captured three times, and once dangerously wounded, he participated in every engagement fought by his command except those at Nashville, Tenn., and Bentonville, N. C., at which times he was a prisoner at Fort Warren, Mass., where he was held till August, 1865. He studied law at Lebanon, Tenn., and practised his profession at Pulaski and Memphis, Tenn., until 1883, when he was appointed a member of the State Railroad Commission of Tennessee. He was appointed to a position in the Interior Department of the United States Government in 1885, and served until 1889 in the Indian country; resumed the practice of law in Memphis, 1889-1892, was superintendent of city schools of Memphis until March, 1907. He was elected in November, 1906 to the Sixtieth Congress, and reelected in 1908 to the Sixty-first Congress from the Tenth Tennessee District, as a Democrat. General Gordon, was elected in 1901 and has since been annually reelected major-general commanding the Tennessee Division of United Confederate Veterans. He married in Bartlett, Tenn., Sept., 5, 1876, Ora S. Paine. Address: Memphis, Tenn.

GORE, Thomas Pryor:

U. S. senator; born in Webster County, Miss., Dec. 10, 1870; son of Thomas Madison and Carrie Elizabeth (Wingo) Gore. He is blind, having lost his left eye when eight years old by being accidentally struck with a stick by a playmate; and his right eye, when eight years old by an arrow from a cross-bow. He attended a local school at Walthall, Miss., was graduated from the Law Department of Cumberland University, Lebanon, Tenn., in 1892, in which year he was admitted to the Bar. He practised in Mississippi until he removed to Texas in 1896, and from there he went to Oklahoma in 1901. Mr. Gore became interested in politics and was soon known as an orator of great power. He was affiliated with the People's Party, until 1899, and was a candidate of that party for Congress from the Sixth Texas District in 1898, and a delegate to the National Convention of that party in St. Louis in 1896. He joined the Democratic Party in 1899, and has since taken an active part in its National and State campaigns, was a member for one term of the Territorial Senate of Oklahoma; was nominated for the U. S. Senate at the State Democratic primary in June, 1907, was appointed by the governor, Nov. 11, and elected by the Legislature, Dec. 11, 1907, as one of the first two senators from the State of Oklahoma. He drew the short term, expiring March 3, 1909; was renominated in the State Democratic Primary, Aug. 4, 1908, and reelected Jan. 20, 1909, by the Oklahoma Legislature, for the full term expiring March 5, 1913. He married in Palestine, Texas, Dec. 27, 1900, Nina Kay. Address: Lawton, Okla.

GORGAS, William Crawford:

Chief sanitary officer, Isthmian Canal Commission; born in Mobile, Ala., Oct. 3, 1854. His father, the late General Josiah Gorgas, was graduated from West Point in 1841, and was a captain in the Ordnance Corps, when he resigned from the U. S. Army, 1861, joined the Confederacy and rose to be brigadier-general and chief of ordnance, C. S. Army; and Colonel Gorgas' mother is Amelia (Gayle) Gorgas, a daughter of Governor Gayle of Alabama. He was graduated from the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn., A.B., 1875, and from Bellevue Hospital Medical College, M.D., 1879. He was house surgeon in Bellevue Hospital, 1879-1880; entered the U. S. Army, 1880, and served continuously in Florida and on the Western frontier of the United States until, when the Spanish-American war began in 1898, he went to Cuba with the Santiago Expedition, served at Santiago until December, 1898, and then became health officer at Havana until the fall of 1902. While there the discovery was made by the Army Medical Board that the mosquito was the means of conveying yellow fever. As health officer he at once made plans for putting this discovery into practical operation and, as a result, Havana was freed from yellow fever. For this work he was promoted from the grade of major to that of colonel of the Medical Corps, U. S. Army, by special act of Congress in 1903. In 1904 he was sent to Panama as health officer for the Isthmian Canal Commission, and in 1907 was made a member of the Commission. He is a member of the Society of the Alumni of Bellevue Hospital; member and president-elect of the American Medical Association; fellow of the New York Academy of Medicine; associate fellow of the Philadelphia College of Physicians; fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science; vice-president of the Association of Military Surgeons of the United States; member of the International Congress of Medicine, of the First Pan-American Scientific Congress, and of the American Public Health Association; member of the Société de Pathologie Exotique, and the Pasteur Institute, of Paris. Colonel Gorgas has the honorary degree of Sc.D. from the University of Pennsylvania and from Harvard; and also received honorary degrees, in 1909, from the Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, and from Brown University; and was awarded the Mary Kingsley medal by the Liverpool School of Tropical Medicine. He married in Cincinnati, Sept. 15, 1885, Marie Cook Doughty. Address: Ancon, Canal Zone, Panama.

GOSSLER, Philip G.:

Mechanical engineer; born in Columbia, Pa., Aug. 6, 1870; son of Philip and Emily (Washabaugh) Gossler. He was graduated from Pennsylvania State College, B.S., 1890, E.E., 1892, and took a post-graduate course in Columbia University in 1893. Mr. Gossler was in the engineering department of Chester, (Pa.) Foundry and Machine Company and of the Edison General Electric Company, 1890-1891; assistant engineer of the United Electric Light and Power Company, New York City, 1891-1895; superintendent and engineer of the Royal Electric Company, Montreal, Canada, 1895-1901; general superintendent and engineer of the Montreal Light, Heat and Power Company, 1901-1904; second vice-president of J. G.

White & Company, New York City, since 1904; second vice-president and director of the Canadian White Company, Limited; vice-president and director of the Wilkes-Barre Gas and Electric Company, and Tri-City Railway and Light Company; president and director of the San Juan Light and Transit Company; Monterey Light and Power Company; the Helena Light and Railway Company; Porto Rico Power and Light Company; The Eastern Pennsylvania Railways Company; director of the Porto Rico Railway Company. He is a member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, National Electric Light Association, Canadian Society of Civil Engineers, New York Electrical Society (vice-president), Canadian Electrical Association (past president), Pennsylvania Society and the Pilgrims Society of America, and is a member of the Engineers, Lawyers', New York Athletic and Dunwoodie Country, Metropolitan and Amateur Comedy Clubs of New York, and St. James Club of Montreal. Mr. Gossler married in Brooklyn, Nov. 26, 1895, Mary Clafin, and they have three children: Mary, Katherine and Philip. Address: Care of A. B. Leach & Co., 149 Broadway, New York City.

GOTTHEIL, Richard James Horatio:

Educator; born in Manchester, England, Oct. 13, 1862; son of Rabbi Gustav and Rosalia Gottheil. He was educated in Manchester, England, Columbia Grammar School, New York, was graduated from Columbia College A.B., 1881, followed by graduate work in the Universities of Berlin, Tubingen, Leipzig (from which he received the degree of Ph. D. summa cum laude), Hochschule für die Wissenschaft des Judenthums and Veitel-Heine-Ephraimische Beth Hamidrash in Berlin. He has been professor of Semitic languages in Columbia University, since 1887; and is also head of the Oriental Department in the New York Public Library. He was president of the American Federation of Zionists, 1898-1904; member of the German Oriental Society, Société des Etudes Juives (Paris); Jewish Historical Society, England; member of the council of the American Oriental Society; president of the Society of Biblical Literature 1902-1903; vice-president of the American Jewish Historical Society; vice-president of the Judeans (New York City). He is author of The Syriac Grammar of Mar Elia of Zobha (Berlin); has been one of the editors of the Jewish Encyclopedia (Funk and Wagnalls, N. Y.), since 1901; contributor to Johnson's Encyclopedia, second edition. Zeitschrift der Deutschen Morgenland Gesellschaft, Journal of the American Oriental Society, Zeitschrift für Assyriologie, Journal of the Society of Biblical Literature; also contributor to the Century Magazine, North American Review, and World's Work. Professor Gottheil married in Paris, France, in 1891, Emma R. Leon. Address: 63 West 85th Street, New York City.

GOTTLIEB, Maurice Artnur:

Artist and collector of relics and antiquities; born in Vienna, Austria, May 15, 1856; son of Adolf and Caroline (von Sonnenberg) Gottlieb; and distant relative of Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna, the fighting general and president of Mexico. He was educated in St. John's Catholic College under direction of Pater Canonicius, and received the degree of A.M. Mr. Gottlieb was connected with Puck as manager of the Art Department for nearly thirty years, and retired on account of ill health. He is author of the History of the Rite of Memphis, and other works. He is a past-master of Odd Fellows; active member of the Masonic fraternity; York Rite Swedenborg Rite, 33d-degree Scottish Rite, 96th-degree Egyptian Rite, Chapter, Cryptic Rite, Knight Templar, Noble of the Mystic Shrine, Veiled Prophet, Sheikh of Kiaba, Rose Croix, and all degrees of the order; honorary member to Spain, Portugal, Italy and Egypt; decorated with the five-pointed bronze star, Order of Merit, by the Khedive. He is a member of the Microscopical Society, Geographical Society; treasurer of the Medico-Legal Laboratory; life member of the Society of Science, Letters and Art, London, England, and vice-president of the American Branch. He is quartermaster-general with rank of brigadier-general, of the National Volunteer Emergency Service Medical Corps, U. S. A., which he, in connection with his brother, founded in 1900. He is a member of the First Battery, National Guard of New York, and of the New York Press Club. He married Cecilia Miller. Address: 126 West 11th Street, New York City.

GOTTSCHALK, Alfred L. M.:

U. S. consul-general-at-large; born in New York City, Feb. 8, 1873; son of L. G. and Louise de L. (Baucher) Gottschalk. He was educated in Kenyon College, 1891-1894; New York University, 1896, and abroad. Mr. Gottschalk was a newspaper and magazine correspondent, attached to Gen. Brooke's Division in the Porto Rico campaign of 1898, as representative of the New York Herald; was author of a book of verse and magazine articles, etc., and also engaged in sugar growing in Santo Domingo. In 1900 he was appointed collector of customs at Monte Cristi, Santo Domingo, for the Santo Domingo Improvement Company; appointed consul at San Juandel Norte, Nicaragua, April 25, 1902; consul at Callao, Peru, June 24, 1903; promoted to consul-general at Callao, May 22, 1905; consul-general at Mexico City, Dec. 20, 1905; detailed for duty as inspector of consulates in the Near East, with rank of consul-general-at-large, March 3, 1908. Mr. Gottschalk is a member of the 7th Regiment, National Guard of New York, Geographical Society of Lima, Geographical Society of Mexico, and the National Geographic Society. He is also a member of The Lambs and Delta Kappa Epsilon Clubs of New York City and the Cosmos Club of Washington, D. C. Address: care of the Consular Bureau, Department of State, Washington, D. C.

GOUCHER, John Franklin:

President emeritus of The Woman's College of Baltimore; born in Waynesboro, Pa., in June, 1845; son of Dr. John and Eleanor (Townsend) Goucher. He was graduated from Dickinson College, A.B., 1868, A.M., 1873, and received from that college the honorary degrees of D.D., 1885, LL.D., 1898. He was ordained in the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church, becoming a member of the Baltimore Conference in 1869, projected and brought to completion the Harlem Park and Strawbridge churches and the new First Church of Baltimore and eleven other churches and chapels during his twenty-two years in the pastorate. He was president of the Board of Trustees of the Centenary Biblical Institute, now called Morgan College, in Baltimore, was the projector and chief benefactor of the Princess Anne Training School, and of the Lynchburg, Va., Industrial School, for colored people. He also became active in missionary matters, securing the funds for obliteration of the debt of the Martin Mission Institute, Frankfort-on-the-Main, Germany; founded the Anglo-Japanese College at Tokyo, as also the West China and Korean Missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was appointed by the Board of Missions to inspect their missions in Italy in 1886, Mexico in 1892, India, 1897-1898, 1906-1907; took an active part in establishing vernacular schools in India. He was president of The Woman's College of Baltimore, which he projected in 1884, from 1889 to 1909. He has been a delegate to all of the quadrennial General Conferences of the Methodist Episcopal Church, beginning with that of 1888; was a fraternal delegate to the Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, in 1894; is president of the American Methodist Historical Society, vice-president of the Geographical Society of Baltimore; member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, American Academy of Political and Social Science, Archaeological Institute of America; National Geographic Society and Sons of the American Revolution. President Goucher married in Pikesville, Md., Dec. 24, 1877, Mary C. Fisher. Address: The Woman's College, Baltimore, Md.

GOULD, Edwin:

Capitalist; born in New York City, Feb. 25, 1866; son of Jay and Helen Day (Miller) Gould. He was graduated from Columbia College, A.B., 1888. He served in Troop A and the 71st Regiment of the National Guard of New York, and was captain and inspector of rifle practice in the latter regiment. He is president of the St. Louis and Southwestern Railway, Bowling Green Trust Company, Western Coal and Mining Company, Para-Gould Southwestern Railway, Pine Bluff (Ark.) Railway; vice-president of the Utah Fuel Company, American Writing Paper Company; director of the Missouri Pacific Railway Company, International and Great Northern Railroad Company, Texas Pacific Railway Company, Western Union Telegraph Company, Manhattan Railway Company, Colorado Midland Railway Company, Denver and Rio Grande Railroad, Pittsburg Terminal Railroad Coal Company, Rio Grande Southern Railway Company, West Side Belt Railroad Company, Western Maryland Railroad Company, Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroad Company, California and Texas Railway Construction Company, Mercantile National Bank, Mercantile Trust Company, Virginia Passenger and Power Company, American Telegraph and Cable, Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, International Ocean Telegraph Company, Standard Milling Company. Mr. Gould is a member of the New York Stock Exchange, Chicago Stock Exchange, Society of Colonial Wars, Military Order of Foreign Wars, Sons of the Revolution, and of the Union League. Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht, American Yacht, New York Yacht, Atlantic Yacht, New York Athletic, Essex County Country, Knollwood Golf, Larchmont, Jekyl Island, Automobile of America, Army and Navy Country, and Ardsley Clubs of New York City; Chicago, and St. Louis Club of St. Louis. He married in New York City, Oct. 27, 1892, Sarah C. Shady. Residence: Ardsley-on-Hudson, and 730 Fifth Avenue, New York City. Office: 195 Broadway, New York City.

GOULD, Elgin Ralston Lovell:

President City and Suburban Homes Company; born in Oshawa, Ont., Aug. 15, 1860; son of John T. and Emily A. Gould. He was graduated from the Victoria University, A.B., 1881, and from Johns Hopkins University, Ph.D., 1886, having been a fellow there, 1882-1884, and lecturer in the same institution, 1892-1897; professor of economies in the University of Chicago, 1895-1896. Since 1896 he has been president of the City and Suburban Homes Company of New York. Mr. Gould was appointed chamberlain of the City of New York by Mayor Seth Low, taking office Jan. 1, 1902, and continuing it to Jan. 1, 1904; and was given a complimentary dinner Jan. 7, 1902, by the citizens of New York City, in recognition of distinguished municipal service. He was appointed in 1907 and 1908 by Governor Hughes as a member of the Commission to Revise the New York City Charter. He is ex-vice-president of the American Economic Association; fellow of the American Academy of Political and Social Science; member of the International Statistical Institute, British Economic Association, Societe d'Economie Politique and Societe de Statistique de Paris. He is author of various books on social and economic subjects, including: Housing of the Working People; Popular Control of the Liquor Traffic; The Gothenburg System of Liquor Traffic; The Social Condition of Labor; and various contributions to magazines. Mr. Gould is a vestryman and treasurer of St. Bartholomew's Church, and member of the Century, Church, City, Barnard, National Arts, Baltimore Country and St. Andrew's Golf Clubs. Residence: 57 West 52d Street. Office: 281 Fourth Avenue, New York City.

GOULD, Frank Jay:

Capitalist; born in New York City, Dec. 4, 1878; son of Jay and Helen Day (Miller) Gould. He was graduated from the University of New York, A.B., 1900. Mr. Gould is first vice-president of several corporations, including Missouri Pacific, St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern, Texas & Pacific, and International and Great Northern Railroad, of which George Jay Gould is president; also of Western Union Telegraph and other companies. He is a member of the Union League, Atlantic Yacht, Athletic, Lawyers' and New York Yacht Clubs of New York City. Residence: 831 Fifth Avenue. Address: 195 Broadway, New York City.

GOULD, George J.:

Capitalist; born in New York City, Feb. 6, 1864; son of Jay and Helen Day (Miller) Gould. He was educated in Dr. Cornwall's private school, and at the close of his school course, preferred business to college, and became a clerk in the banking house of W. E. Conner & Company, in which his father was a partner, and when the latter retired in Dec., 1885, became a member of the firm in his father's place. Mr. Gould became a member of the New York Stock Exchange in Feb., 1886, soon after retiring from the Conner firm. He became vice-president, 1888, and president, 1893, of the Little Rock & Fort Smith Railroad Company; also, since 1893, president and director of the Missouri Pacific, Texas and Pacific, International and Great Northern, and St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railway Companies; is also chairman of the Board of Directors of the Wabash Railroad Company, Denver and Rio Grande Railroad Company, and Rio Grande Western Railway Company, and, since 1892, has been president of the Manhattan Railway Company. Mr. Gould is also president and director of the Arkansas Midland, Coal Belt, and Fort Smith Suburban Railway Companies, International Ocean Telegraph Company, Kansas and Arkansas Valley, Kansas City Northwestern, Little Rock Junction, Railway Companies, Pine Bluff and Western Railroad Company, Sedalia, Warsaw and Southwestern, Weatherford and Mineral Wells and Northwestern Railway Companies; vice-president and director of the Western Union Telegraph Company, Rio Grande Southern and Kansas City Southern Railroad Companies; director of the American District Telegraph Company, Gold and Stock Telegraph Company, American Telegraph and Cable Company, American Union, Atlantic and Pacific, and New York Mutual Telegraph Companies, New York Telephone Company, Southern and Atlantic, and Washington and New Orleans Telegraph Companies, Pacific Mail Steamship Company, Colorado Midland, and Eldorado and Bastrop Railway Companies, Galveston, Houston and Henderson Railroad Company, Kansas City, Mexico and Orient Railway Company, Pittsburg Terminal Railroad and Coal Company, Wabash Pittsburg Terminal Railway Company, West Virginia Central and Pittsburg Railway Company, Western Maryland Railroad Company, Western Pacific Railway Company, Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroad Company, Bowling Green Trust Company, Continental Trust Company of Baltimore, Mercantile Trust Company, National Bank of Commerce, National Surety Company, Utah Fuel Company, Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, Davis Coal and Coke Company, Chicago Elevator Company, Kansas-Missouri Elevator Company, Conried Metropolitan Opera Company. He is a member of the Sons of the Revolution, and Society of Foreign Wars, and of the New York Yacht, Atlantic Yacht, Larchmont, New York, New York Athletic, Rockaway Hunt, City, Midway, Automobile of America, Ardsley, and Jekyl Island Country Clubs. Mr. Gould married in New York City, in 1886, Edith M. Kingdon, and they have seven children: Kingdon, Jay, Marjorie, Vivian, George, Edith, and Gloria. Residence: Georgian Court, Lakewood, N. J. Address: 195 Broadway, New York City.

GOULD, George Milbry:

Physician; born in Auburn, Me., Nov. 8, 1848; son of George Thomas and Eliza Ann (Lapham) Gould. He was graduated from Ohio Wesleyan University, A.B., 1873, later A.M.; Harvard Divinity School, 1873; Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, M.D., 1888. He engaged in practice at Philadelphia as specialist in ophthalmology; was ophthalmologist of Philadelphia Almshouse, 1892-1894; president of the American Academy of Medicine, 1895; speaker of the Congress of Arts and Sciences at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, 1904. Editor of the Medical News, 1892-1895, Philadelphia Medical Journal, 1898-1900, American Medicine, 1900-1908; removed to Ithaca, N. Y., 1908. Dr. Gould is author of: A New Medical Dictionary, 10 editions, 1891-1900; Pocket Medical Dictionary, many editions, 1897-1909; Illustrated Dictionary of Medicine and Biology, 1894-1900; Diseases of the Eye, 1888, 1898; The Meaning and the Method of Life, 1894; American Year Book of Medicine and Surgery, 1896-1904; Anomalies and Curiosities of Medicine, 1898; Encyclopedia of Practical Medicine and Surgery, 1900; Suggestions to Medical Writers, 1900; Biographic Clinics, 6 volumes, 1903-1909; also a Dictionary of New Medical Words; The Practitioners' Medical Dictionary; Borderland Studies, two volumes; Pocket Encyclopedia of Practical Medicine and Surgery; An Autumn Singer; Concerning Lafcadio Hearn, 1908; Righthandedness and Lefthandedness, 1908; History of Jefferson Medical College, two volumes; Personal Bibliography; and various contributions to medical journals. He enlisted in 1861 as a drummer-boy in the Union Army, in the 63d Ohio Volunteers (discharged, 1862); enlisted, 1864, in 141st Ohio Volunteers, discharged 1865. Dr. Gould is a fellow of the College of Physicians of Philadelphia, and a member of the American Ophthalmological Society, American Academy of Medicine and the American Medical Association. He married in Pomeroy, Ohio, in 1876, Harriet F. Cartwright. Address: The Sentinels, Cayuga Heights, Ithaca, N. Y.

GOULD, Howard:

Actor; born in Minneapolis, March 19, 1863; son of Dr. W. H. and Elizabeth J. Gould. He was educated in the schools of Boston, Mass. He began his connection with things theatrical as a call-boy at the Boston Museum; went on stage, and later appeared with James O'Neill, Maggie Mitchell, and E. H. Sothern; was for seven years a star under Daniel Frohman, then leading support to Mary Manning, Mrs. Patrick Campbell, and Viola Allen. He is a member of the Players' and Lambs' Clubs of New York City. Address: Players' Club, New York City.

GOULD, Howard:

Capitalist; born in New York City in 1870; son of the late Jay and Helen Day (Miller) Gould. He received a private education. Mr. Gould has been a member of the New York Stock Exchange since 1898, and he is a director in the American Pneumatic Service Company, Gold and Stock Telegraph Company, International and Great Northern Railroad Company, Kansas and Arkansas Valley Railway Company, Kansas City Northwestern Railroad Company, Manhattan Railway Company, Missouri Pacific Railway Company, Rio Grande Southern Railroad Company, Rio Grande Western Railroad Company, St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern Railway Company, St. Louis Southwestern Railway Company, Texas and Pacific Railway Company, Western Maryland Railroad Company, and Western Union Telegraph Company. He is distinguished as a yachtsman, and won Lord Dunraven's challenge cup with the yacht Niagara. Mr. Gould married, Oct. 12, 1898, Viola Katherine Clemmons. Address: Irvington-on-Hudson, New York.

GOULD, Norman Judd:

Manufacturer; born in Seneca Falls, N. Y., March 15, 1877; son of Seabury S. and Mary Mitchell (Judd) Gould. He was graduated from Lawrenceville (N. J.) School, 1895, and from Cornell University, as M.E., in 1899. He is president of The Goulds' Manufacturing Company of Seneca Falls, N. Y.; director of the Exchange National Bank of Seneca Falls; trustee of Seneca Falls Savings Bank. Mr. Gould was an alternate-at-large from New York State, to the Republican National Convention of 1908. He is a director of the Seneca Falls Library Association; member of the Board of School Commissioners and the Board of Water Commissioners of Seneca Falls, N. Y.; member and trustee of the Sigma Phi Association of Cornell University; trustee of the National Iron Pump Manufacturers' Club; member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers; and an associate member of the National Fire Protection Association and the American Water Works Association. He is a prominent member of the Masonic Order, Geneva Commandery, No. 29, Knights Templar, and Damascus Temple Mystic Shrine, Rochester, and he is a member of the Seneca Falls Club of Seneca Falls, the Cornell University, Machinery, and New York Athletic Clubs of New York City; the Kanadasaga, and Country Clubs of Geneva, N. Y., the University Club of Chicago, City Club of Auburn, N. Y., Genesee Valley Club of Rochester, N. Y., and the City Club of Boston. Address: Seneca Falls, N. Y.

GOULDEN, Joseph A.:

Underwriter and congressman; born in Adams County, Pa., Aug. 1, 1844. He served in the Navy during 1864 and 1865; was a member of the Board of Managers of the State Reformatory at Morganza, Pa., commissioner and trustee of the public schools of New York City for ten years; is a member of the Board of Trustees of the Soldiers' Home, Bath, N. Y.; was secretary and a member of the commission that erected the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument, by the City of New York, in Riverside Park. He was elected as a Democrat to the Fifty-eighth, Fifty-ninth and Sixtieth Congresses, and reelected to the Sixty-first Congress from the Eighteenth New York District. He married in Dec., 1867, Isabelle Allwein. Residence: 2433 Creston Avenue, Fordham. Office: 180 Broadway, New York City.

GOVE, William Henry:

Lawyer and business man; born in South Berwick, Me., Sept. 4, 1851; son of Levi and Mary (Meador) Gove; grandson of Joseph and Mehitable (Varney) Meador, and of Moses and Hannah (Chase) Gove, and a descendant of John Gove, who came from England about 1647, and settled in Charlestown. Mr. Gove was brought up on his father's farm, with few school privileges beyond the district school until he was nearly fifteen years old, when his family removed to Lynn, Mass., and he entered the High School there, from which he was graduated in 1869, and passed the examinations for admission to Harvard College, but did not enter until 1872 from want of the necessary means. The intervening years he spent as clerk and student in a law office and was admitted to the bar in 1872. He was graduated from Harvard in 1876, and received the degree of LL.B. from Harvard Law School in 1877. He practised law in Salem, Mass., 1877-1900, till 1885 in partnership with John W. Porter, afterwards alone. He was a member of the School Board of Lynn in 1878-1881; removed to Salem early in 1882 and was alderman of that city, 1894-1896, being president of the board in 1895 and 1896. He was representative from Salem in the General Court, 1903 and 1904, serving as a member of the Committee on the Judiciary. He was alternate-delegate to Republican National Convention from his Congressional District in 1908. Mr. Gove is author of a plan for Proportional Representation, which is somewhat widely known as "The Gove System." Mr. Gove is a knight Templar and 32d degree Mason and a member of the lodge and encampment of Odd Fellows. He is a director of the Essex Institute, Salem, and a member of the Salem Club. He became president and general manager of the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company late in 1900, through the death of his wife's brother, and he is now successfully conducting that extensive business. He married, Jan. 5, 1882, Aroline C., daughter of Isaac and Lydia (Estes) Pinkham, and they have four children. Address: 254 Lafayette Street, Salem, Mass.

GOW, John Russell:

Clergyman; born in Waterville, Me., Oct. 20, 1855; son of George Boardman and Lucy Ann (Marston) Gow. He was graduated from the Worcester (Mass.) High School, 1872, Brown University, A.B., 1877, Newton Theological Institution, 1882, and received the degree of D.D. from Colby College in 1908. He was ordained to the ministry in the First Baptist Church of Fair Haven, Vt., in 1882, remaining there until 1886, pastor of Baptist churches at Bridgeport, Conn., 1886-1891, Hyde Park, Chicago, 1891-1895, Somerville, Mass., 1895-1908, and since 1908 at Brattleboro, Vt. Dr. Gow is a member and was president of the Boston Browning Society; trustee of the Fair Haven (Vt.) public schools; secretary of the Somerville Boys' Club and the Somerville Associated Charities; is a trustee of the Newton Theological Institution and of the Brattleboro Public Library; is a member of the Delta Upsilon fraternity at Yale, the Royal Arcanum in Somerville, Mass., and the Twentieth Century Club in Boston. Address: 10 Terrace Street, Brattleboro, Vt.

GRABAU, Amadeus William:

Professor of paleontology in Columbia University; born in Cedarburgh, Wis., Jan. 9, 1870; son of Professor William and Maria (von Rohr) Grabau. He was graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, S.B., 1896, Harvard, S.M., 1898, S.D., 1900. Formerly professor of geology in Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute and lecturer in geology in Tufts College. He became lecturer in paleontology in Columbia University in 1901, was appointed adjunct professor in 1902, and professor of paleontology in 1905. Professor Grabau is distinguished for his researches in paleontology and stratigraphy, and particularly in the succession of faunas in the middle Devonian of the United States and the phylogeny of Gastropoda. He is a fellow of the Geological Society of America, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, fellow and vice-president of the New York Academy of Sciences, and chairman of section; member of the Boston Society of Natural History, Buffalo Society of Natural Sciences. Dr. Grabau was coeditor of the Guide to Localities, illustrating the geology, marine zoölogy and botany of Boston; Geology and Paleontology of Eighteen-Mile Creek and the Lake Shore of Erie County, New York (Buffalo Society of Natural Sciences); Guide to the Geology and Paleontology of Niagara Falls (University of the State of New York Museum Bulletin, 1901); Phylogeny of Fusus and Its Allies (Smithsonian Institute, 1904); Guide to the Geology and Paleontology of the Schoharie Region in Eastern New York (University of the State of New York Museum, 1906), and numerous scientific papers. Married, Boston, 1901, Mary Antin. Residence: 80th Street and 11th Avenue, Brooklyn. Address: Columbia University, New York City.

GRACE, Thomas:

Catholic bishop of Sacramento; born in Wexford, Ireland, Aug. 2, 1841. He received his general education in St. Peter's College in his native town, and pursued his divinity studies in All Hallows College, Dublin. He was ordained priest June 11, 1867, and went to California, entering upon parochial work at Red Bluff in that State. He was afterward successively at Eureka, Humboldt and Carson, Nev.; was rector of the Marysville (Calif.) Cathedral, 1873-1881, and of the Sacramento Cathedral, 1881-1896. He was preconized bishop, Feb. 27, 1896, and consecrated June 16, 1896, bishop of Sacramento. Address: Sacramento, Calif.

GRADY, Thomas F.:

Lawyer and State senator; born in New York City, Nov. 29, 1853. He was educated in De La Salle Institute and St. James' Church Parochial School; and he received the degree of A.M. from Manhattan College in 1880. He studied law in the offices of Middlebrook and Phillips, and of William C. Whitney, corporation counsel, and was admitted to the bar in 1883. He was a member of the House in the General Assembly of New York, 1877, 1878, 1879; State senator, 1882-1883, 1889; police justice, 1891-1895; elected State senator, 1894, and has been re-elected biennially since; up to and including election of 1908. For many years Senator Grady has been a prominent member of the Tammany Society. He has been the leader of the Democratic minority in the New York Senate since 1899; has been a prominent delegate to many Democratic State Conventions and a conspicuous figure at the National Convention, and has been chief speaker for Tammany Hall at many State conventions. Since the session of 1902, he has been a member of the Senate Committees on Rules, Finance, Judiciary and Cities. Address: 74 Broadway, New York City.

GRAFF, Joseph V.:

Congressman; born in Terre Haute, Ind., July 1, 1854; son of Jacob K. and Mary

J. (Miller) Graff. He was graduated from the Terre Haute High School, and took a partial course in Wabash College. He studied law and was admitted to the bar while living at Delavan, Ill., in 1879, and has ever since been engaged in the practice of law. He was a delegate to the National Republican Convention at Minneapolis in 1892. Before election to Congress he had never held a public office except president of the Board of Education of Pekin, Ill., which position he held at the time of his election to the Fifty-fourth Congress in 1894, and he has since been biennially elected and is now serving in the Sixty-first Congress. Address: Peoria, Ill.

GRAFFLY, Charles:

Sculptor; born in Philadelphia, Dec. 3, 1862; son of Charles and Elizabeth (Simmons) Graffly. He was educated in the Philadelphia public schools, studied sculpture in Paris under Chapu and Dampé, 1888-1902 and later at the Spring Garden Institute, and at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, Philadelphia. He is instructor in sculpture at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts and curator of sculpture at the Memorial Hall in Philadelphia. Mr. Graffly has done much notable work in bronze figures, groups and busts and is represented in the permanent collections of the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts and in the Detroit Museum of Fine Arts. He received honorable mention at the Paris Salon, 1891, and the Temple Trust Fund, Philadelphia, 1892, medal from the World's Columbian Exposition, 1893, silver medal from the Atlanta Exposition, 1895, the Converse Gold Medal from the Pennsylvania Academy in 1899, and gold medals from the Paris Exposition, 1900, Charleston Exposition and the Buffalo Exposition, 1901. He was member of the International Jury of Awards at the St. Louis Exposition in 1904. He is a fellow of the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts; an academician of the National Academy of Design, the Architectural League of New York, the National Sculpture Society, the Art Club of Philadelphia, and the National Institute of Arts and Letters. He married in Philadelphia, June 7, 1895, Frances Sekeles, of Corinth, Miss., and has one daughter. Residence: 2140 North Twelfth Street. Address: 2200 Arch Street, Philadelphia. Country address (from June to Oct.): Lanesville, Gloucester, Mass.

GRAFTON, Charles Chapman:

Bishop of Fond du Lac; born in Boston, Mass., April 12, 1830; son of Joseph and Anna Maria (Gurley) Grafton. He was educated in Boston Latin School, was graduated from the Law School of Harvard University, LL.B., 1853, but instead of practising law took up studies for the ministry of the Episcopal Church, and he received the degree of S.T.D. from Racine College in 1889. He was ordered deacon in 1855, and ordained priest by Bishop Whittingham in 1858. Following his ordination he was consecutively assistant in Reistertown, Md., missionary at Baltimore, assistant in St. Paul's Church, Baltimore, and chaplain of the Maryland Deaconesses. In coöperation with the Rev. R. M. Benson, he helped to organize the Society of St. John the Evangelist, known as the Cowley Fathers. He became rector of the Church of the Advent, Boston, in 1888. He established also the Sisterhood of the Holy Nativity, whose Mother House is at Fond du Lac. In 1889 he became bishop of Fond du Lac, Wis., being consecrated by Bishops McLaren, A. Burgess, Seymour, Knickerbocker, Gilbert and Knight. He is author of: Vocation, or the Call of the Divine Master to a Sister's Life, 1886; Plain Suggestions for a Reverend Celebration of the Holy Communion; Christian and Catholic; The Catholic Atlas. Bishop Grafton is a member of the Society of Colonial Wars. He has published various sermons. Address: Fond du Lac, Wis.

GRAHAM, George Scott:

Lawyer; born in Philadelphia, Sept. 13, 1850; son of James Henry and Sarah Jane (Scott) Graham. He was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania, LL.B., 1871, and received the degree of LL.D. from Lafayette College. Mr. Graham was admitted to the bar in Philadelphia, 1871, and in New York in 1904; was professor of criminal law in the University of Pennsylvania, ten years, resigning in 1898; district attorney of Philadelphia, eighteen years, six consecutive terms, to four of which he was elected on both Republican and Democratic tickets; and is now member of the firm of Graham and L'Amoreaux, lawyers. Mr. Graham is a director of The Columbia Avenue Trust and Pennsylvania Electric Light and Power Company, Philadelphia; Pennsylvania Heat, Light and Power Company; International Smokeless Powder and Chemical Company of New Jersey; The Marsden Company of New Jersey. He is past grand commander of Knights Templar of Pennsylvania. Mr. Graham married first, Dec. 14, 1870, Emma M. Ellis; and second June 8, 1898, Pauline M. Clarke; and he has three living daughters, and a son and daughter now deceased. Address: 42 Broadway, New York City.

GRAHAM, William Harrison:

Congressman; born in Allegheny, Pa., Aug. 3, 1844; son of Harrison and Elizabeth Graham. He was educated in the public schools of his native city, and enlisted for the Civil War at the age of seventeen, in a Pittsburg Company, but Pennsylvania's quota being full, they chartered a steamer, went down the Ohio River to Wheeling, and were accepted there, becoming Company A, Second Virginia Infantry. After a service of two years they were mounted and became the Fifth West Virginia Cavalry. He saw active service under Generals Averill, Crook and Sheridan; was in service until the close of the war, witnessing the surrender of General Lee at Appomattox, and was wounded in the battle of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. After the war he engaged actively in business and has been very successful; was elected three terms successively as recorder of deeds of Allegheny County; represented his city during four sessions of the Pennsylvania Legislature; was elected to the Fifty-fifth, Fifty-sixth and Fifty-seventh Congresses; was defeated by eighteen votes for the Fifty-eighth Congress through a Citizens-Democratic fusion movement; but was reelected to the Fifty-ninth, Sixtieth and Sixty-first Congresses from the 29th Pennsylvania District. Address: Allegheny, Pa.

GRANJON, Henry Regis:

Catholic bishop of Tucson; born in St. Etienne, France, June 15, 1863; son of Pierre and Jeanne (Mennier) Granjon. He was educated in the St. Sulpice Seminary in Paris and in the universities in Rome, was ordained priest in 1887, joined the Arizona mission in 1890, and labored there until 1897, when he was placed in charge of the Society of the Propagation of the faith with residence at Baltimore until 1900, when he was consecrated bishop of Tucson. Address: The Cathedral, Tucson, Ariz.

GRANT, Frederick Dent:

Major-general, U. S. Army; born in St. Louis, May 30, 1859; son of Ulysses S. and Julia (Dent) Grant. He was educated in the schools of St. Louis and at Galena, Ill., where his father was in business when the Civil War began. As a boy he accompanied his father in the Vicksburg campaign to the final surrender of Vicksburg to the Union forces, and was present at five battles before he was thirteen years old. He was appointed to the U. S. Military Academy, 1867, was graduated and commissioned second lieutenant 4th U. S. Cavalry, 1871. He was employed as engineer of the Union Pacific and Colorado Central Railroads in the summer of 1871, went to Europe with General Sherman, 1871-1872; returned to the United States, 1872, and joined his regiment in Texas, 1873, and commanded a cavalry escort to the party making a preliminary survey for the Southern Pacific Railway, as a protection against hostile Indians. In 1873 he was made aide-de-camp to General Sheridan, with rank of lieutenant-colonel; was engaged in various expeditions against hostile Indians and later joined his father in the Orient, continued with him on the remainder of the celebrated journey around the world and thereafter until his father's death, resigning his commission in 1881. After his father's death he took charge of the interests of his mother and the estate until 1889. He was U. S. minister to Austria, 1889-1893, and resumed military service in the Spanish-American War as colonel of the 14th New York Volunteers, brigadier-general of the U. S. Volunteers in Porto Rico, and commanding the Military District of San Juan. He was transferred to the Philippines in 1899, and commanded the Second Brigade of the First (Lawton's) Division, July-Nov., 1899, covering the line south of Manila, and fighting in numerous skirmishes and the battles of Imus (or Big Bend) and Benician; commanded the Second Brigade of the Second (MacArthur's) Division, 1899-1900, and commanded the column invading the provinces of Bataan and Zambales; commanded the Fifth Military District of the Department of Luzon, Feb., 1900, to Oct., 1901, and after pacification of that district was in command of Southern Luzon; later placed in command of the Sixth Separate Brigade and transferred to Samar and Leyte, where he brought about the surrender of all insurgents in Samar, April 27, 1902. He was commissioned brigadier-general U. S. A., Feb. 18, 1901; commanded the Department of Texas, 1902-1904, Department of the Lakes, Jan.-Sept., 1904; Department of the East, 1904-1908; Department of the Lakes since 1908. Major-General Grant is a member of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion, the Society of Colonial Wars, Sons of the Revolution, the Society of Foreign Wars, and the Union League. Badminton and Army and Navy Clubs of New York City. He married in Chicago, Oct. 20, 1874, Ida Honore, daughter of Henry H. and Eliza (Carr) Honore. Address: Headquarters U. S. Army, Chicago.

GRANT, Hugh John:

Ex-mayor of New York City; born in New York City, 1855. He was graduated from Manhattan College, 1871; went abroad with parents for a year, most of which was spent in Berlin; on return spent three years in St. Francis Xavier's College, then attended Columbia Law School, from which he was graduated. After graduation he spent a year in the office of D. M. Porter, lawyer, then formed a business connection with James M. Smith (former recorder); later moved uptown, where he practised law and operated extensively in real estate, and soon had his attention occupied by the business of numerous estates of which his father had charge. He received the Tammany nomination for alderman in the 19th District, 1882, and was elected, and was re-elected, 1883, to the "Boodle" Board, in which his straightforward and honorable course was in marked contrast to the crooked acts of most of his fellow members, which he was largely instrumental in exposing and punishing. He received the Tammany nomination for mayor, 1884, but was defeated by William R. Grace in a close contest; received the Tammany nomination for sheriff, 1885, and was elected; was elected mayor, 1888, and re-elected 1890, and was nominated, 1894, for third term, but was defeated by William L. Strong. Since then he has devoted his attention to the management of his large real estate interests. He has served as receiver of the St. Nicholas Bank, Brooklyn Wharf and Warehouse Company, and the Third Avenue Railroad. Mr. Grant married a daughter of Edward Murphy, Jr., of Albany, formerly United States senator from New York. Residence: 261 West 73d Street. Office: 20 East 72d Street, New York City.

GRANT, Jesse R.:

Mining operator; born in St. Louis, Feb. 6, 1858; son of Ulysses S. and Julia (Dent) Grant. He was educated in Cornell University and the Columbia Law School; and he is interested as officer and stockholder in many mining enterprises. Mr. Grant is a member of the American Geographical Society, American Numismatic Society, the Kappa Alpha fraternity, and the Manhattan and National Democratic Clubs of New York City. He married in San Francisco, in 1880, Elizabeth R. Chapman. Address: Manhattan Club, New York City.

GRANT, Percy Stickney:

Clergyman; born in Boston, May 13, 1860; son of Stephen Mason and Anna

Stickney Grant. He was educated in the Boston public schools and at the Roxbury Latin School, and was graduated at Harvard in 1883. He entered the Episcopal Theological School at Cambridge, and was graduated from that institution in 1886. At the same time he received the degree of M.A. from Harvard for post-graduate work. Immediately after his graduation he went as curate to the Church of the Ascension, Fall River. Here he soon became attracted by the problem presented by the religious and social needs of the cotton operatives in that great manufacturing city. In six months he became minister of St. Mark, and soon built a new church on a large piece of land in the factory district, with a view to putting his views into practical operation. He became the rector of the chapel, and labored earnestly and successfully among these people until 1893. During that period he became prominent in Fall River affairs, serving on school committees and furthering various philanthropic and educational works. When Dr. Winchester Donald (Phillips Brooks' successor at Trinity) left the pulpit of the Church of the Ascension, in New York City, in 1893, he was called to become its rector, and he has since served in that office. He assumed the charge on condition that the pews should be free. This was a rather startling proposition to some of the vestrymen. Its acceptance involved the surrender of fourteen thousand dollars in pew rents annually; but they finally yielded, and seats in the church have been free ever since. The result of this change was most encouraging, the increase in the attendance and income have been remarkable. Mr. Grant has contributed to the literary world two volumes of poems, entitled "Ad Matrem and Other Poems," and "The Search of Belisarius." Mr. Grant has gained an enviable standing in New York, and was high in the esteem of Bishop Potter. In the winter of 1899-1900 he was honorary secretary and chaplain to the Bishop in his trip around the world, and on his return wrote several articles on the Philippine Islands, and the religious conditions of the East. These he published under the title, "Observations in Asia." Among his published papers are "Marriage and Divorce" and "Monologues of Robert Browning." Mr. Grant is a University preacher at Harvard. Address: 7 West Tenth Street, New York.

GRANT, Robert:

Author and jurist; born in Boston, Jan. 24, 1852; son of Patrick and Charlotte (Bordman) Grant. He was educated in the Boston Latin School and in Harvard. A.B., 1873, Ph.D., 1876, LL.B., 1879. He practised law, 1879-1893, and since 1893 has been judge of the Probate Court and Court of Insolvency of Boston. He was one of the Water Commissioners of City of Boston, 1888-1893 and chairman of the board from 1889, overseer of Harvard College since 1895. Judge Grant is author of: The Little Tin Gods on Wheels (verse), 1879; The Confessions of a Frivolous Girl, 1880; The Lambs (verse), 1882; An Average Man, 1883; Face to Face, 1886; Jack Hall, or the Schooldays of an American Boy, 1887; Jack in the Bush, or a Summer on a Salmon River, 1888; The Reflections of a Married Man, 1892; The Opinions of a Philosopher, 1893; The Bachelor's Christmas, 1895; The Art of Living, 1895; Search-Light Letters, 1899; Unleavened Bread, 1900; The Undereurrent, 1904; The Orchid, 1905; The Law-Breakers, 1906; The Chip-pendales, 1909. He is a member of the Somerset, Country and Tavern Clubs of Boston. He married, in 1883, Amy Gordon, eldest daughter of Sir Alexander T. Galt, G.C.M.G., Montreal, 1883, and has four sons. Residence: 211 Bay State Road. Office: Court House, Boston.

GRANT, Robert Parks:

Banker, manufacturer; born in Nervensink, N. Y., May 8, 1844; son of Isaac and Hannah (Le Roy) Grant. He was educated in the public schools. He served in the Civil War in the 92d Regiment of New York Volunteers, from private to colonel of the regiment. After his war service he engaged in commercial and banking affairs; aided in founding the Bank of Clayton, N. Y., in 1876, and in 1884, with others, organized the Exchange Bank, which later became the National Bank of Clayton and of which he has been cashier since organization, 1898. He is stockholder in eighteen National Banks and two trust companies; is largely interested in the manufacture and sale of cheese and other dairy products; president of the Watertown Produce Exchange, and the State Dairy Board of Trade; vice-president of the Thousand Islands Park Association; and trustee of the Clayton Publishing Company. He has been supervisor of the town of Clayton, N. Y., three years; also a trustee of the Prospect Park Company, a summer resort at the Thousand Islands; managing owner of six cheese factories, and also has one of the largest fire insurance agencies in Jefferson County. He is a 32d-degree Mason and is a Republican in politics and a member of the Bankers' and Brokers' Club and the Anglers' Club of the St. Lawrence River. He married in Hawkinsville, N. Y., Sept. 14, 1870, Lettie C. Hayes, and has one son, Robert D. Address: Clayton, N. Y.

GRANT, Ulysses Sherman:

Geologist; born in Moline, Ill., Feb. 14, 1867; son of General L. A. Grant. He was educated in Des Moines, Iowa, 1873-1882; was graduated from the University of Minnesota, B.S., 1888; and the degree of Ph.D. was conferred on him in 1893 by Johns Hopkins University. He was assistant State geologist of Minnesota, 1893-1899; instructor in geology in the University of Minnesota, 1897-1898, has been geologist on the Geology and Natural History Survey of Wisconsin since 1899, and assistant geologist on the United States Geological Survey, 1901-1903, and geologist, since 1904; consulting geologist on the Illinois Geological Survey since 1906. He was associate editor of the American Geologist, 1897-1906, and has published a number of papers and reports on general and economic geology. His papers deal chiefly with the Lake Superior iron and copper districts, the Wisconsin lead and zinc district, and Prince William Sound, Alaska. Since 1899 he has been professor of geology in Northwestern University and was acting dean of the College of Liberal Arts of that university, 1907-1908. Professor Grant married in Minneapolis, Oct. 1, 1891, Avis Winchell. Address: Evanston, Ill.

GRANT, Ulysses S., Jr.:

Lawyer; born in Bethel, Ohio, July 22, 1852; son of General and President Ulysses S. and Julia (Dent) Grant. He was graduated from the Emerson Institute, Washington, D. C., 1868, Phillips Exeter Academy, Exeter, N. H., 1870, Harvard University, A.B., 1874, and Columbia Law School, LL.B., 1876; and was admitted to practice in California. He was, for several years, secretary to his father, was later assistant district attorney of New York, and has been banker, farmer and real estate owner; now engaged in managing his real estate interests at San Diego, Calif. He has twice been delegate-at-large to the National Convention of the Republican party, and twice elector-at-large on the Republican ticket. Mr. Grant married in New York City, Nov. 1, 1880, Fannie Josephine Chaffee, daughter of Senator Jerome B. Chaffee of Colorado, and they have five children. Address: San Diego, Calif.

GRAVATT, William Loyall:

Bishop coadjutor of West Virginia; born in Port Royal, Va., Dec. 15, 1858; son of Dr. John James and Mary Eliza (Smith) Gravatt. He was educated in the Blackburg (Va.) Military College and the Virginia Theological Seminary, from which he was graduated in 1884, and he received the D.D. degree from Washington and Lee University, 1902, and from the University of the South, 1907. He took orders as deacon of the Episcopal Church in 1884 and the following year was ordained priest by Bishop Whittle. After his ordination to the priesthood, he was successively assistant rector of St. Paul's Church, Richmond, Va., rector of St. Peter's Church, Norfolk, Va., and rector of Zion Church, Charlestown, W. Va. He was made bishop-coadjutor of West Virginia in 1899 and was consecrated by Bishops Whittle, Peterkin, Satterlee, Burton, Penick and Gibson. He married in Richmond, Va., Oct. 13, 1887, Miss Sidney S. Peyton. Address: Charlestown, W. Va.

GRAVES, Anson Rogers:

Bishop of Kearney; born at Wells, Rutland County, Vt., April 13, 1842; son of Daniel and Almira (Rogers) Graves. He was graduated from Hobart College, in 1866, and from the General Theological Seminary, New York City, in 1870. He received the degree of D.D. from Racine College, and that of LL.D. from Hobart College. He was ordered deacon of the Episcopal Church by Bishop H. Potter in 1870, and the following year was ordained priest by Bishop Littlejohn. After entering the ministry, he was consecutively assistant of Grace Church, Brooklyn rector of St. Luke's Church, Plattsburgh, Neb., assistant in Gethsemane Church, Minneapolis, rector of All Saints' Church, Northfield, Minn., of All Saints' Church, Littleton, N. H., of St. Peter's Church, Bennington, Vt., and of Gethsemane Church, Minneapolis. He was consecrated in 1890 by Bishops Tuttle, Hare, A. Burgess, Knickerbocker, Gilbert and Knight. He has been bishop of Western Nebraska, called the Missionary District of Kearney, for about twenty years. Bishop Graves married, at Brattleboro, Vt., April 3, 1877, to Mary Totten Watrous. He is author of various tracts, sermons and missionary reports and co-author of the tract: The Church and Her Ways. Address: Kearney, Neb.

GRAVES, Erwin Ralph:

Banker and manufacturer; born in Hancock, Me., May 14, 1865; son of Frank Graves and Ernestine F. (Busche) Graves. His education was obtained in public and private schools in Hancock, Me., and Boston, Mass. He removed to Boston when fourteen years of age and was for many years associated with the Provident Institution for Savings of that City, which is believed to be the oldest savings bank in the world. In 1905 he removed to New York City and is now president and director of the First National Bank of Belleville, N. J.; president and director of the European-American Bank of New York City; director of Bankers Life Ins. Co. of New York City; director of American Townsite Co., New York City, and treasurer and director of New York Manufacturers Real Estate Co., New York City; director of the Mellis Realty Company of Belleville, N. J.; and is a member of the firm of the Ellis & Graves of New York City. He has been an extensive traveler, especially in the United States, Canada, the West Indies and Europe. In Politics he is a Republican and in religion a Unitarian. He is a member of, and has held important positions in the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston; is a member of St. John's Lodge of Masons (the oldest Masonic Lodge in America), of St. Andrews' Royal Arch Chapter and Boston Council, and of the Boston Commandery of Knights Templar. He is also a member of the Boston Press, Fulton Dining, and New York Athletic Clubs and the Field and Marine Club of Bath Beach, Brooklyn. Mr. Graves married, first at Buda, Ill., October, 1887, Edith Flood Evans, a direct descendant of the patriot James Otis, and by that marriage there have been three daughters: Phillis Elizabeth, born in 1889, Edith Frederika, born in 1890, and Dorothy Otis, born in 1895. Mr. Graves married second, in New York City, November, 1906, Mary Ann Rigley. Residence: Old Mamaroneck Road, White Plains, N. Y. Address: 603 West 43d Street, New York City.

GRAVES, Frederick Rogers:

Bishop of Shanghai; born in Auburn, N. Y., in 1858; son of Samuel Seabury and Elizabeth Anna Graves. He was graduated from Hobart College, Geneva, N. Y., B.A. in 1878, later receiving the degree of D.D. from Hobart. He was graduated from the General Theological Seminary, from which he was graduated in 1881 and received, in 1893, its degree of D.D. He was ordered deacon of the Episcopal Church in 1881 by Bishop A. Potter and was ordained priest the next year by Bishop C. M. Williams. He was missionary to China for thirteen years, and in 1893 became missionary bishop of Shanghai, China, being consecrated by Bishops Littlejohn, Coleman, Lyman, Dudley, Scarborough, Kinsolving and Barry (Primate of Australia). He received the degree of D.D. from Oxford University in 1908. Address: Shanghai, China.

GRAVES, Henry Solon:

Director of the Yale Forest School; born in Marietta, Ohio, May 3, 1871; son of W. B. and L. H. Graves. He was educated in Phillips Andover Academy, and at Yale, being graduated B.A. in 1892; studied forestry at Harvard, 1894-1895, and at Munich, 1895-1896, and received the honorary degree of M.A. from Yale in 1901. He was assistant chief of the Division of Forestry in the U. S. Department of Agriculture, 1898-1900, and since 1900 has been professor of forestry and director of the Yale Forest School. He has made extensive researches in forestry, was one of the authors of the volume, The White Pine, has contributed to the publications of the Department of Agriculture and is associate editor of The Forest Quarterly. Professor Graves is a member of the American Forestry Association, Connecticut Forestry Association, New Hampshire Forestry Association, Society of American Foresters, the Österreichischer Reichsförsterverein of Vienna, Connecticut Academy of Sciences and Washington Academy of Sciences. He married, Dec. 19, 1903, Ella Marian Welch. Address: 360 Prospect Street, New Haven, Conn.

GRAVES, John Temple:

Journalist; born at Willington Church, Abbeville County, N. C., Nov. 9, 1856; son of General James Porterfield and Katherine Floride (Calhoun) Graves; grandson of William Calhoun, eldest brother of John C. Calhoun. He was graduated from the University of Georgia in 1875, and engaged in journalism, and he became editor of the Florida Union (daily), Jacksonville, Fla., 1881-1883, Atlanta Daily Journal, 1887-1888, Rome, (Ga.) Tribune, 1888-1890; editor-in-chief and joint proprietor of the Daily Georgian (Atlanta), 1905-1907; and has been editor-in-chief of the New York American since 1907. Mr. Graves is widely known as an orator, having spoken on many patriotic occasions and anniversary celebrations. He was formerly active in politics as a Democrat; was colonel on the staff of Gov. Northen of Georgia; candidate for U. S. senator from Georgia, 1905, but withdrew; joined the Independence Party, which nominated him at Chicago, in July, 1908, as its candidate for the office of vice-president of the United States. Colonel Graves is author of: History of Florida of To-day; History of Colleton, S. C.; Twelve Standard Lectures, The Platform of To-day; Speeches and Selections for Schools; The Negro. He married, first in Sparta, Ga., April 17, 1878, Mattie E. Simpson, and second, at Rome, Ga., Dec. 30, 1890, Annie E. Cothran. Address: New York American, New York City.

GRAY, Andrew Caldwell:

Lawyer; born in New Castle, Del., Oct. 13, 1871; son of Judge George Gray and Harriet L. Black. He was prepared by tutors and entered Princeton University, from which he was graduated A.B., cum laude, 1892, A.M., 1895, and also was a student of Harvard Law School. He was admitted to the bar of Delaware in 1895; was a member of the law firm of Gray, Ward and Gray, 1895-1899; since then of the firm of Ward and Gray. Mr. Gray was judge advocate general of the State of Delaware, 1897-1901. President McKinley offered him commission as judge advocate with the rank of lieutenant-colonel at the time of the Spanish War, but Mr. Gray was compelled to refuse it. He was elected in November, 1908, attorney-general of the State of Delaware for the term of four years, being the only Democrat elected in that State at that election. He is a member of the Wilmington and Wilmington Country Clubs of Wilmington; Philadelphia, University and Princeton Clubs of Philadelphia; Ivy Club of Princeton, N. J., and the Racquet and University Clubs of New York City. Address: Wilmington, Del.

GRAY, David:

Author; born in Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 8, 1870; son of David and Martha Terry (Guthrie) Gray. He was graduated from Harvard, A.B., 1892, Buffalo University Law School, LL.B., 1899. After graduation from Harvard he was connected with journalism as reporter and editorial writer with the Rochester Union and Advertiser, then became editorial writer on the Buffalo Times, 1894, sub-editor of the New York World, 1896, and then managing editor of the Buffalo Courier, leaving journalism to study law and being admitted to the bar at Buffalo, in 1899. Mr. Gray is author of Gallops, M. Cateret and other stories and of the play of the same name, produced in 1906, as well as occasional contributions to magazines. While at Harvard he was author of the Hasty Pudding Club play, The Sphinx (produced in 1892). He is a member of the Buffalo Club of Buffalo, and of the Harvard Club of New York City. Address: Buffalo Club, Buffalo, N. Y.

GRAY, Edward:

Physician; born in Benicia, Calif., Nov. 17, 1849; son of Samuel Cotton and Lucy (Wetmore) Gray. He was educated in the Preparatory School of Rev. H. M. Colton (Middletown, Conn.); Yale University, College of Physicians and Surgeons, and in special course at University of Vienna. He has been in medical practice in California since August, 1877. From 1898 to 1902 he was engaged in editing the revised Velasquez Spanish-English Dictionary (D. Appleton & Company). In 1902 he became resident physician at the California Home for the Care and Training of Feeble-minded Children (Now Sonoma State Home), and so continues. He has been director of Benicia Electric Light Company and secretary at various times of three vestries of Episcopal churches. He traveled in Germany, Austria, Italy and Switzerland. He served in the U. S. A. as post surgeon (contract) at Fort Gaston, Calif., 1881-1884. Dr. Gray is a member of the Sonoma County Medical Society, State Medical Society of California, and American Medical Association. His favorite recreations are amateur photography and Spanish literature, and has edited three Spanish texts. He is a member of the Sierra Club and former fellow of the Royal Microscopical Society (London). Dr. Gray married in London, England, August 31, 1876, Gertrude Colton, daughter of his preceptor, Rev. H. M. Colton. She died in 1884. In 1889 Dr. Gray married Maria Willey, daughter of Rev. S. H. Willey, president of the College of California. Three children survive: Henry Colton, Samuel Herbert, and Girard. Address: Eldridge, Calif.

GRAY, George:

Jurist; born in New Castle, Del., May 4, 1840; son of Andrew Caldwell and Elizabeth (Seofield) Gray. He was graduated from Princeton as A.B., 1859, A.M., 1863, LL.D. 1889. He studied law with his father, 1859-1862, studied a year in Harvard Law School, and in 1863 was admitted to the Delaware Bar. He was appointed attorney-general of Delaware by Governor Hall in 1879 and reappointed by Governor Stockley in 1884. He was a delegate to the National Democratic Conventions of 1876, 1880 and 1884; and was elected to the United States Senate from Delaware to fill the vacancy caused by the appointment of Thomas F. Bayard as secretary of State. He was reelected in 1887 and again in 1893. He was appointed by President McKinley in 1898, one of the commissioners to arrange a treaty of peace between the United States and Spain, and at the close of his senatorial term, March 3, 1899, President McKinley appointed him U. S. circuit judge for the Third Judicial Circuit, in which office he is still serving. He was appointed a member of the National Court of Arbitration under the Hague convention, in November, 1900, and was chairman of the Anthracite Coal Strike Commission in 1902. In 1908 he was prominently mentioned as a possible candidate for the presidency and is nationally regarded as one of the foremost of the members of the conservative wing of the Democratic party. Judge Gray married Harriet L. Black. Address: Wilmington, Del.

GRAY, John Clinton:

Jurist; born in New York City, Dec. 4, 1843; son of John A. C. Gray. He was educated in the University of Berlin, University of the City of New York, A.B., 1864, A.M., 1866, and Harvard Law School, LL.B., 1863. He was engaged in the practice of law in New York City, 1866-1888; he was elected in 1888, and reelected in 1902 judge of the New York Court of Appeals; his present term expires Dec. 31, 1916. He married Grace Townsend. Residence: 5 East 56th Street. Official address: State Capitol, Albany.

GRAY, Maria Freeman:

Born in New Salem, Mass., Feb. 15, 1832; daughter of Daniel Sanford and Achsa Bridgman (Kimball) Freeman. She was educated in public schools and academy in New Salem, and Wesleyan Academy, Wilbraham, Mass., whence she was graduated, 1852. In that year she went under the auspices of the National Board of Popular Education, to Indiana, took charge of the public school in Huntington, Ind., and later was preceptress in Fort Wayne College for two years. She married in Fort Wayne, Ind., May 5, 1855, John Henry Gray (born in Maryland, 1831, but reared in Ohio, and an honor graduate of Allegheny College, Meadville, Pa.); and by that marriage has two sons, the Gray Brothers, now in business in San Francisco as stone contractors and brick manufacturers. Following her marriage to Mr. Gray they went to Des Moines, Iowa, where her husband was elected, in 1858, to the office of district judge, which he held until his death in 1865. During her residence of twenty-five years in Des Moines she was largely identified with educational and philanthropic interests, was president of the Loyal Women's League in 1862, and officially connected with the early movements for temperance and equal suffrage, and she was engaged in the same lines of work in Denver, Colo., for several years before her removal to San Francisco in 1887. She was one of six women who received nearly 25,000 votes in 1888 for school director in San Francisco. Mrs. Maria Freeman-Gray is an earnest worker in the American Humane Education Society (headquarters in Boston) in California, Alaska, the Hawaiian Islands, and other places which she has visited, and has organized eighty Bands of Mercy under the auspices of this society. She is also enthusiastic in her efforts to promote the cause of peace and arbitration and is superintendent of this department in the California Woman's Christian Temperance Union; is one of the vice-presidents of the American Peace Society and the Universal Peace Union; is a vice-president of the Alliance Universelle des Femmes pour la Paix, founded in Paris by Princess Wiszniewska in 1896, is an honorary member of the Opera educative-pacifica, I Nostri Contemporanei, founded in Rome in 1901, and is also a member of the National Geographic Society and the Pacific Coast Woman's Press Association. In her religious connection Mrs. Gray is a member of the Society of Friends. She is a member of the Society of Mayflower Descendants, being a lineal descendant of both Captain Myles Standish and John Alden. Address: 1303 Thirteenth Avenue, East Oakland, Calif.

GRAY, William Crane:

Bishop of Southern Florida; born in Lambertville, N. J., Sept 6, 1835; son of Joseph L. and Hannah (Price) Gray. He was graduated in 1859 from Kenyon College as B.A., and from Bexley Hall on divinity; and he received the D.D. degree from Kenyon College, 1881, and from the University of the South, 1892. He was ordered deacon in the ministry of the Episcopal Church in 1859 and was ordained priest the following year by Bishop Otey. He was general missionary of the Diocese of Tennessee, 1859-1860, and upon his ordination to the priesthood, he became rector of St. James' Church, Bolivar, Tenn., where he remained until 1881, resigning in 1881 to become rector of the Church of the Advent, Nashville, Tenn. In 1892 he was elected Bishop of Southern Florida, and was consecrated by Bishops Quintard, Dudley, Weed, Nelson and Hale. Bishop Gray has been twice married, first, May 20, 1863, to Margaret Locke Trent and second, Aug. 2, 1877, to Fannie Campbell Bowers. Address: Orlando, Fla.

GREELY, Adolphus Washington:

Major-general U. S. Army; born in Newburyport, Mass., March 27, 1841; son of John Balch and Frances (Cobb) Greely; descended from early colonial and Mayflower ancestry. In 1861, when he went almost directly from the high school to the 19th Regiment Massachusetts Volunteers. He was promoted to first sergeant; was wounded twice at Antietam, and also at Fredericksburg, Va., Dec. 11, 1862; was appointed second lieutenant, 81st U. S. Colored Infantry; promoted first lieutenant and captain and brevetted major, and honorably discharged from volunteer service, March 22, 1867. He was commissioned second lieutenant in the regular army and assigned to the 36th Infantry, March 2, 1867; transferred to the Second U. S. Artillery, July 14, 1869; and detailed to construct about two thousand miles of military telegraph lines on the Indian and Mexican frontiers. In 1881 he was assigned to command the Arctic Expedition, now known by his name, which was dispatched by the United States Government to establish one of the international circumpolar stations, in which eleven nations coöperated. This expedition added by its discoveries about six thousand square miles of land to the map, and greatly to general geographic knowledge of the Arctic regions. The loss of the relief-ship Proteus, crushed by ice in July, 1883, left the party to winter in a hut of rocks and snow with only six weeks' supply of food. The members of the party died, one by one, of slow starvation, and only six were found alive when the relief ships Thetis and Bear, under command of Commander Winfield Scott Schley and Lieutenant-Commander William H. Emory rescued them. June 22, 1884, after they had been for forty-two hours entirely without food. Lieutenant Greeley was assigned to the Fifth Cavalry, July 14, 1869, and was promoted captain, June 11, 1886; designated acting chief signal officer, Dec. 11, 1886, and was commissioned brigadier-general, March 3, 1887, and chief signal officer. By this unusual advance in rank he became the first volunteer private soldier of the Civil War to reach the rank of brigadier-general in the United States Army. He was promoted to major-general, Feb. 10, 1906, and was retired by operation of law on March 27, 1908, being 64 years of age. For his geographical discoveries he was awarded gold medals by the Royal Geographical Society and the Société de Géographie, and made honorary member of those societies, and was honorary vice-president of the International Geographical Congresses at London in 1896 and Berlin in 1899. He is one of three American representative members of the Institut International Colonial. He was in command of the Pacific Division at the time of the San Francisco earthquake, and with the efficient aid of General Funston relief was given and order was enforced with an effectiveness never approached after such a catastrophe. He settled the last Ute uprising without firing a shot. General Greely is author of: Three Years of Arctic Service; American Weather; Poland Handbook; Handbook of Alaska; and many monographs and papers on scientific and meteorological subjects. He married, June 30, 1878, Henrietta H. C. Nesmith. Address: Washington, D. C.

GREEN, Adolphus Williamson:

Lawyer; born in Boston, Jan. 14, 1843; son of John H. and Jane Green. He was graduated from the Boston Latin School, 1859 and from Harvard College in 1863. He was principal of high school at Groton, Mass., 1863-1864; second assistant librarian, 1864-1867, and librarian, 1867-1869 of the Mercantile Library Association of New York City. He studied law in the latter city in the offices of Evarts, Southmayd and Choate, 1869-1873, and was admitted to the New York Bar upon the completion of his studies. He removed to Chicago, and from 1882 to 1884 was attorney of the South Park Commissioners. He was a partner with Hon. William C. Goudy, in the firm of Goudy and Green, 1884-1894, later was head of the firm of Green, Willits and Robbins, and is now senior member of the firm of Green, Peters and Bapst. He was a delegate-at-large to the National Democratic Convention of 1892. He organized the National Biscuit Company in 1898 and became a member of its executive committee. He was subsequently elected chairman of the board of directors, and in February, 1905, was made president of the company. He is a governor of the Art Institute of Chicago and a member of the Harvard and Hyde Park Clubs of Chicago. Mr. Green married in Chicago, July 3, 1893, Esther Walsh. Address: 205 La Salle Street, Chicago.

GREEN, Charles Montraville:

Physician; born in Medford, Mass., Dec. 18, 1850; son of George Bent and Melinda (Witherbee) Green. His immigrant ancestor was Thomas Green of Malden, Mass., (1638). He was educated in the public schools of Medford, the Boston Latin School, Harvard College, A.B., 1874, Harvard Medical School, M.D., 1877, and the same year was elected fellow of the Massachusetts Medical Society. He spent the next two years in hospital work and study at home and in Europe, and since 1879 has practised medicine in Boston. Dr. Green was appointed a district physician of the Boston Dispensary, in October, 1879, became a member of the staff at the Central Office, 1880, was transferred to the new department of Diseases of Women, in which he served, 1881-1885; brought about the establishment of an Obstetrical Department, and remained at its head, 1885-1907. He was a surgeon to out-patients at the Free Hospital for Women, 1882-1885; was appointed Jan. 1884, assistant physician to the Boston Lying-in Hospital, of which he was made assistant visiting physician in February, 1890, a member of the Corporation in 1891, and visiting physician in charge in February, 1907. Dr. Green was appointed physician for diseases of women in the Out-patient Department of the Boston City Hospital, October, 1884; assistant visiting physician in 1893; visiting physician in 1896; and since May, 1900, has been senior visiting surgeon for diseases of women, in charge of the department. He was appointed consulting physician to the State Hospital at Tewksbury, 1894, to the Adams Nervine Asylum, 1904; elected president of the senior staff and chairman of the executive committee of the Boston City Hospital, 1907. Dr. Green served as secretary of the Suffolk District of the Massachusetts Medical Society, 1884-1886, as censor, 1886-1890, and since then as Councillor, and was vice-president in 1899. He was treasurer of the Boston Society for Medical Observation, 1883-1886; member since 1881, and president, 1904-1905, of the Boston Society for Medical Improvement; member since 1882, secretary, 1884-1889, president, 1893-1895, of the Boston Obstetrical Society; member of the American Gynecological Society and has twice served as councillor. Dr. Green joined with several colleagues in establishing in Boston, in 1880, a system of summer courses of medical study, which were subsequently made a part of the instruction offered by Harvard University. He was appointed assistant in obstetrics in Harvard Medical School, 1883, instructor, 1886; assistant professor of obstetrics, 1894; associate professor of obstetrics and clinical gynecology, 1904, and professor of obstetrics 1907. He served as secretary of the Harvard Faculty of Medicine, 1897-1907, and during the academic year, 1907-1908, he was acting dean of the Faculty. Dr. Green was a member, 1888-1893 of the School Committee of Boston, and chairman of its committees on high schools and text-books. He is a member of the Standing Committee of the Boston Latin School Association, Alpha Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa (Harvard), Harvard Union, Massachusetts Medical Benevolent Association, Boston Medical Library Association, Bunker Hill Monument Association (director and member of the Standing Committee), Massachusetts Society of Sons of the American Revolution (vice-president 1891, and since then treasurer), Republican Institution in the Town of Boston (former president), Massachusetts Charitable Fire Society (president, and chairman of Committee on Donations), Colonial Society of Massachusetts, Massachusetts Society of Colonial Wars (surgeon), Bostonian Society, Massachusetts Military Historical Society, Harvard Medical Alumni Association (councillor), Medford Historical Society, Royal House Association (president), St. Botolph Club, Veteran Association of First Corps of Cadets, Massachusetts Volunteer Militia, Veteran Association of the Lawrence Light Guard. In 1870 he enlisted in the Fifth Regiment M. V. M., serving for seven years as private, sergeant and subaltern; entered the Fifth Corps of Cadets, M. V. M. of Boston, and served as hospital steward four years, assistant surgeon eighteen years, and major and surgeon, 1899-1905, when he retired as lieutenant-colonel. He was a member of the Association of Military Surgeons of the United States, 1894-1905. Dr. Green married in Boston, June 29, 1876, Helen Lincoln Ware, and they have had two sons: Charles Montraville, Jr., who died in infancy and Robert Montraville Green, A.B., 1902, M.D., 1906 (Harvard). Address: 78 Marlborough Street, Boston.

GREEN, David I.:

Social economist; born in Independence, N. Y., Feb. 5, 1864; son of John Chandler and Emily (Sherman) Green. He was graduated from Alfred University, A.B., 1885, A.M., 1886, and S.B., 1890, and received the Ph.D. from Johns Hopkins University in 1893, as a result of a course as graduate student in economics, history and sociology. He taught in the West Nottingham Academy, Md., 1886-1887, Glenwood (N. J.) Collegiate Institute, 1887-1888; was professor of Latin in Alfred University, in 1888-1890, and taught social science in Johns Hopkins University, 1893-1894; taught economics and sociology in the Hartford School of Sociology, 1894-1896; lecturer in Hartford Theological Seminary since 1902. He has been superintendent of the Charity Organization Society of Hartford, Conn., since 1894. Dr. Green is author of: Charities and Correction, a chapter in Maryland, Its Resources and Institutions, Baltimore, 1893; Pain-cost and Opportunity-cost, Quarterly Journal of Economics, 1894; Wieser's National Value, Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, 1895; Value and Its Measurement, Yale Review, 1899; The Poverty of an English Town, Yale Review, 1903; The Annual Reports of the Charity Organization Society of Hartford, 1894-1908; Treatment of Needy Families in Their Homes by Public Agencies, Proceedings of the National Conference of Charities and Correction, 1903; Progress in Work for the Poor during the Last Seventy-five Years, a chapter in Christian Progress during the Last Seventy-five Years, Maximilian, 1909. He is a member of the American Economic Association, American Academy of Political and Social Science, and National Conference of Charities and Correction, and the Twentieth Century, University, Get-Together and Congregational Clubs of Hartford. He married in Dunellen, N. J., Nov. 2, 1892. Mary, daughter of Dr. Abel Titsorth, and has four children. Address: 133 Trumbull Street, Hartford, Conn.

GREEN, Edward Howland Robinson:

Railroad president; born in The Langham Hotel, London, England, Aug. 22, 1868; son of Edward H. and Hetty Howland (Robinson) Green. His family lived in New York City from 1872, and he was graduated from Fordham College in 1888. He served as clerk in the office of the Connecticut River Railroad, became a director of the Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern Railway, and other railway corporations, and since 1893 has been president of the Texas Midland Railroad, in which he has a controlling interest. He is also a director of numerous banks. He is prominent in the Republican party of Texas, was chairman of the Republican State Committee for three terms and has been delegate to National Conventions. He was a commissioner to and director of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition in 1904, and he is president of the well-known Tarpon Club of Texas and other Texas organizations. Address: Terrell, Texas.

GREEN, Hetty Howland Robinson:

Financier; born in New Bedford, Mass., Nov. 21, 1835; daughter of Edward Mott Robinson. She was educated in Mrs. Lowell's School in Boston. In 1865 her father died, leaving her a large fortune, which she has personally managed ever since and greatly augmented. Her estate includes large holdings of realty in Chicago, New York and other cities, as well as stocks and bonds in nearly all the larger corporations and enterprises. She has attained the reputation of being the greatest woman financier and probably the richest woman in the world. She married in New York City, in 1867, Edward H. Green, who is now deceased, and has a son, Edward H. R. Green, president of the Texas Midland Railroad, and a daughter, Sylvia H., now married. Address: Bellows Falls, Vt.

GREEN, John Pugh:

Vice-president of the Pennsylvania Railroad; born in Philadelphia, July 31, 1839. He was educated in the Philadelphia public schools, being graduated with credit from the Central High School. While there he studied shorthand writing and became an expert stenographer, and also studied law and was admitted to the Philadelphia bar. He enlisted in the Union service at the opening of the Civil War, and remained in the army till the end of the war, when he had attained the rank of captain, and was assistant adjutant-general on the staff of General Thomas L. Kane, commander of the famous Pennsylvania Bucktail Brigade. Returning to private life early in 1865, Captain Green entered the service of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company as private secretary to Colonel Thomas A. Scott, then first vice-president of the company. On Jan. 1, 1866, he became secretary and treasurer of the Milwaukee and Minnesota Railway Company, a service in which he remained till Feb. 1, 1868. On July 1, 1869, he resumed his position as secretary to Colonel Scott, holding it till 1874, when he was promoted assistant to the president. On Oct. 1, 1882, when he was made fourth vice-president of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company; was elected third vice-president June 1, 1896, and on March 1, 1893, second vice-president of the Company, a position which gave him general charge of the accounting department and special supervision over the lines west of Pittsburg. On Feb. 10, 1897, he was made first vice-president of the company. Captain Green has long devoted much of his leisure time to the health-giving game of cricket, and has been president of the Belmont Cricket Club. Residence: Rosemont, Pa. Office: 211 Broad Street Station, Philadelphia.

GREEN, Warren L.:

Engraver, printer; born in New York City, May 19, 1866; son of Francis George and Antoinette Luqueer (Macdonough) Green. He was educated in Wilson and Kellogg School, and was pupil of Bouguereau. Entered service of American Bank Note Company, as apprentice in 1882; manager of the Canadian branch, 1896; second vice-president in 1901, first vice-president in 1903 and president since 1906; vice-president of the United Bank Note Corporation; director of the American Bank Note Co., United Bank Note Co., American Building Company, National Bank Note Company. He is a member of the Metropolitan, Lawyers, Railroad, Rideau, Garrison, Fairfield and Ottawa Golf Clubs, Indian Harbor Yacht, Triton and Clove Valley Rod and Gun Clubs. Mr. Green married in Paris, France, Feb. 4, 1891, Jeanne Marguerite Thierry, and they have one daughter, Marguerite Macdonough, born in 1897. Address: 627 West End Avenue, New York City.

GREENBAUM, Samuel:

Jurist; born in London, England, Jan. 23, 1854; son of Louis and Rachel (Schlesinger) Greenbaum. He came to New York City when three years old; was educated in the public schools of New York City, College City of New York, A.B., 1872, A.M.; Columbia College Law School, LL.B., 1875. He was a teacher in the public schools of New York City and afterward practised law from 1877 until Jan. 1, 1902, when he became justice of the Supreme Court of New York, having been elected for the term which expires Dec. 31, 1915. He is a member of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, New York State Bar Association, Society of Medical Jurisprudence, Civil Service Reform Association, Free Trade League and Jewish Historical Society; was formerly president of the Young Men's Hebrew Association; one of the founders of the Aguilar Free Library Society, and president until its merger with the New York Public Library; one of the founders and first vice-president of the Educational Alliance; president of the Council of Jewish Communal Institutions. Judge Greenbaum is also a trustee of the New York Public Library, and the Jewish Theological Seminary of America. He is a member of the Lawyers', Manhattan City and Reform Clubs. He married in New York City, March 13, 1888, Selma Ullman, and has four children: Lawrence S., Edward S., Grace and Isabel. Residence: 2 East 94th Street. Address: County Court House, New York City.

GREENE, Charles Wilson:

Physiologist and pharmacologist; born in Crawford County, Ind., Aug. 12, 1866. He was educated in DePauw University and Stanford University. A.B., 1892, A.M., 1893, and Johns Hopkins University, Ph.D., 1898. He was engaged in physiological instruction at Stanford University, 1893-1900, and since 1900 has been professor of physiology and pharmacology at the State University of Missouri. His specialty is the investigation of the circulatory system. He was instructor in zoölogy at Woods Hole Biological Station, 1896-1897, and in physiology in 1900. From 1901 to 1904 and again since 1906, he has conducted special investigations in the physiology of salmon, with special reference to the problem of nutrition, for the U.S. Fish Commission. His special line of investigation has been into the structure and functions of phosphorescent organs in fishes; the influence of inorganic salts on cardiac tissues; the circulatory system of hag-fishes. He has also written important papers on the physiological changes in breeding salmon; the limits of change in osmotic pressure of blood and other animal fluids, and nutrition in fasting animals. Professor Greene revised Kirke's Handbook of Physiology, 1907, and he is author of: Experimental Pharmacology, A Laboratory Guide to the Physiological Action of Drugs, 1909. He is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the Physiological Society, the Pharmacological Society, the National Geographical Society and the Washington Academy of Science. Address: State University, Columbia, Mo.

GREENE, Clay Meredith:

Dramatic author; born in San Francisco, Calif., March 12, 1850; was the first boy born of American parents in that city; son of William and Anne Elizabeth (Fiske) Greene. He was educated in the Santa Clara College and the University of California, and the degree of Ph.D. was conferred upon him by Santa Clara College in 1901. Mr. Greene was in early life a stock broker and journalist; in 1883 took up dramatic writing as a profession, with occasional brief seasons in acting, made a tour of the world in 1894; has also traveled extensively in Mexico and Central America, and has made extended yachting cruises across the ocean and in the Mediterranean. Among his more prominent plays are: M'liss; Chispa; Sharps and Flats; The Golden Giant; The New South; Struck Oil; Nazareth (the American Passion Play); The Duchess; The Master Stroke; also the operas, Bluebeard, The Maid of Plymouth, The Conspirators, The Wandering Minstrel, and about fifty other plays. He is a member of the Actors' Order of Friendship, Sons of the American Revolution, Patriotic Order Sons of America, Actors' Fund Society, The Lambs' (president for twelve terms), Green Room, Bohemian (San Francisco), Society of California Pioneers, Larchmont Yacht and Manhasset Bay Yacht Clubs. Mr. Greene married, July 24, 1873, Alice R. Wheeler, and they have had two daughters, now deceased. Address: Bayside, N. Y.

GREENE, Francis Vinton:

Major-general U. S. Volunteers; born in Providence, R. I., June 27, 1850; son of General George Sears Greene. He was graduated from West Point, 1870, at the head of the class of 58 cadets; assigned to artillery service on graduation; and transferred, 1872, to the Corps of Engineers. He was detailed as military attache to the U. S. Legation at St. Petersburg, 1877, his special duty being to make a study of military operations during the war between Russia and Turkey; accompanied Russian army throughout its campaign; received from the Czar the decorations of St. Vladimir and St. Anne and the campaign medal, and from the Prince of Roumania the Star of Roumania and the Roumania Cross. He was appointed instructor of practical military engineering at the U. S. Military Academy, July, 1885, resigned from the army and became vice-president of the Barber Asphalt Paving Company, and was soon after advanced to the presidency of the corporation, which he resigned to join the U. S. Army in Philippines. He joined the National Guard of the State of New York, 1889, being commissioned as major and engineer of the First Brigade; elected colonel of the 71st Regiment, 1892; ordered to Cuba 1898; afterwards transferred to Manila; promoted to rank of brigadier-general, May 27, 1898, promoted major-general for gallant and distinguished service in the Philippines, Aug. 13, 1908; in command of the Seventh Army Corps in Georgia, Oct., 1898, and of U. S. Troops at Havana, Nov.-Dec., 1898; resigned, Jan. 1, 1899; and was appointed police commissioner of New York City, Jan. 1, 1903; resigned Jan. 1, 1904. General Greene has contributed much to military literature; his official report upon the Turkey-Russian War was published in two volumes for the U. S. Government in 1879, under the title, The Russian Army and Its Campaigns in Turkey, 1877-1878. He is also author of: Army Life in Russia; The Mississippi, which treats of the campaigns of the Civil War; a biography of Major-General Nathaniel Greene; and a monograph on Lincoln as Commander-in-Chief. He is a member of the Century, University, Republican and Lawyers' Clubs of New York City; University and Buffalo Clubs of Buffalo, and the Metropolitan Club of Washington. He married, Feb. 25, 1879, Belle Eugenie Chevallie. Address: 303 North Street, Buffalo, N. Y., and Hotel Seville, New York City.

GREENE, Henry Fay:

Lawyer, United States civil service commissioner; born in Newbern, N. C., May 30, 1859; son of Rev. Henry Fay and Alice (Gray (Lawrence)) Greene. He was graduated from Princeton, A.B., 1880, A.M., 1883, and was Boudinot fellow in Princeton University, 1880-1881; was graduated from the University of Maryland, LL.B., 1883. He practised law in Baltimore, 1883-1887, and in Duluth, Minn., 1887-1903. He was city attorney of Duluth, 1893-1894; referee in bankruptcy at Duluth, 1898-1903, and chairman of the commission appointed by the judges of the District Court to prepare a charter for the City of Duluth, which reported the charter adopted. He was appointed, June 20, 1903, a member of the U. S. Civil Service Commission, in which office he continues. He is a member of the Cosmos Club of Washington, Duluth Bar Library Association, and the Sons of the Revolution. He married, Aug. 27, 1895, Susan Ryan Grady. Residence: 1527 Thirty-first Street. Office: Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

GREENE, Herbert Wilber:

Musician, editor; born in Holyoke, Mass., May 20, 1851; son of Myron E. and Amanda H. Greene. He was educated in the Holyoke High School, and studied music in New York City, London and Paris. Mr. Greene was the founder and is the director of the Metropolitan College of Music in New York City. He was formerly associate editor of the Etude, Philadelphia; now director of the Brookfield Summer School of Music; associate editor of The Musician, Boston. Mr. Greene is also well known as a composer; is a lecturer on musical and historical subjects; and a contributor of verses and short stories to magazine and class journals. He is a member of the Music Teachers' National Association (twice president), New York Clef Club (twice president); director of the National American Opera Company; director of the National Association of Teachers of Singing. Residence: Brookfield Center, Conn. Office: Carnegie Hall, New York City.

GREENE, Sarah Pratt McLean:

Author; born in Simsbury, Conn., July, 1856; daughter of Dudley Bestor McLean, of Scotch ancestry, and of Mary (Payne) McLean, a Mayflower descendant. She was educated at home and in Mt. Holyoke College, beginning there her work as a writer. She married in St. Louis, in 1887, Franklin Lynde Greene. Her twin boys died in infancy, and her husband died in 1890. Of her writings while at Mt. Holyoke the well-known song, "De Massa of de Sheep-fold," is one of the best known. On leaving the college she took, for a few months, a classmate's place as teacher on Cape Cod, and the life of the place and quaint sayings of the fisher-folk gave direction to her pen and inspired her first published volume. Her married life was spent in the West, but after her husband's death she returned East. Spending some time in Nova Scotia and on the coast of Maine, and afterward spending much time in Europe. She is author of: Cape Cod Folks; Tow-head; Some Other Folk; Leon Pontifex; Last Chance Junction; Vesty of the Basins; Stuart and Bamboo; Moral Imbeciles; Floodtide; Winslow Plain; Deacon Lysander; Power Lot; also numerous short stories in magazines. Permanent address: Lexington, Mass.

GREENE, William C.:

Lawyer; born Otisfield, Me., Sept. 23, 1852; son of John and Elizabeth (Knight) Greene; graduated Bowdoin College, A.B. (Phi Beta Kappa orator, editor Bowdoin Orient), 1877. Admitted to Maine bar, 1879, Massachusetts bar, 1881, New York bar, 1884. Practiced law in Mechanic Falls, Me., one year; Boston, three years; at Sag Harbor, N. Y., since June, 1884; practices in all courts of New York and United States District Court; has filled offices of justice of the peace, police justice and president Board of Health. Chairman Republican Town Committee; member Board of Education, Sag Harbor, Southampton Town Board of Audit. Vice-president Suffolk County Building Block Company; trustee, attorney and member Funding Committee Sag Harbor Savings Bank, Sag Harbor Real Estate Company; attorney of Peconic Bank. Republican. Member M. E. Church; trustee and superintendent Sunday School, Sag Harbor M. E. Church; trustee Oakland Cemetery, Jamesport Camp-Meeting Association. Treasurer Sag Harbor

Historical Society; president Suffolk County Sunday School Association; president Literary Union, Bowdoin Alumni Association, New York City, Theta Delta Chi, Bowdoin College. Recreations: Tennis, yachting. Married, Paris, Me., June 6, 1888. Eliza Ripley. Address: Sag Harbor, Suffolk County, New York.

GREENE, William Stedman:

Congressman; born in Tremont, Ill., April 28, 1841. He removed to Fall River with his parents in 1844; was educated in the public schools of that city, and was a clerk in the insurance business, 1858-1865; commenced business as auctioneer, real estate and insurance agent in 1866; was elected member of the Common Council in 1876, 1877, 1878 and 1879, and was president of the body the latter three years; elected mayor in 1880; was also alternate delegate to Republican National Convention which nominated President Garfield; was reelected mayor in 1881, but resigned the same year, being appointed postmaster by President Garfield. In 1886 he was again elected mayor; was a candidate in 1887 and 1888, but was defeated; in July, 1888, was appointed by Governor Ames general superintendent of prisons for the State, and served until 1893, when he was removed by the Democratic governor for political reasons; was again candidate for mayor in 1894 and defeated; mayor in 1895, 1896 and in 1897, and declined a reelection in 1898; was appointed postmaster by President McKinley, and entered upon his duties April 1, 1898; resigned this position and was elected to Congress May 31, 1898, to fill the unexpired term of the late John Simpkins for the Fifty-fifth Congress, also elected to the Fifty-sixth, Fifty-seventh, and Fifty-eighth Congresses, and reelected to the Fifty-ninth, Sixtieth and Sixty-first Congresses from the Thirteenth Massachusetts District. He married March 8, 1865, Mary E. White. Address: Fall River, Mass.

GREER, David Hummell:

Bishop of New York; born in Wheeling, W. Va., March 20, 1844. He was graduated from Washington College, Pa., A.B., 1862, subsequently studied at the Protestant Episcopal Theological Seminary at Gambier, O., and he has received the degrees of D.D. from Brown University, Kenyon College, and the University of the South; of S.T.D. from Columbia and of LL.D. from Washington and Jefferson College. He was ordered deacon, 1866; ordained priest, 1868; rector of Christ Church, Clarksburgh, W. Va., 1866-1868; Trinity Church, Covington, Ky., 1868-1871; Grace Church, Providence, R. I., 1871-1888. St. Bartholomew's Church, New York City, 1888-1904, and was elected bishop coadjutor of the Diocese of New York, in Sept., 1903, succeeding to the bishopric on the death of Bishop Henry C. Potter, July 21, 1908. Bishop Greer is author of: The Historic Christ; From Things to God; The Preacher and His Place (Yale lectures); Visions. He married Caroline A. Keith. Address: 7 Gramercy Park, New York City.

GREEVER, Walton Harlowe:

Religious editor; born at Burke's Garden, Va., Dec. 18, 1870; son of John D. and Mary E. (Spracher) Greever. He was graduated from Roanoke College, at Salem, Va., A.B., 1892, and A.M.; and was graduated from the Lutheran Theological Seminary, at Mt. Airy, Philadelphia, 1896. In addition to successful pastoral work in Bluefield, W. Va., and Columbia, S. C., which he still continues, he became editor of the Lutheran Church Visitor, the official organ of the United Synod of the Lutheran Church in the South, 1904, and organized and is president and manager of the United Synod Publishing Company. He is now engaged chiefly in providing for the erection of the Publication Building of the Lutheran Church, in Columbia, S. C., and the extension of its publication work in the South. He married in Philadelphia, June 27, 1901, Nevia Roberta Bruegel, and has two children. Residence: 1431 Blanding Street. Office: 1626 Main Street, Columbia, S. C.

GREGG, Alexander White:

Congressman and lawyer; born in Texas. He graduated from King College at Bristol, Tenn., and afterwards attended the law department of the University of Virginia, was admitted to the Texas bar and has since been engaged in the practice of law at Palestine, Texas. He was elected to the Fifty-eighth Congress without opposition, and reelected to the Fifty-ninth, Sixtieth and Sixty-first Congresses from the Seventh Texas District. Address: Palestine, Texas.

DAVID HUMMELL GREER
Bishop of New York

GREGG, David McMurtrie:

Commander-in-chief of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States; born in Huntingdon, Pa., April 10, 1833; son of Matthew D. Gregg, lawyer, and Ellen (McMurtrie) Gregg. He is a grandson of Andrew Gregg of Londonderry, Ireland, who came to Pennsylvania in 1712, and died in Carlisle, Pa., in 1789; and grandson of Andrew Gregg, who was a member of the Second to the Ninth Congresses (1791-1807), of the U. S. Senate, 1807-1813, and secretary of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, 1820-1823. His maternal grandfather, David McMurtrie, settled in Huntingdon, Pa., before the Revolution. David McMurtrie Gregg was educated in a school at Milnwood, Pa., the University of Lewisburg and the U. S. Military Academy, from which he was graduated in 1855. He was commissioned brevet second lieutenant of dragoons, July 1, 1855; first lieutenant, March 21, 1861. Before the Civil War he saw active service in New Mexico, California, Oregon and Washington Territory; was on the Spokane Expedition, 1858, and engaged at the desperate combat at Tohotsnimme, the combat at Four Lakes, Sept., 1858, and other Indian fights. He was commissioned captain Sixth U. S. Cavalry, May 14, 1861, and served in the defenses of Washington until commissioned, Jan. 24, 1862, colonel 8th Pennsylvania Volunteers. He participated in the battles of Seven Pines and Fair Oaks in May, 1862, and Glendale and Malvern Hill in June and July, 1862; commissioned brigadier-general of Volunteers, Nov. 29, 1862, and placed in command of the Second Cavalry Division, Army of the Potomac. In 1863 he took part in Stoneman's Raid, and was at Brandy Station, Aldie, Upperville, Gettysburg (where, on the right flank, on July 3, he repulsed Stuart's attempt with four brigades of Confederate Cavalry to reach the rear of Meade's Army, simultaneously with Pickett's assault in front), Shepherdstown, Culpeper Court House and Rapidan Station, Sulphur Springs, Auburn and Bristoe Station, and at New Hope Church and Parker's Store in the Mine Run campaign; and in 1864 at Todd's Tavern, in Sheridan's Raid, at Ground-Squirrel Church, Meadow Bridge, Hawes' Shop, Gaines' House, Trevilian Station, Tunstall Station, St. Mary's Church, Warwick Swamp, Darbytown, Lee's Mills, Charles City Road, Deep Bottom, Ream's Station, Peebles' Farm, Vaughn Road, Boydton Plank Road, and Bellefield, besides many minor actions. He commanded the Cavalry Corps of the Army of the Potomac, March 26 to April 6, 1864, commanded the Second Cavalry Division again April 6, 1864, to Feb. 3, 1865, in the Richmond campaign, and was in command of all the Cavalry of the Army of the Potomac from Aug. 1, 1864, to Feb. 3, 1865, when he resigned. He was brevetted major-general, U. S. Volunteers, Aug. 1, 1864, for "highly meritorious and distinguished conduct throughout the campaign, particularly in the reconnaissance on the Charles City Road." He was appointed U. S. Consul at Prague by President Grant in 1874, but resigned the position later in the same year and afterward resided in Reading, Pa. He was elected auditor-general of Pennsylvania in 1891. Upon the death of General Hancock in 1886, General Gregg succeeded him as commander of the Pennsylvania Commandery of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion, which he has ever since held; and since Nov., 1903, he has been commander-in-chief of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States. The degree of LL.D. has been conferred upon General Gregg by the Pennsylvania Military College. Address: Reading, Pa.

GREGORY, Charles Noble:

Lawyer and educator; born in Unadilla, N. Y., Aug. 27, 1851; son of Hon. J. C. and Charlotte C. (Camp) Gregory. He was graduated from the University of Wisconsin, A.B., cum laude, 1871, LL.B., 1872, and received its degree of LL.D., 1901. He practised law in Madison, Wis., 1872-1894, in association at various times with Hon. J. C. Gregory, Hon. S. U. Pinney (late on the Wisconsin Supreme Bench), and Colonel George W. Bird. He was associate dean of the College of Law of the University of Wisconsin, 1894-1901; since 1904 dean of the College of Law of the University of Iowa. He served as alderman and as member of the Board of Education in Madison, Wis. Mr. Gregory is an active member of the American Bar Association, is chairman of its Standing Committee on International Law, and member of its General Council. He was one of the organizers of the American Association of Law Schools, presided at the meeting in Saratoga at which it was formed, and is president of the Association for 1908-1909. He was vice-president of the Antwerp Conference of the International Law Association. He has delivered addresses before the State Bar Associations of Virginia, Tennessee, Iowa, Wisconsin and Georgia, and before many learned societies and universities, and has been a contributor on subjects of international law to the leading American and English law magazines, and he is author of a life of Justice Samuel F. Miller, of the Supreme Court of the United States. He was a Democrat until 1896, since then Republican, and an active member of the Protestant Episcopal Church. He is a member of the Iowa Bar Association, the Executive Council of the International Law Association of London, of the American Political Science Association, the General Council of the National Civil Service Reform Association. He edited the Tariff Reform Advocate in 1888, and is now one of the editors of the American Journal of International Law. He was author of the Corrupt Practices Act, now in force in Wisconsin, requiring that election expenses be made public. He is a member of the Psi Upsilon and Phi Delta Phi fraternities, the City Club of New York, Grant Club of Des Moines, Triangle and Country Clubs of Iowa City, and the University and Maple Bluff Golf Clubs of Madison, Wis. Address: 227 North Clinton Street, Iowa City, Iowa.

GREGORY, Henry Elsworth:

Lawyer; born in New York City, May 9, 1857; son of Edward C. and Mary (Elsworth) Gregory. He was prepared in private schools in New York City and Stockbridge, Mass.; was graduated from Columbia, A.B., 1878. A.M., 1883, and Columbia Law School, LL.B., 1880. He has been engaged in practice, since his graduation in law, in New York City. He has also written many newspaper articles and essays, and delivered addresses on various subjects, and is author of the article, Charles O'Connor, in "Great American Lawyers." Mr. Gregory was treasurer and secretary of the Commissioners of the State Reservation at Niagara, 1888-1889; president of the Civic League of Westchester County, 1907; and he is a member of the Executive Committee of the New York Prison Association; director of the New York Juvenile Asylum and of the Society for Italian Immigrants; trustee and counsel of the American Scenic and Historic Reservation Society; trustee of the Hudson-Fulton Celebration Commissions. He was the first president of the Barnard Literary Association of Columbia College, 1877-1878; is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Society and was president of Columbia Chapter, 1888-1889. Mr. Gregory is a member of the American Bar Association, the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, New York Historical Association, American Society of International Law, the St. Nicholas Society and the Century and University Clubs. Residence: Irvington, N. Y. Office: 25 Liberty Street, New York City.

GRIFFIN, Appleton Prentiss Clark:

Chief assistant librarian of Congress; born in Wilton, N. H.; son of Moses Porter and Charlotte Helen (Clark) Griffin; descendant of prominent colonial families on both sides. He removed in early childhood to Massachusetts and was educated in public schools and by private tutors. He made studies in library science, became custodian of shelves, 1871-1890, and keeper of books, 1890-1894, in the Boston Public Library, then was engaged for three years in preparing a catalogue of books in the Washington collection of the Boston Athenaeum. In 1897 he was appointed an assistant librarian, and in 1899 chief bibliographer of the Library of Congress, and in Aug., 1908, after the death of Ainsworth R. Spofford, succeeded him as chief assistant librarian of Congress. Mr. Griffin is author of bibliographical works on: The Discovery of the Mississippi, 1883; Index of Articles upon American Local History in the Boston Public Library, 1889; Index of Literature of American Local History in Collections Published from 1890 to 1895, 1896; Bibliography of American Historical Societies, 1896, second edition, 1908. Bibliographical lists compiled under his direction as chief bibliographer number more than fifty. He has edited the Annual Reports of the Library from 1899. He was a contributor to Appleton's Cyclopædia of American Biography, Webster's International Dictionary, and other publications. Mr. Griffin married, in Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 23, 1878. Residence: 3 Kirke Street, Chevy Chase, Md. Office: Library of Congress, Washington, D. C.

GRIGGS, James Matthews:

Congressman and lawyer; born at Lagrange, Ga., March 29, 1861. He was graduated from the Peabody Normal College, Nashville, Tenn., in May, 1881, and after graduation taught school and studied law; was admitted to the bar in 1883, and commenced the practice of law in 1884 at Alapaha, Berrien County, Ga.; was for a short time engaged in the newspaper business; removed to Dawson in 1885; was elected solicitor-general (prosecuting attorney) of the Pataula Judicial Circuit in 1888, and was reelected in 1892; in 1893 resigned and was appointed judge of the same circuit, and was twice reelected without opposition. He resigned this office in 1896 to make the race for Congress, and was elected to the Fifty-fifth, Fifty-sixth, Fifty-seventh, Fifty-eighth, Fifty-ninth and Sixtieth Congresses, and reelected to the Sixty-first Congress from the Second Georgia District. Mr. Griggs was a delegate to the Democratic National Convention in 1892. He married, July 14, 1886, Theodosia Stewart. Address: Dawson, Ga.

GRIGGS, John William:

Lawyer, and former governor and Cabinet officer; born in Newton, N. J., July 10, 1849; son of Daniel and Emeline (Johnson) Griggs. He was graduated from Lafayette College, A.B., 1868, and has received the honorary degree of LL.D. from Yale and Princeton. He was admitted to the New Jersey bar, 1871, and practised at Paterson, N. J. He became active in politics as a Republican, and became a member of the New Jersey Assembly, 1876-1877, State senator, New Jersey, 1883-1889 (president of the Senate, 1886); governor of New Jersey, 1896-1898, resigning to enter the Cabinet of President McKinley as attorney-general, and serving until 1901. Governor Griggs is a member of the Permanent Court of Arbitration at The Hague, and is now head of the law firm of Griggs, Baldwin & Pierce, New York City. He is president and director of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company of America; director of the Corporation Trust Company, New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, New York and New Jersey Rapid Transit Company, and Rogers Locomotive Works. He is a member of the Society of the Cincinnati, Military Order of the Loyal Legion, and the Union League Club of New York City. Governor Griggs married L. Elizabeth Price. Residence: Paterson, N. J. Office: 27 Pine Street, New York City.

GRIGGS, Nathan Kirk:

Lawyer and author; born in Frankfort, Ind., Oct. 25, 1844; son of Lucien D. and Mary T. (Kirk) Griggs. He was graduated from the Law School of the University of Indiana, 1867, and settled in practice at Beatrice, Neb. He became prominent in politics there as a Republican; was elected to the State Constitutional Convention in 1871, to the State Senate in 1872 and 1874, and was president of the Nebraska Senate, 1875; American consul at Chemnitz, Saxony, 1876-1882; resumed legal practice in Beatrice, Neb., 1882-1890. Since 1890 he has been attorney for the Northwestern Division of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad Co. with headquarters in Lincoln. He is a member of the Official Board of Cotner University, Lincoln, Neb., and was formerly a member of the State Institution of Nebraska for the Deaf and Dumb. Mr. Griggs is a prominent member of the Christian (Disciples) Church, and will deliver an address at the Centennial Meeting of the Christian Church at Pittsburg, Pa., in Oct., 1909, on the subject: Christ in America's Life. He is author of: several volumes of poems, including: Lyrics of the Lariat; Hell's Canyon (illustrated poem); Croonings of the Winds (slumber songs); Sighings of the Winds (love songs); Moanings of the Winds (songs of pathos); Rumblings of the Winds (bass and baritone songs); Sportings of the Winds (negro songs); Windings of the Winds (sundry songs); Laudings of the Winds (sacred solos); Chantings of the Winds (sacred quartets); The Lilies (collection of sacred songs); Griggs' Collection (sacred songs). Mr. Griggs married in Delphi, Ind., Dec. 21, 1869, Epsie E. Saunders, and has three daughters. Address: Lincoln, Neb.

GRINNELL, George Bird:

President business corporations, author, ethnologist; born in Brooklyn, Sept. 20, 1849; son of George Blake and Helen (Lansing) Grinnell. He was educated in Churchill's Military School, Ossining, N. Y., Yale, A.B., 1870, Ph.D., 1880; was assistant in osteology, Peabody Museum, New Haven, Conn., 1874-1880; since 1880 president and editorial manager Forest and Stream Publishing Company. He is also president of the Bosworth Machine Company, Lansing Investment Company; director Milford Land Company, Campbell-Bosworth Machine Company. He collaborated with President Theodore Roosevelt in writing American Big Game Hunting; Hunting in Many Lands; Trail and Camp Fire; and edited American Big Game in Its Haunts. As an ethnologist he is regarded as authority on the history and habits of the Indians of the Plains and the West generally. He is author of: Indians of To-day; Blackfoot Lodge Tales; The Story of the Indian; Pawnee Hero Stories and Folk Tales; Jack, the Young Ranchman; Jack Among the Indians; Jack in the Rockies; Jack, the Young Canoe-man; Jack, the Young Trapper; Jack, the Young Explorer; American Duck-shooting; Punishment of the Stingy. He is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, American Ethnological Society, American Ornithological Union, American Geographical Society, American folk-lore Society, Washington Anthropological Society, Biological Society, Washington; New York Academy of Sciences, American Numismatic Society, Hispanic Society, New York Zoölogical Society (member Board of Managers), New York Aquarium (member Board of Managers). He was a member of the Committee of Seventy, and took part in the reform movement of 1894. Mr. Grinnell is a member of the Society of Colonial Wars, Society of Mayflower Descendants and the Union, University and Century Clubs of New York City. He married in New York City, Aug. 21, 1902, Elizabeth K., daughter of Colonel F. D. Curtis. Residence: 238 East 15th Street. Address: 127 Franklin Street, New York City.

GRISCOM, Clement Acton, Jr.:

Corporate official; born in Philadelphia, June 20, 1868; son of Clement A. and Frances Canby (Biddle) Griscom. He was educated in the schools of Geneva, Switzerland, Frankfort-on-Main, Germany, and at the University of Pennsylvania, Ph.B., 1887. Mr. Griscom was formerly supervisor, manager and general manager of the International Navigation Company, the International Mercantile Marine Company, and resigned in 1904. He is now president and director of The Griscom Spencer Company, and the Bell Pure Air and Cooling Company; vice-president and director of the Guanajuato Reduction and Mines Company; director of the American Finance and Securities Company, Development Company of America, Empire Trust Company, and the El Tiro Copper Company. He is a member of the Chamber of Commerce, New York Produce Exchange, Maritime Exchange, American Academy of Political and Social Science, Metropolitan Museum of Art, Department of Archeology and Paleontology of the University of Pennsylvania, American Museum of Natural History, New York Academy of Sciences, Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers, Pennsylvania Society of the Sons of the Revolution, Pennsylvania Society of New York; Society of Colonial Wars, General Alumni Society of the University of Pennsylvania, New York Zoölogical Society, New York Botanical Garden, American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, American National Red Cross Society, American Forestry Association; vestryman of the Church of the Ascension; member of the Ethical-Social League New York State Conference of Religion. Mr. Griscom is also a member of the Metropolitan Union, City Midway, Lawyers', Mendelssohn Glee, and University of Pennsylvania Clubs of New York City, University and Merion Cricket Clubs of Philadelphia, St. James' Club of London, England; Morris County Golf Club of Morris town, N. J., and the Somerset Hills Country Club of Bernardsville, N. Y. Mr. Griscom married in Grace Church, New York City, Sept. 18, 1889, Genevieve Sprigg Ludlow, and they have two sons. Address: 21 Washington Square, North, New York City.

LLOYD CARPENTER GRISCOM
Diplomat

GRISCOM, Lloyd Carpenter:

Ambassador; born at Riverton, N. J., Nov. 4, 1872; son of Clement Acton Griscom (president of the International Navigation Company) and Frances Canby (Biddle) Griscom, both of Philadelphia. He was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania, Ph.B., 1891, and was a student in the Law School there, 1891-1893; then became secretary to the American Embassy at London under Mr. Bayard (the first representative of the United States of ambassadorial rank), 1893-1894. He resumed his law studies in 1895 at the Law School of the University of New York, and in 1896 was admitted to the New York bar. He was appointed deputy district attorney of New York in 1897, but on the breaking out of the Spanish-American War entered the volunteer service, was commissioned cap and assistant quartermaster and served four months in Cuba as aide-de-camp to Major-General James F. Wade, and was recommended for promotion, but resigned to re-enter diplomatic life. He was appointed secretary of the American Legation at Constantinople in July, 1899, and was chargé d'affaires at Constantinople from December, 1899, to March, 1901. He was envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States to Persia, 1901-1902, and to Japan, 1902-1906; was transferred in 1906 to Brazil as the first American ambassador to that country and in December, 1906, was transferred to his present post as American ambassador to Italy. During one extended trip through the Central American countries, Mr. Griscom wrote a series of interesting letters descriptive of his travels in Honduras, Nicaragua, the Isthmus of Panama and Venezuela. He received from the Governor of Venezuela, in 1895, the Order of Bolivar. He also received the Grand Cordon of the Order of the Lion and the Sun from the Shah of Persia in December, 1902, and Mrs. Griscom received from the Sultan of Turkey the Grand Cordon of the Order of Chekakat in November, 1901. He is a member of the Sons of the American Revolution, the Society of Colonial Wars, the Philadelphia, Radnor Hunt and Marion Cricket Clubs of Philadelphia, the Union Club of New York, Bachelors' Club of London, Tokyo Club of Tokyo, Club des Diarios of Rio de Janeiro, Circolo, Nuovo of Rome, and the Cercle d'Orient of Constantinople. Mr. Griscom married in London, England, Nov. 2, 1901, Elizabeth Duer, daughter of Frederic Bronson of New York. He has his home at Haverford, Pa. Address: American Embassy, Rome, Italy.

GRISWOLD, Cassimer Clayton:

Artist; born in Delaware, Ohio, 1834. He was educated in Ohio schools, and studied wood engraving in Cincinnati and painting in New York City. He exhibited his first picture at the National Academy of Design, 1857, his specialty being marines. He was made associate of the National Academy of Design, 1866, and academician in 1867; and he was one of the founding members of the Artists Fund Society, 1859. He lived in Rome, 1872-1886. Address: 262 West 12th Street, New York City.

GRISWOLD, Sheldon Munson:

Bishop of Salina; born in Delhi, N. Y., Jan. 8, 1861; son of Walter Hanford and Ann Elizabeth (Betts) Griswold. He was educated from Union College, A.B., 1882, and A.M., 1885, and received from that college the degree of D.D. in 1900. He was graduated from the General Theological Seminary, New York City, 1885, and received its D.D. in 1903. He was ordered deacon in the Episcopal Church in 1885, and was ordained priest soon after by Bishop Doane. For three years following his ordination he was connected with churches at Ilion, Mohawk, and Frankfort, N. Y.; then was called to the rectorship of Emmanuel Church, Little Falls, N. Y., and in 1890 became rector at Hudson, N. Y., where he remained until his election as bishop of Salina, Kan., and he was consecrated in 1903 by Bishops Doane, Seymour and Hall. Bishop Griswold married in Schenectady, N. Y., Oct. 7, 1885, Kate Maxwell van der Bogert. Address: Salina, Kan.

GRONNA, Asle J.:

Congressman; born at Elkader, Clayton County, Iowa, Dec. 10, 1858. At the age of two years his parents moved to Houston County, Minn., where he was brought up on a farm and educated at the public schools, finishing at the Caledonian Academy. He taught school for two years at Wilmington, Minn.; moved to South Dakota in 1879 where he was engaged in farming and teaching; in 1880 moved to Buxton, Traill County, Dakota Territory, engaging in the mercantile business; moved to Lakota, Nelson County, in the winter of 1887. He is a merchant and banker, and also extensively engaged in farming; was a member of the Territorial Legislature of 1889; has served as president of the village Board of Trustees and president of the Board of Education several terms. In 1902 he was appointed a member of the Board of Regents of the University of North Dakota by Governor Frank White. He was elected to the Fifty-ninth Congress and reelected in 1906-1908 to the Sixtieth and Sixty-first Congresses from North Dakota-at-large. He married, Aug. 31, 1884, Bertha M. Ostby, of Spring Grove, Minn., and they have two sons and three daughters. Address: Lakota, N. Dak.

GROSS, Samuel Eberly:

Capitalist; born at the "Mansion Farm," on the banks of the Susquehanna River, near Dauphin, Pa., Nov. 11, 1843; son of John Custer and Elizabeth (Eberly) Gross. He is of Holland-Dutch descent through the early settlers of New York State, and of Huguenot ancestry through Louis Dubois, who settled New Paltz, N. Y., in 1671, and through John Gross, who settled in Montgomery County, Pa., in 1745, and Captain John Gross, whose commission in the Revolutionary Army was dated Nov. 25, 1776, and who settled in Dauphin County, Pa., after the Revolutionary War. His grandson, John Custer Gross, removed with his family in 1846 to Bureau County, Ill., and after some years there, settled in Carroll County, Ill. His son, Samuel E. Gross, attended schools and academies until the Civil War began, when, at the first opportunity, he enlisted in the 41st Illinois Volunteers, but was mustered out because of his youth. He was then sent to Whitehall Academy in Pennsylvania and continued studies there until the Confederate forces invaded that State in 1863. He immediately joined Company D, 20th Pennsylvania Cavalry, in which he was commissioned first lieutenant, being one of the youngest holders of that rank in the Federal Army. He was promoted for gallantry to captain of Company K in that regiment Feb. 21, 1864, serving with his command through Virginia, 1864-1865, and taking an active part in the battle of Piedmont, Lynchburg, Ashby's Gap, Winchester, and other battles, and was honorably mustered out July 13, 1865. He went from the war direct to the Union College of Law, Chicago, from which he was graduated, LL.B., 1866. Even while a student the possibilities of real estate development in Chicago attracted him and he bought a few lots before his admission to the Illinois bar in 1866. He practised law successfully, but his attention became more and more engrossed with real estate matters, and in 1868 and 1869 he took an influential part in the development of the great park and boulevard system which is one of the most noteworthy and unique of the physical features of Chicago. In the great Chicago fire of Oct. 8-9, 1871, he was fortunate enough to save all his books and papers, and was able to continue his business with an interruption of only three days. Captain Gross began, about 1880, the distinctive business of the laying out and subdividing into lots, streets, parks, etc., of suburban towns in close proximity to Chicago. He has built twenty-one towns, most of which are now embraced in the municipal limits of Chicago, has erected and sold over 10,000 houses, and sold 40,000 lots. He is also interested in mines and mining. While diligently prosecuting the business which made him a millionaire, Captain Gross has devoted much time to the study and practice of literature, to art and to mechanical invention, and in the latter field has invented and received several patents for improvements in mathematical instruments and street pavements. In literature he has written and published much miscellaneous verse, and he is author of a romantic comedy, "The Merchant Prince of Cornville," 1896, which became famous because of the suit which he later prosecuted in the United States Court, contending that Edmond Rostand, the French author, had plagiarized from it the play "Cyrano de Bergerac," which contention was fully sustained by the court in 1902. Captain Gross is a member of the Grand Army of the Republic; has been secretary-general and vice-president-general of the Sons of the American Revolution; deputy-governor in the Society of Colonial Wars of the United States; president of the Western Society of the Army of the Potomac; commander of the Military Order of Foreign Wars, Illinois Commandery; is a member of the Holland Society of Chicago and the Huguenot Society of America; was a director of the Chicago Relief and Aid Society, and otherwise identified with charities; and is a liberal patron of art. He is a member of the Chicago Athletic Association, and of the Chicago Club of Chicago. Mr. Gross married, May 2, 1909, Ruby Lois Haughey, of Battle Creek, Mich.

GROSSCUP, Peter Stanger:

United States circuit judge; born in Ashland, Ohio, Feb. 15, 1852; son of Benjamin and Susannah (Bowermaster) Grosscup; and a descendant of Paul Grosseup, who represented Berks and Lebanon Counties in the Pennsylvania Colonial Assembly and also in the Constitutional Convention of 1791. He was graduated from Wittenberg College A.B. with the honors of his class in 1872, and from the Law School of Boston University LL.B., 1874. He was admitted to the Ohio Bar, 1874, and practised law in Ashland until 1883; and for six years he was city solicitor. He was Republican candidate for representative in the Forty-fifth Congress, but was defeated by his Democratic opponent. After 1883 he practised law in Chicago until appointed by President Harrison, Dec. 12, 1892, as U. S. district judge for the Northern District of Illinois, and in January, 1899, was promoted by President McKinley to his present office as judge of the U. S. Circuit Court for the Seventh Circuit, of which he is the presiding judge. Judge Grosscup has presided in many important cases; upon the application to close the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; the Debs conspiracy case; the receivership of the Chicago City Railway Company; the appeal from the fine of $29,000,000 imposed upon the Standard Oil Company, and others. Residence: Highland Park, Ill. Office: Federal Building, Chicago.

GROSVENOR, Charles Henry:

Lawyer; born at Pomfret, Conn., Sept. 20, 1833; son of Major Peter Grosvenor, who served in the 10th Connecticut Regiment, in the War of 1812, and grandson of Colonel Thomas Grosvenor of the Second Connecticut Regiment. He was taken to Ohio by his father in 1838, attended a few terms in a country log schoolhouse, in Athens County, Ohio; taught school and studied law, and was admitted to the bar in 1857. He was chairman of the Executive Committee of the Ohio State Bar Association from its organization for many years. He served in the Union Army, in the 18th Ohio Volunteers, from July, 1861, to November, 1865; was major, lieutenant-colonel, colonel, and brevet brigadier-general of volunteers, commanding a brigade at the battle of Nashville, in December, 1864. He has held divers township and village offices; was a member of the State House of Representatives of Ohio, 1874-1878, serving as speaker of the house two years; was presidential elector for the Fifteenth District of Ohio in 1872, and was chosen to carry the electoral vote of the State to Washington; was presidential elector at large in 1880; was a member of the Board of Trustees of the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home, at Xenia, 1880-1888, and president of the Board for five years; was a delegate at large to the National Republican Convention at St. Louis in 1896, and again to the National Republican Convention at Philadelphia in 1900; was elected to the Forty-ninth, Fiftieth, Fifty-first, Fifty-third, Fifty-fourth, Fifty-fifth, Fifty-sixth, Fifty-seventh, Fifty-eighth and Fifty-ninth Congresses. He is nationally known as a strong supporter of the American protective system of tariffs on imports and also for his knowledge of political statistics and for his ability in political forecasts. Address: Athens, Ohio.

GROUT, Edward Marshall:

Former comptroller of the City of New York; born in New York City, Oct. 27, 1861; son of Edward and Fanny (Marshall) Grout. He was graduated from Colgate University, A.B., 1884, and received from it the degree of LL.D. in 1903. He studied law in the office of General Stewart L. Woodford and was admitted to the bar in 1885. He was the Democratic candidate for mayor of Brooklyn, 1895; elected president of the Borough of Brooklyn, 1897; elected comptroller of New York City on the Fusion ticket in 1901, and on the Tammany ticket in 1903. He was judge-advocate and major of the Second Brigade of the National Guard of the State of New York, 1894-1904. He is a trustee of the Colgate University; member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, and a member of the Brooklyn, Hamilton, Montauk, and Riding and Driving Clubs. He married in Brooklyn, June 4, 1889, Ida L. Loeschigk. Residence: 860 Carroll Street, Brooklyn. Offices: 111 Broadway, New York City, and 189 Montague Street, Brooklyn.

GROZIER, Edwin A.:

Editor and publisher of the Boston Post; born in San Francisco, Sept. 2, 1859, of New England parentage. He studied in Brown University, and later was graduated from Boston University in 1881. He was reporter on the Boston Globe and Herald, 1881-1882; private secretary to the Governor of Massachusetts, 1884-1885, when he went to New York as secretary to Joseph Pulitzer of the New York World. He was appointed city editor in 1887 and later he became editor of the Evening and Sunday World. In 1891 he secured control of the Boston Post, a morning paper which had once been the leading journal in the morning field but had fallen into decay. Mr. Grozier has since developed The Boston Post into one of the most successful and influential newspapers of the country. He married Alice G. Goodell of Salem. Two children, Richard and Helen. Member of Society of Mayflower Descendants and of numerous clubs. Residence: 168 Brattle Street, Cambridge, Mass. Office: The Post, Boston.

GUENTHER, Francis Luther:

Brigadier-general, U. S. Army, retired; born in Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 22, 1838; son of Rev. Francis Henry and Katherine (Knotts) Guenther. He was appointed from New York a cadet at the U. S. Military Academy, July 1, 1854, from which he was graduated in 1859. He was brevetted second lieutenant, U. S. Army, July 1, 1859; commissioned second lieutenant, Fourth Artillery, Nov. 2, 1859; first lieutenant, Fifth Artillery, May 14, 1861; captain July 2, 1863; major Second Artillery, June 26, 1882; lieutenant-colonel, Fifth Artillery, July 1, 1891; colonel Fourth Artillery, June 6, 1896; brigadier-general, Feb. 13, 1902, and retired Feb. 22, 1902. He served in the Civil War in the armies of the West Virginia, the Ohio, and the Cumberland; took part in many battles. He was brevetted for gallant and meritorious services; captain, April 7, 1862 (for Shiloh); major, Dec. 31, 1862 (for Stone River); lieutenant-colonel and colonel, March 13, 1865, for gallant and meritorious services during the Civil War. He was in the volunteer service as brigadier-general. U. S. Volunteers from May 4, 1898, to Oct. 31, 1898. Address: 5 East 124th Street, New York City.

GUERBER, Helene Adeline:

Teacher and author; educated in Paris. She taught one year in Wykeham Hall, Toronto, Canada; three years in Miss L. B. Masters' School at Dobbs Ferry, N. Y.; two years at Miss E. J. Mackies School, Newburgh, N. Y., and is now engaged in giving private lessons. Miss Guerber has devoted herself largely to literary work, and is author of thirty-two volumes, some dealing with history, myth and legend, and others being French and German text-books. Among the best known of these are: Myths of Greece and Rome; Myths of Northern Lands; Legends of the Middle Ages; Legends of the Rhine; Legends of Switzerland; Legends of the Virgin and Christ; Stories of the Wagner Operas; Stories of Famous Operas; Story of the Chosen People; story of the Greeks; Story of the Romans; Story of the English; Story of the Thirteen Colonies; Story of the Great Republic; Story of Old France; Empresses of France; Contes et Légendes (French Reader); Märchen und Erzählungen (German Reader); Yourself (Manual of Physiology); Stories of Popular Operas; Cupid and Psyche (French composition); How to Prepare for Europe—a Standard Guide. Address: 150 Piermont Avenue, Nyack, N. Y.

GUERTIN, George Albert:

Catholic bishop of Manchester, N. H.; born in Nashua, N. H., Feb. 17, 1869; son of George and Louise (Lefebvre) Guertin. He was educated in the College of St. Charles Borromeo, Sherbrooke, Can., St.

Hyacinthe (Can.) College, and St. John's Seminary, Brighton, Mass. He was ordained to the priesthood, 1892, and after serving as assistant priest at churches in Manchester and Lebanon, N. H., for eight years became in 1900, pastor of St. Anthony's Parish in East Manchester until March 19, 1907, when he was consecrated bishop. Address: Manchester, N. H.

GUGGENHEIM, Daniel:

Smelter, capitalist; born in Philadelphia, 1856; son of Meyer and Barbara (Myers) Guggenheim. He began his business career as buyer for a mercantile house in Switzerland, and afterward joined his brothers in their smelting and mining activities. He is a member of the firm of M. Guggenheim's Sons; president and director, of the Guggenheim Exploration Company; president of the board of directors, American Smelters' Securities Company; president and director of the American Smelting and Refining Company; vice-president of the Federal Lead Company; director of the National Bank of Commerce, Morton Trust Company, National Lead Company, American Smelters Steamship Company, the Continental Rubber Company of America and other corporations. He married Florence Schloss. Residence: 12 West 54th Street. Office: 71 Broadway, New York City.

GUGGENHEIM, Isaac:

Capitalist; born in Philadelphia, Pa., June 7, 1854; son of Meyer and Barbara (Myers) Guggenheim. He was graduated from the Philadelphia High School. He is president of the Mexican Union Railroad; managing director of the Guggenheim Exploration Company; treasurer and director of the American Smelting and Refining Company; director of the American Smelters Steamship Company, National Park Bank, International Banking Corporation, Plaza Bank, American Smelters Securities Company, and Western Mining Company, and second vice-president of the United States Yers, Lotos and Criterion Clubs of New York City. Mr. Guggenheim married in New York City, Nov. 15, 1876, Carrie Sonneborn. Residence: 763 Fifth Avenue. Address: 71 Broadway, New York City.

GUGGENHEIM, Simon:

United States senator; born in Philadelphia, Dec. 30, 1867; son of Meyer and Barbara (Meyers) Guggenheim. He was graduated and studied languages two years in Europe. He engaged in mining and smelting in the United States and Mexico, and went to Pueblo, Colo., in 1888, later removing to Denver, of which place he has since been a citizen and regular voter. He is a director and member of the Executive Committee of the American Smelting and Refining Company, and mining director of the Guggenheim Exploration Company. He was nominated for lieutenant-governor by the Silver Republicans of Colorado; declined nomination, although ticket was elected; nominated by same party for governor of Colorado, 1898, and endorsed by People's Party, but withdrew from the ticket. He was a presidential elector for Colorado in 1904, and was elected in January, 1907, United States senator from Colorado, for six year term expiring March 3, 1913. Senator Guggenheim is a member of the Lawyers, and Harmonic Clubs of New York City; Progress Club of Denver; Pueblo Club of Pueblo, and Alta Club of Salt Lake City. He married in New York City, Nov. 24, 1898, Olga Hirsh. Address: 1555 Sherman Avenue, Denver, Colo.

GUILD, Curtis, Jr.:

Former governor of Massachusetts; born in Boston, Mass., Feb. 2, 1860; son of Curtis Guild (publisher of the Boston Commercial Bulletin), and Sarah C. (Cobb) Guild. He was graduated from the Chauncy Hall School in Boston and Harvard College, A.B., 1881, with highest honors. While an undergraduate he was for a time editor of the Harvard Crimson, and in his senior year of the Harvard Lampoon. After graduation he entered the office of the Boston Commercial Bulletin, was later admitted to the publishing firm, and in 1902 became sole owner of the paper. He joined Troop A of the First Battalion of Massachusetts Cavalry in 1891, was elected second lieutenant in 1895, and in 1897 was appointed by Governor Wolcott inspector-general of rifle practice on his staff, with the rank of brigadier-general. In April, 1898, the war with Spain having begun he resigned to become adjutant in the Sixth Infantry of Massachusetts Volunteers, with the rank of lieutenant, and in May, 1898, he was appointed by President McKinley as inspector-general on the staff of General Fitzhugh Lee, Seventh Army Corps, serving until the close of the war, and reaching the rank of colonel, U. S. Volunteers. He is an active Republican; was elected lieutenant-governor of Massachusetts in 1902, serving until 1905, and was elected in 1905 and again in 1906 and 1907 governor of Massachusetts, his last term expiring in January, 1909. He has received honorary degrees of LL.D. from Holy Cross College, LL.D. from Williams College and Doctor of Theology from University of Geneva. He married in Boston, June, 1, 1892, Charlotte H. Johnson. Residence: 124 Marlboro Street. Office: 41 India Street, Boston.

GUINEY, Louise Imogen:

Author; born in Boston, Jan. 7, 1861; only child of Brigadier-General P. R. Guiney, of the Army of the Potomac, and of Janet M. (Doyle) Guiney. Miss Guiney was educated in private schools in Boston, in Elnahurst, the Academy of the Sacred Heart in Providence, R. I., and by private tutors. Since 1885 she has been a contributor of essays and poems to Harpers, Scribner's, The Atlantic, McClure's, and other American magazines, and has written and edited much. She has lived over twelve years off and on, in England, three years continuously at one time, eight at another. She is author of: Songs at the Start, 1883; The White Sail and other Poems, 1887; Monsieur Henri, a Footnote to French History, 1892; A Little English Gallery, 1894; Patris (de La Rochejaquelein), 1897; A Roadside Harp, 1893; "England and Yesterday," 1898; The Martyrs' Idyl and Shorter Poems, 1899; Robert Emmett; his Rebellion and his Romance, 1904; Hurrell Froude: Memoranda and Comments, 1905; The Blessed Edmund Campion. Miss Guiney has edited Selected Poems of Clarence Mangan, of Matthew Arnold, The Matchless Orinda, and Thomas Stanley; Dr. T. W. Parsons' Translation of The Divina Commedia, 1893; Henry Vaughn's Mount of Olives, 1902. Address: Oxford, England.

GUITERAS, Juan:

Physician and specialist on yellow fever and other tropical diseases; born in Matanzas, Cuba, Jan. 4, 1852; son of Eusebio and Josefa (Gener) Guiteras. He was graduated A.B. from La Empresa College, Matanzas, Cuba, 1867, and M.D. and Ph.D. from the University of Pennsylvania, 1873, taking first prize for thesis. He was active in Cuban politics in the United States, prior to the Cuban War and was attached to General Shafter's headquarters in the Santiago campaign. He has paid special attention to yellow fever and other tropical diseases and is recognized as the chief authority of the world on this subject. He was employed as special expert by the United States and Cuban Governments in yellow fever epidemics; was the first to find filaria in the United States and uncinaria in Cuba. He founded the chair of tropical diseases in the University of Havana in 1900; also the Revista de Medicina Tropical, the first journal of Tropical Medicine published in America, and is author of papers on tropical medicine and internal medicine in general. He was resident physician to the Philadelphia Hospital, 1873-1874; visiting physician to same, 1876-1880; member of the Havana Yellow Fever Commission of the United States National Board of Health, 1879; officer of the Marine Hospital Service, 1880-1889; professor of medicine in South Carolina Medical College, 1885-1889; member of the Executive Committee of the Sanitary Convention of the American Republics, 1902-1905, and 1907; professor of Pathology of the University of Pennsylvania, 1889-1899; has been professor of general and tropical pathology in the University of Havana since 1900; director of the Las Animas Hospital since 1903; president, 1902-1909 and still member of the Commission of Infectious Diseases of Havana; member since 1903 and since 1909 president of the National Board of Health of Cuba, and since 1909 director of public health of Cuba. He was president of the Second Cuban National Medical Congress, 1908; is ex-president of the American Public Health Association; member of the Association of American Physicians; Havana Academy of Sciences; Sociedad de Estudios Clinicos. He married in Mantanzas, Cuba, May 5, 1883, Dolores Gener, and has a daughter. Address: Havana, Cuba.

GUMMEY, Charles Francis:

Lawyer; born in Philadelphia, Dec. 22, 1862, of a family, which came from England to Virginia in 1635. He prepared for college at the Germantown Academy, and entered the University of Pennsylvania from which he was graduated in 1884, with the degree of B.S. Mr. Gummey read law and was graduated LL.B. from the same institution in 1888. He was admitted to the Philadelphia bar, June 16, 1888. He married June 7, 1900, Florence, daughter of John H. Catherwood, Esq. Residence: 2126 Locust Street, Philadelphia; country residence: Gwynedd Valley, Pa. Office: Franklin Building, 133 South 12th Street, Philadelphia.

GUNN, Archie:

Artist; born in England in 1863; educated in England; studied art in London; came to New York fifteen years ago and was employed on various papers; is famous as a drawer of posters, and has latterly gained distinction as a painter. He is a member of the Strollers' Club. Address: Strollers' Club, 67 Madison Avenue, New York City.

GUNNISON, Almon:

President of St. Lawrence University; born in Hallowell, Me., March 2, 1844; son of Nathaniel and Ann L. (Foster) Gunnison. He was prepared at Green Mountain Institute, Woodstock, Vt., Dalhousie College, Halifax, N. S., and was graduated from Tufts College, and in divinity from St. Lawrence University. The degree of D.D. was conferred upon him by St. Lawrence University, and the degree of LL.D. by Union College and Tufts College. After completing his studies, he entered the Universalist ministry, settling first at Bath, Me. Three years afterwards he was called to All Soul's Church, Brooklyn, N. Y., where he remained twenty years, then to the First Universalist Church of Worcester, Mass., for ten years. From there he was called to the presidency of St. Lawrence University, Canton, which position he now occupies. He is one of the editors of The Geographical Magazine, and editorial writer for the Christian Leader; and was for ten years a trustee of the General Convention of Universalists. Dr. Gunnison has made eight tours abroad, visiting Europe, Asia and Africa; has written two books: Rambles Overland, and Wayside and Fireside Rambles; has been a frequent contributor to magazines, and has lectured extensively. In politics, he is a Republican. He is a member of the Zeta Psi fraternity. He married at Canton, N. Y., July 7, 1868, Ella E. Everest, and they have one son: Frederick E., lawyer and president of the Home Trust Co., Brooklyn — and a daughter, Mrs. Guy L. Harrington of Brooklyn, N. Y. Address: Canton, N. Y.

GUNNISON, Royal Arch:

United States judge; born in Binghamton, N. Y., June 24, 1873; son of Christopher B. and Juliette (Turner) Gunnison. He received a High School education at Binghamton, was graduated from the Law Department of Cornell University as LL.B. in 1896, and after practising seven years in Binghamton and served as a referee in bankruptcy for six years, he was appointed by President Roosevelt to his present office as United States district judge for the First Division of the District of Alaska, in which office he is now serving. Address: Juneau, Alaska.

GUY, Charles L.:

Jurist; born in New York City, Jan. 6, 1856; son of Pierre A. and Sarah B. Guy. He was graduated from the New York public schools and entered the College of the City of New York, and attended Columbia Law School. He was admitted to the bar, 1881, and actively practised law for twenty years; former member of the law firm of Lexlow, MacKellar, Guy & Wells. He was law assistant to the surrogate, 1892-1893; State Senator, 1894-1898; and a prominent member of the Senate Committee on Judiciary and Codes. He was author of the School Teachers' Pension Bill, and bills establishing many public improvements in New York City, such as the Cathedral Parkway, Riverside Drive Extension, Botanical and Zoölogical Gardens, etc. He was school commissioner, 1902-1903; assistant corporation counsel of the City of New York, 1904-1906, and was elected Nov. 6, 1906, justice of the Supreme Court for the first department, for the term expiring Dec. 31, 1920. Judge Guy has been active in political affairs. He stampeded Saratoga Convention in favor of David B. Hill, in 1895; nominated Henry George for United States Senator against Hill, 1897; supported Seth Low for mayor, 1897. Edward M. Shepard, 1901, and George B. McClellan, 1903. He is a member of the Society Medical Jurisprudence and of the Manhattan, National Democratic, St. Andrew's Golf Clubs of New York City. He married in Boston, May 16, 1888, Eliza M. Bowen, and they have three daughters. Residence: 335 Convent Avenue. Office: County Court House, New York City.

GUY, Seymour Joseph:

Artist; born in Greenwich, England, Jan. 16, 1824; studied art in London; since 1854 resident in New York. He was made associate in 1861, and in 1895 academician of the National Academy of Design. He is also a member of the American Society of Painters in Water Colors. Mr. Guy married Anna M., daughter of the late W. W. Barber, of Philadelphia. Residence: 847 East 134th Street. Studio: 51 West 10th Street, New York City.

H

HAAS, George Christian Frederick:

Clergyman; born in Philadelphia, May 5, 1854; son of John C. and Anna Margaret (Schur) Haas. He was educated in Zion's Lutheran Parochial School, the Protestant Episcopal Academy of Philadelphia, the University of Pennsylvania, being graduated A.B., with first honors and election to Phi Beta Kappa, 1876, A.M. 1879; was graduated from the Evangelical Lutheran Theological Seminary of Philadelphia in 1880, and received the D.D. degree from Muhlenberg College in 1901. He taught in the Protestant Episcopal Academy at Philadelphia, 1876-1877, was ordained in the ministry of the Lutheran Church in 1880, was assistant pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, New York City, 1880-1882, and since the latter date has been in full charge of that church. He was president of the Evangelical Lutheran Ministerium of New York, 1893-1896, 1899-1901, and was again elected to that office in 1908; is a member of the General Council Publication Board and on its Church Book Committee and also was for a time member of its Sunday School Literature Committee; and he is also a director of the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Philadelphia, and vice-president of the German Lutheran Emigrant House in New York City. Dr. Haas is composer of the Luther League Rally Hymn and other hymn tunes, and co-editor of the Luther League Hymnal. He married in April, 1882, Anna S. Hansen, daughter of Otto E. Hansen, and they had three children, of whom only one is living, George C. O. Haas, Ph.D. Dr. Haas lost his wife and daughter, as well as many members of his congregation, in the General Slocum steamboat disaster, June 15, 1905. He married again in May, 1906, Clara M. Holthusen, daughter of John Holthusen. Address: 254 West 13th Street, New York City.

HAAS, John Augustus William:

President of Muhlenberg College; born in Philadelphia, Aug. 31, 1862; son of John C. and Margaret (Schur) Haas. He was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania, A.B., with first honor, 1884, A.M. and B.D., 1887; took courses in theology in the University of Leipzig, and in 1902 he received the degree of D.D. from Thiel College. He was ordained in the ministry of the Lutheran Church, and was pastor of Grace Lutheran Church in New York City, 1888-1896, securing a church building during that pastorate; was pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, New York City, 1896-1904, and was active in erecting the new $80,000 church. In 1904 he was elected president of Muhlenberg College, in which position he continues. President Haas is author of: A Commentary on St. Mark; Bible Literature; Biblical Criticism; and articles in church publications. He was also co-editor and an extensive contributor to the Lutheran Cyclopedia. He is a member of the Pennsylvania Society of New York. He married in New York City, Oct. 6, 1891, Charlotte W. R. Boschen. Address: Muhlenberg College, Allentown, Pa.

HAAS, Kalman:

Merchant; born in Germany, 1840. Mr. Haas founded in 1867 in San Francisco, the firm of Haas Brothers, who have had a remarkably successful career and now control the quicksilver product of the United States. He is also a director of the Beet Sugar Company, Haas Brothers, the Napa Quicksilver Mining Company, the New Idria Quicksilver Company, and the Mutual Alliance Trust Company. Mr. Haas, in addition to his business prominence, takes a deep interest in charities, is president of the Mount Sinai Training School for Nurses and a director of the Mount Sinai Hospital. Mr. Haas married in New York City, in 1883, Harriet Fatman, and they have three children: Edith, George and Robert Kalman. Residence: 7 East 69th Street. Address: 27 William Street, New York City.

HABBERTON, John:

Author; born in Brooklyn, N. Y., February, 1842; son of J. J. and Esther E. (Peck) Habberton. He was educated in public and high schools. He learned the compositor's trade in the printing office of Harper and Brother, and was afterward in the counting room of the same firm until he enlisted in the Union Army as a volunteer, serving first as a private, and afterward becoming a lieutenant of U. S. Colored Troops. After the war he returned to the counting room of Harper and Brothers until 1872, when he started as a publisher on his own account. He was literary editor of The Christian Union, 1874-1877, a staff editor of the New York Herald, 1877-1892, literary editor of Godey's Magazine, 1892-1894, on the staff of the Illustrated American, 1896-1897, and after that engaged chiefly in literary work. His first book, Helen's Babies, which was published in 1876, made a great success, selling over a quarter of a million copies in the United States, besides many editions in England, and in other countries in many languages. He is also author of: All He Knew; Life of George Washington; Brunton's Boy; Caleb Wright; Some Boys' Doing; The Tiger and the Insect and many other books, and wrote a play, Deacon Crankett, in 1880 which played over four hundred times. He married in Hartford, Conn., Feb. 25, 1868, Alice L. Hastings, and they have two sons and two daughters. Address: Care of Harper & Brother, New York City.

HACKETT, Frank Warren:

Lawyer; born in Portsmouth, N. H., April 11, 1841; son of William H. Y. Hackett. He was educated in Phillips Exeter Academy, Harvard College, A.B., 1861. A.M., 1864, and studied law in offices in Portsmouth and Philadelphia and at Harvard Law School. During the Civil War he was an acting assistant paymaster of the U. S. Navy. He served on the U. S. S. Miami and was on board that vessel at Plymouth, N. C., in 1864, during the engagement with the Confederate ram Albemarle in which Lieutenant-Commander Charles W. Flusser of the Miami was killed. Mr. Hackett was admitted to the Rockingham (N. H.) and to the Suffolk bar, Boston, in 1866. He practised law there until 1871, and has practised since 1873 in Washington, D. C., retaining his legal residence in New Hampshire. He was private secretary to Caleb Cushing, while the latter was senior counsel for the United States before the Geneva Tribunal of Arbitration in 1872. He was assistant secretary of the Navy, 1901-1902; then resigned to resume law practice. He served one year as representative from Portsmouth in the New Hampshire Legislature. He is author of various legal and historical books, addresses, etc. He married in April, 1880, Ida Craven, daughter of the late Rear-Admiral Thomas T. Craven, of the United States Navy. Residence: 1418 M Street, Washington, and New Castle, N. H. Office: Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

HACKETT, James Keteltas:

Actor, manager; born in Ontario in 1869; son of James Henry Hackett, the celebrated Falstaff, and half-brother to John Keteltas Hackett, recorder of the City of New York for nineteen years. After graduation from the College of the City of New York in 1891, he studied law for a brief period in the New York Law School. He made his debut on the professional stage in Palmer's Stock Company in Philadelphia in 1892; afterward became leading man in New York Lyceum in 1895, being the youngest leading man in the stage history of New York City. He then made notable successes in The Prisoner of Zenda, Rupert of Hentzau, and The Pride of Jennico. In 1901 he became his own manager, producing successively Don Caesar's Return, The Chance Ambassador, The Crisis, John Ermine of the Yellowstone, the Crown Prince, and The Walls of Jericho, and now controls The Secret of Polichinelle, with William H. Thompson. He is manager of Hackett's Theatre, New York City, and is a member of the Players', Alpha Delta Phi, Strollers', Lambs', and New York Athletic Clubs. Mr. Hackett married Mary Mannering, the well known actress. Address: 38 East 33d Street, New York City.

HADDEN, Crowell:

Capitalist; born in New York City, in 1840; son of Crowell and Fanny (Ludlow) Hadden. He was educated in the Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute. Mr. Hadden is vice-president and trustee of the Brooklyn Savings Bank, treasurer and director of the Brooklyn Academy of Music, the New York and Long Island Realty Company; trustee of the Brooklyn Eye and Ear Hospital, trustee and vice-president of the Franklin Safe Deposit Company, trustee of Franklin Trust Company, director of the Brooklyn City Railroad Company, the Nassau National Bank, and the Realty Association. He married in Brooklyn, May 29, 1866, Elizabeth Stevens. Residence: 69 Remsen Street, Brooklyn. Office: 164 Montague Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

HADLEY, Arthur Twining:

President of Yale University; born in New Haven, Conn., April 23, 1856; son of the late James Hadley, philologist and professor in Yale University. After graduation from Yale University as A.B. in 1876, he went abroad for study at Berlin, returning to Yale as tutor, 1897-1883, lecturer, 1883-1885, professor of political economy, 1885-1899, and since the latter date president of Yale University. President Hadley received the LL.D. degree from Harvard, 1899, Columbia, 1900, and from Johns Hopkins, 1902. He was commissioner of labor statistics of the State of Connecticut, 1885-1887, and president of the American Economic Association, 1897-1899; appointed Theodore Roosevelt professor of American History and Institutions in the University of Berlin, 1907-1908. Dr. Hadley was editor of the Railroad Gazette, 1886-1891 and is author of various publications including: Railroad Transportation, its History and its Laws, 1885; Connecticut Labor Reports, 1885-1886; Economics on Account of the Relations between Private Property and Public Welfare, 1896; The Education of the American Citizen, 1901; Freedom and Responsibility, 1903; Baccalaureate Addresses, 1907; Standards of Public Morality, 1907. President Hadley is a member of the International Institute of Statistics and is a trustee of the Carnegie Foundation, and is a member of the Century Association and the University Club of New York City. He married, June 30, 1891, Helen, daughter of Governor Luzon B. Morris, of Connecticut, and they have two sons and one daughter. Address: 93 Whitney Avenue, New Haven, Conn.

HADLOCK, Albert Emerson:

Lawyer; born at Amherst, N. H., Feb. 9, 1863; son of John and Sarah Elizabeth (Carlton) Hadlock. He was educated in public schools, Phillips Exeter Academy, Dartmouth College, A.B. and valedictorian, 1887, A.M., 1890; Harvard Law School, LL.B. cum laude, and A.M. 1893. He taught in G. W. C. Noble's School, Boston, 1887-1890; law clerk in the office of Evarts, Choate and Beaman, 1893-1896; secretary to the president of the Borough of Richmond, 1898-1902; assistant corporation counsel of the City of New York, 1902-1904, and has been in general practice since 1904. He was Republican candidate for county judge of Richmond County in 1905, and member of the Committee of One Hundred on judicial nominations in the Second Department in 1906. Mr. Hadlock is a member of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, the Psi Upsilon and Phi Delta Phi fraternities and the Casque and Gauntlet Society, third vice-president of the Staten Island Chamber of Commerce, and a member of the Staten Island Club. He married in Burlington, Vt., June 28, 1902, Marion Canfield, and they have two sons. Residence: New Brighton, Staten Island. Address: 63 Wall Street, New York City.

HAFFEN, Louis F.:

Civil and mining engineer; and president of the Borough of the Bronx; born at Melrose (Morisiana), Westchester County, N. Y., Nov. 6, 1854. After a preparatory education in the public schools he entered St. John's College at Fordham, and after a year there went from 1869 to 1871 to Niagara University at Suspension Bridge, N. Y., returning in 1871 to St. John's College, where he was graduated as A.B., 1875, A.M., 1877; then took the engineering course at Columbia University, with graduation as C.E. in 1879; and the degree of LL.D. was afterward conferred upon him by St. John's College. He engaged in private practice and as engineer and city surveyor, 1880-1881; studied and practiced civil and mining engineering in the Far West in 1882; was engineer of the Department of Public Parks, New York City, 1883-1890; engineer in charge and superintendent of the New York parks of the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Wards, and adjoining in Westchester County, 1890-1893; commissioner of street improvements of the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth wards (the Bronx), 1893-1898, and since 1898 has been president of the Borough of the Bronx, elected successively six times. Mr. Haften has been Democratic leader in the Bronx for the past sixteen years. Address: Municipal Building, Crotona Park, Borough of the Bronx, New York City.

HAGEN, Hugo Joseph von:

Railroad president and mine operator; born in Germany, Feb. 3, 1866; son of Theodor and Margaretha (von Struve) von Hagen. After preparatory education in German gymnasium and college in Düsseldorf, he attended the University of Heidelberg, from which he received the degrees of A.M. and S.B. and then took a post-graduate course in the University of Chicago, where he gained the degree of Ph.D. Mr. von Hagen was general secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association in St. Louis, Brooklyn, and New York City for fourteen years' total service; made four exploring trips in South America, and in 1902 built the North Shore Railway in New Brunswick, Canada, of which he is still president. He is also interested in Nova Scotia coal mines, Ontario gold mines, and oil wells in Pennsylvania. Mr. von Hagen is a Republican in politics and cast his first vote after naturalization for Harrison in 1888, and has been a member of the German-American League for years, and stumped the West and New York State and City for McKinley and Roosevelt. He served in the army of Emperor William I, as a one-year volunteer, after having been in the United States for two years, to keep up the family record. Mr. von Hagen is president of the Canadian Consolidated Mines Co.; president of the von Hagen Exploration Company; treasurer of the Sovereign Coal Mines Co.; president of the Goldconda Gold Placer Mining and Colchester Coal and Railway Company; vice-president of the Imperial Coal Company; president of the North Shore Railroad Company and Kent Coal Company; Great Northern Coal Co.; president of the Northern Coal Company and president of the Bay of Fundy Mining Company. He is a member of the American Museum of Natural History, the National Geographic Society, and the German Hospital of New York City. His favorite recreations are fencing, shooting, riding and driving. Mr. von Hagen married at Lake Waccabue, N. Y., June 7, 1893, Luella Narcissa Pardee, and they have four children: Hildegard, Rosalind, Roxy Margaretha, Hugo Pardee, and Elsie Mead. Residence: Ridgefield, Conn. Address: 103 Park Avenue, New York City.

HAGERMAN, Herbert J.:

Former governor of New Mexico; born in Milwaukee, Wis., 1867; son of James J. and Anna (Osborne) Hagerman. He was prepared in Colorado College and in Europe, and graduated from Cornell, A.B., 1894 and LL.B., 1896. He practised law in Colorado until appointed in 1899 second secretary of the American Embassy at St. Petersburg, returning to the United States in 1901 after receiving from the Czar the Russian decoration of the Order of St. Anne. He engaged on a large scale as a stockman in Southern New Mexico, being vice-president of the Southspring Ranch and Cattle Company, and of the Felix Irrigation Company. He was sent as an alternate to the National Republican Convention in Chicago in 1904; was appointed Governor of New Mexico by President Roosevelt in 1906, and was succeeded by Gov. Curry in 1908. Governor Hagerman is a member of the Denver Club of Denver, the El Paso Club of Colorado Springs, Colo., the Chicago Club of Chicago, and the Roswell Club of Roswell. Address: Roswell, N. Mex.

HAGGIN, James B.:

Capitalist, horseman; born in Frankfort, Ky., in 1827. He was educated in the schools of Frankfort, studied law, and practised in St. Joseph, Mo., and Natchez, Miss., until 1849, when he went to California, and became interested in large mining enterprises in California, Nevada and Montana. He now owns a large interest in the mines of the Anaconda Copper Company in Montana; owns large stock farms in Kentucky and the largest stud of racing and trotting stock in the United States. Mr. Haggin is president, treasurer and director of the Homestake Mining Company; president and director of the Cerro de Pasco Improvement Company; vice-president and director of the American Car and Foundry Company, the International Steam Pump Company, Knickerbocker Trust Company, Louisville and Atlantic Railway Company, Oriental Consolidated Mining Company, and Oyamel Company. He is a member of the Union, Tuxedo, Riding, Turf and Field, Metropolitan Clubs of New York City. He married, first, Lewis Sanders, of Natchez, Miss., Mrs. Haggin died May 23, 1894, and he again married, at Versailles, Ky., Dec. 23, 1897, Pearl Voorhies. Residence: 587 Fifth Avenue. Address: 15 Broad Street, New York City.

HAGUE, Arnold:

Geologist; born in Boston, Dec. 3, 1840; son of Rev. William Hague, D.D. and Mary Bowditch (Moriarity) Hague. He was graduated from Sheffield Scientific School of Yale, Ph.B., 1863; attended the Universities of Göttingen, 1861-1864, Heidelberg, 1864-1865, and the Mining Academy at Freiberg, 1865-1866. He received the honorary degree of Sc.D. from Columbia University in 1901, and of LL.D. from the University of Aberdeen in 1906. He is author of various books and papers on geology and has written extensively on the Yellowstone National Park. He was attached to the United States Geological Exploration of the Fortieth Parallel as geologist, 1867-1878, and since 1880 has been in the service of the Government as geologist of the United States Geological Survey. He was a member of the Forestry Commission appointed by the National Academy of Sciences at the request of the secretary of the Interior to suggest a forestry policy for the government, 1896, and since 1901, has been secretary of the National Academy of Sciences. He is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science; member of the American Society of Naturalists, Geological Society of America, American Institute of Mining Engineers, Washington Academy of Sciences, London Geological Society, and others. Address: 1724 I Street, Washington, D. C.

HAID, Leo:

Roman Catholic bishop and abbot; born in Latrobe, Pa., July 15, 1849. He joined the Benedictine Order in 1869; was ordained priest in 1872; chaplain and professor of St. Vincent's Abbey, 1872-1885, and since then has been abbot of St. Mary Help Abbey. Bishop Haid was blessed mitred abbot, Nov. 26, 1885; and appointed in 1887, vicar apostolic of North Carolina, and titular bishop of Messene. He was consecrated July 1, 1888. Address: Mary Help Abbey, Belmont, N. C.

HAIGHT, Albert:

Jurist; born at Ellicottville, Cattaraugus County, N. Y., Feb. 20, 1842. He was educated in the Springville (N. Y.) Academy, studied law, and in 1863 was admitted to the bar. He was elected supervisor of Erie County, 1870-1872, county judge of Erie County, 1872-1876, and resigned Dec. 31, 1876, having been elected, Nov., 1876, justice of the Supreme Court of New York. He was appointed associate justice of the General Term in 1884, by Governor Cleveland; appointed associate judge of the Court of Appeals of the Second Division in 1889, by Governor Hill; reelected justice of the Supreme Court in 1890, and reappointed associate judge of the Second Division by Governor Hill, reappointed associate justice of the General Term in 1892, by Governor Flower; and resigned as associate justice of the General Term and as justice of the Supreme Court, Dec. 31, 1894, having been elected associate judge of the Court of Appeals in Nov., 1894, for a term of fourteen years. Judge Haight is now the senior judge, in point of service, in the State. He married Nov. 20, 1864, Angeline Waters of West Falls, Erie County, N. Y. Address: Buffalo, N. Y.

HAINES, John Peter:

Humanitarian; born in New York City, Dec. 17, 1851. He was educated at Columbia College, special course. He married at Lyndhurst, Irvington-on-Hudson, 1873, Mary, daughter of George Merritt. He has been prominently identified with humane and benevolent movements for many years; from 1889 until April 15, 1906 (when he resigned); he was president American Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Under his presidency, the operations of The American Society, the parent society for the protection of animals, have been extended, new laws for protection of animals enacted, notorious resorts where animals were made to fight have been broken up, reforms in transportation of animals instituted, brutal and demoralizing "sports" suppressed, and many forms of cruelty checked or done away with entirely. Owner of the celebrated Cranmoor Farm, Toms River, N. J. Life member American Society Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (was editor Our Animal Friends, official organ of the society); life member American Geographical Society, American Museum of Natural History, Society of American Authors, New York Genealogical Society, American Jersey Cattle Club, American Bible Society; life director American Tract Society. Clubs: Manhattan, Automobile of America, Larchmont Yacht, Lakewood Country Life, New York Yacht, Church Club. Residence: 20 Fifth Avenue. Address: 80 William Street, New York City.

See

HAINS, Peter Conover:

Brigadier-General United States Army, retired; born in Philadelphia, July 6, 1840. He was appointed from New Jersey as a cadet in the U. S. Military Academy July 1, 1857; was commissioned second lieutenant and first lieutenant in the Second Artillery, June 24, 1861; transferred to Engineers, March 3, 1863; captain July 18, 1863; major Sept. 22, 1870; lieutenant-colonel Sept. 16, 1866; colonel Aug. 13, 1895; brigadier-general of Volunteers May 27, 1898; honorably discharged from Volunteers Nov. 30, 1898; brigadier-general U. S. Army April 21, 1903, and was retired by operation of law July 6, 1904. He served with efficiency and gallantry throughout the Civil War; was brevetted captain May 27, 1862, for gallant and meritorious service in the battle of Hanover Court House, Va., major, July 4, 1863, for gallant and meritorious service during the siege of Vicksburg, Miss., and lieutenant-colonel March 13, 1865, for gallant and meritorious services during the war. General Hains is a companion of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion. Address: 1523 K Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

HALE, Clarence:

United States judge; born at Turner, Me., April 5, 1848; son of James Sullivan and Betsy (Staples) Hale. After graduation from Bowdoin College in 1869, he studied law in the office of his brother (now United States senator), Eugene Hale, and was admitted to the bar in 1871, practising in Portland, Me., until 1902. He was city solicitor of Portland, 1879-1882, a member of the Maine Legislature, 1883-1886, and in 1902 was appointed by President Roosevelt to his present office as U. S. district judge for the District of Maine. Address: Portland, Me.

HALE, Edward Everett, Jr.:

Professor of English; born in Boston, Feb. 18, 1863; son of the Edward Everett and Emily Baldwin (Perkins) Hale. He was educated in the Roxbury Latin School, Harvard College, A.B. in 1883, and from the University of Halle received the Ph.D. degree in 1892. He was instructor in English, 1886-1889, and acting assistant professor of English, 1889-1890, at Cornell; Harris fellow of Harvard University, 1890-1891; professor of English in the State University of Iowa, 1892-1895; and after that professor of rhetoric and logic there, 1893-1903. Since 1903 he has been professor of English in Union College. Dr. Hale is author of: Lowell, 1899; Dramatists of Today, 1905. Dr. Hale is president of the City Mission of Schenectady, a member of the Alpha Delta Phi fraternity, and of the Century Association of New York City. He married, June 15, 1893, Rose Postlethwaite Perkins, and they have three children. Address: Union College, Schenectady, N. Y.

HALE, Eugene:

U. S. senator; born in Turner, Oxford County, Me., in 1836. He received an academic education; studied law in a country law office, and began practice at the age of twenty. He was county attorney of Hancock County, Me., for nine years, and after three terms in the Maine Legislature was elected to the Forty-first Congress, and has been a member of every Congress since that time, either as a representative or a senator. That Senator Hale has consistently chosen a career as a legislator is evidenced by his declination of posts in the Cabinets of successive Presidents. He was offered the postmaster-generalship by President Grant, and the secretaryship of the Navy by President Hayes, both of which he declined. He took a leading part in the investigation which followed the election of 1876, and was chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee for the Forty-fifth Congress. No outside interest has, however, interfered with his consistent pursuit of his duties as a legislator or with his services in the Senate in behalf of the Navy of the United State. It is in this latter capacity that Senator Hale is best known to the country. As chairman of the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs, it has been his part to very largely shape the naval policy of the United States. Opposing sudden influxes of large expenditure, he has stimulated interest in the naval arm at times when that interest on the part of the people generally was at a low ebb, and is recognized as the foremost naval authority of the United States in matters relating to the means for the support of the Navy and on questions of legislation referring to its matériel and personnel. While he has always been a staunch supporter of the Republican party and a recognized factor in its councils, Senator Hale has never surrendered his independence of thought, and notably, at the time of the impending war with Spain and of the discussion of questions relating to the Philippines, was outspoken in his views. Residences: Ellsworth, Me.; and Sixteenth and K Streets, Washington, D. C.

HALE, Frank Judson:

Manufacturer; born in Newton Upper Falls, Mass., Aug. 14, 1862; son of Amos Lamson and Tamson C. Hale. He was graduated from the Newton High School in 1880, and, while still a pupil, worked in the machine shop of Otis Pettee & Company, at Newton Upper Falls, while not at school. He has continued with the same establishment under its various changes of name, and is now president and a director of the corporation, Saco & Pettee Machine Works, with shops at Saco, Me., as well as at Newton Upper Falls, Mass. His other directorates include the Laurens Cotton Mills, Laurens, S. C.; Drayton Mills, Spartanburg, S. C.; the Bay State Cotton Co. and the Hunt-Spiller Manufacturing Corporation, Boston; Lincoln Manufacturing Co. and the Davis Mills, Fall River, Mass.; the Gainesville Cotton Mills, Gainesville, Ga.; and the Eastern Machinery Company, Newton Center Trust Company, Newtonville Trust Company, and Newton Center Savings Bank, all of the City of Newton. Mr. Hale served as a member of the Common Council of Newton, 1888-1889, and of the Newton School Board, 1890-1900. His club affiliations include the Home Market Club, of Boston, the Manufacturers' Club of Charlotte, N. C., and the Newton and Brae Burn Country Clubs of Newton, Mass. Mr. Hale married Grace Ella Herrick, and they have two children: Marjorie and Roger D. Residence: 1141 Walnut Street, Newton Highlands. Office: Newton Upper Falls, Mass.

HALE, George Ellery:

Astronomer and astrophysicist; born in Chicago, June 29, 1868; son of William E. and Mary S. Hale. He was graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, S.B., 1890; was a student in Harvard College Observatory, 1889-1890, and in the University of Berlin, 1893-1894. He was director of the Kenwood Observatory, 1890-1896; professor of astrophysics in the University of Chicago, 1892-1905; and has been non-resident professor of that University from 1905. He was director of the Yerkes Observatory at Lake Geneva, Wis., from its organization until 1905, when he undertook the organization of the Solar Observatory of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, at Mount Wilson, Calif., of which he is director. He invented and developed the spectroheliograph, and has made researches in solar and stellar physics and in general spectroscopy. He has received the honorary degrees of Sc.D. from the Western University of Pennsylvania, 1897; LL.D. from Beloit College, 1904; Sc.D. from Yale, 1905, and from the Victoria University of Manchester, England, 1907; from Oxford, England, 1909, the Janssen, Rumford, and Draper medals and the gold medal of the Royal Astronomical Society. Dr. Hale is foreign member of the Royal Society of London; correspondent of the Paris Academy of Sciences; a fellow and foreign associate of the Royal Astronomical Society of England; foreign member of the Società degli Spettroscopisti Italiana; member National Academy of Sciences, Astronomische Gesellschaft, Société Française de Physique; fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science; associate fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences; member of the American Philosophical Society, American Physical Society, the International Union for Coöperation in Solar Research, and the Solar and Radiation Commissions of the International Meteorological Committee. Dr. Hale is coeditor with E. B. Frost of the Astrophysical Journal, and has contributed numerous papers on spectroscopy and solar and stellar physics in the Astrophysical Journal, publications of the Yerkes Observatory, publications of the Carnegie Institution, and others. Dr. Hale married, in 1890, Evelina S. Conklin, of Brooklyn, and they have a son and a daughter. Address: Mt. Wilson Solar Observatory, Pasadena, Calif.

HALE, Ellen Day:

Artist, painter; born in Worcester, Mass., Feb. 11, 1855; daughter of the late Rev. Edward Everett and Emily Baldwin (Perkins) Hale. She was privately educated, and received her art education from teachers in the United States and in Paris, and establishing her studio in Boston where she has since been continuously engaged in painting portraits, landscapes and genre pictures. Her pictures have appeared in numerous exhibitions and she is represented in numerous private collections. Address: 39 Highland Street, Roxbury, Mass.

HALE, Irving:

Soldier and electrical engineer; born at North Bloomfield, N. Y., Aug. 28, 1861; son of Horace Morrison and Eliza (Huntington) Hale. The family removed to Colorado in 1865, and he attended school there until appointed to the U. S. Military Academy, from which he was graduated with high honors in 1884; and he served in the Engineer Corps until 1890, and was during his service engaged upon the various duties of an engineer officer, and for a time instructor of engineering at West Point. He resigned in 1890 to enter into civil life in the practice of electrical engineering, in which he attained marked distinction, and became manager for the Rocky Mountain District of the General Electric Company at Denver. He also became an active officer in the Colorado National Guard and was brigadier-general when, at the beginning of the war with Spain, he was commissioned colonel of the First Regiment of Colorado Infantry in the U. S. Volunteers. This regiment was engaged in the Philippines, and led the army at the capture of Manila, and President McKinley commissioned him as brigadier-general of U. S. Volunteers for gallant and distinguished service, and he afterward commanded the Second Brigade, Second Division of the Eighth Army Corps until the return of the volunteers in 1899. He was wounded in battle at Meycauayan, March 26, 1899, and was recommended for the brevet rank of major-general of Volunteers for gallant and meritorious services throughout the campaign against the Filipino Insurgents, and distinguished gallantry in action near Calumpit, Luzon, April 25, 1899. He was honorably discharged from the Volunteer service Oct. 1, 1899, and resumed his position as manager at Denver for the General Electric Company. General Hale is a life member of the Executive Committee and was formerly national president of the Society of the Army of the Philippines. He is also a member of various scientific and engineering societies, and received honorary degrees of E.E. from the Colorado State School of Mines, and LL.D. from the University of Colorado. He married, June 14, 1887, Mary Virginia, daughter of Lieutenant-Colonel William R. King, U. S. Army. Residence: 1430 Franklin Street. Office: Kittredge Building, Denver.

HALE, Ledyard Park:

Lawyer; born in Canton, N. Y., May 17, 1854; son of Horace W. and Betsey R. (Lewis) Hale. After attending public schools and Canton Academy, he entered St. Lawrence University, where he was graduated as B.S. in 1876; then attended the Law School of the University of Wisconsin, graduating as LL.B. in 1878, following which he was admitted to the bar in June, 1878, in Wisconsin, and in Sept., 1881, in New York. He was assistant district attorney of St. Lawrence County, 1882-1887, supervisor of Canton, 1890-1893; district attorney of St. Lawrence County, 1894-1899; was appointed county judge in Oct., 1902, and elected to the same position in 1903. He was a member of the Board of Education of Canton High School for eighteen years, and president of the board for eight years; has been a trustee of St. Lawrence University since 1884, and is a member of the Executive Committee of that institution. He was the successful prosecutor in the Burt murder case, a remarkable case of circumstantial evidence which attracted State-wide attention, in 1897-1898. Mr. Hale is a Republican in politics and was appointed commissioner of the State Board of Charities by Governor Hughes in May, 1907, and served until April, 1908, when he was appointed counsel to the Public Service Commission, Second District, and he is now serving in that office. He is a director of the First National Bank of Canton; member of Beta Theta Pi, and the National Geographic Society. He married, Canton, N. Y., May 21, 1879, Ettie Bacheller, and has two children. Address: Capitol, Albany, N. Y.

HALL, Adelaide S.:

Art connoisseur and promoter; born in Westmoreland, N. Y., Nov. 2, 1857; daughter of Schuyler and Susan (Waldo) Wade. After completing her general education in the Normal School at Buffalo, she pursued studies in oil and water color painting. She married in Buffalo, April 13, 1876, Herman J. Hall. Mrs. Hall has resided in Chicago since her marriage, and has taken an active part there and nationally in the promotion of art, especially in parks and public places. She founded in 1888 the Arché Club of Chicago and was its president until 1897, except one year, and founded in 1900, the Woman's Auxiliary of the American Park and Outdoor Art Association, which has been one of the most active factors in promoting improved conditions in public art, and was for the first three years its president. Mrs. Hall has served as chairman of the Art Committee of the General Federation and also of the Illinois State Federation of Women's Clubs; is an honorary member of the California Outdoor League, honorary member of the Park Board of Audubon Park in New Orleans, and has been an officer of Chicago Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution; now curator Chicago Academy of Fine Arts. Mrs. Hall is author of: Two Women Abroad, and of articles on art and travel. Address: 558 Dearborn Avenue, Chicago.

HALL, Arthur Crawshaw Alliston:

Bishop of Vermont; born at Binfield, Berkshire, England, April 12, 1847; son of Major William Thomas and Louisa Astley (Alliston) Hall. He was graduated (from Christ Church) at the University of Oxford, England, B.A., 1869, receiving M.A. in 1872. The degree of D.D. (honoris causa) was conferred upon him by the University of Oxford, 1893, by Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., 1894, and by Bishop's College, Lenoxville, Canada, 1894. He also received the degree of LL.D. in 1904 from the University of Vermont. In 1870 he took the orders of deacon of the Church of England as a member of the Society of St. John the Evangelist, and priest's orders a year later, both ordinations being by Bishop Mackarness of Oxford. For two years following his ordination to the priesthood he was a licensed preacher of the Diocese of Oxford, England, coming thence, in 1873, to the United States, to become assistant at the Church of the Advent, Boston, Mass. In 1881 he became priest in charge of the Mission of St. John the Evangelist. In 1891 he returned to England and for two years occupied his first position at Oxford. In 1894 he became Bishop of Vermont, being consecrated Feb. 2, by Bishops Neely, Niles, Coleman, Grafton, Lawrence and Lewis (Archbishop of Ontario). Bishop Hall is author of: Meditations on the Creed, 1876; Confession and the Lambeth Conference, 1879; The Virgin Mother, 1894; charge on The Church's Discipline Concerning Marriage and Divorce, 1896; charge on Prohibited Degrees, 1899; Companion to the Prayer Book, 1902; charge on Ecclesiastical Discipline, 1904; Notes on the Use of the Prayer Book, 1906; Christ's Temptation and Ours (Baldwin Lectures, 1896); The Use of Holy Scripture in the Public Worship of the Church (Paddock Lectures, 1903); The Christian Doctrine of Prayer (Bohlen Lectures, 1904); The Relations of Faith and Life (Bedell Lectures, 1905); Confirmation (in the Oxford Library of Practical Theology), 1904; The Example of Our Lord, Especially for His Ministers, 1906; Facts Affirmed by the Creed, 1907; charge on The Eucharist, 1907; and other publications. Address: Burlington, Vt.

HALL, Benjamin Mortimer:

Civil engineer; born in Fairfield County, S. C., Jan. 31, 1853. He was graduated from Georgia University, B.E., 1876; C. and M.E., 1885; 1876-1880, professor of mathematics in the North Georgia Agricultural College; 1880-1900, active in development of mines, quarries and water powers in Georgia and adjacent States; 1890-1902, senior member of the firm of Hall Brothers, consulting engineers, Atlanta; 1896-1903, hydrographer and consulting engineer United States Geological Survey; 1904 to June, 1907, supervising engineer United States Reclamation Service for New Mexico, Texas and Oklahoma; Then to Feb. 29, 1908, consulting engineer United States Reclamation Service, and since March 1, 1908, chief engineer of the Porto Rico Irrigation Service. He is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, and American Institute of Mining Engineers. He married Kate Chamberlin, and has two sons and a daughter. Address: United States Reclamation Service, Washington, D. C., and Guayama, Porto Rico, Temple Court, Atlanta, Ga.

HALL, Bolton:

Counsellor-at-law and author; born in Armagh, Ireland, Aug. 5, 1854; son of Rev. John Hall (D.D.) and Emily (Bolton) Hall. He was graduated from Princeton, A.B., 1875, A.M., 1878, and from Columbia Law School, LL.B., 1886. Mr. Hall is a lecturer on fundamental reforms and author of: Things as They Are; Game of Life; Monkey Shines (children's stories); Free America; Three Acres and Liberty (on intensive farming); A Little Land and a Living; and numerous contributions to magazines. He is treasurer and managing director of the Berkeley Heights Real Estate Association; was treasurer of the Longshoremen's Union, in 1896; founder and vice-president of the New York Tax Reform Association, and founder and treasurer of the New York Vacant Lots Gardens for the Unemployed. In political views he is a Single Taxer, and by religious connection a Presbyterian; and he is a member of the University Club of New York City. He married, Feb. 6, 1884, Susie Hurlbut Scott, and they have two children. Residence: 33 East 61st Street. Address: 56 Pine Street, New York City.

HALL, Charles Martin:

Manufacturer and inventor; born at Thompson, Ohio, Dec. 6, 1863; son of Rev. Heman B. and Sophronia (Brooks) Hall.

He was graduated from Oberlin College, A.B., 1885, and A.M., 1893. Mr. Hall invented in 1886 the process for manufacturing aluminum now in universal use, being the process known in Europe as Heroult process, invented by Paul Heroult about the same time. This material, formerly as costly as silver, and little used, is now bulk for bulk cheaper than any other metals, except iron, zinc and lead. He commenced the manufacture of aluminum with the Pittsburgh Reduction Company (now the Aluminum Company of America), and has been vice-president of that company since 1890. The validity of his patent was attacked, but was sustained by a decision of the U. S. Circuit Court in 1893. Mr. Hall is vice-president of the St. Lawrence River Power Company, Northern Aluminum Company of Canada, and director of the Power City Bank of Niagara Falls, N. Y. He is a member of the American Institute of Mining Engineers, American Philosophical Society, American Electrochemical Society, Institute of Engineers of Great Britain, the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York; trustee of Oberlin College, and president and trustee of the Niagara Falls Memorial Hospital. Mr. Hall was one of the one hundred "captains of industry" invited to meet Prince Henry of Prussia in New York City in Feb., 1902. He is a member of the University Club of Buffalo, and the University Club of New York City. Address: Niagara Falls, N. Y.

HALL, Edward Hagaman:

Writer and lecturer; born in Auburn, N. Y., Nov. 3, 1858; son of Chief Justice Benjamin F. and Abigail Farnam (Hagaman) Hall. He is of old English and Dutch ancestry. He was graduated from Auburn Academic High School as salutatorian (Classical Honor) in 1877. He received the honorary degree of Master of Letters from New York University in 1908. Mr. Hall was editor of the Norwich Morning Bulletin, 1877-1888, the Waterbury (Conn.) Republican, 1888-1889, and was correspondent of the New York Tribune several years prior to 1890, and later for a short time with its business department in

New York City. He was engaged as publisher, printer and writer in New York City, 1890-1900, and has been a writer, lecturer and executive secretary since 1900; is author of numerous books and monographs relating to American history, scenery, archaeology and biography; was special agent of the New York Commerce Commission, 1898-1899. He is now secretary of the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society, and the Association for the protection of the Adirondacks. He is also a trustee and the assistant secretary of the Hudson-Fulton Celebration Commission. In his politics he is a Republican, and in religion an Episcopalian. He is the governor of the New York Society of the Order of Founders and Patriots of America, and past deputy governor-general of the order; a governor of the National Arts Club of New York; second vice-president of the City History Club; past vice-president of the Sons of the American Revolution; captain of the Washington Continental Guards; sachem of the Society of Cayugas; vice-president of the American Flag Association; member of the Municipal Art Society, of the New York Historical Society, etc. Mr. Hall's favorite recreations are historical study on original sites in England, Holland and America, and archaeological work in the field. He married in Philadelphia, Feb. 7, 1893, Irene Gilbert Gazzam, and they have a daughter, Edwina Gazzam Hall. Residence: 60 Manhattan Avenue. Office: Tribune Building, New York City.

HALL, Florence Marion Howe:

Lecturer and author; born in Boston, Aug. 25, 1845; daughter of Dr. Samuel Gridley and Julia (Ward) Howe, both eminent philanthropists. She was privately educated, and in 1871 she was married to David Prescott Hall, a New York lawyer. She became a lecturer on her personal recollections of distinguished people, on the American Woman in the Twentieth Century, on manners, and art subjects, and has also written extensively, being author of the volumes: Social Customs; The Correct Thing; Social Usage at Washington; and Flossie's Playdays. She is also joint author with her sister, Maud Howe, of; Laura Bridgman, Dr. Howe's Famous Pupil. Mrs. Hall was the first chairman of correspondence for New Jersey of the General Federation of Women's Clubs; has been vice-president, director and chairman of the department of education of the New Jersey Federation of Women's Clubs. Like her parents, Mrs. Hall is an able champion of the cause of equal suffrage, was for seven years president and is now honorary president of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association. Address: Plainfield, N. J.

HALL, Frieda P. C.:

Playwright and composer; born in Berlin, Germany, Nov. 15, 1879; daughter of Morris and Antoinette (Von Nye) Cohen. Her education was chiefly by private instruction, but she also studied in Leipzig, Germany, and was graduated from the Ursuline Convent at Chatham, Ont., and received two medals for music. She married at Baton Rouge, La., Feb. 1, 1904, Arson Loftin Hall, dramatic critic of the Chicago Journal. Mrs. Hall is said to have been the first woman opera writer in the world, being the composer of "The Voyagers," of which she wrote the book, lyrics and music, also superintending the staging, designing costumes and rehearsing sixty chorus girls and supervising all details pertaining to its production at the La Salle Theatre, Chicago. She is composer and author of five hundred published compositions, sketches (musical and dramatic), newspaper and magazine articles and teacher of piano. She also fills frequent engagements for the arranging for amateur entertainments for societies, sororities, clubs, etc. Besides work in her own name she uses the pen names of Paul Lengly and O. L. Potter. Address: 434 East 65th Street, Chicago.

HALL, Gertrude:

Author; born in Boston, Sept. 8, 1863. She was educated in Florence, Italy, and has published several volumes of verse, including: Verses, 1890; Far from Today, 1892; Allegretto, 1894; Foam of the Sea, 1896; The Age of Fairy Gold, 1899; April's Sowing, 1900. She is also author of The Hundred, and Other Stories, 1898; The Wagnerian Romances, 1907; and translations into English of Rostand's Cyrano de Bergerac, and of the poems of Paul Verlaine; and she is a contributor of poems and short stories to magazines. Address: 1425 Broadway, New York City.

HALL, Granville Stanley:

President of Clark University; born in Ashfield, Mass., Feb. 1, 1846; son of Granville Bascom and Abigail (Beals) Hall. He was graduated from Amherst College, A.B., 1867, A.M., 1870; and subsequently studied philosophy and psychology in the Universities of Bonn, Berlin, Heidelberg and Leipzig. He was professor of psychology Antioch College, Ohio, 1872-1876, and at various periods was lecturer on psychology in Harvard and Williams; became professor of psychology at Johns Hopkins University, 1881-1888, and since 1888 has been president and professor of psychology of Clark University. He founded and is editor of the American Journal of Psychology, and is also editor of The Pedagogical Seminary and of the American Journal of Religious Psychology and Education. President Hall's original investigations in the field of psychology have been extensive and especially valuable, this being especially true with reference to his researches in the psychology of adolescence, in which special subject his two volume work, Adolescence, published in 1904, has taken foremost place as authority. Among his earlier books are: Aspects of German Culture, 1881; Hints Toward a Select and Descriptive Bibliography of Education (with John M. Mansfield), 1886; The Contents of Children's Minds on Entering School, 1894; and a later book is Youth: Its Education, Regimen and Hygiene, 1907. Address: Worcester, Mass.

HALL, Harry Alvan:

Jurist and author; born in Karthaus, Pa., Oct. 7, 1861; educated at Dickinson Seminary, University at Lewisburg, St. Gregory College, and Yale University; holds the degrees of A.B. and LL.B.; was admitted to the bar in June, 1881. Elected a member of the Pennsylvania Senate in 1890; appointed United States attorney for the Western District of Pennsylvania in 1893; reappointed in 1897 and resigned the same year. Mustered into the United States service for the Spanish-American War, May 10, 1898, as captain of Company H., Sixteenth Pennsylvania Infantry, United States Volunteers; served as judge advocate-general of the First Corps on the staff of General Wilson; was promoted major of his regiment for distinguished gallantry on the field at the battle of Coamo, Porto Rico, Aug. 9, 1903, and by general orders of Lieutenant-General Miles was sent to Washington to present the Spanish flags captured in that action to President McKinley. He was vice-commander-in-chief of the National Association of Spanish-American War Veterans; and commander-in-chief of the National Commandery, Naval and Military Order of the Spanish-American War; was delegate to Democratic Conventions of 1884 and 1888, and delegate-at-large in 1892; he was for thirteen years general counsel for the Austro-Hungarian Empire and the Kingdom of Italy in the United States, and was knighted by the Emperor of Austria with the officers' cross of the Order of Francis Joseph in 1905. Has been general counsel for several railroads, and made a specialty of railroad, corporation and international law; during his term as United States attorney was chosen by the Inter-State Commerce Commission to try the test cases under that act. He was elected president judge of the Twenty-fifth Judicial District of Pennsylvania in 1906. He is an author, linguist and traveler. He married, June 10, 1886, Currin, daughter of the late Colonel R. C. McNairy, of Nashville, Tenn. Address: Ridgway, Pa.

HALL, James Parker:

Dean of the University of Chicago Law School; born in Frewsburg, N. Y., 1871; son of Edward L. and Charlotte (Parker) Hall. He was graduated from Cornell University, A.B., 1894, and from the Law School of Harvard University, LL.B., cum laude, in 1897. He was admitted to the New York bar in 1897; practised at Buffalo, 1897-1900; was lecturer in Buffalo Law School, 1898-1900; associate professor of law at Leland Stanford, Jr., University, 1900-1902, and has been professor of law in the University of Chicago since 1902, and its dean since 1904. In politics he is an Independent Republican. Mr. Hall is a member of the American Bar Association, the Phi Beta Kappa Society, and the Quadrangle, City and Law Clubs of Chicago. He married at Buffalo, N. Y., in 1900, Evelyn H. Movius, and they have two children. Address: 202 Forest Avenue, Jamestown, N. Y., or University of Chicago Law School, Chicago.

HALL, Ruth:

Author; born in Schoharie, N. Y.; daughter of Joseph B. and Margaret (Donaldson) Hall. She was educated in a private school in Catskill, N. Y. Miss Hall's first books were for boys, including: In the Brave Days of Old; The Boys of Serooby; and The Golden Arrow. She is also author of the novels: The Black Gown; The Downrenter's Son, and The Pine Grove House, and of much magazine work. She is a member of The Authors' League of the Committee of One Hundred. Address: Catskill, Greene County, N. Y.

HALL, Violette:

Author; born in Schoharie, N. Y.; daughter of Joseph B. and Margaret (Donaldson) Hall. She was educated in a private school at Catskill, N. Y. She is author of Chanticleer; and is a contributor of stories to the magazines. Address: Catskill, Greene County, N. Y.

HALL, William Phillips:

Inventor, signal engineer, business-man, evangelist; born, Stamford, Conn., Feb. 1, 1864; son of Thomas Shepard and Sarah Catharine Hall; educated in public schools; prepared for college course, but did not enter. Learned trade of electrical machinist; was one of the first railway signal engineers in United States; organized present Hall Signal Company, in Oct., 1889, and became its president; under his supervision the company has instituted many of the most important block signal installations on the railroads of the United States, notably that on the Illinois Central Railroad for the Columbian Exposition traffic in the city of Chicago, where, during the six months of the exposition, 19,500,000 passengers were carried under the protection of the system without an accident. He is president of the Hall Signal Company, director of the Continental Hall Signal Company, of Brussels, Belgium, director of New York Real Estate Security Co. Republican. Member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Director Long Island Assembly; director Montrose Bible Conference. Member of the American Railway Signal Association, American Railway Appliance Association, New York Board of Trade and Transportation, etc.; past master Acacia Lodge, No. 85, F. and A. M., Greenwich, Conn., Rittenhouse Chapter, No. 11, Stamford, Conn., Palestine Commandery, No. 18, Knights Templar, New York City; president of the American Tract Society; Bible League of North America; vice-president World's Christian Endeavor Union; manager of the American Bible Society, Methodist Episcopal Hospital, Brooklyn; president of the Evangelistic Commission, New York East Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church; member of the Advisory Committee of the Commission on Evangelism, Methodist Episcopal Church. He married, at Bristol, Conn., Oct. 4, 1887, Charlotte Sophia Hollister. Children: William Phillips, Jr., Lyman Hollister, Melville Phillips, Theodore Dana, Thomas Shepard, Dorothy Catherine, Mary Phillips, Charlotte Hollister, Margaret Frances. Address: 25 Broad Street, New York City.

HALL, William Preble:

Brigadier-General U. S. Army; born in Missouri, June 11, 1848. He was appointed from Missouri as cadet at the U. S. Military Academy, Sept. 1, 1864, was graduated and commissioned second lieutenant of the 19th Infantry, June 15, 1868. He was assigned to the Fifth Cavalry, July 14, 1869, promoted first lieutenant, July 1, 1876; captain, March 8, 1887; major and assistant adjutant-general, Nov. 6, 1893; lieutenant-colonel, assistant adjutant-general, Sept. 11, 1897; colonel, assistant adjutant-general, April 18, 1901; and promoted brigadier-general, April 23, 1904, and assigned to duty as one of the military secretaries. During the earlier years of his service he was engaged against Indians on the frontier, including the Apaches in Arizona under Crook in the early seventies, the Sioux campaign in Northern Wyoming, the Big Horn and Yellowstone Expedition of 1876 and others; and was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor for most distinguished gallantry in action near camp on White River, Colo., Oct. 20, 1879, when, as first lieutenant of the Fifth Cavalry, in command of a reconnoitering party of three men, and while going to the rescue of a brother officer who had been attacked by Indians, was himself attacked by about thirty-five warriors. During the engagement he several times exposed himself in order to draw the fire of his assailants and locate their position so that his small party could reply with effect. He was adjutant-general of Porto Rico in 1899 and 1900. General Hall is a distinguished marksman and has won various prizes for marksmanship. Address: Adjutant-General's Department, Washington.

HALL, Winfield Scott:

Physician, author, teacher and lecturer; born at Batavia, Ill., Jan. 5, 1861; son of Albert Nelson and Adelia (Foote) Hall. He was graduated from Northwestern University, B.S. in 1887. M.D., 1888; from the University of Leipzig, M.D., 1894, A.M., Ph.D., 1895. He was interne of Mercy Hospital, Chicago, 1888-1889; instructor of biology, Haverford College, Pa., 1889-1893; student in Leipzig, 1893-1895; professor of physiology at the Northwestern University Medical School since 1895, and junior dean of the faculty since 1901. He is lecturer on dietetics, digestion and metabolism in Mercy Hospital, Chicago, and in Wesley Hospital; also lecturer on the physiology of muscular exercise at the Young Men's Christian Association Institute and Training School. He is author of: Text-Book of Physiology; Manual of Experimental Physiology; Reproduction and Sexual Hygiene, in 1906. Dr. Hall is a fellow of the American Academy of Medicine, American Association for the Advancement of Science, Chicago Academy of Sciences; member of the American Medical Association, American Physiological Society, Phi Kappa Psi, Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi, Nu Sigma Nu, and Alpha Omega Alpha fraternities. He married at Juniata, Neb., Oct. 11, 1888, Jeanette Winter, and they have four children: Ethel, Albert Winter, Raymond Ludwig, and Muriel. Residence: 3136 Ivison Avenue, Berwyn, Ill. Office: Northwestern University Medical School, Chicago.

HALLS, William, Jr.:

Banker; born in Brooklyn, Aug. 4, 1858; son of William and Lavinia M. (Plows) Halls. He was educated in the German Commercial Institute, Brooklyn. Mr. Halls was formerly vice-president of the Hanover National Bank, and is still a director, but resigned as vice-president (rose from messenger in bank to vice-president). He was for a short period, 1881-1882, with the stock brokerage firm of Prince & Whitely. He acquired with others, the Union College holdings of real estate in Long Island City in 1898 and organized the New York Land and Warehouse Company; reorganized the Elyton Land Company of Birmingham, Ala., and established the Birmingham Realty Company. He is a director of the Irving National Exchange Bank, and Flatbush Trust Company; vice-president and director of The Summit (N. J.) Bank, the Birmingham (Ala.) Realty Company; president and director of the New York Land and Warehouse Company; vice-president and manager of the Brooklyn Methodist Episcopal Hospital. He is a Republican and a Methodist. Mr. Halls is a member of the New York City Chamber of Commerce, the Lawyers', and Canoe Brook Club, and the Highland (N. J.) Club. He married in Brooklyn, Oct. 14, 1879, Sarah W. Whitaker. Residence: 2 Beckman Road, Summit, New Jersey.

HALSEY, Francis Whiting:

Editor and author; born at Unadilla, N. Y., Oct. 15, 1851; son of Gaius Leonard and Juliet (Carrington) Halsey. He was educated in Unadilla Academy, and Cornell University, being graduated B.S. with a prize for an essay in English literature. Mr. Halsey was assistant editor of the Binghamton Times, 1873-1875; assistant day editor of the New York Tribune, 1875-1880; foreign editor of the New York Times, 1880-1891; literary editor of the New York Times, 1891-1896; editor of the New York Times Saturday Review from its first number, Oct. 10, 1896, until June, 1902. He was literary adviser of D. Appleton and Company, 1902-1905, and has been literary adviser of the Funk and Wagnalls Company since 1905. Mr. Halsey is author of: Two Months Abroad, 1878; The Old New York Frontier, 1891; Virginia Isabel Forbes (memoir of his wife), privately printed, 1900; Our Literary Deluge, 1902; The Pioneers of Unadilla Village, 1902. He is also editor of American Authors and Their Homes, 1901; Authors of Our Day in Their Homes, 1902; Women Authors of Our Day in Their Homes, 1902; of The Making of a Book, 1904; Mrs. Rowson's Charlotte Temple, 1905; Richard Smith's Tour of Four Great Rivers, 1905; associate editor of The World's Famous Orations, 10 volumes, 1906 (of which William J. Bryan was editor-in-chief), of which 1,650,000 volumes have been printed; associate editor of The Best of the World's Classics, 10 volumes (of which Henry Cabot Lodge was editor-in-chief), 1909. Mr. Halsey has lectured before the New York and New Jersey Historical Societies, the Students of Columbia and Princeton Universities, hautauqua, and other bodies, on literary and historical subjects, and delivered historical anniversary addresses at Coopertown, the Wyoming Massacre Monument and other places. He is a trustee of the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society, the City History Club, and the New York State Historical Association; is a member of the American Historical Association, the New York Library Association, Municipal Art Society, Otsego Society and the Century, Authors, National Arts, and Cornell University Clubs. He married in New York City, December, 1883, Virginia Isabel Forbes, who died Jan. 13, 1899. Club Address: 7 West 43d Street. Office: 44 East 23d Street, New York City.

HALSTEAD, Albert:

Consul, journalist; born in Cincinnati, Ohio, Sept. 19, 1867; son of the late Murat Halstead, the distinguished journalist, and of Mary (Banks) Halstead. After a careful preparatory education he entered Princeton University, from which he was graduated as A.B. in the class of 1889. He was Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette, 1891-1896; editor of the Springfield Union, of Springfield, Mass., 1896-1899; Washington correspondent of the Brooklyn Standard Union, and the Philadelphia Evening Telegraph, 1900-1906, and writer on various magazines and periodicals. He was colonel and aide-de-camp on the staff of Governor William McKinley, of Ohio, and took an active part in Ohio politics as a Republican. On the resignation of his brother, Marshall Halstead, on April, 1906, of the position of consul to Birmingham, England, which he had held for nine years, Albert Halstead was appointed to succeed him to that post, which he still holds. He is a member of the Chevy Chase Club of Washington, D. C., and the Cosmopolitan Club of Birmingham, England. Mr. Halstead married in Washington, Dec. 8, 1906, Aline Wilcox, and they have three children. Address: American Consulate, Birmingham, England.

HALSTEAD, Albert Edward:

Surgeon; born in Ottawa, Ont., April 21, 1868; son of William S. and Sara (Gibbons) Halstead. He was graduated from the schools of his native place and chose the medical profession. He entered the Northwestern University Medical School and was graduated with the degree of M.D. in 1890. Immediately after his graduation he received the appointment of interne in the Cook County Hospital, serving as such for two years. He established himself in general practice in the City of Chicago, where he has been continuously since, having become a specialist in surgery. He has been the attending surgeon of the Cook County Hospital for fifteen years; was formerly professor of anatomy and surgery in the Northwestern University Medical College, and is now professor of surgery in the Northwestern University Medical School, and attending surgeon in the Cook County, St. Luke's Hospitals. He was made a life member of the Chicago Medical Society, and president and fellow of the Chicago Surgical Society. He married at Sturgeon Bay, Wis., Feb. 1, 1893, Mary S. Cochems, and has two daughters; Lucille Maria, and Alice Dorothea. Residence: 2937 Indiana Avenue. Office: 103 State Street, Chicago.

HAMERSLEY, William:

Jurist; born in Hartford, Conn., Sept. 9, 1838; son of William James and Laura S. (Cooke) Hamersley. He was graduated from Trinity College, Hartford, 1858, and has received its degrees of M.A. and LL.D. He was admitted to the Hartford County Bar in 1859; was State's attorney for Hartford County, 1868-1888; judge of the Superior Court, 1893-1894; associate justice of the Supreme Court of Errors of Connecticut 1894, until Sept., 1908, when he retired under constitutional age limitation. He is a Democrat and an Episcopalian. He married in Old Saybrook, Conn., Oct. 25, 1882, Jane, daughter of John Allen, and has a daughter and a son. Residence: 180 Farmington Avenue. Office: 739 Main Street, Hartford, Conn.

HAMILL, Charles Humphrey:

Lawyer; born in Chicago, Ill., March 20, 1868; son of Charles Davison and Susan (Walbridge) Hamill. After graduation from Yale University as A.B. in 1890, he remained there as Larned and Clark Scholar, 1890-1891, and then attended the Law School of Northwestern University, graduating as LL.B. in 1893. He began his legal work with Williams, Holt and Wheeler (lawyers), 1891-1897; was in practice alone May-December, 1897; member of the firm of Hubbard and Hamill, 1897-1898, Hamill and McLaren, June-December, 1898; then of Deneen and Hamill from December, 1898, to October, 1905 (his partner being Charles S. Deneen, now governor of Illinois), and since then of Rosenthal and Hamill, his partner being Lessing Rosenthal. He is a member of the bar of the Supreme Court of the United States. Mr. Hamill is a member of the American Bar Association, Illinois State Bar Association, Chicago Bar Association, and Chicago Law Institute; is a trustee of the Orchestral Association (Chicago Orchestra); member of the Psi Upsilon fraternity, Phi Beta Kappa Society, and Scroll and Key (Yale). He is president of the Second Ward Republican Club, and is attorney for the Illinois Insurance Department. He is a member of the Chicago, University, Hamilton, Law, Chicago Golf, South Shore Country, and City Clubs of Chicago, and the Graduates' Club of New Haven. Residence: 2227 Prairie Avenue. Office: 134 Monroe Street, Chicago.

HAMILTON, Allan McLane:

Physician; born in Brooklyn, Oct. 6, 1848; son of Philip Hamilton (youngest son of Alexander Hamilton of Revolutionary fame) and Rebecca (McLane) Hamilton. He was graduated from the Medical Department of Columbia University, M.D., 1870. Dr. Hamilton was president of the New York Psychiatric Society and is professor of mental diseases in Cornell University Medical College, and specialist in mental and nervous diseases. His opinion has been sought in the past twenty-five years in determining the sanity of many noted criminals, notably in the cases of Guiteau and Czolgosz, the assassins of Garfield and McKinley, and the more recent Harry Thaw case. He is consulting neurologist to Manhattan State Hospital. Dr. Hamilton is a member of the American Neurological Association; fellow of the Royal Society of Edinburgh, and a member of the University and Manhattan Clubs. He married in Sioux Falls, S. Dak., in 1902, May C. Tomlinson, and they have one son. Address: 25 Madison Avenue, New York City.

HAMILTON, John William:

Methodist Episcopal bishop; born at Weston, Va., March 18, 1845. He was graduated from Mount Union College, Alliance, Ohio, 1865; then entered upon the conference studies of the Methodist-Episcopal Church, and entered the ministry in the Pittsburgh Annual Conference in April, 1868, as deacon and was appointed to the Newport (Ohio) charge. The same year he was transferred to the New England Conference, and he was ordained elder in 1870. He was a student in the Theological Department of Boston University while filling preacher appointments, and was graduated in 1871; and afterward filled various pulpits in that conference. He founded the People's Church in Boston, of which he was pastor for nine years, and in 1892 he was elected secretary of the Freedman's Aid and Southern Education Society and editor of the Christian Educator. He was elected by the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church to the office of bishop in 1900. He has been a member of each of the quadrennial general conferences of his church from and including that of 1884; was a member of the Ecumenical Methodist Conferences in Washington in 1891 and London in 1901, and fraternal delegate to the English and Irish Conferences in 1898. Bishop Hamilton is an extensive contributor to the literature of the church. He married at Covington, Ky., in 1873, Julia Elizabeth Battelle, who died in 1883, and in 1888 he married at Buffalo, N. Y., Emma Lydia Battelle. Address: 435 Buchanan Street, San Francisco, Calif.

HAMLIN, Alfred Dwight Foster:

Architect, professor of architecture; born at Rebek, near Constantinople, Turkey, in September, 1855; son of Cyrus (D.D. LL.D.) and Harriet Martha (Lovell) Hamlin. He was educated in Robert College, Constantinople (preparatory course), Amherst, B.A., 1875, M.A., 1885, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 1876-1877; École des Beaux Arts, Paris, 1878-1881. Since 1883 he has been engaged in teaching and in the practice of architecture; and is consulting expert to many public boards, institutions and other bodies. Since 1883, in School of Architecture, Columbia University as special assistant, 1883, assistant, 1887-1889, assistant professor, 1889-1891, adjunct professor, 1891-1904, and since 1904 professor history of architecture and head of School of Architecture. He is author of: History of Architecture, 1896; European and Japanese Gardens (in collaboration with others), 1902; Cyrus Hamlin, Missionary, 1903; also numerous articles in magazines and encyclopedias, technical and general. Mr. Hamlin is a corresponding member of the American Institute of Architects; honorary member of the Society of Columbia University Architects; Alpha Delta Phi (Amherst chapter), and the Century Association of New York City. He married in Hartford, Conn., June 4, 1885, Minnie Florence Marston; and they have two sons and two daughters. Address: 105 Morningside Avenue, East, New York City.

HAMLIN, Charles:

Lawyer and volunteer brigadier-general; born at Hampden, Me., Sept. 13, 1837; son of Hannibal Hamlin, who was vice-president of the United States 1861-1865. After graduation from Bowdoin College in 1857 he engaged in the practice of law until the Civil War began, when he engaged in recruiting service. In August, 1862, he was commissioned major in the 18th Maine Infantry, and later held that rank in the 1st Maine Regiment of Heavy Artillery; resigned to go into the field, and was appointed assistant adjutant-general of U. S. Volunteers; was assistant adjutant-general of the Second Division of the Third Corps, participated in Gettysburg and various other battles and was brevetted brigadier-general of volunteers, remaining in the service until the close of the war. After that he resumed the practice of law in Bangor, Me., where he continues. He is a Republican in politics, was twice elected to the Maine Legislature, and was speaker of that body in 1885. He has been city solicitor of Bangor, reporter of the Maine Supreme Court and for many years register in bankruptcy, becoming a special expert in that branch of the law and writing a work on the Insolvent Laws of Maine. General Hamlin is chairman of the Executive Committee of the Maine Gettysburg Commission; is a member and has been commander of the Maine Commandery of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion, and he is president of the Eastern Maine General Hospital. Address: Bangor, Me.

HAMLIN, Charles Summer:

Lawyer; born in Boston, Aug. 30, 1861; son of Edward Summer and Anna Gertrude (Conroy) Hamlin. He was graduated from Harvard, A.B., 1883, A.M., 1886, and received from Washington and Lee University the degree of LL.D. in 1895. Mr. Hamlin was assistant secretary of the U. S. Treasury from 1893 to 1897; special commissioner of the United States to Japan in 1897; U. S. delegate to the Convention between Russia, Japan and the United States to consider the Fisheries of the North Pacific Ocean in 1897; and U. S. delegate to the convention between Great Britain, Canada, and the United States on the Fisheries dispute in 1897. He was a member of the Paris Exposition commission from Massachusetts and was a lecturer on government at Harvard University, 1902-1903. He is a trustee of the Massachusetts School for the Feeble Minded, and a member of the Patrons of Husbandry (Grange). Mr. Hamlin married in Albany, N. Y., June 4, 1898, Huybertie Lansing Pruyn, and they have a daughter. Residence: 2 Raleigh Street. Office: 14 Beacon Street, Boston.

HAMMERSTEIN, Oscar:

Theatrical manager and operatic impresario; born in Berlin, Germany, in 1847. He came to America in 1863 and made his living as a cigar maker, inventing and patenting many labor-saving devices in this industry. In 1868 he wrote three one-act comedies and they were successfully produced at one of the German theatres in New York. In 1870 he started as a theatrical manager, unsuccessfully, however, from a financial point of view. In 1880 he built the Harlem Opera House. Later he built the Columbus Theatre in Harlem, the Manhattan Opera House, which afterwards became Koster and Bial's Music Hall, and the Olympia, now the New York music hall, which was taken from him by the New York Life Insurance Company on a mortgage for $900,000. Since then he has built four more theatres in New York, the Victoria, which he now manages, the Belasco Theatre and the New Opera House where he inaugurated annual seasons of grand opera with much success in the winter of 1906-1907. He inaugurated the enterprise of building a home for grand opera in Philadelphia in a magnificent building which is now nearing completion, and has also arranged a Chicago season. Address: Hammerstein's Theatre, New York City.

HAMMOND, John Hays:

Mining engineer; born in San Francisco, March 3, 1855; son of Richard and Sarah Elizabeth (Hays) Hammond. He was graduated from the Sheffield Scientific School, Yale, Ph.B., 1876 (A.M., Yale); took a mining course at Royal School of Mines, Freiberg, Saxony; and has received the honorary degrees of Doctor of Engineering, Stevens Institute of Technology, 1896, and LL.D., St. John's College, June, 1907. Mr. Hammond was engaged as a special expert on the U. S. Geological Survey, 1880, examining California gold fields; later in Mexico. He has examined properties in all parts of the world; became consulting engineer for Barnato Brothers, 1893, and later for Cecil Rhodes, of whom he became a strong supporter; was consulting engineer of the Consolidated Gold Fields of South Africa, British South Africa Company, and the Randfontein Estates Gold Mining Company. Mr. Hammond was one of the four leaders in the reform movement in the Transvaal, 1895-1896. After the Jameson Raid, an incident of the reform movement of which he was one of the leaders, but with which raid he was not in sympathy, he was arrested and sentenced to death; sentence was afterward commuted to fifteen years in prison, and he was later released on payment of fine of $125,000. He went to London and became interested in many large mining companies; returned to the United States and has traveled extensively, examining mines in the United States and Mexico. He took a prominent part in the political campaign of 1908, was prominently mentioned for the vice-presidency and was one of the leaders and advisers in the conduct of the Taft candidacy for the presidency. He has lectured at Columbia, Harvard, also Johns Hopkins Universities and the Stevens Institute of Technology; and is a contributor to scientific magazines. He was on the Advisory Committee of the National Republican organization in 1908, and is chairman of the Committee on Organization of the National Civic Federation. He is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and a member of the Metropolitan, Century, Engineers', Explorers', Racquet and Tennis, University, and New York Yacht Clubs of New York City, Chevy Chase, Cosmos, and Metropolitan Clubs of Washington; Country Club of Lakewood, N. J., University and Denver Clubs of Denver; Union and University Clubs of Boston; University Club of Salt Lake City; University, and Pacific Union Clubs of San Francisco; the University Club of Chicago, and the Carlton Club of London. He married, Jan. 1, 1880, Natalie Harris, of Mississippi, and they have four sons and a daughter. Residence: Gloucester, Mass. Office: 71 Broadway, New York City.

HAMMOND, Winfield Scott:

Lawyer; born at Southboro, Mass., Nov. 17, 1863; son of John W. and Ellen (Harding) Hammond. He was graduated from Dartmouth College in 1884, and was admitted to the bar in 1891, after being principal of the high school at Mankato, Minn., 1884-1885, and superintendent of schools at Madelia, Minn., 1885-1890. He was Democratic candidate for Congress in 1892, but was defeated by J. T. McCleary, in the Second Minnesota District. Mr. Hammond has practised law in Watonwan County, Minn., from the date of his admission, and is now in partnership with R. H. Burns. He was county attorney for Watonwan County, Minnesota, 1894-1896, and 1901-1905, and has been a member of the Minnesota State Normal School Board since 1899. He was elected a member of the Sixtieth Congress in 1906, and reelected in 1908 to the Sixty-first Congress. He is a Democrat in politics. Address: Park Hotel, St. James, Minn.

HANCHETT, Henry Granger:

Pianist and teacher of music; born in Syracuse, N. Y. Aug. 29, 1853. He attended the Syracuse Classical School and the Medical Department of Syracuse University, graduated as M.D. from the New York Homœopathic Medical College in 1884, and is the author of: The Elements of Modern Domestic Medicine; Sexual Health and other Medical publication. He studied music under Dr. Mason, A. K. Virgil and other prominent teachers, and since 1876 has been engaged in teaching music and lecturing in a large number of institutions. He invented the Sostenuto Pedal for pianos in 1873. He was the founder, with Gerrit Smith, and organizing secretary, of the American Guild of Organists, in 1896. He is the author of "The Art of the Musician" and "Teaching as a Science." He is Fellow of New York Academy of Anthropology, professor in Metropolitan College of Music of the University of the State of New York, professor in Adelphi College, New York, and professor in the National Park Seminary, Washington. He is a member of the Music Teachers' National Association, the New York County and State Homœopathic Medical Societies, the Sons of the Revolution, American Historical Association, and the Manuscript Society. He was married in Dover, Del., June 22, 1886, to Ophelia Murphey. His second marriage, to Grace Mather, took place in New York on Feb. 22, 1898. He has three children. Residence: 2231 Q Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

HANCOCK, James Colt:

Physician; born in Fulton, N. Y., in 1865; son of Chauncey B. and Lema (Cole) Hancock. He was graduated from the College of Physicians and Surgeons (Columbia University), M.D. 1889. He was in Chambers Street Hospital a resident surgeon, 1889. New York Eye and Ear Infirmary, resident surgeon, 1890-1892; assistant surgeon, New York Eye and Ear Hospital to June, 1896. He began private practice in 1893. Dr. Hancock is a member of American Medical Association, New York State Medical Society, Kings County Medical Society, Brooklyn Ophthalmological Society (chairman 1908), Brooklyn Neurological Society, Associated Physicians of Long Island (secretary), Long Island Medical Society (ex-secretary), Brooklyn Pathological Society, Medical Society of Greater City of New York, Brooklyn Medical Library Association (charter member), Society Alumni New York Hospital, Alumni of the Omega Club of the College Physicians and Surgeons; life member of the Crescent Athletic Club, Brooklyn, and member of the Society of Sons of the Revolution. Dr. Hancock is professor of Diseases of the Eye at the Brooklyn Post-Graduate Medical School, Ophthalmic Surgeon to the Williamsburg Hospital and the Long Island State Hospital (Brooklyn), Consulting Ophthalmic Surgeon to the Howard Orphan Asylum and the Bedford Dispensary. He has contributed to medical journals articles on Headaches Due to Eye strain; Glaucoma; Trachoma; Ocular Hæmorrhage; Diseases of the Eye of Interest to the General Practitioner and the Eye Symptoms of Bright's Disease, successful operation for the removal of a dislocated lens. Dr. Hancock invented trachoma forceps. He married, Aug. 18, 1905, Florence Stevens Biddle, of New York. Address: 43 Cambridge Place, Brooklyn, N. Y.

HANEY, Elbridge:

Lawyer; born in Wisconsin, March 15, 1852; son of William and Mary (Walls) Haney. After completing his education in common schools and academy, he studied law, and was admitted to practice in Illinois. He engaged in the general practice of law in Chicago until elected judge of the Circuit Court of Illinois in Cook County in December, 1893, and he was reelected in June, 1897, his term expiring in 1903. He was appointed judge of the Superior Court in January, 1904, afterward resuming the practice of law in which he is now engaged. Judge Haney is a prominent and active Republican, and in religious affiliation is an Episcopalian. He is a member of the Union League Club, Chicago Athletic Association, Middyay Club, South Shore Country Club, Chicago Commercial Association and the Gentleman's Riding and Driving Club. He married in Chicago, March 1, 1876, Sarah Barton, and they have seven children. Residence: 3116 Michigan Avenue. Office: First National Bank Building, Chicago.

HANLY, J. Frank:

Lawyer and ex-governor; born in St. Joseph, Ill., April 4, 1863; son of Elijah and Anna E. Hanly. He was educated in the public schools of Champaign County, Ill., and afterward engaged in teaching country schools in Indiana. He was admitted to the bar April 6, 1889; elected to the State Senate, 1890, serving one term; elected to congress in 1894; was elected governor of the State of Indiana, 1904, for the term which expired Jan. 19, 1909, and resumed the practice of law. Address: Indianapolis, Ind.

HANNA, Meredith:

Lawyer; born in Philadelphia, Oct. 27, 1874; son of William B. and Mary V. (Hopper) Hanna. After his graduation from William Penn Charter School, in Philadelphia in 1891, he entered the University of Pennsylvania, where he received the degree of B.S. in 1895 and that of LL.B. in 1898. He enlisted in Battery A, Pennsylvania Volunteer Artillery in June, 1898, served in Porto Rico under General Fred D. Grant in the Army of Occupation, and was mustered out in November, 1898. Since then he has been practising law in Philadelphia. He is a member of the Pennsylvania Bar Association, and the Law Association of Philadelphia; treasurer of the Pennsylvania Working Home for Blind Men, solicitor for the Young Women's Christian Association of Philadelphia, clerk and trustee of Epiphany Baptist Church; a member of Phi Kappa Psi fraternity, the Pennsylvania Society of the Sons of the Revolution, Netherlands Society, St. Andrew's Society, the Sharswood Law Club and Lodge 51, F. and A. M., and the Penn and University Clubs of Philadelphia. He married, April 20, 1908, Marion Wiltbank Clark. Residence: 2414 Spruce Street. Office address: 1420 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

HANSBOROUGH, Henry Clay:

United States senator; born in Prairie du Rocher, Randolph County, Ill., Jan. 30, 1848; son of Eliot and Sarah (Hagen) Hansborough; a descendant of John Hansborough who came from England and settled in Virginia in 1640. His parents moved from Kentucky to Illinois in 1846; and the son was brought up upon the farm, and educated in the common schools. He removed with his parents to California in 1866, learned the trade of a printer in the office of the San Jose Mercury, and was a partner in publishing a daily paper in San Jose in 1869. He was employed in the printing department of the San Francisco Chronicle, 1870-1872, was telegraph editor and later assistant managing editor of the same paper, 1872-1879, engaged in newspaper work in Wisconsin in 1880, and in 1880 went to Dakota Territory. There he continued in active newspaper work until 1888. He was elected the first representative from North Dakota, in the Forty-first Congress, 1889-1891, was elected U. S. senator, Jan. 23, 1891, and he was reelected in 1897 and in 1903; his last term expired in 1909, as he was defeated for reelection in the primaries of 1908. He was a delegate to the National Republican Convention of 1888, and was National Committeeman from North Dakota, 1888-1896. Senator Hansborough has been twice married, first to Josephine Orr, who died in January, 1895, and second, in 1897, to Mary Berri Chapman, of Washington, D. C. Residence: Devils Lake, N. Dak.

HANSEN, George:

Landscape architect; born in Hildesheim, Germany, April 15, 1863. He was graduated from the Royal Horticultural College at Potsdam, Berlin. Mr. Hansen was the first, and so far the only one to classify the Orchid Hybrids, a work considered monumental by its critics; and is author of:

What is a Kindergarten?, setting forth that America owes the world the supplementing of the Froebel Garten, by the actual setting of a Kindergarten home in garden surroundings. He has pictured the first one thousand days of the life of a natural child in three thousand photographs; proving that it is the adult who mars "His image and likeness" to which a child is born. These pictures depict moods of the child, being sets of about twelve photographs. The child up to that age was never interfered with and never instructed, merely having the example of his parents before him. Address: Scenic Tract, Berkeley, Calif.

HANSON, James Christian Meinich:

Librarian; born in Norway, March 13, 1865. He was educated at Luther College, Decorah, Iowa, A.B., 1882. He pursued a course of study at Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, 1882-1884, and at Cornell University, where he held the Andrew D. White Fellowship in History from 1889 to 1890. In that year he was appointed to a position in the Newberry Library in Chicago, and was subsequently in charge of the catalog department of the Library of Wisconsin. He was appointed chief of the Catalog Division of the Library of Congress in 1897, which position he now holds. He has been chairman of the Catalog Rules Committee of the American Library Association since 1900, and edited the Anglo American Code of Catalog Rules in 1908, this publication constituting the first international agreement on matters of cataloging. He was delegate of the American Library Association to the Conference of the British Association at Glasgow in 1907. He is a member of the American Library Association and the American Bibliographical Society, being a member of the council of the latter society. He is also a member of the Kappa Sigma fraternity. He married at Chicago in 1892, Sarah Nelson, and has five sons. Address: 1244 Monroe Street, Brookland, D. C.

HANUS, Paul Henry:

Professor of education; born in Germany, March 14, 1855; son of Gustaf Hanus and Ida (Aust) Hanus. He was teacher of Denver High School, District No. 1, 1878-1879; instructor in the University of Colorado, 1879-1880; professor of mathematics, 1881-1886; principal of the Denver High School, District No. 2, 1886-1890; professor of pedagogy, State Normal School (Colorado), 1890-1891; assistant professor of education, Harvard University, 1891-1901; professor since 1901. Professor Hanus is a member of the National Society of College Teachers of Education, New England Society of College Teachers of Education; chairman of the Massachusetts State Commission on Industrial Education (for five years from 1906); secretary of the Harvard Teachers' Association since 1892; Advisory Committee for the Young Men's Christian Association Preparatory School, Boston, and Boston Trade School for Girls. He is a member of the Boston City and Economic Clubs of Boston, Cambridge Club, Oakley Country Club of Watertown, Mass., and the Massachusetts Schoolmasters' Club. He is author of: Elements of Determinants, 1886; Geometry in the Grammar School, 1893; Educational Aims and Educational Values, 1899; A Modern School, 1904. Beginnings in Industrial Education (Houghton Mifflin & Co., 1908), and is a contributor to current periodicals and advisory editor of the School Review, Chicago. He married in Denver, Aug. 10, 1881, Charlotte Hoskins, and they have one daughter. Residence: 2 Berkeley Street, Cambridge, Mass. Office: Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass.

HAPGOOD, Hutchins:

Journalist, author; born in Chicago, May 21, 1869; son of Charles H. and Fanny Louise (Powers) Hapgood. He was educated in the public schools of Illinois, a year at University of Michigan and Harvard, A.B., 1892, A.M., 1897. He taught at Harvard, 1893; spent three years abroad, mostly in Germany; resided a short time in Japan; made a tour around the world; returned to America and became instructor at Harvard, and later in the University of Chicago. Since the fall of 1897, he has been occupied as journalist and writer; has contributed to many newspapers, magazines and reviews; and was on staff of New York Morning Telegraph, and he afterward became dramatic critic Chicago Evening Post. He is author of: Paul Jones, 1901; The Spirit of the Ghetto, 1902; The Autobiography of a Thief, 1903; The Spirit of Labor, 1907; An Anarchist Woman, 1909 (Duffield & Co.). He married, Mount Vernon, N. Y., June, 1899, Neith Boyce. Address: Care Duffield & Co., 36 East 21st Street, New York City.

HAPGOOD, Isabel Florence:

Author; born in Boston, Nov. 21, 1851; daughter of Asa and Lydia (Crossley) Hapgood. She was educated in Miss Sarah Porter's School, Farmington, Conn. Miss Hapgood is author of: The Epic Songs of Russia: Russian Rambles: A Survey of Russian Literature. She is also translator from Russian of L. N. Tolstoy's Childhood, Boyhood, Youth, Sevastopol, Life, What is to be Done?; of N. B. Gogol's Dead Souls, St. John's Eve and Other Tales, Sonya Kovalevsky; How Count Tolstoy Lives and Works; A. V. Verestchagin's "At Home and in War," Maxim Gorky's Foma Gordyeff; Orloff and His Wife; Works of Ivan Turgenieff (16 vols.) She was also compiler and translator of Service-Book of the Holy Orthodox Catholic-Apostolic (Græco-Russian) Church, 1906; translator from Italian of A. de Amicis' Cuore; from French of Victor Hugo's Les Misérables; Notre Dame of Paris; The Toilers of the Sea; The Man Who Laughs; Canon Joseph Roux's Thoughts; The Recollections and Letters of Ernest Renan; and Baron Pierre de Courbertin's Evolution of France Under the Republic; and from Spanish of Armando Palacio-Valdès' Faith and Origin of Thought. Address: Care of Charles Scribner's Sons, New York City.

HAPGOOD, Marshall Jay:

Financier, reformer and philanthropist; born in Peru, Vt., Jan. 13, 1850; son of Joseph Jackson and Hepsibah (Barnard) Hapgood. He was educated in Williams College, afterward taking an independent course in Harvard University and Law School. Since 1875 he has conducted a general store in Peru, Vt.; he has been engaged in extensive lumber operations, and since 1903 he has owned and conducted the Bromley House, a hotel to which Mr. Hapgood has attached an outside fireplace—the only one so attached known to exist. Mr. Hapgood served as a member of the Vermont House of Representatives in 1880, 1904 and 1906; was initiator of a plan for an adjourned session for the final passage of bills, as a means for the curtailment of excessive and hasty legislation. He is chairman of a committee appointed by the Governor and State Historical Society to devise a suitable memorial for Seth Warner and Remember Baker. Mr. Hapgood is a great lover and protector of wild animals, and is deeply interested in the preservation of our forests, and he attended, by special invitation, the three days' conference held at the White House in May, 1908, in reference to the preservation of the country's natural resources. He keeps a "lodge" in the wilderness open the year round for private use. He was a friend and fervent admirer of the late Rev. W. H. H. ("Adirondack") Murray, author, minister and lecturer, and is a director and the treasurer of the "Adirondack" Murray Memorial Association, the object of which is to perpetuate his memory as the leading exponent of outdoor life and educate his children. Mr. Hapgood believes in encouraging the native sons and daughters of Vermont to remain in the State, and he makes a deposit in a savings bank in Bennington, Vt., for every child born in the town of Peru. He has offered Mr. Bromley, a tract of 1,000 acres overhanging his native village to the State as a forest preserve, providing that all hunting be forbidden on the tract the year round. Mr. Hapgood married in Dorset, Vt., in June, 1875, Flora E. Huggins, and has two grown daughters and a little adopted son. Address: Peru, Vt.

HAPGOOD, Norman:

Author, journalist; born in Chicago, March 28, 1868; son of Charles H. and Fanny (Powers) Hapgood. He was graduated from Harvard as A.B. in 1890, and A. M. in 1893, and from Harvard Law School as LL.B. in 1893. He served for several years as dramatic critic of the New York Commercial Advertiser and The Bookman, and has been editor of Collier's Weekly since 1903. He is author of: Literary Statesmen, 1897; Daniel Webster, 1899; Abraham Lincoln, 1899; The Stage in America, 1901, and George Washington, 1901. Mr. Hapgood married in Chicago, June 17, 1896, Emilie Biglow. Address: 107 East 73d Street, New York City.

HARAHAN, James Theodore:

Railway official; born in Lowell, Mass., in 1843. He entered railway service in 1864 at Alexandria, Va., and was in the employ of the Orange and Alexandria Railroad for one year; was in the employ of the Nashville and Decatur Railroad at Nashville, Tenn., 1865-1866; and with the Louisville and Nashville Railroad in various capacities, 1866-1870. Mr. Harahan was in charge of the Shelby Railroad, 1870-1872; roadmaster of the Nashville and Decatur Railroad, 1872-1879; superintendent of the Memphis Line, Louisville and Nashville Railroad, 1879-1881; superintendent of the New Orleans Division, 1881-1883; general superintendent of the same road south of Decatur, 1883-1884; general manager of the entire line, July 1, 1884 to Jan. 1, 1885. On that date Mr. Harahan became general superintendent of the Pittsburgh division of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad; from April 1, to October, 1885, was assistant general manager of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, and after that was general manager of the same road until October, 1888, and then was successively assistant general manager of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railway, general manager of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, and general manager of the Louisville, New Orleans and Texas Railway, until Nov. 1, 1890, from which date he was second vice-president of the Illinois Central Railroad Company until Nov., 1906, from which date he has been president of the same road. Address: Illinois Central Railroad Company, Chicago.

HARAHAN, William Johnson:

Assistant to the president of the Erie Railroad; born in Nashville, Tenn., Dec.

22, 1867; son of James Theodore and Mary B. (Kehoe) Harahan. He was educated in St. John's College, New Orleans, and entered the service of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad in 1883 and served in minor positions until 1889. He was engineer of maintenance of way with the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, 1889-1890; engineer of bridges, Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern Railroad, 1890-1891; with Illinois Central Railroad, 1891-1907, as successively trainmaster, assistant superintendent, superintendent, chief engineer, assistant general manager, general manager and vice-president. Since 1907 he has held the office of assistant to president of the Erie Railroad. He is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, American Railway Engineering and Maintenance of Way Association, New York Railway Club, Central Railway Club, Traffic Club of New York and Traffic Club of Chicago. He is also a member of the Engineers and Railroad Clubs of New York, Chicago and Middy Clubs of Chicago, Tennessee Club of Memphis, Montclair and Upper Montclair Country Clubs of Montclair, N. J. Mr. Harahan married in Nashville, Tenn., June 10, 1890, Susan Smith, and has nine children. Residence: 111 South Fullerton Avenue, Montclair, N. J. Office: 50 Church Street, New York City.

HARBEN, William Nathaniel:

Author; born in Dalton, Georgia, July 5, 1858; son of Nathaniel Parks and Myra (Richardson) Harben. Mr. Harben was educated in the Crawford College and privately; traveled several years abroad and studied in Paris and London; was associate editor of The Youth's Companion, 1891-1893, and contributed short stories to the Century, Harper's Magazine; Saturday Evening Post. Mr. Harben is author of: White Marie, 1889; Almost Persuaded, 1890; A Mute Confessor, 1891; The Land of the Changing Sun, 1894; From Clue to Climax, 1901; The Caruthers Affair, 1898; The North Walk Mystery, 1899; The Woman Who Trusted, 1901; Westerfelt, 1901; Abner Daniel, 1902; The Substitute, 1903; The Georgians, 1904;

Pole Baker, 1905; Ann Boyd, 1906; Mam' Linda, 1907; Gilbert Neal, 1908. He is a member of the Authors Club. Mr. Harben married in Dalton, Georgia, July 3, 1896. Maybelle Chandler, and they have two sons. Address: Care Harper and Brothers, New York City.

HARDIN, Willett Lepley:

Director and member of the Executive Committee of the Mexican National Gas Company; born in Lima, Ohio, Dec. 8, 1868; son of John and Elizabeth (Jacobs) Hardin. He was graduated from Buchtel College, B.S., 1893, and from the University of Pennsylvania, Ph.D., 1896; was instructor in chemistry and physics at Buchtel College, 1893-1894; senior fellow in chemistry and lecturer in physical chemistry in the University of Pennsylvania, 1896-1899; instructor in physical and technical chemistry in the same university, 1899-1900. He was general manager of the Symmes Creek Coal Company, 1903-1907. He is author of: The Rise and Development of the Liquefaction of Gases (Macmillan Company), 1899; translated Traube's Physico-Chemical Measurements (P. Blackiston's Sons & Company), and has written articles in scientific journals, on The Atomic Masses of Silver, Mercury, Cadmium, Tungsten and Palladium, and on Derivatives of Palladium with Organic Bases. Dr. Hardin is a member of the American Chemical Society, and the National Geographic Society. He married in Greenwood, Miss., July 9, 1903, Isabella Moore Green, of Akron, Ohio. Residence: Mexico City, D. F., Mexico.

HARDING, John William:

Editor; born in London, England, 1864, and educated in London and Paris. He began his newspaper career in Paris on Galigani's Messenger. He was on the editorial staff of the New York Times, 1897-1907; and editor of the Discovery Magazine since the latter date. He is the author of: An Art Failure, 1896; The Strolling Piper of Brittany, 1897; A Conjuror of Phantoms, 1898; and The Gate of the Kiss, 1902. Besides being the author of the last named, he is a frequent contributor of short stories to the different magazines, and is the translator of the French volumes: Facing the Flag, by Jules Verne, 1897; Memoirs, Victor Hugo, 1899; and the Sacrifice of Silence, by Edouard Rod, in 1899. Residence: 122 West 91st Street. Office: 259 West 44th Street, New York City.

HARDWICK, Thomas William:

Congressman and lawyer; born in Thomasville, Ga., Dec. 9, 1872; son of Robert William and Zemula Schley (Matthews) Hardwick. He was graduated from Mercer University in 1892, and Lumpkin Law School, University of Georgia, in 1893. He served two terms in Georgia Legislature; was elected as a Democrat to the Fifty-eighth Congress without opposition, and reelected to the Fifty-ninth, Sixtieth and Sixty-first Congresses from the Tenth Georgia District. He married, April 25, 1894, Maude Elizabeth Perkins. Address: Sandersville, Ga.

HARDY, Alpheus Holmes:

Merchant; born in Boston, Mass., March 14, 1840; son of Hon. Alpheus Hardy and Susan Warner (Holmes) Hardy. He was prepared for college in the Boston public schools, Tower's Latin School and Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass., and was graduated from Harvard, A.B., 1861. After having served in the Civil War as first lieutenant of the 45th Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry, 1862-1863, he was engaged in business in India, returning to Boston two years later; and in 1866 he entered into partnership with his father in the mercantile house of Alpheus Hardy & Company, becoming the head of the firm in 1873. He was made vice-president of the Boston Board of Trade in 1881, and president in 1884, president of the Commercial Club of Boston, 1888-1890; chairman of the Merchants' Municipal Commission; member of the Commission for the Protection of the Adult Blind of the Cape Cod Board of Commissioners. In 1886 he became a trustee of Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass., its treasurer in 1889, and a trustee and treasurer of Wellesley College in 1894. He retired from active business July 1, 1890. He is a member of the Military Historical Society of Massachusetts. Mr. Hardy married, Aug. 26, 1862, Mary Caroline Sumner and has five children: Alpheus Sumner, Susan White, Eleanor, Mary Caroline and Roger Sumner. Address: 1107 Tremont Building, Boston.

HARDY, Arthur Sherburne:

Diplomat and author; born in Andover, Mass., Aug. 13, 1847; son of Alpheus and Susan W. (White) Hardy. He was prepared at the Andover (Mass.) Academy, was a student at Amherst College, and afterward at the United States Military Academy, where he was graduated in 1869; was instructor at West Point, and then, after a year's service in the Third Regiment of U. S. Artillery, he resigned from the Army. Later he studied at the École des Ponts et Chaussées, Paris. He was professor of civil engineering at Iowa College and later at Dartmouth College; professor of mathematics at Dartmouth; editor of the Cosmopolitan Magazine; American minister and consul-general to Persia, 1897-1899; envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States to Greece, Roumania and Servia, 1899-1901, to Switzerland, 1901-1902, and to Spain, 1902-1905. Mr. Hardy received the degrees of A.M. and Ph.D. from Iowa and Dartmouth Colleges. He has visited Europe ten times and has traveled in the Balkans, the Caucasus, Persia, Algeria, Japan, etc. He is author of the novels: But Yet a Woman, The Wind of Destiny, Passe Rose, and His Daughter First; also of Songs of Two (poems); The Life and Letters of Joseph H. Neesima (biography), and of the mathematical volumes: Elements of Quaternions; Elements of Calculus; Elements of Analytic Geometry; New Methods of Surveying, and Imaginary Quantities. Mr. Hardy is a fellow of the National Academy of Arts and Sciences. He received the decoration of the Grand Cross of the Lion and Sun from Persia; is a trustee of Woodstock Academy, and is a member of the Authors Club and the Century Association of New York City. Mr. Hardy married, in Athens, Greece, March 9, 1898, Grace Aspinwall Bowen. Address: Casa de Campo, Woodstock, Conn.

HARDY, Edwin Noah:

Clergyman and author; born in Nelson, N. H., March 1, 1861. He was educated in Amherst College, in the class of 1887, and in Hartford Theological Seminary. He is an M.A. and B.A. of Amherst College, and a Ph.D. of Boston University. He was ordained to the Congregational ministry Nov. 6, 1890, and has made a specialty of the study of the relation of men to the churches, having one of the largest collection of works on this subject and being a nationally known authority. He has been pastor of Bethany Church, Quincy, Mass., since 1895. Dr. Hardy is author of: The Churches and Educated Men; and the Story of The English Bible, and is a lecturer on various phases of New England history. He married at Westboro, Mass., Oct. 22, 1890, Nellie M. Severy, and has one son and one daughter. Address: 15 Foster Street, Quincy, Mass.

HARE, Hobart Amory:

Physician; born in Philadelphia, Sept. 20, 1862. He was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania, B.Sc., 1885, and M.D., 1884; and later in 1893 from Jefferson Medical College. At the University of Pennsylvania in 1890 he was professor of children's diseases, and since that time has been professor of therapeutics at Jefferson Medical College, and physicians to the Jefferson Hospital. He is the author of a Text-book of Practical Therapeutics (thirteenth edition); a Text-book of Practical Diagnosis (sixth edition); a Text-book of the Practice of Medicine (second edition); The Medical Complications and Sequellæ of Typhoid Fever (second edition). Various Universities and Medical Societies both American and foreign have awarded him prizes for medical essays. He is a member of the College of Physicians, Philadelphia; Association of American Physicians. He is a member of the Philadelphia, Union League, University, Corinthian Yacht, and The Rabbit Clubs. Address: 1801 Spruce Street, Philadelphia.

HARE, William Hobart:

Bishop of South Dakota; born at Princeton, N. J., May 17, 1838; son of Rev. Dr.

George Emlen and Elizabeth C. (Hobart) Hare. He studied at the University of Pennsylvania, received the degree of D.D. from Columbia University, Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., and from Kenyon College, in 1872. He was ordered deacon of the Episcopal Church by Bishop Bowman in 1859, and was ordained priest in 1862 by Bishop A. Potter. He accepted a call as assistant in St. Luke's Church, Philadelphia; afterward becoming rector of St. Paul's Church, Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia, 1861-1863. He was locum tenens of St. Luke's Church again, 1863-1864, curate of the Church of the Ascension, Philadelphia, 1864-1870. In 1870 he was appointed secretary and general agent of the Foreign Committee of the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society, holding this office until he was made bishop in 1873. He was consecrated by Bishop Benjamin Bosworth Smith, Alfred Lee, T. Williams, Odenheimer and Stevens. His jurisdiction was first Niobrara, but later the boundaries of his jurisdiction were changed and he became Bishop of South Dakota. Bishop Hare married, in 1861, Mary Amory Howe, daughter of Bishop M. A. De Wolfe Howe. He is author of numerous missionary reports, addresses and sermons. Address: Sioux Falls, S. Dak.

HARE-POWEL, Robert Johnston:

Lawyer; born Newport, R. I., May 4, 1855; son of Samuel and Mary (Johnston) Powel; on paternal side descended from Hare-Powel, Hare, Willing and Shippen families of Philadelphia; from de Veaux and Barnwell families of South Carolina; Verplanck, Beekman, Provoost, Van Cortlandt and Schuyler families of New York; on maternal side, from the Johnston, Gilbert, Taylor and Hind families of Jamaica, W. I., and of Scotland and England. Educated by tutors in Philadelphia and Newport until 1872, after that at Mr. Fay's School, Newport, and Harvard, B.A., 1878. He was admitted to the Philadelphia bar, Nov. 18, 1882, entering law office of uncle-in-law, John G. Johnson; removed to New York City in 1886, and became partner, successively, of Crosby & Crosby (William B. Crosby and Ernest H. Crosby), 1886-1890, Crosby & Powel (E. H. Crosby retiring), 1890-1891, Powel and Kropf, 1892-1898, and since then practising alone. His practice has been largely in management of estates, acting as trustee, executor, administrator, etc. He is an Alpha member of Delta Kappa Epsilon, also member of the Institute of 1770, Athletic Association and Rifle Club, all of Harvard (class of 1878. Director and formerly counsel for the Manhattan Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital of New York; member of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, and Pennsylvania Historical Society, and of the Ardsley Club, and formerly member of several Philadelphia clubs. He married in Morristown, N. J., June 1, 1887, Elisabeth, daughter of John P. Crosby of New York City. Residence: Dobbs Ferry-on-Hudson, N. Y. Office: 120 Broadway, New York City.

HARKINS, Matthew:

Catholic bishop of Providence; born in Boston Nov. 17, 1845. He was educated in the Boston Latin school and at Holy Cross College, Worcester, Mass.; took up his divinity studies in the English College at Douay, and at the Seminary of St. Sulpice, Paris, for six years; was ordained to the priesthood in 1869, and after a curacy in the Church of the Immaculate Conception in Salem, Mass., became rector of St. Malachy's Church, Arlington, Mass., in 1876, from which he was transferred to St. James Church in Boston where he served until consecrated in 1887, bishop of Providence. Address: Providence, R. I.

HARLAN, Henry David:

Jurist; born at Churchville, Md., Oct. 23, 1858; son of Dr. David Harlan, medical director U. S. Navy, and Margaret Rebecca (Herbert) Harlan. He was graduated from St. John's College, Annapolis, Md., A.B., 1878; and received from that college the degrees of A.M. in 1884 and LL.D. in 1894; was graduated from the University of Maryland, LL.B., 1881. Mr. Harlan was admitted to the bar and engaged in the practice of law in Baltimore until elected in 1888 chief judge of the Supreme Court of Baltimore, in which office he continues. He has been since 1883 of the Law Faculty of the University of Maryland, where he is now professor of constitutional law; and is president of the Board of Trustees of Johns Hopkins Hospital, and a trustee of Johns Hopkins University. Judge Harlan is a Democrat in politics. He married in Philadelphia, Dec. 19, 1889, Helen Altamus. Residence: 9 West Biddle Street. Office: 1062 Calvert Building, Baltimore.

HARLAN, James S.:

Lawyer; born at Evansville, Ind., Nov. 24, 1861; son of Hon. John M. Harlan, now of the U. S. Supreme Court, and of Malvina (Shanklin) Harlan. He was graduated from Princeton University in 1883; studied law in the Columbian University Law School, and in the office of Melville W. Fuller, Chicago (now chief justice of the United States); was admitted to the bar in 1886, and was member of the law firm of Gregory, Booth and Harlan, and later of Harlan and Harlan of Chicago. He was attorney-general of Porto Rico, 1901-1903, and is now a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Address: 1720 Rhode Island Avenue, Washington, D. C.

HARLAN, John Marshall:

Associate justice of the U. S. Supreme Court; was born in Boyle County, Ky., June 1, 1833. He was graduated from Center College, Ky., in 1850; studied law at Transylvania University; practised his profession at Frankfort; was elected county judge in 1859; was the Whig candidate for Congress in the Ashland district in 1859; was elector on the Bell and Everett ticket; removed to Louisville in 1861, and formed law partnership with Hon. W. F. Bullock. In 1861 he raised the 10th Kentucky Infantry Regiment and served in General George H. Thomas's division. Owing to the death of his father in the spring of 1863, although his name was before the Senate for confirmation as brigadier-general, he felt compelled to resign; was elected attorney-general by the Union party in 1863 and filled that office until 1867, when he returned to active practice in Louisville. He was the Republican candidate for governor in 1871; and his name was presented by the Republican convention of his State in 1872 for the vice-presidency. In 1875 he was again the Republican candidate for governor; was chairman of the delegation from his State to the National Republican Convention in 1876; declined a diplomatic position as a substitute for the attorney-general, to which, before he reached Washington, President Hayes intended to assign him; served as a member of the Louisiana Commission; was commissioned an associate justice of the U. S. Supreme Court Nov. 20, 1877, and took his seat Dec. 10, 1877. Justice Harlan has received the degree of LL.D. from Bowdoin College and the University of Pennsylvania. He was vice-moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America in 1905. He has been for many years a lecturer on constitutional law in the Law Department of George Washington University. Justice Harlan married Dec. 23, 1856, Malvina F., daughter of John Shanklin, of Evansville, Ind. Address: 14th Street and Euclid Place, N. W., Washington, D. C.

HARLAN, John Maynard:

Lawyer; born at Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 21, 1864; son of John Marshall Harlan, associate justice of the Supreme Court of the United States since 1877, and Malvina (Shanklin) Harlan. He was graduated from Princeton, A.B., 1884, and Columbian University Law School, Washington, LL.B., 1888. He then went to Chicago and was alderman of Chicago, 1896-1898. He was Independent candidate for mayor of Chicago in 1897 and Republican candidate in 1905. He is a member of the Chicago Bar Association, and Illinois State Bar Association, and of the University, Chicago, Chicago Athletic, Marquette, Hamilton, Saddle and Cycle, Chicago Golf, and Mid-Day Clubs. He married in Yonkers, N. Y., 1890, Elizabeth P. Flagg. Residence: 574 East Division Street. Office: 1132 Marquette Building, Chicago.

HARLAN, Richard Davenport:

Clergyman, educator; born in Evansville, Ind., Nov. 14, 1859; son of Hon. John Marshall Harlan (now associate justice of the Supreme Court of the United States) and Malvina French (Shanklin) Harlan. Prepared in the Louisville (Ky.) High School; graduated from Princeton University with the degree of A.B. in 1881, and A.M. in 1884; Princeton Theological Seminary in 1885, D.D. from Princeton University in 1901, and LL.D. from Union University in 1904. Pastor of "Old First" Presbyterian Church, New York City, from 1886 to 1891; took special studies in Berlin University in 1891; pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church of Rochester from 1894 to 1901; president of Lake Forest College, Lake Forest, Ill., from 1901 to 1906. In April, 1907, he was appointed by the trustees of the George Washington University as the special representative of "The George Washington University Movement," to assist the president in directing the enlargement of that university into a great university for graduate work, in accordance with the essential features of the plan outlined in George Washington's last will and testament. Dr. Harlan is a member of the American Whig Society of Princeton, Military Order of the Loyal Legion, Cosmos Club (Washington), American Society of International Law, American Association for Advancement of Science, National Educational Association. He married in Geneva, N. Y., June 5, 1889, Mrs. Augustus M. Swift (née Margaret M. Prouty). Residence: 1310 Connecticut Avenue, Washington, D. C. Business address: George Washington University, Washington, D. C.

HARNED, Virginia:

Actress; born in Boston, married, 1896, Edward H. Southern. Miss Harned first appeared in New York in A Long Lane, or Green Meadow. Fourteenth Street Theatre, 1890; later was leading lady under the management of Daniel Frohman; starred in the role of Trilby at the Park Theatre, Boston, 1895. She played for a few seasons in E. H. Southern's Company; more recently has starred in La Belle Marseillaise, The Love Letter and other plays. Address: 37 West 69th Street, New York City.

HARPER, Charles Spang:

Lawyer; born in Pittsburgh, March 5, 1853; son of John and Lydia Electa (Metcalf) Harper. He was educated in the Western University of Pennsylvania (now the University of Pittsburgh), A.B., 1873, A.M., 1876, Harvard, LL.B., 1876, New York University, LL.M., 1896. He read law in Pittsburgh with George Shiras, Jr., afterward one of the justices of the Supreme Court of the United States. Mr. Harper was admitted to the bar in Nov., 1876, at Pittsburgh, where he practised until Feb., 1889, when he was admitted to the bar in New York City, and has since then practised in all the State and Federal courts. While in Pittsburgh he was one of the managers of the Western Pennsylvania Hospital, a director of the Northern Liberties Bridge Company, and for a short time a director of the Bank of Pittsburgh, and was a member of the Allegheny County Bar Association. He is now a member of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, the Society of Medical Jurisprudence, the Harvard Law School Association, General Alumni Association of the University of Pittsburgh, the Pennsylvania Society of New York, and the University, Republican and Salmagundi Clubs of New York City. Mr. Harper has traveled extensively in Europe and Egypt, Turkey (Europe and Asia), Canada, and the United States. He married in Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 26, 1882, Julia Azuba Murfey, and they have a married daughter. Residence: 646 North Broadway, Yonkers, N. Y. Office: 120 Broadway, New York City.

HARPER, Ida Husted:

Author; born in Fairfield, Ind., of New England parents. She entered Indiana University, but married at the end of the Freshman year. She afterward finished her college course in the Leland Stanford University. During her married life she wrote a great deal in a dilettante way, but after becoming a widow she took up writing as a profession. She was editorial writer for several years on the Indianapolis News; prepared a monograph on The Organized Work of Indiana Women for the Columbian Exposition, and read several papers before its Congresses and received a diploma of honorable mention. She is author of: Life and Work of Susan B. Anthony (three volumes); was joint author, with Miss Anthony of The History of Woman Suffrage and Woman's Progress to the Close of the Century; and has written for leading magazines and newspapers in the United States. Mrs. Harper has been speaker and delegate to the International Council of Women in London, 1899, Berlin, 1904, and Geneva, 1907; and to the International Woman Suffrage Alliance in Copenhagen, 1906, and Amsterdam, 1907. She is also a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Address: Everett House, New York City.

HARRIGAN, Edward:

Actor; born in New York City, Oct. 26, 1845. He appeared in nearly all principal variety theaters of the country, and subsequently accepted an offer from Tony Pastor to appear at his theater in New York City. After leaving Pastor's he was on the road for three years; and later assumed the management of the Theatre Comique, and after several seasons secured control of the Globe Theater in 1881. In Dec., 1884, the Globe was destroyed by fire, after which he played at the Fourteenth Street Theater, and later opened a theater on West Thirty-fifth Street, which he continued until 1890, when he retired until 1905. He then returned to the stage in Old Lavender. Mr. Harrigan is author of the plays: Chowder; Surprise; Mulligan's Silver Wedding; The Major; The Grip; The Doyle Brothers; Under Cover, and others. He is a member of the Players' Club of New York City. Address: 210 Park Place, Brooklyn, N. Y.

HARRIMAN, Edward Henry:

Financier, railway official; born in Hempstead, L. I., Feb. 25, 1848; son of Rev. Orlando Harriman, Episcopal clergyman. He was educated in a district school and two years in a church (Episcopalian) school. Mr. Harriman began business life as a clerk in a Wall Street house; later started as a stock broker on his own account; and bought a seat on the New York Stock Exchange, Aug. 13, 1870. He became a director of the Illinois Central Railroad, 1883, and its vice-president, 1887. He has been especially active in railroad operations since 1897; since 1898 president, chairman of the Executive Committee, and a director of the Union Pacific Railroad Company; now also chairman of the Executive Committee and director of Wells, Fargo and Company; president and director of the Central Pacific Railway, Louisiana Western Railroad Company, Morgan's Louisiana and Texas Railroad and Steamship Company, Oregon and California Railroad Company, Oregon Railroad and Navigation Company, Oregon Short Line Railroad Company, Pacific Mail Steamship Company, Portland and Asiatic Steamship Company, Railroad Securities Company, South Pacific Coast Railway Company, Southern Pacific Company, and Texas and New Orleans Railway Company; member of the Board of Managers of the Delaware and Hudson Company; director Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, Brooklyn Heights Railroad Company, Chicago and Alton Railroad Company, Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, Erie Railroad Company, Illinois Central Railroad Company, Ilwaco Railway and Navigation Company, Leavenworth, Kansas and Western Railroad Company, Nassau Electric Railway Company, New York, Susquehanna and Western Railroad Company, Orange County Road Construction Company, Pacific Coast Company, Pere Marquette Railroad Company, San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake Railroad Company, Union Pacific Land Company, Wells-Fargo-Nevada National Bank, Western Union Telegraph Company, Guarantee Trust Company of New York, International Banking Corporation, Mercantile Trust Company, National City Bank, Night and Day Bank. He equipped, financed and managed the Harriman Alaska Expedition, which was very fruitful in topographical, biological and other scientific results. He is a member of the St. Nicholas Society, the Republican, Tuxedo, Metropolitan, Seawauhaka-Corinthian Yacht, Whist, Automobile of America, New York Yacht, Racquet and Tennis, and the New York Athletic Clubs of New York City. Mr. Harriman married Mary Averill of Rochester, N. Y., and they have five children. Country estate: Arden, Tuxedo, N. Y. Residence: 11 East 62d Street. Address: 120 Broadway, New York City.

HARRINGTON, Purnell Frederick:

Rear-admiral U. S. Navy; born at Dover, Del., June 6, 1844; son of Samuel M. Harrington, chancellor of Delaware, and Mary (Lofland) Harrington. He was appointed to the U. S. Naval Academy as midshipman, Sept. 10, 1863; ordered into active service in Sept., 1863, promoted acting ensign, Oct. 1, 1863, and was ordered to the Ticonderoga and attached to the Monongahela, 1864-1865. He served in the battle of Mobile Bay, Aug. 5, 1864, and in all actions against the Confederate defences of Mobile Bay during the summer of 1864. He was promoted master, May 10, 1866; lieutenant, Feb. 21, 1867; lieutenant-commander, March 12, 1868; commander, May 28, 1881; captain, March 1, 1895; rear-admiral, March 21, 1903, and retired by operation of law in 1906. He filled many positions as a naval officer between the Civil War period and the Spanish-American War, in which he commanded the Puritan in the blockade of Cuban ports, and in the action at Matanzas forts. Afterward he was from 1899 successively commandant of the Portsmouth, New York and Norfolk Navy Yards until retired. Address: Wilmington, Del.

HARRIS, Abram Winegardner:

President of Northwestern University; born in Philadelphia, Nov. 7, 1858; son of James Russell and Suzanna (Reed) Harris. He was educated in the Friends' Central School at Philadelphia, and Wesleyan University, A.B., 1880, A.M., 1883. He did post-graduate work at the Universities of Berlin and Munich; and the degree of Sc.D. has been conferred upon him by Bowdoin College, and that of LL.D. by Wesleyan University and the Universities of Maine and New Brunswick. He has been consecutively instructor in mathematics at Dickinson Seminary, Williamston, Pa., instructor in mathematics and history at Wesleyan University, assistant director and director in the office of Experiment Station of the U. S. Department of Agriculture at Washington; president of the University of Maine, director (president) of the Jacob Tome Institute, Port Deposit, Md., and he was elected in 1906 to the presidency of Northwestern University, in which position he continues. Dr. Harris is a member of the Board of Education, and the Southern Education Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, is a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Association for the Advancement of Engineering Education, National Educational Association, Phi Beta Kappa Society, Alpha Delta Phi, Phi Kappa Phi, and Alpha Delta Tau fraternities; the Sons of the American Revolution, the Masonic order, the University Clubs of Bangor, Me., Boston, Baltimore, Washington, Chicago and Evanston, Ill., and the Literary Club of Chicago. He married in Philadelphia, Feb. 28, 1888, Clara Virginia Bainbridge, and they have one son. Address: 1745 Chicago Avenue, Evanston, Ill.

HARRIS, George:

President of Amherst College; born in East Machias, Me., April 1, 1844. He was graduated from Amherst, A.B., 1866, and received the degree of D.D. there in 1883, from Harvard, 1899, and from Yale in 1901; LL.D. from Dartmouth in 1899, and also was graduated from Andover Theological Seminary in 1869. He was pastor of the High Street Congregational Church, Auburn, Me., 1869-1872, Central Congregational Church, Providence, R. I., 1872-1883; professor of Christian theology in Andover Theological Seminary, 1883-1899; preacher to Dartmouth College, 1894-1899, and to Harvard, 1897-1899. President Harris is author of: Moral Evolution; Inequality and Progress, and was one of the editors of the Andover Review from 1884 to 1893.

In 1873, he married Jane A. Viall at Providence. Address: Amherst, Mass.

HARRIS, George William:

Librarian; born Pictou, Nova Scotia, in 1849; son of John F. and Margaret Grace (Johnson) Harris. He was educated in Pictou Academy, and Cornell University, Ph.B., 1873. Assistant librarian, 1873-1883; acting librarian, 1883-1890, and librarian since 1890, Cornell University. He was editor of the Library Bulletin of Cornell University, 1883-1896, and of Cornell University Ten-Year Book, 1888; and is a contributor to the New York Nation, Library Journal and other periodicals. Mr. Harris is a life member of the Bibliographical Society of London, Pomological Society of America; and is a member of the American Library Association, and the Gutenberg Gesellschaft. He is a member of the Town and Gown Club of Ithaca, N. Y. He married in Campbellton, N. B., June 26, 1895, Annie Smith, and they have one daughter. Address: 3 Grove Place, Ithaca, N. Y.

HARRIS, John Howard:

President of Bucknell University; born in Indiana, Pa., in 1847; son of Rees and Isabel (Coleman) Harris. He was graduated from Bucknell University as A.B. and A.M., and from Lafayette College as Ph.D.; and the degree of LL.D. was conferred upon him by Dickinson College and Colgate University. He served in the Civil War eighteen months; was a student at law, two years; was principal of Keystone Academy for twenty years, and has been president of the Bucknell University since 1889. He is an Independent Republican in politics, and in religion a Baptist. President Harris married in La Plume, Pa., 1881, Lucy Bailey. Address: Bucknell University, Lewisburg, Pa.

HARRIS, Joseph Smith:

Railway official; born in Frazer, Chester County, Pa., April 29, 1836. He entered the service of the North Pennsylvania Railroad in April, 1853, and was an officer of the U. S. Coast Survey, 1854-1864. He was assistant astronomer of the Northwest Boundary Survey, 1857-1864, attached to Farragut's Mississippi Squadron in 1862, as first officer, and later in command of United States steamer Sachem. He practised as civil and mining engineer in Pottsville, Pa., 1864-1868; chief engineer of the Morris and Essex Railroad, 1868-1870; engineer Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company, 1870-1877; superintendent and engineer, Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company, 1877-1880; general manager Central Railroad of New Jersey, 1880-1882; president of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company, 1882-1893; receiver, and afterward vice-president of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company, 1892; receiver and president of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company and Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company, 1893-1896; president, 1896-1901, of the Reading Company, Philadelphia and Reading Railway Company, and Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company; member of the executive committee of the several Reading companies, the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, and the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company. He is also a director of numerous corporations and has been trustee since 1886 of the University of Pennsylvania. Mr. Harris is a member of the American Philosophical Society, Pennsylvania Historical Society, and the Germantown Cricket Club of Philadelphia. He is a trustee of the Protestant Episcopal Divinity School, of Philadelphia. He received the degree of Doctor of Science from Franklin and Marshall College, 1903. Mr. Harris is author of: Record of the Harris Family, 1903; Record of the Smith Family, 1906; Collateral Ancestry of Stephen Harris and Marianne Smith, 1908. Address: Reading Terminal, Philadelphia.

HARRIS, William Torrey:

Former United States commissioner of education; born at North Killingly, Conn., Sept. 10, 1835; son of William and Zilpah (Torrey) Harris, and descendant of Thomas Harris, Roger Williams, William Torrey, and other prominent early settlers of New England. He was educated in Phillips Exeter Academy, and in Yale College for over two years. He received from Yale the honorary degrees of A.M., 1869, LL.D., 1895; also LL.D. from the University of Missouri, 1870, University of Pennsylvania, 1894, and Princeton, 1896; Ph.D. from Brown University, 1893, and the University of Jena, Germany, 1899. From 1857 until 1880 he was engaged in educational work in St. Louis, Mo., as teacher, principal, assistant superintendent, and, from 1868, as superintendent. For his published reports during that period, which were contributed to the American Educational Exhibit at the Paris Exposition Universelle in 1878, he received from the French Government the title of Officier de l'Académie. He represented the United States Bureau of Education at the International Congress of Educators in Brussels in 1880, and then went to Concord, Mass., where he became an active member of the School of Philosophy. He represented the U. S. Bureau of Education at the Paris Exposition of 1889, and received from the French Government the title of Officier de l'Instruction Publique; and in the same year he was appointed U. S. commissioner of education, in which office he continued until 1906. He is a member of the American Historical Association; fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science; was founder of the Philosophie Society of St. Louis in 1866; president of the National Educational Association, 1875; and for fifteen years an officer of the American Social Science Association. Dr. Harris edited the Journal of Speculative Philosophy, which he founded; was on the editorial staff of Johnson's Universal Cyclopædia; editor of Appleton's International Education Series; editor-in-chief of Webster's International Dictionary; and is author of: Introduction to the Study of Philosophy, 1890; Hegel's Logis, 1890; The Spiritual Sense of Dante's Divina Commedia, 1891; Psychologie Foundations of Education, 1898; and edited the A. E. Kroeger Translation of Fichte's Science of Ethics, published in London, in 1897. Dr. Harris married at Providence, R. I., Dec. 27, 1858, Sarah T. Bugbee. Residence: 1306 Fairmont Street, Washington, D. C.

HARRIS, William Welton:

Editor; born at Hudson, Lenawee County, Mich., Feb. 10, 1866; son of Caleb H. and Eliza (Durling) Harris. He was graduated from the Jackson (Mich.) High School in 1885, and from the University of Michigan, Ph.B., 1889. He was a commercial traveler, 1887-1888; reporter on the Detroit News in 1890, and on the Chicago Inter-Ocean and Chicago Tribune, from 1891 to 1895; copy reader, night city editor and assistant night editor of the New York Journal, 1896-1901; telegraph editor of the New York Herald, 1901-1904; managing editor of the New York Evening Telegram, 1904-1907, and became, in 1907, Sunday editor and then night editor of the New York Herald. Mr. Harris was a member of the Jackson Greys Regiment of Michigan Militia, 1886-1889. He is a member of the Collectivist Society, University of Michigan Association, Intercollegiate Socialist Society, and the Psi Upsilon fraternity, and the Dunwoodie Country Club. Mr. Harris married in Jackson, Mich., Jan. 25, 1893, Jessie Elizabeth Brown, and they have four daughters. Address: Lowerre Summit, Yonkers, N. Y.

HARRISON, Alfred Craven, Jr.:

Explorer; born in Philadelphia, Dec. 14, 1875; son of Alfred C. and Kate DeForest (Sheldon) Harrison. He was educated in the Episcopal Academy, Philadelphia, St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H., and received the honorary degree of B.S. from the University of Pennsylvania. Since 1896, he has been occupied in scientific research in archaeology, anthropology and geography; went on an exploration in 1896 to Spanish Honduras to view the ruins of Copan. He went on explorations to Borneo, 1897-1899, and from Pekin to St. Petersburg, by way of China, through the Gobi District, Mongolia, and Siberia; in 1900 explored the Nega Hills and traveled through India, Afghanistan, Cashmere, Upper and Lower Burma, Cochin China and Japan, and investigated the Veddhahs of Ceylon. He made explorations in Sumatra, 1901-1902. Mr. Harrison is a member of the Anthropological Institute of Great Britain, Academy of Natural Sciences, Philadelphia. Societe de Geographie de France, Philadelphia Geographical Society, Photographic Society, Royal Geographical Society, Asiatic Society of Japan, and the Philadelphia, Rittenhouse, University and Philadelphia County Clubs. Address: Ensenada de Mora, Cuba.

HARRISON, Carter Henry:

Lawyer, ex-mayor; born in Chicago, April 23, 1860; son of Carter H. Harrison, five times mayor of Chicago, and of an early Virginia and pioneer Kentucky family, and of Sophonisba Grayson (Preston) Harrison. After a preparatory education in the public schools of Chicago and a German gymnasium, he entered St. Ignatius College, Chicago, from which he was graduated B.A., in 1881, and received the degree of LL.D. in 1900; and from there he went to the Yale Law School, from which he was graduated as LL.B. in 1883. He engaged in the practice of law in Chicago from 1883 to 1899, then in the real estate business until 1891, when, in association with his brother, William Preston Harrison, he became publisher and editor of the Chicago Times, which they sold in 1894. Mr. Harrison early became active in the politics of Illinois as a Democrat, and particularly in the political affairs of the city of Chicago, with the problems of which he became familiar during his father's incumbency of ten years in the mayoralty of Chicago. In 1897 he was elected mayor of the city for a two-year term, and he was reelected in 1899, 1901, 1903, serving until April, 1905. He has been delegate to several State and National Conventions; and was chairman of the Resolutions Committee in the State Democratic Convention of Illinois in 1900. Mr. Harrison is a member of the Masonic order, the Sons of the Revolution, Sons of the American Revolution, Society of the War of 1812, Society of Colonial Wars, Society of the Cincinnati, Chicago Historical Society, and the Chicago, Iroquois and Saddle and Cycle Clubs. His favorite recreations are hunting and fishing, and he is also a member of the Swan Lake Club of Henry, Ill., and the Huron Mountain Hunting and Fishing Club of Marquette, Mich. Mr. Harrison married, Dec. 14, 1887, Edith Ogden of New Orleans, who is the author of some charming books of juvenile fiction, and they have two children. Address: Virginia Hotel, Chicago, Ill.

HARRISON, Charles Custis:

Provost of the University of Pennsylvania; born in Philadelphia, May 3, 1844; son of George Leib and Sarah Ann (Waples) Harrison, and a descendant of Thomas Harrison of Carlisle, England, who visited America before the Revolution and there espoused the cause of the Colonies at the cost of the sacrifice of his English estate. On his mother's side he is descended from the famous Custis family, of Virginia, whose name he bears. He was educated in the Episcopal Academy and the University of Pennsylvania, and intended to make the law his profession, but the late John Welsh proposed to his father to establish their two sons, with Walter S. Newhall, in the sugar-refining business, under the firm name of Harrison, Newhall & Welsh. Young Harrison entered actively into the business formed for him. His brothers and brother-in-law subsequently entered the firm, which became known as Harrison, Frazier & Co., and later as the Franklin Sugar Refining Company. In 1892, when the refinery was sold, it was doing the largest business in value of products of any manufactory in Pennsylvania. He was elected a trustee of the University of Pennsylvania in 1876, and on the death of John Welsh succeeded him as chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means. In 1894, on resignation of Provost Pepper, Mr. Harrison was requested to accept this office. He at first declined, but was finally induced to accept it and was, in June, 1895, installed as provost. A few days previously he had established, in honor of his father, "The George L. Harrison foundation for the encouragement of liberal studies and the advancement of knowledge," endowing it with $500,000. Its purpose was to establish scholarships and fellowships for men of exceptional ability, increase the library, and aid professors to devote themselves to special work. Mr. Harrison is president of the Society for the Protection of Children from Cruelty; member of the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts, the American Philosophical Society, the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, the Phi Beta Kappa Society and the University Club. He married, Feb. 23, 1870, Ellen Nixon Wahn, and they have three sons and three daughters. Address: 400 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

HARRISON, Constance Cary (Mrs. Burton Harrison):

Author; born at Vacluse, Va., April 25, 1846; daughter of Archibald and Mominia (Fairfax) Cary. She was educated by private governesses, and after the Civil War she studied music and languages in Europe, where she lived for some years with her widowed mother. She married in 1867, Burton Norvell Harrison, who had been private secretary to Jefferson Davis and became a member of the New York bar; and who died March 29, 1904. Mrs. Harrison is author of: Golden Rod, 1880. Helen Troy, 1881; Woman's Handwork: Old Fashioned Fairy Book, 1884; Folk and Fairy Tales, 1885; Bar Harbor Days, 1887; The Anglo-maniacs, 1887; A Daughter of the South, 1892; Sweet Bells Out of Tune, 1893; An Errant Wooing, 1895; A Son of the Old Dominion, 1897; A Merry Maid of Arcady and other stories, 1897; Good Americans, 1898; A Princess of the Hills, 1901; Latter Days Sweethearts, 1906; and other books, and also of plays, chiefly adapted from the French. Summer residence: Bar Harbor, Me. Address: 43 East 29th Street, New York City.

HARRISON, Edith Ogden (Mrs. Carter Harrison):

Author; born in New Orleans, daughter of Hon. Robert Nash and Sarah (Beatty) Ogden. She was educated in the Convent of Sisters of Mercy and in the Peabody High School in New Orleans. She married in New Orleans, Dec. 14, 1887, Carter H. Harrison (mayor of Chicago, 1897-1905). Mrs. Harrison is author of: Prince Silverwings, 1902; The Star Fairies, 1903; The Moon Princess, 1905, and The Flaming Sword, 1908. She is a member of the Order of Colonial Dames, and the Fortnightly, Saddle and Cycle and Twentieth Century Clubs of Chicago. Address: 607 Rush Street, Chicago.

HARRISON, Francis Burton:

Lawyer, member of Congress; born in New York City, Dec. 18, 1873; son of Burton and Constance (Cary) Harrison. He was graduated from Yale, B.A., 1895, and from New York Law School, as LL.B. in 1897. He has been practising law since 1897; is a member of the firm of Harrison, Saasonwood and Edwards; vice-president and director of the MeVicar Realty Trust Company, and the Empire Trust Company. Mr. Harrison served in the Spanish-American War as private in Troop A, New York Volunteer Cavalry, from May 19 to June 20, 1898; was promoted captain and assistant adjutant-general of U. S. Volunteers, and served until Jan. 31, 1889. He was nominated by the Democratic party and elected to the Fifty-eighth Congress from a district which was, under normal conditions, Republican by several thousands majority. He resigned his seat before the expiration of this term, having accepted the Democratic nomination for lieutenant-governor, but was defeated. Mr. Harrison was elected to the Sixtieth Congress from the Sixteenth New York District in Nov., 1906. He is a life member of the American Museum of Natural History; trustee of the New York Orthopaedic Hospital, trustee of the Institution for the Improved Instruction of Deaf Mutes, and is a member of the Knickerbocker, University, Racquet and Tennis, Manhattan, New York Athletic, City, Midway, Union, Metropolitan, Tuxedo and Psi Upsilon Clubs of New York City, and of the Metropolitan Club of Washington, D. C. Mr. Harrison married on June 7, 1900, Mary, daughter of Charles P. Crocker of San Francisco (now deceased), and he has two children. Residence: 876 Fifth Avenue. Office: 43 Cedar Street, New York City.

HARRISON, Joseph Le Roy:

Librarian; born in North Adams, Mass., Oct. 12, 1862; son of John Le Roy and Ellen Maria (Hawks) Harrison. After a preparatory education at Drury Academy, North Adams, Mass., and the Cascadilla School and Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., University of Heidelberg (Germany), and the New York State Library School at Albany, receiving the degree of B.L.S., conferred by the University of the State of New York. Mr. Harrison worked in the city staff of the Commercial Advertiser of New York City, 1885-1888; was assistant correspondent of the Commercial Advertiser at Washington, 1888-1889; was a student and traveling in Europe, 1889-1893; sub-librarian for Legislation in the New York State Library, 1893-1894; and has been librarian of the Providence Athenæum, at Providence, R. I., since 1894. Mr. Harrison is editor of: Cap and Gown, some College verse (Boston), 1893; With Pipe and Book, a collection of college verse (Providence), 1897; In College Days, recent 'varsity verse (Boston), 1901. He is a member of the American Library Association, the Rhode Island Library Association, Massachusetts Library Club, New York State Library School Association, Rhode Island Historical Society, Rhode Island School of Design, the Psi Upsilon fraternity, and the Hope, Agawam Hunt, Psi Upsilon and Art Clubs of Providence. Residence: East Greenwich, R. I. Office: The Providence Athenæum, Providence, R. I.

HARRISON, Mary Lord:

Born in Honesdale, Pa., daughter of Russell Farnham and Elizabeth (Scott) Lord. She was educated in Mrs. Moffatt's School in Princeton, N. J., and Elmira College, N. Y. She married in Scranton, Pa., Oct. 22, 1881, Walter Erskine Dhumick, who died Jan. 16, 1882; and married, second, April 6, 1896, Benjamin Harrison. Twenty-third President of the United States, who died March 12, 1901, and has by this second marriage a daughter, Elizabeth, born Feb. 21, 1897. Address: 1214 North Delaware Street, Indianapolis, Ind.

HARRITY, William F.:

Lawyer; born in Wilmington, Del., Oct. 19, 1850. He attended the public schools, Clarkson Taylor's Academy, and St. Mary's College, Wilmington, Del., and was graduated from La Salle College, Philadelphia, 1870; taught Mathematics, Latin, etc., in La Salle College, 1870-1871; received A.M. degree, 1871; was admitted to Philadelphia Bar, 1873, practices law in Pennsylvania. He received the degree of LL.D. from St. Joseph's College, Philadelphia, 1902; and received a similar degree from Christian Brothers' College, St. Louis, Mo., 1904. Mr. Harrity has practised law in Pennsylvania since 1873, and is of the law firm of Harrity, Thompson and Haig. He was chairman of the Democratic City Executive Committee of Philadelphia, 1882; delegate-at-large to the Democratic National Convention, 1884; postmaster at Philadelphia, 1885-1889; chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee of Pennsylvania, 1890; secretary of State of Pennsylvania, 1891-1895; chairman of the Democratic National Committee, 1892, when Grover Cleveland was elected President for a second time; and continued as chairman of the Democratic National Committee until 1896. He was tendered a position in President Cleveland's Cabinet, but declined, preferring to serve out his term as secretary of State of Pennsylvania; was delegate-at-large to the Democratic National Convention, 1896; chairman of the Pennsylvania delegation to the Democratic National Convention of 1896, and temporary chairman of that Convention. In the Democratic National Convention of 1896 Mr. Harrity received twenty-one votes for vice-president, delegates from Connecticut, Delaware, Rhode Island and South Dakota voting for him, although he was not a candidate for the position. The sixty-four votes of Pennsylvania would also have been cast for him had not Mr. Harrity himself (who was chairman of the delegation,) requested otherwise. It is authoritatively stated that prominent free silver leaders declared that if Mr. Harrity were willing to stand upon the platform adopted he would receive their support for the Vice-Presidency and be nominated. Mr. Harrity advised against such action being taken, not being in accord with the platform adopted by the Convention. He is director of the Equitable Trust Company, Franklin National Bank, and Market Street National Bank, all of Philadelphia; the Philadelphia Electric Company; American Railways Company; Distilling Company of America; The Kansas City Southern Railway Company; Lehigh Valley Transit Company, Midland Valley Railroad Company; Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York; and other business corporations. He is also a trustee of La Salle College, Philadelphia, and a member of the Board of Public Education, Philadelphia. Mr. Harrity is a member of the American Bar Association; Law Association of Philadelphia; Lawyers', Art, Orpheus, Racquet, Merion Cricket, Overbrook, Philadelphia Country, and Overbrook Golf Clubs of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania Society of New York, Hibernian Society, Catholic Club of Philadelphia; American Catholic Historical Society, Five O'Clock Club, Livingston Club of Allentown, Pa., and other social organizations, and is a member of the National Geographic Society. He married Rose M. Devlin, in 1883 and has four children. Residence: 6310 Sherwood Road, Overbrook, Philadelphia. Office: 2015 Law Title Building, Philadelphia.

HARSHA, William McIntire:

Physician and surgeon; born in Harshaville, Ohio, June 15, 1855; son of William B. and Rachel (McIntire) Harsha. He received his education in the public schools of Harshaville, the North Liberty Academy, and at the National Normal University of Lebanon, Ohio, where he obtained the degrees of B.S. and A.B. He studied medicine one year in the University of Michigan and finished his studies at the Chicago Medical College, from which he was graduated in 1883. He practised his profession in Cerro Gordo and Decatur, Ill., until 1890, when he removed to Chicago, where he has since been continuously engaged. He has been professor of operative clinical surgery in the Chicago College of Physicians and Surgeons, now the College of Medicine of the University of Illinois, since 1896, and is also a member of the board of directors of that institution. He is a member of the American Medical Association, the American Academy of Medicine, the Illinois Medical Society, the Mississippi Valley Medical Association, and the Chicago Medical and Surgical Societies. He acts with the Republican party in National affairs, but is independent on local issues. He is medical director of the order of Columbian Knights, of which he is a trustee, and is a member of the Physicians', University, Press and Hamilton Clubs. He married in Lebanon, Ohio, June 1, 1880, Adelia S. Hutchinson, and has two children. Address: 103 State Street. Residence: Grand Boulevard, Chicago.

HART, Francis Russell:

Banker; born at New Bedford, Mass., Jan. 16, 1868; son of Thomas Mandell Hart and Sarah Davis (Watson) Hart. He was graduated from the Friends Academy, New Bedford, Mass., 1885, and from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 1889. Mr. Hart was engaged in engineering in the West Indies, 1889-1891; was general manager of the Cartagena-Magdalena Railway, Colombia, South America, 1891-1892; vice-president and general manager, 1892-1893, and president, 1893-1906 of the same road, and has been vice-president of the Old Colony Trust Company since 1896. He is a director of the American Trust Company, Dallas Electric Corporation; president and director of the Lowell Electric Light Corporation; vice-president and director of the Northern Railway Company of Costa Rica; treasurer of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; director and member of the executive committee of the United Fruit Company; also director of the Bay State Trust Company, Elders and Fyftes, Limited (of London), Marlborough and Westborough Street Railway Company, the Pairpoint Corporation, Planters' Compress Company, Dallas Electric Corporation; Tropical Fruit Steamship Company, Limited (London), Nipe Bay Company of Cuba, and the United Electric Securities Company. He is trustee of Milton Academy, the Milton (Massachusetts) Savings Bank, and the Worcester Railways and Investment Company, and voting trustee of the New England Brick Yards Company. Mr. Hart is a life fellow of the Royal Geographical Society of London, a member of the Society of Arts of Boston, the Society of Natural History of Boston and various historical and geographical societies in various places. He is also a member of the St. Botolph and Exchange Clubs of Boston, the Country Club of Brookline, Milton Club of Milton, Hoosie Whisick Club of Canton, Wamsutta Club of New Bedford, the National Arts Club of New York City, and others. He married at Northampton, Mass., June 4, 1896, Helen Bronson Hobby, and they have three children. Residence: "Nonquitt," South Dartmouth, Mass., (summer), and "Cragwold," Milton, Mass., (winter). Office: Ames Building, Boston.

HART, Samuel:

Clergyman and professor; born in Saybrook, Conn., June 4, 1845; son of Henry and Mary A. (Witter) Hart. He was graduated from Trinity College, Hartford, A.B. with optimus, 1866, M.A., 1869, and from the Berkeley Divinity School in 1869. The honorary degree of D.D. was conferred upon him in 1885, and the degree of D.C.L. in 1899 by Trinity College; and the honorary degree of D.D. in 1902 by Yale University. He was ordered deacon in the ministry of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and ordained priest in 1870. He was tutor, 1868-1870, assistant professor in mathematics, 1870-1873, professor of mathematics, 1873-1883, and professor of Latin, 1883-1889, in Trinity College. He has been vice-dean and professor of doctrinal theology and the Prayer Book since 1899 at the Berkeley Divinity School; and acting librarian in both institutions. Professor Hart was secretary of the American Philological Association for five years, and was its president in 1892. Since 1890 he has been president of the Connecticut Historical Society; was president of the Connecticut Library Association in 1894; has been registrar of the Diocese of Connecticut since 1874; and has been custodian of the Standard Prayer Book of the Protestant Episcopal Church since 1886, and secretary of the House of Bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church since 1892; secretary of the Connecticut Beta of Phi Beta Kappa, since 1870, senator of the National Council of Phi Beta Kappa since 1892; president of the Good Will club of Hartford; vice-president of the Church Missions Publishing Company, and chaplain of the Guild of St. Barnabas. He is also honorary member of the New Haven Colony Historical Society, the New London County Historical Society, and is trustee of the Wadsworth Athenæum, Watkinson Library, the Colt Bequest of Hartford, and the Russell Library of Middletown. He is a member of Psi Upsilon fraternity, Phi Beta Kappa Society, American Oriental Society, American Historical Association, American Association for the Advancement of Science, Society of Biblical Literature and Exegesis, and the Egyptian Exploration Fund. Address: Berkeley Divinity School, Middletown, Conn.

HART, Thomas Norton:

Banker and ex-mayor; born at North Reading, Mass., Jan. 20, 1829; resident of Boston since 1842. His education was procured at country schools, and after that he engaged in business pursuits in Boston; became a partner in the Boston and Lowell Manufacturing Company, until he retired and became president of the Mount Vernon National Bank of Boston. Mr. Hart has for many years been a leading Republican of Boston; was elected a member of the Boston Common Council in 1879 and 1881, and of the Boston Board of Aldermen in 1882, 1885, and 1886. He was Republican nominee for mayor of Boston in 1887 and 1888; was elected mayor in 1889, 1890, 1900 and 1901, and was postmaster of Boston under appointment of President McKinley, 1897-1900. Address: 298 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston.

HARTER, George Abram:

President of Delaware College; born in Leitersburg, Md., Nov. 7, 1853; son of Peter Koontz and Mary (Porter) Harter. He was educated in public schools, the National Normal School, Lebanon, Ohio, St. John's College Annapolis, A.B., 1878, A.M., 1880, and received the Ph.D. degree 1892. He was instructor in Delaware College, 1878-1880; principal of the Leitersburg Grammar School, 1880-1881, principal of school at Hagerstown, Md., 1881-1885, and in 1885 became professor in mathematics and modern languages at Delaware College, becoming in 1888, professor of mathematics and physics. He was elected in 1896 president of the College. He is a member of the State Board of Education and of various societies of a scientific and educational character. He is also a member of the Philadelphia University and Church Clubs. He married at Annapolis, Md., April 26, 1882, Ellen Studdiford Graff, and has one daughter. Address: Newark, Del.

HARVEY, Alexander:

Editor; born in Brussels, Belgium, Dec. 25, 1868; son of Alexander Arthur and Mary (Cameron) Harvey, both Americans. He was educated in the public schools of Philadelphia, and began his journalistic career as a reporter on the Philadelphia Press, and after that on the Philadelphia United Press, and the New York Telegram. Then successively associate editor of the Bachelor Newspaper Syndicate, editor of The Twentieth Century, secretary to the diplomatic agent and consul-general of the United States in Egypt, assistant Sunday editor of the New York Herald, foreign editor of the Literary Digest; now associate editor of Current Literature and editor of The Bang; also associate editor of The Book-lovers' Shakespeare. He has translated Nietzsche's "Human, All too Human" (published by C. H. Kerr & Co.,) and is the author of: "The Make-Believers" a novel (1908) a "Life of Robert Louis Stevenson" (1906) and "Literary History of Treasure Island," (1906) published by The Current Literature Co. He has resided in Egypt in service of the United States Government, and journeyed in France, Italy and England. Mr. Harvey has written for magazines, such as The Cosmopolitan; has been associate editor on the staff of The Warner Library of the World's Best Literature; compiled, with H. W. Warner, a Dictionary of Authors, and acted as associate editor on the encyclopedia staff of J. A. Hill and Company, and the University Society. He is a Republican in politics, a Presbyterian in his religious views, and is a trustee of the Palisade Avenue United Presbyterian Church, of West Hoboken, N. J. Mr. Harvey is a member of The Vagabonds' Club, and of the National Arts Club. He married in Jersey City, N. J., April 7, 1895, Eva Augusta Schubert, and they have two sons: Julian Harvey, born in 1896 and Herbert Harvey, born in 1901. Residence: 105 Shippen Street, Weehawken Heights, N. J. Office address: 41 West 25th Street, New York City.

HARVEY, George:

Editor, publisher; born in Peacham, Vt., Feb. 16, 1864; son of Duncan and Margaret S. (Varnum) Harvey. He was graduated from Peacham Academy; and he received from Ersine College the degree of LL.D. in 1904. He was reported for the Springfield Republican, Chicago News and New York World, and managing editor of the New York World; constructor and president of various electric railroads, and he bought in March, 1899, the North American Review, of which he has since been editor. He became president of Harper & Brothers, in 1900, and since then has been editor of Harper's Weekly; and he was elected trustee of the Stevens Institute in 1903. In politics he is a Democrat. He is a member of the New York Lotos, Turf and Field, Racquet, Metropolitan, Lawyers' Clubs of New York, Devonshire and Savage Clubs, London, and Travelers' Club, Paris. Mr. Harvey married in Peacham, Vt., Oct. 13, 1887, Alma A. Parker. Residence: Deal, N. J. Address: Harper & Brothers, Franklin Square, New York City.

HARWOOD, Herbert Joseph:

Manufacturer of assembly chairs; born at Littleton, Mass., Sept. 6, 1854; son of Joseph Alfred and Lucy Maria (Hartwell) Harwood. He was educated in the public schools of Littleton, 1860-1869; at the Lancaster, Mass., Academy, 1869-1870, Phillips Exeter Academy 1870-1873, and at Harvard College until 1877, when he received the degree of A.B. After leaving college he was in the employ of the Montague Paper Company, Turner's Falls, Mass.; of J. A. and N. Harwood, and the Harwood Manufacturing Company, both of Boston, and of R. W. Reid and the Andrews-Denarest Seating Com- pany, both of New York, for whom he was the Boston representative. On Jan. 1, 1899, he went into business for himself in Boston, as a manufacturer of assembly chairs; and he is also director of the National Fibre Board Company. He was lieutenant-colonel and assistant adjutant-general on the staff of Governor John D. Long in 1882 and was a member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives in 1899. He is also trustee of the Bromfield School at Harvard, Mass.; was trustee of the public library at Littleton for twenty-one years until 1906; and was a member of the School Committee, 1893-1906. Mr. Harwood is a member of the New England Historic-Genealogical Society; of the Essex Institute, the Phi Beta Kappa Society of Harvard, and was an original member of the University Club of Boston from which he has resigned. While at Exeter Academy he was a member of the Golden Branch Society; and while at Harvard was a member of the Institute of 1770, the Delta Kappa Epsilon and the Hasty Pudding Club, and he is also a Mason. His favorite recreation is farming on the 222 acre estate and local history. He traveled in New Brunswick, England, and in France in 1869 and made various trips through the middle and west parts of the United States and in Canada. He is a Republican in politics and a member of the Unitarian Church. Mr. Harwood has written articles on Littleton, in Drake's History of Middlesex County, Mass., and in Hurd's History of Middlesex County, and has written and published Historical sketch of Littleton; and he is on a committee to publish the vital records of Littleton. He married at Lancaster, Mass., Oct. 15, 1879, Emelie Augusta Green and their children are: Joseph Alfred, born in 1880; Helen Diman, born in 1883; Margaret, born in 1885; Richard Green, born in 1886; Herbert Edward, born in 1889; Emelie Minerva, born in 1891; Jonathan Hartwell, born in 1892, and Robert Walker, born in 1897. Residence: Littleton, Mass. Office: 220 Devonshire Street, Boston.

HASKELL, Charles Nathaniel:

Governor of Oklahoma; born in Putnam County, Ohio, 1860; was reared on a farm; taught school, and read law. In 1881 he was admitted to the bar, and began practicing at Ottawa, Ohio. He engaged in railway building and other construction work in 1888, and went to Muskogee, Indian Territory, in 1901 where he built many lines of railroad. Governor Haskell was a member of the Oklahoma Constitutional Convention, and was elected 1st governor of the State of Oklahoma in 1907. He was selected as treasurer of the national campaign committee of the Democratic party in 1908 but resigned in order to carry on the controversy with President Roosevelt which was one of the features of that campaign. In 1881 he married Lucie Pomeroy, who died in 1888, and his second wife was Lillie E. Gallup. Address: Muskogee, Okla.

HASKELL, Edward H.:

Paper manufacturer; born in Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 5, 1845; son of William H. and Mary S. Haskell, and was educated in the public schools of Gloucester. Colonel Haskell served in the Civil War as signal officer with Burnside in North Carolina in the campaign of 1861-1862; was in the campaign of the Army of Virginia and Tennessee, 1862-1863; with Sherman in Georgia in 1864; assistant adjutant-general on Governor Long's staff, 1880-1883. He was a member of the Massachusetts Legislature, 1877-1878; a member of the Governor's Council, 1882-1885; served as delegate to the Republican National Convention in 1880 and 1884, and was secretary of the latter convention. Colonel Haskell was president of the Boston Paper Trade Association, and is now president of the Haskell-Dawes Machine Company, of the New England Baptist Hospital, and the American Baptist Home Mission Society. Colonel Haskell married at Gloucester in 1866 Hattie J. Munsey and has three children. Residence: 888 Beacon Street, Newton Center, Mass. Office: 176 Federal Street, Boston.

HASKELL, William Edwin:

Editor and publisher; born in Charlestown Mass., June 18, 1862; son of Edwin Bradbury and Celia (Hill) Haskell; grandson of Jonas and Joanna (Hubbard) Hill, and of Moses Greenleaf and Rosilla (Haines) Haskell, and a descendant of Samuel Haines, who came from England to Portsmouth, N. H., in 1646; and of William Haskell, who came from England to Gloucester in 1635. Mr. Haskell was graduated at Harvard with the class of 1884. He acquired a half interest in the Minneapolis tribune and conducted the paper 1884-1888; became part owner of the Minneapolis Journal in 1885, his father being chief owner of the paper, and he was editor-in-chief and general manager, 1894-1900, and on May 1, 1900, became proprietor of the Minneapolis Times, retaining the ownership after he left the city of Minneapolis in order to take charge of the Boston Herald as its proprietor. He was a member of the staff of Governor Merriam with the rank of colonel, 1889-1893; and a member of the personal staff of Governor McGill, 1887-1889. He removed to Boston, a few years later, and assumed the proprietorship of the Boston Herald, of which his father was publisher and a chief owner from 1869, up to the time of his death in 1907. His assumption of the direction of the affairs of the Herald was followed by a marked improvement in its affairs in every respect and a resumption of its position in the New England newspaper world which had been to a degree threatened by the active competition in the newspaper business of Boston. Address: Boston Herald, Boston.

HASKINS, Caryl Davis:

Electrical engineer; born at Waltham, Mass., May 23, 1867; son of John F. and Helen P. (Davis) Haskins. He was educated at Allison Towers and Rosindale Schools (England). London University (Tuition System). London, England; and has received the degree of E.E. from the University of Vermont. Mr. Haskins began his career with Haskins, Davis and Company, engineers, London, 1887; S. Z. de Ferranti and Company, engineers, of London, 1888; Thompson Electric Welding Company, 1889; Thompson-Houston Electric Company, and its successor, General Electric Company, since 1889, and is now manager of the lighting department. He has been granted about twenty-five patents for electrical and other inventions. He commanded the Boston Battalion of the Volunteer Electrical Corps, U. S. Army, in the Spanish-American War, 1898. He is a member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, U. S. Naval Institute, Military Service Institution, National Geographic Society. He is author of: Transformers, 1889; joint author of Questions and Answers About Electricity, 1889; also about forty technical papers and essays. Also of fiction: For the Queen in South Africa, 1899; and about ten stories, sketches and essays. Mr. Haskins is a member of the Engineers' Club of New York City, the Mohawk, and Mohawk Golf Clubs of Schenectady; and the Aulters Golf Club of Amsterdam, N. Y. He married in Wakefield, Mass., November, 1894, Frances J. Parker. Address: Schenectady, N. Y.

HASKINS, Kittredge:

Lawyer; born in Dover, Vt., April 8, 1836. He was educated in the public schools and by a private tutor; read law and was admitted to the bar of the State Courts in April, 1858, and of the Supreme Court of the United States in January, 1885; was State's attorney for Windham County, 1870-1872; U. S. attorney for the district of Vermont, 1880-1887; served as first lieutenant of Company I, 16th Regiment, Vermont Volunteers, in the Union Army. In 1869 he was appointed colonel and chief of staff to Governor Peter T. Washburn; is a member of the Grand Army of the Republic and of the Loyal Legion; served on the Republican State Committee for the Second Congressional district, 1876-1884; represented Brattleboro in the legislature, 1872-1874, and again 1896-1900; was speaker of the house at the special war session in May, 1898, and again of the regular session, 1898-1900; was State senator from Windham County from 1892-1894; is a member of the board of trustees of the Norwich University; was elected from the Second Vermont District to the Fifty-seventh, Fifty-eighth, and Fifty-ninth and Sixtieth Congresses, his services expiring in 1909. Address: Brattleboro, Vt.

HASTINGS, Hugh:

Tax commissioner of New York City; born in Albany, N. Y., July 22, 1856; son of Col. John and Margaret Hastings. He was educated in the public and private schools of Albany, and removed to New York City in March, 1874. He was attached to the Commercial Advertiser, May, 1874, as Wall Street reporter; established a reputation as a political and military writer; was with the New York World, 1885-1888, as chief political correspondent; and with the New York Times in the same capacity, 1888-1895; appointed, April 25, 1895, as State historian, an office created for him by Governor Morton; reappointed, 1899, by Governor Roosevelt, and 1903, by Governor Odell. He resigned in July, 1907, to accept the position of tax commissioner of New York City, offered to him by Mayor McClellan. Mr. Hastings edited and published Ancient American Politics, written by his uncle, Hugh J. Hastings, Franklin Square Library (Harper's) Series 1886; also in his official capacity, two volumes of Colonial Records and Muster Rolls; three volumes of Military Papers of Governor Daniel D. Tompkins; eight volumes of Public Papers of Governor George Clinton; six volumes of Ecclesiastical Records of New York; four volumes of Military Minutes of Council of Appointment of New York; one volume of New York and the War with Spain. He prepared for publication six volumes of the Public Papers of Sir William Johnson, and two volumes of the Military Papers of Col. Peter Gansevoort. Mr. Hastings is a member of the Society of Colonial Wars, Sons of the Revolution, Sons of the American Revolution (honorary member), Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States and the New York Athletic and Transportation Clubs of New York City, Albany Club of Albany, and the Army and Navy Club of Washington, D. C. He married in Charleston, S. C., April 5, 1883, Lillie R. Finley, daughter of Dr. George Dock of Harrisburg, Pa. Address: 31 Chambers Street, New York City.

HATCH, John Leffingwell:

Physician and surgeon; born in Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 8, 1863; son of Charles Bacon and Sarah Adelaide (Leffingwell) Hatch. He was educated in the University of Rochester and the University of Pennsylvania, receiving the degree of B.Sc. and M.D.; and he received the Medical News Prize and the George B. Wood gold medal at the University of Pennsylvania in 1888. He also studied abroad in Germany, France and England, receiving the degree F.R.M.S. (London). Dr. Hatch engaged in the practice of medicine in New York City, with a specialty in genito-urinary surgery. He was sanitary inspector of the port of Antwerp, Belgium, in the U. S. Marine Hospital Service during the cholera epidemic of 1892 and 1893. He was formerly lecturer on bacteriology and demonstrator of morbid anatomy in the University of Pennsylvania; pathologist of the Philadelphia Hospital, adjunct professor of laryngology in the New York Clinical School of Medicine; assistant in the Genito-Urinary Clinic of the Post-Graduate Hospital of New York City. He is a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon and T.N.E. Pathological Society of Philadelphia; fellow of the Royal Microscopical Society of Great Britain; member of the American Society of Tropical Medicine, American Society of Urology, and the Reno-Vesicle Society of New York. Dr. Hatch has contributed largely to medical literature in magazine articles, monographs, brochures, etc., and has written short stories, poems and the libretto of a comic opera. He married in Hoboken, N. J., July 8, 1902, Nancy Elmer Gasser, and has one son. Address: 52 West 37th Street, New York City.

HATFIELD, Charles Albert Phelps:

Colonel of the Thirteenth Cavalry, United States Army; born in Dayton, Ala., Dec. 9, 1850; son of Henry Phillips and Stella (Phelps) Hatfield. He was graduated from the U. S. Military Academy, in June, 1872. He was on the cavalry raid into Coahuila, Mexico, in May, 1873, and on May 18, 1873, in an engagement with hostile Indians at Remalino, Mexico, and on Oct. 27 and 29, JOHN LEFFINGWELL HATCH, M. D.

1874, was in an engagement with Comanche Indians in the Pan-Handle of Texas. On May 15, was in an engagement with the Geronimo Apaches, in Sonora, Mexico, and was brevetted major for this action. He also served in Cuba from July, 1889 to May, 1901, and in the Philippines from September, 1901, to April, 1905. After his graduation he served as second and first lieutenant and captain in the 4th U. S. Cavalry from June, 1872, to October, 1898; as major of the 8th U. S. Cavalry from October, 1898, to April, 1901; as lieutenant-colonel of the 5th Cavalry from April, 1901, to March, 1903, and colonel of the 13th Cavalry since March, 1903, being for some time in command of the important post at Fort Myer, Va., before returning with his regiment to the Philippines. He traveled in Japan in 1905 and China in 1906. Colonel Hatfield married in Colorado, Oct. 4, 1880, Frances Ellen Blackmore, and has two children. Address: Manila, P. I.

HAUGEN, Gilbert N.:

Congressman; born in Rock County, Wis., April 21, 1859. Since the age of fourteen, and prior to his election to Congress, he was actively engaged in various enterprises, principally real estate and banking; was treasurer of Worth County, Iowa, for six years; was elected to the Iowa Legislature, serving in the Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth General Assemblies; was elected to the Fifty-sixth, Fifty-seventh, Fifty-eighth and Fifty-ninth and Sixtieth Congresses and reelected to the sixty-first Congress from the Fourth Iowa District, on the Republican ticket. He married in Winneshiek County, Iowa, Oct. 25, 1885, Bertha Elise Evensen. Address: Northwood, Iowa.

HAVEMEYER, John Craig:

Merchant, sugar refiner; born in New York City, 1833; son of William F. and Sarah A. Havemeyer; educated at private schools and prepared for college at Columbia College Grammar School, but owing to failing eyesight, was unable to complete college course. Traveled in Europe, Syria and Egypt, 1852-1853; in 1854 assumed responsibility of office work at sugar refinery of Havemeyer and Moller; in 1856 established sugar refinery in Brooklyn and commenced business for himself, but later sold out and became connected with Havemeyer & Moller again, under firm of Havemeyer Bros. & Co.; in 1871 engaged in sugar refining business in Greenpoint, Long Island; continued until 1880, when failing health obliged him to retire. In past years has been trustee and director in railroad and other corporations and various benevolent societies. Writer and speaker on political, moral and religious topics; wrote monographs on: The Relation of the United States to Armenia; Why I Vote for Hancock; Various Studies of Labor Unions; Labor, Accumulation of Wealth and connected subjects; Patriotism and the American Flag; Shall We Prepare for War in Times of Peace?; Logic of Sabbath Observance; Railroad Excursions on Sunday; Ministers with Titles; Various Discussions of Church Work and Religious Methods; The Needs of the Church from a Layman's Standpoint; What is Love of Country? Married, 1872, Alice Alide Francis. Address: Yonkers, N. Y.

HAVEMEYER, William F.:

Capitalist; born in New York City, March 31, 1850; son of William F. and Sarah Agnes (Craig) Havemeyer. After receiving his education in private schools, he engaged in business. He is a trustee of the North River Savings Bank; director of the Century Realty Company, Chelsea Realty Company, Colorado Eastern Railway Company, Corn Exchange Bank, Fifth Avenue Estates, National Bank of North America, New York Mortgage and Security Company, Nineteenth Ward Bank, Title Insurance Company of New York, Union Ferry Company of New York and Brooklyn, United States Realty and Improvement Company, Van Norden Safe Deposit Company, and Van Norden Trust Company. He is treasurer of the Council of New York University and is a member of the Union League, Metropolitan, Century, Down Town, Grolier, National Arts and Ardsley Clubs. Mr. Havemeyer married in New York City, April 3, 1877, Josephine Harmon, and they have four children. Residence: 10 East 57th Street. Address: 32 Nassau Street, New York City.

HAWES, Harriet Boyd:

Archaeologist; born in Boston, Oct. 11, 1871; daughter of Alexander and Harriet Fay (Wheeler) Boyd. She was graduated from Smith College, A.B., 1892, A.M., 1901. She married in Washington, D. C., March 3, 1906, Charles Henry Hawes, M.A., of Cambridge, England, and has a son. Following her graduation she taught for four years, and then became a student in the American School of Classical Studies in Athens, and an army nurse in the Greco-Turkish War in Thessaly, 1896-1897; Red Cross nurse in the Spanish-American War at Tampa, 1898; fellow in the American School at Athens, 1898-1900. She then took up her successful career as an archaeological explorer, excavated Early Iron Age houses and tombs (date circa 1000 B. C.), for the American School, at Karousi, Crete, 1900; excavated Bronze Age City (date circa 1700-1500 B. C.) for the Exploration Society of Philadelphia (University of Pennsylvania), 1901-1904; was instructor in archaeology in Smith College, 1900-1905. She studied again in Crete, 1905. Mr. Hawes, her husband, who is author of In the Uttermost East, is now a lecturer in Anthropology in the University of Wisconsin. Mrs. Hawes, before her marriage wrote several articles for the American Journal of Archaeology and the Transactions of the University of Pennsylvania, describing her discoveries, and is author of a folio volume on Gournia and other Prehistoric Sites on the Isthmus of Hierapetra, Crete. She lectured for the American Institute of Archaeology in 1901, at Boston, Yale, New York, Johns Hopkins, Washington, Cleveland, Chicago, Detroit and the Universities of Wisconsin, Iowa and Missouri, being the first and only woman to lecture in this way for this Institute, of which she is a member. She is also member of the Society for the Promotion of Hellenic Studies of England, and of the Alpha Society of Smith College. She was decorated by Queen Olga, of Greece, in June, 1899, for service in the Greek War, 1897. Address: 419 Sterling Court, Madison, Wis.

HAWLEY, Edwin:

Railway official; born in Chatham, Columbia County, N. Y., in 1850. He began his railway service in June, 1867, as clerk with the Erie Railroad; was clerk and ticket agent of the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad, 1868-1870; clerk and later contracting agent of the Rock Island Route, 1870-1874; contracting agent, 1874-1875, and general eastern agent, 1875-1883, of the California Fast Freight Line; general eastern agent of the Galveston, Harrisburg and San Francisco Railway and Southern Pacific Railway, from 1883 and also from 1885 of Morgan's Louisiana and Texas Railroad and Steamship Company, Houston and Texas Central Railroad, Texas and New Orleans Railroad, Louisiana Western Railroad and Mexican International Railroad, and after those were amalgamated, March, 1890, became assistant general traffic manager of the Southern Pacific Company, at New York City, until he resigned, in 1902. Mr. Hawley became vice-president, Oct., 1894-1896, and president, since 1899, of the Minneapolis and St. Louis Railway; also, since June, 1900, president of the Iowa Central Railway. In 1906 he was elected president of the Great Western Power Company of California. Mr. Hawley is a member of the Lawyers', Metropolitan, Merchants', City Midday, Riding, and Country Clubs of New York City, the Automobile Club of America, and Bay Shore Golf Club. Address: 25 Broad Street, New York City.

HAWLEY, Willis Chatman:

Congressman and college president; born near Monroe, Benton County, Ore., May 5, 1864; son of Sewell Ransom and Emma Amelia (Noble) Hawley. He was graduated from the Willamette University, Salem, Ore., B.S., 1884, A.B., and LL.B., 1888, A.M., 1891. He was principal of Umpqua Academy, Wilbur, Ore., 1884-1886; professor of history and economics at Willamette University, 1891-1907. Mr. Hawley was president of the Oregon State Normal School at Drain, Ore., 1888-1891, of Willamette University, 1893-1902. He is also president of the Willamette Valley Chautauqua, at Oregon City since 1899, and chairman of the Board of Managers of the Pacific Jurisdiction of Woodmen of the World. He was elected in 1906 as a Republican representative to the Sixtieth Congress and reelected in 1908 to the Sixty-first Congress. He is a member of the American Historical Association and of the Oregon Historical Society; also of the Pacific Jurisdiction, Women of Woodcraft; and is a Royal Arch Mason. He married at Albany, Ore., Aug. 19, 1885, Anna Martha Geisendorfer, and has three children. Address: Salem, Ore.

HAWTHORNE, Julian:

Novelist, journalist, historical writer and biographer; born in Boston, Mass., June 22, 1846; son of Nathaniel Hawthorne, the novelist, and Sophia (Peabody) Hawthorne. He lived in Europe, 1853-1860; Concord and Cambridge, Mass., 1860-1868; Dresden, 1868-1869; in New York as hydrographic engineer in the Dock Department, 1869-1871; Dresden, 1871-1873; London and neighborhood, 1874-1881; New York, 1881-1889; Europe in 1889; New York, 1890-1894; Jamaica, West Indies, 1894-1897; India in 1897; and in New York since 1898. He has not practised engineering since 1871, but has followed authorship exclusively. He is author of: Saxon Studies, 1874; Garth, 1875; Archibald Malmaison, 1878; Sebastian Strome, 1879; Dust, 1882; Fortune's Fool, 1883; Sinfire, 1885; Biography of Nathaniel Hawthorne, 1885; Fool of Nature, 1897 (ten thousand dollar prize novel); Love is a Spirit, 1898; and many others, besides early novels and stories. Mr. Hawthorne was receiver on the London the New York World, 1885; and correspondent in the Indian plague and famine in 1897, of the Cosmopolitan Magazine; literary critic of the North American, Philadelphia, 1901-1903; and is now engaged in mining affairs. He married in New York, Nov. 15, 1870, Minnie Amelung, and they have seven children. Address: 49 Arthur Street, Yonkers, N. Y.

HAY, Henry Hanby:

Teacher, lecturer and poet; born in Douglas, Isle of Man, Oct. 26, 1849; son of John and Sarah Ann (Hanby) Hay. He was educated in Glen Lyon House, Isle of Man, and was prepared for college, but never entered. He has long resided in Philadelphia, where he has been engaged in educational and literary work. He has done much in literary criticism, and has written on Shakespearean subjects, but is best known as a poet, and of his poems two volumes, Created Gold, and Trumpets and Shawms, have been published. His play, The Flight of the Dutchess, was produced at the South Broad Street Theater, Philadelphia, in 1902. By request he wrote for the Britons of Philadelphia an Ode for the Diamond Jubilee, which received the thanks of Queen Victoria; another ode received the thanks of the King of Italy, and odes on Shakespeare and Girard, written for public occasions, have received much praise; and his Civic Ode, on the opening of Founders' Week, 1908, was delivered in the Academy of Music to a great audience. He is also well known as a lecturer and after-dinner speaker; and is editor of the Household Magazine. Mr. Hay is a member and vice-president of the Browning Society of Philadelphia; and a director of the Philobiblon Society. He is an Episcopalian in religious connections and is a member of the St. George Society, the Jewish Literary Society, and the Howstrake and The Mermaid Clubs. He was also the founder of The Club, an organization for special literary work, composed of leading literary men of Philadelphia. Mr. Hay married in New Castle, Del., April 12, 1898, Sophia Booth Rodney. Address: The Lansdowne, 41st Street and Parkside Avenue, Philadelphia.

HAY, Louis Condit:

Stock broker; born in Orange, N. J., Nov. 29, 1859; son of Silas Condit and Elizabeth Caroline (Platt) Hay. He was educated in J. H. Morse's School, New York City, and was graduated from Williston Seminary, Easthampton, Mass., 1877, and Yale University, A.B., 1881. He was engaged in real estate operations, chiefly in New York City, 1884-1897; was an export lumber merchant in London, 1897-1908; returned to New York City, and is now a member of the New York Stock Exchange firm of Hay and Boynton. Mr. Hay is a Republican, and was one of the originators and chairman of the Executive Committee of the Taft Organization of the State of New York, which was formed in March, 1908, to influence public opinion in favor of the nomination of William H. Taft for the Presidency. He has travelled extensively in Great Britain and Ireland, Germany, France, Italy, Holland, Belgium, Austria and Russia. He is a member of the Royal Geographical Society and of the Chamber of Commerce of London, is secretary of the Pilgrims Society of the United States, director of the U. S. Navy League, and organized and founded the London section of the same; member of the Sons of the Revolution of New York, the Century Association, the University and Yale Clubs of New York City and the Devonshire Club of London. Mr. Hay married in Saginaw, Mich., Nov. 2, 1887, Jennie Eloise Burt, and they have one son, Wellington Burt Hay. Residence: 205 West 57th Street. Office: 60 Broadway, New York City.

HAYDEL, Abner J.:

Architect; born in St. John the Baptist Parish, La., 1868. He was educated in the College of Bay St. Louis, Miss., took the architectural course at Cornell University, 1887-1889; studied architecture at the École des Beaux Arts, Paris, France, 1889-1892. He has been architect of numerous buildings, the more notable of which are the Shepard Memorial Church and Grey Craig Castle, Newport, R. I.; in 1901 traveled in Europe to study castles for Howard Gould, and was subsequently employed as architect in the construction of Mr. Gould's Castle Gould, on Long Island; exhibited at Paris Exhibition, 1900, the Shepard Memorial Church, and received medal. He has been much abroad, particularly in Italy, where he remained for long periods studying medieval architecture and decoration. Mr. Haydel is a member of the Architectural League of New York; charter member of the Beaux Arts Society of Architects of New York, and a member of the Cornell Alumni Association, and the City Club of New York. Address: 156 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

HAYDEN, Charles:

Banker; born in Boston, July 9, 1870; son of Josiah W. Hayden and Emma A. (Maxwell) Hayden. He was graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology as B.S. Mr. Hayden is trustee and a member of the executive committee of the Boston and Worcester Electric companies; treasurer and director of the Continental Zinc Company; director and member of the executive committee of the Lamson Consolidated Store Service Company; and of the Shannon Copper Company; and is director of the National Shawmut Bank of Boston, Goldfield Consolidated Mines Company, Utah Copper Company, the Nevada Consolidated Company, the Nevada Northern Railway Company, the Twin City Rapid Transit Company, and the American Pneumatic Service Company; and he is treasurer and director of the United Telegram Company. He was major and aide-de-camp of the general staff of the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia and disbursing officer for the United States Government in Massachusetts, and is now paymaster-general, Massachusetts Volunteer Militia. He is a member of the Theta Xi fraternity and of the University, Algonquin, Boston Athletic, Art, Country, Exchange, and Nahant Clubs; the New York Yacht Club; Eastern Yacht Club, Boston Yacht Club, and the Massachusetts Automobile Club; and is steward of the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association, and a member of the Metropolitan Club of Washington, D. C., and the Metropolitan Club of New York. Residence: Nahant Club, Nahant. Office: 87 Milk Street, Boston.

HAYES, Everis Anson:

Congressman; born at Waterloo, Wis., March 10, 1855. He entered the University of Wisconsin at Madison in 1873 and was graduated from both the literary and law departments of that institution, receiving the degrees of B.L. and LL.B., the latter in 1879. He began at once the practice of his profession at Madison; in 1883 moved to Ashland, Wis., and while engaged in the practice of law at Ashland he became interested in iron mines on the Gogebic Range in northern Wisconsin and Michigan, and since 1885 much of his time has been devoted to the personal management of the business of these properties. In 1887 he removed to Santa Clara County, Calif., and there has been engaged in fruit raising and mining, and, with his brother, is publisher and proprietor of the San José Daily Morning Mercury and Evening Herald. He was for two years an alderman of the city of Madison and for one year member of the board of supervisors of Gogebic County, Mich. He was elected, as a Republican, to the Fifty-ninth and Sixtieth Congresses, and reelected in 1908 to the Sixty-first Congress. Address: San José, Calif.

HAYES, John Russell:

Author and librarian of Swarthmore College; born in West Chester, Pa., June 25, 1866; son of William M. and Rachel H. (Russell) Hayes. His ancestors on both sides were of old Chester County and Lancaster County Quaker stock. He was graduated from West Chester High School, 1884; Swarthmore College, 1888; and Harvard University, 1889. He studied law with his father, and at the University of Pennsylvania Law School, and was graduated LL.B., 1892. He practised law, 1891-1892; studied English literature at Oxford and Strassburg, 1892-1893; taught in the English Department of Swarthmore College, 1893-1906. He is author of: The Old-Fashioned Garden and Other Verses, 1895; The Brandywine, 1898 (second edition, 1899); Swarthmore Idylls, 1899; In a Brandywine Harvest Field, 1903; The Shepherd's Hour Glass (songs and reveries beside the Brandywine), 1904. Mr. Hayes has written odes for the twenty-fifth anniversary of Swarthmore College, the West Chester Centennial, etc. He is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Society and contributor to Book News Monthly. Mr. Hayes married June 30, 1892, Emma Gawthrop of Wilmington, Del. Address: Swarthmore, Pa.

HAYES, John W.:

Labor leader; born in Philadelphia, Dec. 24, 1854. His education has been acquired entirely through his own efforts and study. When a youth he entered the service of the Pennsylvania Railroad as a brakeman, and while serving thus lost his right arm. Subsequently he learned telegraphy and was employed as such until the general strike of 1883. Since 1884 he has been connected with the Knights of Labor and prominent in labor organization, first as a member of the General Executive Board, 1884-1888; as general secretary-treasurer, 1888-1902; and since November of that year general master workman. He is also editor of the Journal of the Knights of Labor. Address: 43 B. Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

HAYES, William Van Valzah:

Physician; born Lewisburg, Pa., Sept. 22, 1867; son of Hon. Alfred and Mary (Van Valzah) Hayes. He was graduated from Bucknell College, Ph.B., 1888; student in Berlin and Paris, 1888-1889; was graduated from the College of Physicians and Surgeons (Columbia medical department), 1893 (one of ten Harsen Prize men); graduate of New York Hospital, Sloane Maternity Hospital, and New York Foundling Hospital. Since completing his hospital service he has been in private practice in New York City, giving his attention chiefly to diseases of the gastro-intestinal tract; and was elected professor of diseases of the digestive system at the New York Polyclinic School and Hospital in 1904. Dr. Hayes is attending physician of the New York Polyclinic Hospital; member of the American and New York Academies of Medicine; American Medical Association, Medical Society of the County of New York Medical Association of the Greater City of New York, Medical Society State of New York, Society of Alumni of New York Hospital, Society of Alumni of Sloane Maternity Hospital, Clinical Society of New York Polyclinic, Men's Association of the Brick Church, and Delta Upsilon fraternity, and of the Quill and Students' Clubs. He married in Altoona, Pa., Sept. 9, 1903, Mary Coulbourne Conner. Address: 34 West 50th Street, New York City.

HAYNES, Irving Samuel:

Physician; born in Saranac, N. Y., Aug. 29, 1861; son of Samuel and Phoebe (Ayres) Haynes; educated Plattsburg (N. Y.) High School; graduated Wesleyan University, Ph.B., 1885 (honor in chemistry and the J. Brown Goode Prize for original research in biology); medical department, New York University, M.D., 1887. Junior and senior assistant and house surgeon, Bellevue Hospital, 1887-1888; assistant demonstrator of anatomy, New York University Medical College, 1888, demonstrator anatomy, 1889; adjunct professor anatomy, 1894; professor practical anatomy, Cornell University Medical College, 1898; attending surgeon outdoor department Chambers Street Hospital, 1888-1890; assistant attending surgeon, New York Orthopaedic Hospital and Dispensary, 1891-1899; visiting surgeon to the Harlem Hospital since 1895. Independent in politics. Methodist. Member Bellevue Alumni Society, New York County and New York State Medical Societies, American Medical Association, Association of American Anatomists, New York Academy of Medicine, Harlem Medical Association, New York Surgical Society. Author: Guide to Dissection; Manual of Anatomy, and numerous papers on medical topics. Recreations: Country life, fishing, etc. Clubs: Laurentides Fish and Game, Graduates'. Married, first, Plattsburg, N. Y., 1890, Charlotte E. Scribner (died Dec. 7, 1897); second, East Beckmantown, July 5, 1899, Laura E. Marsh; children: Harriet M. (born Sept. 4, 1900), Dorothy (born Dec. 29, 1902), Irving Samuel, Jr. (born Sept. 11, 1908).

Address: 1125 Madison Avenue, New York City.

HAYS, Charles Melville:

Second vice-president and general manager of the Grand Trunk Railway; born in Rock Island, Ill., May 16, 1856. He began his railway career as a clerk with the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad at St. Louis, in 1873; became secretary to the general manager of the Missouri Pacific Railway, 1877-1884, and to the general manager of the Wabash, St. Louis and Pacific, in 1884. He became assistant general manager in 1886; general manager of the Wabash Western in 1887; vice-president of the Wabash Railroad from 1894 until Jan. 1, 1896, when he became general manager of the Grand Trunk, serving as such until Jan. 1, 1901, when he was chosen president of the Southern Pacific Railway. He retired from that office later in 1901 to return to the Grand Trunk Railway in his present position of second vice-president and general manager, which office he still holds. He is also president of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, Central Vermont Railway, Detroit, Grand Haven and Milwaukee Railway, Toledo, Saginaw and Muskegon Railway, Michigan Air Line Railway, Chicago, Detroit and Canada Grand Trunk Junction Railroad, Detroit and Toledo Shore Line, Canadian Express Company, St. Clair Tunnel Company, International Bridge Company, Montreal Warehouse Company, Portland Elevator Company, and New England Elevator Company; and represents the Grand Trunk Railway as director of the Chicago and Western Indiana Railroad, and the Belt Railway of Chicago. Office: Grand Trunk Railway, Montreal, Quebec, Canada.

HAYS, Willet Martin:

Assistant secretary of Agriculture; born near Eldora, Iowa, Oct. 19, 1859. His early life was spent on his mother's farm in Iowa, his father having died when he was six years of age. He attended Oskaloosa College and Drake University, and subsequently attended the Iowa Agricultural College, from which he was graduated in 1885. In 1886 he was made assistant in agricultural experiments in the Iowa Agricultural College, where he conducted important investigations, demonstrating the wide extent and character of the roots of corn; was associate editor on the Prairie Farmer, Chicago, 1887-1888; assistant in agriculture, 1888-1890, and professor of agriculture, 1890-1892, in the College of Agriculture, University of Minnesota, and agriculturist of the Experiment Station in the university. In 1892 Professor Hays removed to North Dakota, where he held similar positions in the North Dakota Agricultural College and Experiment Station. He began there a series of experiments in farm management, especially crop rotation and statistics in relation to the cost of farm products, and also the theoretical investigation of plant and animal breeding. In 1894 he returned to Minnesota and resumed his former place as professor of agriculture in the University of Minnesota, and agriculturist of the Experiment Station. President Roosevelt appointed him assistant secretary of Agriculture Dec. 19, 1904. Professor Hays was active in the organization of the American Breeders' Association in 1903, and is its secretary and executive officer. His writings have been mainly along the lines of plant and animal breeding, agricultural engineering, farm management, agricultural economies, and the organization of agricultural education, and he is author of text-books on Agriculture. In 1885 Professor Hays married Clara Sheperd, of Clinton, Iowa, who died in 1893, leaving two children. He married again, 1897, Miss Ellen Beach, and two children have been born to them. Address: Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST Proprietor of New York American

HAZARD, Caroline:

President of Wellesley College; born in Peace Dale, R. I., June 10, 1856; daughter of Rowland and Margaret (Rood) Hazard. She was educated by private governesses and afterward in Miss Shaw's School in Providence, R. I., followed by private study abroad. She was elected president of Wellesley College in 1899, and has received the degrees of A.M. from the University of Michigan, and Litt.D. from Brown University, 1899, and LL.D. from Tufts College, 1905. She is author of: Narragansett Ballads, 1894; The Narragansett Friends' Meeting, 1899; and other books. She is a member of the Colonial Dames of America, the Rhode Island Historical Society, Massachusetts State Board of Education, and other learned societies. Address: Wellesley, Mass.

HAZEL, John Raymond:

United States judge; born in Buffalo, in Dec., 1860; son of John K. and Adelaide Hazel. After completing his education in the schools of Buffalo he studied law, and was admitted to the bar in April, 1882, practising law in Buffalo until appointed by President McKinley, in 1900, to the office of judge of the U. S. District Court for the Western District of New York, in which he continues. Judge Hazel administered the constitutional oath of office to President Roosevelt, Sept. 14, 1901, after the death of President McKinley. He is a member of the New York, Republican, Buffalo, and Ellicott Clubs. Address: 37 Hodge Avenue, Buffalo, N. Y.

HEALEY, John J.:

Lawyer; born in Chicago, Oct. 28, 1865; son of Maurice J. and Mary Healey. He was educated in the Lincoln public school and at North Division High School of Chicago, studied law and was admitted to the Illinois bar in 1886. He engaged in general practice and attained prominence in his profession. In 1904 he was elected to succeed Charles S. Deneen, the present governor of the State, as State's attorney of Cook County, serving until 1909. He has always been prominent in Republican politics. He is a member of the Chicago Athletic and Union League Clubs. He married in Chicago, June 21, 1900, and has three children. Address: 2291 Sheridan Road, Chicago.

HEARST, William Randolph:

Newspaper proprietor, publicist; born in San Francisco, Calif., 1863; son of U. S.

senator George Hearst and Phoebe (Apperson) Hearst. He was educated in the public schools of San Francisco and at Harvard. He became editor and proprietor of the San Francisco Examiner in 1886; in 1895 purchased and became editor of the New York Journal, and in 1896 established the New York Evening Journal; founded the Chicago American in 1900, and the Chicago Examiner in 1902; and in 1902 changed the name of the morning issue of the New York Journal to New York American. He also publishes the Los Angeles (California) Examiner and papers in Boston and Denver. He was president of the National Association of Democratic Clubs; was elected as Democrat to the Fifty-eighth and reelected to the Fifty-ninth Congress, from the Eleventh New York District; candidate for mayor of New York City on municipal ownership ticket, 1905, and was defeated by only a few hundred votes, according to the returns; nominee of the Independence League and the Democratic party for Governor of New York, 1906, but defeated. Mr. Hearst has been active in legislation, litigation and other efforts to curb the power of corporate combination, and was chief mover in the formation of the Independence League, which nominated a Presidential candidate in 1908, as a measure of opposition to both the Republican and Democratic parties. He inaugurated early and effective relief measures at times of distress at Galveston and San Francisco. Mr. Hearst married in New York City, April 28, 1903, Millicent, daughter of George H. Wilson. Address: 76 West Twelfth Street, New York City.

HEATON, Augustus George:

Artist and author; born in Philadelphia, April 28, 1844; son of Augustus Heaton and Rosabella (Crean) Heaton. He was educated in l'Ecole des Beaux Arts, Paris, which he was the first American to enter (1863), under Cabanel and studied later under Bonnat. Mr. Heaton exhibited in the Paris Salon in 1879, 1880, 1882, 1883, and in Rome. His painting, The Recall of Columbus, was bought in 1883 for the United States Capitol, and he received a medal for it in Chicago in 1893. Others of his notable pictures are: Washington at Fort Duquesne (Union League, Philadelphia, of which Mr. Heaton was long a member); Bishop Bowman (Cornell College, Iowa); Promoters of the New Library of Congress; Tulane and Gibson group (Tulane University, New Orleans); portrait of Miss Winnie Davis; and many portraits in many cities; also the painting, Baron Steuben at Valley Forge, 1777, exhibited at the Jamestown Exposition in 1907, and handsomely engraved in Vienna for New York publishers, a print being received with kindest appreciation by the Emperor William II. He is an associate of the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts and member of the National Society of Fine Arts. He was president of the Philadelphia Sketch Club in 1867; secretary of the Pen and Pencil Club, Paris, 1864; is a member and was president in 1888 of the American Numismatic Association; was secretary of the Literary Society of Washington in 1886, and vice-president of the Washington Society of Artists, and was long a member of Metropolitan Club of Washington. He is a member of the National Geographic Society, the American Archaeological Society, and the Cosmos Club of Washington, The Lotos Club of New York, The Salmagundi Club of New York, The Sons of the Revolution, The Sons of the American Revolution, life member Pennsylvania Historical Society, life member American Numismatic Society, councillor of the Actors' Church Alliance. Mr. Heaton has been an extensive traveler in Europe and the North American continent. In Nov., 1863, he was the bearer of complimentary documents from the Union League of Philadelphia to John Bright and Richard Cobden in England; and he was presented at the Italian Court to Queen Marguerite in 1882. He is author of: The Heart of David, 1900; and Fancies and Thoughts in Verse, 1904, which was praised by the late John Hay. In politics he is a Republican, and in religious connection an Episcopalian. He married in New York City, Dec. 24, 1874, Adelaide Greswold, and has three sons:

ROBERT WILLIAM HEBBERD
Commissioner of Public Charities, New York City

Augustus, born in 1875; Harry, born in 1877, and Perry, born in 1884. Address: Carnegie Hall, New York City.

HEATON, John Langdon:

Editor; born in Canton, N. Y., Jan. 29, 1860; son of Ira Wilmarth and Lucinda (Langdon) Heaton. He was graduated from St. Lawrence University, A.B., 1880, later A.M. Editorial writer on Brooklyn Times, 1882-1892; founder of the Providence (R. I.) News, 1892; on editorial staff of New York Recorder, 1894-1896; editor on New York Sunday World, 1897-1899; editorial writer on New York World since 1899. He is author of: The Story of Vermont; Stories of Napoleon; The Book of Lies; The Quilting Bee. Mr. Heaton is a member of the Board of Trustees of the Pulitzer Scholarship Fund, and of the University Club of Brooklyn. He married in Danvers, Mass., Aug. 22, 1882, Eliza Osborn Putnam, and has one son. Address: 131 Westminster Road, Brooklyn, N. Y.

HEBBERD, Robert William:

Commissioner of public charities of New York; born in New York City, Oct. 31, 1857; son of Gilbert C. and Isabella Lennox Hebbard; descended from Robert Hebbard, who came from Salisbury, England, and settled in Salem, Mass., in 1635, and from Oliver and Southwick Hebbard, Revolutionary soldiers. He was educated in Mynderse Academy, Seneca Falls, N. Y. He began his long connection with charities with the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor; was connected with The Charity Organization Society of the City of New York, 1882-1896, and was its superintendent, when appointed secretary of the State Board of Charities of New York, Oct. 15, 1896, remaining until Jan. 1, 1906, when he was appointed Commissioner of Public Charities, which office he now holds. He was president of the Fifth New York State Conference of Charities and Correction in 1904. Mr. Hebbard is compiler of: Charity Legislation in New York from 1609 to 1900, published by the State Board of Charities and Correction. He is a member of the National Conference of Charities and Correction, the New York State Conference of Charities and Correction. Mr. Hebbard is president of the Monday Club; member the American Political Science Association, and American Economic Association; is a Scottish Rite Mason, Knight Templar, and is trustee of Bellevue and Allied Hospitals. The Charity Organization Society of New York City, the New York Juvenile Asylum, and the New York Infant Asylum. He is a lecturer in the extension course of the State Board of Charities and in the course of the School of Philanthropy of The Charity Organization Society of the City of New York; and is a member of the City Club of New York. He married at Seneca Falls, Nov. 29, 1882, Harriet Metcalf. Address: 26 Gramercy Park, New York City.

HECKMAN, Wallace:

Lawyer; born at Moscow Mills, Morgan County, Ohio, May 22, 1851; son of Philip and Sarah Ann Heckman. He was graduated from Hillsdale College, Mich., in 1874. He studied law and was admitted to the Illinois bar June 1, 1876, and to practice before the United States Supreme Court in 1896. He is a member of the firm of Heckman, Eldson & Shaw; is counsel and business manager of the Chicago University, vice-president of the Merchants' Safe Deposit Company and of the National Storage Company, a director of the Hamilton National Bank, the Merchants' Building Company, and of the West Chicago Street Railway Company. Mr. Heckman is a member of the Union League, Kenwood, Law, Hamilton and Quadrangle Clubs of Chicago. He married in Schenectady, N. Y., Nov. 16, 1881, Tillie C. Howe, and has one daughter. Address: 135 Adams Street. Residence: 4505 Ellis Avenue, Chicago.

HEDGES, Job E.:

Lawyer; born at Elizabeth, N. J., May 10, 1862; son of Job Clark and Elizabeth Wood (Elmer) Hedges. He was graduated from Princeton, A.B., 1884; A.M., 1887; and from Columbia Law School as LL.B. in 1886; and engaged in the practice of law in New York City in 1886. Mr. Hedges was secretary to Mayor Strong, 1895-1897, city magistrate, May-December, 1897, and deputy attorney-general of the State of New York in 1900. He is a Republican in politics, and a member of the American Bar Association, the New York State Bar Association, the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, Sons of Veterans, Sons of the American Revolution, and the Union League, University, Princeton, and Lawyers' Clubs. Address: 141 Broadway, New York City.

HEFELBOWER, Samuel Gring:

President of Pennsylvania College; born in Newville, Pa., Nov. 11, 1871; son of Samuel and Anna Elizabeth (Gring) Hefelbower. He attended the Dickinson Preparatory School of Carlisle, Pa., 1885-1887, and was graduated from Pennsylvania College, A.B., 1891, A.M., 1894. Thence he entered Gettysburg Seminary; his studies being carried on further at the Leipzig University, Germany, 1895-1896 and at Leipzig and Halle, 1901-1902. The honorary degree of D.D. was conferred upon him by Dickinson College in 1905. On his return from Europe in 1896, he accepted a call to the pastorate of the Lutheran Church at Manheim, Pa., and after three years went to Frostburg, Md., as pastor of the Lutheran Church. Here he officiated until 1901, and in 1902 became professor of German at Pennsylvania College. In 1904 he was elected by the trustees president of the college. Dr. Hefelbower is a member of the General Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran Church, and of Phi Beta Kappa of Dickinson College. He married first, at Troy, Pa., May 6, 1897, Edna May Loomis; second at Frostburg, Md., Sept. 25, 1902, Anna Eaton Hitchins; he has one daughter, Edna Elizabeth. Address: Gettysburg, Pa.

HEFLIN, James Thomas:

Congressman and lawyer; born in Louina, Randolph County, Ala., April 9, 1869; son of Dr. W. L. and Levieie Catherine (Phillips) Heflin. He was educated in the Southern University, Greensboro, Ala., and the Agricultural and Mechanical College, Auburn, Ala. studied law at Lafayette, Ala., under Judge N. D. Denson, and was admitted to the bar, Jan. 12, 1893. He was elected mayor of Lafayette, Ala., March 16, 1893, and reelected, holding this office two terms; was register in chancery two years, resigning in 1896 to accept the Democratic nomination from Chambers County to the Legislature; was elected in 1896 and reelected to the Legislature in 1898; was a member of the Democratic State Executive Committee from 1896 to 1902; was a delegate in the constitutional convention of Alabama in 1901; was elected secretary of State in November, 1902, for a term of four years; resigned that office May 1, 1904; was elected May 19, 1904, to fill the unexpired term of Hon. Charles W. Thompson, deceased, in the Fifty-eighth Congress, without opposition, and Nov. 8, 1904, reelected as Representative in the Fifty-ninth Congress, also to the Sixtieth and Sixty-first Congresses from the Fifth Alabama District. In politics he is a Democrat. He married at Lafayette, Ala., Dec. 18, 1895, Minnie Kate Schnessler. Address: Lafayette, Ala.

HEINZE, Arthur P.:

Lawyer and capitalist; born in Brooklyn, N. Y., Dec. 18, 1864; son of Otto and Lida (Marsh) Heinze. He entered Columbia College, where he was graduated with high honors in 1885. He returned to Leipzig, where he had received a portion of his preparatory education, continued his studies there for some time, and afterward at Heidelberg, and traveled on the Continent. On his return he entered the Law School of Columbia University and was graduated in 1888. After settling his father's estate in 1891 he made an extended foreign tour then joined his youngest brother, F. Augustus Heinze who had cast his fortunes in the Western country, and was located at Butte, Montana, where he had engaged in the copper mining industry. He joined his brother in organizing the Montana Ore Purchasing Company, which, in a short time, ranked third in the copper-producing companies of the State, disbursing more than twelve hundred thousand dollars in four years. During the protracted legal struggle over the interests of the ore company, which profoundly affected the history of the State,

Mr. Heinze looked after and managed the financial ends of his brother's copper mining and railroad enterprises in British Columbia, where the latter had built an extensive railroad and a smelter, and had received a subsidy of four million acres of land from the Canadian Government. This investment proved of immense value, and was subsequently sold to the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. Mr. Heinze then transferred the immediate supervision of his Western interests to other hands and returned to New York City, where the old firm of his father, Otto Heinze & Co., wholesale dry goods and commission merchants, is located, and in which concern he still retains a large interest. He is still vice-president of the United Copper Company, president of the Aetna Indemnity Company, and a director in the Nipper Consolidated Copper Company, besides holding a similar position in several banking concerns. He is a member of numerous social organizations and clubs, including the Hamilton, the Crescent Athletic Club of Brooklyn, the German Club and the Downtown Association of New York City, the Silver Bow Club of Butte, Mont., and the Karleuhensia Society of Heidelberg, Germany. Mr. Heinze married in 1899, Ruth Meiklejohn Noyes, daughter of John Noyes, one of the most prominent pioneer citizens of Montana. Residence: 220 Madison Avenue. Office: 31 Nassau Street, New York City.

HEINZE, F. Augustus:

Capitalist; born in Brooklyn, N. Y., Dec. 5, 1869; son of Otto and Lida (Marsh) Heinze. He was graduated from the Columbia College School of Mines, M.E., 1889, then spent a year in the best scientific schools of Germany. In 1890 he became connected with the Boston and Montana Copper Company at Butte, Mont., as a mining engineer, and two years later he started a mining enterprise of his own. His first operations were confined to mining under leases and concentrating ores so produced in a mill at Meaderville. Later he purchased this mill, and shortly afterward arranged to construct his own smelter. On Oct. 27, 1892, construction was begun, and inside of sixty-eight days the works produced copper matter; in 1893 the Montana Ore Purchasing Company which became one of the largest copper producing properties in the country. When the claims around Butte got so thick and close to each other that the operators began to clash, Eastern capital interested in the mines and Western operators conceived a plan of amalgamation, and the Copper Trust was formed, under the name of the Amalgamated Copper Company. Mr. Heinze has been active in other localities than Montana, erecting in 1895 large smelting works at Trail, British Columbia, and connecting the same with Rossland by the first railroad entering that town. He also connected Trail with Robson by a railway, which comprises part of the Columbia and Western Railway Company. Mr. Heinze is a member of the American Institute of Mining Engineers; the Down Town, Strollers', Larchmont, Seawanhaka, Columbia University, Deutscher Verein of New York City, the Crescent Athletic Club of Brooklyn, Montana Club of Helena, Silver Bow Club of Butte, University Club of Salt Lake and the St. James Club of Montreal. Residence: Butte, Mont. Address: 42 Broadway, New York City.

HEINZ, Henry J.:

Manufacturer; born in Pittsburgh, Oct. 11, 1844; educated in the public schools and local business college. As a young man, he engaged part of the time in operating a garden in the vicinity of Pittsburgh and in disposing of the product in the city market; assisted his father in conducting the brick and contracting business; in 1869, gave his entire time and energy to the pickling and preserving business, now one of the notable business successes of this country, and the largest of its kind in the world. The organization now has its ramifications, in both production and distribution, in almost every country in the civilized world. The parent plant is reinforced by twelve branch factories, sixty odd salting stations, or depots for the assembling of raw products and their partial preparations; twenty-five branch warehouses in commercial centres, including one in London, and fifty-two agencies. Four thousand people are employed regularly; the products of 30,000 acres annually, and the labor of 40,000 people to tend and harvest these crops are required. Aside from a thorough familiarity with every detail of his business, Mr. Heinz gives much time to other interests. In Pittsburgh he is a director of the Western Insurance Company, Union National Bank, president of the Central Accident Insurance Company, president of the Aspinwall Land Company, vice-president of the Western Pennsylvania Exposition Society, and a director of the Chamber of Commerce. He is president of the Winona Interurban Railway of Indiana. In educational work his interest is shown through his relation to these institutions: The Kansas City University, of which he is a trustee and for years was president of the board; the Winona Agricultural Institute, of Winona, Indiana, and the Winona Technical Institute, Indianapolis. Mr. Heinz is a leader in Sunday School work and has devoted much time and money to associated Sunday School work in the United States, Canada and Japan, under the auspices of the International and World's Sunday School Association, in both of which he is a prominent member of the Executive Committee. Address: Pittsburgh, Pa.

HEISLER, John C.:

Physician and professor of anatomy; Philadelphia; born at Jersey Shore, Lycoming County, Pa., Feb. 27, 1862. He was graduated from the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy in 1883 and from Medical School of University of Pennsylvania in 1887, was interne at St. Mary's Hospital, Philadelphia, 1887-1888; began the private practice of medicine in Philadelphia in 1888; teacher in Medical School of University of Pennsylvania in various capacities from 1888 to 1897 — assistant demonstrator of obstetrics, assistant demonstrator of anatomy, prosecutor to the Chair of Anatomy, instructor in diseases of the chest in the Philadelphia Polyclinic, 1889-1891; professor of anatomy in the Medico-Chirurgical College since 1897. He is a member of the Philadelphia County Medical Society, Philadelphia Pediatric Society, Pennsylvania State Medical Society, American Medical Association, Association of American Anatomists, fellow of the College of Physicians of Philadelphia. Dr. Heisler is author of: A Text-Book of Embryology, of which there have been three editions. He married in 1892, Anna M. Reardon. Address: 3829 Walnut Street, Philadelphia.

Hemenway, James Alexander:

United States senator; born March 8, 1860, at Boonville, Ind. He was educated in the common schools; commenced the practice of law in 1885; in 1886 and again in 1888 was elected prosecuting attorney of the Second Judicial Circuit of Indiana; in 1890 was selected as the member on the Republican State Committee from the First District; was elected to the Fifty-fourth, Fifty-fifth, Fifty-sixth, Fifty-seventh, Fifty-eighth, and Fifty-ninth Congresses, resigning from the latter before taking his seat in the House of Representatives; was elected to the United States Senate Jan. 18, 1905, to succeed Hon. C. W. Fairbanks, chosen vice-president on the ticket with Theodore Roosevelt, and took his seat March 6, 1905. His term of service expired March 3, 1909. During the greater part of his service in the House of Representatives he was one of the chief members of the Committee on Appropriations and became its chairman on the election of Speaker Cannon as Speaker of the House. In the Senate Mr. Hemenway became a member of the Committee on Appropriations and one of the leading participants in its works, performing a large part of the laborious duties incident to the control of the fiscal affairs of the Federal Government. The Indiana Legislature of 1909 being Democratic, he was not reelected. Address: Boonville, Ind.

HENCKE, John William:

Cashier, U. S. Custom House of Cleveland, Ohio; born in Akron, Ohio, Oct. 21, 1868; son of John Nicholas and Eliza (Smith) Hencke. After receiving his education in the Cleveland public schools he became stenographer for the Standard Oil Company; later secretary and treasurer of the Ohio Electric Works which marketed a number of electric novelties originated by his firm, among them the electric pocket flash light. Being a staunch Republican he devoted much time and energy to the famous McKinley campaign of 1895, in which the Tippecanoe Club of Cleveland took such a prominent part. He was made secretary of that organization and it was largely through his efforts that the Tippecanoe Club won its national reputation. His political affiliations landed him in his present federal office. As cashier he has won a reputation as expert on counterfeit money. Mr. Hencke is of an inventive turn of mind. He has recently been granted letters patent on Folding Comfort Chairs and various automatic toys. He is public spirited and as an officer in local improvement bodies, secured for his community many benefits; he is active in the present popular movement to establish hygienic playgrounds for children. In 1901 Mr. Hencke was honored by Hon. Theodore E. Burton, chairman of the national rivers and harbors committee, when he chose him as his private secretary on an inspection trip of the waterways and harbors of the Southern, Western and Alaskan coasts of the United States, traveling over fourteen thousand miles and visiting many of the principal cities. He is a member of the Tyrian Lodge, 370, Free and Accepted Masons. Residence: 3609 Clark Avenue, S. W., Cleveland, Ohio. Office address: Wilshire Building, Cleveland.

HENDERSON, Charles Richmond:

Professor of sociology; born in Covington, Ind., Dec. 17, 1848; son of Albert and Lorrana (Richmond) Henderson. He was graduated from the old University of Chicago, A.B., 1870, A.M., 1873, and from the Baptist Union Theological Seminary, B.D., 1873. (D.D., 1885), and the degree of Ph.D. was conferred upon him in 1901 by the University of Leipzig. He was pastor at Terre Haute, Ind., 1873-1882; at Detroit, Mich., 1882-1892; has been professor of sociology at the University of Chicago since 1892 and is head of the Department of Ecclesiastical Sociology. Professor Henderson is a trustee of Kalamazoo College, Mich.; life member of the executive committee of the National Conference of Charities and Correction, member of the American Economic Association, American Sociological Society, Société Générale des Prisons, Phi Beta Kappa Society, Psi Upsilon and Beta Theta Pi fraternities, and of the Quadrangle Club of Chicago. He has recently published Arbeiterversicherung in den Vereinigten Staaten von Nord Amerika; and is author of other books, including: Social Elements, 1898; which was translated into Japanese by Professor T. Takebe of Tokyo University, and published in Japan. He married at La Fayette, Ind., May 14, 1873, Eleanor Levening, and they had one son, who died in 1880. Residence: 5736 Washington Avenue. Office: The University of Chicago, Chicago.

HENDERSON, John J.:

Jurist; born in Allegheny County, Pa., Sept. 23, 1843; son of an eminent Methodist clergyman of that locality. He was educated in Meadville Academy and Allegheny College, and after graduation took part in the Civil War, 1862-1865. On his return he studied law at Meadville and was admitted to the bar of Crawford County in 1867. In 1872 he was elected district attorney of the county, serving for one term, and in 1887 he was elected president judge of the Thirtieth Judicial District, serving for the full term of ten years. He resumed the practice of law in 1897, and in March, 1903 was selected by the Government to fill a vacancy upon the bench of the Supreme Court of the State, which position he now occupies. He is noted for his eloquence and ability as a public speaker. Address: Meadville, Pa.

HENDRIX, Eugene Russell:

Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South; born at Fayette, Mo., May 17, 1847. He entered Central College at Fayette, but on account of the Civil War he did not remain to complete his course, going instead, to the Wesleyan University of Middletown, Conn., where he was graduated in 1867. Thence he took up the study of theology at the Union Theological Seminary, where two years later he was graduated from Union Theological Seminary, B.D., 1869, and the honorary degree of D.D. was conferred upon him by Emory College, 1878, Wesleyan, 1903, LL.D. University of Missouri, University of North Carolina, 1888. Washington and Lee University, 1892. After his ordination to the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in 1870, was pastor of the churches in Macon and St. Joseph, Mo., until 1878, when he was elected president of Central College. In 1886 he was elected to the bishopric of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and gave up the college presidency. He has made official visits to Brazil, Mexico, Japan, China and Korea, and founded the mission of his church in the latter country. He was fraternal messenger to the British Conference in 1900. Bishop Hendrix is a trustee of Vanderbilt University, of Woman's College of Baltimore, of Central College, Missouri, of the Searritt Bible and Training School, and of Paine Institute. He is author of: Around the World, 1878; Skilled Labor for the Master, 1900; The Religion of the Incarnation, 1903; The Personality of the Holy Spirit, 1904. He married at Kansas City, Mo., June 20, 1872, to Annie E. Searritt, and has four children. Address: 3242 Norledge Place, Kansas City, Mo.

HENEY, Francis Joseph:

Lawyer; born in Lima, N. Y., March 17, 1859; son of Richard and Julia (Schreiber) Heney. He removed to San Francisco in 1864, and received his education in the schools of that city, was in the University of California for a year and later attended for one year the Hasting's Law School in San Francisco. He was admitted to the bar in 1883; was a cattle-man and Indian trader in Arizona, 1885-1889, and a lawyer in Tucson, Ariz., 1889-1895; since then practising in San Francisco. He was active in politics as a Democrat in Arizona, and while there became prominent in connection with reforms in territorial administration. He was territorial attorney-general, 1893-1894. After his removal to San Francisco he confined his practice to civil matters for several years, but in 1903 was appointed by Attorney-General Knox as special counsel for the prosecution of the land fraud cases against Senator Mitchell and others, and unearthed the complicity of John H. Hall, U. S. attorney, whose indictment and removal he procured, and secured several convictions. He had charge of the prosecutions of Mayor Schmitt and Abe Ruef in San Francisco and has also had charge of a number of land fraud prosecutions and has been one of the foremost and most conspicuous figures in the "War on Graft" in San Francisco and in connection with the acquisition of public lands belonging to the United States. Address: Kohl Building, San Francisco.

HENNESSY, John Joseph:

Catholic bishop of Wichita; born in County Cork, Ireland, July 19, 1847; son of Michael and Ellen (Cronin) Hennessy; resident of the United States from early childhood. After graduation from the Christian Brothers College in St. Louis in 1862 he entered upon his theological course at the Salesianum, Milwaukee, following with a course in philosophy at Cape Girardeau College, Mo. In 1869 he was ordained priest under a special dispensation from the Holy See, being under canonical age. He labored as a missionary in the Iron Mountain region of Missouri until 1880, founding meanwhile, in 1871, the Railroad Men's Benevolent Union, established an Ursuline Convent in Arcadia, Mo., and built churches at five places in his territory. He became procurator and vice-president of the Board of Managers of the St. Louis Protectors, 1878-1886, and in addition was editor of the Youth's Magazine of St. Louis, 1880-1886; rector of St. John's Church, St. Louis from 1880 until consecrated Nov. 30, 1888, bishop of Wichita. Address: Wichita, Kan.

HENRI, Robert:

Artist; born in Cincinnati, Ohio, 1865; son of John and Theresa Henri. He was educated in the public schools of New York City, Cincinnati, and Denver; student of Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, Philadelphia, 1886-1888; Académie Julien and École des Beaux Arts, Paris, 1888-1891; later studied in France, Spain, and Italy.

His picture, La Neige, was purchased from the Salon, 1899, by French Government for the Luxembourg Gallery; picture, Girl in White Waist, purchased by Carnegie Institute, Pittsburgh, for permanent collection, 1904. He was awarded silver medals by the Pan-American Exposition, Buffalo, 1901, and Louisiana Purchase Exposition, St. Louis, 1904; Harris prize of $500, Chicago Art Institute, 1905. Mr. Henri is represented in the permanent collection of Spartanburg, S. C., by his Girl With Red Hair. He is an academicien of the National Academy of Design, member of the Society of American Artists, member of the National Institute of Arts and Letters and the Fellowship of the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, Philadelphia. Address: 135 East 40th Street, New York City.

HENRY, Aurelia:

Teacher and writer; born in San Francisco, 1877; daughter of William Warner and Mary Rogers (Merritt) Henry. She was graduated from the University of California, B.A., 1898, and Yale University, Ph.D., 1905. She was a Yale fellow in English, 1901-1903, foreign fellow, Association Collegiate Alumnae, 1905-1906, English Department of the University of Idaho, 1898-1901, and English Department of the State Normal School, Lewiston, Idaho, 1903-1905, and 1906-1908. She is author of: The De Monarchia of Dante (Alighieri), translated with introduction and notes, 1904; and Epicocene. The Silent Woman, edited with introduction, notes and glossary, Yale Studies in English, XXXI; and of miscellaneous articles in American periodicals. Miss Henry is a member of the Dante Society, and of the Concordance Society. Address: 1809 Euclid Avenue, Berkeley, California.

HENRY, John A.:

Lawyer; born on a farm near Sidney, Shelby County, Ohio, May 29, 1848; son of David and Margaret (Maxwell) Henry. He was graduated from the Ohio Wesleyan University, A.B., 1868, A.M., 1871; studied law and was admitted to the bar at Sidney, Ohio, in 1871. He removed to Indianapolis in 1873, and was elected city attorney of that city in 1879, serving for three years. In 1883, he was appointed law clerk of the Postoffice Department under Judge Gresham, serving until March, 1885, when he removed to Chicago, where he has since practised his profession. In 1887, he was appointed special master to sell the Lake Erie and Western Railroad, which had been placed in the hands of receivers. Later he was attorney for the receiver of the Chicago and Atlantic Railroad. He was attorney for Cook County in 1891-1892. He was one of the counsel in the litigation which followed the attempt in 1893 to forfeit the charters of the gas companies of Chicago under the anti-trust law. He is a member of the Hamilton Club, the Masonic order, and of the Sigma Chi college fraternity. He married in Sidney, Ohio, in 1871, to Ella C. Carey, and has two children. Residence: 6601 Stewart Avenue. Office: Tacoma Building, Chicago.

HENRY, Nelson Herrick:

Adjutant-general, State of New York, and physician; born on Staten Island, N. Y., April 27, 1855; son of Joshua J. and Maria Caroline (Herrick) Henry. He was educated in the public schools and College of the City of New York; College of Physicians and Surgeons, M.D., 1879; has served in the National Guard twenty-three years, filling consecutively positions of distinction; joined Twelfth Regiment in 1883; was assistant surgeon-general under General Joseph D. Bryant and General Marshall O. Terry, 1893-1898. In 1898 under the reorganization, he was made chief surgeon of National Guard of New York, with rank of colonel on the staff of the Major-General Charles F. Roe, commanding the National Guard; served as major and chief surgeon of Division, U. S. Volunteers, in Spanish-American War; member of the General Assembly of New York, 1899-1901; served as adjutant-general of the State of New York, 1902-1904, during administration of Governor B. B. Odell, Jr.; 1905-1906, Governor Frank W. Higgins; and in 1907 was appointed for a fourth term by Governor Charles E. Hughes. He is a member of the Military Order of Foreign Wars, Spanish-American War Veterans, Delta Kappa Epsilon, and the Army and Navy Clubs, Republican and Graduate Clubs. He married, April 30, 1901, Sarah Rodgers Sloan. Address: 59 West 9th Street, New York City.

HENRY, Philip Walter:

Civil engineer; born in Scranton, Pa., March 24, 1864; son of Eugene Thomas and Emma E. (Walter) Henry. He was graduated from the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, C.E., 1887; was on the engineering corps of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad, 1880-1883, on location and construction between Binghamton and Buffalo; and with the Barber Asphalt Paving Company, 1887-1902; for a time as vice-president and general manager. In 1893 he made surveys for a tramway and pier in Trinidad for facilitating the transportation of asphalt; made surveys of Asphalt Lake, establishing the rate of subsidence; and made the only borings ever made in the lake. Mr. Henry is now practising as a consulting engineer, chiefly in the organization of the operating and construction departments of railway and industrial corporations, and as an expert on asphalt and asphalt pavements. He is president and director of the South American Construction Company; vice-president and director of the Pan American Company, and vice-president and director of the A. L. Barber Asphalt Company. Mr. Henry has traveled in Venezuela, Mexico, and the West Indies, and has also made several trips to Europe. He is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, Sons of the Revolution, and of the Engineers, Union League, Century and University Clubs. He married at Chicago, Jan. 22, 1906, Clover Cox. Residence: 981 Madison Avenue. Office address: 90 West Street, New York City.

HENRY, William Arnon:

Professor of agricultural; born at Norwalk, Ohio, June 16, 1850; son of William and Martha (Condict) Henry. He received his education in the Ohio Wesleyan University and at Cornell University, receiving from the latter the degree of B.Agr., 1880. He also received the honorary degrees of D.Agr. from the University of Illinois, 1904; D.Sc. from the University of Vermont at its Centennial celebration in 1904; and from the Michigan Agricultural College at its Centennial celebration in 1907 the degree of D.Sc. He was professor of botany and agriculture in the University of Wisconsin in 1880, professor of agriculture in the same institution in 1883; and director of the Agricultural Experiment Station of Wisconsin since 1887. In 1891 he was made dean of the College of Agriculture in the University of Wisconsin, which has had great progress under his administration. This position he resigned to take effect June 30, 1907, when the Regents appointed him emeritus professor of agriculture. He is associate editor of Hoard's Dairyman; staff correspondent of the Breeders' Gazette; and lecturer on animal nutrition in the University of California in 1902. Professor Henry married at Batavia, N. Y., in August, 1881, Clara R. Taylor, who died July 5, 1904, and he has a son. Address: Agricultural Experiment Station, Madison, Wis.

HEPBURN, A. Barton:

President of the Chase National Bank of New York; born in Colton, N. Y., July 24, 1846; son of Zina Earl and Beulah (Gray) Hepburn. He was graduated from Middlebury (Vermont) College, A.B., 1871, later receiving the degree of LL.D.; St. Lawrence University, D.C.L., 1906. He was instructor of mathematics, St. Lawrence Academy; principal of Ogdensburg Educational Institute; practised law at Colton, N. Y.; member of the New York State Assembly, 1875-1880; superintendent of the Banking Department, State of New York, 1880-1883; United States Bank Examiner for New York, 1888-1892; Comptroller of the Currency, 1892-1893; president of the Third National Bank of New York, 1893-1897; vice-president of the National City Bank of New York, 1897-1899; since 1899 president of the Chase National Bank. Mr. Hepburn is a director of the Bankers' Trust Company, Columbia Trust Company, Fidelity Trust Company (Newark), Maryland Trust Company (Baltimore), New York Life Insurance Company, First National Bank, First Security Company, Chase National Bank, American Car and Foundry Company, American Agricultural Chemical Company, American Cotton Oil Company, Safety Car Heating & Lighting Company, Union Typewriter Company, United Cigar Manufacturers Company. He is author of: The History of Coinage and Currency; Artificial Waterways & Commercial Development; also contributor to magazines and reviews. Mr. Hepburn is trustee and treasurer of the Children's Aid Society, member of the New York Chamber of Commerce, of the New England Society of New York, the St. Andrews' Society, Burns Society, and Germanistic Society, Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, Academy of Political Science and of the University, Metropolitan, Union League, Barnard, Economic City, Automobile, Camp Fire, Blooming Grove Hunting and Fishing, and Long Island Country Clubs. He married, first, at St. Albans, Vt., Dec. 10, 1873, Hattie A. 57th Street. Office: 83 Cedar Street, New Fisher; second, Montpelier, Vt., July 14, 1887, Emily L. Eaton; children: by first marriage, Charles Fisher Hepburn, now residing in Minneapolis, Minn.; by second marriage, Beulah Eaton and Cordelia Susan, born Dec. 30, 1894. Residence: 205 West York City.

HEPBURN, William Peters:

Congressman and lawyer; born at Wells-ville, Columbiana County, Ohio, Nov. 4, 1833; was taken to Iowa (then a Territory) in April, 1841. He was educated in the schools of the Territory and in a printing office; was admitted to practise law in 1854; served in the Second Iowa Cavalry as captain, major, and lieutenant-colonel during the Civil War. Colonel Hepburn was a delegate from Iowa to the Republican National Conventions of 1860, 1888, and 1896; was a presidential elector-at-large from the State of Iowa in 1876 and in 1888; served as solicitor of the Treasury during the administration of President Benjamin Harrison; was elected to the Forty-seventh, Forty-eighth, Forty-ninth, Fifty-third, Fifty-fourth, Fifty-fifth, Fifty-sixth, Fifty-seventh, Fifty-eighth, and Fifty-ninth Congresses, and reelected to the Sixtieth Congress from the Eighth Iowa District. Address: Clarinda, Iowa.

HERBERT, Hilary A.:

Lawyer; born in Laurensville, South Carolina, March 12, 1874; son of Thomas E. and Dorothy T. Herbert. He received his education in the Universities of Alabama and Virginia. He was colonel of the Eighth Alabama Confederate Volunteers and was disabled at the Battle of the Wilderness. Mr. Herbert practised law at Greenville and Montgomery, Ala.; was for sixteen years representative in Congress from Alabama; and was secretary of the Navy of the United States from 1893 to 1897, in the second administration of President Cleveland. Since that time he has practised law in Washington and has been the legal adviser of important interests in Departmental and Court practice. He is author of: Why the Solid South?; A History of Reconstruction; and magazine articles. Mr. Herbert married in Selma, Ala., in 1867, Ella B. Smith, who died in 1885. Address: 1419 G Street, Washington, D. C.

HERBERT, John:

Lawyer; born in Wentworth, Grafton County, N. H., Nov. 2, 1849; son of Samuel and L. Maria (Darling) Herbert; grandson of John and Sally (Allen) Herbert and of Benjamin and Susan (Reed) Darling and a descendant of James Herbert who came from London, England, to Salisbury, Mass., about 1720. He was graduated from Dartmouth, A.B., 1871, and A.M. in course; was principal of Appleton Academy, New Ipswich, N. H., 1871-1874; and after leaving New Ipswich studied law and was admitted to the bar in New Hampshire in 1875. In the fall of 1875 he went to Andover Theological Seminary, and he was pastor of the Congregational Church, Stoughton, Mass., 1876-1878. He established a law office in Boston, in 1880, and has been admitted to the bar in Massachusetts, and the Supreme Court of the United States. He is, or has been, president of the E. T. Cowdrey Company, the Eastern Forge Company, Multiple Phonograph Company; and the Bear Creek Oil Company. He is president of the Somerville Municipal League, and of the Somerville Citizens Company; director of the Somerville Young Men's Christian Association; and Merchants' Coöperative Bank, of Boston; president of the Boston Congregational Club of the Appalachian Mountain Club and of the Appleton Academy Association. He is a member of the Congregational Sunday School and Publishing Society and president of its Board of Directors; president of the Mystic Valley Club, organized to secure clean politics; moderator of the Winter Hill Congregational Church Corporation and a member of the Twentieth Century Club and Economic Clubs of Boston. He married, Aug. 1, 1872, Alice, daughter of Chester and Roxanna Guy, and by her had two children. Mr. Herbert married, second, June 24, 1895, Blanche E., daughter of Chester and Rosanna Guy, and by her has one son. Residence: Somerville, Mass. Office: 19 Milk Street, Boston.

HERBERT, Victor:

Musician, composer; born in Dublin, Ireland, Feb. 1, 1859; grandson of Samuel Lover, the popular Irish novelist; educated by private tutors in Germany; musical education covered complete range, but he specialized in the violoncello and was solo cellist in the Court Orchestra of the Kingdom of Württemberg at Stuttgart and on tour in various European cities. In that capacity came to New York City, 1886, as solo cellist at Metropolitan Opera House; afterward appeared in the same capacity with the leading orchestra; when Gilmore died and the question of securing a conductor for the Twenty-second Regiment Band, who would be a worthy successor of that famous conductor, became important, he was chosen as the leader, and held the position for twelve years. Was for some time conductor of the Pittsburgh Orchestra, and for the past few years has been at the head of his own New York organization. Author of many comic operas, including Prince Ananias; The Amerer; Babes in Toyland; It Happened in Nordland, etc.; of the cantata The Captive, and of numerous compositions for band and orchestra, as well as many vocal numbers. Address: 321 West 108th Street, New York City.

HERING, Carl:

Electrical engineer; born in Philadelphia, 1860; son of the late Dr. Constantine Hering, the well known father of homeopathy in America. He studied mechanical engineering at the University of Pennsylvania, being graduated B.S. in 1880, and later M.E. He studied at Darmstadt, Germany, under Professor Kittler and became his assistant. He was assistant electrician at the International Electrical Exhibition in Philadelphia in 1884. In 1886-1887 he taught electrical engineering in the University of Pennsylvania. He was a member of the Jury of Awards or scientific commission, at Exposition at Vienna, 1883, Philadelphia, 1884, Paris, 1889 and 1900, St. Louis, 1890, Frankfurt Germany, 1891, Philadelphia Export Exposition, 1899, Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo, 1901, the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, 1904; and at the Jamestown Exposition, 1907, becoming member of the highest or superior jury at some of them. The French Government conferred upon him the decoration of Officier de l'Instruction Publique in 1889 and in 1900 that of the Cross of the Légion d'Honneur. He was also representative of the United States Government, the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and of the Franklin Institute to various international electrical congresses and meetings. He became, in 1892, technical editor of the Electrical World. He was a member of the committee to prepare the preliminary programme for the Chicago International Electrical Congress of 1893; is past president of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, of the American Electro-chemical Society, of the Engineers' Club of Philadelphia, and of the Electrical Section of Franklin Institute; honorary member of the New York Electrical Society; American delegate of the International Society of Electricians, whose headquarters are in Paris; honorary member of the International Engineering Congress at Glasgow, Scotland. From 1893 to 1903 he prepared a weekly digest of the current electrical literature, both foreign and American. He has contributed many papers to scientific and engineering societies, and is the author of "Conversion Tables," 1904 (John Wiley & Sons). He has obtained numerous patents for electrical inventions. Since 1886 he has been practising as a consulting electrical engineer in Philadelphia, being engaged chiefly with tests, reports, patent litigations, and acting as consulting electrical engineer for companies. Address: 929 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

HERING, Daniel Webster:

Dean of Graduate Faculty, New York University; born at Smithburg, Md., March 23, 1850; son of Joshua and Susanna (Harmon) Hering. He was educated in the public schools of Johnsville, Md., and in 1861 received a teacher's certificate of qualification to teach at Frederick, Md.; was a student in Westminster Seminary, 1866-1867; principal of the Preparatory Department and teacher in mathematics at Western Maryland College, 1867-1869; and was graduated from the Sheffield Scientific School of Yale, 1872. He was division engineer of the Berks County Railroad, 1873-1874; fellow in engineering in Johns Hopkins University, 1876-1878; assistant engineer of the Baltimore and Cumberland Valley Railroad, 1878-1880; professor of mathematics in the Western Maryland College, 1880-1884; professor of physics in the Western University of Pennsylvania in 1884 and 1885; and has been professor of physics at New York University since 1885. He has been dean of the Graduate Faculty, New York University, since 1902. In 1895 he received the degree of Ph.D. from Western Maryland College and, in 1907, LL.D., from the Western University of Pennsylvania. Dr. Hering is author of numerous papers in scientific and educational periodicals. He is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science; fellow of the New York Academy of Sciences, charter member of the American Physical Society; member of the American Geographical Society; was a member of the First Council of the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences in its reorganization under its present director, and was for several years president of the Department of Physics in the same institution. He married at Baltimore, Nov. 23, 1881, Mary Hollis Webster, and they have two children. Residence: 128 West 129th Street. Office: University Heights, New York City.

HERING, Rudolph:

Hydraulic engineer, sanitary expert; born in Philadelphia, Feb. 26, 1847; son of Constantine and Theresa (Buchheim) Hering. Educated private schools of Philadelphia; graduate Royal Polytechnic College, Dresden, Germany, C.E., 1867. Assistant city engineer, Philadelphia, Pa., 1872-1880; commissioner of National Board of Health, reporting on sewerage works of Europe, 1881; constructing and consulting engineer for water supply and sewerage works in United States, Canada, and South America, including New York City, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Chicago, San Francisco, Buffalo, Cleveland, Columbus, Indianapolis, Atlanta, Montgomery, New Orleans, Los Angeles, Tacoma, Victoria, Winnipeg, Ottawa, Toronto, and others; since 1901, member of firm of Hering and Fuller, consulting engineers. He is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, Canadian Society Civil Engineers, Institution of Civil Engineers of Great Britain, Engineers' Club of Philadelphia, Boston Society Civil Engineers, Western Society Civil Engineers, American Water Works Association, American Public Health Association, honorary member of New England Water Works Association, fellow American Academy of Sciences, New York Municipal Art Association, Verein Deutscher Ingenieure (Berlin), Century Club of New York. He married, first, 1873, Fanny Field Gregory, and second, 1894, Hermine Buchheim, and has five children. Residence: 40 Lloyd Place, Montclair, N. J. Address: 170 Broadway, New York City.

HERRESHOFF, John B.:

Shipbuilder; born in Bristol, R. I., April 24, 1841; son of Charles Frederick and Julia Ann (Lewis) Herreshoff. He attended schools in Bristol until failing eyesight compelled him to abandon his studies, and since fifteen years of age he has been totally blind. In spite of this disadvantage he built up a large business as a builder of steam and sailing yachts, the firm now being known as the Herreshoff Manufacturing Company, of which he is president. The list of craft of moderate size built by the Herreshoffs includes not only several of the defenders of the America Cup, but a large number of fine private yachts and of torpedo vessels of high speed for the United States and foreign countries. For years the Herreshoff shops were the leaders in the designing and building of high speed motive powers and their application to marine travel and may be said to be the pioneers in the United States in the development of the small, high powered motive units, which play so considerable a part in movement, afloat and ashore, at the present time. As well as the most noted private yachts, they have also built many vessels for the United States, British and foreign governments. Address: Bristol, R. I.

HERRESHOFF, Nathaniel Greene:

Yacht designer; born in Bristol, R. I., in 1848. He received a special technical education in engineering in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and became connected with the Herreshoff Manufacturing Company, of which he is now superintendent. The company are builders of steam and sailing yachts and also of torpedo boats and other naval vessels, of which he is the designer, and yachts from his designs and the Herreshoff yards have won the highest honors in races. Mr. Herreshoff is the most distinguished of American naval architects in the designing of vessels of these classes. He is a member of the Institute of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers of New York, and the Institute of Naval Architects of England. Address: Bristol, R. I.

HERRICK, Charles Judson:

Professor of neurology; born in Minneapolis, Oct. 6, 1868; son of Henry Nathan and Anna (Strickler) Herrick. He attended Denison University, 1888-1889, and received from it the degree of M.S. in 1895; was graduated from the University of Cincinnati, as B.S., in 1891; and from Columbia University as Ph.D. in 1900. He was instructor in Granville Academy, 1891-1892; professor of natural science in Ottawa University, 1892-1893; professor of zoology, Denison University, 1898-1907; and has been professor of neurology in the University of Chicago since Oct., 1907. He was associate in comparative neurology at the Pathological Institute of the New York State Commission in Lunacy, New York City, 1897-1901; and has been managing editor of the Journal of Comparative Neurology and Psychology since 1894. Dr. Herrick was secretary of the Zoological Section of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, 1903-1907, vice-president of the same in 1908, and president of the Ohio Academy of Sciences in 1903. Dr. Herrick is author of over seventy-five scientific articles on comparative neurology and allied subjects. He is a member of the American Society of Zoologists, Association of American Anatomists, and American Society of Naturalists. He married at Granville, Ohio, Aug. 17, 1892, Mary Elizabeth Talbot, and they have one daughter, Ruth, born in 1895. Address: University of Chicago, Chicago.

HERRICK, D. Cady:

Lawyer; born in Esperance, N. Y., April 12, 1846; educated Albany Classical Institute, and Albany Law School. Admitted to the bar in 1868; elected district attorney of Albany County in 1880; appointed corporation counsel City of Albany in 1886; elected judge of the Supreme Court of the State of New York in 1891; appointed associated justice of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of the State of New York in 1894; unsuccessful candidate for governor, 1904; member of Democratic State Committee, 1885-1892; now practising law in Albany and New York City. Married, Nov., 1875, Orissa H. Salisbury. Address: 452 Broadway, Albany, N. Y.; 5 Nassau Street, New York City.

HERRICK, John Jacob:

Lawyer; born in Hillsboro, Ill., May 25, 1845; son of Dr. William B. Herrick, the first president of the Illinois State Medical Society, and Martha (Seward) Herrick. He was prepared for College at the Lewiston Falls (Maine) Academy, and was graduated from Bowdoin College in 1866. Immediately after graduation he removed to Chicago, where he taught in the Hyde Park School for two years. He became a student in the Union College of Law in Chicago, and was also in the law offices of Higgins, Swett and Quigg. He was graduated from the law school in 1868 as the valedictorian of his class. He was admitted to the Illinois bar upon his graduation, but remained in the office of Higgins, Swett and Quigg until 1871, when he began practice on his own account. He continued to practice alone until 1878, when the firm of Dexter, Herrick and Allen was formed, which continued until the death of Mr. Dexter, in 1890. In 1893, L. K. Boyesen was admitted to the firm and in 1896, Horace H. Martin, the firm now being Herrick, Allen, Boyesen and Martin. Mr. Herrick is a member of the Chicago Bar Association, the Law Institute, the Citizens' Association, and the Chicago, Chicago Literary, and University Clubs. He married in New York City, June 28, 1883, Julia T. Dulon. Residence: 2221 Prairie Avenue. Office: 107 Dearborn Street, Chicago.

HESLIN, Thomas:

Catholic bishop of Natchez; born in County Longford, Ireland, April, 1847; son of Patrick and Catherine (Hughes) Heslin. He began his education in Ireland; came to the United States and studied philosophy and theology in the Boulogne Seminary in New Orleans; taught in St. Mary's College, Jefferson, La., and in the parish school at Carrollton, La.; was ordained to the priesthood in 1869; served as curate until 1874 in New Orleans and pastor of St. Michael's Parish, New Orleans from 1874 until he was consecrated, in 1889, bishop of Natchez. Address: Natchez, Miss.

HESTER, William:

Publisher; born in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Dec. 7, 1835; son of Samuel Wood and Jane (Van Anden) Hester. He was educated in Poughkeepsie, and the Rhinebeck Academy.

President and director of the Brooklyn Daily Eagle Association (for thirty-one years); trustee of the Brooklyn Trust Company, and director of the Eagle Warehouse and Storage Company. He is a member of the New York Chamber of Commerce and Manufacturers' Association, the Automobile Club of America, and the Metropolitan, New York Yacht, Atlantic Yacht, Larchmont Yacht, Nassau Golf, and Shelter Island Yacht Clubs, and the Crescent Athletic Brooklyn, and Hamilton Clubs of Brooklyn. He married in Brooklyn, Feb. 25, 1858, Theodosia Ward. Residence: 158 Remsen Street. Address: Eagle Building, 307 Washington Street, Brooklyn.

HEWITT, Peter Cooper:

Electrical engineer; born in New York City, March 5, 1861; son of Abram Stevens and Sarah A. (Cooper) Hewitt. He was educated in Stevens Institute of Technology, Hoboken, N. J., and Columbia University; and received the honorary of Sc.D. from Columbia in 1903. He is a member of the firm of Cooper, Hewitt & Company, and director of the Greenwood Lake Railway. Mr. Cooper is engaged in Experimental work in mechanics, physics, and especially in electricity. He is best known as the inventor of the Cooper Hewitt arc light, consisting of a longtube in which the electric arc passes through the vapor of mercury, producing a greenish light more favorable to the eyesight of night-workers than the usual night illuminant, but which has not become of general use notwithstanding its great economy on account of its contrast to other illuminants. Its use, however, where there is necessity for continuous labor by night is very general in place of the older forms of arc lights giving red and yellow rays. Mr. Hewitt is a member of the American Physical Society, American Institute of Electrical Engineers, New York Electrical Society, New York General Society of Mechanics and Tradesmen; and of the Union, Knickerbocker, Manhattan, Metropolitan, Racquet and Tennis, The Brook, Lambs', Turf and Field, Automobile of America, Tuxedo, Players', Century, and Engineers' Clubs. He married in New York City, Lucy Work. Residence: 11 Lexington Avenue. Address: 17 Burling Slip, New York City.

HEWSON, Addinell:

Surgeon; born in Philadelphia, Sept. 2, 1855; son of Dr. Addinell and Rachel Maccomb (Wetherill) Hewson. He was educated in the Protestant Episcopal Academy of Philadelphia, 1867-1872, the University of Pennsylvania, A.B., 1876, A.M., 1879; and at Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, M.D., 1879, engaging in the practice of medicine in Philadelphia. Dr. Hewson was clinical assistant in the Surgical Department, 1879-1882, in the Ophthalmic Department, 1882-1884; and from 1890 to 1894 was chief of the Surgical Department of Jefferson Medical College Hospital. He was connected with the chair of anatomy in Jefferson Medical College, 1879-1906, as assistant demonstrator, 1879-1886, prosecutor, 1886-1889, demonstrator, 1889-1906, and assistant professor, 1902-1906. He was dispensary surgeon at St. Mary's Hospital, 1879-1888, and at the Episcopal Hospital, 1887-1904; has been surgeon to St. Timothy's Hospital at Roxburgh since 1894, professor of anatomy at the Philadelphia Polyclinic College for Graduates in Medicine since 1897; and physician to the Philadelphia Orphan Society, 1886-1900. Dr. Hewson was editor of the first and second editions of Holden's Dissector; has been secretary of the State Anatomical Board since 1899, and surgeon and trustee of the American Oncologic Hospital of Philadelphia since 1905. He is a member of the Philadelphia County Medical Society, Pennsylvania State Medical Society, Academy of Surgery, Pathological Society, Obstetrical Society; fellow of the College of Physicians; member of the American Association of Physicians and Surgeons, American Association of Anatomists, American Medical Association, the Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity, Alpha Kappa Kappa medical fraternity, and the University Club of Philadelphia. He married in Philadelphia, Sept. 4, 1883, Lucy Clabaugh, and they have four children. Address: 2120 Spruce Street, Philadelphia.

HEYBURN, Weldon Brinton:

Former U. S. senator; born in Delaware County, Pa., May 23, 1862. His parents were Quakers, of English descent. Mr. Heyburn received an academic education; was admitted to the bar in 1876, and has practised law continuously since that time. In the winter of 1883-1884 he moved to Shoshone County, Idaho, and has resided there ever since. He was a member of the convention which framed the constitution of the State of Idaho, and was chairman of the Judiciary Committee in that body. Mr. Heyburn has always voted and supported the Republican ticket; was a delegate to the Republican National Conventions of 1888, 1892, and 1900; was not affected by the silver movement of 1896, and was largely instrumental in maintaining the Republican organization in Idaho during that campaign and since, which resulted in the sweeping Republican victory in 1902. He was the nominee of the Republican party of Idaho for Congress in 1898, but was defeated by a fusion of the Democrats, Populists, and Silver Republicans; was elected to the United States Senate, Jan. 13, 1903, receiving the entire Republican vote of the Legislature, to succeed Henry Heitfeld, Democrat, for the term beginning March 4, 1903. His term of office expired March 3, 1909. Address: Wallace, Idaho.

HIBBARD, H. Wade:

Mechanical engineer and professor; born in Moulmein, Burmah, Sept. 10, 1863; son of Rev. Charles and Susan Ann (Robinson) Hibbard. He was graduated from Brown University, A.B., 1886; Cornell University, M.E., 1891 (first Sibley prize, 1890; election to Society Sigma Xi, 1891), A.M., Brown University, 1889. He was engaged in the shops of the Rhode Island Locomotive Works, 1886-1889; engineer with the general superintendent of motive power of the Pennsylvania Railroad, engaged in designing, testing and research, 1891-1894; examination and report on foreign railway mechanical engineering four months in Europe, 1892; with Lehigh Valley Railroad in charge of mechanical engineers' department, 1894-1895; there designing several classes of locomotives, tenders, cars, shop machinery, boilers, standardizing motive power, rolling stock and general equipment, and betterment of shop methods. Assistant professor machine design and locomotive engineering (initiating latter), University of Minnesota, 1895-1898; made tests of five classes of single-expansion and compound locomotives for Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie Railway, 1896; since 1898 professor in Sibley College, Cornell University, in charge of the Department of Railway Mechanical Engineering, organizing the same. Investigating railway practice, four months in Europe, 1900; expert mechanical examiner, New York State Civil Service Commission, 1904, 1905; occasional railway consulting practice. President of the Cornell Coöperative Society, 1903-1905, director since 1905. He is a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, American Railway Master Mechanics' Association, Master Car Builders' Association, Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education, and the New York City, Buffalo, Pacific Coast, and Northwest Railway Clubs. He is author of: Discipline and Management of Men in Shops; also many articles in engineering publications. Mr. Hibbard married, first, in Richford, Vt., 1891, Mary P. Scofield (died, 1895); one daughter; married, second, at Walpole, N. H., 1896, Mary C. Davis, and by that marriage he has two children. Address: Cornell Heights, Ithaca, N. Y.

HIGGINS, Edwin Werter:

Congressman and lawyer; born July 2, 1874, at Clinton, Conn. He was educated in the schools of Norwich and graduated from the Yale Law School in 1897, receiving the degree of bachelor of laws; and has been engaged in the active practice of the law since his admission to the bar in 1897. In 1899 he represented Norwich in the General Assembly, and served on the Committee on Judiciary; has been corporation counsel of Norwich, a deputy judge of its City Court, and health officer for the County of New London; has served on the Republican State Central Committee since 1900, and was a delegate to the last Republican National Convention, representing Connecticut on the Committee on Resolutions. At a special election held Oct. 2, 1905, he was elected to the Fifty-ninth Congress, to fill the unexpired term of Hon. Frank B. Brandegee, elected to the United States Senate and was reelected to the Sixtieth and Sixty-first Congresses from the Third Connecticut District. He married Sept. 1, 1904, Alice M. Neff. Address: Norwich, Conn.

HIGGINS, Milton Prince:

Manufacturer and mechanical engineer; born in Standish, Me., Dec. 7, 1842; son of Lewis and Susan (Whitney) Higgins. After being graduated from Dartmouth College as B.S., in 1868, he became superintendent of the Washburn shops of the Worcester Polytechnic Institute for twenty-eight years; and he is now president of the Norton Company, of the Worcester Pressed Steel Company; Worcester Plunger Elevator Company, Gem Manufacturing Company of Boston, Mass., and the Manchester Supply Company, of Manchester, N. H.; director of the Mechanics' National Bank of Worcester, Mass. Mr. Higgins is especially interested in the subject of industrial education, and is chairman of the Executive Board of the National Education Association. He is a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the National Society for the Promotion of Industrial Education; trustee of Worcester Polytechnic Institute, and is a member of the Worcester Club. Mr. Higgins married in Manchester, N. H., June 15, 1870, Katharine E. Chapin, and they have four children. Residence: 228 West Street. Office: Norton Company, Worcester, Mass.

HIGGINSON, Thomas Wentworth:

Author; born in Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 22, 1823; son of Stephen and Louisa (Storow) Higginson. He was graduated from Harvard College, A.B., 1841, from the Divinity School in 1847, and received from Harvard the degree of A.M. in 1869, and LL.D. in 1898, and also received the LL.D. degree in 1896 from the Western Reserve University at Cleveland, Ohio. He entered the Union service as captain in the 51st Massachusetts Regiment in 1862, and, Sept. 25, 1862, was commissioned colonel of the First South Carolina (Union) Volunteers, afterward the Thirty-third Regiment of United States Colored Troops, the first black regiment enlisted in the service during the Civil War, and commanded it until 1864, when he resigned because of disability from wound received at Wiltown Bluff, S. C., July 10, 1863. After the war he devoted himself to literature. Colonel Higginson was a member of Massachusetts House of Representatives, 1880-1881, of the military staff of the governor of Massachusetts, 1880-1881, and of the Massachusetts Board of Education, 1881-1884. In political views Colonel Higginson is Democratic and Independent; and he has taken a leading part in independent movements in politics and religion. He has been an extensive traveler in the Azores, England, Scotland, Ireland, France, Germany, Switzerland and Italy. He is president of the Old Planters' Society of Salem, Mass.; president of the Old Colored Women's Home, Boston; vice-president of the Cambridge Historical Association. Colonel Higginson is a member of the Grand Army of the Republic, companion of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, the Massachusetts Historical Society, Royal Society of Canada, American Oriental Society, New England Historic Genealogical Society. He is author of: Atlantic Essays; Out-door Papers; Army Life in a Black Regiment; Malbone; Oldport Days; Young Folks' History of the United States; Larger History of the United States; Common Sense about Women; Travelers and Outlaws; The New World and the New Book; The Monarch of Dreams; The Procession of the Flowers; The Afternoon Landscape (poems); Book and Heart; Cheerful Yesterdays; Tales of the Enchanted Islands; Old Cambridge; Contemporaries; Life of Longfellow; Life of Whittier; Life of Francis Higginson; Life of Stephen Higginson; and a translation of Epictetus; Collected Works (revised edition), seven volumes, published by Houghton, Mifflin and Company in 1900; Part of a Man's Life, 1905. He is an ex-president of the Colonial Club of Cambridge; vice-president of the Authors' Club of Boston, and member of the Authors' Club of New York. Colonel Higginson married at West Newton, Mass., Feb. 6, 1879, Mary Potter Thacher, and they have a daughter, Margaret Waldo (Higginson) Barney. He has a summer residence, "Glimpsewood," at Dublin, N. H. Address: 29 Buckingham Street, Cambridge, Mass.

HILL, Albert Ross:

President of the University of Missouri; born in Nova Scotia, Oct. 4, 1869; son of Daniel and Esther (Davison) Hill. He was educated in country schools, Pictou Academy, Dalhousie University, Halifax, N. S., A.B., 1892, Cornell University, Ph.D., 1895; graduate student in the universities of Heidelberg, Berlin and Strassburg, 1893-1894, Clark University, summer of 1896, and he received the degree of LL.D. from the University of South Carolina, 1905, Dalhousie University, 1909, and Westminster College, 1909. He began teaching in the schools of Nova Scotia, 1885-1887; was professor of psychology and education in the State Normal College, Oshkosh, Wis., 1895-1897; associate professor of philosophy, 1897-1898, professor of philosophy and director of psychological laboratories, 1898-1903, in the University of Nebraska; professor of educational psychology and dean of Teachers' College, University of Missouri, 1903-1907; professor of the philosophy of education, director of the School of Education, and dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, Cornell University, 1907-1908; since 1908 president of the University of Missouri. He is a member of the National Council of Education, National Educational Association, Society of College Teachers of Education, American Philosophical Association, Western Philosophical Association (secretary and ex-president), Society of Sigma Xi, and Phi Beta Kappa Society. He married in Halifax, N. S., in 1896, Agnes S. Baxter. Address: Columbia, Mo.

HILL, David Bennett:

Lawyer; born at Havanna, N. Y., Aug. 29, 1843; son of Caleb and Eunice Hill. He was educated at Elmira Academy; admitted to the bar in 1864, and in the same year was appointed city attorney of Elmira. He took an active part in politics; was a delegate to the Democratic State Convention in 1868; elected in 1870 and reelected in 1871 member of the New York Assembly. In the Legislature of 1872 he was elected one of the managers of the prosecution before the Senate of ring judges in scandals exposed at that time in New York City. Mr. Hill was appointed in 1875, by Governor Tilden, member of the commission to provide a uniform charter for the cities of the State; was chairman of the Democratic State Conventions in 1877, 1881 and 1894; alderman, 1880-1881, and mayor in 1882, of Elmira, N. Y.; was elected lieutenant-governor in Nov., 1882, and in 1884 succeeded Grover Cleveland in the governorship he had left to become President of the United States, and was reelected in 1885 and 1888, and was elected to the United States Senate from the State of New York, 1891, serving from 1891 to 1897. For a number of years after the close of President Cleveland's second term David B. Hill was regarded as the active leader of the Democratic party in the United States, but retired before the growth of the influence of the radical wing. He was a Presidential possibility in 1896, but that year saw the apex of his influence and he retired from politics within a few years. He was the especial champion of regularity in party politics, and his motto, "I am a Democrat," was meant to express the emphasis he placed on party loyalty. Address: Albany, N. Y.

HILL, David Jayne:

Ambassador and educator; born in Plainfield, N. J., June 10, 1850; son of Daniel T. and Lydia Ann (Thompson) Hill. He was graduated from Bucknell University, A.B., 1874, A.M., 1877; from the University of Berlin, and École Libre des Sciences, Politiques, Paris. He received the degree of LL.D. from Colgate University, 1884, Union University, 1902, University of Pennsylvania, 1902; and the Degree of Docteur ès Lettres from the University of Geneva, 1907. He was president of Bucknell University, 1879-1888; of the University of Rochester, 1888-1896; and professor of diplomacy in Columbian University, Washington, D. C., 1899-1903. He has traveled much in Europe and made researches in various libraries and archives. He was first assistant secretary of State of the United States, 1898-1903; envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States to Switzerland, 1903-1905, and to the Netherlands, 1905-1908, and since July 1, 1908 has been American ambassador to Germany. Dr. Hill was delegate plenipotentiary of the United States to the Second Peace Conference at The Hague, 1907. He is author of: Life of Washington Irving; Life of William Cullen Bryant, 1878; Elements of Psychology, 1886; Social Influence of Christianity, 1888; Principles and Fallacies of Socialism, 1888; Genetic Philosophy, 1893; The Conception and Realization of Neutrality, 1902; The Life and Work of Hugo Grotius, 1902; The Contemporary Development of Diplomacy, 1904; and is engaged upon A History of Diplomacy in the International Development of Europe (Longmans), of which two volumes have appeared; The Struggle for Universal Empire, 1905, and The Establishment of Territorial Sovereignty, 1906. In politics he is a Republican. He is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, a member of the Sons of the Revolution, and of the Century, Metropolitan and Authors Clubs of New York City, Cosmos Club of Washington, D. C., Genesee Valley Club of Rochester. He married in Williamsport, Pa., June 6, 1886, Juliet Lewis Packer. Address: American Embassy, Berlin, Germany.

HILL, Ebenezer J.:

Congressman; born in Redding, Conn., Aug. 4, 1845. He was educated in a public school at Norwalk and entered Yale in the class of 1865. In 1892 he received from Yale University the honorary degree of M.A. In 1863 he joined the army as a civilian, and remained until the close of the war. He was engaged in enibusssh the war. He was engaged in business from that time until elected to the Fifty-fourth Congress. He has held the commercial positions of secretary and treasurer of the Norwalk Iron Works, president of the Norwalk Street Railway Company, president of the Norwalk Gaslight Company, and is now vice-president of the Norwalk Mills Company and vice-president of the National Bank of Norwalk. He is a past grand master and past grand representative of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows of Connecticut; has served twice as burgess of Norwalk, twice as chairman of the board of school visitors; was the Fourth district delegate to the National Republican Convention of 1884; was a member of the Connecticut Senate for 1886-1887; served one term on the Republican State Central Committee; was elected to the Fifty-fourth, Fifty-fifth, Fifty-sixth, Fifty-seventh, Fifty-eighth, Fifty-ninth, and Sixtieth Congresses, and he was re-elected in 1908 to the Sixty-first Congress, from the Fourth Connecticut District. Address: Norwalk, Conn.

HILL, Frank Pierce:

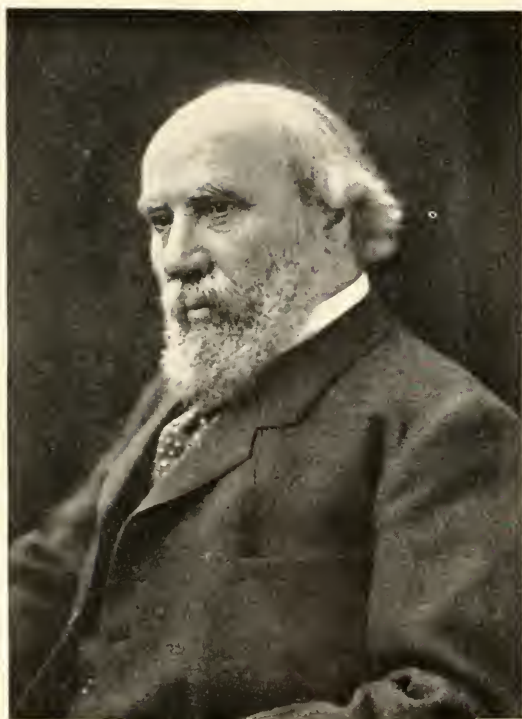

Librarian of the Brooklyn Public Library; born in Concord, N. H., Aug. 22, 1855; son of Cyrus and Nancy Long (Walker) Hill. Educated local public school; graduated Dartmouth College, B.S., 1876; Litt.D., 1906. He was elected librarian of the Lowell Public Library, 1881; called to Patterson, N. J., 1885, and there organized (under the act of 1884) the first free library in New Jersey; later inaugurated the Salem (Mass.) Public Library, and in 1889 became librarian of the first free public library in Newark, N. J., until 1901, when called to his present position as librarian of the Brooklyn Public Library. He was secretary of American Library Association for five years, succeeding Melvil Dewey, its first secretary; president of same, 1905-1906. He married, May 17, 1880, Annie M., daughter of Robert Wood, of Lowell. Address: Public Library, Brevoort Place, Brooklyn, N. Y.

HILL, Frederick Trevor:

Lawyer, author; born in Brooklyn, N. Y., May 5, 1866; son of Edward and Mary Hill. He was educated in the Brooklyn Polytechnic, was graduated from Yale, B.A., 1887; Columbia Law School, LL.B., 1889, honorary M.A., conferred by Yale, 1907. He is author of: Minatures from Balzac (with S. P. Grillin), 1893; The Case and Exceptions (short stories), 1900; The Care of Estates (law), 1901; The Minority, 1902; The Web, 1903; The Accomplice, 1905; Lincoln the Lawyer, 1906 (Century); Decisive Battles of the Law, 1907; also various contributions to magazines since 1901. He is a member of the New York Bar Association and Century, Authors, Players', Ardley and Down Town Clubs. He married in 1895, Mabel Wood. Residence: 29 Washington Square, West. Address: 56 Wall Street, New York City.

HILL, George William:

Astronomer; born in New York City, March 3, 1838. He was graduated from Rutgers College, A.B., 1859, Ph.D., 1872; and he received the honorary degree of Sc.D. from Cambridge University, England, 1892; LL.D., Columbia, 1894, Princeton, 1896. He was assistant in the office of the American Ephemeris and Nautical Almanac, 1861; received the medal of the Royal Astronomical Society of England, 1887, and also received the Darnoiseau prize of the Paris Academy for researches in celestial mechanics, and the Schubert prize of the St. Petersburg Academy in 1905. He is a lecturer in celestial mechanics, Columbia University; member of the National Academy of Sciences, Astronomical and Astrophysical Society of America, American Mathematical Society (president, 1894-1896), American Philo-sophical Society associate fellow of the American Academy of Sciences; member of the New York Academy of Sciences; foreign associate of the Royal Astronomical Society of England; foreign member of the Royal Society of England, Cambridge (England) Philosophical Society, Manchester (England) Literary and Philosophical Society; corresponding member of the Paris

JAMES JEROME HILL
Railroad President

Academy of Sciences. He is author of much work on mathematical subjects, published as Collected Mathematical Works and contributor to mathematical and astronomical journals. Address: West Nyack, N. Y.

HILL, Henry Wayland:

Lawyer; born in Isle La Motte, Vt., Nov. 13, 1853; son of Dyer and Martha P. (Hall) Hill. He was graduated from the University of Vermont, A.B., 1876, A.M., 1881, LL.D., 1900. He was principal of Swanton (Vt.) Union School, 1877-1879; Chateaugay (N. Y.) Academy, 1879-1883; admitted to the New York State Bar at Albany, Jan. 24, 1884; has been in general practice at Buffalo since 1884; member of New York Constitutional Convention, 1894, State Assembly, 1896-1900; State senator, 1901-1908. Senator Hill is vice-president Buffalo Historical Society, secretary and treasurer of the Board of Managers of the State Normal School, one of the Commissioners on the part of the State of New York known as the Lake Champlain Tercentenary Celebration Commission and its secretary, first vice-president of New York State Waterways Association, trustee of the Endowment Fund of the Commercial University of Vermont, Alpha Chapter of Vermont of Phi Beta Kappa Society, the Bibliophile Society of Boston. He was chairman of the delegation to the New York State Bar Association, to the American Bar Association at St. Paul, Minn., 1906; member board of managers of Buffalo Historical Society of the Masonic order (Knights Templar, Scottish Rite Consistory), Knights of Pythias, Delta Psi fraternity of University of Vermont. He has private library of rare and valuable books. He is author of: The Development of Constitutional Law in New York; article on Waterways in the Encyclopedia Americana; contributor to the Bibliophile edition of the Odes and Epodes of Horace, and also wrote an Historical Review of Waterways and Canal Construction in New York. Senator Hill is author of several amendments to the State Constitution, and was one of the principal advocates of the 1,000-ton barge canal. He is a member of the University Club of Buffalo. He married at Swanton, Vt., Aug. 11, 1880, Harriet Augusta Smith. Address: 471 Linwood Avenue, Buffalo, N. Y.

HILL, James Jerome:

Railroad president and financier; son of James and Anne (Dunbar) Hill. He is of Scotch and Irish descent, and was born near Guelph, Wellington County, Ontario, Canada, Sept. 16, 1838. From his seventh to his fifteenth year he attended Rockwood Academy, a Quaker school, where he was carefully instructed in mathematics and Latin. The death of his father in 1853 prevented his studying for the medical profession, as had been intended, and he secured employment in a country store. Early in 1856 he made a tour of the United States, from Maine to Minnesota, and decided to settle in St. Paul. Here he engaged as shipping clerk with J. W. Bass & Company, agents for the Dubuque & St. Paul Packet Company's line of Mississippi River steamboats, and used the opportunity afforded him by this position to carefully study all subjects relating to river transportation; especially that of fuel. In 1865 he took the agency of the Northwestern Packet Company's line of Mississippi River steamboats; and when this line was merged with the Davidson line, in 1867, he engaged in a general transportation and fuel business. In the meantime, the First Division of the St. Paul & Pacific Railroad Company had built and put into operation a portion of its railroad, beginning near the steamboat landing in St. Paul and running westward, through Minneapolis, to the prairie region beyond, with a branch up the Mississippi River toward St. Cloud, and Mr. Hill had become its station agent at St. Paul. In this way his career as a railroad man began. In 1869 he formed the fuel and warehousing firm of Hill, Griggs & Company, and in 1870 the Red River Transportation Company, for operating a line of steamboats on the Red River of the North, between points in the United States, and the province of Manitoba. Mr. Hill was the first to place mineral coal on the market at St. Paul. In 1872 the first regular through transportation service between St. Paul and Winnipeg—then Fort Garry—was established by him. In 1875, together with E. N. Saunders, C. W. Griggs, and Wm. Rhodes, he formed the Northwestern Fuel Company; but three years later sold all his interests in the fuel and steamboat companies. In 1877 Mr. Hill and his associates obtained control of the St. Paul & Pacific Railroad Company and the first division of the St. Paul & Pacific Railroad Company, and in 1879 reorganized it under the name of St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba Railway Company, of which Mr. Hill became general manager. He became vice-president in 1882, and president in 1883, and was the first to propose a railway from the Great Lakes to the Pacific Coast, through the great region lying between the International boundary line on the North and the Northern Pacific Railroad on the South. The extension of the Hill lines toward the Pacific Coast began in 1880; and by 1893 they had reached Puget's Sound, with a branch starting from the main line in Central Montana and running southwest, through Great Falls and Helena, to Butte. The St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba organization being deemed inadequate for an extensive transcontinental and international transportation system, in 1890 the railway and properties of that company were taken over by the Great Northern Railway Company, which has since operated or controlled them; Mr. Hill all that time having been its president. For the better handling of the Asiatic trade, a line of steamships, under the name of Great Northern Steamship Company, was established, for which were constructed, in an American yard, two of the largest and most capacious steamships ever planned up to that time. The experiment was not, however, successful. One of the vessels was lost and for reasons having to do with the disadvantages of American ownership of sea-going vessels the attempt to carry on an Asiatic trade has not been pushed. During the past few years Mr. Hill has taken a deep interest in affairs affecting the commercial welfare of the United States and his public utterances have had material weight in shaping public opinion. The system also has two large sized and swift passenger steamers on the Great Lakes, connecting Duluth and Chicago with the Lake Erie ports. Mr. Hill is a member of the Union, Metropolitan, Down Town, Larchmont Yacht, New York Yacht, Manhattan and Jekyll Island Clubs. He married Mary T. Mahegan, and they have five children. Residence: 240 Summit Avenue, St. Paul, Minn., and 763 Fifth Avenue, New York City. Address: St. Paul, Minn.

HILL, James Langdon:

Clergyman, lecturer, author; born at Garnavillo, Iowa, March 14, 1848. He was graduated from Iowa College in 1871 (D.D., 1891), tutor in Iowa College, 1872; graduated from Andover Theological Seminary, 1875. Before his graduation he was called to the North Congregational Church in Lynn, Mass. He was one of four clergymen, in 1891, to make addresses and to plant Societies of Christian Endeavor in England; and he founded the Society at Old Boston, England. Dr. Hill has made addresses in almost all the States from one ocean to the other; and he has single lecturers which he has given more than a hundred times. He is a trustee of Iowa College and has been a trustee, from the beginning to now, of the United Society of Christian Endeavor. Dr. Hill was one of four who secured control of the Golden Rule, a religious paper, and established it as a champion of the Societies of Endeavor. He is author of: The Growth of Government, which was published by vote of the Legislature of Massachusetts, and of: Modern Methods of Christian Nurture; The Superlative Vacation; A Decade of History; Seven Sorts of Successful Sunday Evening Services, and his leaflets and newspaper articles are very numerous. He married in 1878, Lucy B. Dunham, daughter of the chaplain of the Massachusetts Senate. Address: 325 Lafayette Street, Salem, Mass.

HILL, Joseph Morrison:

Jurist; born in North Carolina, Sept. 2, 1864; educated at the University of Arkansas and was graduated from Lebanon (Tennessee), Law School, in 1883. One of the authors of Sandels & Hill's Digest of the Statutes, 1894. He is chief justice of the Supreme Court of Arkansas, elected as such September, 1904. Address: Little Rock, Ark.

HILL, William Henry:

Banker; born in Boston, July 14, 1838; son of William Hill and Abby (Remick) Hill. After completing his educational preparation in the Roxbury High School, he engaged in 1855 as clerk in a publishing house which developed into the firm of Chase, Nichols and Hill, in which he was a partner for two years, then was in business for himself for eight years as a publisher and bookseller until in 1869 he became a member of the present banking firm of Richardson, Hill and Company, now one of the most prominent on the Boston Stock Exchange. Mr. Hill is also a member of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, the Boston Real Estate Exchange and other commercial organizations, and his firm is constantly identified with large monetary operations and the financing of large enterprises in the New England States. Mr. Hill is trustee of some large estates, is a director of the First National Bank of Boston, the Boston Insurance Company and various other corporations; and he is a member of the Bunker Hill Monument Association, the Bostonian Society, Algonquin Club, Boston Art Club, Colonial and Country Clubs of Boston. He married in Boston, Jan. 8, 1862, Sarah E. May. Residence: Brookline, Mass. Office: 50 Congress Street, Boston.

HILLIS, Newell Dwight:

Clergyman, author; born in Magnolia, Iowa, Sept. 2, 1858. He was educated in Lake Forest University, M.A., Iowa College, and the McCormick Theological Seminary, Chicago (D.D., Northwestern University). He entered the Presbyterian ministry, 1887, and was pastor at Peoria, Ill., three years, and at Evanston, Ill., four years; succeeded the late Professor David Swing as pastor of Central Church, Chicago (an independent church), 1894-1899; and since 1899 has been pastor of Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, Congregationalist, (succeeding Dr. Lyman Abbott. Dr. Hillis is author of: A Man's Value to Society; How the Inner Light Failed; Investment of Influence; Great Books as Life Teachers; Foretokens of Immortality; Influence of Christ in Modern Life; Quest of Happiness; Success Through Self-Help; Building a Working Faith; The Quest of John Chapman; The Fortune of the Republic. He married in Chicago, April 14, 1887, Annie Louise Patrick, and they have three children. Residence: 31 Grace Court, Brooklyn. Address: Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, N. Y.

HILLS, Alfred Kimball:

Physician; born at Hudson, N. H., Oct. 23, 1840; son of Alden and Nancy Currier (Kimball) Hills. He was educated in scientific and medical courses at Harvard University, 1868; medical course, M.D., 1868-1869; Hahnemann (Pennsylvania) Medical College, 1870. He is president and editor of the Medical Times; fellow of the Academy of Medicine of New York, American Medical Association, Medical Societies State and County of New York, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, member of National Geographical Society, American Social Science Association, American Museum of Natural History, New York Zoological Society, the Founders and Patriots of America, New England Society, Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite, Charity Organization Society; consulting physician to the Metropolitan Hospital, department of charities, and member of the Union League Club. He married in Philadelphia, Pa., June 11, 1887, Ida Virginia Creutzburg. Address: 541 West End Avenue, New York City.

HILLS, Joseph Lawrence:

Dean of the University of Vermont; born in Boston, March 2, 1861; son of Thomas and Amelia Ellen (Drew) Hills. He was graduated from the Massachusetts Agricultural College and received the B.Sc. in 1881, and from Boston University, B.Sc. the same year, honorary Sc.D. from Rutgers College in 1903. He served as assistant chemist of the Massachusetts Experiment Station, 1882-1884, of the New Jersey Experimental Station, 1884-1885; was chemist of the Phosphate Mining Company, Limited, of Beaufort, S. C., 1885-1888; chemist, 1888-1900, and director of the Vermont Experiment Station, since 1893. Mr. Hills has been professor of agronomy since 1893, and dean of the Department of Agriculture since 1898 in the University of Vermont. He is a member of the Society for the Promotion of Agricultural Science, the Association of American Agricultural Colleges and Experiment Stations. He married at New Brunswick, N. J., Sept. 11, 1888, Kate Conover, and they have one son. Address: 59 North Prospect Street, Burlington, Vt.

HILPRECHT, Herman Volrath:

Assyriologist and archæologist; born at Hoheneyxleben, Germany, July 28, 1859. He was graduated from Herzogl Gymnasium, of Bernburg, Germany, 1880; studied theology, philology and law at the Universities of Leipzig, whence he received the degree of Ph.D. in 1883, and was an instructor in Old Testament theology in the University of Erlangen, 1885-1886; received the degree of D.D. from the University of Pennsylvania, 1894, and LL.D. from Princeton University in 1896. Dr. Hilprecht has been professor in the University of Pennsylvania since 1886, and was appointed Clark Research professor of Assyriology and professor of Semitic philology in the University of Pennsylvania in 1902; is curator of Babylonian and General Semitic section of the museum, University of Pennsylvania, containing over 30,000 original cuneiform documents, and for the greater part presented by him. He was first Assyriologist and later scientific director, University of Pennsylvania expedition to Nippur, Babylonia, 1888-1900, and is editor-in-chief of its publications. He reorganized the Babylonian section of the Imperial Ottoman Museum, Constantinople, 1893-1907, and has made frequent scientific explorations in Asia Minor and Syria. Dr. Hilprecht is an honorary member of the Philosophical Society of Great Britain, 1892; Palestine Exploration Fund, London, 1897; Greek Syl-logos, Constantinople, 1897; Geographical Society of Philadelphia, 1900; knight of the first class, 1893, and commander, 1898, Albrecht der Baer (German decoration); commander Turkish Osmanie Order, 1895; comthur with star of the same, 1898; commander of the Danish Order of Dannebrog, 1898; (German) Order Frederika, 1901; Lucy Wharton Drexel Medal, 1902; Golden Liakat (Turkish), 1905; and is author of: Old Babylonian Inscriptions, Chiefly from Nippur (two parts); Business Documents of Murashu Sons, of Nippur, Dated in the Reign of Artaxerxes I (with A. T. Clay); Mathematical, Metrological and Chronological Texts from the Temple Library of Nippur; Frisbrief Nebukadnezar's I; Assyriaca, Eine Nachlese auf dem Gebiete der Assyriologie; Recent Researches in Bible Lands (with a number of other scholars); Explorations in Bible Lands During the Nineteenth Century (with four German scholars), eighth edition; Die Ausgrabungen in Bel-Tempel zu Nippur (also English edition); Ausgrabungen in Assyrien und Babylonien; and numerous contributions to scientific journals. Address: 807 Spruce Street, Philadelphia.

HIMMELWRIGHT, A. L. A.:

Civil engineer, author; born in Milford Square, Bucks County, Pa., Feb. 7, 1865; son of Charles R. and Susan (Artman) Himmelwright. He was graduated from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N. Y., 1888; was transitman and topographer on railroad surveys for Northern Pacific Railroad, in Idaho, 1888-1889; assistant engineer of the Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg Railroad, 1889-1900; in charge of engineering operations for W. A. Engeman, Moorfield, West Virginia, in development of limestone property, etc., 1890-1891; examination, purchase and development of phosphate properties in Florida; location and construction of branch railroad, Williston to Montbrook, and now part of Plant system, 1891-1892; designing and constructing operating plant of Columbia Granite Company, Middletown, Conn., 1892-1895; managing department fire-proof construction for John A. Roebling's Sons Company, New York City, 1895-1899; general manager of the Roebling Construction Company since 1899. He is author of: In the Heart of the Bitter Root Mountains, 1895; Tests, 1898; The Baltimore Fire, 1904; The San Francisco Earthquake and Fire, 1906; The Pistol and Revolver, 1908; contributor to North American Review, Engineering Magazine, etc. President of United States Revolver Association (life member; director New York State Rifle Association; member of American Society of Civil Engineers, American Geographical Society (life member), National Geographical Society, Manhattan Rifle and Revolver Association, Chi Phi and Sigma Xi fraternities. For amusement and recreation in 1903, he made an original map and survey of the central portion of Idaho, between the middle fork and the headwaters of the Salmon River, embracing an area of 600 square miles. Recreations: Capturing big game, mountain scenery photography, pistol and revolver shooting. He is a member of the Engineers' Club, of New York. He married in Albany, N. Y., Jan. 25, 1895, Harriet Sage Hamlin, and has a son, Kenneth Hamlin. Residence: Stockholm, N. J. Address: 949 Broadway, New York City.

HINDS, John I. D.:

Professor of chemistry, and dean of Peabody College for Teachers; born in Guilford County, N. C., Dec. 13, 1847; son of John and Rhoda (Webb) Hinds. He was graduated from Cumberland University, A.B., later A.M., C.E. and LL.D.; and he took post-graduate work in chemistry at Harvard, and in the University of Berlin. He was professor of chemistry at Cumberland University, 1873-1899, and since 1899 has been professor of chemistry in the University of Nashville. Dr. Hinds is a member of the American Chemical Society, the Deutsche Chemische Gesellschaft, and the American Association for the Advancement of Science; and he is a contributor to scientific and literary journals, and author of two works on chemistry. He is a 32d-degree Mason and Knight Templar. Address: Nashville, Tenn.

HINDS, Warren Elmer:

Economic entomologist; born at Townsend, Mass., Sept. 20, 1876; son of Warren D. and Mary P. (Colby) Hinds. He was educated in the Massachusetts Agricultural College, Amherst, Mass., and Boston University, 1895-1899, and did post-graduate work at the Massachusetts Agricultural College, 1899-1902, receiving the degree of Ph. D. He assisted at the Hatch Experiment Station, Mass., 1899-1900; had a lecture course in entomology at the Maryland Agricultural College Summer School in 1901, and was special assistant of the United States Department of Agriculture Bureau of Entomology, Washington, D. C., in the summer of 1901. Dr. Hinds became a special field agent of the Bureau of Entomology, July 1, 1902, and was in charge of the Cotton Boll Weevil Laboratory of the Bureau of Entomology from July 1, 1903, to Sept. 30, 1907. He has published several bulletins of the Bureau of Entomology upon the Mexican Cotton Boll Weevil. He has been professor of entomology in the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, and entomologist to the Alabama Agricultural Experiment Station since Oct. 1, 1907. He is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science; member of the Washington Entomological Society; the Association of Economic Entomologists; Entomological Society of America; Committee of 100 on Public Health; the Phi Kappa Phi and College Shakespearean Clubs of the Massachusetts Agricultural College. He married at Templeton, Mass., March 4, 1903, Edith Goddard Gray. Address: Auburn, Ala.

HINITT, Frederick William:

President of the Central University of Kentucky; born at Kidderminster, England, Nov. 2, 1866; son of John and Selina (Williams) Hinit. He was graduated from West Minster College, Missouri, B.S., 1889, B.A., 1890, A.M. in 1892. The degrees of Ph.D., 1896, and D.D., 1902, were conferred upon him by the University of Wooster, as well as that of D.D. by his alma mater in 1904. He became pastor of the Presbyterian ian Church at Warrensburg, Mo., 1892-1895, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Ottumwa, Iowa, 1895-1900, and in the latter year became president of Parsons College, Fairfield, Iowa, and in 1904 was elected president of Central University of Kentucky, at Danville. He is trustee of the Presbyterian Theological Seminary, and of the Central University of Kentucky; is a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity. He married at Fulton, Mo., June 29, 1892, Elsie Hampton Humphreys, and has three children. Address: Danville, Ky.

HINKLEY, John:

Lawyer; born in Baltimore, March 1, 1864; son of Edward Otis and Anne M. (Keenle) Hinkley. He was graduated from Johns Hopkins University, A.B., 1881, from the University of Maryland, 1886, was admitted to the bar in 1886, and since 1889 has been a member of the law firm of Hinkley and Morris, Baltimore. He has been secretary of the American Bar Association since 1893; is a member of the Maryland State Bar Association, the Bar Association of Baltimore City; is a director of the Female House of Refuge and the Friendly Inn. He served as captain in the Fifth Maryland Regiment of U. S. Volunteer Infantry in the Spanish-American War, and is now major of the Fifth Regiment of Infantry in the Maryland National Guard. He is a Democrat and a Swedenborgian; and he is a member of the University, Johns Hopkins, Seedbrook Park Golf, Baltimore Country and Baltimore Whist Clubs. Residence: 54 West Biddle Street. Office: 215 North Charles Street, Baltimore.

HINRICHS, Gustav:

Musical conductor; born at Ludwigslust, Mecklenberg, Germany, Dec. 10, 1850; son of August and Sophia (Havekross) Hinrichs. He was graduated from Ludwigslust Gymnasium, and studied music in Hamburg under Angelo Reissland and Edward Marxen. He came to the United States in 1870; and engaged as a teacher of music, later with Theodore Thomas as associate conductor of the National Opera in New York City; then for several years was teacher at the National Conservatory of Music, New York City; director of music at Columbia University and Metropolitan Opera House, New York City; and later managed, at Philadelphia, Hinrichs' Opera Company, which was for years a favorite organization, and first introduced the operas I Pagliacci and Cavalleria Rusticana in America; and also produced Ontoera, three-act romantic grand opera, of which Mr. Hinrichs was composer. He is also composer of several manuscript productions for orchestra, voice, chorus, etc., which have been produced. Mr. Hinrichs is a Lutheran in his religious connections. He married in San Francisco, Dec. 17, 1896, Katherine Fleming. Address: 138 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

HINSHAW, Edmund Howard:

Congressman and lawyer; born at Greensboro, Ind., Dec. 8, 1860. He lived on his father's farm until he was sixteen, and began teaching school and continued in that profession for ten years, attending college intermittently, and in 1885 graduated from Butler College, Indianapolis; the last year he taught he removed to Fairbury, Neb., to accept the superintendency of the public schools; declined a reelection, and was admitted to the bar in 1888; immediately beginning the practice of law; has held various municipal and county offices, and in 1898 was nominated for Congress by the Republicans, but was unable to overcome the Fusion plurality; in 1901 was a candidate for United States Senator; was again in 1902 nominated for Congress after a spirited contest, and elected to the Fifty-eighth Congress, and reelected to the Fifty-ninth and Sixtieth Congresses. Address: Fairbury, Neb.

HIRSCHBERG, Michael Henry:

Jurist; born in Newburgh, N. Y., April 12, 1847; son of Henry and Fanny (Franks) Hirschberg. He was graduated from Newburgh Free Academy, 1862. He Practised at Newburgh until elected justice of the Supreme Court; was a member of the Newburgh Board of Education, 1871-1883; special county judge of Orange County, 1875-1878; district attorney of Orange County, 1889-1895; State delegate to Constitutional Convention, 1894; elected Justice Supreme Court of State of New York, 1896; assigned to the Appellate Division, Second Department, Brooklyn, 1900; appointed presiding justice, January, 1904, for the term expiring Dec. 31, 1910. Justice Hirschberg is a member of the Republican, Manhattan, Lawyers', Hamilton, Brooklyn, Powellton, Newburgh City Clubs. He married in New York City, March 16, 1878, Lizzie McAlles, and has four children. Residence: Newburgh, N. Y.

HISCOCK, Frank:

Lawyer; born in Pompey, N. Y., Sept. 6, 1834; son of Richard and Cynthia (Harris) Hiscock. He was educated in Pompey (New York) Academy; was admitted to the New York bar 1851, became a member of the firms of L. H. and F. Hiscock, Hiscock, Doheny & Gifford, and Hiscock, Doheny, Williams & Cowie. He was district attorney of Onondaga County, N. Y., 1860-1863; member of the New York State Constitutional Convention, 1867; representative in Congress 1877-1887; U. S. senator from New York, 1887-1893. In 1876 he was a delegate to National Republican Convention; in 1880 was a delegate-at-large to the Republican National Convention; in 1884 was delegate-at-large to the Republican National Convention, and presided in part at this convention; in House of Representatives was a member of Committee on Elections, of the Potter Investigating Committee to investigate the election of President Hayes; the chairman of the Committee on Appropriation, and a member of the Committee on Ways and Means; in the Senate was a member of the Committee on Finance, Interstate Commerce, Coast Defenses and Patents; and on a Special Committee on the Reports of the Pacific Railroad Commissioners and the President's Message thereon. Director of Syracuse Savings Bank; Trust and Deposit Company, of Onondaga; State Bank of Syracuse. He married at Tully, N. Y., Nov. 23, 1859, Cornelia King; and has two children. Address: 401 West Onondaga Street, Syracuse, N. Y.

HISCOCK, Frank Harris:

Lawyer and justice of the Supreme Court; born in Tully, N. Y., April 16, 1856. He was graduated from Cornell University, A.B. in 1875, and is a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity. In 1878 he was admitted to the bar. Mr. Hiscock was a member of the Republican State Committee, 1894-1895, and has been justice of the Supreme Court since 1896. He was a member of the Fourth Appellate Division, 1901-1905; acting associate judge of the Court of Appeals since January, 1906. He is trustee of Cornell University; director of the State Bank of Syracuse, and the Trust and Safe Deposit Company of Onondaga; also of Whitman and Barnes Manufacturing Company. Judge Hiscock married in Syracuse, N. Y., in October, 1879, Miss Barnes. Address: Syracuse, N. Y.

HITCHCOCK, Mary E. (Mrs. Roswell D.):

Author, explorer; born in Virginia, daughter of Thomas A. Higgins, of Norfolk, Va., and Cecelia (Fitzgerald) Higgins. Her education was secured in Lawrence Academy from which she received academic honors. She married Commander Roswell D. Hitchcock, U. S. N., and has one daughter, Mrs. Harriman. Mrs. Hitchcock accompanied Commander Hitchcock to the Vienna Exposition in 1873, Paris Exposition of 1878, and to Japan, 1882, where his ship remained two years, and again in 1892, when Commander Hitchcock was captain of U. S. S. Alert. After the death of the commander she made a tour of the world. In 1898 Mrs. Hitchcock went to Klondike, climbing Skagway Pass on foot before the days of the railroad, and was so impressed with the mining and agricultural possibilities of that region that she returned to spread the knowledge she had gained in lectures and hospitals. She returned to the Golden North, where she staked more than 100 claims and became so deeply interested financially that she spent the greater part of five years there. Mrs. Hitchcock is author of: Two Women in the Klondike (Putnam's), and Tales Out of School About Naval Officers by a Woman Who Has Lived on a Man-of-War. She organized in 1904 and is president of The Entertainment Club of New York, meetings of which, at the Waldorf-Astoria, have been spoken of by the great dailies as the nearest approach to a Salon this city has ever known. Mrs. Hitchcock is a fellow of the American Geographical Society and a member of the Daughters of the Confederacy. She was selected in 1909 for a secret mission to the Orient. Address: 44 West 45th Street, New York City.

HITCHCOCK, Ripley:

Author, editor; born at Fitchburg, Mass., July 3, 1857; son of Alfred Hitchcock (A. M., M.D.), a distinguished surgeon and publicist, and Aurilla Phebe (Wellman) Hitchcock, who was for a time professor of Latin at Mt. Holyoke College. He was graduated from Harvard, A.B., 1877. He has been engaged in literary work in New York City from 1879; was special correspondent of the New York Tribune in Mexico, the West, and Northwest, in the summers of 1882, 1883; art critic for the New York Tribune, 1882-1890; literary adviser for D. Appleton and Company, 1890-1902; and now associated with Harper and Brothers. He is a contributor to magazines, a writer upon topics of art and literature, American history, and life out of doors; and has delivered many lectures and addresses upon art and literary subjects. He is author of: An American Landscape Painter, George Inness; Etching in America; The Western Art Movement; Representative Etchings; The Madonna in Art; Water Color Painting in America; Thomas De Quincey, A Study; The Louisiana Purchase and the Building of the West; The Lewis and Clark Expedition. He has also edited numerous volumes, including: The Life of an Artist (by Jules Breton); The Art of the World Illustrated in the Paintings, Statuary and the Architecture of the World's Columbian Exposition (with an introduction and much other text); The Story of the West Series (The Story of the Indian, The Story of the Mine, The Story of the Cowboy, The Story of the Railroad, The Story of the Soldier, The Story of the Trapper), with introductions; Recollections (by Richard Henry Stoddard); The Trail Makers—A Library of History and Exploration, published in seventeen volumes; and other books and series. Mr. Hitchcock is a member of the American Historical Association; the New York Historical Society; and the New England Society in New York, the Century Association and the Authors, New York Athletic and Harvard Clubs of New York City, Harvard Union of Cambridge, Mass., and the National Club of London. He married in Springfield, Mass., May 23, 1883, Matha Wolcott Hall, who died Sept. 1, 1903; and he has two sons. Residence: The Strathmore, 1674 Broadway. Office: Harper and Brothers, Franklin Square, New York City.

HOARD, William Dempster:

Journalist and farmer; born at Stockbridge, N. Y., Oct. 10, 1836; son of Rev. William Bradford and Sarah Catherine (White) Hoard. After receiving an education in common schools, he became a private in the Civil War, of the Fourth Wisconsin Infantry and First New York Light Artillery. He started his first paper, the Jefferson County Union, March 17, 1870, and Hoard's Dairyman, November, 1885. He was president of the Northwestern Dairyman's Association, and the Wisconsin Dairyman's Association; president of the Wisconsin Editorial Association; and commander of the Department of Wisconsin of the Grand Army of the Republic. Mr. Hoard was governor of Wisconsin, 1889-1891; president of the National Dairy Union, and is now president of the Board of Regents of the University of Wisconsin. He is the owner of a large farm and herd of pure-bred Guernsey cattle. He is a member of the Wisconsin Consistory of Masons, and of the Hamilton Club of Chicago. Mr. Hoard married at Lake Mills, Wis., Feb. 9, 1860, Agnes Elizabeth Bragg, and they have three sons. Address: Fort Atkinson, Wis.

HOBAN, Michael John:

Bishop of Scranton; born in Waterloo, N. J., June 6, 1853; son of Patrick and Bridgid Agnes (Hennigan) Hoban. He studied at Holy Cross College, Worcester, Mass., 1868-1871, and attended the American College, Rome, Italy, 1875-1880. He was ordained priest in Rome by Cardinal Monaco La Valletta, May 22, 1880; was consecrated bishop of Alalis, and coadjutor of Scranton, in Scranton, by Cardinal Satolli, March 22, 1896; and he succeeded Bishop O'Hara as bishop of Scranton, Feb. 3, 1899. Bishop Hoban is a trustee of the Pennsylvania Oral School, Scranton Public Library, Sanatorium for Consumptives, and St. Patrick's Orphan Asylum, etc. Address: 315 Wyoming Avenue, Scranton, Pa.

HOBART, George Vere:

Humorist and playwright; born in Cape Breton, Nova Scotia, Jan. 16, 1867; educated in public schools. He engaged in newspaper work, first at Cumberland, Md., and afterward at Baltimore, becoming locally notable as a humorist some time before his Dinkelspiel papers attracted outside attention. Since 1899, writing for the New York American and Journal and the other Hearst papers, and has published many volumes of Dinkelspiel productions. He is also a writer of plays, including: The Ham Tree; Mrs. Black is Back; and many others. He married in Baltimore, Md., July 14, 1897, Sarah H. De Vries. Residence: Pelham Manor, N. Y. Address: Care New York American, New York City.

HOBBS, Franklin Warren:

Treasurer of the Arlington Mills, Lawrence; born Roxbury, Mass., Sept. 24, 1868; son of William and Mary (Cogswell) Hobbs; grandson of Francis and Mary (Marland) Cogswell. His immigrant ancestors included Joseph Hobbs of Bristol, England, who came to Watertown, Mass., in 1685, and John Cogswell, who came from England to Ipswich in 1635. He was graduated at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, S.B., 1889. He was instructor in mechanical engineering M.I.T. 1889-1891 and in 1891 began his practical work as an engineer in the Arlington Mills, and in 1902 he was elected treasurer of the corporation, William Whitman having resigned that office to assume the presidency. He is a member and director of the Home Market Club of Boston; a member of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers; an original trustee and one of the State trustees of the Lowell Textile School; a director of the Arkwright Mutual Fire Insurance Company, and a member and vice-president of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers. He is a member of the Arkwright, Technology and Union Clubs of Boston and of the Country Club of Brookline, and is president of the Episcopalian Club. He is a trustee of the Cemetery of Mount Auburn. He married May 31, 1892, Jane Hallett, daughter of William and Jane (Hallett) Whitman of Brookline, and they have four children. Residence: 78 Upland Road, Brookline, Mass. Office: 78 Chauncy Street, Boston, Mass.

HOBSON, Richmond Pearson:

Congressman, late naval constructor, U. S. Navy; born in Greensboro, Ala., Aug. 17, 1870. At the age of twelve years he entered the Southern University, where he remained for three years. On May 21, 1885, he received the appointment of cadet at the Naval Academy, Annapolis, and he was graduated with high honors in 1889. He also studied at the École d'Application du Génie Maritime in Paris. He received his appointment as assistant naval constructor on July 1, 1891, and was promoted to the grade of constructor on June 3, 1898, and as such was on active duty with the North Atlantic Squadron at the breaking out of the Spanish-American War, on board the flagship New York. He rendered efficient service at the bombardment of Matanzas and in the expedition against San Juan, Porto Rico. When the Spanish fleet under Admiral Cervera entered the harbor of Santiago de Cuba, and was blockaded by the combined fleets of Admirals Sampson and Schley, it was determined by the commanding officer to attempt to effectually stop the egress of the fleet from the harbor by placing obstructions in the channel. With this purpose in view the collier Merrimac was selected, and Constructor Hobson, having tendered his services, was selected by Admiral Sampson to carry into effect this perilous enterprise. Selecting a crew of eight men from the hundreds who were eager to share with Hobson the danger and the glory of the expedition, on the night of June 2, 1898, he entered the harbor with the vessel. No sooner had he approached the spot designated for the sinking of the Merrimac than its presence was discovered by the enemy, and immediately a concentrated fire from the fortifications at the mouth of the harbor ensued, by which the work of placing the obstruction in mid-channel was so seriously interfered with as to render the enterprise only partially successful. Captain Hobson and his crew, having attached themselves to a life raft which had been provided for the emergency, were picked up by the Spaniards and made prisoners. After the Spanish fleet was destroyed in its attempt to escape from the harbor, it was determined by the authorities to endeavor to float some of the vessels, with a view to their reconstruction. To this arduous task Captain Hobson was assigned, but the destruction of the ships had been so thoroughly accomplished, that but one of them was raised, the Maria Teresa, which was subsequently lost in an attempt to tow her to an American harbor. At the close of the war Captain Hobson was sent to Hong Kong to supervise the reconstruction of three Spanish gunboats which had been partially destroyed at the battle of Manila. He was, at the conclusion of this duty, placed in charge of the construction department of the Navy Yard at Cavité, P. I. He returned to the United States in 1902, and was for a brief period superintendent of naval construction at the Crescent shipyards, Elizabeth, N. J. In Feb., 1903, he tendered his resignation from the Navy. Captain Hobson successfully opposed the re-nomination of the Hon. John Hollis Bankhead in his home district of Alabama, and was elected to the Sixtieth Congress from the Sixth District, and was reelected in 1908 to the Sixty-first Congress. In Congress he has become nationally famous as a champion of an enlarged Navy. He was elected Democratic elector-at-large of Alabama in 1904. The Southern University conferred upon him the degree of LL.D. He is a member of the Kappa Alpha fraternity, Phi Chapter, is a member of the Metropolitan and Army and Navy Clubs of Washington, the Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht Club, and the Army and Navy Club of New York. He married at Tuxedo Park, N. Y., May 25, 1905, Grizelda Houston Hull. Address: Fayette, Ala., and 2117 S Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

HOCH, Edward Wallis:

Former governor of Kansas; born at Danville, Ky., March 17, 1849; son of E. G. and Elizabeth (Stout) Hoch. He was educated in Center College, Danville, Ky., went to Kansas, and since 1874 has been editor of the Record at Marion, Kan. He has long been prominent as a leader in the Republican party of his State, was a member, 1889-1890 and 1893-1894, and speaker pro tem. in 1893-1894 of the Kansas House of Representatives. He was nominated by acclamation in the State Republican Conventions of 1904 and 1906 for the office of governor of Kansas, and elected, and served the two terms from 1905. Governor Hoch is a prominent layman of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Address: Topeka, Kan.

HODGE, Henry Wilson:

Civil engineer; born in Washington, D. C., April 14, 1865; son of Ledyard and Susan Savage (Wilson) Hodge. He received his preparatory education at Emerson Institute, Washington, and was graduated from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N. Y., as C.E. in 1885. He is consulting engineer, member of the firm of Boller and Hodge, specialist in designing bridges and structures; has designed some of the most prominent railroad and monumental bridges in the country; has acted as consulting engineer to many prominent railroad corporations, the National Government and city governments; and is president of the Porterfield Construction Company. He is a member of the Institute of Civil Engineers of Great Britain, and the American Society of Civil Engineers; veteran of the Seventh Regiment of the National Guard of New York, and is a member of the Century and University Clubs. Mr. Hodge married in Savannah, Ga., Dec. 14, 1897, Sarah C. Mills. Address: 51 East 82d Street, New York City.

HODGE, Richard Morse:

Clergyman, teacher; born in Mauch Chunk, Pa., 1864; son of Rev. J. Aspinwall and Charlotte G. (Morse) Hodge. He was educated in the public schools; graduated at Princeton University and Princeton Theological Seminary, A.B., 1886; A.M., 1889; D.D., University of Nashville, 1901. His traveled through Egypt and Palestine; director of extension courses for lay students Union Theological Seminary, 1901-1907; lecturer in Biblical literature, at Teachers' College, Columbia University, 1902-1907, and in Extension Teaching, Columbia University, since 1907. He is a member of the Society of Biblical Literature and Exegesis. Dr. Hodge is author of: Historical Atlas of the Life of Christ, 1898; Hodge Historical Maps, 1906; New Testament Authors and Their Books, 1909; has written several pamphlets on Biblical literature and religious education. He married at Glencoe, Md., 1888, Alice Austen, and they have two children. Residence: 552 West 113th Street, New York City.

HODGES, Harry Marsh:

Captain U. S. Navy; born in Carrollton, Ill., June 21, 1855; son of Charles Drury and Ellen (Hawley) Hodges. He was graduated at the Naval Academy in 1875, and on his retirement had the longest and most continuous man-of-war sea service of any officer of his rank in the Navy. In 1900 Captain Hodges completed the submarine survey for the Trans-Pacific cable, incidentally discovering the greatest known ocean depth. From 1901 to 1902 he was supervisor of the Harbor of New York, and in 1904 he was promoted to the rank of commander. He was hydrographer of the Navy, 1904-1906, and retired voluntarily, in 1905, with the rank of captain. Captain Hodges is a member of the Naval Order of the United States, the Permanent International Association of Navigation Congresses, and the National Geographic Society. He is also a member of the Army and Navy Club, of Washington, and the University, New York Yacht, Manhattan, and Larchmont Yacht Clubs of New York. He married in New York City, Sept. 5, 1901, Laura George Muir-Drew. Address: Care of the United States Dispatch Agent, 4 Trafalgar Square, London, England.

HODGES, Nathaniel Dana Carlile:

Librarian; born in Salem, Mass., April 19, 1852; son of John and Mary Osgood (Deland) Hodges. He was graduated from Harvard College, A.B., 1874, and took post-graduate work in the University of Heidelberg. He became assistant in the physical laboratory of Harvard University, 1877-1881; assistant editor from Feb., 1883, to Oct., 1885, and then editor until Feb., 1894, of Science. He was assistant in the Public Library of New York, 1895-1897, in the Library of Harvard University, 1897 to 1900; and since April, 1900, has been librarian of the Public Library of Cincinnati. He was elected a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences in 1879, fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science in 1882; is a director of the Theological and Religious Library Association of Cincinnati; trustee of the Cincinnati Library Society for the Blind. Mr. Hodges married in Cincinnati, May 13, 1886, Adèle Louise Goepper. Address: Public Library, Cincinnati, Ohio.

HOE, Robert:

Manufacturer, inventor; born in New York City, March 10, 1839; son of Robert Hoe (2d). He was educated in private schools of New York City. Mr. Hoe has invented many improvements on the printing-press; is head of the firms of R. Hoe & Company, New York City and London, England. He has always resided in New York City; possesses one of the finest libraries in the world; and he has a summer residence at Lake Waccabau, N. Y. Mr. Hoe was one of the founders of the Metropolitan Museum of Art; and founder and first president of the Grolier Club of New York, and he is a member of the Union League, Century, Players', Fencers', and Engineers' Clubs of New York City. Residence: 11 East Thirty-sixth Street. Address: 504 Grand Street, New York City.

HOFF, John Van Rensselaer:

Colonel, assistant surgeon-general, United States Army; born at Mount Morris, N. Y., April 11, 1848; son of Brevet Colonel Alexander H. Hoff and Ann Eliza (Van Rensselaer) Hoff. He was graduated from Union University as A.B., A.M., and M.D.; and from Columbia University as M.D. in 1874; LL.D., Bucknell, 1907; was a matriculant at the University of Vienna, and was appointed first lieutenant assistant surgeon of the U. S. Army, Nov. 10, 1874. He was promoted captain in 1879, major, surgeon 1891; lieutenant-colonel, deputy surgeon-general, 1901; colonel assistant surgeon-general, 1905. He organized the first detachment of the Hospital Corps and company bearers in the U. S. Army at Fort Reno, Indian Territory, in 1887, and the first Company of Instruction, Hospital Corps, at Fort Riley, Kan, in 1891. He was chief surgeon of the first autumn maneuvers in the United States Army, held in Oklahoma in 1888; those at Chiloece, Oklahoma Territory, 1889, and at Fort Riley, 1902-1906. He was recommended for brevet and medal of honor in the Sioux campaign of 1890 and 1891. Dr. Hoff was chief surgeon of the Third Corps in the Spanish-American War, 1898, and chief surgeon in Porto Rico, 1898-1900. He was organizer and president of the Superior Board of Health and Board of Charities, Porto Rico; and was in charge of hurricane relief work following disaster of Aug., 1899. He was detailed as chief surgeon of the China Relief Expedition, Aug., 1900; on duty in the surgeon-general's office of the U. S. Army, 1900-1902; military observer with the Russian Army in Manchuria, decorated by Tzar with Order of St. Anne 2d class; was chief surgeon of the Department of the Missouri, 1906, chief surgeon in the Philippines in 1907. He served as instructor in ophthalmology, etc., in the University of California, 1885; professor in the Army Medical School, 1901-1902; instructor in Military Hygiene, General Service and Staff College, 1903-1905; professor of military sanitation at the University of Nebraska, 1906. He is author of: The Most Practicable Organization for the Medical Department of the United States Army in Active Service; Outline of the Military Sanitary Organizations of Some of the Great Armies of the World; Military Sanitary Organization on the Lines of Communication and at the Base; A Scheme of Military Sanitary Organization; Some Suggestions for the Organization and Interior Economy of a State Medical Military Sub-Depot in War Time; etc. He was president of the Association of Military Surgeons of the United States in 1901-1902; member of the New York Academy of Medicine, Society of the War of 1812, Military Order of the Loyal Legion, Society of the Dragon, Sons of the Revolution, and Society of Colonial Wars. He married, June 22, 1875, Lavinia Day. Address: Care of War Department, Washington, D. C.

HOFFMAN, Samuel Verplanck:

Trustee of real estate; born in Brooklyn, May 12, 1866; son of Eugene A. and Mary C. (Elmendorf) Hoffman. He was educated in Stevens Institute, M.E., 1888; Columbia (College of Physicians and Surgeons), Johns Hopkins University (fellow). He is a director of the Empire City Fire Insurance Company, North River Fire Insurance Company; a fellow of the Royal Astronomical Society; the Seventh Regiment of the National Guard, New York, Holland Society, Sons of the Revolution, Society of Colonial Wars, St. Nicholas Society, New York Historical Society (president), Chamber of Commerce, Delta Phi, and American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society. He is a trustee of the General Theological Seminary, the New York College of Dentistry, and the Hudson-Fulton Tercentenary Committee; and he is a member of the Century, Metropolitan, University, Army and Navy, and Grolier Clubs of New York City. He married, April 17, 1895, Louisa N. Smith; children: Louisa V., born 1896, Margaret E., born 1899, Eugene A., born 1902. Address: 258 Broadway, New York City.

HOGAN, John Joseph:

Catholic bishop of Kansas City; born in Bruff, County Limerick, Ireland, May 10, 1829; went to St. Louis, Mo. in 1848 and was educated in the theological seminary there, receiving his ordination to the priesthood in 1852. He was pastor of churches at Old Mines and Potosi, Mo., and later of St. Michael's Church, St. Louis, which he built in 1855. He was afterward missionary in charge of the district of Northwestern Missouri until he was consecrated, Sept. 13, 1868, bishop of St. Joseph, Mo., administering that see until transferred, Sept. 10, 1880, to the new see of Kansas City, of which he became the first bishop. Address: Kansas City, Mo.

HOLCOMBE, Chester:

Diplomatist, author, lecturer; born in Winfield, N. Y., Oct. 16, 1844; son of Chester and Lucy (Tompkins) Holcombe. He was graduated from Union College, Schenectady, N. Y., A.B., 1861, A.M., 1864. He was interpreter and secretary of the U. S. Legation at Peking, 1871-1885; acting minister, 1875-1876, 1878-1879, 1881-1882; member of the commission for negotiating new treaties with China, 1880; assisted in negotiating treaty with Korea, 1882; appointed U. S. minister to Colombia, 1884, but declined. In 1896 he prepared for the Chinese authorities, in Chinese and English, documents for a government loan of $100,000,000, and also prepared, in both languages, the plans in detail for the construction of double track railways about 3,000 miles in length, and for securing funds amounting to $240,000,000 for building the same, and a project for the inauguration and maintenance of schools for the instruction of Chinese students in methods of construction and maintenance of railroads. He was Lowell Institute lecturer in Boston, Feb., 1902. He translated the Declaration of Independence into Chinese, and wrote, in same language, a Life of Christ and a manual of Mental Arithmetic. He is author of: Travels in Western China, 1875; Practical Effect of Confucianism Upon the Chinese Nation, 1882; Catalogue and Hand-book of Antique Chinese Porcelains, 1890; The Real Chinaman, 1895; The Real Chinese Question, 1900; also a writer in newspapers, magazines and reviews upon Far Eastern topics. Address: Rochester, N. Y.

HOLDEN, Edward Singleton:

Librarian and astronomer; born in St. Louis, Nov. 5, 1846; son of Edward and Sarah Frances (Singleton) Holden. He was graduated from Washington University, B. S., 1866, and from the U. S. Military Academy in 1870; and he received the degrees of Sc.D. from the University of the Pacific, and LL.D. from the University of Wisconsin and Columbia College. He was lieutenant of engineers U. S. Army, 1871-1873; professor of mathematics in the U. S. Navy, 1873-1881; president of the University of California, 1885-1888; director of the Washburn Observatory, Wis., 1881-1885, and of the Lick Observatory, 1888-1898. He is a member of the National Academy of Sciences; an honorary member of the Royal Astronomical Society in London; the Astronomical Society of France; the Italian Spectroscopic Society, and many others. Mr. Holden is author of: Bastion System of Fortification, 1872; Index Catalogue of Nebulae, 1877; Life of Sir William Herschel, 1881; Astronomy (with Simon Newcomb), 1887; Handbook of the Lick Observatory, 1888; Briefer Astronomy (with Simon Newcomb), 1892; The Mogul Emperors of Hindustan, 1895; Mountain Observatories, 1896; Memorials of W. C. and G. P. Bond, 1897; Pacific Coast Earthquakes, 1898; Earth and Sky, 1898; Our Country's Flag, and Primer of Heraldry, all in 1898; Elementary Astronomy, 1899; Family of the Sun, 1899; Essays in Astronomy, 1900; Stories of the Great Astronomers, 1900. He is editor of the Publication of Washburn Observatory, in four volumes, from 1881 to 1885; of the Lick Observatory, in three volumes, from 1888. Dr. Holden is a Knight Commander of the Ernestine Order of Saxony; Knight of the Royal Order of Dannebrog of Denmark, etc., and is a member of the Century Club. He married in 1871, Mary Chauvenet, and they have one son and two daughters. Address: U. S. Military Academy, West Point, N. Y.

HOLDEN, Liberty Emery:

Owner and publisher of the Cleveland Plain Dealer; born in Raymond, Me., June 20, 1833; son of Liberty and Sally (Cox) Holden. He was graduated from the University of Michigan, A.B., 1858, A.M., 1861. He was admitted to the bar in 1862, moved to East Cleveland in 1866; was manager of the Pittsburgh and Lake Angeline Mines, 1872; interested in silver mines in Utah, 1876-1893; now proprietor of the Hollenden Hotel and president of the Hollenden Hotel Company, the Plain Dealer Publishing Company, the Union Club Company, Maple Leaf Land Company, Hub Transfer and Storage Company; and director of the First National Bank of Cleveland, Cleveland Transfer and Carriage Company, Western Reserve Insurance Company, Haskins Realty Company and Lennox Realty Company. Mr. Holden is vice-president of the Western Reserve Historical Society, trustee of Western Reserve University, Adelbert College and Lake View Cemetery Association; chairman of the Building Committee of the Cleveland Museum of Art; member of the National Municipal League, Municipal Association of Cleveland, and American Institute of Mining Engineers, the Rowfant, University and Country Clubs of Cleveland, and the Alta Club of Salt Lake City. He married in Kalamazoo, Mich., Aug. 14, 1860, Delia E. Bulkley. Residence: Loch Hame, Lake Shore Boulevard. Bratenahl, Ohio. Office: 2 Plain Dealer Building, Cleveland, Ohio.

HOLGATE, Thomas Franklin:

Dean of the College of Liberal Arts, Northwestern University; born in Hastings

County, Ontario, April 8, 1859; son of Thomas and Eleanor (Wright) Holgate. He was graduated from Victoria College of the University of Toronto, A.B., 1884, A.M., 1889. He was a fellow of Clark University, Worcester, Mass., 1890-1893, receiving his doctor's degree in 1893. The University of Illinois conferred upon him the degree of LL.D. in 1905. He was master in mathematics in a preparatory school in Ontario, Canada, 1884-1890; instructor in mathematics in Northwestern University, 1893-1894, and has since remained in the faculty of that university as professor of applied mathematics, 1894-1905, professor of mathematics since 1905. Since 1902 he has also been dean of the college of Liberal Arts, and was acting president of Northwestern University, 1904-1906. Dr. Holgate is a member of the American Mathematical Society, and was secretary of its Chicago section, 1897-1905. He is also a member of the Deutsche Mathematiker Vereinigung. Among his published works are: Translation of Rey's Geometry of Position, 1898; Elementary Geometry, 1902 and numerous mathematical articles in scientific journals. He is a member of the University Club of Chicago. Dr. Holgate married at Newburgh, Ont., July 23, 1890, Georgiana Angela Burdette. Address: 617 Library Street, Evanston, Ill.

HOLLAND, Edmund Milton:

Actor; born in New York, 1848; son of George and Catherine Holland. He was educated in the public schools of New York City. He has played leading roles in Social Highwayman, 1896-1897; Eben Holden, 1901-1902; Pope Pius X in the Eternal City, 1902-1903; in 1903-1905, Captain Bedford the Detective in Raffles; in 1907, he starred in vaudeville in The Phantom Highwayman. He also played The Bishop in The Duel with Otis Skinner, etc. He married in New York, 1875, Mary E. Seward. Address: Lambs' Club, New York City.

HOLLAND, James William:

Physician, author, dean of the Faculty of Jefferson Medical College since 1887; born in Nashville, Tenn., 1849; son of Robert C. and Elizabeth Holland. He was graduated from University of Louisville, 1865, A.M., M.D., Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, 1868. He is professor in the Medical Department of the University of Louisville, 1872-1885; editor of the Louisville Medical News, 1880; professor of medical chemistry and toxicology at Jefferson Medical College, 1885-1904. He is a member of the College of Physicians, University Club (Philadelphia), American Philosophical Society, Council on Medical Education of the American Medical Association. Dr. Holland is author of: Diet for the Sick, 1880; Common Poisons and the Urine, 1887; chapter on Mineral Poisons in Saunders' Text-book of Toxicology Medical Jurisprudence; Medical Chemistry and Toxicology; also many papers on medical subjects. He married, in 1877 Mary Rupert. Address: 2006 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

HOLLAND, William Jacob:

Presbyterian clergyman, educator, naturalist, artist, and author; born, Aug. 16, 1848, in Jamaica, West Indies. Graduated at Amherst, B.A., 1869; M.A., 1872; D.D., 1888; Princeton Theological Seminary, 1874; Ph.D. Washington and Jefferson, 1886. Sc.D., 1902; LL.D., Dickinson, 1906; New York University, 1897; St. Andrews', Scotland, 1905. He was chancellor of the Western University of Pennsylvania, 1891-1901; since 1897 managing director of the Carnegie Museum, Pittsburgh; vice-president of Carnegie Hero Fund Commission since 1904; vice-president Board of Trustees Western Theological Seminary since 1889; director Chamber of Commerce of Pittsburgh. He was naturalist of the United States Eclipse Expeditions to Japan, 1887, and Africa, 1889; and is regarded as an authority upon zoölogy, paleontology, and museum administration. President Entomological Society of Western Pennsylvania; fellow Zoölogical and Entomological Societies of London, member Entomological Societies of Washington, New York, London, Germany, France, etc. Member of the Pennsylvania Historical Society; fellow American Association for the Advancement of Science; honorary member of the Anthropological and Geographical Society of Sweden, and many other learned societies in Europe and America. Officier de la Légion d'Honneur de France; Ritter des König Preuss, Kronen Ordeus. Member of the Union and University (Pittsburgh), Cosmos (Washington), and Authors (New York) Clubs. Author of: The Butterfly Book, 1898; The Moth Book, 1903; and many scientific papers (225 titles), published by the United States Government, the Zoölogical Society of London, etc. He was married, Jan. 23, 1879, to Carrie T. Moorhead, youngest daughter of John Moorhead, an iron manufacturer of Pittsburgh. Address: Carnegie Institute, Schenley Park, Pittsburgh.

HOLM, Charles F.:

Lawyer; born in New York City, March 8, 1862; son of Carl and Marie (Martienssen) Holm. He was educated in the high school of Schwerin, Germany, and the Columbia College Law School, whence he was graduated LL.B., 1882. Mr. Holm organized the first coöperative trade companies in New York City, among them the Consumers Brewing Company of New York, United Wine and Trading Company, Consumers' Pie-Baking Company, Excelsior Brewing Company, Ferd. Münch Brewing Company, American Exchange Cigar Company and about ten others with assets in the aggregate of over fifteen million dollars. He also organized the Hudson Trust Company of New York City of which he is counsel and director, and he is also counsel for the companies above named. He organized also the Brockville, Westport and North Western Railroad of Canada. He was captain of Company C of the 14th Regiment, National Guard of New York, of Brooklyn, until 1903. He is a member of the New York County Lawyers' Association, and the Mountauk and Riding and Driving Clubs of Brooklyn. Residences: Sea Cliff, L. I. (summer); 944 President Street, Brooklyn. Office: 35 Nassau Street, New York City.

HOLMES, George Kirby:

Statistician and investigator of economic and social subjects; born in Massachusetts,

May 10, 1856. Is chief of the Division of Production and Distribution, and member of the Crop Reporting Board, in the Bureau of Statistics, U. S. Department of Agriculture; Delegate from the United States to the General Assembly of the International Institute of Agriculture, at Rome; author of numerous monographs in government reports, proceedings of learned societies, magazines and encyclopedia; had charge of investigations of Real Estate Mortgages and Farm and Home Tenure in the Census of 1890. Address: Washington, D. C.

HOLMES, Joseph Austin:

Geologist, testing expert; born in Laurens, S. C., Nov. 23, 1859. He received his education in Laurens Academy and Holmes School, and was graduated from Cornell University in 1881. He was professor of geology and natural history at the University of North Carolina, 1881-1891; lecturer on geology at the same institution and North Carolina State geologist, 1891-1903. He was chief of the Department of Mines and Metallurgy, at Louisiana Purchase Exposition in 1904, and has been in charge of the United States Geological Survey laboratories for testing fuel and structural materials since 1905. He became expert in charge of Technology Branch of the United States Geological Survey in 1907. In religion he is a Presbyterian. He is a fellow of the American Geological Society, and American Association for the Advancement of Science, and a member of the American Institute of Mining Engineers, of the St. Louis Club, and the Cosmos Club of Washington, D. C. Residence: 2137 LeRoy Place, Washington. Address: United States Geological Survey, Washington, D. C.

HOLMES, Oliver Wendell:

Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States; born in Boston, March 8, 1841; son of the novelist and poet of the same name. He joined the Fourth Battery of Infantry at the beginning of the Civil War; and served with the Twentieth Massachusetts Infantry. He was present at the Battle of Balls Bluff; at Antietam and at the Battle of Marye's Hill, being wounded in three battles. In 1862 he was made captain; and was provost-marshal of Falmouth, Va., and lieutenant-colonel in 1863. He was aide-de-camp on the staff of Brigadier-General H. G. Wright in 1864. He entered the Harvard Law School and was graduated as LL.B. in 1864; was admitted to the Suffolk Bar in 1867; taught constitutional law in Harvard College, 1870-1871; was university lecturer on jurisprudence, 1871-1872; professor in Harvard Law School in 1882; associate justice of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts, 1882-1889; chief justice of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts, 1899-1902, when he was appointed to the United States Supreme Bench. He edited the twelfth edition of Kent's Commentaries in 1873; and is author of: The Common Law, 1881; Speeches, 1891 and 1900; and articles in law reviews and was editor of The American Law Review, 1870-1873. Justice Holmes married at Cambridge, Mass., in 1872, Fanny, daughter of Epes Sargent Dixwell. Address: 1720 I Street, Washington, D. C.

HOLMES, William Henry:

Chief of the Bureau of American Ethnology; born in Harrison County, Ohio, Dec. 1, 1846; son of Joseph and Mary (Heberling) Holmes. He was graduated from the McNeely Normal College, B.S., 1870, and became instructor in physical geography and natural history in that college, 1871-1872. In 1872 he became an assistant in the U. S. Geological Survey of the Territories, and assistant geologist, 1875-1879. He was connected with the U. S. Geological Survey, 1880-1888; archaeologist of the Bureau of American Ethnology, 1888-1894; curator of the Department of Anthropology of the Field Columbian Museum, 1894-1897; professor of anthropic geology in the University of Chicago, 1894-1897; head curator of the Department of Anthropology in the U. S. National Museum, 1897-1902; since 1902 chief of the Bureau of American Ethnology. Professor Holmes also has been honorary curator of the Division of Prehistoric Archaeology in the U. S. National Museum since 1903. He was in charge of Government exhibits at the Centennial Exposition, 1876; World's Columbian Exposition, 1893; Omaha Exposition, 1898; Pan-American Exposition, 1900; Charleston Exposition, 1901; Louisiana Purchase Exposition, 1904. Professor Holmes is a member of the National Academy of Sciences; member of the International Congress of Americanists (vice-president, 1904); fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science (secretary of Section 4, 1891, vice-president, 1892), American Anthropological Association (vice-president, 1902), National Geographic Society, American Philosophical Society, Washington Academy of Sciences (vice-president, 1900-1902), Washington Anthropological Society (president, 1900-1902). Professor Holmes is author of many publications on anthropological and archaeological subjects. Address: 1444 Belmont Street, Washington.

HOLT, George C.:

Jurist; born in Mexico, N. Y., Dec. 31, 1843. He was graduated from Yale University, A.B., 1866, received from that University the degree of LL.D., 1894; and was graduated from Columbia Law School, LL.B., 1869. He practised law at the New York bar until 1898; was referee in bankruptcy, 1898-1903; and since then has been judge of the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York. Mr. Holt is a Republican in politics, and is a member of the Fine Arts Society, the New York Bar Association, and the Sons of the Revolution. He is also a member of the Yale, Century, and Lawyers' Clubs of New York City. He married in 1871, Mary Louisa Bowen. Address: Federal Building, New York City.

HOLT, Hamilton:

Managing editor; born in Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 19, 1872; son of Judge George C. and Mary Louise (Bowen) Holt. He was graduated from Yale, A.B., 1894, and took post-graduate work in sociology and economics for three years at Columbia University. After graduation from Yale he entered the editorial department of The Independent, and has been the managing editor for the past six years. He is a member of the Executive Committee of the Citizens' Union. He was president of the Citizens' Protective League that urged the Recount Bill in 1907. He is chairman of the Press committee of the National Peace and Arbitration Congress; ex-president of the Brooklyn Guild Association, trustee of the Woman's Trade Union League; member of the Dramatic Department of the People's Institute; member of the Executive Committee of The Japan Society of America and of the Friends of Russian Freedom, and the New York Peace Society. Mr. Holt is also a member of the American Branch of the International Conciliation, and of the Psi Upsilon fraternity. Mr. Holt married in Baltimore, Md., Feb. 6, 1899, Alexina C. Smith, and they have three children. Residence: 176 West 87th Street. Address: 130 Fulton Street, New York City.

HOLT, Henry:

Publisher, author; born in Baltimore, Md., Jan. 3, 1840; son of Daniel and Ann Eve (Siebold) Holt. He was graduated from Yale University, A.B., 1862, Columbia Law School, LL.B., 1864, and received the LL.D. degree from the University of Vermont, 1901. He is president of the publishing corporation, Henry Holt & Co.; was first chairman of the New York University Settlement Society; first chairman of the University Club Library; trustee of the American Geographical Society; fellow of the New York Academy of Political Science; member of the American Political Science Association, American Economic Association and Sons of the Revolution. He is author of: Calmire—Man and Nature, 1892 (sixth edition, 1906); Talks on Civics, 1901 (third edition); On the Civic Relations, (1907); Sturmsee—Man and Man, 1905 (third edition, 1906), and sundry review articles. Mr. Holt is a member of the Authors, Century, University and City Clubs of New York. He married, first, June 11, 1863, Mary Florence West (died March 7, 1879), and second, Dec. 2, 1886, Florence Taber. He has six children. Address: 29 West 23d Street, New York City.

HOLT, Roland:

Publisher; born in New York City, Dec. 18, 1867; son of Henry and Mary Florence (West) Holt. He was educated at various New York schools, chiefly the Berkeley School, Yale, A.B., with honor in English, 1890. At Yale, he was one of editors of Courant and for a time dramatic critic New Haven Palladium. In 1890 went into Henry Holt & Company, and on its incorporation, 1903, became vice-president. Author of: The Operatic Situation (Theatre, July, 1902) and A Symphony for Everyone; Tschaiakowsky's Pathetic (Musician, January, 1904). Traveled in Europe, summers of 1896 and 1901. Was president Citizen's Union Club, Twenty-ninth Assembly District, 1898, and has since been member Citizens' Union Executive Committee, Twenty-ninth Assembly District. Cleveland Democrat. Member Sons of Revolution, Civil Service Reform Association. Recreations: Reading, tennis, theatre, opera, orchestral concerts. Mr. Holt is a member of the City and Yale Clubs. Address: 29 West 23d Street, New York City.

HOLT, Winifred:

Sculptor; born in New York City; daughter of Henry Holt, the publisher and Mary Florence (West) Holt. She was educated in private schools, finishing at the Brearly School in New York City; studied art in Florence, Italy, and elsewhere in Europe and America. Her principal works in sculpture have been portraits, and bas-reliefs, including those of Misses Helen Keller and Mary Sinclair, the Hon. Carl Schurz and Herr Anton Seidl. Miss Holt has exhibited at the Architectural League and the National Sculpture Society, New York City, and at Berlin and Florence. She is founder and secretary of the New York Association for the Blind, incorporated; founded in 1905, London Ticket Bureau for the Blind; founded in 1906, the Buffalo Association for the Blind. In 1908 she went as delegate from New York to the International Convention of Workers for the Blind at Manchester, England, speaking on the Prevention of Blindness, and The Housing of the Blind. Miss Holt is a member of the Lycæum Club, 128 Piccadilly, London. Address: 44 East 78th Street, New York City.

HOLTON, Henry Dwight:

Physician; born in Rockingham, Vt., July 24, 1838; son of Elihu and Nancy (Grant) Holton. He was prepared in Saxton River Seminary and was graduated from the Medical Department of the University of New York, M.D., 1860; and he received the A.M. degree from the University of Vermont in 1873. Dr. Holton is engaged in the practice of medicine in Brattleboro, Vt.; and is also professor of pathology and therapeutics in the University of Vermont. He was a member for twelve years and secretary and executive officer of the Vermont State Board of Health. He was president of the American Congress of Tuberculosis, 1901; is a member and was president, 1902, of the American Public Health Association, 1902; chairman of the trustees and executive committee of the Pan-American Congress, 1893; is a member of the American Medical Association, and the American Academy of Medicine. He has written many articles in medical journals, and monographs on medical subjects, and is author of Posological Tables, which is now in its second edition. Dr. Holton is a trustee of the University of Vermont; president of the Leland and Gray Seminary of Brattleboro, Vt.; member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, American Academy of Political and Social Science, National Geographic Society, and the New England Education League; and he is president of the Vermont Society of Sons of the American Revolution. He is a Republican in politics, was State senator in 1884 and a member of the Vermont House of Representatives, 1888; and was a delegate-at-large from Vermont to the National Republican Convention in St. Louis, 1896. Dr. Holton married in Rockingham, Vt., Nov. 19, 1862, Ellen Hoit. Address: Brattleboro, Vt.

HONORÉ, Lockwood:

Jurist; born in Chicago, Ill., Sept. 7, 1865; son of Henry Hamilton and Eliza

(Carr) Honoré. He was prepared for college at the Phillips Exeter Academy, and was graduated from Harvard, A.B., 1888, A.M., 1891, Harvard Law School, LL.B., 1891. He was admitted to the Illinois bar in the same year and was engaged in general practice until 1903, when he was elected judge of the Circuit Court of Cook County, Illinois, taking the seat formerly occupied by Judge Hancey upon that bench. Judge Honoré is a member of the University, Chicago, Saddle and Cycle, Union, Iroquois, and Chicago Golf Clubs. He married at Brewster, Mass., Aug. 12, 1902, Beatrice C. Richardson, and has one daughter. Residence: 68 Cedar Street. Office: County Building, Chicago.

HOOD, John:

Commander U. S. Navy; born in Florence, Ala., Dec. 3, 1859; son of John Murray and Mary Cornelia (Heslep) Hood. He was appointed from Alabama and was graduated from the U. S. Naval Academy, June 10, 1879, being second in his class and one of the four star members; commissioned midshipman, June 10, 1881; ensign, junior grade, March 3, 1883; ensign, June 26, 1884; lieutenant (junior grade), Dec. 5, 1890; lieutenant, April, 1895; lieutenant commander, Sept. 22, 1901; commander, July 1, 1906. He has served on various duties and stations as a naval officer, and, among the notable events of his career, was wrecked in the U. S. S. Kearsarge, Feb. 2, 1894; and blown up in the U. S. S. Maine, Feb. 15, 1908. He had command of the U. S. S. Hawk during the Spanish-American War; made the survey for the Pacific Cable, 1899-1900, and the charts and data on which the cable was laid. He commanded the U. S. S. Elcano in Chinese Waters, 1903-1905; commanded the U. S. S. Tacoma, 1907-1909; now commanding the U. S. S. Severn. Commander Hood is a member of the Army and Navy Club of Washington, D. C., and of the Army and Navy Club of Manila. He married in Annapolis, Md., Jan. 28, 1890, Rosalie Caswell. Home: Florence, Ala. Address: Care of the Navy Department, Washington, D. C.

HOOK, William Cather:

United States circuit judge; born in Waynesburg, Pa., Sept. 24, 1857; son of Enos and Elizabeth D. Hook. He went to Kansas in his boyhood and was educated in the public and high schools of Leavenworth; was graduated in law from the St. Louis Law School in 1878. He practised law from that time until appointed by President McKinley in 1899 judge of the U. S. District Court for the District of Kansas; and in 1903 he was promoted by President Roosevelt to his present office of judge of the United States Circuit Court for the Eighth Judicial Circuit. He married in Leavenworth, Oct. 31, 1882, Louise Dickson. Address: Leavenworth, Kan.

HOOKER, Edward Beecher:

Physician; born in Hartford, Conn., Feb. 26, 1855; son of John and Isabella (Beecher) Hooker, and grandson of Rev. Lyman Beecher, D.D. He was educated at the École de Médecine, Paris, France, and the Boston University School of Medicine, from which he was graduated, M.D.; and since graduation has practised medicine in Hartford. He was, in 1907, president of the American Institute of Homeopathy; is a member of the Connecticut Homeopathic Medical Society, American Homeopathic Ophthalmological, Otological and Laryngological Society, and is a trustee of Hopkins Grammar School, Hartford. Dr. Hooker is a member of the Hartford, Twilight, Twentieth Century and Hartford Golf Clubs. He married in Hartford, Sept. 18, 1879, Martha Clarke Kilbourne, and they have three children. Residence: 70 Farmington Avenue. Office: 721 Main Street, Hartford, Conn.

HOOKER, Frank A.:

Jurist; born in Hartford, Conn., Jan. 16, 1844; son of James Sedgwick Hooker and Camilla (Porter) Hooker. After his graduation from the University of Michigan, LL. B., 1865, he engaged in the practice of law at Bryan, Ohio, for a year, and after that continued practice at Charlotte, Mich., until elected to the bench in 1878. He was county superintendent of schools of Eaton County for two years, justice of the peace for two years, and prosecuting attorney for four years. In 1878 he was elected judge of the Fifth Judicial Circuit of Michigan, in which office he continued until he took his seat, January, 1893, on the Supreme Bench of Michigan, of which he has been a member ever since. His present term will expire in January, 1914. Address: Lansing, Mich.

HOOKEER, Warren Brewster:

Jurist; born in Perrysburg, N. Y., Nov. 24, 1856; son of John and Philema (Waterman) Hooker. He was educated in Forestville (New York) Free Academy, and received degree of LL.D. from Hamilton College in 1899. He engaged in the practice of law at Fredonia, N. Y., until 1898; was elected to Congress from the Thirty-fourth Congressional District of New York in 1890, and four times reelected; resigned from Congress in November, 1898, and was appointed judge of the Supreme Court and elected to the same bench for a term of fourteen years in 1899. Judge Hooker was designated by the governor, associate judge of the Appellate Division, Second Department, State of New York, in December, 1902. Mr. Hooker married in Fredonia, N. Y., Sept. 11, 1884, Etta Elizabeth Abbey, and they have two children. Address: Fredonia, N. Y.

HOOOPER, Franklin W.:

Director of the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences; born in Walpole, N. H., Feb. 11, 1851; son of William and Elvra (Pulsifer) Hooper. He was educated in district schools of Walpole, N. H., Antioch College Preparatory School, Ohio, 1867-1871; entered the sophomore class of Harvard 1872, A.B., Harvard, 1875; honorary A.M., 1897. He served on the scientific expedition to Florida Keys for the Smithsonian Institution, 1875-1876; was principal of the high school, Keene, N. H., 1876-1880; professor of chemistry and geology, Adelphi College, New York City, 1880-1889; director of the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences since 1889 (trustee since 1887); lecturer on geological subjects. He is a trustee of the Brooklyn Art Association since 1890; trustee of Brooklyn Public Library, 1895-1903; of Antioch College, since 1898; president of the Board of Trustees, Antioch College, 1902-1906; member of the Board of Education of Brooklyn, N. Y., 1892-1893, Brooklyn Young Republican Club, 1881-1884; Brooklyn League, 1884-1892 (chairman council of league, 1886-1892); director and treasurer of the New England Society of Brooklyn, since 1892. He delivered the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary address of the founding of the town of Walpole, 1903. Dr. Hooper is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science; vice-president of the American Bison Society; member of the American Forestry Association, American Committee on Lectures on the History of Religions, American Oriental Society, National Geographic Society, and of the Hamilton, University, Montauk, Harvard Union, and Unity Clubs. He married in Augusta, Ga., May 3, 1876, Martha S. Holden; and they have three children. Address: 502 Fulton Street, Brooklyn.

HOPKINS, Albert J.:

Lawyer and former U. S. senator; born in Dekalb County, Ill., Aug. 15, 1846. He was graduated from Hillsdale, (Michigan) College in June, 1870; studied law and commenced practice at Anrora, Ill.; was State's attorney of Kane County, 1872-1876; was a member of the Republican State Central Committee, 1878-1880; was presidential elector on the Blaine and Logan ticket, 1884; was elected to the Forty-ninth, Fiftieth, Fifty-first, Fifty-second, Fifty-third, Fifty-fourth, Fifty-fifth, Fifty-sixth, and Fifty-seventh Congresses; was nominated for the United States Senate in State Convention and elected to succeed William E. Mason, Republican, and took his seat March 4, 1903. His term of service expired 1909, the Legislature elected William Lorimer as his successor. Address: Anrora, Ill.

HOPKINS, Alphonso Alva:

Editor, author, lecturer; born in Burlington Flats, Ostego County, N. Y., March 4, 1843; son of Alvah and Mercy Hopkins.

He was educated in the district school in West Exeter, N. Y., Hamilton, (N. Y.) Academy, and received the degree of Ph.D., pro merito from the American Temperance University, Tennessee. He edited Moore's Rural New Yorker, Rochester, 1867-1870; American Rural Home, Rochester, 1871-1884; American Reformer, New York City, 1882-1884. The Facts Elmira, 1897-1898. He was professor of economics in the American Temperance University, 1891-1893. Dr. Hopkins is author of Asleep in the Sanctum and other Poems; Our Sabbath Evening; His Prison Bars; Sinner and Saint; Waifs and their Authors; Geraldine; Ballads of Brotherhood; Wealth and Waste; Profit and Loss in Man. As a lecturer he has traveled widely throughout the United States and Canada. He was a Republican as a young man, and held a clerkship in a State department at Albany, but has been a Prohibitionist since 1871. He was candidate of the Prohibition Party four times for Congress; once for State comptroller, once for Secretary of State and once (1882) for governor. He has presided over several State conventions, and has written many State and national platform of the party. He married, first, in Rochester, N. Y., 1867, Adelia R. Allyn, and second, Hornellsville, N. Y., 1897, Emma M. Santee; and had one daughter, by his first marriage. Address: Hornell, N. Y.

HOPKINS, Margaret Briscoe:

Author; born in Baltimore, Dec. 7, 1864; daughter of S. W. and Cornelia Dushane (Blacklock) Briscoe. She was educated by private masters. She married in New York City, in 1895, Professor Arthur John Hopkins of Amherst College, and has one daughter. Mrs. Hopkins is author of: Perchance to Dream and Other Stories, 1892; Links in a Chain, 1893; Jimty and Others, 1898; The Sixth Sense and Other Stories, 1897; The Change of Heart, 1903. Address: Amherst, Mass.

HOPPER, De Wolf:

Comedian; born in New York in 1858; son of John and Rosalie (DeWolf) Hopper. He was with Daniel Frohman's Madison Square Company as Pittacus Green in Hazel Kirk and other rôles, the McCaull Opera Company, Webber and Fields Company. He has been starring in his own company from 1880 with the exception of the two years at Webber and Fields. Mr. Hopper is a member of the Lambs', Players', Suburban, Riding and Driving Clubs of New York City, and of the Green Room Club and Eccentric Club of London, England. Address: Care Lambs Club, New York City.

HORNBLOWER, William B.:

Lawyer; born in Paterson, N. J., May 13, 1851; son of Rev. William H. (D.D.) and Matilda (Butler) Hornblower. He was graduated from Princeton University, A.B., 1871, from Columbia University Law School, LL.B., 1875, and received the honorary degrees of A.M., 1874, and LL.D., 1895, from Princeton University. He was admitted to the bar of New York in 1875; and was a member of the commission appointed under act of Legislature in 1890 to propose amendments to State Constitution Judiciary Article. Mr. Hornblower was appointed by President Cleveland a justice of the United States Supreme Court, in September, 1893, to succeed Justice Blatchford, but the nomination was rejected by the Senate in January, 1894, owing to the political opposition of Senators Hill and Murphy, of New York. He is now head of the law firm of Hornblower, Miller & Potter. He is a member of the American Bar Association, the New York State Bar Association (president, 1902), Association of the Bar of the City of New York, Sons of the Revolution, and the University, Century, Metropolitan, Manhattan, City, Reform, Riding, and Princeton Clubs of New York City. He married, first, in New York City, April 26, 1882, Susan C., daughter of William E. Sanford, of New Haven, Conn., (died April 27, 1886); and second, in New York City, Jan. 31, 1894, Emily S. Nelson, daughter of William E. Sanford, and widow of Lieutenant-colonel A. D. Nelson, U. S. Army. Mr. Hornblower has two sons, Lewis W., born April 15, 1883, Princeton, A.B., 1904, and George S., born June 19, 1884, Princeton, A.B., 1904, Columbia University Law School, LL.B., 1907; and had a daughter, Susan Sanford, born April 19, 1886, died June 16, 1900. Residence: 5 East 89th Street. Address: 24 Broad Street, New York City.

HORNER, Junius Moore:

Bishop of Asheville; born at Oxford, N. C., July 7, 1859; son of James H. and Sophronia (Moore) Horner. He took the academic course at Hopkins Institute, graduating B.A. in 1885, and thence entering the General Theological Seminary, graduated with the degree of B.D. in 1892. He received an honorary D.D. from the University of the South in 1899. He was ordered deacon of the Episcopal Church in 1890, and was ordained to the priesthood by Bishop Lyman in 1891. Following this he was for several years associate principal and instructor in the Horner School, Oxford, N. C. He became Bishop of Asheville, N. C., in 1898, and was consecrated by Bishops Cheshire, Watson, Capers and Gibson. Bishop Horner was married at Augusta, Ga., in 1892, to Eva Harker. Address: Asheville, N. C.

HORSFORD, Cornelia:

Archaeologist; born in Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 25, 1861; daughter of Professor Eben Norton and Phoebe (Gardiner) Horton. She was educated in private schools in Cambridge and Boston. She continued her father's archaeological explorations after his death, and added original investigations of her own. She organized an archaeological expedition to examine ruins of the Saga period in Iceland, in 1895, and also, 1895-1897, to the British Isles to make examination of the remains of forts and open-air amphitheatres of prehistoric times; she was also director of researches among the works of the native races of North America in connection with research into the Norse discovery of the continent of America. Miss Horsford is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science; member of the National Geographic Society, the Prince Historical Society, American Folk Lore Society, Icelandic Antiquarian Society, Irish Texts Society; is vice-president of the Viking Club of London and president of the Shelter Island Public Library. She is author of: Graves of the Northmen; An Inscribed Stone; Ruins of the Saga-Time; also numerous contributions to scientific journals. Address: 27 Craigie Street, Cambridge, Mass.

HORTON, George:

Consul, author; born at Fairville, N. Y., November, 1859; son of Peter Davis and Mary Sophia Horton. He was graduated from the University of Michigan, A.B., 1878. From the time of leaving college he engaged in literary pursuits and in 1893 he was appointed consul to Athens, Greece, by President Cleveland, serving until 1898. He was for some years literary editor of the Times-Herald at Chicago, and in 1901 became editor of the literary supplement of the Chicago American. In 1904 he was again appointed, by President Roosevelt, American consul at Athens, Greece, and was made, in 1906, American Consul-general at the same place, where he is still serving. Mr. Horton has contributed much to the best magazines, in verse and prose, and is author of several volumes, including: Songs of the Lowly; In Unknown Seas; Aphroessa; Constantine; A Fair Brigand; Like Another Helen; Modern Athens; The Tempting of Father Anthony; The Long Straight Road; In Argolis; The Monk's Treasure; The Edge of Hazard, etc. In 1903 he received the degree of doctor of letters from George Washington University. Address: The American Consulate-General, Athens, Greece.

HORWITZ, Orville:

Surgeon; born in Washington, D. C., June 26, 1860; son of Phineas J. Horwitz, M.D., medical director U. S. Navy, and Caroline (Norris) Horwitz. He was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania, B.S., 1881, and from Jefferson Medical College, M.D., 1883, and was awarded a gold medal for his thesis at his graduation in medicine. He is professor of genito-urinary surgery, Jefferson Medical College, surgeon to the Jefferson Hospital, St. Agnes' Hospital and State Hospital for the Insane; consulting surgeon to the Jewish Hospital. He is a fellow of the College of Physicians of Philadelphia; member of the American Surgical Association, Association of Genito-Urinary Surgeons, Philadelphia Medical, Pennsylvania State Medical and American Medical Associations. He is author of the Surgical Quiz Compend besides articles in medical journals. Address 1721 Walnut Street, Philadelphia.

HOSKINS, William:

Chemist; born in Covington, Ky., in 1863. He received his education by private instruction and in the Chicago High School. He has been a member since 1880 and is now sole proprietor of the business of Mariner and Hoskins, Chicago; engaged in general chemical and assaying practice. He is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science; member of the American Chemical Society, and is past vice-president and chairman of the Chicago section of the latter; is a member of the Society of Chemical Industry, the American Electrochemical Society; the American Institute of Mining Engineers, the American Microscopic Society, the Western Society of Engineers, the Franklin Institute of Philadelphia, and the Chicago Academy of Sciences. Mr. Hoskins introduced the use of liquid fuel for furnaces; used particularly by chemists and assayers; developed processes now extensively used in the manufacture of turpentine and other products from the waste and fallen timber of the South, and has been actively connected with Transfer and Sarrige Company, Western the development of chemical and electrical industries of various kinds during the past twenty-five years. He is a director in the Hoskins Manufacturing Company of Detroit, Mich., manufacturers of byrometers and industrial and other electrical heating appliances. Residence: 49 Sixth Avenue, La Grange, Ill., Office address: 81 South Clark Street, Chicago, Ill.

HOSMER, Samuel Monroe:

President of the Southern University; born in Tuscaloosa County, Ala., July 22, 1846; son of Silas and Easter Ann (Cowley) Hosmer. He served as a private in the Confederate Army for eighteen months, and began his education in 1870, attending the Southern University, Greensboro, Ala., from which he received the degree, Ph.B., 1884, and D.D. in 1894. He was a minister of the North Alabama Conference until 1899, when he was appointed president of the Southern University. He is a member of the board of trustees of that institution, and is also a member of the General Board of Church Extension, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and a member of the General Board of Insurance of that Church. He is chairman of the Publishing Committee of the Alabama Christian Advocate. He married, Dec. 11, 1867, Frances Louvenia Parsons, and has six children. Address: Greensboro, Ala.

HOUGH, Charles M.:

United States district judge for the Southern District of New York. He was graduated from Dartmouth College in 1879, studied law and was engaged in the practice of law in New York City, with an office in Wall Street, until appointed by President Roosevelt in 1906, to his present judgeship. Judge Hough is a member of the University Club. He married Ethel Powers. Residence: 550 Park Avenue, Office: Post Office Building, New York City.

HOUGH, Emerson:

Author and magazine writer; born in Newton, Iowa, June 28, 1857; son of Joseph Bond Hough and Elizabeth H. Hough. He was graduated from the State University of Iowa in 1880. He practised law at White Oaks, New Mexico 1882; was in newspaper work, 1889-1903, and was Western manager of Forest and Stream of New York. Mr. Hough has traveled much in the West; has killed big game; crossed Yellowstone Park on ski in the winter of 1894-1895; and has a long and thorough knowledge of many phases of Western and out of door life. He is author of: The Girl at the Half-way House; The Mississippi Bubble; Heart's Desire; The Law of The Land; The Way of a Man; The Story of the Cowboy; The Story of the Outlaw; Singing Mouse Stories; 54-40 or Fight; and is a contributor to leading magazines. He is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Society and of the University. Press, Cliff Dwellers, Southern, and American Canoe Clubs of Chicago. Mr. Hough married in Chicago, Oct. 26, 1897, Charlotte A. Cheesebro. Residence: 6140 Woodlawn Avenue. Address: 1808 Commercial National Bank Building, Chicago.

HOUGH, Warwick:

Lawyer, jurist; born in Loudoun County, Va., Jan. 26, 1836; son of George W. and Mary C. (Shawen) Hough. He is a descendant of Richard Hough, who came from Cheshire, England, under the auspices of William Penn. in the ship Endeavor, landing in Philadelphia in 1683, and of his grandson, John Hough, who moved to Virginia from Bucks County, Pa., about the year 1750, and settled in Loudoun County, where he married Sarah Janney, also from Bucks County, Pa. Mr. Hough moved with his parents from Virginia to Missouri, in 1838, and the family settled at Jefferson City, Mo. He entered the State University at Columbia, from which he was graduated with the degree of A.B. in 1854 and received the degree of A.M. in 1857. He was appointed, by Governor Sterling Price, assistant State geologist, and on Dec. 29, 1856, he was elected a corresponding member of the Academy of Science, of St. Louis, of which he is now an active member. Before attaining his majority he was chief clerk in the office of the Secretary of State, and was Secretary of the State Senate during the sessions of 1858-1859, 1859-1860 and 1860-1861. He was commissioned first lieutenant in the Governor's Guards of Missouri, Jan. 17, 1860. Meanwhile he had studied law, and in 1859 was admitted to the bar, and in 1860 he formed a law partnership with J. Proctor Knott (then attorney-general of Missouri and afterward governor of Kentucky), which continued until Jan., 1861, when he was appointed adjutant-general of Missouri by Governor Claiborne F. Jackson, with the rank of brigadier-general. He had previously commanded the Governor's Guards in the Southwest Expedition in the fall of 1860 under General D. M. Frost. After the death of Governor Jackson he was appointed secretary of State of Missouri by Governor Thomas C. Reynolds, resigning in Dec., 1863, to enter the army of the Confederate States, in which he was commissioned a captain in the inspector-general's department. He was assigned to the staff of Lieutenant-General Leonidas M. Polk, and after his death was on the staff of Lieutenant-General Stephen D. Lee, and later on the staff of Lieutenant-General Dick Taylor, with whom he surrendered to General E. R. S. Canby, May 10, 1865. Being debarred from practice in Missouri by the provisions of the Drake Constitution, he practised at Memphis, Tenn., until 1867, when, upon the repeal of the test oath of attorneys in Missouri, he located in practice at Kansas City, attaining great distinction at the bar. He was elected to the Supreme bench of Missouri in 1874, and after ten years' service, during two years of which he was chief justice of that court, he returned to practice, locating at St. Louis, where he built up a large and lucrative practice. He was appointed in 1893 one of the receivers of the Sioux City and Northern Railroad and so continued until Jan., 1900, when the receivers were discharged, after having paid every current obligation, rehabilitated the road and its rolling stock and turned over about one hundred thousand dollars to the court. He was nominated without his solicitation, and elected, in 1900, judge of the Circuit Court of the city of St. Louis, and since Jan. 7, 1907, has resumed the practice of law, as counsel with the firm of Klein and Hough at St. Louis. The State University of Missouri conferred upon Judge Hough the degree of LL.D. in 1881. Politically he has always affiliated with the Democratic party, and he is also prominent in the Masonic fraternity as a thirty-second degree Scottish Rite Mason. He married in May, 1861, Nina E., daughter of Hon. Benjamin F. Massey (then Secretary of State of Missouri) and of Maria (Withers) Massey, and they have two sons, Warwick Massey Hough of the St. Louis Bar and Louis Hough, M.D., of Denver, Colo., and three daughters. Address: Rialto Building, St. Louis, Mo.

A. ROSS HOUSTON
Recorder, Military Order of Loyal Legion, Milwaukee

HOUGHTELING, James Lawrence:

Banker and manufacturer; born in Chicago, Nov. 29, 1855; son of William DeZeng and Marcia E. (Stockbridge) Houghteling. He was graduated from Yale, Ph.B., 1876, and received the honorary degree of M.A. in 1901. Since 1882 he has been a member of the banking house of Peabody, Houghteling & Company, established in 1865; secretary of the Menominee River Lumber Company; treasurer and president of the Mackinaw Lumber Company; and is president of several other lumber companies and other industrial corporations. He is one of the founders of the Municipal Voters' League of Chicago and was the first chairman of its Finance Committee. He is a trustee of the Chicago Young Men's Christian Association (was its president three years and treasurer fifteen years); was founder of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew (the principal men's society in the Anglican Communion), and for many years was president of its council. He is a member of the Chicago, University, Commercial and Onwentsia Clubs. Mr. Houghteling married in Chicago, Sept. 20, 1879, Lucretia Ten Broeck Peabody, and they have six children. Residence: Winnetka, Ill. Address: 181 La Salle Street, Chicago.

HOUGHTON, George Clarke:

Clergyman; born in New York City, Dec. 17, 1850; son of Frederick E. and Anna E. (Dawson) Houghton. After graduation from St. Stephen's College, Annandale, N. Y., in 1867, he entered the General Theological Seminary in New York, from which he was graduated in 1870, in the same year receiving the M.A. degree from St. Stephen's College, which afterward (in 1895) honored him with the degree of D.D. He took deacon's orders in the ministry of the Episcopal Church in 1870, and was ordained to the priesthood by Bishop Horatio Potter in 1871. He was for some years curate of Trinity Church in New York and afterward of St. Chrysostom's Church, also in Trinity Parish, until 1879, when he was called, as rector, to Trinity Church, Hoboken, N. J., in which he remained until 1897. Dr. Houghton was elected by the State Board of Education of New Jersey, in 1885, superintendent of Public Instruction for Hudson County, N. J., and held that office until 1897. In 1887 he organized the New Jersey Industrial Education Association, and founded the Manual Training College, of which he was president and a director for ten years. In 1897 Dr. Houghton was called to the Church of the Transfiguration as vicar, his uncle, Dr. Houghton, being then the rector of the parish, and upon the death of the latter he succeeded him as rector. In this church, lovingly known as The Little Church Around the Corner, he has faithfully ministered ever since. The name thus applied to the church arose when George Holland, a well known actor, died and Mr. Joseph Jefferson applied to a neighboring church for its services in performing the funeral rites. The request was refused and the distinguished applicant was referred to a Little Church Around the Corner. Dr. Houghton is author of: Sermons of the Festivals; Manual of Devotions; History of the Church of the Transfiguration; The Life of the First Rector and Founder of the Church of the Transfiguration. He is a member of the New York Historical Society, the American Museum of Natural History, the National Geographic Society, the Church Choral Society, the Municipal Art Society, Society of the Sons of the Revolution, the Society of Colonial Wars, and the Calumet, the Catholic, the Players', the Graduates', the Salmagundi, and National Arts Clubs. Dr. Houghton married, in 1871, Mary C. Pirsson, daughter of Talbot Pirsson, of New York. Address: 1 East 29th Street, New York City.

HOUSTON, A. Ross:

Was born in Middletown, Orange County, N. Y., March 20, 1847; son of Anthony and Mary (Ross) Houston, whose ancestors were of the early families of the county, of Scotch and Irish descent, and having had representatives in the military service in the Wars of the Revolution and 1812. Captain Houston received his early education under private tuition and at the Wal-kill Academy in Middletown, N. Y. He entered the army at the age of sixteen, at which time he was preparing to accept an appointment as Cadet at the Naval Academy of the United States. He was commissioned second lieutenant, Fourth Regiment of Engineers, Corps d'Afrique, in Sept., 1863, and ordered to report at New Orleans. He was promoted to first lieutenant, Feb. 25, 1864, and was assigned to duty as aide-de-camp at the headquarters of the Engineer Brigade, New Orleans, while the organization was being completed. He was appointed aide-de-camp at the headquarters of the Department of the Gulf, General Banks commanding, in March, 1864, and served during the Red River, La., campaign, being in the engagements and battles of Natchitoches, March 20; Crump's Hill, April 2; Comte, April 4; Wilson's Farm, April 7; Sabine Cross-Roads, April 8; Pleasant Hill, April 9; Monete's Bluff, Cane River, April 23; Alexandria, April 26; Governor Moore's Plantation, May 2; Dunn's Bayou, May 5; and Mansura, May 14 and 16. Being young, alert, and a good horseman, his duties were continuous and severe during the whole campaign; while escaping himself the bullets of the enemy, two horses were shot under him in the terrific battles of Sabine Cross-Roads and Pleasant Hill, and another horse killed when the headquarters were stampeded by the enemy firing on them from trees and elevations across the river below Alexandria. Captain Houston was picked up for dead, being badly injured by being dragged by his wounded horse and trodden on by the cavalry escort. In this campaign Captain Houston received special commendation for his ride, after the battle at Monete's Bluff, outside the lines of the Army, through country occupied by the enemy, to Alexandria, to notify General Grover of the safety and approach of the retreating Army, and of the early relief of General Grover's forces from attacks already begun. In 1865 Captain Houston served at the headquarters of General E. R. S. Canby, during the campaign against Mobile, in the siege and capture of Spanish Fort and Blakely, March 26 to April 9, and the surrender of Mobile, April 11. He was retained in service after the close of the war by special order of the secretary of War. In the winter of 1865-1866 he was on duty as provost-marshal, and Freedmen's Bureau Agent in charge of the parishes of Iberville and West Baton Rouge, La. In Nov., 1865, he was appointed captain of Independent Company of Pontoniers (white), Department of the Gulf. After his war service was over he entered the employment of the Engineer Department, U. S. Army, and has remained continuously engaged in this department up to the present time, serving on the New England Coast and on works connected with the Great Lakes and rivers of the Northwest, living at Newport, Rhode Island, Chicago and Milwaukee. Captain Houston is a companion of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, through the Commandery of Wisconsin, and has served as member of council, chancellor, and junior vice-commander, and as recorder from May, 1889, until the present time. He is president of the Milwaukee Country Club, and a member of the Milwaukee Club; the Chicago Club; and the Army and Navy Club of New York. Address: Milwaukee, Wis.

HOVEY, Edmund Otis:

Geologist; born in New Haven, Conn., Sept. 15, 1862; son of Horace and Helen L. (Blatchley) Hovey. He was graduated from Yale University, A.B., 1884, Ph.D., 1889, and studied at Heidelberg, Germany, 1890-1891. He was principal of schools of Janesville, Minn., 1884-1885; Elk River, Minn., 1885-1886; assistant in the Mineral Laboratory of Sheffield Scientific School, Yale, 1886-1887; assistant principal of Waterbury, (Conn.) High School, 1889-1891; principal of same, 1891-1892; superintendent of the Missouri Mineral Exhibit, Columbian Exposition, 1892-1893; assistant on the U. S. Geological Survey, 1890 and 1903-1906; assistant curator of the geological department of the American Museum of Natural History, 1894-1900, and associate curator from 1901. He has traveled in Russia, including Russian Armenia; the Lesser Antilles for special study of the eruption of Mt. Pelée and the Soufrière, 1902-1903; in Mexico and in other regions. He is a corresponding member of the Sociedad Científica Antonio Alzate, Mexico; fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science (secretary Section E, 1903, 1904-1907), Geological Society of America (secretary from 1907), Association of American Geographers, American Institute of Mining Engineers; fellow of the New York Academy of Science (vice-president, 1905-1906, recording secretary from 1907); member of the Seismological Society of America, National Geographic Society, New York Mineralogical Club (president, 1906); delegate to the International Geological Congress, 1897, 1903, 1906. Dr. Hovey is particularly interested in vulcanology and general geology and is author of many papers on geological subjects. He is a member of the Century Association of New York. He married in New Haven, Conn., Sept. 13, 1888, Esther A. Laneraft. Address: American Museum of Natural History, New York City.

HOWARD, George Eliot:

University professor and author; born in Saratoga, N. Y., Oct. 1, 1849; son of Isaac and Margaret (Hardin) Howard. He was educated in the State Normal School of Nebraska and University of Nebraska, A. B., 1876, Ph.D., 1894. He became professor of history there, 1870-1891; head professor of history at Leland Stanford University, 1891-1901; professor of history in the summer session of Cornell University in 1902; professorial lecturer in history in the University of Chicago, 1903-1904; since then at the University of Nebraska, where he is head professor of political science and sociology. Professor Howard is author of: Local Constitutional History of the United States, 1889; Development of the King's Peace, 1891; History of Matrimonial Institutions, three volumes, 1904; Preliminaries of the Revolution, 1905; Social Control and the Function of the Family in the International Congress of Arts and Science, VII, 1906 (Houghton, Mifflin & Company); and many articles in encyclopedias and periodicals. Professor Howard is a member of the American Political Science Association, American Historical Association, and American Sociological Society. Address: 1910 E Street, Lincoln, Neb.

HOWARD, John Raymond:

Publisher, book editor; born in Brooklyn, N. Y., May 25, 1837. He was graduated from the University of Rochester, 1857, A.B.; 1860, A.M. Traveled in America, 1858; instructor Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute, 1859; traveled and studied in Europe, 1859-1861; served during Civil War, captain and aide-de-camp, Volunteers, Aug., 1861, to Feb., 1865; editor of reports with Adelberg and Raymond, mining engineers, 1865; editorial writer New York Times and New York Examiner and Chronicle, 1866-1867; since Dec., 1867, partner and editorial manager in publishing business (J. B. Ford & Company and Fords, Howard & Hubert). Author of: Henry Ward Beecher—A Study; Frémont in the Civil War; sundry lectures and many articles, chiefly in the Outlook. He is editor of: Patriotic Addresses by H. W. Beecher; Bible Studies by H. W. Beecher; Sermon Briefs by H. W. Beecher; revised and enlarged edition of Bryant's Library of Poetry and Song; rearranged and enlarged edition of Dr. John Lord's Beacon Light of History; Educational Nuggets; Patriotic Nuggets; Historical Nuggets; A Treasury of Illustration, by H. W. Beecher (with T. J. Ellinwood); Prose You Ought to Know; One Hundred Best American Poems; and as managing editor (with Bliss Carman and others) of the World's Best Poetry (10 volumes). He married in 1871, Susan R. Merriam, of Springfield, Mass. Address: Montclair, N. J.

HOWARD, Leland Ossian:

Entomologist; born at Rockford, Ill., June 11, 1857; son of Ossian Gregory and Lucy Dunham (Thurber) Howard. He was graduated from Cornell University, B.S., 1877, M.S., 1883, and from Georgetown University, Ph.D., 1896. As an undergraduate he worked with Professor Comstock in the Department of Entomology, and, 1878-1886, was an assistant entomologist in the U. S. Department of Agriculture. He was made first assistant in 1886, and since 1894 has been chief of the Bureau of Entomology in the Department of Agriculture. He is distinguished for his special studies of the parasitic hymenoptera and their habits and host relations, numerous investigations in economic entomology, and an especially exhaustive investigation in the ecology of mosquitoes. He has been honorary curator of the United States National Museum since Oct. 31, 1895, and consulting entomologist of the United States Public Health and Marine Hospital Service since 1902. Dr. Howard is author of: Mosquitoes—How They Live, etc., 1901; The Insect Book, 1902 (Doubleday, Page and Company), and of many Government publications and monographs; and contributor in entomology to the Century Dictionary, Standard Dictionary, and New International Encyclopedia. Dr. Howard is permanent secretary of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. He is a member and was president in 1894 of the Association of Economic Entomologists; member and was president in 1897 and 1898 of the Biological Society of Washington, and member of many other American and foreign scientific societies. He is also a member of the Delta Upsilon fraternity and of the Cosmos Club of Washington. Dr. Howard married in Washington, D. C., April 28, 1886, Marie T. Clifton, and they have three children. Address: Cosmos Club, Washington.

HOWARD, Oliver Otis:

Major-General of the United States Army, retired; born at Leeds, Me., Nov. 8, 1830; son of Rowland Bailey and Eliza (Otis) Howard. He was educated in the academies at Varmouth and Monmouth, Me., and Bowdoin College, A.B., 1850; and later received the degrees of A.M. and LL.D. from Bowdoin, and LL.D. from Waterville College, Shurtleff College, and Gettysburg Theological Seminary. He entered West Point as a cadet, 1850, was graduated, 1851, and promoted second lieutenant in the Ordnance Department. He was stationed first at Watervliet Arsenal, N. Y., and in 1885 was in command of Kennebec

Arsenal, Me.; chief of ordnance in the field against the Seminole Indians, under General Harney, 1856-1857; promoted first lieutenant July 1, 1857; instructor in mathematics at the U. S. Military Academy, 1857-1861; resigned and was elected, in May, 1861, colonel of the Third Maine Volunteers, which he organized and took to Washington, when he was directed by General McDowell to select three other regiments besides his own; selected the Fourth and Fifth Maine and Second Vermont regiments, and commanded this brigade in the first battle of Bull Run; promoted to brigadier-general of volunteers Sept. 3, 1861; organized a new brigade and commanded it through the winter and spring of 1861-1862 and with it had his first independent expedition to Rappahannock under General Sumner; then with McClellan's Army, back to Alexandria and by water to the Peninsula, in the battles of Yorktown, Williamsburg and at Fair Oaks, where he was twice wounded and had two horses shot under him, receiving for this the Medal of Honor. His arm being amputated he was on leave for two months, spending the period of convalescence raising volunteers in Maine and filling the quota of that State; returned to the field, was assigned to command the Second Brigade of the Second Division, commanded it in the second battle of Bull Run, and at Antietam, and when his division commander, General Sedgewick, was wounded, he succeeded to the command of the Second Division, Second Corps, to the completion of the battle, and also in the battle of Fredericksburg, with other divisions storming Marie's Heights, and commanded that division and sometimes the Second Corps, during the winter of 1862-1863; promoted major-general of volunteers, Nov. 29, 1862; assigned to command of Eleventh Army Corps, was at Chancellorsville and at Gettysburg, where, the first day, he selected the battleground and held it, keeping a superior force in check from General Reynolds till near night and participated with credit in remainder of the battle; afterward in the Army of the Cumberland, commanding corps at the battles of Wauhatchie, Missionary Ridge, and relief of Knoxville; commanded Fourth Army Corps from April, 1864, in the battles of Dalton, Resaca, Adairsville, Kingston and Cassville, New Hope Church, Picket's Mill, Muddy Creek, Kenesaw Mountain, Smyrna Camp Ground, Peach Tree Creek, Ezra Church, Jonesboro and Lovejoy Station, and after the battle of Atlanta, in which General McPherson was slain, General Howard commanded the Army of the Tennessee. For services in the battle of Jonesboro, General Howard was brevetted major-general in the regular army, March 13, 1865. He commanded the Army of the Tennessee through the battles and marches of the last year of the war to Johnston's surrender. He was made a brigadier-general in the regular army, Dec. 21, 1865. From May 12, 1865, he was for seven years commissioner of the Bureau of Refugees, Freedmen and Abandoned Lands, and accomplished a most successful work in alleviating the suffering of Freedmen, and especially in the educational features, having founded many permanent institutions of learning, such as Howard Institute, Hampton Institute, Atlanta University, Lincoln, Fiske, Straight and other universities. He was appointed in 1872 as a commissioner to make peace with the Chiricahua Indians, and to settle difficulties with other tribes in New Mexico and Arizona, which he accomplished without arms; commanded the Department of the Columbia, 1874-1880, and passed through the Nez Percé War of 1877 and the Piate and Bannock War of 1878; in 1879, a tribe known as the Sheepaters becoming rebellious near Salmon River, he sent out and captured them en masse, brought them in as prisoners, put them at work at Vancouver, and put their children in school. He was superintendent of the U. S. Military Academy, 1880-1882; commanded the Department of the Platte from 1882 until his promotion to major-general in the regular army, March 19, 1886. He commanded the Military Division of the Pacific, 1886-1888, then the Military Division of the Atlantic and later the Department of the East until his retirement Nov. 8, 1894. He organized the Lincoln Memorial University at Cumberland Gap, Tenn., for the education of the mountaineers, of which he was managing director, and is now president of the Board of Trustees. During the Spanish-American War he was constantly in the field in the interest of the Young Men's Christian Association, giving addresses in all camps from Chickamauga to Cuba. General Howard is author of several works on historical subjects, as well as articles on subjects of current interest and on military topics in various journals. He married in Portland, Me., Feb. 14, 1855, Elizabeth Ann Waite, and they have had seven children. Address: Burlington, Vt.

HOWARD, William Marcellus:

Congressman; born in Berwick City, La., Dec. 6, 1857; of Georgia parents. He was graduated from the University of Georgia; began the practice of law in Feb., 1880; was elected solicitor-general of the Northern Circuit of Georgia by the State Legislature in 1884; reelected to that office in 1888 and in 1892; was elected to the Fifty-fifth, Fifty-sixth, Fifty-seventh, Fifty-eighth, and Fifty-ninth and Sixtieth Congresses, and reelected to the Sixty-first Congress, from the Eighth Georgia District. Address: Lexington, Ga.

HOWE, Charles Summer:

President of Case School of Applied Science; born at Nashua, N. H., Sept. 29, 1858; son of William R. and Susan D. (Woods) Howe. He was graduated from the Massachusetts Agricultural College and from Boston University, B.S., 1878, taking a post-graduate course at Johns Hopkins University, 1882-1883; and the degree of Ph.D. was conferred upon him by the University of Wooster, 1887, that of D.Sc. by the Armour Institute of Technology in 1905, and LL.D. by Mount Union College, 1908. After graduation in 1878 he went West, becoming principal of the Albuquerque (N. Mex.) Academy, 1879-1881. Then followed the year at Johns Hopkins, after which he was professor of mathematics and astronomy at Buchtel College, Akron, Ohio, 1883-1889. In 1889 he was offered the chair of mathematics and astronomy in the Case School of Applied Science, and in 1902 was elected to the presidency of that institution. He married at North Amherst, Mass., May 22, 1882, Abbie A. Waite, and has three children. Address: 2060 Cornell Road, Cleveland, Ohio.

HOWE, Henry Marion:

Consulting metallurgist and professor of metallurgy; born in Boston, Mass., March 2, 1848; son of Samuel Gridley and Julia (Ward) Howe. He was graduated from the Boston Latin School in 1865, from Harvard College, A.B., 1869, A.M., 1872, LL.D., 1905; and also received the LL.D. from Lafayette College, 1905. He designed and built the works of the Orford Nickel and Copper Company at Capelton and at Eustis, Canada, and at Bergen Point, N. J., 1880-1882; practised in Boston as consulting metallurgist and expert in metallurgical patent causes and as lecturer on metallurgy at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 1883-1897; professor of metallurgy at Columbia University since 1897. In 1890 he introduced into this country the manufacture of manganese steel and of the Hadfield projectiles. He was a member of the jury in the class of mining and metallurgical processes in the Paris Exposition in 1889 and 1900; president of jury of awards on mines and mining at the World's Columbian Exposition, 1893. He has been president of the American Institute of Mining Engineers, and three terms president of the Alumni Association of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; is a Knight of the Order of St. Stanislas of Russia, Chevalier of the Légion d'Honneur of France, honorary member of the Russian Imperial Technical Society, the Société d'Encouragement pour l'Industrie Nationale of France, British Institution of Mining and Metallurgy, Dallas Historical Society, and Royal Swedish Academy of Science. He is non-resident fellow of the American Philosophical Society. His Metallurgy of Steel, published in 1890, and translated into French brought him recognition by scientific societies at home and abroad, and among other things the Cordan Blen of metallurgists, the Bessemer Gold Medal, the 2,500 francs prize awarded by the French Société d'Encouragement pour l'Industrie Nationale, a gold medal by the Verein zur Beförderung des Gewerbflusses of Germany, and the Franklin Institute of Philadelphia. After his Metallurgy of Steel his most important works are: Copper Smelting; Metallurgical Laboratory of Notes, the first text-book for the metallurgical laboratory ever written, translated into French, and Iron, Steel and Other Alloys, which has been translated into Russian; besides these he has published more than 100 professional papers. He is second vice-president of the Taylor Iron and Steel Company. Mr. Howe is a member of the Engineers', Century, Harvard, and Technology Clubs. He married at Troy, N. Y., April 7, 1874, Fannie Gay. Address: Green Peace, Bedford Station, N. Y.

HOWE, Mark Antony DeWolfe:

Editor and writer; born in Bristol, R. I., Aug. 28, 1864; son of Rt. Rev. M. A. De Wolfe and Eliza (Whitney) Howe. He was graduated from Lehigh University, B.A., in 1886; from Harvard University, A.B., 1887, A.M., 1888. He was associate editor of the Youth's Companion, 1888-1893, assistant editor of The Atlantic Monthly, 1893-1895; and has been again associate editor of the Youth's Companion since 1899. He is author of: Shadows, 1897; American Bookmen, 1898; Phillips Brooks, 1899; Boston—The Place and the People, 1903; and Life and Letters of George Bancroft, 1908; editor of The Memory of Lincoln, 1899, and the Beacon Biographies (twenty-nine volumes). He is a member of the Tavern and Union Boat Clubs of Boston, of the Chi Phi fraternity, and of the Massachusetts Historical Society. Mr. Howe married in Boston, Sept. 21, 1899, Fanny Huntington Quincy, and they have three children. Residence: 26 Brimmer Street. Office: 201 Columbus Avenue, Boston.

HOWE, Marshall Avery:

Botanist and editor; born at Newfane, Vt., June 6, 1867; son of Marshall Otis and Gertrude I. (Dexter) Howe. He was graduated from the University of Vermont, Ph.B., 1890, Columbia University, Ph.D., 1898; instructor in cryptogamic botany, University of California, 1891-1896; curator of the herbarium, Columbia University, 1899-1901; assistant curator of the New York Botanical Garden, 1901-1906; curator of the museum of same, since 1906. Dr. Howe was editor of Torrey, 1901-1908; and has been editor of the Bulletin of the Torrey Botanical Club since 1907. He has served as a member of scientific expeditions to Newfoundland and the West Indies, 1901-1909, and makes a special study of the marine algae. He is a fellow of the New York Academy of Sciences, the American Association for the Advancement of Science; member of the Botanical Society of America, National Geographic Society, Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi and Phi Delta Theta. He has written various papers and monographs on botanical subjects. Address: New York Botanical Garden, Bronx Park, New York City.

HOWELL, Benjamin Franklin:

Congressman; born in Cumberland, N. J., Jan., 1844; in 1862 enlisted in the Twelfth New Jersey Volunteers and served until the close of the war; was elected surrogate of Middlesex County in 1882, and reelected for a second term in 1887; was elected to the Fifty-fourth, Fifty-fifth, Fifty-sixth, Fifty-seventh, Fifty-eighth, Fifty-ninth and Sixtieth Congresses, and was reelected in 1908 to the Sixty-first Congress from the Third New Jersey District. Mr. Howell is a Republican in politics. Address: New Brunswick, N. J.

HOWELL, Clark:

Editor; born in Barnwell County, S. C., Sept. 21, 1863; son of Evan P. and Julia A. Howell; since early childhood a resident of Atlanta. He was graduated from the University of Georgia, A.B., 1883. He engaged in newspaper work on the Atlanta Constitution, of which his father was editor-in-chief. He succeeded Henry Grady as managing editor in 1889, and succeeded his father as editor-in-chief in 1897, and since 1901 has also been president of the Atlanta Constitution Publishing Company. Mr. Howell was for several years a member of the Georgia General Assembly, as speaker of the House and president of the Senate; member for the past ten years of the National Democratic Executive Committee from Georgia, and is a member of the Board of Directors of the Associated Press. Mr. Howell has been twice married; first, in 1887, to Harriet Glascock Barrett, who died in 1898, and second, in 1900, to Annie Combe of Savannah, Ga. Address: Atlanta, Ga.

HOWELL, Joseph:

Congressman; born in Boxelder County, Utah, Feb. 17, 1857. He attended common schools and studied in Utah University. He is a merchant by occupation; was formerly mayor of Wellsville, and a member of the board of regents of Utah University. He is a Republican in politics; served three terms in the Territorial Legislature and one in the State Senate; was elected to the Fifty-eighth and Fifty-ninth and Sixtieth Congresses, and reelected to the Sixty-first Congress. He married, Oct. 24, 1878, Mary Maughan. Address: Logan, Cache County, Utah.

HOWELL, William Barbérie:

U. S. general appraiser; born in Freehold, Monmouth County, N. J., July 5, 1865; son of William H. and Josephine V. (Throckmorton) Howell. He was educated in private schools in New Jersey, and was graduated from Spencerean Business College, Washington, D. C., Columbia Law School, Washington, D. C., LL.M. He is a member of the Bar of the District of Columbia, was assistant secretary of the United States Treasury, 1897-1899, appointed in March, 1889, U. S. general appraiser. He married in Washington, D. C., June 13, 1888, Isabel S. Lauck, and has two sons. Address: 641 Washington Street, New York City.

HOWELLS, William Dean:

Author; born at Martin Ferry, Ohio, March 1, 1837; son of William Cooper and

Mary (Dean) Howells. He has received the degree of A.M., Harvard, 1877. Yale, 1885. Litt.D., Yale, 1901. D.Litt., Oxford, 1904. LL.D., Adelbert College, 1904. Litt.D., Columbia, 1905. He worked as compositor, correspondent and editor in his father's and other Ohio newspaper offices; was correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette, 1856; News editor of Ohio State Journal, 1859; U. S. consul at Venice, 1861-1865; editorial writer on the New York Times, and regular contributor to New York Nation, 1865-1866; sub-editor and editor Atlantic Monthly, 1868-1881; editorial contributor to Harper's Magazine, 1886-1891, and was for a short time editor of the Cosmopolitan Magazine. He contributed poems to Ohio papers and the Atlantic Monthly before the war period, many of which were included in Poems of Two Friends, which was published in collaboration with John J. Piatt. He wrote a Campaign Life of Lincoln in 1860. During his consular residence in Venice he engaged in writing books. Mr. Howells is author of: Venetian Life; Italian Journeys; Suburban Sketches; No Love Lost; Their Wedding Journey; A Chance Acquaintance; A Foregone Conclusion; Out of the Question; A Counterfeit Presentment; Poems; Lady of the Aroostook; the Undiscovered Country; A Fearful Responsibility, and Other Tales; Dr. Breen's Practice; A Modern Instance; A Woman's Reason; Three Villages; The Rise of Silas Lapham; Tuscan Cities; The Minister's Charge; Indian Summer; Modern Italian Poets; April Hopes; Annie Kilburn; A Hazard of New Fortunes; The Sleeping Car and Other Farces; The Mouse Trap and Other Farces; The Shadow of a Dream; An Imperative Duty; A Boy's Town; Criticism and Fiction; The Quality of Mercy; A Little Swiss Sojourn; Christmas Every Day; The World of Chance; The Coast of Bohemia; A Traveler from Altruria; My Literary Passions; The Day of Their Wedding; A Parting and a Meeting; Impressions and Experiences; Stops of Various Quills; The Landlord at Lion's Head; An Open-Eyed Conspiracy; Stories of Ohio; The Story of a Play; Ragged Lady; Their Silver Wedding Journey; Literary Friends and Acquaintances; A Pair of Patient Lovers; Heroines of Fiction; The Kentons; Literature and Life; The Flight of Pony Baker; Questionable Shapes; Miss Bellard's Inspiration; London Films; Certain Delightful English Towns; Through the Eye of the Needle; Between the Dark and the Daylight. Editor: Choice Autobiographies, with essays (eight volumes); Library of Universal Adventure. He married in Paris, 1862, Elinor G. Meade. Mr. Howells is a member of the Century Association of New York City. Address: Care Harper & Brothers, New York City.

HOWLAND, Alfred C.:

Artist; born at Walpole, N. H., 1838; son of Aaron P. and Huldah (Burke) Howland. He was educated in the Walpole High School and Academy, and he first studied art in Boston, 1856-1857, and was afterwards for three years in New York. In 1860 he went to Europe, studying in the Royal Academy at Düsseldorf and later in the private atelier of Professor Albert Flamm; went to Paris and studied under Emil Lambinet. In 1865 he opened a studio in New York City where he has since been identified with the art of this country, winning distinction as a genre and landscape painter. He was elected an academician of the National Academy of Design in 1882, and has served two terms of three years each on its Council; and he is also a member of the Artists' Fund Society. He has exhibited yearly at the National Academy of Design, at many of the leading galleries in the City, throughout the United States and at Munich and Paris. Examples of his work are included in the permanent collections of the Layton Gallery at Milwaukee, Yale University and the Century Association of New York. Mr. Howland is a member of the Century Club of New York City. He married at Williamstown, Mass., Clara Ward, of New York City, and they have a son and a daughter. Address: 7 West 43d Street, New York City.

HOWRY, Charles Bowen:

Jurist; born in Oxford, Miss., May 14, 1844; son of Judge James M. Howry. He was educated in the University of Mississippi before and after the Civil War, and was graduated as LL.B. in 1867. He served as private and second and first lieutenant in the Twenty-ninth Mississippi Infantry of the Confederate States Army and was severely wounded at the battle of Franklin. After the war he practised law, was elected to several terms in the Mississippi Legislature; trustee of the State University of Mississippi, 1882-1894, U. S. Attorney for the District of Mississippi, 1885-1889, assistant attorney-general of the United States, 1893-1896; since 1896 associate justice of the U. S. Court of Claims. The University of Mississippi conferred upon him the LL.D. degree in 1896. Residence: 1728 I Street, Washington, D. C.

HOXIE, Richard L.:

Lieutenant-colonel of Engineers, U. S. Army; born in New York City, Aug. 7, 1844; son of Joseph Hoxie, Jr., and Jacqueline (Barry) Hoxie. He was educated in private and public schools, and the University of Iowa. He enlisted, June 13, 1861, in the First Iowa Volunteer Cavalry; reenlisted January, 1864; and was mustered out to accept the appointment of cadet at the U. S. Military Academy, June 10, 1864. He was graduated into the Corps of Engineers, U. S. Army, as second lieutenant June, 1868; promoted first lieutenant, 1870; assistant engineer on public works in the harbor at Boston, 1870-1872; was under orders of Lieutenant Wheeler as assistant engineer on Western exploration, 1872-1874; chief engineer of the District of Columbia, 1874-1878; promoted captain, 1882; in charge of various river and harbor improvements, surveys, etc., in Georgia, Florida and Alabama, 1883-1889; in command of engineer company, and instructor in military engineering in the School of Application, Willet's Point, N. Y., 1889-1891; major, March 31, 1895; lieutenant-colonel, April 23, 1904. Lieutenant-colonel Hoxie is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, Military Order of the Loyal Legion, Sons of the American Revolution, National Geographic Society, and is a member of the Metropolitan Club of Washington, the University Club of Baltimore, and the Duquesne Club of Pittsburgh. He married, May 28, 1878, Vinnie Ream (the sculptor), and they have one son. Address: 1632 K Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

HOYNE, Thomas Maclay:

Lawyer; born in Galena, Ill., July 17, 1843; son of Thomas and Leonora (Temple) Hoyne. He was educated in Chicago public and high schools, studied law in the office of his father's firm in Chicago for three years, and in the law school of the old Chicago University, from which he was graduated in 1866. The following year he became a member of his father's firm, the style becoming Hoyne, Horton & Hoyne. On the death of his father in 1883 the firm was changed to Horton & Hoyne, which continued until 1887, when Mr. Horton was elevated to the bench. Mr. Hoyne then became associated with George A. Follansbee and John O'Connor, under the style of Hoyne, Follansbee & O'Connor, which continued until 1899, when the firm was changed to Hoyne, O'Connor & Hoyne, Maclay Hoyne, his son, becoming the junior partner. The firm is engaged in general practice, but has made a specialty of commercial, real estate and probate law. Mr. Hoyne was one of the founders of the Democrat Club, the name of which was changed in 1881 to the Iroquois Club, of which he was president, 1907, and is still a member. In 1903, acting under the provisions of the law of July 1, 1901, each party nominated three provisional candidates for additional circuit judges of Cook County, and Mr. Hoyne received three thousand four hundred and seventy-seven more votes than the next highest candidate, but the Supreme Court declared the election invalid. He is a member of the Illinois State and Chicago Bar Associations, the Chicago Law Institute, and the Law Club. He married in 1871 to Jeannie T. Maclay, daughter of Moses B. Maclay of New York City, and has four sons and two daughters. Residence: 3364 Calumet Avenue. Office: Stock Exchange Building, Chicago.

HOYT, Herbert W.:

Physician; born in Wellsville, N. Y., July 3, 1863; son of Julius and Martha Hoyt. He was graduated from Genesee State Normal School, 1884, University of Rochester, A.B., 1888. Boston University School of Medicine, M.D., 1891 and took post-graduate study in New York City and in Europe, 1897-1898. He is a member of the Monroe County Homeopathic Medical Society, New York State Homeopathic Medical Society, and American Institute of Homeopathy, and secretary of the American Homeopathic Ophthalmological, Otolological and Laryngological Society. Dr. Hoyt is a member on the staff of Rochester Homeopathic Hospital, and Batavia Hospital. He is a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon Club of Rochester. He married in Lancaster, N. H., in 1891, Mary M. Moore. Residence: 225 Culyer Road. Office: 84 East Avenue, Rochester, N. Y.

HRDLICKA, Ales:

Anthropologist; born at Humpolec, Bohemia, March 30, 1869; son of Maximilian and Karolina Hrdlicka. He was educated in common and high schools in Bohemia, graduated from the New York Electric Medical College, M.D., 1892, New York Homeopathic Medical College, 1894; Medical Allopathic State Board, Maryland, 1894; courses at École de Médecine and École d'Anthropologie, Paris 1896. Dr. Hrdlicka was interne of the Middletown N. Y. State Hospital, 1894-1896; associate in Anthropology of the Pathological Institute of the State Hospitals of New York, 1896-1899; in charge of physical anthropology, Hyde Expedition, American Museum of Natural History, New York City, 1899-1903; assistant curator, in charge of the Division of Physical Anthropology, U. S. National Museum, since 1903. He made anthropological expeditions to Mexico, the Southwest and Florida, 1898, 1899, 1900, 1902, 1905 and 1906; to northern and northwestern United States 1908; and to Egypt 1908-1909. He is author of over seventy papers and works on anthropology (children, skull, bones, brain, anthropoids, Indians, antiquity of man in North America). Dr. Hrdlicka is a foreign associate of the Paris Anthropological Society, medical and physiological observation. Corresponding member of the Royal Bohemian Society of Sciences, Bohemian Ethnological Society. He is (ex-president of the Anthropological Society of Washington; fellow member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science; of the Society of American Anatomists, American Anthropological Association, and Washington Biological Society. Residence: 2501 Pennsylvania Avenue. Office: U. S. National Museum, Washington, D. C.

HUBBARD, Elbert:

Author, journalist, banker, lecturer; born at Bloomington, Ill., June 19, 1856; son of Dr. Silas and Julia F. (Read) Hubbard. He was educated in the public schools and acquired a taste for classical literature which has had much to do with shaping his later career, and later his attainments in literature were recognized by the awarding to him by Tufts College, of the degree of A.M. in 1899. Mr. Hubbard engaged in journalism, first as a reporter on the New York Sun and the Chicago Times, and later was superintendent of the Larkin Soap Company. He afterward established and is editor of The Philistine, Little Journey, and the Era Magazine. He is also proprietor of the Roycroft Shop, devoted to the production of classics in befitting typographical dress and binding. The quality and originality of the work done by this establishment has met wide recognition, and the work of the Roycrofts has a fame and prestige with bibliophiles analogous to that enjoyed by the productions of William Morris in England, and the name Roycroft Edition is a recognized synonym for unique merit in book-making. The Philistine has a place all alone in literature, and is original and virile in its point of view, as well as delightful in its literary flavor. Mr. Hubbard is also proprietor of the Roycroft Bank. Mr. Hubbard is the author of the famous Message to Garcia, a booklet which has probably had a wider circulation in the same time than any other book ever written. He is author of: No Enemy but Himself; Little Journeys to Homes of Good Men and Great; Little Journeys to the Homes of American Authors; Little Journeys to the Homes of Famous Women; Little Journeys to the Homes of American Statesmen; Little Journeys to the Homes of Eminent Painters; All Baba of East Aurora; As It Seems to Me; A Message to Garcia; Time and Chance; The Legacy; Forbes of Harvard; One Day; A Tale of the Prairies; Contemplations; John Burroughs; Consecrated Lives; Chicago Tongue; The Man of Sorrows; and others making thirty-two books to date. Mr. Hubbard is also well known and popular on the lecture platform. He has traveled extensively over Europe and America. Among the other pursuits of this many-sided man is that of farmer and raiser of saddle horses, in which he finds much delight. Address: East Aurora, N. Y.

HUBBARD, Henry W.:

Treasurer of the American Missionary Association; born at Elgin, Ill., May 17, 1844; son of William G. and Charlotte (Wright) Hubbard. He was graduated from the University of Michigan in 1866 and received its degree of M.S. in 1872. He attended the Law School of the University of Michigan for one year; and was admitted to the bar in Illinois in 1868. Mr. Hubbard was professor of mathematics and acting treasurer of Fisk University, Nashville, Tenn., 1871-1873; in the New York office of the American Missionary Association since 1873; was appointed its assistant treasurer in 1876 and has been its treasurer since 1879. He is also treasurer of the Board of Trustees of Talladega (Alabama) College, Straight University, New Orleans, and Tongaloo University, Miss. He is a veteran of the Civil War, having served in the 134th Illinois Volunteers. He is a member of the New England Society, Psi Upsilon fraternity, and Grand Army of the Republic, and is also a member of the Quill Club and of the University of Michigan Club. Residence:

111 Madison Avenue. Office: 287 Fourth Avenue, New York City.

HUBBELL, Alvin Allace:

Physician and ophthalmologist; born in Conewango, N. Y., 1846; son of Schnyler P. and Hepzibah (Farnsworth) Hubbell. He was educated in public schools at Conewango and at Randolph Academy; was graduated as M.D. from the University of Buffalo in 1876, and received from Niagara University the Ph.D. degree in 1893. He is professor of clinical ophthalmology and otology in the University of Buffalo, and ophthalmic surgeon to the Charity Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital, and other hospitals of Buffalo, N. Y. Dr. Hubbell is a member of the American Medical Association, American Ophthalmological Society, Buffalo Academy of Medicine and New York Academy of Medicine; was president of the New York State Medical Association in 1902, and chairman of the Section of Ophthalmology, of the American Medical Association, 1909. He is author of the Section on Disease of the Eye, in Dr. Schweinitz' American Text-book of Diseases of the Eye, Philadelphia, 1899, the Development of Ophthalmology in America: 1800-1870, Chicago, 1908; and many contributions to medical journals; and was former associate editor of the Buffalo Medical Journal. He married in 1872, Evangeline Fancher, and they have one daughter. Residence: The Lenox Hotel. Office: 212 Franklin Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

HUFF, George Franklin:

Congressman; born at Norristown, Pa., July 16, 1842. He received his education in the public schools at Middletown and later at Altoona, where, after learning a trade in the car shops of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, at an early age he entered the banking house of William M. Lloyd & Company. In 1867 he removed to Westmoreland County to engage in the banking business. He was a member of the National Republican Convention in 1880, where he was one of the Three Hundred and Six who followed the lead of Roscoe Conklin in the effort to nominate General U. S. Grant for the Presidency. Mr. Huff is president of the Keystone Coal and Coke Company, one of the largest producers of gas and steam coal in the United States; is largely engaged in many other business industries in various parts of Pennsylvania, together with the banking business in Greensburg, in which he has been constantly engaged since his youth; is president of the Westmoreland Hospital Association. He was elected to the Pennsylvania Senate in 1884 and represented the Thirty-ninth Senatorial District four years; was elected to the Fifty-second Congress from the 21st Pennsylvania District, then composed of the counties of Westmoreland, Indiana, Armstrong, and Jefferson and was elected congressman at large from Pennsylvania to the Fifty-fourth Congress. Mr. Huff was elected from the 22d Pennsylvania District to the Fifty-eighth, Fifty-ninth and Sixtieth Congresses, and reelected in 1908 to the Sixty-first Congress. He married in 1871, Henrietta, daughter of the late Judge Jeremiah M. Burrell, of Pennsylvania, afterward United States District Judge and Chief Justice of Kansas by the appointment of President Franklin Pierce. Address: Greensburg, Pa.

HUGHES, Charles Evans:

Governor and lawyer; born in Glens Falls, N. Y., April 11, 1862; son of Rev. David Charles and Mary Catherine (Connelly) Hughes. He was a student at Colgate University, 1876-1878; was graduated from Brown University, A.B., 1881, and from Columbia Law School, LL.B., 1884; and the degree of LL.D. was conferred upon him by Brown University in 1906 and by Columbia University, Knox College, and Lafayette College in 1907. He was admitted to the bar, June, 1884, and practised law in New York City, 1884-1891 and 1893-1906. Governor Hughes was professor of law at Cornell University, 1891-1893, special lecturer on law, 1893-1895, also at the New York Law School, 1893-1900. He was counsel for Stevens Gas Committee of the New York Legislature in 1905, and for the Armstrong Insurance Committee, 1905-1906; and was special assistant to the United States attorney-general in the coal investigation of 1906. He was nominated for office of mayor of New York City by the Republican Convention in 1905 but declined, and was nominated for governor by the Republicans in 1906 and elected. In 1908 he was considered as a presidential possibility, but his name was not pressed, largely owing to the opposition to him in his own State resulting from his earnest insistence on the passage of bills putting an end to race-track gambling in New York. For the same reason his renomination as governor was opposed, although unsuccessfully. Governor Hughes being reelected for the term expiring in 1911. He is a member of the American Bar Association, New York State Bar Association, Association of the Bar of the City of New York, and is trustee of Brown University. He is also a member of the University, Republican, Lawyers', Brown, Cornell, Delta Upsilon, and Nassau Country Clubs. Governor Hughes married, Dec. 5, 1888, Antoinette Carter and they have four children. Address: Executive Mansion, Albany, N. Y.

HUGHES, Donnel:

Physician; born in Philadelphia, March 1, 1858; son of Isaac W. Hughes, M.D., and Alice E. (Donnel) Hughes. He was educated in the Academic Department of the University of Pennsylvania, and he was graduated from the Medical Department, M.D., 1879. He was assistant demonstrator of anatomy, 1878-1879. Since graduation he has been continuously engaged in the practice of medicine and surgery in Philadelphia. He was elected gynecologist to the Philadelphia Hospital in 1883. Dr. Hughes is a member of the American Medical Association, Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia County Medical Society, Philadelphia Pediatric Society, and the American Geographical Society; and is also a member of the Masonic order and of the Philadelphia Medical Club. He married in Philadelphia, Nov. 19, 1884, Sarah Sommers, daughter of Rev. Gideon J. Burton, and they have a son. Residence: 2022 Locust Street. Office: 4003 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

CHARLES EVANS HUGHES
Governor of New York State

HUGHES, Edwin Holt:

Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church; born in Moundsville, W. Va., Dec. 7, 1866; son of Rev. Thomas B. and Louisa Hughes. He was graduated from Ohio Wesleyan University, A.B., 1889, A.M., (honorary) 1892; and from the Theological School of Boston University, S.T.B., 1892; and he has received the degrees S.T.D. from Syracuse University, 1903, D.D. from Ohio Wesleyan University, 1904, LL.D. DePauw University, 1908. He was ordained in the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church, 1892; pastor at Newton Center, Mass., 1892-1896, Malden, Mass., 1896-1903. He became president of DePauw University, Greencastle, Ind., in 1903, continuing until elected, in May, 1908, a bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was a trustee of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching; and he is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Society, the Delta Tau Delta fraternity, and the University Club of Indianapolis. He married in Atlanta, Ga., June 8, 1892, Isabel Baker Ebbert, and has six children. Address: San Francisco, Calif.

HUGHES, James Anthony:

Congressman; born in Ontario, Canada, Feb. 27, 1861; son of James W. and Ellen Hughes. In July, 1873, he removed with his parents to Ashland, Ky., where he entered on a business career; was elected to represent the counties of Boyd and Lawrence in the Legislature of Kentucky for the years 1887 and 1888; the bulk of his business interest having drifted to the adjoining State of West Virginia, necessitated the removal of his residence to that State also. Here, as in Kentucky, he was called on to be a representative in the Legislature, the Sixth Senatorial District having by a large majority sent him, the first Republican senator, to represent it in the term of 1894-1898. He has always been an active and an interested Republican, identifying himself with all the movements and aspirations of his party; was elected to the Fifty-seventh Congress by the largest Republican vote ever given in the Fourth District, and to the Fifty-eighth, Fifty-ninth and Sixtieth Congresses, and reelected to the Sixty-first Congress from the Fifth West Virginia District. He married in Ceredo, W. Va., Dec. 28, 1885, Belle Vinson. Address: Huntington, W. Va.

HUGHITT, Marvin:

Railway official; born in Genoa Township, Cayuga County, N. Y., Aug. 9, 1837. He was educated in the public schools and removed, while yet a youth, to Chicago, where he became a telegrapher and was in the employ of the Chicago and Alton and the Illinois Central Railroads. With the latter road he was successively trainmaster, assistant general superintendent and general superintendent. He was assistant general manager of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway in 1870-1871; general manager of the Pullman Palace Car Company, 1871-1872. He entered the service of the Chicago and North-Western Railway as general superintendent in 1872, and was its general manager, 1876-1880. On June 2, 1880, he was appointed vice-president and general manager of the Chicago and North-western Railway, which position he retained until 1887, when he became president. He is also president of the Chicago St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha Railway Company, the Tremont, Elk Horn and Missouri Valley Railroad Company, the St. Paul Eastern Grand Trunk Railway, and the Sioux City and Pacific Railroad Company. He is a director of the Union Pacific Railroad Company, the Northern Trust Company, and the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States. Address: 22 Fifth Avenue. Residence: 2828 Prairie Avenue, Chicago, and Lake Forest, Ill.

HULBERT, Homer Bazaleel:

Author of works on Korea; born in New Haven, Vt., Jan. 26, 1863; son of Calvin B. and Mary E. (Woodward) Hulbert. He was educated in Dartmouth College, (A.M.) and Union Theological Seminary. In 1884 he was selected by the State Department as one of the force of teachers for the Korean Government. He was especially successful in his mission, and remained in Korea until 1907. Having won the confidence of the government, he acted as special agent of the Korean Emperor in 1905 in appealing to the United States Government against the movements of Japan, and in 1907 came again to the United States to present the cause of Korea before the American public. He is now engaged in journalistic work. He is the author of: The Passing of Korea; The History of Korea; A Comparative Grammar of Korean and Dravidian; A Search for the Siberian Klondike; The Sign of the Jumna; Korean Folk Lore; The Hulbert Series of School Textbooks in the Korean Language. He was editor of The Korea Review, 1901-1906. Mr. Hulbert is a member of the Chicago Folk Lore Society; fellow of Royal Geographical Society; charter member of the Korea Branch of Royal Asiatic Society, and was decorated by the Emperor of Korea, with the Order of the Crown. He married in New York City, Sept. 18, 1888, May B. Hanna, and has two sons and two daughters. Address: 36 Marongo Park, Springfield, Mass.

HULINGS, Willis James:

Oil and mine operator; born in Clarion, Pa., July 1, 1850. He received an academic education, studying law at the conclusion of his academic course; was admitted to practise in the courts of Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Arizona; member of the Pennsylvania Legislature, 1881-1886, and procured passage of the bill to prohibit unjust discriminations in railroad freight rates. He enlisted in the National Guard of Pennsylvania in 1876, serving through various grades until elected colonel in February, 1887; served in the railroad riots, 1877. Homestead riots, 1891, and Walston riots, 1892; volunteered with entire regiment May 10, 1898, for service in Spanish-American War and served in Porto Rico; and was promoted Sept. 26, 1898, to brigadier-general of the United States Volunteers for gallant and meritorious conduct at the battle of Coamo, Aug. 9, 1898; discharged Jan. 1, 1899. Commander-in-chief of the National Association of the Spanish-American War Veterans; member of the Sons of the American Revolution; brigadier-general, National Guard of Pennsylvania; State senator from the Forty-eighth District of Pennsylvania; engaged in mining and large Mexican enterprises. Address: Oil City, Pa.

HULL, John Albert Tiffin:

Congressman and manufacturer; born in Sabina, Clinton County, Ohio, May 1, 1841. He removed with his parents to Iowa in 1849; was educated in the public schools, Asbury (now DePauw) University, and Iowa Wesleyan College, at Mount Pleasant; and was graduated from the Cincinnati Law School in the spring of 1862. He enlisted in the Twenty-third Iowa Infantry July, 1862; was first lieutenant and captain; was wounded in the charge on intrenchments at Black River, May 17, 1863; resigned on account of wounds, October, 1863; was elected secretary of the Iowa State senate in 1872 and reelected 1874-1876, and 1878; was elected secretary of State in 1878 and reelected in 1880 and 1882; was elected lieutenant-governor in 1885, and reelected in 1887. He is engaged in farming and banking. He was elected to the Fifty-second, Fifty-third, Fifty-fourth, Fifty-fifth, Fifty-sixth, Fifty-seventh, Fifty-eighth, Fifty-ninth and Sixtieth Congresses, and reelected to the Sixty-first Congress, from the Seventh Iowa District. Address: Des Moines, Iowa.

HUMPHREY, James Otis:

United States district judge for the Southern District of Illinois; born in Morgan County, Ill., Dec. 30, 1850; son of William Humphrey and Sarah (Stocker) Humphrey. After completing his general education in Shurtleff College, he was engaged in teaching school while studying law for two years. He was admitted to the bar by the Supreme Court of Illinois in 1880, then was a legal clerk in the office of the Railroad and Warehouse Commission of the State of Illinois, in Springfield, until 1883, then engaged in private practice. He was actively identified with politics as a Republican. He was a presidential elector in 1884, and was a member of the National Republican Convention at St. Louis in 1896. He was appointed by President McKinley in 1897, to the office of United States attorney for the Southern District of Illinois, and when his term in that office expired in 1901, was appointed to the judgeship which he now holds. He came into National prominence in 1906 by his decision in the cases of the United States against the beef packers, declaring that they had secured immunity from prosecution by testimony given before the Commissioner of Corporations. Address: Springfield, Ill.

HUMPHREY, William E.:

Congressman; born March 31, 1862, near Alamo, Montgomery County, Ind. He attended the common schools and was graduated from Wabash College, Crawfordsville, Ind., 1870. He was admitted to the bar in 1887, and practised law at Crawfordsville to 1893; in 1893 moved to Seattle, Wash., where he has since practised his profession; in 1898 he was elected to the office of corporation counsel of the city of Seattle; was reelected to that office in 1900; was elected to the Fifty-eighth, Fifty-ninth and Sixtieth Congresses, and reelected to the Sixty-first Congress on the Republican ticket, from the First Congressional District of Washington. Address: Seattle, Wash.

HUMPHREYS, Benjamin Grubb:

Congressman and lawyer; born in Claiborne County, Miss., Aug. 17, 1865; son of Brigadier-General Benjamin G. Humphreys, Confederate States Army, and governor of Mississippi from 1865 to 1868, when he was forcibly ejected from the executive mansion by Federal soldiers under the command of Brigadier-General Adelbert Ames, U. S. Army, who succeeded him as military governor; his mother was Mildred Hickman Maury, of Tennessee. He was educated at the University of Mississippi, in the class of 1885, but left before graduation, having completed the junior year; he engaged in mercantile pursuits, and subsequently studied law, and was admitted to the bar in November, 1891. He was appointed superintendent of education for Leflore County in January, 1892, for a term of four years. He was selected messenger by the Presidential electors in 1892 to deliver the electoral vote of Mississippi; in 1895 he was elected district attorney for the Fourth Circuit Court District of Mississippi, and was reelected without opposition in 1899. When war was declared against Spain, in April, 1898, he raised a company at Greenwood and was elected first lieutenant; he offered to resign the office of district attorney in order to join the army, but U. S. Senator A. J. McLaurin, who was then governor of Mississippi, refused to permit it, and gave him a leave of absence instead. He served in the Second Mississippi Volunteer Infantry, under Major-General Fitzhugh Lee in Florida, during the entire war, being mustered out with his regiment at Columbia, Tenn., Dec. 22, 1898. He was elected as a Democrat to the Fifty-eighth Congress, and reelected to the Fifty-ninth, Sixtieth and Sixty-first Congresses from the Third Mississippi District. He married, Oct. 9, 1889, Louise Yerger, of Greenville, Miss. Address: Greenville, Miss.

HUNT, Edward Livingston:

Physician; born in New Orleans, La., Feb. 2, 1871; son of Carleton and Georgine (Cammack) Hunt. He was educated in Phillips Exeter Academy, Harvard University, A.B., College of Physicians and Surgeons, Columbia University, M.D. He is instructor in neurology in the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia University, neurologist to the New York City Home for the Aged; senior attending physician to the Hospital for Nervous Diseases of the City of New York. He is engaged in the practice of medicine, with a specialty in neurology. He is a member of the New York Academy of Medicine, New York Neurological Society, New York County Medical Society, American Medical Association, Nu Sigma Nu Medical fraternity, and the University and Harvard clubs of New York City. Dr. Hunt married in Austin, Texas, Oct. 8, 1902, Margaret Tobin, and they have one son. Address: 54 West 50th Street, New York City.

HUNT, Emory William:

President of Denison University; born at Clarence, N. Y., Feb. 2, 1862; son of the Rev. Harrison Perry and Caroline (Holmes) Hunt. He was graduated from the University of Rochester, A.B., 1884, and from Crozer Theological Seminary, B.D., 1887. The honorary degree of D.D. was conferred upon him by Denison University in 1901, and that of LL.D. by the University of Rochester in 1902. He entered the ministry of the Baptist Church and was pastor of the Ashland Avenue Baptist Church of Toledo, Ohio, 1887-1900. In 1900 he took charge of the Clarendon Street Baptist Church at Boston, but in 1902 resigned to become president of Denison University. Dr. Hunt is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Society, the Alpha Delta Phi fraternity, and the Triton Fish and Game Club of Quebec. He was married at Waltham, Mass., Aug. 24, 1892, Elizabeth Olney, and has three daughters. Address: Granville, Ohio.

HUNT, Richard Howland:

Architect; born in Paris, France, 1862; son of Richard Morris Hunt. He was educated in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; and finished his studies at the École des Beaux Arts, with view to following his father's profession. From a small sketch left by father he completed the new East wing for Metropolitan Museum of Art, and of individual works may be mentioned: Quintard Hall and Hoffman Hall, University of the South; Kissam Hall at Vanderbilt University; Schmid House; Idle Hour, for W. K. Vanderbilt; and the Schieffelin mansion. Devotes attention to architectural designs for large office buildings. Mr. Hunt is a member American Institute of Architects, Architectural League, Beaux Arts Society, and the Players' and Century Clubs. He married, first, Pearl, daughter of Francis D. Carley, and, second, in 1891, Margaret Livingston Watrous, daughter of S. Otis Livingston, and he has three sons. Address: 28 East 21st Street, New York City.

HUNT, Theodore Whitefield:

University professor; born at Metuchen, N. J., Feb. 19, 1844; son of Holloway W.

and Henrietta (Munday) Hunt. He was graduated from Princeton University with first honor in 1865 and from Princeton Theological Seminary in 1869; from Lafayette College he received a Ph.D. in 1880, and from Rutgers an L.H.D. in 1890. He was tutor in English in Princeton University, 1868-1873; adjunct professor of English, 1873-1881, and has been professor of English in the same institution from 1881. He has published: Cadmon's Exodus and Daniel, 1883; Principles of Written Discourse, 1884; English Prose and Prose Writers, 1887; Studies in Literature and Style, 1890; Ethical Studies in Old English Literature, 1894; American Meditative Lyrics, 1896; English Meditative Lyrics, 1899; Literature—Its Principles and Problems, 1906; and has contributed to the leading American reviews, literary and philological. He married at Camden, N. J., June 29, 1882, Sarah Cooper Reeve, now deceased. Address: 48 Library Place, Princeton, N. J.

HUNTER, William Dulany:

Consular official; born in the District of Columbia. He was appointed clerk Dec. 13, 1888, and served in the consulate at Liverpool, June, 1889, to Nov., 1890, in the consulate-general at Paris from Feb., 1891, to Oct., 1892; appointed vice and deputy consul-general at Shanghai, June 23, 1893, and was in charge of the consulate-general from Nov., 1893, to May, 1894, resigned as vice and deputy consul-general May 8, 1895. He was appointed vice-consul to establish a consulate at Harput, Turkey, June, 1895; was attached to the legation at Constantinople, Dec., 1895, to Jan., 1896; was designated to make an inspection of consulates in the West Indies and certain consulates to South America, Nov. 20, 1896, appointed deputy consul-general at Cairo June, 1898, vice-consul-general at Cairo, May 23, 1899, retired as vice-consul-general and as deputy consul-general at Cairo, July 10, 1902, and he was appointed consul at Nice, March 30, 1907, which position he now holds. Address: Nice, France.

HUNTINGTON, Henry Edwards:

Railway official; born in Oneonta, N. Y., Feb. 27, 1850; son of Solon and Harriet (Saunders) Huntington. He was educated in the public schools; was superintendent of construction of the Huntington (Central Pacific) lines between Louisville and New Orleans, especially the construction of the Chesapeake, Ohio and Southwestern Railroad, from 1880 until the roads were completed in 1884; superintendent, 1884-1885, and receiver, 1885-1886, of the Kentucky Central Railroad, of which, after its sale in 1886, he was vice-president until the road was sold to the Louisville and Nashville in 1890; vice-president and general manager of the Elizabethtown, Lexington and Big Sandy and Ohio Central Railways. He was also superintendent of construction of the Maysville and Big Sandy Railroad and had charge of the construction company which built the lines through Covington, Ky., and Cincinnati, including the Ohio River Bridge. He was first assistant to the present Southern Pacific Company, 1892-1900 (representing the president at San Francisco); second vice-president, March-June, 1900; first vice-president, 1900-1904, and is now president of the Pacific Electric Railway Company of Los Angeles, the Los Angeles Railway Company, Los Angeles-Interurban Railway Company (comprising over 685 miles of trolley lines in Southern California), and is chairman of the board of directors of the Newport News (Va.) Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company, of which he is half owner). He is a director of the Southern Pacific Company, Newport News Light and Water Company, Old Dominion Land Company (Newport News), International Banking Corporation, Wells, Fargo and Company Express, Minneapolis and St. Louis Railway Company, Iowa Central Railway Company, Toledo, St. Louis and Western Railway Company, Huntington Land and Improvement Company, Los Angeles Land Company, Pacific Light and Power Company, Safety Insulated Wire Company and Cable Company, and about forty-five other companies. Mr. Huntington is a member of the California, Jonathan, San Gabriel Valley Country, Pasadena Country, and Bolsa Chica Gun Clubs, all of California; Union League, Metropolitan and City Mid-day Clubs of New York City, and Oneonta Club of Oneonta, N. Y. He has four children. Residence: Metropolitan Club, New York City. Office: 25 Broad Street, New York City.

HUNTINGTON, William Edwards:

President of Boston University; born at Hillsboro, Ill., July 30, 1844; son of William P. and Luey (Edwards) Huntington. He was graduated from the University of Wisconsin, A.B. and A.M. degrees in course, and received from Wisconsin the honorary degree of LL.D.; also D.D. from Wesleyan University and Syracuse University, and LL.D. from Tufts College. He served in the Civil War as a private in the Fortieth Regiment of Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry in 1864, and as first lieutenant in the Forty-ninth Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry in 1865. Dr. Huntington was a minister in the New England Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, 1871-1882; dean of the College of Liberal Arts of Boston University, 1882-1904, and has been president of Boston University since Jan., 1904. President Huntington is a member of the University and Ministers' Clubs of Boston, and the Neighbors' and Newton Golf Club of Newton Centre, Mass. He married at Newton, Mass., May 10, 1881, Ella M. Spere, and they have three children. Residence: Newton Centre, Mass. Office: 688 Boylston Street, Boston.

HURD, Arthur William:

Physician; born in Galesburg, Ill., Dec. 26, 1858; son of Henry Sterling and Eleanor Eunice (Hammond) Hurd. He was graduated from Knox College, Galesburg, Ill., A.B., 1880, A.M., 1883; and from the College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York City, M.D., 1883. He served as assistant physician at the Buffalo State Hospital, 1885-1894; and has been its superintendent since 1894. He was formerly professor of insanity in the University of Buffalo; and president of the Buffalo Academy of Medicine. Dr. Hurd is author of numerous papers on medical subjects, especially on insanity and kindred topics, and is a member of many professional bodies. He was married in Buffalo, N. Y., June 20, 1895, Mary Wheeler. Address: Buffalo State Hospital, Buffalo, N. Y.

HURD, Henry Mills:

Physician; born in Union City, Mich., May 3, 1843; son of Dr. Theodore Canfield and Ellen E. (Hammond) Hurd. He was educated in Knox College, and the University of Michigan, A.B., 1863, M.D., 1866; later receiving from that institution the degrees of A.M., 1870, and LL.D., 1895. Dr. Hurd was assistant physician in the Michigan Asylum for the Insane at Kalamazoo, 1870-1878; and assistant superintendent in the same in 1878. He was superintendent of the Eastern Michigan Asylum at Pontiac, 1878-1889; and since 1889 has been superintendent of Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, Md. He has also, since 1889, been editor of the Johns Hopkins Hospital Bulletin and the Johns Hopkins Hospital Reports, and since 1895 one of the editors of the American Journal of Insanity. Dr. Hurd was also, 1889-1906, professor of psychiatry in Johns Hopkins University. He has written extensively on medical and psychological subjects, particularly as to the treatment of the insane; also as to hospital and nurses' training school management, and is joint author with Dr. John S. Billings of: Hospitals, Dispensaries and Nursing, and of Hints to Hospital Visitors. He is member and ex-president of the American Medico-Psychological Association, member of the Association of American Physicians, American Academy of Medicine, American Medical Association, and American Public Health Association. Dr. Hurd is a member of the University and Johns Hopkins Clubs of Baltimore, and the Baltimore Country Club of Roland Park. He is also a member of the Maryland Lunacy Commission. Address: The Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore.

HURLBUT, Byron Satterlee:

Professor of English and dean of Harvard College; born at Shelburne, Vt., Feb. 10, 1865; son of Hiram Fuller and Roxey Jane (Satterley) Hurlbut. He was educated in public schools of Lynn, Mass., and Harvard College, from which he was graduated A.B., 1887, A.M., 1888. He was assistant in English, 1890-1891; instructor in English, 1891-1901; recording secretary of Harvard University, 1895-1902; assistant professor of English, 1901-1906; professor of English since 1906, and dean of Harvard College since 1902. He married at Beverly, Mass., July 12, 1904, Eda Adams Woolson, and they have two sons. Address: 32 Quincy Street, Cambridge, Mass.

HURRY, Edmund Abdy:

Lawyer; born New York City, Aug. 8, 1839; son of Edmund and Elizabeth M. (Flanagan) Hurry. He was graduated from Columbia, A.B., 1860, A.M., 1862; Columbia College of Law, LL.B., 1862. Captain's clerk and aide to his uncle, by marriage, Captain (afterward Commodore) Homer C. Blake, U. S. Navy, on U. S. S. Entaw, 1863-1864. He was under fire at Chapin's Bluff; was wounded at Bermuda Hundreds; on volunteer picket duty above Newbern, N. C., blockading off Fort Fisher; bearer of dispatches to the Hartford at Pensacola, Fla., on pontoon bridge at Cross of the James River by U. S. Army at City Point; present at reception given by President Lincoln in the Blue Room to the admiral and officers of the Russian fleet, and had the pleasure of conversing with President Lincoln. He was a volunteer nurse of our wounded and sick soldiers in New York City in the early summer of 1863. He practised law in New York City for some years; now retired from practice. Mr. Hurry is a director of the United States Fire Insurance Company. He has been much abroad in Europe; visited Crete, Turkey, Greece, Egypt; was present at Vatican at the beatification of two saints during the pontificate of Leo XIII, and present at other interesting ceremonials there and elsewhere. Member (formerly trustee and secretary) of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society, and has written on genealogical and semi-historical subjects for New York papers and other publications; also has made addresses in public in New York and other places. He was formerly trustee of the Eastern Dispensary and treasurer of the Babies' Hospital. Mr. Hurry is a vestryman of Trinity Church (Episcopal) at Saugerties, N. Y.; is a member of the St. Nicholas Society, St. George's Society, New York Genealogical and Biological Society, Metropolitan Museum of Art, American Geographical Society, and of the Union League, University, and Church Clubs of New York City, and the Saugerties Club, of Saugerties, N. Y. He married in New York City, Nov. 17, 1868, Emily Ashton Renwick, daughter of William Rhinelander Renwick; and they have seven children. Residence (summer): Clifton, Barclay Heights, Saugerties-on-Hudson, N. Y. Address: 122 East 39th Street, New York City.

HURST, Carleton Bailey:

Consul; born in Bremen, Germany (where his parents were temporarily residing), Aug. 16, 1867; son of Bishop John Fletcher Hurst, of the Methodist Episcopal Church of the United States, and of Catherine (La Monte) Hurst. He was educated at Phillips Academy, Exeter, N. H., at Harvard College (where he was editor of the Daily Crimson, and of the Harvard Advocate), and at the University of Tübingen, Germany, receiving from the latter the degrees of A.M. and Ph.D. He entered the consular service of the United States in 1892 under appointment of President Harrison as consul at Catania, Italy, was transferred to Crefeld, Germany, in 1893, to Prague, Bohemia, in 1895, to Vienna, Austria, in 1897, to La Guaira, Venezuela, in 1904; and in 1905 was transferred to his present post as American consul at Plauen, Saxony. Mr. Hurst has written much for the magazines on subjects of travel, as well as short stories in fiction. He married, Aug. 1, 1892, Harriette Hamlin Strobridge, daughter of Rev. George E.

Strobridge, D.D. Address: American Consulate, Plauen, Saxony, Germany.

HUSS, George Martin:

Architect; born Newark, N. J., July 23, 1853; son of George J. and Sophie R. (Holden) Huss; graduated College of the City of New York, B.S., 1873. Was one of the four successful competitors for designs for the Cathedral of St. John the Divine; one of three selected as supervising architect of United States Treasury Department at Washington; has translated from the French the article "Construction," from Viollet-le-due's Dictionnaire Raisonné, now published by The Macmillan Company as "Rational Building." He is a retired member, first class, of the Mendelssohn Glee Club; member New York Architectural League, New York Athletic Club (life member) National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C. He married, June, 1902, Del Kearney Fisher, and has one daughter and one son. Address: 65 Morningside Avenue, New York City.

HUTCHINGS, Richard Henry:

Physician; born Clinton, Ga., Aug. 28, 1869; son of Richard H. and Cornelia (Greaves) Hutchings. He was educated in Middle Georgia Military College, certificate 1887; University of Georgia, special course, 1887-1888; Bellevue (New York) Medical College, M.D., 1891. He was house physician in the almshouse and incurable hospital, Blackwell's Island, 1891-1892; appointed fourth assistant physician St. Lawrence State Hospital, after competitive civil service examination, 1893; subsequently promoted to third, second and first assistant, and in Sept., 1903, was appointed superintendent of that institution. Dr. Hutchings is lecturer on psychiatry in Syracuse University (Medical Department). He has been a frequent contributor to current medical literature, particularly relating to nervous and mental diseases; is interested in all that pertains to the care and treatment of the insane and the prevention of insanity, and in nursing and training schools for nurses, particularly those connected with hospitals for the insane. He is a member of the American Medical Association, the American Medical-Psychological Association, the Medical Society of New York State, and other scientific societies, and of the Century Club of Ogdensburg. He married in Milledgeville, Ga., in 1893, Lillie Beall Compton, and has two sons. He has a summer home near Saranac Lake, Adirondacks. Address: Ogdensburg, N. Y.

HUTCHINSON, Winfield S.:

Lawyer; born at Buckfield, Me., May 27, 1845; son of Stephen Drew and Mary (Atkinson) Hutchinson. He was graduated from Bowdoin College, A.B., 1867, A.M., 1870. He engaged in general practice of law, 1876-1892; then entered the service of the American Bell Telephone Company in a professional capacity and withdrew from other practice. He is vice-president of the Western Telephone and Telegraph Company, and director of the Central Union Telephone Company, the Duluth Telephone Company, the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, Northwestern Telephone Exchange Company, Southwestern Telegraph and Telephone Company, and the Wisconsin Telephone Company. He is a member of the Corporation of the Sarah Fuller Home for Deaf Children at West Medford, Mass., the Alpha Delta Phi fraternity, Hunnewell Club, and was the first president of the Unitarian Club of Newton, Mass. He married at Brunswick, Me., Jan. 1, 1870, Adelaide L. Berry, and they had one son, now deceased. Residence: 44 Billings Park, Newton, Mass. Office: 125 Milk Street, Boston.

HUTCHINSON, Woods:

Physician; born in Selby, Yorkshire, England, Jan. 3, 1862; son of Charles and Elizabeth (Woods) Hutchinson. He was educated in Quaker schools in Yorkshire, Penn College, Oskaloosa, Iowa, A.B., 1880, A.M., 1883, and the Medical Department of the University of Michigan, M.D., 1884. Dr. Hutchinson has been practicing medicine since 1884; professor of anatomy,

State University of Iowa, 1891-1896; professor of comparative pathology, London Medical Graduates' College, and lecturer on biology in the Extension Department of London University, 1899-1900. He was State health officer of Oregon, 1903-1905, and has been lecturer on clinical medicine in the New York Polyclinic since 1907. Dr. Hutchinson is author of: The Gospel According to Darwin, 1898; Studies in Human and Comparative Pathology, 1901; Play as an Education, 1904; Acromegaly and Gigantism, 1900; Instinct and Health, 1908. He is editor of: Vis Medicatrix, 1890-1891; The Polyclinic (London), 1899-1900; and is a contributor to the North American Review, Contemporary Review (London), Harper's Monthly, and other periodicals. He is a member of the Association of American Anatomists, Association of American Naturalists, a fellow of the American Academy of Medicine, and a member of the City Club of New York. He married in Des Moines, Iowa, May 15, 1893, Cornelia M. Williams, and has one son. Address: 38 East 49th Street, New York City.

HUTT, Henry:

Illustrator; born Chicago, Ill., Dec. 18, 1875. He was educated in the public schools and Art Institute of Chicago. He began work as illustrator in the West, but for the past few years has been a resident of New York City and regularly employed on the New York Magazines, through which the Hutt women have attained a fame almost parallel to that of the Gibson Girl. He has also illustrated several of the recent popular works of fiction. He married in New York City, Jan. 17, 1903, Edna Garfield Della Torre. Residence: 362 Riverside Drive. Address: Life Building, 19 West 31st Street, New York City.

HYDE, James Hazen:

Former vice-president of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States; born in New York City, June 6, 1876; son of Henry B. Hyde (founder and late president of the society) and Annie

F. Hyde. He was educated in New York City, and was graduated from Harvard as A.B., 1898. He was elected second vice-president Nov. 2, 1898, and vice-president May 10, 1899, of the Equitable Life, from which he resigned in 1905. He was several years president of the Alliance Française; gave $30,000 to the Cercle Français of Harvard for the Promotion of the study of French literature, and the French Government recognized his munificence by conferring on him the cross of the Legion of Honor; and he is now director of the Federation of French Alliances in the United States. Mr. Hyde is vice-president of the Mercantile Safe Deposit Company, the National Bank of Commerce, Coney Island and Brooklyn Railroad Company, and director in many other companies. He is a member of the Union, University, Lawyers', Press, Metropolitan, Racquet and Tennis, Turf, Grolier, Century, Tuxedo, South Side, Riding, Fencers', Meadow Brook, and Automobile Clubs. Address: 120 Broadway, New York City.

HYDE, William De Witt:

President of Bowdoin College; born in Winchendon, Mass., Sept. 23, 1858; son of Joel and Eliza (DeWitt) Hyde. He received his education at Phillips Exeter Academy, Harvard College, A.B., 1879, and Andover Seminary, and has received the D.D. degree from Harvard and the LL.D. degree from the University of Syracuse. He has been president of Bowdoin since 1885. He is author of: Social Theology; Practical Ethics; Practical Idealism; God's Education of Man; Jesus' Way; From Epicurus to Christ; and the College Man and the College Woman. President Hyde married, in 1883, Prudence M. Phillips. Address: Brunswick, Me.

HYSLOP, James Hervey:

Author and professor; born in Xenia, Ohio, Aug. 18, 1854; son of Robert Hyslop. He was graduated from Wooster (Ohio) University in 1877, received the degree of Ph.D. from Johns Hopkins University in 1887. He formerly taught in Lake Forest University, Smith College, Bucknell University, and Columbia, where he was professor of logic and ethics, resigning in 1902, to become secretary of the American Society of Psychical Research. He is author of: The Elements of Logic; Ethics of Hume; Elements of Ethics; Democracy; Logic and Argument; Syllabus of Psychology; Science and a Future Life; Enigmas of Psychical Research; Borderland of Psychical Research; Problems of Philosophy; also publications in Proceedings of the Society for Psychical Research. Professor Hyslop married in Philadelphia, in 1891, Mary Fry Hall. Address: 519 West 149th Street, New York City.

I

IDDINGS, Lewis M.:

Diplomatic officer; born in Ohio; appointed secretary of the Embassy at Rome Aug. 3, 1897; secretary of Embassy, Jan. 14, 1898; diplomatic agent and consul-general at Cairo, March 23, 1905. Address: American Diplomatic Agency, Cairo, Egypt.

IDE, Fannie Ogden:

Author; born in Brooklyn; daughter of Jonathan and Abigail (Murphey) Ogden. After attending private schools in Brooklyn, she married, in 1875, Charles W. Ide (who died in Nov., 1903), and she has a daughter, Alice Steele Ide. Mrs. Ide has written extensively under the pen-name of "Ruth Ogden," as contributor of verse and prose to magazines, and is author of the books: His Little Royal Highness; A Loyal Little Redcoat; Courage; Homespun; A Little Queen of Hearts; Loyal Hearts and True; Tattine, Friendship. Address: 43 Remsen Street, Brooklyn.

IDE, George Elmore:

Rear-Admiral. U. S. Navy; born in Zanesville, Ohio, Dec. 6, 1845; son of Dr. William E. and Angelina (Sullivan) Ide. He was appointed to the U. S. Naval Academy in 1861, and graduated in 1865.

In the summer of 1862 and 1864, while midshipman, cruised after Confederate steamers Tallahassee and Florida; in 1870, went to Greenland on Juniata in search of Polaris survivors, and same year took Virginius filibusters from Santiago, Cuba, to New York. Served on various ships, including the Kenosha, which, in 1871, escorted English battleship Monrach to Portland, Me., carrying remains of George Peabody, philanthropist; commanded steamer Justin off Santiago, during Spanish War; took United States steamer Yosemite to Guam, 1899, carrying governor of island and surveying the harbor, in view of making it a cable and coaling station in 1900; commanded United States steamship New Orleans, on Manila Station; thence to Navy Yard, Mare Island, California, as captain of yard until retired as rear-admiral, Sept. 26, 1901, after forty years' service. Rear-Admiral Ide is a member of the Metropolitan, City, New York Athletic and New York Yacht Clubs of New York City. He married at Fortress Monroe, Va., July 28, 1889, Alexandra Louise Bruen. Address: 1128 Madison Avenue, New York City.

IDE, Henry Clay:

Diplomat, lawyer; born in Barnet, Vt., Sept. 18, 1884; son of Jacob and Lodoska (Knights) Ide. He was graduated from Dartmouth College, A.B., 1866 (head of class); received LL.D. from that institution, 1900, and from Tufts' College in 1903. He was admitted to the bar in 1870, and practised in St. Johnsbury, Vt., and has been successively member of the law firms of Belden and Ide, Ide and Stafford, and Ide and Quinby. He was State's attorney of Vermont, 1878-1880; State senator, 1882-1885; president of the Republican State Convention of Vermont, 1884; a delegate to the Republican National Convention, 1888. In 1891 he was made U. S. commissioner to Samoa, and by joint appointment of the powers interested in the government of those islands was appointed chief justice in 1893, serving until 1897. In 1900 he was appointed one of the Philippine commissioners, serving successively as secretary of finance and justice, vice-governor and governor-general, terminating his service in the Philippines, after having made a brilliant record, in 1906. In April, 1909, he was appointed, by President Taft, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Spain, which position he now holds. He was president of the DuPont Manufacturing Company, director of the First National Bank, trustee of the Passumpsic Savings Bank and director of the Ely Hloe and Fork Company, of St. Johnsbury, Vt., the Tredegar National Bank, and Jacksonville Oil Mill Company of Jacksonville, Ala., and the Upper Coos and Coos Valley Railroad Company of Vermont. Following the financial difficulties of the Knickerbocker Trust Company of New York City, he was appointed receiver, 1907, and had much to do with the reorganization and reopening of that great institution. In 1907 he was also elected a director of the American Ice Company of New York. He is a member of the Vermont Bar Association, the Philippine Bar Association, and the University and Columbia Clubs of Manila, P. I., and is also a member of the Metropolitan Club, of Washington, D. C. He married at Stoughton, Mass., Oct. 14, 1871, Mary M. Melcher, who died April 13, 1892. Address: St. Johnsbury, Vt.

ILES, Robert S.:

Lawyer; born in Alexandria, Ky., Jan. 30, 1848; son of Nicholas and Martha (Smith) Iles. He received his education through instruction from his parents until he was seventeen years of age. He taught school for a time and entered the North Missouri State Normal School at Kirksville, Mo., from which he was graduated in 1875, taking a post-graduate course later and receiving the degree of A.M. He was superintendent of schools at Hiawatha, Kan., 1875-1881, studying law during the same period. He went to the Black Hills of Dakota in 1881 and engaged in cattle ranching. He was admitted to the Dakota bar in 1882, but removed to Chicago, Ill., in the same year, where he engaged in general practice. He was county attorney of Cook County, 1894-1900. He is a Republican, and was a member of the Cook County Central Committee from the Thirty-first Ward, 1891-1895. Mr. Iles is senior member of the firm of Iles & Martin. He was Supreme Archon of the Royal League three terms and is now supreme president of the North American Union. He is a member of the Hamilton and Colonial Clubs. He married, in 1876, Althea I. Davis of Butler, Mo., and has one daughter, Bertha. Residence: 669 Forty-eighth Street. Office: 59 Clark Street, Chicago.

MELVILLE EZRA INGALLS
Chairman Board Directors C. C. C. & St. L. R. R.

ILLOWAY, Henry:

Physician; born in Kolin, Bohemia, Nov. 29, 1848; son of Rev. Bernard and Katherine (Schiff) Illoway. He was educated in public schools and by private tutors, and his medical education was received in the Miami Medical College of Cincinnati, Ohio. Dr. Illoway was resident physician to the Cincinnati Hospital, 1869-1870; professor of the diseases of children in the Cincinnati College of Medicine and Surgery, and visiting physician to the Jewish Hospital in the same city. He is author of: Constipation in Adults and Children, With Special Reference to Habitual Constipation and Its Most Successful Treatment by the Mechanical Methods (Macmillan); The Summer Diarrheas of Infants (E. R. Pelton, New York); one of the collaborators on The American Text-Book of the Diseases of Children (Saunders); contributor to medical literature through the New York Medical Journal, New York Medical Record, American Journal of Medical Sciences, and other journals of this country and Germany. Dr. Illoway is a member of the Academy of Medicine, New York County Medical Society, Society of Medical Jurisprudence, German Medical Society, Harlem Medical Society, State Medical Society, and several others. Address: 1113 Madison Avenue, New York City.

INGALLS, Melville Ezra:

Chairman of Board of Directors of the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St.

Louis Railway; born on a farm in the town of Harrison, Me., Sept. 6, 1842. At sixteen he passed an examination as teacher in the minor branches and for three winters taught a country school, working on a farm in the summer months as before, and carefully saving his earnings to provide for his further education; he spent some time at the academy at Bridgeton, Me., and at Bowdoin College, but his moderate resources led him to abandon his ambitions for a complete college course, and to enter at once upon his professional training, which he took at the Harvard Law School, from which he was graduated in 1863. After practising for a short time at Gray, in Cumberland County, Me., he removed to Boston, where he soon became successful in a practice which became specialized along the line of the law of transportation. The stockholders of the Indianapolis, Cincinnati and Lafayette Railroad Company engaged him to straighten out the legal tangles in which that property had become involved, electing him president in 1870, and as the result of the litigation which followed, he was selected by the court in 1871, as receiver, to take charge of the property; but it again went into his hands as receiver as the result of litigation in 1876. In Nov., 1880, the road was reorganized as the Cincinnati, Indianapolis, St. Louis and Chicago Railway, and he became its president, the popular name of Big Four dating from that reorganization. In 1889 the road, with the Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati and Indianapolis Railway (the Bee Line) were consolidated under the present name of the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railway, of which he was president until Feb. 1, 1905, when he became chairman of the Board of Directors. From Oct. 1, 1888, to Feb. 1, 1900, he was also president of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, which he thoroughly rehabilitated; and from January, 1881, to October, 1883, he was also president of the Kentucky Central. As a citizen of Cincinnati from 1871, he has been a leader in efforts for the advancement and improvement of the city, in the building of the Exposition Buildings, the beautiful Art Museum, and the founding of the Art School of Cincinnati, and in other measures for the material welfare of the city of his home. Politically he is a Democrat of the Sound Money School. He was president of the National Civic Federation in 1905. Residence: East Walnut Hills, Cincinnati.

INGALLS, Melville E., Jr.:

Lawyer; born in Boston, Oct. 10, 1870; son of Melville E. and Abbie (Stinson) Ingalls. He was graduated from Harvard College, A.B., 1892; Harvard Law School, LL.B., 1892; was admitted to the New York bar and practised in the law office of Stetson, Jennings & Russell, after leaving the law school, and in April, 1900, formed a partnership with John S. Sheppard, under the name of Sheppard & Ingalls; later became associated with Judge William Rumsey, late judge of the New York Appellate Division, under name of Rumsey, Sheppard & Ingalls. Upon the death of Judge Rumsey his son was admitted to the firm. Mr. Ingalls has travelled much over the United States and Canada, and has visited Alaska, Cuba, England, Germany, France, Austria, Sweden, Norway, Russia and Switzerland. He is vice-president and a director of the Virginia Hot Springs Company, also a director and counsel for the Seaboard Transportation Company. He is a member of the New York City and State Bar Associations, of the Board of Managers of the J. Wood Wright Hospital, and of the University, Harvard, City Lunch, and Knollwood Country Clubs. Residence: 44 West 44th Street. Office: 26 Liberty Street, New York City.

INGALLS, Walter Renton:

Mining and metallurgical engineer, editor; born in Lynn, Mass., Oct. 25, 1865; son of Jerome and Emma (Renton) Ingalls. He was graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, S.B., 1886; engaged in mining at Leadville, Col., 1886-1890; assistant editor Engineering and Mining Journal, 1890-1892; mining and metallurgical engineer Pittsburgh and Mexican Tin Mining Company, Durango, Mexico, 1892; consulting mining engineer New York City, visiting, professionally, various mining districts in the United States, Canada, Belgium, Germany and Poland, especially in connection with the metallurgy of zinc, 1893-1894; metallurgist Gold and Silver Extraction Company, Limited, Denver and Cripple Creek, Col., 1895; superintendent Quien Sabe Smelter, Durango, Mexico, 1896; consulting engineer, New York City, and assistant editor, The Mineral Industry, 1897-1899; metallurgical engineer for American Zinc, Lead and Smelting Company, Columbia Lead Company, and Laharpe Zinc Smelting Company, 1899-1904; chief Canadian Zinc Commission, 1905-1906; since July 1, 1905, he has been editor of the Engineering and Mining Journal and of The Mineral Industry. Mr. Ingalls was a member of the jury at the St. Louis Exposition, 1904. He is a member of the American Institute of Mining Engineers, Institution of Mining and Metallurgy, American Chemical Society, Society of Chemical Industry, American Electrochemical Society, Mining and Metallurgical Society of America. He is author of: Production and Properties of Zinc, 1902; Metallurgy of Zinc and Cadmium, 1903; Notes on Metallurgical Mill Construction, 1906; Lead Smelting and Refining, 1906; Economic History of Lead and Zinc in the United States. Mr. Ingalls is a member of the Lawyers', Engineers', and Technology Clubs. He married at Stapleton, Staten Island, Oct. 26, 1898, Ella Gordon, and has three daughters. Residence: West New Brighton, Staten Island. Office: 505 Pearl Street, New York City.

INGALS, E. Fletcher:

Physician; born in Lee County, Ill., Sept. 29, 1848; son of Charles Francis and Sarah (Hawkins) Ingals. He was graduated from Rush Medical College, M.D., 1871. He began the teaching of medicine in 1871, and has taught several months annually ever since; in the Northwestern Woman's Medical School for several years, and continuously in Rush Medical College. Dr. Ingals has been honored by the presidency of the Illinois State Medical Society, American Laryngological Association, American Climatological Association, the Laryngological

Section of Pan-American Congress, and also of the American Medical Association, and of the Chicago Laryngological Society. He has been president of the Chicago Citizens' Association, was director of the Chicago Athletic Association three years, and trustee of the Journal of the American Medical Association for six years. Dr. Ingals is a member of the Chicago Athletic, University Club, Homewood Country, Quadrangle, and Reynolds Clubs. He married in Chicago, Sept. 5, 1876. Luey Storrs Ingals, and they have four children. Residence: 5540 Woodlawn Avenue. Office: 34 Washington Street, Chicago.

INGRAHAM, Darius Holbrook:

Lawyer; born in Camden, Me., Oct. 14, 1837; son of Samuel P. and Mary (Adams) Ingraham. He was educated in the schools of Maine and the United States Naval Academy. He was admitted to the bar of Maine in 1859, and was a member of the Maine Legislature in 1879, and has continuously been in Democratic politics in Maine. He entered the consular service of the United States in 1885 as consul to Cadiz, Spain, where he served until 1889; was sent to Morocco by the State Department to investigate the affairs of the American Consulate at Tangier, and received the thanks of the Department. He was mayor of Portland, Me., 1892-1893; Democratic candidate for Congress in 1892, and was American consul-general at Halifax, N. S., 1893-1897. Mr. Ingraham was the Democratic candidate for mayor of Portland, 1898, 1902 and 1903. He is a member and was formerly president of the Cumberland Club of Portland. Address: Portland, Me.

INGRAHAM, George L.:

Jurist; born in New York in 1847; son of Daniel P. and Mary (Landon) Ingraham. He was graduated from Columbia Law School, LL.B., 1869; admitted to bar, 1869; judge of the Superior Court of the City of New York, January, 1883; appointed May, 1891, and elected November, 1891, justice of the Supreme Court, for the First New York District, and reelected November, 1905, for term expiring Dec. 31, 1919; justice of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court since January, 1896. He is a Democrat in politics, and a member of the Century, Manhattan, Metropolitan, New York Yacht, and Tuxedo Clubs. Mr. Ingraham married, Dec. 4, 1872, Georgina Lent, and has a son and a daughter. Address: 80 Irving Place, New York City.

INGRAHAM, Henry C. M.:

Lawyer; born at Amenia, N. Y., May 2, 1838; son of George and Mary (Michelle) Ingraham. He was educated in Willbraham Academy, 1858-1860; was graduated from Wesleyan University, A.B., 1864, and afterward received the degrees of M.A., and LL.D. He was president of the Brooklyn Bar Association, 1899-1903; counsel of the Williamsburg Bridge Company to 1898; three years chairman of the Committee on Moral Character for Admission to the Bar in Second Department, State of New York; trustee of the Dime Savings Bank of Brooklyn; director of Glen Cove Bank. Mr. Ingraham is trustee and president of the board of trustees of Wesleyan University; trustee of Peking University, China; manager of the Board of Education of the Methodist Episcopal Church; manager of the American Bible Society; member of the Phi Beta Kappa Society and of the Hamilton Club of Brooklyn. He married at Des Moines, Iowa, Sept. 3, 1873, Winifred E. Andrews, and has four sons and three daughters. Address: 16 Court Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

INGRAM, Henry Atlee:

Lawyer; born in Philadelphia, Feb. 8, 1858; son of Thomas Robinson Ingram and Caroline Eugenia Girard (Hempkill) Ingram. He was educated at Friends' Central School, Philadelphia; Hill School, Pottstown, Pa.; Hallowell High School, Philadelphia; Swarthmore College, and the University of Pennsylvania, Towne Scientific School; was a law student with Francis Rawle, Esq., and later with Charles Gibbons, Jr., Esq., of Philadelphia; and was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania Law School, with degree of LL.B. in 1881. He was admitted to the bar of Philadelphia, 1881, and is a member of the bars of Supreme and Superior Courts of Pennsylvania, as well as the various lower courts, and of the United States Circuit and District Courts. He is actively engaged in the practice of law in Philadelphia; general counsel for the American Steel Corporation and its subsidiary companies; director of the Delaware and Lackawanna Steel Company. He is author of: The Life and Character of Stephen Girard, Mariner and Merchant (1884), used in Girard College, Philadelphia; Jean Girard de Montbrun (1886); Illustrated Girard College. From time to time has contributed articles, prose and verse, to various standard publications, including a number of translations from the French. After extensive travel in Europe, the United States and Canada, he was in 1888 elected secretary of the Pennsylvania Club, later a member of its Board of Governors, and chairman of its Elective Committee. Mr. Ingram was a member of the Committee which induced the late Mr. Blaine to reconsider his determination not to enter the State of Pennsylvania, in the celebrated State campaign of 1890. Mr. Ingram was president of the Franklin Scientific Society of the University of Pennsylvania, 1876. He is a member of the Union League of Philadelphia; of The Law Association; and of the Corinthian Lodge of Masons. Mr. Ingram married, July 27, 1899, at St. Asaph's Church, Bala, Pa., Jennie Isabel Bell, and they have three children. Address: Fairacre, Cynwyd, Montgomery County, Pa.

INNESS, George, Jr.:

Artist, painter: born in Paris, France, Jan. 5, 1854; son of George Inness, celebrated American artist and Elizabeth (Hart) Inness. He studied with his father at Rome, Italy, 1870-1874, and with Bonnat in Paris in 1875; lived in Boston 1876-1878; came to New York City, 1878; resided at Montclair, N. J., 1879-1894, at Paris, 1894-1899 exhibiting at the Salon each year (mention honorable, 1893, gold medal, 1899). He was made associate, 1894 and academician 1898, of the National Academy of Design and exhibits at the National Academy annually. Mr. Inness is an officer d'Académie, Paris; and a member of the Society of American Artists. He married in New York City, in 1879, Julia Roswell Smith. Residence: Cragmoor, Ulster County, N. Y. Studio: 51 Washington Square South, New York City.

INSULL, Samuel:

President of electric corporation; born in London, England, Nov. 11, 1859; son of Samuel and Emma (Short) Insull. After completing his education in public schools, Mr. Insull entered the employ of a firm of auctioneers and real estate agents first as office boy and was afterwards promoted to the position of stenographer. He later became the private secretary of Colonel George E. Gouraud, then the London representative of Mr. Edison, who was engaged in organizing the telephone business in England. Mr. Insull came to the United States in 1881, and became private secretary to Mr. Thomas A. Edison, and for years had active charge of Mr. Edison's business affairs. He built and managed for Mr. Edison the plant of the Edison Machine Works at Schenectady, N. Y., and was connected with the management of the Edison Lamp Company and Electric Tube Company. On the consolidation of the various Edison interests with the Edison Electric Light Company, he became second vice-president of the Edison General Electric Company in charge of the manufacturing and selling departments, which same office he held in the General Electric Company, which company was formed to consolidate the Edison and Thomson-Houston Companies. Mr. Insull resigned that position in June, 1892, to become president of the Chicago Edison Company. He also became president of the Commonwealth Electric Company on its formation and is now president of the consolidated company known as the Commonwealth Edison Company. He is also president of the North Shore Electric Company and the Economy Light and Power Company, which together with the Commonwealth Edison Company control practically the entire electric lighting interests of Chicago and its vicinity. He is also an officer and director of various electrical corporations in other cities. He is a member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. He married in New York City May 24, 1899, Margaret A. Bird. Residence: 23 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago. Office: 139 Adams Street, Chicago.

IRELAND, John:

Archbishop of St. Paul; born in Ireland, Sept. 11, 1838; emigrated to America in 1849 with his parents and settled in St. Paul, Minn. He was educated in the Cathedral School of Saint Paul, and the Petit Séminaire at Meximeux, and in divinity at the Grand Séminaire at Hyères, France, from which he was graduated in 1861. He was ordained priest by Bishop Grace at St. Paul, Dec. 21, 1861; was appointed chaplain of the Fifth Minnesota Volunteers and went with the regiment to the front, and after a service of two years returned to St. Paul and was appointed rector of the Cathedral and secretary of the diocese, holding both these positions until his consecration as titular bishop of Maronea and bishop coadjutor to Bishop Grace, Dec. 1, 1875. He organized the first total abstinence society in Minnesota, in 1869, and founded a regular system of temperance societies in connection with the various parishes. He worked especially for the colonization of the Northwest and was a director of the National Colonization Society, settled nine hundred Catholic colonists in Minnesota in 1876, and many afterward. He succeeded to the see of St. Paul on the resignation of Bishop Thomas Grace, July 31, 1884, and when, four years later, his diocese was raised to a metropolitan see he was made its first archbishop. Archbishop Ireland was for several years president of the Minnesota State Historical Society. He is author of: The Church and Modern Society, 1896, and of many important contributions to church and secular journals. Address: St. Paul, Minn.

IRVIN, Elihu C.:

President of the Fire Association of Philadelphia; born near Harrisburg, Pa., May 22, 1839. Receiving an ordinary school education, he was for a time school teacher at Duncannon, and afterward entered the Duncannon Iron Works, in which his ability and activity led to his being made manager of the works. He entered the fire insurance business in 1869 as agent for Pennsylvania of the Germania Fire Insurance Company of New York, continuing with this company till 1874, when he became general agent of the Phoenix Fire Insurance Company, of Hartford, Conn. He then made Philadelphia his place of residence, and has since dwelt in that city. His field of action was a wide one, covering nearly the whole Atlantic section of the United States. In 1884 he was offered and accepted the vice-presidency of the Fire Association of Philadelphia, and in 1891 was elected its president. This position he still fills. Mr. Irvin has done much to develop the resources and business of this company, which dates back to 1817, but has gained a new activity under his control, and has now a large surplus, while paying excellent dividends. Residence: 1900 North 13th Street. Office: 407 Walnut Street, Philadelphia.

IRVING, George W.:

Merchant and banker; born in Woodstock, N. B., Aug. 24, 1860; son of Robert and Elizabeth (Beacon) Irving. He was educated in the public schools of Presque Isle, Me. Mr. Irving served two terms in the Maine Legislature and the Maine Senate, 1901-1907. He is president and director of the Caribou National Bank, the Caribou Water, Light and Power Company, Caribou Sewer Company, Caribou Hydraulic Stone Company, and the Irving and Ricker Company and he is director and treasurer of the Aroostook Realty Company. He is a Knight Templar, Shriner, Odd Fellow, and a member of several beneficiary societies. Mr. Irving is identified with the Republican party, and is a member of the Universalist Church. Address: Caribou, Aroostook County, Me.

IRWIN, Agnes:

Dean of Radcliffe College; born in Washington, D. C., Dec. 30, 1841; daughter of Hon. William W. Irwin, M. C., and Sophia A. (Bahe) Irwin, of Pittsburgh. Miss Irwin was educated in private schools and afterward engaged in educational work, first in the private school of Mrs. Hoffman in New York City, and afterward conducting a private school of her own in Philadelphia until called in 1894 to her present position as dean of Radcliffe College, Cambridge, Mass. She has received the honorary degree of LL.D. from the Western University of Pennsylvania (now University of Pittsburgh) and from the University of St. Andrews, Scotland; and the degree of Litt.D. from the University of Pennsylvania; was a member of the Massachusetts Commission to the Paris Exposition of 1900 and is a member of the Massachusetts Commission on the Adult Blind. Address: Cambridge, Mass.

IRWIN, James Clark:

Railroad engineer; born in Cheyney, Pa., Sept. 3, 1868, son of William Henry and Catherine Browning (Clark) Irwin. He was educated in the Protestant Episcopal Academy of Philadelphia and the University of Pennsylvania, B.S., 1890, and C.E., 1891. During his college course he was engaged in railroad work, in which he has spent most of his life. His earlier work also included terms of service with the Atlantic Refining Company of Philadelphia, and of instruction in the University of Pennsylvania. He has been with the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad since 1892, having constructed the block signal system from Albany to Buffalo; reconstructed the Mohawk and Adirondack Divisions; was general assistant to the chief engineer and engineer of signals; assistant to the general superintendent; and superintendent of the Lake Erie Alliance and Wheeling Railroad. In 1903 he became attached to the staff of the vice-president of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad; was superintendent of construction of the Electric Zone, 1906-1907; from 1907 to date has been resident engineer of the Grand Central Terminal improvements. He is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, the American Railway Engineering and Maintenance of Way Association, the New York Railroad Club, the Railway Signal Association, the National Geographic Society, and the American Forestry Association. He is also a member of the Committee of Management of the Railroad Y. M. C. A. in New York. He married in West Chester, Pa., June 5, 1895, Frances Smith Monaghan, and has four sons. Residence: Hastings-on-Hudson, N. Y. Office: Grand Central Station, New York City.

IRWIN, William Henry:

Journalist, author; born in Oneida, N. Y., Sept. 14, 1873; son of David S. and Edith Emily (Greene) Irwin. He was graduated from Denver High School, 1892; Leland Stanford University, A.B., 1899. He was on the staff of the San Francisco Wave as assistant editor and editor, 1899-1901; on staff of San Francisco Chronicle, 1901-1904; reporter, New York Sun, 1904-1905; managing editor, McClure's Magazine, 1906; staff writer Collier's from 1907. Mr. Irwin is author of: Stanford Stories (with C. K. Field), 1900; The Reign of Queen Isyl (with Gelett Burgess), 1903; The Picaroons (with Gelett Burgess), 1904; The Hamadryads (verse), 1904; The City That Was, 1906; The Untamed Warrior, 1909; The Confessions of a Con Man, 1909; and he is a frequent contributor of fiction and articles to magazines. Mr. Irwin is a member of the Bohemian Club of San Francisco, Cliff Dwellers Club of Chicago, and The Players, New York City. Residence: 111 East 23d Street. Office: 44 East 23d Street, New York City.

ISAACS, David:

Hotel proprietor; born in New York City, in 1848; enlisted at the age of 13 and during Civil War served in Union Army as bugler in the Fifth New York Cavalry. Began business career with Erie Railway at Niagara Falls and later in charge of company's general ticket office in Buffalo, New York; resigned position and opened Prospect House at Niagara Falls on Canadian side; conducted business there fourteen years, when that site was taken by the Canadian Government for Niagara Falls Park, 1887, built the new Prospect House on the American side, of which he still owner and director. President of the Cataract and International Hotels Company; special correspondent for several important newspapers. Was railroad contractor and built several miles of Canadian Pacific Railroad in the Rocky Mountains, and many miles of Grand Trunk Railway in Muskoka; ex-president of the First National Bank of Niagara Falls; vice-president of the New York Hotel Association; director of the Board of Colonial and Foreign Governors of Hotel Protective Society of England; member of the Buffalo Exempt Volunteer Firemen's Association, having served seven years as active member and trustee of Eagle Hose Company No. 2, in the Buffalo Volunteer Fire Department, winning gold badge of merit; now active fire commissioner of Niagara Falls paid Fire Department; formerly harbor commissioner. Mason, Knight Templar and member of the Mystic Shrine; past junior vice-commander of the Department of New York, Grand Army of the Republic, with rank of general; companion of first class Military Order Loyal Legion; ex-president of the Fifth New York Veteran Volunteer Cavalry Association; honorary member of the Veteran Association, Forty-second Separate Company, National Guard of New York. Mr. Isaacs is a member of the Adirondack Shooting, North Channel Shooting, Toronto Shooting (Long Point, Canada), Winnipeg Gun Clubs. Address: Niagara Falls, N. Y.

ISELIN, Charles Oliver:

Banker, yachtsman; son of Adrian and Eleanora (O'Donnell) Iselin. He was graduated from Columbia University, LL.B., 1877. Owner of racing yacht Vigilant and managing owner of the Columbia and other cup defenders in recent races. Mr. Iselin is a member of the banking firm of A. Iselin & Company. He is a member of the Union, Country, Knickerbocker, Larchmont Yacht, New York Yacht, New York Athletic, Tuxedo, Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht, Racquet and Tennis, and Turf and Field Clubs and the Automobile Club of America. He married, first, Frances, daughter of the late Thomas Garner, Jr., and second, Hope, daughter of Colonel William Goddard, of Providence, R. I., and has two daughters and two sons. Residence: New Rochelle, N. Y. Address: 36 Wall Street, New York City.

ISELIN, Columbus O'Donnell:

Banker; son of Adrian and Eleanora (O'Donnell) Iselin. He is a member of the firm of A. Iselin and Company; president and director of the New Rochelle Water Company; vice-president and director of the New Rochelle Homestead Company, New York Dock Company; trustee New York Life Insurance and Trust Company; treasurer and director of the Allegheny and Western Railway Company, Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railway Company, Clearfield and Mahoning Railway Company, Helvetio Realty Company, Jefferson and Clearfield Coal and Iron Company, Johnsonburg and Bradford Railroad Company, Mahoning Valley Railroad Company, Manhattan Storage and Warehouse Company, Reynoldsville and Falls Creek Railroad. Mr. Iselin is a member of the Union, Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht, Down Town, University, Knickerbocker, Metropolitan, Country, Larchmont Yacht, New York Yacht, and Riding. He married Edith C. Jones. Residence: 3 West 52d Street. Office: 36 Wall Street, New York City.

ISELIN, William E.:

Dry goods commission merchant; born in New York City, Jan. 11, 1848; son of Adrian and Eleanora (O'Donnell) Iselin. He was graduated from Columbia College, A.B., 1869. Mr. Iselin is a member of the firm of William Iselin & Company; director of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh Railway Company, and the New Rochelle Water Company. He is prominent in club life as a member of the Union, Delta Phi, Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht, City, Knickerbocker, Eastern Yacht, Larchmont Yacht, New York Yacht, Metropolitan, Riding, Country, Catholic, and Merchants' Clubs and the Automobile Club of America. He married in New York City, April 5, 1877, Alice Rogers Jones, and has three sons. Residence: 745 Fifth Avenue. Office: 1 Greene Street, New York City.

ISHAM, Ralph:

Real estate; born in Chicago, Feb. 13, 1865; son of Ralph N. and Katherine E. (Snow) Isham. After being graduated from Harvard in 1889, he became connected with the Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railroad Company, in 1890. He was with the Illinois Steel Company, 1890-1899; secretary of the Chicago Union Transfer Railway Company, 1899-1905; and has been in the real estate business since 1905. He is a Republican in politics and a Presbyterian in religious belief. He is a member of the Sons of the Revolution of the State of Illinois (vice-president), the National Geographic Society, National Forestry Association, Delta Kappa Epsilon; and is also a member of the University, Chicago Athletic, Onwentsia, Saddle and Cycle, and South Shore Country Clubs of Chicago. Mr. Isham was married in Rochester, New York, to Mary Louise Otis, and they have one son, Albert Keep Isham, born Jan. 9, 1894. Address: 11 Ritchie Place, Chicago.

ISHAM, Samuel:

Artist; born in New York City, May 12, 1855; son of William Bradley and Julia (Burhans) Isham. He was educated in Phillips Andover Academy, and graduated from Yale University, B.A., 1875. After graduation he traveled and studied abroad for three years; returned to New York City, studied law and was admitted to the bar; in 1883 went to Paris and entered the Académie Julian, and studied painting under Boulanger and Lefebvre. Since 1887 he has followed his profession in New York City. He is a member of the Society of American Artists; academicien of the National Academy of Design; was a member of the jury of the Buffalo Pan-American Exposition and was awarded the silver medal of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, 1904. Mr. Isham is author of: History of American Painting, 1905 (Macmillan). He is a trustee of the American Fine Arts Society and a member of the Century, Metropolitan, Riding, University, Players', and Salmagundi Clubs of New York City. Address: 5 East 61st Street, New York City.

ISRAELS, Charles Henry:

Architect; born in New York City, Dec. 23, 1865; son of Lehman and Florence Z. (Lazarus) Israels. He was educated in the Irving Institute, Tarrytown, N. Y., and Art Students' League, Paris, France. He traveled in Europe, 1889-1890, for study, took two trips to the West Indies, 1902-1903; and is now a member of the firm of Israel and Harder, architects. The firm has designed many notable structures, among them the Hudson (N. Y.) Theatre, Hahnemann Monument, Scott Circle, Washington, D. C. Hotels: The Devon, Warrington, Arlington, Walton, Howard, Hampton and Holland hotels, New York City; Lord & Taylor's Fifth Avenue store, the Silo Building, etc. Mr. Israels has been active in politics in the Republican and Citizens' Union organizations, and was five years member of the executive committee of the West Side Republican Club. He was for three years member of the executive committee of the Architectural League of New York; charter member of the Municipal Art Society; director of the West Side Mutual Building Loan and Savings Association; member of the New York Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, Military Order of the Loyal Legion, Municipal Art Society (chairman of committee on Street Fixtures, Building Code Revision Commission). He is a member of the Republican, West Side Republican, and National Arts Clubs. He married in New York City, Nov. 9, 1903, Belle Linder, and has a son and a daughter. Address: 179 West 97th Street, New York City.

IVERSON, Samuel G.:

State auditor of Minnesota; born in Rushford, Minn., April 21, 1859; son of John and Gunhild (Gunderson) Iverson. He was educated at the Law College of the University of Minnesota, was admitted to the bar, and practised successfully. He was appointed postmaster at Rushford, Minnesota, in 1881; elected a member of the Minnesota Legislature in 1886, and the following year entered the State auditor's office as accountant, was appointed deputy State treasurer, 1891, and deputy State auditor in 1895, his record in that office winning him the election of State auditor in 1902, and reelection in 1906 for the term expiring in 1911. He has a national reputation as an expert in state accounts. He is a Mason, an Odd Fellow, a Knight of Pythias, a Red Man, an Elk, and a Modern Woodman, and is a member of the Commercial and Norden Clubs of St. Paul. He married in Rushford, Minnesota, April 4, 1900, Calista B. Retel. Residence: 698 Marshall Avenue. Office: State Capitol, St. Paul, Minn.

IVES, Brayton:

Capitalist; born in Farmington, Conn., 1840. He was graduated from Yale University, 1861. He served in the Civil War, being honorably mustered out in 1865, with the rank of brevet brigadier-general. General Ives has been vice-president and president of the New York Stock Exchange. He is president and director of the Standard Milling Company, Metropolitan Trust Company, Hecker-Jones-Jewell Milling Company, Kanona and Prattsburgh Railway Company, Metcalf Land Company; chairman of the Board of Directors of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company; director of the Atlantic Safe Deposit Company, National Bank of Commerce, United States Guarantee Company. He is a member of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion, the Century, Grolier, Metropolitan, Turf and Field, New York Yacht, The Brook, Union League, University, and Lawyers' Clubs. Residence: 33 East 39th Street, New York City.

IVES, Frederick E.:

Inventor, manufacturer; born in Litchfield, Conn., Feb. 17, 1856; son of Hubert I. and Ella A. (Beach) Ives. He was educated in the public schools; became printer's apprentice, 1869-1871; printer and amateur photographer, 1871-1873; in charge of the photographic laboratory of Cornell University, 1874-1878; inventor of the first successful process (and the name) of "half-tone" photo-engraving; also of the half-tone process now universally employed, and of the half-tone tri-chromatic process; inventor of the Kromskop system of color photography, the parallax stereogram, glass sealed spectroscope gratings, the multiple slit diffraction chronoscope, etc.; has taken out about thirty patents and been awarded sixteen medals by scientific societies at home and abroad for original work, and inventions, chiefly in applied optics. He has lectured before the principal scientific bodies in England and the United States. He is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Royal Photographic Society, Royal Microscopical Society; member: Franklin Institute, American Microscopical Society; honorary member of the Photographic Society of Philadelphia, etc.; consulting expert of the Ives Inventions Company of New York City. He married at Milford, N. Y., Mary E. Ohmstead (died April 7, 1904) and has one son. Address: Woodcliff-on-Hudson, Weehawken, N. J.

IVINS, William Mills:

Lawyer; born at Freehold, N. J., April 16, 1851; son of Augustus and Sarah (Mills) Ivins. He removed in early childhood to Brooklyn, and was one of the first graduates of Adelphi Academy in that city. After his graduation he was for a time in the employ of D. Appleton & Company, publishers, but left their employ to enter Columbia Law School. He was admitted to the bar of New York in 1873, and the United States Supreme Court in 1879. He began practice in Brooklyn as a member of the firm of Bergen and Ivins. He was soon active in politics and took part in the movement headed by General Sloeum against the Brooklyn ring. In 1879 he conducted the prosecution of the O'Reilly cases, resulting in the imprisonment of the Brooklyn Board of Aldermen for contempt of court. He was private secretary to Mayor Grace, of New York, in 1881; was a school commissioner of the City of New York, 1883-1886; city chamberlain of New York, 1885-1889, during the administrations of Mayors Grace and Hewitt. He was judge-advocate general of the State of New York, 1886-1888; was counsel for the Senate Committee on Cities in 1891, and took an active part in the movement for ballot reform which culminated in the general adoption of the Australian ballot. Among his most interest clients were the late Mme. Blavatsky, and the late General Garcia. He has traveled widely throughout South America, and is an expert in the rubber business. As a lawyer, Mr. Ivins has had charge of numerous cases of international importance, and he is now head of the firm of Ivins, Mason, Wolff and Hogue. He was the Republican candidate for mayor of New York City in 1905. In 1907, after the passage of the bill to establish the New York City Utilities Commission, he was appointed special counsel of the commission, and conducted the investigation of the Metropolitan Street Railway System. He is a member of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York and of the Manhattan, Union League, Republican, Down Town, New York Yacht, Lawyers', Riding and Barnard Clubs of New York City, and the St. Stephen's Club of London. He is a member and chairman of the New York Charter commission, recently appointed by Governor Hughes. Mr. Ivins married, in 1879, Emma L. Yard, of Freehold, N. J., and he has two sons and two daughters. Residence: 55 East 25th Street. Office: 27 William Street, New York City.

J

JACCACI, August F.:

Painter, author, editor; born in Paris, in 1857. He was educated abroad; became a citizen of the United States in 1888; was one of the editors of McClure's Magazine at its foundation, and for several years art editor of Scribner's Magazine. He is the author of: On the Trail of Don Quixote, 1896 (Scribner's); and coeditor with John La Farge of Noteworthy Paintings in American Private Collections. He is a member of the Century and Grolier Clubs. Address: Locust Valley, L. I., and 7 West 43d Street, New York City.

JACKSON, Abraham Valentine Williams:

Educator, Orientalist and archaeologist; born in New York City, Feb. 9, 1862; son of David Sherwood and Elizabeth Sandford (Williams) Jackson. He was graduated from Columbia College, A.B., 1883 at head of class; received prize fellowship in letters at Columbia, held it for three years, 1883-1886; instructor in Anglo-Saxon and Iranian languages in Columbia, 1886-1887; student, University of Halle, Germany, 1887-1889, devoting special attention to Oriental languages, as well as to Anglo-Saxon. He was instructor, 1889-1891; adjunct professor of English language and literature, 1891-1895, and was appointed in 1895 to fill the newly founded chair as professor of Indo-Iranian languages at Columbia, which he stills holds. Professor Jackson has lectured much in public on subjects relating to the Orient and to English literature. He has traveled in the East for purposes of study and research, visited India and Ceylon, 1901, receiving special attention from the Parsis, and made an extensive journey through Persia and Central Asia in 1903 and again in 1907, for archaeological investigations the result of which have since been published. He is author of: A Hymn of Zoroaster, 1888 (Stuttgart); An Avesta Grammar in Comparison with Sanskrit, 1892 (Stuttgart); An Avesta Reader, 1893; Zoroaster, the Prophet of Ancient Iran, 1898; Die iranische Religion, 1900, 1904 (Strassburg); Persia Past and Present, 1906; also various Iranian and Sanskrit studies in learned journals at home and abroad. He also edited a History of India, nine volumes, 1906-1907. Since graduation from college he has been a member and is now a director of the American Oriental Society. He has been a trustee of the Board of Education of Yonkers, N. Y., 1898-1909, and a trustee of the Yonkers Public Library. Professor Jackson is a member of the Century Association of New York and the Psi Upsilon fraternity, also Royal Arch Mason and Knight Templar. He married at Yonkers, N. Y., June 25, 1889, Dora Elizabeth, daughter of John P. Ritter of the New York Clearing House. Residence: 10 Highland Place, Yonkers, N. Y. Office: Columbia University, New York City.

JACKSON, Charles Eben:

Banker; born at Middletown, Conn., Jan. 15, 1849; son of Ebenezer and Hannah Sage (Hubbard) Jackson. He is a descendant of General Michael Jackson, of Newton, Mass., who, with his five sons, served all through the Revolutionary War as officers, thus giving Mr. Jackson's family six memberships in the Society of the Cincinnati, an unequalled record in that society. He is also descended from the Fenwicks and Draytons of South Carolina. He received an education in private schools and at St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H. Mr. Jackson is president of the Jackson Company, vice-president of the Middlesex Banking Company, and trustee and treasurer of the trustees of the Berkeley Divinity School since 1869. He is member of the Connecticut Historical Society, the Middlesex County Historical Society, trustee of the Missionary Society of Connecticut, and Indian Hill Cemetery Association, member of the Massachusetts Society of the Cincinnati, and one of the Standing Committee of that society, the St. Nicholas Club of New York, and the Church Club of Connecticut. Mr. Jackson married in Stamford, Conn., June 12, 1873, Evelyn Quintard, daughter of Edward A. Quintard, and they have seven children. Residence: 392 Washington Street. Office: 163 Court Street, Middletown, Conn.

JACKSON, Daniel Dana:

Sanitary engineer and chemist; born in Gloucester, Mass., Aug. 1, 1870; son of Daniel and Lucy Agnes (Langford) Jackson. He was graduated from Gloucester High School; Allen's English and Classical School, West Newton, Mass., and Massachusetts Institute of Technology, B.S., in 1893. He was successively chemist of the Boston Water Works, biologist of the Massachusetts State Board of Health, bacteriologist of Worcester, Mass., lecturer at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, chief chemist of the Brooklyn Water Supply. He is now director of the Laboratories of the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity of New York City and is also in general practice as sanitary engineer and chemist and expert on water supply and sewage disposal. He is the author of numerous papers and reports on sanitary engineering, chemistry, microscopy and bacteriology.

Mr. Jackson is a member of the Society of the Cincinnati of Massachusetts; of the Advisory Committee of One Hundred to the borough president of Brooklyn and special Committee on Public Health; of the Merchants' Association's Special Committee on Pollution of the Waters of New York, the International Zoological Congress; Board of Directors; was Municipal Engineer of New York City; American Public Health Association; American Microscopical Society; American Chemical Society; Society of Chemical Industry; Prospect Heights Citizens' Association; New England Water Works Association, and Society of Arts. He is also a member of the Chemists', Brooklyn Engineers', Montank and Washington Clubs. He married in Brooklyn, Nov. 26, 1902, Ella Howard Phillips, and they have one son. Address: 941 President Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

JACKSON, Douglas V.:

Jurist; born in Muscatine, Iowa, Nov. 17, 1859; son of Peter and Christiana (Sinclair) Jackson. He was graduated from Northwestern University as B.L. in 1879, and from the State University of Iowa in 1881. He began to practise law in Muscatine, Iowa, in 1881; was elected county attorney in 1894 and declined reelection; was elected judge of the District Court in 1902 and reelected in 1906. He is vice-president and director of the First National Bank and is a director of the Muscatine Savings Bank. He served as colonel in the Second Regiment of Iowa National Guard, and as colonel in the Fiftieth Regiment of Iowa Volunteer Infantry during the Spanish-American War. Judge Jackson is a trustee of the Hershey Memorial Hospital of Muscatine. He married in Muscatine, Iowa, Sept. 14, 1885, Alberta C. Jackson, and they have two children. Residence: 513 West Third Street. Address: Court House, Muscatine, Iowa.

JACKSON, Dugald C.:

Engineer, educator; born at Kennett Square, Pa., Feb. 13, 1865; son of Josiah and Mary Detweiler (Price) Jackson. He was educated in the Hill School at Pottstown, Pa., the Pennsylvania State College, civil engineering course, and graduated as B.S. in 1885 and C.E. in 1887. He was a fellow and instructor in electrical engineering at Cornell University, 1885-1887. Mr. Jackson was connected with the Sprague Electric Railway and Motor Company and other Edison interests, in important engineering and administrative positions, 1887-1891; became professor of electrical engineering at the University of Wisconsin, in the fall of 1891 upon the establishment of that chair, and remained at the head of that strong department until recently. He is now professor of electrical engineering and head of the department of electrical engineering at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Mr. Jackson is also a consulting engineer, and senior member of the engineering firm of D. C. and William B. Jackson, Chicago and Boston; and is inventor and patentee of numerous devices. He is a director of the Central Wisconsin Trust Company, Madison, and the Cutler Hammer Clutch Company, of Milwaukee, Wis. He is chairman of the engineer commission now advising the City of Chicago on the telephone franchise situation. Mr. Jackson is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, American Institute of Electrical Engineers, Western Society of Engineers, and Franklin Institute; president of the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education, member of Sigma Xi and of the Phi Kappa Sigma, and Tau Beta Pi fraternities; the Union League and Engineers' Clubs of Chicago, the Milwaukee Club, and the Maple Bluff Golf Club of Madison, Wis. He married at Orono, Me., Sept., 1889, Mabel A. Foss, and they have two children. Residence: Brookline, Mass. Office: Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Boston.

JACKSON, Frank D.:

Ex-governor; born in Arcade, N. Y., Jan. 26, 1854; son of Hiram W. Jackson and Marion (Jenks) Jackson. He removed to Iowa in boyhood; was educated in the public schools of Jessup, Iowa, and the Iowa State Agricultural College, and was graduated from the law department of Iowa State University in 1874. He was secretary of the State Senate for two terms, and secretary of State for three terms, and was governor of Iowa, 1894-1896. He was elected, in 1899, president of the Royal Union Life Insurance Company of Des Moines. Address: Des Moines, Iowa.

JACKSON, Gabrielle Emilie:

Author; born in New York City, Oct. 13, 1861; daughter of Isaac Snow, eighth in direct descent from Stephen Hopkins, one of the signers of the compact signed and drawn at Provincetown, Mass., Nov. 11, 1620, and of Anna Amelia (Brush) Snow. She was graduated from Carlisle Institute in New York City, 1879, and she was married at Nyack-on-Hudson, N. Y., Dec. 15, 1886, to John William Jackson, and has a daughter, Eloise Denise, born Jan. 5, 1889. Mrs. Jackson began her literary work by writing for St. Nicholas, in which her first story was published in 1895, followed by serials, and she has also written for many other magazines, juvenile and adult. She is author of: Denise and Ned Toodles; Another Year with Denise and Ned Toodles; More Ned Toodles Tales; Pretty Polly Perkins; Big Jack; Little Comrade; The Colburn Prize; Caps and Capers; Doughnuts and Diplomas; Little Miss Sunshine; A Blue Grass Beauty; Three Graces; Three Graces at College; Sunlight and Shadow; Little Miss Cricket; Little Miss Cricket's New Home; Little Miss Cricket at School; Adventures of Tommy Postoffice; Mother and Daughter; Don'ts for Mother; Dawn of Womanhood Essays; Wee Winkles and Wideawake; Wee Winkles at the Mountains. Mrs. Jackson is a member of the Woman's Club of Orange. Address: 42 State Street, East Orange, N. J.

JACKSON, George Thomas:

Physician; born in New York City, Dec. 19, 1852; son of George T. and Letitia J. A. (Macauley) Jackson. He was educated private and public schools of New York City, and through the freshman class of the College of the City of New York; was graduated from the College of Physicians and Surgeons (Columbia), M.D., 1878; member staff, Charity Hospital, 1877-1878; post-graduate work in Berlin, Vienna and Strassburg, 1878-1880. Dr. Jackson has been engaged in the practice of medicine in New York City since 1880, and is a specialist in dermatology. He is author of: Diseases of Hair and Scalp, 1887, second edition, 1894; Ready Reference Handbook of Skin Diseases, 1892, sixth edition, 1908; also many papers in medical journals. Dr. Jackson is a member of the New York State Medical Society, New York County Medical Society, American Medical Association, New York Academy of Medicine, American Dermatological Association, New York Dermatological Society, Alumni Association City Hospital and Presbyterian Hospital. He is consulting dermatologist to the Presbyterian Hospital, and to the New York Infirmary for Women and Children. He is professor of dermatology in the medical department, Columbia University (College of Physicians and Surgeons). He is a member of the Century Association, Metropolitan Museum of Art, and American Museum of Natural History. He married in Montclair, N. J., Oct. 30, 1878, Caroline G. Weidemeyer; they have three children. Residence: 692 West End Avenue. Office: 11 East 48th Street, New York City.

JACKSON, George Washington:

Civil engineer; born in Chicago, July 21, 1861. He was educated in the public schools of Chicago and at Oxford, England. He became a civil engineer and has been engaged in engineering and contracting since 1883. Prominent among the works on which he has been engaged are the Strickler Tunnel through Pike's Peak, the fourteen-foot subway at Reading, Pa., the pneumatic tube system at Chicago for the Associated Press, the Wentworth Avenue drainage system of Chicago, a large percentage of the underground systems for the Chicago Telephone Company, the Postal-Telegraph-Cable Company and the Western Union Telegraph Company, besides similar systems in Columbus, Ohio; Indianapolis, Muscatine, Iowa; Philadelphia, and other cities. He was the engineer and contractor for the entire system of tunnels in Chicago for the Illinois Telephone Construction Company, and was the consulting engineer for the transportation committee of Chicago in working out the traction problem. He was also the hydraulic engineer for the high pressure water commission of the city of Chicago. He is president of the contracting company of George W. Jackson, Incorporated. Mr. Jackson is a member of the Western Society of Engineers, and of the fraternal organizations of Masons and Elks. He married in Chicago, in 1883, Rose Tracy Casey, and has two children. Residence: 5309 Washington Boulevard. Office: 169 to 179 West Jackson Boulevard, Chicago.

JACKSON, Holmes Condict:

Physiological chemist and educator; born in New York City, Feb. 18, 1875; son of William Holmes and Jane E. (Freeman) field Scientific School of Yale University, Jackson. He was graduated from the Sheffield B.S., 1896, Ph.D., 1899. He was instructor in physiological chemistry in the Sheffield Scientific School, Yale, 1897-1900; studied at Berne, Switzerland, in physiology, with Kronecker, and at Strassburg with Hofmeister, 1900-1901. He was instructor, 1901-1903, assistant professor, 1903-1905, of physiological chemistry in New York University and Bellevue Hospital Medical School; adjunct professor of experimental physiology and physiological chemistry, and director of the laboratories in Albany Medical College, 1905-1909, and consulting physiological chemist to the New York State Department of Health, 1907-1909. In 1909 Dr. Jackson returned to the New York University and Bellevue Hospital Medical College as professor of physiology. He is a member of the Society of American Naturalists, American Physiological Society, American Society of Biological Chemists, the Harvey Society of New York, Society for Experimental Biology and Medicine (charter member); fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science; member of the Association of Pathologists and Bacteriologists, Association of Official Agricultural Chemists, Theta Delta Chi, Sigma Xi, and Yale Club of New York City. He married in Newark, N. J., Dec. 18, 1901, Mary Abbey Read, and they have two children. Address: 400 Riverside Drive. Office: 338 East 26th Street, New York City.

JACKSON, James H.:

Physician; born Petersboro, N. Y., June 11, 1841; son James Caleb and Lucretia Edgerton (Brewster) Jackson. He received a seminary education at Dansville, N. Y., and was graduated from Bellevue Hospital Medical College, New York City. He was manager of the Jackson Health Resort, 1861-1895; chief of its medical staff since 1876, and is president of The Jackson Sanatorium Company. He succeeded his father, James Caleb Jackson, the founder, in 1858, of the famous Jackson Health Resort, as medical director of the same, and for forty-six years has been identified with its development and great success. He was the first to use the word Sanatorium in the country, and he has seen the inception and complete growth of the great Health Resort movement as related to institutional life and the practice of the healing art. Dr. Jackson is editor of Laws of Life and Journal of Health. He is a Republican, and mayor of Dansville; the first Republican to hold that office; and is a member of the Christian Union. Dr. Jackson is a member of the Livingston County Medical Society, New York State Medical Society, American Medical Association; is a Royal Arch Mason, and a member of the Sons of American Revolution, Society Mayflower Descendants, and the Society of Colonial Wars. He married in Dansville, N. Y., Sept. 13, 1864, Kate Johnson, of Sturbridge, Mass., and has one son. Address: Dansville, Livingston County, N. Y.

JACKSON, John Brinekeroff:

Diplomat; born in Newark, N. J., Aug. 19, 1862; son of F. Wolcott and Nannie (Nye) Jackson. He was graduated from the U. S. Naval Academy, 1883, and then cruised for two years in European waters, being for part of the time junior aide to the commander-in-chief of the European Squadron. He passed his final examination in 1885, and was commissioned ensign, U. S. Navy, July 1, 1885. He attended the course at the Torpedo Station at Newport, R. I., and was afterward stationed at the Ordnance Proving Grounds at Annapolis, Md. He resigned from the Navy, June 30, 1886, engaged in the study of law in New York City, and was admitted to the bar of the State of New York, Feb. 14, 1889. He entered upon his diplomatic career upon his appointment, Dec. 30, 1890, as second secretary of the American Legation to Berlin. He was promoted to secretary of the embassy, Nov. 15, 1894, and while there, frequently served as chargé d'affaires. In 1902 he was offered the post of minister to Chili and accepted same, but was appointed Oct. 13, 1902, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Greece, Roumania and Servia, and, on June 5, 1903, diplomatic agent in Bulgaria in addition. He represented the United States at the Coronation of King Peter of Servia, Sept. 21, 1904. On March 6, 1905, he was appointed envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Greece and Montenegro, and diplomatic agent in Bulgaria, and in 1907, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Persia, where he is now serving. Mr. Jackson received the honorary degree of A.M. from Princeton in 1896. He was a delegate to the International Conference on Maritime Law, held at Hamburg in 1902, and to the International Archaeological Congress at Athens in 1905. He was American representative at the Olympic games in Athens in 1906. He is a member of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, the Union League, University, Army and Navy, and Lawyers' Clubs of New York, the Rittenhouse Club of Philadelphia, National Geographic Society, New Jersey Historical Society, Society of International Law, the Metropolitan Club of Washington, the Casino of Berlin, and the Imperial Yacht Club of Kiel, Gesellschaft für Erdkunde, Kolonial Gesellschaft, Goethe Gesellschaft, and Shakespeare Verein, of Germany. Mr. Jackson married at Philadelphia, April 26, 1886, Florence A. Baird, daughter of the late Matthew Baird. Address: Care of United States Despatch Agency, London, England.

JACKSON, Richard Arbuthnot:

Lawyer; born at Richmond, Ind., Sept. 5, 1858; son of Richard and Anna M. (Knott) Jackson. He was graduated from the University of Virginia, LL.B., 1879. He was admitted to the bar in 1880, practised at Fort Wayne, Ind., and was prosecuting attorney there four years; in general practice until 1902; since then general solicitor and first vice-president of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway Company. He is a member of the Chicago, University, Union League, Middy and South Shore Country Clubs. Residence: Hotel Metropole. Office: 144 Van Buren Street, Chicago.

JACKSON, Samuel Macauley:

Editor and educator; born in New York City, June 19, 1851; son of George T. and Letitia Jane Aiken (Macauley) Jackson. He was graduated from the College of the City of New York, A.B., 1870, A.M., 1876; student in Princeton Theological Seminary, 1870-1871; graduated Union Theological Seminary, 1873; traveled and studied abroad, 1873-1875. He received the degrees of LL.D. from Washington and Lee University, 1892, and D.D. from New York University, 1893. He was pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Norwood, N. J., 1876-1880; and has been professor of church history in New York University since 1895. He assisted the late Philip Schaff, 1878-1886 (on his Bible Dictionary, 1878-1880, on the Schaff-Herzog Encyclopædia, of which he was managing editor, 1880-1884, and on the Encyclopædia of Living Divines, of which he was joint editor, 1885-1886. Dr. Jackson is editor of: The Concise Dictionary of Religious Knowledge, 1891; Heroes of the Reformation series, nine volumes (contributing the biography of Huldreich Zwingli, 1901); Handbook for Practical Workers in Church and Philanthropy (nine volumes); Selections from Zwingli, 1901; The New Schaff-Herzog Encyclopædia, preparing since 1903, of which three volumes have been issued; The Source of "Jerusalem the Golden," and Other Pieces Attributed to Bernard of Chuny, 1909. He is a vice-president of the Charity Organization Society, recording secretary of the Prison Association. As chairman of the Publication Committee of the Huguenot Society of America, he brought out, in 1900, its volume commemorative of the Tercentenary of the Edict of Nantes, and other volumes in 1903 and 1904. Although not a Huguenot, he was, in 1906, elected an honorary fellow of the Huguenot Society of London. In 1906 he took the lead in reviving the American Society of Church History, originally founded by Philip Schaff in 1888, and became its secretary. He has been a member since 1901, and president since 1905 of the Board of Trustees of the Christian College of Canton, China. He is a member of the Century, City, National Arts, Phi Gamma Delta and Chi Alpha Clubs, and secretary of the latter since 1901. Address: 692 West End Avenue, New York City.

JACKSON, Theodore Frelinghuysen:

Lawyer; born in Rockaway, N. J., Nov. 13, 1830; son of William and Susan D. (Halsey) Jackson. He was educated in public and private schools, was admitted to the bar in 1852, and retired from active practice in 1890. Mr. Jackson was registrar of arrears in Brooklyn, 1882-1886; city comptroller of Brooklyn, 1890-1892; is a director of the First National Bank of Brooklyn; trustee of the Long Island Loan and Trust Company; director of the Title Insurance Company of New York; president of the New York and East River Ferry Company; director of the Union Ferry Company and the Brooklyn Ferry Company. He is a member of the New York Historical Society, Long Island Historical Society, the Bar Association of New York City and Brooklyn, Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York Zoölogical Society, New York Botanical Gardens, Sons of the American Revolution, Order of Founders and Patriots of America, Municipal Art Society; also the Racquet, Riding, and National Arts Clubs of New York City, and the Brooklyn, Hamilton and Hanover Clubs of Brooklyn. Mr. Jackson married in Brooklyn, in 1861, Cornelia Burr. Residence: West Hampton Beach, L. I. Office: 260 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y.

JACKSON, William:

Civil engineer; born in Brighton, Mass., March 13, 1848; son of Samuel and Mary (Field) Jackson; a descendant of Edward Jackson of New Town, Mass., 1640. He was educated in the public schools of Brighton and attended the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Boston, 1865-1868, but was not graduated. He began professional life as a rodman in the Boston City Engineers' Office, in May, 1868, was assistant engineer of the City of Boston, 1869-1885, and city engineer since 1885; was chief engineer of Harvard Bridge, 1887-1891; chief engineer of Charlestown Bridge, 1896-1900; chief engineer of Cambridge Bridge from 1898 to date. He is a member of the Society of Colonial Wars of Massachusetts, the New England Historic-Genealogical Society, the Bostonian Society, the Society of Arts of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, the Technology Club, Union Club, Boston City Club; American Society of Civil Engineers, and the Boston Society of Civil Engineers. He married, April 27, 1886, Mary Stuart, daughter of James Stuart and Julia L. MacCorry, of Boston, and their son, William Stuart Jackson, is their only living child. Address: City Engineer's Office, 50 City Hall, Boston.

JACOBI, Abraham:

Physician; born in Hartum, Westphalia, Germany, May 6, 1830. He was educated in the Gymnasium of Minden, and the Universities of Griefswald, Gottingen and Bonn. M.D., 1851, and received the degree of LL.D. from the University of Michigan, 1898. Columbia, 1900, Yale, 1905, Harvard, 1906. Dr. Jacobi was professor of diseases of children in New York Medical College, 1860-1865, in the Medical Department of New York University, 1865-1870, College of Physicians and Surgeons (Columbia), 1870-1903; professor emeritus since 1902. He is consulting physician to the German Dispensary and Hospital of the Women's Infirmary, Bellevue Babies' Orthopaedic, Mount Sinai and other hospitals. Dr. Jacobi is ex-president of the New York Obstetrical Society, New York Pathological Society, Medical Society of the State of New York, of the New York Academy of Medicine, Association of American Physicians, American Pediatric Society, and the American Climatological Association; honorary fellow of the medical societies of Wurzburg, Berlin, Paris, Rome, Budapest, St. Petersburg, Kiev; Pediatric Society of Germany, Medical Society of Philadelphia, Boston, Louisville, Brooklyn, etc. Dr. Jacobi is author of: Dentition and its Derangements, 1862; Treatise on Diphtheria, 1880; Therapeutics of Infancy and Childhood, 1896, 1900, 1903. He is an independent in politics and was twice a member of the Committee of Seventy in New York City. He is a member of the Century, and City Clubs of New York. Dr. Jacobi married in 1873 Dr. Mary C. Putnam, who died June 10, 1906. Address: 19 East 47th Street, New York City.

JACOBUS, David Schenck:

Mechanical engineer; born in Ridgefield, N. J., Jan. 20, 1862. He was graduated from Stevens Institute of Technology, M.E., 1884, and received the honorary degree of Doctor of Engineering, in 1906. He was instructor and assistant professor of experimental mechanics at Stevens Institute of Technology, 1884-1898, professor of experimental mechanics and engineering physics, 1898-1903, in charge of Carnegie Laboratory of Engineering, 1900-1906; professor of experimental engineering, 1903-1906. He has been advisory engineer of The Babcock and Wilcox Company, and special lecturer in experimental engineering at Stevens Institute, since 1906. He is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and was secretary of Section D, in 1893, and vice-president in 1904; member of the American Mathematical Society, American Society of Mechanical Engineers (manager, 1900, and vice-president, 1903), American Institute of Mining Engineers, Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education, Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers, American Institute of Electrical Engineers, Society of Refrigerating Engineers, of which he was director in 1904, and president in 1907, the Franklin Institute of Philadelphia, and the New York Railroad Club. Residence: 70 Summit Avenue, Jersey City, N. J. Office: 85 Liberty Street, New York City.

JACOBY, Harold:

Astronomer, educator; born in New York City, March 4, 1865; son of Max and Eve M. (Jackson) Jacoby. His father is a native of Germany, came to the United States in 1865, and is a retired New York merchant; and his mother was a native of New York City. He was educated in private schools in New York City and was graduated from Columbia University, A.B., 1885, Ph.D., 1896. He was assistant astronomer of the U. S. Eclipse Expedition to West Africa, 1889-1890; volunteer assistant at Cape of Good Hope Observatory, 1890; adjunct professor of astronomy, 1894-1904, Rutherford professor of astronomy since 1904, and head of Department of Astronomy, since 1903, Columbia University. He is the author of Practical Talks by an Astronomer, 1901 (Scribner's); contributor of technical papers to American and foreign scientific journals and to the publications of the Royal Astronomical Society of London, Académie des Sciences of Paris; Societas Scientiarum Fennica, Helsingfors, Astronomische Gesellschaft, Leipzig, and a large number of popular articles on astronomy in newspapers and magazines. He is a fellow of the Royal Astronomical Society of London; member of the Astronomische Gesellschaft of Leipzig, Astronomical and Astrophysical Society of America (councillor and editor from 1906 to 1908); American Mathematical Society (former treasurer and editor Bulletin); fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science; New York Academy of Sciences (former councillor and secretary), and the Century Club of New York City. He married, Dec. 28, 1890, Annie, daughter of the late George Maclear, astronomer at the Royal Observatory, Capetown, South Africa, and they have two children. Address: 333 West 76th Street, New York City.

JAEGERS, Albert:

Sculptor; born in Elberfeld, Germany, March 28, 1868; son of Albert and Elizabeth (Loser) Jaegers. He was educated in Germany and the United States and he has been engaged, since 1890, as sculptor, executing many private monuments, busts, and other works in marble, bronze, etc., including works which have won in competitions; statuary for the Pan-American Exposition, Buffalo, 1901, Louisiana Purchase Exposition, St. Louis, 1904, the new Custom House, New York City, etc.; now engaged in executing the Baron von Steuben Monument for Washington, D. C., won in competition, and many other works of importance. Mr. Jaegers is a Unitarian in religious belief. He is a member of the National Sculpture Society, Municipal Art Society of New York City, and Cincinnati Art Club. He married in Richmond, Va., July 8, 1890, Matilda Holdt. Address: Suffern, N. Y.

JAGGAR, Thomas Augustus:

Protestant Episcopal bishop; born in New York City, June 2, 1839. He was graduated from the General Theological Seminary in New York City and took holy orders in 1860 as deacon, and made priest in 1863. He was the founder of the Riverside Hospital, Yonkers, N. Y.; was rector of Anthon Memorial Church, New York City, 1864-1868; St. Johns, Yonkers, N. Y., 1868-1870, and of Holy Trinity Church, Philadelphia, 1870-1875. He was consecrated bishop of Southern Ohio, in 1875. He retired from active charge of the diocese in Oct., 1905, but retains his seat and vote in the House of Bishops; and he is morning preacher in St. Paul's Church, Boston. Bishop Jaggar is author of: The Man of the Ages; The Ministry of Phillips Brooks; Bohlen Lectures for 1900—The Personality of Truth; Duty of the Clergy in Relation to Modern Skepticism. He married at Flushing, N. Y., in 1862, Anna L. Lawrence. Address: 282 Marlborough Street, Boston.

JAMES, Arthur Curtiss:

Merchant, philanthropist; born in New York City, June 1, 1867; son of D. Willis and Ellen S. (Curtiss) James. He was graduated from Amherst, A.B., 1889; is a member of the firm of Phelps, Dodge and Company; director of the American Brass Company, El Paso and Southwestern Railroad Company, United Globe Mines, New York Trust Company. Mr. James is a member of the Chamber of Commerce, American Institute Mining Engineers, American Geological Society, New York Botanical Garden, New York Zoological Society; Metropolitan, University, Century, Riding, New York, Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht, Atlantic Yacht, and Amherst Clubs. He married Harriet Eddy Parsons. Residence: 92 Park Avenue. Address: 99 John Street, New York City.

JAMES, Clinton R.:

Capitalist; son of John F. and Mary E. James. He was educated in the Polytechnic Institute, Brooklyn. Mr. James is first vice-president and director of the Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange (Limited), New York Mortgage and Security Company; trustee of the Brooklyn Savings Bank; director and treasurer of the Kings County Mortgage Company, director of the Prospect Park Bank of Brooklyn, Title Insurance Company of New York, United Cities Realty Corporation. He married in New York City, in 1896, Evelyn M. Betts. Address: 193 Montague Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

JAMES, Edmund Janes:

President of the University of Illinois; born in Jacksonville, Ill., May 21, 1855; son of Rev. Collin D. and Amanda Keziah (Casad) James. He was educated in the Illinois State Normal School and at Northwestern University, Harvard, A.M., Halle, Ph.D., 1877; also receiving the degree of LL.D. from Cornell College, Iowa, 1902, Wesleyan University, 1902, and Queens College. He was principal of the Evanston (Ill.) High School, 1878-1879; Model High School, Normal, Ill., 1879-1882; professor of public finance and administration in the Wharton School of Finance and Economy, University of Pennsylvania, 1883-1895; also professor of political and social science in the University of Pennsylvania, 1884-1895; professor of public administration and director of the Extension Division, University of Chicago, 1896-1901; president of Northwestern University, 1902-1904; president of the University of Illinois since 1904. He was president of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, 1889-1901, and several years editor of its Annals; and is author of numerous books and monographs on subjects of political economy, finance, and administration. Dr. James married Aug. 22, 1879, Anna Margaret Lange, of Halle, Prussia. Address: Urbana, Ill.

JAMES, Francis Bacon:

Lawyer; born in Cincinnati, June 10, 1864. He was educated in the public schools and the Cincinnati College Law School, was graduated as LL.B. in 1886, and has been practising law ever since, and his most notable achievements in cases of a national scope are U. S. vs. Keck, Kramer vs. Peckles, and Uri vs. Levi. He is a member of the law firm of Jones and James, engaged chiefly in a commercial practice in the State and Federal courts and before the Interstate Commerce Commission, and is a member of the Law Faculty of the University of Cincinnati. He has written on the subject of Expert and Non-Expert Opinion as Evidence under the Laws of Ohio, and a Collection of Cases on the Construction of Statutes, as well as other contributions to the literature of the law, and commerce, some of which have been published under the title of Advertising and Other Addresses. Mr. James is a member of the American Bar Association, and is of its General Council and chairman of the Committee on Publication and member of the Committee on Uniform State Laws and of the Committee on Commercial Law, and is also a member of the American International Law Association, Ohio State Bar Association and the Cincinnati Bar Association; and is president of the Ohio State Board in the movement for securing uniformity of laws in the several States, and chairman of the Committee on Commercial Law of the Commissioners on Uniform State Laws in National Conference. Mr. James was formerly dean of the Cincinnati College of Finance, Commerce and Accounts. He is Assistant general counsel of the Ohio State Board of Commerce. He is a Republican in politics. Mr. James is a member of the Queen City, University, Country, Riding, Golf, Tennis, and Business Men's Clubs of Cincinnati, and of the Columbus Club of Columbus, Ohio. Residence: East Walnut Hills, Cincinnati. Office: Mercantile Library Building, Cincinnati.

JAMES, George Wharton:

Lecturer and writer; born in Gainesborough, Lincolnshire, England, Sept. 27, 1858; son of John and Ann (Wharton) James. He was educated at Queen Elizabeth's Grammar School, at Gainesborough, England. He has devoted years to geographical, geological, ethnological, and archaeological researches in the Western part of the United States, especially in the regions of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River, and the Colorado Desert in Southern California; and among Navaho, Zuni, Hopi, Apache, Acoma, and other tribes of Pueblo Indians. He has also traveled among the various tribes of California. Professor James is a contributor to leading magazines, and a lecturer on his travels, his lectures being accompanied with stereopticon views of his travels. He is a member of the Havasupai tribe, and a fellow of the Royal Historical Society; the Royal Astronomical Society; The Royal Microscopical Society, The Royal Geological Society, and the Victorian Institute, all of England. He is also a member of the Astronomical Society of the Pacific, and the Southern California Academy of Sciences, of America. He is the author of: The Lick Observatory, 1888; Tourists' Guide to Southern California; Nature Sermons; Scenic Mount Lowe; Picturesque Southern California; The Missions and Mission Indians of California; In and Around the Grand Canyon, 1900; Indian Basketry, 1900; How to Make Indian and Other Baskets, 1903; The Indians of the Painted Desert Region, 1903; Travelers' Handbook to Southern California; Practical Basket Making; In and Out of the Old Missions, 1905; The Story of Seraggles, 1906; The Wonders of the Colorado Desert, 1906; The Facts and Fictions of Ramona; Mission Architecture; and Living the Radiant Life. Professor James married, Nov. 12, 1895, Emma George Farnsworth. Address: 1098 North Raymond Avenue, Pasadena, Calif.

JAMES, Henry:

Author; born in New York City, April 15, 1843; son of Rev. Henry James, a distinguished theologian. His early education, directed by his father, was acquired chiefly in France and Switzerland, and he took a partial course in Harvard Law School, 1862-1864. He began literary work as a contributor to various periodicals in 1863, and has continued in the profession of literature ever since. After 1869 he made his residence in Europe, chiefly in Italy and England. His work is characterized by literary finish, keen analysis and psychologic insight, and include: Transatlantic Sketches, 1875; A Passionate Pilgrim and Other Tales, 1875; Roderick Hudson, 1876; The American, 1877; Watch and Ward, 1878; French Poets and Novelists, 1878; Daisy Miller, 1878; The Europeans, two volumes, 1878; An International Episode, 1879; The Madonna of the Future, and Other Tales, two volumes, 1879; Hawthorne, 1879; A Bundle of Letters, reprinted from the Persian, 1880; Confidence, 1880; The Diary of a Man of Fifty, 1880; Washington Square, 1880; The Portrait of a Lady, 1882; The Siege of London, 1883; Portraits of Places, 1883; Tales of Three Cities, 1884; A Little Tour in France, 1885; The Art of Fiction, 1885; Stories Revised, two volumes, 1885; The Author of Beltradio, 1885; The Bostonians, 1886; The Princess Casamassima, 1886; Partial Portraits, 1888; The Aspern Papers and Other Stories, 1888; The Reverberator, 1888; A London Life, 1889; The Tragic Muse, two volumes, 1890; The Lesson of the Master, 1892; The Real Thing and Other Tales, 1893; Picture in Text, 1893; The Private Life, 1893; Essays in London and Elsewhere, 1893; Theatricals, two volumes, 1893; The Wheel of Time, 1894; Terminations, 1895; The Other House, 1896; The Spoils of Poynton, 1897; Saint Eva, 1897; What Maisie Knew, 1897; In the Cage, 1898; The Awkward Age, 1899; The Soft Side, 1900; A Little Tour in France, 1900; The Sacred Fount, 1901; The Wings of the Dove, 1902; The Better Sort, 1903; The Ambassador, 1903; The Question of Our Speech, 1904; The Lesson of Balzac, 1905; The Golden Bowl, 1905; English Hours, 1905; and many contributions to magazines, etc. He is a member of the Athenaeum Club of London. Residence: Rye, Isle of Wight, England. Address: The Athenaeum Club, London, England.

JAMES, James Alton:

Professor of history; born in Hazel Green, Wis., Sept. 17, 1864; son of John R. and Mary A. (Alton) James. He was graduated from the University of Wisconsin, B.L., 1888; from Johns Hopkins University, Ph.D., 1893, and won a scholarship and fellowship in history. He was professor of history in Cornell College, Iowa, 1893-1897; and has been professor of history in Northwestern University since 1897. Dr. James is author of numerous monographs on historical subjects. He is a member of the American Historical Association, American Political Science Association, the Council of the Northwestern University Settlement Association, and is a Mason. He is a member of the University Club of Evanston. Professor James married in Platteville, Wis., Sept. 28, 1892, Jennie Thomas, and they have two children. Address: 2127 Orrington Avenue, Evanston, Ill.

JAMES, Louis:

Actor; born at Tremont, Ill., in 1842; son of Benjamin F. and Almira H. James. Beginning his stage career with the stock company of McAuley's Theater at Louisville, Ky., in 1864, he went the following year to Philadelphia, where he was for five years a member of the famous stock company in Mrs. John Drew's Arch Street Theater, and while there became a great favorite socially and professionally in that city. In leading theaters of New York, San Francisco, Baltimore, and Boston he played leading parts, and from the Boston Theater stock company went, in 1881, to be leading man with Lawrence Barrett, alternating with that great actor as Iago and Othello, and playing the other principal supporting rôles in the Barrett repertoire. After starring for himself, 1886-1889, he played with Joseph Jefferson a year and then for three years starred jointly with Frederick Ward in legitimate tragedy; since 1895 he has been starring individually, and in 1908 he succeeded the late Mr. Mansfield in Peer Gynt. Mr. James married in 1871, in Philadelphia, Lillian Scanlan, who died in 1876; and Dec. 24, 1892, he married, in Philadelphia, Aphie Hendricks. Address: 723 Wyandotte Street, Kansas City, Mo.

JAMES, Ollie M.:

Congressman and lawyer; born in Crittendon County, Ky., July 27, 1871; son of L. H. and Elizabeth J. James. He was a page in the Kentucky Legislature, session of 1887; studied law under his father, L. H. James, and was admitted to the bar in 1891. He was one of the attorneys for Governor Goebel in his celebrated contest for governor of the State of Kentucky; delegate to the Democratic National Convention at Chicago, 1896, and delegate from the State-at-large to the Democratic National Convention at St. Louis, 1904, and elected chairman of the Kentucky delegation at both. He served as chairman of the State Convention in Kentucky in 1900, which sent delegates to the Democratic National Convention at Kansas City. Mr. James was elected to the Fifty-eighth and Fifty-ninth, and Sixtieth Congresses, and reelected to the Sixty-first Congress from the First Kentucky District. He married, Dec. 2, 1903, Ruth Thomas of Marion, Ky. Address: Marion, Ky.

JAMES, William:

Psychologist and philosopher; born in New York City, Jan. 11, 1842; son of Rev. Henry James, distinguished theologian and of Mary R. (Walsh) James; and he is a brother of Henry James, the novelist. Mr. James was educated in private schools and by tutors in New York and Europe; in Lawrence Scientific School, of Harvard, and Harvard Medical School, M.D., 1870. He has received honorary degrees of LL.D. from Princeton, 1896, Edinburgh, 1902, and Yale, 1906, and that of Ph.D. Litt.D. from Padua in 1893. Dr. James became an instructor and later assistant professor of comparative anatomy and physiology in Harvard, 1872-1880; assistant professor, 1880-1885, and professor of philosophy, 1885-1889; professor of psychology, 1889-1897, and professor of philosophy, 1897-1907. He was Gifford Lecturer on Natural Religion in the University of Edinburgh, 1899-1901. Professor James is a member of the National Academy of Sciences, corresponding member of L'Institut de Paris and of the Royal Prussian Academy of Sciences, and he was president of the American Philosophical Association in 1906. He is author of: The Principles of Psychology, two volumes, 1890; Psychology — Briefer Course, 1892; The Will to Believe and Other Essays, 1897; Talks to Teachers on Psychology, and to Students on Life's Ideals, 1898; Human Immortality, 1899; The Varieties of Religious Experiences, 1902; Pragmatism — A New Name for some Old Ways of Thinking, 1907; A Pluralistic Universe (lectures delivered under the title of "The Present Situation in Philosophy" on the Hibbert Foundation at Oxford, 1908), 1909. He married in Boston in 1878, Alice H. Gibbens, and they have three sons and a daughter. Address: 95 Irving Street, Cambridge, Mass.

JAMIESON, Egbert:

Lawyer; born in Castleton, Vt., April 29, 1846; son of Egbert and Caroline M. (Woodward) Jamieson. He was educated in Racine College, Wis., the family having removed to Racine in his youth. He learned the printing trade in the office of the Racine County Democrat, after which he was for a time engaged in editorial work on the Milwaukee Daily News. In 1866 he took up his residence in Chicago, where he began the study of law in the office of E. S. Smith. He was admitted to the Illinois bar in 1869 and was associated in practice with Judge James H. Knowlton until 1871, after which for two years he was in partnership with Emory S. Storrs. He was elected city attorney in 1873, following this with a term as corporation counsel, during which he made the successful fight in the Hoyne-Colvin mayoralty contest. He was elected judge of the Superior Court of Cook County in 1886 and served until 1890. He was the presiding judge in the noted conspiracy cases, involving a majority of the county commissioners as defendants. He resigned his judgeship to become the general counsel for the West Chicago and North Chicago Street Railway Companies, which he retained until 1897. He was a member of the Lincoln Park Board, 1893-1897. He has always been independent in politics. He married in Chicago, Dec. 2, 1873, Mary A. Daniels. Residence: 38 Stratford Place. Office: New York Life Building, Chicago.

JAMIESON, Thomas N.:

Wholesale druggist; born in the County of Grey, Ontario, Canada, Feb. 29, 1848; son of James and Agnes (Robertson) Jamieson. He was educated in the public schools of Ontario, and was a druggist's apprentice, 1862-1866. He removed to Chicago, where he was a drug clerk until he entered business for himself in 1870. He was president of the Chicago Retail Drug Association for three years, and president of the Illinois Board of Pharmacy five years. He was the founder of the Chicago Veteran Druggists' Association. He is a Republican and was chairman of the Cook County Central Republican Committee in 1890. He was secretary of the Republican State Central Committee in 1892, and chairman of the State Central Committee in 1894. He was the Illinois member of the Republican National Committee, 1896-1900. He was for a time clerk of the Appellate Court of Chicago, Illinois District, and has been naval officer of the Port of Chicago since 1904. Mr. Jamieson was vice-president and treasurer of the Automatic Switch and Signal Company. He is a member of the Chicago Athletic and Press Clubs. He married in Chicago, 1887, Anna M. Bingham. Residence: 4508 Woodlawn Avenue. Office: Post Office Building, Chicago.

JANEWAY, Edward Gamaliel:

Physician; born in Middlesex County, N. J., Aug. 31, 1841. He was graduated from Rutgers College, A.B., 1860, afterward receiving from that college the degree of LL.D.; and was graduated from the College of Physicians and Surgeons (Columbia), M.D., 1864. Dr. Janeway was acting medical curator, U. S. Army Hospital, Newark, N. J., 1862-1863. He served as curator, 1866-1872, visiting physician 1872-1892, professor of pathology and anatomy, 1872-1876, demonstrator of anatomy, 1876-1879, Bellevue Hospital Medical College; now professor medicine and dean of University and Bellevue Hospital Medical College. Dr. Janeway was visiting physician to the Charity Hospital, 1868-1871, Mount Sinai Hospital since 1885; consulting physician, to the Presbyterian Hospital, since 1888; consulting pathologist to the Hospital for Ruptured and Crippled since 1875. He was a member of the Commission of Conference, Health Department and Academy of Medicine, 1887; member of the Advisory Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, during the cholera of 1892. He is author of Pathological Report of Autopsies Made in Bellevue Hospital; Leucoeythemia; and numerous other papers. He was commissioner of health of the City of New York, 1875-1881. He has served as president of the Pathological Society, the New York Academy of Medicine and the Association of American Physicians. Address: 36 West 40th Street, New York City.

JANSSEN, John:

Bishop of Belleville; born in Keppeln, Diocese of Münster, Prussia, March 3, 1835. He was educated for the priesthood, and before he finished his course was induced by Bishop Juncker, of Alton, Ill., to remove to the United States. After finishing his theological preparation he was ordained by Bishop Juncker in the Cathedral of Sts. Peter and Paul at Alton, was given missionary work for a time in the city of Springfield, and afterward served as secretary and assistant in parochial work to Bishop Juncker in the city of Alton, and on the death of that bishop, Oct. 2, 1868, he continued in his position until the consecration of Bishop Baltes, Jan. 23, 1870; he was made vicar-general, and after the death of Bishop Baltes, Feb. 15, 1886 was administrator of the diocese until the consecration of Bishop Ryan, May 1, 1888. Meanwhile, on Jan. 7, 1887, the Diocese of Alton was divided and the Diocese of Belleville created and he was appointed its first bishop, Feb. 28, 1888; and he was consecrated in St. Peter's Cathedral, Belleville, Ill., April 25, 1888, by Archbishop Feehan, assisted by Bishop Hogan of Kansas City and Bishop Fink, of Leavenworth; and his diocese has greatly prospered under his administration. Address: Belleville, Ill.

JANVIER, Charles:

President of Sun Mutual Insurance Company of New Orleans; born in New Orleans, Sept. 8, 1867; son of Charles A. and Zelime (Coiron) Janvier. He was educated at the College of the Immaculate Conception at New Orleans. After several years passed in the office of an exchange broker, he entered the service of the Sun Mutual Insurance Company, as solicitor, Feb. 15, 1890. He was elected secretary, February, 1891, and succeeded the late Mr. Finley, on his death, as president of the company, June 12, 1894. He is also manager of the Southern Department of the Palatine of Manchester, England, having jurisdiction over ten States. Mr. Janvier is an administrator of the Tulane Educational Fund, a director in the Canal Bank and Trust Company, of the Provident Savings and Safe Deposit Bank and president of the Citizens' League of New Orleans. He married, Oct. 3, 1883, Josephine Celeste Bush, who died Jan. 8, 1899. Residence: 1445 Webster Street. Office: 308 Camp Street, New Orleans, La.

JANVRIN, Joseph Edward:

Physician; born in Exeter, N. H., Jan. 13, 1839; son of Joseph Adams and Lydia Ann (Colcord) Janvrin. He was educated in Phillips Exeter Academy, and College of Physicians and Surgeons (Columbia), M.D., 1864, and has practised as physician and surgeon in New York City since 1865. Dr. Janvrin was acting assistant surgeon, Second New Hampshire Volunteers, May, 1861, to December, 1862; assistant surgeon, Fifteenth New Hampshire Volunteers, December, 1862, to August, 1863; acting assistant surgeon, U. S. Volunteers, July, 1864, to January, 1865. He is a member of the New York Academy of Medicine, New York State Medical Society; ex-president of the American Gynecological Society, New York Obstetrical Society; and he is one of the founders of the International Gynecological Society; corresponding member of the Boston Gynecological Society; member of the Society Mayflower Descendants, Sons of Colonial Wars, Descendants of Colonial Governors, Military Order of the Loyal Legion, and George Washington Post, Grand Army of the Republic. He married at Easton, Pa., September, 1881, Laura L. La Wall, and they have two children, Dr. Edmund Janvrin and Marguerite L. Janvrin. Address: 191 Madison Avenue, New York City.

JAQUES, William Henry:

Engineer and naval architect; born in Philadelphia, Dec. 24, 1848. He was graduated from the U. S. Naval Academy in 1867, and remained in the service until 1886, when he resigned as lieutenant to enter civil life. He had during his service come to be regarded as especially prominent as an ordnance expert, and after his resignation inaugurated the manufacture of heavy ordnance and armor in the works of the Bethlehem Iron Company; and he has introduced into this country many improved processes in the manufacture of steel ordnance, and also has gained much distinction as a naval architect. He has served on various boards and expert commission having to do with ordnance matters, and received from the Mikado the Japanese decoration of The Rising Sun. He is a member of the American Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers, the United States Naval Institute, British Institution of Naval Architects, American Society of Civil Engineers, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and other engineering societies, American and British, and is author of various works on ordnance, armor and kindred subjects. He is a member of the Metropolitan and Army and Navy Clubs, of Washington, Essex Club of Portsmouth, N. H., and Lotos and Metropolitan Clubs of New York City. Address: Little Boar's Head, N. H.

JARVIE, William:

Retired dentist; born in Manchester, England, July 14, 1841; son of William and Isabella (Newbegin) Jarvie. He was educated in England and in Brooklyn, N. Y., received the degree of M.D.S. and practised in Brooklyn until he retired. Dr. Jarvie is ex-president of the Dental Society of the State of New York; of the New York Odontological Society of the Second District Dental Society, and the Brooklyn Dental Society. At various times he has traveled in England, Scotland, Norway, Finland, Sweden, Denmark, Holland, Belgium, France, Germany, Switzerland, Austria, Italy, Egypt, Soudan, Palestine, Turkey and Greece; has ascended Mont Blanc and several others of the highest snow-capped mountains in Switzerland and has motored extensively in Great Britain, Ireland, France, Germany, Switzerland, Austria and Italy. Dr. Jarvie is director of the Coöperative Law Company, and a member of the National Dental Association, the Academy of Dental Science, and the Odontological Society of Great Britain and is president of the Bass Rocks Improvement Association. He is a member of the Hamilton, Rembrandt, Heights Casino, Dyker Meadow Golf Club of Brooklyn and the Nassau County Club and is also vice-president of the Bass Rocks Golf Club. He married in Brooklyn, Sept. 10, 1867, Amelia C. McHenry and they have had four children. Address: 105 Clinton Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

JARVIS, Samuel M.:

Banker; born in McDonough County, Ill., Jan. 31, 1853; descendant of the early settlers of Virginia. He was admitted to the bar in 1876, but soon turned his attention to finance and became closely identified with developments of the West. He was one of the organizers and first president of the North American Trust Company. Immediately on American occupation of Santiago, during the Spanish-American War, he opened there a branch of the Trust Company and rendered important assistance to United States Government; was offered the post of fiscal agent of the United States in Cuba by President McKinley, but asked and obtained the appointment for the company instead. Later he accepted present position as vice-president of the National Bank of Cuba, fiscal agent and government depositary of the Republic of Cuba; and depositary of United States Government in Cuba. He is connected with many important corporations. He is a member of the Southern Society, Kentucky Society, American Museum of Natural History, Metropolitan Museum of Art, and of the Lawyers', and Larchmont Yacht Clubs of New York City, Automobile Club of America, American Club of Havana and The Pilgrims' (London). He married, in 1873, Priscilla Wear. Address: 1 Wall Street, New York City.

JASTROW, Joseph:

Professor of psychology; born in Warsaw, Poland, Jan. 30, 1863; son of Marcus and Bertha (Wolfsohn) Jastrow. He was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania, A.B., 1882. A.M., 1885, and from Johns Hopkins University, Ph.D., 1886. He was in charge of the Department of Psychology at the World's Columbian Exposition, Chicago, in 1893; and is now professor of psychology at the University of Wisconsin. He is author of: Fact and Fable in Psychology, 1900; The Subconscious, 1906; and numerous articles on psychology and education in all leading, popular and scientific periodicals. He is a member of the American Psychological Association (president, 1900), American Association for the Advancement of Science (vice-president, 1891), American Society of Naturalists, Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi, and received a medal at the World's Fair in 1893. He is a member of the University Club of Madison, Wis. Professor Jastrow married in Baltimore, Aug. 2, 1888, Rachel Szold. Residence: 237 Langdon Street. Address: University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis.

JASTROW, Morris, Jr.:

Professor of Semetic languages and librarian of the University of Pennsylvania; born in Europe, Aug. 13, 1861; son of Marcus and Bertha Jastrow. He was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania, 1881; received the degree of Ph.D. from the University of Leipzig, 1884; also studied in other universities of Germany and France. Dr. Jastro is an authority on Semetic religions, languages and literature. He is author of: Religion of the Babylonians and Assyrians, 1898; Two Grammatical Treatise of Abu Zakariyya Hayyug, 1897; A Fragment of the Babylonian Dibbarra Epic, 1891; The Study of Religion, 1902; Die Religion Babyloniens und Assyriens, 1902-1905; and numerous papers in technical periodicals. He married, Feb. 28, Helen Bachman, Philadelphia. Address: 248 South 23d Street, Philadelphia.

JAYCOX, Walter Husted:

Jurist; born at Wassaie, N. Y., Sept. 3, 1863; Son of Lorin H. and Hannah (Darling) Jaycox. He was educated in the common schools; studied law in the office of Wilmot M. Smith at Patchogue, N. Y., and was admitted to the bar Sept. 13, 1889. He was elected in 1893 and reelected 1896, district attorney Suffolk County, N. Y., serving six years. He was appointed in January, 1902, and elected November, 1902, county judge of Suffolk County, serving four years; appointed April, 1906, and elected November, 1906, justice of the Supreme Court New York, for the Second Judicial District, for term expiring Dec. 31, 1920. He married Inez Leaming. Address: Patchogue, N. Y.

JEFFERY, Edward Turner:

Railway president; born in Liverpool, England, April 6, 1843; came to United States, 1850. He began railway service, 1856, with the Illinois Central Railroad, as office boy to the superintendent of machinery, advancing until he became its general superintendent, 1877-1885, general manager, 1885-1889, resigned. He was appointed a commissioner to the Paris Exposition, 1889, on behalf of an executive committee of citizens of Chicago, for the purpose of studying and reporting upon the exposition, and was chairman of the Grounds and Buildings Committee of the World's Columbian Exposition, Chicago, until September, 1891. Mr. Jeffery has been president since Oct. 1, 1891, of the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad, also president of the Rio Grande and Western Pacific Railway; also since Oct. 18, 1905, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Wabash Railroad, and president of the Western Pacific Railway Company. He married, in 1877, Virginia Osborne Clarke. Address: 195 Broadway, New York City.

JELLETT, Edwin C.:

Florist; born in Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 22, 1860; is of Scotch-Irish extraction. He removed to Lumberton, Burlington County, N. J., and from there to Limerick, Montgomery County, Pa.; since 1873 at Germantown, Pa.; educated at private and public schools. He was trained a florist, but for several years has followed steam engineering. He is a member of the Board of Directors of the Site and Relic Society, of Germantown, of the executive committee of the Mermaid Club, of the board of managers of the Workingmen's Club; of the Board of Council of the City History Club; vice-president of the Germantown Horticultural Society; life member of the Montgomery County (Pa.) Historical Society, American Botanical Society, Academy of Natural Sciences of Philadelphia, Geographical Society of Philadelphia, and Pennsylvania Forestry Association. He is a correspondent of scientific and literary papers and magazines. Mr. Jellet is author of: The Mermaid of the Past, 1892; Ferns of Germantown, 1896; The Mermaid Club, its Past and Future, 1897; Personal Recollections of William Kite, 1901; Winter Flora of Germantown, 1901; German-Towne: Its Founders and Their Progenitors, and What We Owe Them, 1903; A Flora of Germantown, with Notes of Nature and Nature Lovers, 1903; Germantown, Old and New: Its Rare and Notable Plants, two editions published in 1904, and of other works privately printed. Address: 118 Hermann Street, Germantown, Pa.

JELKS, William Dorsey:

Editor and ex-governor; born in Russell County Ala., Nov. 7, 1855; son of J. W. D. and Jane Goodrum (Frazier) Jelks. After his graduation from Mercer University, A. B., 1876, he engaged in newspaper work, and was for over twenty years editor of the Eufaula Times. His alma mater conferred upon him the degree of A.M. He was for several terms a member of the State Senate, and was president of the Senate and acting lieutenant-governor when Governor William J. Samford died in June, 1901. He succeeded to the governorship, and in the general election of 1902 he was elected for a full term, which expired in January, 1907. Address: Eufaula, Ala.

JENKINS, James Graham:

Jurist; born at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., July 18, 1834; son of Edgar and Mary E. (Walworth) Jenkins, of New York City; grandson of Reuben H. Walworth, the last chancellor of the State of New York. He received a thorough education and was admitted to the New York State bar; removed to Milwaukee, Wis., in 1857, and practised there until he was appointed to the Federal bench. He was city attorney of Milwaukee, 1863-1867; was Democratic nominee for governor of Wisconsin in 1879; and received the Democratic vote in the Legislature for the United States Senate in 1881. He was appointed by President Cleveland as U. S. judge for the Eastern District of Wisconsin in 1888, was promoted to the circuit bench in 1893, in the Seventh Circuit, and was presiding judge of the U. S. Court of Appeals from 1901 until he retired in 1905. Address: Milwaukee, Wis.

JENKINS, John J.:

Congressman and lawyer; born in Weymouth, England, Aug. 20, 1843; settled in Baraboo, Wis., June, 1852, and was educated in the schools of that place. He served during the Civil War in Company A, Sixth Wisconsin Infantry; was a member of the State Assembly from Chippewa County, and county judge of Chippewa County. He was appointed U. S. attorney for the Territory of Wyoming by President Grant, in March, 1876; was elected to the Fifty-fourth, Fifty-fifth, Fifty-sixth, Fifty-seventh, Fifty-eighth, and Fifty-ninth Congresses, and reelected to the Sixtieth Congress from the Eleventh District, but failed of re-nomination in 1908. Mr. Jenkins is a Republican, and during his service in Congress was distinguished by his service on the Committee on the Judiciary, having been for several Congresses its chairman. Address: Chippewa Falls, Wis.

JENKS, Almet Francis:

Jurist; born in Brooklyn, N. Y., May 21, 1853; son of Greenville T. and Persis (Smith) Jenks. He was graduated from the Phillips Academy, Andover, 1871; Yale, A.B., 1875; Columbia LL.B., 1877. Admitted to the New York bar 1877; assistant district attorney of Kings County, 1884-1886; corporation counsel of Brooklyn, 1886-1893; judge advocate-general of New York, 1891-1895; member of the Constitutional Convention, 1895; assistant corporation counsel of Greater New York, 1898; elected justice of Supreme Court of New York for Second District, 1898, for the term expiring Dec. 31, 1912; appointed in 1900 to the Appellate Division, in which he is now serving. Justice Jenks is a Democrat. He is a member of the Hamilton, Brooklyn, and Dyker Meadow Golf Clubs. He married, April 29, 1891, Lena Barre. Address: 8 Pierrepont Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

JENKS, Jeremiah Whipple:

Economist; born in St. Clair, Mich., Sept. 2, 1856; son of Benjamin Lane and Amanda (Messer) Jenks. He was educated at the University of Michigan, from which he was graduated A.B., 1878; A.M., 1879; LL.D., 1903. He is also a Ph.D. of the University of Halle, Germany, of the year 1885. He studied law and was admitted to the Michigan bar, but has been engaged in teaching political economy, social science, and similar topics since 1886. In 1899-1901 he was expert agent of the United States Industrial Commission, and consulting expert of the U. S. Department of Labor on trusts and industrial combinations. In 1901-1902 he was a special commissioner of the War Department to investigate questions of currency, labor, internal taxation and police in the Orient, his researches being utilized in connection with the government of the Philippines. He was appointed special expert on currency reform of Government of Mexico in 1903, and was a member of the U. S. Commission on International Exchange investigating and reporting on the proper method for the reform of currency in China, 1903-1904. In 1907 he was appointed a member of the U. S. Immigration Commission, in the work of which he has taken an active part. He is professor of political economy and politics in Cornell University, and is a member of American Economic Association, American Association for Labor Legislation, American Society of International Law, American Health League, American Academy of Political and Social Science, American Political Science Association, American Asiatic Association, Royal Asiatic Society (Shanghai, China); honorary member of the American Association of China, and member of the Century and National Arts Clubs of New York City, Cosmos Club of Washington, and the Town and Gown and Country Clubs of Ithaca, N. Y. He married at Mt. Morris, Ill., Aug. 28, 1884, to Georgia Bixler, and has two sons and one daughter. Residence: 2 South Avenue. Office: Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y.

JENKS, John Story, Jr.:

Banker; born in Philadelphia, in 1876; son of William H. and Hannah M. (Hacker) Jenks. He received his education in Haverford College. He is a member of the firm of Bertron, Griscom & Jenks, bankers, of New York and Philadelphia, and is a director of the Girard Trust Company, Fidelity Trust Co., and Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company of Philadelphia. He is a member of the Rittenhouse Club of Philadelphia and of the Union and Metropolitan Clubs of New York. Mr. Jenks married Isabella F. G. Morton, and they have two children; Thomas Story Jenks, born in 1904, and Morton Jenks, born in 1907. Residence: Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia. Address: Land Title Building, Philadelphia.

JENKS, Tudor:

Writer; born in Brooklyn, N. Y., May 7, 1857; son of Grenville Tudor and Persis Sophia (Smith) Jenks. He received his education in the Polytechnic Institute in Brooklyn, N. Y., and was graduated from Yale University as B.A. and from Columbia Law School as LL.B. He practised law, 1881-1887; was on the editorial staff of St. Nicholas Magazine, 1887-1902 and has been engaged in writing since 1902. He is author of: The Century World's Fair Book, 1893; Imaginations, or Truthless Tales; Boys' Book of Exploration, 1900; Galopoff, 1902; Gypsy, 1902; Defense of the Castle, 1903; Making a Start, 1903; A Little Rough Rider, 1904; Great Writers, series, five volumes, on Chaucer, Shakespeare, Milton, Scott, Goldsmith, 1904-1907; When America Was New, 1907; Electricity for Young People, 1907; Captain John Smith, 1904; Captain Myles Standish, 1905; and has written for magazines, etc., for many years. Mr. Jenks married in Brooklyn, Oct. 5, 1882, Mary Donnison Ford, and they have three children. Address: Bronxville, N. Y.

JENNEY, Charles Albert:

Publisher; born New Bedford, Mass., Oct. 18, 1841; son of Sanford and Julia Ann Jenney. He was educated in the public schools, and became commissary of the United States Hospital, 1864 and 1865. He was engaged in dry goods business at Waupun, Wis., 1865-1875; secretary of the Statistical Bureau of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, 1875; was special agent of the Tenth Census of the United States, having charge of the Division of Fire Insurance; special agent of the Eleventh Census, having supervision of all insurance statistics; since 1883, with the Underwriting Printing and Publishing Company, of which he is now president and treasurer; also president and publisher of the Weekly Underwriter and Record of Fire Insurance by States, and president of the Unity Press. He is a member of the American Trade Press Association; fellow of the American Statistical Association, American Academy of Political and Social Science; fellow of the Royal Statistical Society of England, Society of American Authors (member of the Board of Managers); is a member of the Board of Managers of the Underwriters' Club and member of the Press Club of New York City, Union League Club of Brooklyn; and he is treasurer and chairman of the Executive Committee of the Tuscarora Club of Grant Mills, N. Y. Mr. Jenney married, Dec. 4, 1865, Mary Frank Smith. Residence: 29 McDonough Street, Brooklyn. Address: 58 William Street, New York City.

JENNINGS, Edward H.:

President of the Columbia National Bank; born at Brady's Bend, Armstrong County, Pa., Aug. 10, 1852. After completing a practical course of education, he joined his father, Richard Jennings, in the production of oil. His first experience was acquired at Armstrong Run. The Jennings family removed from Brady's Bend to Queenstown, where they resided up to the time of the elder Jennings' death, in 1891. It was at the time of his father's death that the present firm of E. H. Jennings & Bros. was organized. In addition to being senior member of this concern, he is president of the Columbia Bank and the Pennsylvania Title and Trust Company, a director in the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, and, with his brothers, is the principal stockholder of the Kanawha Oil Company. He is also a member of the oil producing firm of M. Murphy & Co., and Jennings, Guffey & Co. In 1879 Mr. Jennings married to Mary Colwell, of Kittanning, Pa. Address: Columbia National Bank, Pittsburgh.

JENNINGS, Frederic Beach:

Lawyer; born in Bennington Centre, Vt., Aug. 6, 1853; son of Isaac and Sophia (Day) Jennings. He was graduated from Williams College, S.B., 1872, A.M., 1875;

Harvard Law School, LL.B., 1874, New York University Law School, 1875. Mr. Jennings was admitted to the New York Bar in 1875, and is a member of the law firm of Stetson, Jennings and Russell. He is interested as officer or director in various corporations, including the Chicago and Erie Railroad Company, New York Trust Company, International Paper Company, American Trading Company, Hudson and Manhattan Railroad Company, Hudson companies. Mr. Jennings is vice-president of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York; member of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York Zoological Society, New England Society, Williams Alumni Association; trustee of Williams College and Barnard College. He is a member of the Century, University, Union League, Metropolitan, Racquet and Tennis, New York Athletic, City, Delta Kappa Epsilon, Down Town, and City Midway Clubs of New York City and the Westchester Country, St. Andrew's Golf, Garden City Golf and Country Clubs. He married, July 27, 1880, Lila Hall Park, of North Bennington, Vt., and has a daughter and three sons. Residence: 86 Park Avenue. Address: 15 Broad Street, New York City.

JENNINGS, Herbert Spencer:

Professor of experimental zoölogy, Johns Hopkins University; born at Tonica, Ill., April 8, 1868; son of George N. and Olive (Jenks) Jennings. He was graduated from the University of Michigan, B.S., in 1893; Harvard University, A.M., 1895, Ph.D., 1896; attended the University of Jena, Germany, in 1897; Morgan fellow at Harvard, 1895-1896; Parker traveling fellow of Harvard, 1896-1897. He was assistant professor of botany in the State Agricultural College of Texas, 1888-1889; professor of botany in Montana State Agricultural College, 1897-1898; instructor in zoölogy at Dartmouth College 1898-1899; instructor in zoölogy, 1899-1901, assistant professor of zoölogy 1901-1903. University of Michigan. In 1902 Mr. Jennings had charge of the Biological Survey of the Great Lakes, carried on by the U. S. Fish Commission. He was assistant professor of zoölogy, University of Pennsylvania, 1903-1906; research assistant of the Carnegie Institution 1903-1904; associate professor, 1906-1907, and professor of experimental zoölogy since 1907, Johns Hopkins University. He is author of numerous scientific papers in various zoölogical journals and in the publications of the Carnegie Institution; also of the Book: Behavior of the Lower Organisms, 1906; and is joint author with Jacob Reighard of Anatomy of the Cat, 1901. He is associate editor of the Journal of Comparative Neurology and Psychology, and of the Journal of Experimental Zoölogy. Mr. Jennings is a member of the American Society of Naturalists; American Society of Zoölogists, American Physiological Society, American Psychological Association, American Association for the Advancement of Science, Philadelphia Academy of Natural Sciences, American Philosophical Society; honorary fellow of the Royal Microscopical Society of Great Britain; trustee of the Marine Biological Laboratory at Woods Hole, Mass., president of the American Society of Zoölogists, 1909-1910, and is a member of Johns Hopkins Club. He married at Tecumseh, Mich., June 18, 1898, Mary Louise Burridge. Residence: 2442 North Calvert Street. Office: Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore.

JENNINGS, William Sherman:

Lawyer and ex-governor; born in Centuria, Ill., March 24, 1863; son of Joseph W. and Amanda (Couch) Jennings. He was educated in public schools, the Southern Illinois Normal University at Carbondale, and the Union College of Law, Chicago. He went to Florida in 1885, practised law; was appointed circuit court commissioner in May, 1887; was elected county judge of Hernando County, Fla.; member of the Legislature 1892, speaker 1895; presidential elector of Florida, elected on the Democratic ticket, 1896; chairman of the Democratic State Convention in 1898; elected governor in 1900, and served 1901-1905. Since leaving the gubernatorial chair he has resumed his law practice; is general counsel of the Internal Improvement Fund of the State of Florida, and the Board of Drainage Commissioners of Florida; first vice-president and general counsel of the Florida Bank and Trust Company; president of the Leesburg State Bank; director of the Indian River State Bank, the Barnes and Jessup Company, and Naval Stores Company of Jacksonville. Governor Jennings is trustee of the John B. Stetson University; vice-president of the Florida Baptist Convention, and is a member of the Knights of Honor, Knights of Pythias and Elks orders. He married at Tallahassee, Fla., May 12, 1891, May Mann, and they have a son. Address: 1845 Main Street, Jacksonville, Fla.

JEROME, William Travers:

Lawyer and jurist; born in New York City, April 18, 1859; son of Lawrence K. Jerome, popularly known as "Larry," a noted wit, whose fame was by no means confined to Manhattan Island. Until 1877 young Jerome was under the instruction of private tutors. He then began a course of study at the Williston Preparatory School, at East Hampton, Mass. In the autumn of 1878 he entered Amherst College. In 1881 he left Amherst with the highest honors, though in ill-health from overwork in his studies. He stood highest in mathematics, but took a deep interest in metaphysics, the sciences and languages, particularly in Greek and Latin. In 1881 Mr. Jerome entered the law department of Columbia College, and after taking the usual two years' course decided to remain another year, and was graduated with the class of 1884, receiving the degree of LL.D. After serving the required time with the law firm of Stanley, Clark & Smith, he was admitted to the bar at the June term of the Supreme Court, after passing a brilliant examination. He opened his first office with Mr. Daniel Nason, his college chum, who had graduated and passed with him, as his partner. This relation continued unchanged for some time. In 1888 District Attorney John R. Fellows appointed Mr. Jerome one of his assistants. In the fall of 1899 the latter supported Mr. Goff for the district attorneyship against De Lancy Nicoll, and upon the election of Mr. Nicoll he retired from the office and returned to private practice. After leaving the district attorney's office Mr. Jerome appeared as counsel in the celebrated Carlyle W. Harris case, and in connection with Mr. Goff in the equally celebrated Gardner case. Mr. Jerome joined the reform movement which inspired the appointment by the Legislature of an investigating committee, which was headed by State Senator Clarence Lexow. John W. Goff, counsel for the committee, selected him as one of his assistants in that historic investigation, at the close of which the great political campaign for reform in the city's affairs began, with Mr. Jerome as counsel for the famous Committee of Seventy and manager of the campaign against Tammany, which resulted in the election of William L. Strong as Mayor and John W. Goff as Recorder. In the following year Mayor Strong appointed Mr. Jerome judge of the Court of Special Sessions, giving him the eight year term. He was elected November, 1901, district attorney of the County of New York, and re-elected in November, 1905, after an exciting campaign in which Mr. Jerome successfully defended his official acts. He continued his work of purging New York of gambling and other forms of protected vice in the abuse of which he forced the purification of New York's police system. In 1908 charges were made against his official conduct, were thoroughly investigated and resulted in a complete vindication of Mr. Jerome on every point, and in hearty approval of his measures for the administration of justice. Mr. Jerome is a member of the Bar Association of New York, and of many social clubs. Residence: 3 Rutgers Street. Country residence: Lakeville, Conn. Address: Criminal Court Building, New York City.

JESSE, Richard Henry:

Former president of the University of Missouri; born on the Ball Farm (home of Washington's mother) in Lancaster County, Va., March 1, 1853; son of W. T. and Mary (Claybrook) Jesse. He was educated in Hanover Academy, Va., the University of Virginia, 1873-1875, and part of 1878; instructor in French and mathematics in Hanover Academy in 1876; dean of the Academic Department in the University of Louisiana, 1878-1885; studied in Europe, 1885 and 1890; was professor of Latin in Tulane University, La., 1884-1891; and in 1891 was called to the presidency of the University of Missouri. He received the degree of LL.D. from Tulane University, 1892, University of Wisconsin, 1904, South Carolina College, 1905, Missouri Valley College, 1906, Washington University, St. Louis, 1907. President Jesse was chairman of the Section of Higher Education of the National Educational Association in 1898, and became a member of its Committee of Ten in 1891-1892. He was a member of the Administrative Board of the Congress of Arts at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, St. Louis, in 1904, and was awarded by that Exposition a commemorative diploma and medal in recognition of distinguished services to education. He contributed largely to the consolidation of Tulane University with the State University of Louisiana. In 1908 he resigned the presidency of the University of Missouri and entered upon the Carnegie Foundation. He was president of the National Association of State Universities, 1905-1906; delegate from the United States to the First International Congress of Radiology in Belgium in the summer of 1905. He was president of the National Baptist Congress in 1906. He is joint author (with E. A. Allen) of Missouri Literature; and is also author of pamphlets and various papers in society transactions and periodicals. He married, in 1882, Addie Henry Polk, of Princess Anne, Md. Address: Columbia, Mo.

JEWETT, Charles:

Physician; born in Bath, Me.; son of George and Sarah (Hale) Jewett. He was graduated from Bowdoin College, A.B., 1864; A.M., 1867, Sc.D., 1894; College of Physicians and Surgeons (Columbia), M.D., 1871. He has been engaged in the practice of medicine in Brooklyn, from graduation. He was professor of obstetrics, 1880-1900; professor of gynecology and obstetrics since 1900, and gynecological surgeon to Long Island College Hospital; consulting obstetrician to Kings County Hospital; consulting gynecologist to Bushwick Hospital, Swedish Hospital, and German Hospital, Brooklyn, and consulting surgeon to St. Christopher's Hospital. He is the author of: Essentials of Obstetrics; Manual of Child-bed Nursing; editor of Practice of Obstetrics, by American authors; contributor of chapters on his specialty to various text-books. He is a member of the Brooklyn Pathological Society, Medical Society of the County of Kings, Brooklyn Medical Society, Brooklyn Gynecological Society, New York Obstetrical Society, New York Academy of Medicine, Medical Society of the State of New York, American Medical Association, American Gynecological Society, American Academy of Medicine, Medical Association of Greater New York, Associated Physicians of Long Island, Gynecological Section of the Royal Society of Medicine of Great Britain, International Periodical Congress of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, Long Island College Hospital Alumni, Long Island Hospital Alumni, Bowdoin Alumni of New York, Alumni of Columbia University. He is a member of the Hamilton, and University Clubs of Brooklyn, Delta Kappa Epsilon Club of New York, and Long Island Automobile Club. He married, in 1868, Abbie E. Flagg. They have two children: Harold F., (M.D.) and Mrs. Alice H. Jewett Schwarte, of Saratoga Springs. Address: 330 Clinton Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

JEWETT, Charles Sherman:

Physician; born Moravia, Cayuga County, N. Y., March 16, 1865; son of Dr. Charles Carroll and Ellen (Burroughs) Jewett. He was graduated from Yale, Ph.B., 1887, Columbia, M.D., 1890; graduate student Universities of Berlin, Vienna, Prague and Graz. Attending physician, Erie County Hospital; clinical pathologist, Buffalo Hospital Sisters of Charity; practising physician in Buffalo since 1893; member resident staff of Charity (now City) Hospital, Blackwell's Island, 1890-1891. In Europe doing graduate work, 1892-1893, and 1898-1899 in various clinics and universities. He is a member of the American Medical Association, American Academy of Medicine, New York State Medical Association, Erie County Medical Society; president

Buffalo Academy Medicine, 1906-1907. Member Buffalo Yale Alumni Association, Buffalo Association Medical Alumni of Columbia. Club: Saturn (dean, 1907). Address: 892 Main Street, Buffalo.

JEWETT, Edgar Boardman:

Manufacturer; born in Ann Arbor, Mich., son of John Cotton and Priscilla (Boardman) Jewett. He received his education in the schools of Buffalo. Mr. Jewett served as sergeant in Company C of the Seventy-fourth Regiment of New York volunteers in the Civil War and brigadier-general of the National Guards of New York in 1884. He is president of the John C. Jewett Manufacturing Company; the Jewett Refrigerator Company; and vice-president of the Cary Safe Company. Police commissioner in 1894 and mayor of the City of Buffalo, 1895-1898. He is a member of the Sons of American Revolution; Order of Founders and Patriots of America and of the Buffalo Club. General Jewett married, Oct. 3, 1865, Elizabeth Foster Danforth, of Ann Arbor, who died Aug. 9, 1905. Address: Hotel Touraine, Buffalo.

JOCELYN, Stephen Perry:

United States Army officer; born in Brownington, Vt., March 1, 1843; son of William and Abigail Nims (Wilder) Jocelyn. He received his education at Barton Academy, Barton, Vt., and entered the U. S. Military service in 1863, serving as a lieutenant of volunteers throughout the Civil War. He took part in the operations before Richmond, Va., and was present at the occupation of that city on April 3, 1865. He entered the regular army as lieutenant of the 6th Infantry in 1866, being promoted to the rank of captain in 1874 in the same regiment, and serving in the same position in the 21st Infantry, until 1897, when he was appointed major of the 19th Infantry. He had previously received the brevet rank of major "for conspicuous gallantry" in the Nez Perce Indian campaign in 1877. In 1899 he was promoted to lieutenant-colonel of the 25th Infantry, and in 1901, colonel of the 14th Infantry, serving in that position and on the general staff until 1906, when he was appointed brigadier-general. He served in the Philippines in 1900, and again in 1903, commanding in the island of Samar. From 1904 to 1906, the period embracing important work of the Army incident to the earthquake and fire in San Francisco in the latter year, he was on duty in that city as chief of staff of the Pacific Division, being later assigned to command of the Department of the Columbia. General Jocelyn retired from active service, March 1, 1907. He is a member of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion, the Society of Colonial Wars, and the Buffalo (New York) Historical Society, besides the Army and Navy Clubs, of New York and Washington, D. C., and the Algonquin Club, of Burlington, Vt. He married at St. Louis, Feb. 2, 1886, Mary Chamberlain Edgell, and they have three children. Residence: 83 Summit Street, Burlington, Vt.

JOHANNSEN, Albert:

Geologist and petrographer; born in Belle Plaine, Iowa, Dec. 3, 1874. He was graduated from the University of Illinois, B.S., 1894, and from the University of Utah in 1898. The degree of Ph.D. was conferred upon him in 1903 by the Johns Hopkins University, in which he was fellow, 1902-1903. He was geological assistant on the Maryland Geological Survey, 1901-1903, and has been assistant geologist on the U. S. Geological Survey since 1903, having been acting chief of the Section of Petrology since 1907. He is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the Geological Society of Washington, the Geological Society of America, and the Washington Academy of Science, and is a Phi Beta Kappa, a 32d degree Mason, and a Noble of the Mystic Shrine. Dr. Johannsen has made many petrographical reports on rocks collected in different parts of the country, which have been embodied in various publications of the United States Geological Survey, and is the author of: A Key for the Determination of Rock-forming Minerals in Thin Sections, published by John Wiley and Sons in 1908, and Igneous Rocks of Western Arizona, 1908. He married at Radford, Va., Nov. 16, 1904, Anna-belle Scott, and has a son, Albert, Jr. Address: United States Geological Survey, Washington, D. C.

JOHNSON, Alba Boardman:

Partner of Burnham, Williams & Company, proprietors of Baldwin Locomotive Works, Philadelphia. Born in Pittsburgh, Feb. 8, 1858, of New England ancestry, being descended from Lieutenant Timothy Johnson, who came to Massachusetts Bay about 1677; educated in Philadelphia public schools and was graduated from Central High School, June, 1876. He was employed at Edge Moor Iron Company, Wilmington, Del., 1878-1879. Mr. Johnson is a trustee of Jefferson Medical College and Hospital; member of the Merion Cricket Club, Geographical Society, Contemporary Club, Pennsylvania Society Sons of the Revolution, Historical Society of Pennsylvania, Penn Club, New England Society of Pennsylvania, Lawyers' and Railroad Clubs of New York. He married, April 30, 1883, Elizabeth T. Biddle Reeves, who died April 2, 1908. Residence: Rosemont, Montgomery County, Pa.

JOHNSON, Burges:

Editor; born in Rutland, Vt., Nov. 9, 1877; son of James Gibson and Mary A. (Rankin) Johnson. He was graduated as B.A. from Amherst College in 1899; engaged in reportorial work on the Commercial Advertiser and Evening Post, 1899-1900; literary adviser of G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1900-1903; on literary staff Harper & Brothers, 1903-1906; assistant editor of Everybody's Magazine, 1906; managing editor of Outing Magazine from 1907. He is the author of: Rhymes of Little Boys, 1905 (Crowell); Pleasant Tragedies of Childhood, 1905 (Harper); Beastly Rhymes, 1906 (Crowell). Has lectured to some extent, and is a constant contributor of verse and prose to magazines. He is a member of the Amherst Association of New York, Delta Kappa Epsilon Association, and the Port Washington Yacht Club. He married in New York City, in 1904, Constance F., daughter of the Hon. Everett P. Wheeler.

Address: Port Washington, Long Island, N. Y.

JOHNSON, Charles Rensselaer:

Lawyer; born in Dana, Mass., Dec. 28, 1852; son of Theodore Wilder and Emily Sears (Miller) Johnson. He was graduated from Worcester High School in 1871 and from Harvard College, A.B., 1875. He was a member of the Worcester school Committee, 1877-1878, 1892-1894 and since 1896; member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, 1898-1899; master of chancery of Worcester County in 1882, and has been a member of the State Board of Charities of Massachusetts since 1904. In politics he is a Republican. He is a life member of the Worcester Society of Antiquity; corresponding member of the Western Reserve Historical Society; director of the Free Public Library of Worcester, since 1906; member of the Royal Arcanum, Improved Order of Red Men, Order of United American Mechanics, and of the Worcester Economic and Congregational Clubs of Worcester. Mr. Johnson married first at Maynard, Mass., Aug. 8, 1882, Mary McGown, who died Dec. 6, 1887; and second at Davenport, Iowa, May 29, 1889, Susie Servey, and he has three children. Residence: 3 Norwood Street. Address: 704 State Mutual Building, Worcester, Mass.

JOHNSON, Charles Willison:

Zoölogist; born in Morris Plains, N. J., Oct. 26, 1863; son of Albert Fletcher and Sarah Elizabeth (Willison) Johnson. He received his education in public and private schools; moved to St. Augustine, Fla., in 1880, continuing studies in natural history and making large collections of insects, mollusca and fossils, throughout the Southern States; was curator of the Museum of the Wagner Free Institute of Science, Philadelphia, 1888-1903, and has been curator of the Boston Society of Natural History since 1903, and associate editor and manager of the Nautilus, since 1890. He is a member of the Academy of Natural Sciences, Philadelphia, American Entomological Society of Washington, American Association for the Advancement of Science, Malacological Society of London, Conchological Society of Great Britain and Ireland. His researches have been chiefly in invertebrate biology, and particularly in relation to mollusca and diptera, concerning which he has contributed papers to various scientific journals. Mr. Johnson married in Philadelphia, Jan. 14, 1897, Carrie W. Ford. Residence: Brookline, Mass. Address: Boston Society of Natural History, Boston.

JOHNSON, Clarke Howard:

Associate justice of the Supreme Court of Rhode Island; born at Foster, R. I., Nov. 18, 1851; son of Elisha Johnson and Matilda (Howard) Johnson. He received his education in the public schools of Foster, R. I., Lapham Institute, North Scituate, R. I., and was graduated from Brown University, A.B., 1877. He was admitted to the Rhode Island bar in 1879. He was a member of the Rhode Island House of Representatives, 1879-1880, and 1899-1903; clerk of the Rhode Island House of Representatives, 1881-1887; justice of the District Court of the Eighth Judicial District of Rhode Island, 1886-1903; associate justice of the Supreme Court of Rhode Island from April 30, 1903. He is a Republican in politics. Mr. Johnson married in Providence, R. I., Dec. 21, 1889, Ida Susan Harrington. Address: Supreme Court House, Providence, R. I.

JOHNSON, Elias Finley:

Jurist; born at Van Wert, Ohio, June 24, 1861; son of Abel Johnson. He received his education in the National University at Lebanon, Ohio, and in the law department of the University of Michigan, and engaged in practice in his native place. He was elected as a Republican to the Ohio Legislature, serving four years; and in 1888 he removed to Ann Arbor, Mich., becoming a professor of law in the University of Michigan, until appointed in Feb., 1901, by President McKinley, to his present position as judge of the Supreme Court of the Philippine Islands. Judge Johnson had previously been for four years a member of the State Board of Education of Michigan. He is author of a text-book on Bills and Notes, and has edited editions of other legal text-books; and is a contributor to the legal press. Judge Johnson married, Sept. 6, 1883, Clara A. Smith. Address: Manila, Philippine Islands.

JOHNSON, Frederick Foote:

Assistant bishop of South Dakota; born in Newtown, Conn., April 23, 1866; son of Ezra L. and Jane E. (Camp) Johnson. He was graduated from Trinity College, Hartford, B.A., 1894, M.A., 1897, and studied theology at Berkeley Divinity School, Middletown, Conn. He was ordered deacon of the Episcopal Church in 1896, by Bishop White, acting for the bishop of Connecticut, and ordained to the priesthood the next year by Bishop Spalding. Following his entry to the ministry he was assistant at St. Stephen's Church, Colorado Springs, Colo., for one year, and later rector of Trinity Church, Redlands, Calif. In 1904 he became Diocesan Missionary of Western Massachusetts, and a year later was made assistant bishop of South Dakota. Address: Sioux Falls, S. Dak.

JOHNSON, George K.:

President of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company; born in Bucks County, Pa., Dec. 11, 1848, of Quaker parentage. He was educated in the Friends' Academy and at the Friends' Central School in Philadelphia, from which latter institution he was graduated in 1866. He began his business career as a clerk in a Philadelphia manufacturing house, and in 1880 started in business for himself as a member of the firm of Belknap, Johnson and Powell, manufacturers of umbrellas, which became the largest concern in that trade in the United States. Mr. Johnson became a member of the Board of Trustees of The Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company, many years ago, was elected vice-president of the company in April, 1897, and continued in that office until the death of Mr. Harry F. West, when he succeeded him in the presidency of the company, in which office he continues. Mr. Johnson is a director of the Camden National Bank and a trustee of many large estates. He is a member of the Union League Club of Philadelphia. Residence: Langhorne, Pa. Office: Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company, Philadelphia.

JOHNSON, Helen Kendrick:

Author, editor; born in Hamilton, N. Y., Jan. 4, 1843; daughter of Asabel C. and Anne (Hopkins) Kendrick. She was educated at the Orcaid, Worcester, Mass., and she married in 1869, Rossiter Johnson. Mrs. Johnson was editor of the American Woman's Journal, 1893-1894; sole founder, in 1886, of The Meridian, a woman's club that meets at midday. She is author of: The Nutshell Series; Poems and Songs for Young People; Our Familiar Songs; Tears for the Little Ones. Author: The Roddy Books; Raleigh Westgate; Woman and the Republic. Mrs. Johnson is a member of the Association Opposed to the Extension of Suffrage to Women; founder, 1908, and president of the Guidon, an anti-suffrage educational study club. Address: 34 Union Square, New York City.

JOHNSON, Henry Abert:

Consular officer; born in the District of Columbia; appointed consul at Venice, March 29, 1886; consul at Valencia, May 1, 1903; consul at Liege, March 30, 1907. Address: American Consulate, Liege, Belgium.

JOHNSON, Isaac:

Jurist; born in Delaware County, Pa.; served through the Civil War, which he left with the rank of captain; made the law his profession, after serving for many years as prothonotary and clerk of the courts of Delaware County. Captain Johnson had the distinction of being the only man ever admitted to the county bar without a formal examination. Judge Clayton admitting him to practice on the motion of ex-Judge Broomall, who said that Mr. Johnson's qualifications for legal practice were too well known to render an examination necessary. He became very successful as a lawyer and highly popular as a public speaker, especially on patriotic themes, and on the death of Judge Clayton, in Jan.,

1900, he was appointed by Governor Stone to succeed him as president judge. He was elected to this office in the Nov. election for the ten years' term. Address: Media, Pa.

JOHNSON, James:

Consular official; born in England; appointed consul at Sheffield, July 29, 1897; consul at Palermo, Aug. 25, 1900; consul-general at Hankow, Dec. 13, 1904; consul at Algiers, Feb. 2, 1905. Address: American Consulate, Algiers, Algeria.

JOHNSON, Jesse H.:

Consular official; born in West Virginia; appointed consul at Coatocook, Nov. 16, 1899; consul at Santos, Sept. 20, 1901; consul at Swansea, March 30, 1907. Address: American Consulate, Swansea, Wales.

JOHNSON, John A.:

Journalist, governor; born in St. Peter, Minn., July 28, 1861. He was educated in the public schools, and received the degree of LL.D. from the University of Pennsylvania in 1907. He was State senator from 1898 to 1902; elected governor of Minnesota in 1904, on the Democratic ticket, and reelected in 1906. His election to the governorship of a normally strong Republican State, together with his strong personality, attracted national attention and he was regarded as a Presidential possibility in 1908, especially on the ground of his strength with the great Scandinavian population of the Northwest. He was a prominent figure in the Democratic campaign of the year and is regarded as one of the ablest of the younger men of the party; chairman of inter-State conference to investigate insurance problems in 1906; member and vice-president of the International Policyholders' Committee in 1906. He married in Rochester, Minn., in 1895, Nora Preston. Residence: St. Peter, Minn. Address: The Argus, St. Paul, Minn.

JOHNSON, John G.:

Lawyer; born in Philadelphia, Pa., about 1840, and all his life a resident of that city. He received a common school education, graduating at the Central High School in its thirtieth class, and subsequently entering the office of William F. Judson, a well-known member of the Philadelphia bar, for the study of law. He was admitted to the bar, Feb. 7, 1863, and continued in association with Mr. Judson, making steady and rapid progress in his profession, and became the special counsel of various large corporations. On the death of Mr. Judson he was chosen to succeed him as counsel for the Pennsylvania Company for Insurance on Lives and Granting Annuities, a corporation having business connections in every part of the United States. Among the numerous great cases in which Mr. Johnson has been prominently concerned is that of the Northern Securities Company, and he made the leading argument for the defendants in the Commodities Clause case heard in June, 1908, and decided in favor of the defendants in the Circuit Court. He might have attained to the highest honors, such as that of attorney-general of the United States, or Justice of the United States Supreme Court, tenders of both those high offices being made him, but he has steadily declined, and the only office he has held is the minor one of a commissioner of Fairmount Park. Mr. Johnson's one recreation is that of enjoyment of art and the study and purchase of noted pictures, of which he has gradually acquired a large and highly valuable collection. His reputation as a judge in art is only second to that of his skill in law, and other collectors have eagerly availed themselves of his aid in adding gems to their galleries. This has been especially the case with the fine collection of P. A. B. Widener, which was chosen under his assistance and advice. The city of Philadelphia has availed itself of his judgment in the selection of pictures for the well-chosen Wiltack gallery in Memorial Hall, Fairmount Park. Mr. Johnson married Mrs. Morrell, a daughter of John Hare Powell, and long a leader of fashion in Philadelphia. He has no children, but his stepson, Mr. Edward de V. Morrell, has occupied a prominent position, having attained the position of brigadier-general in the National Guard of Pennsylvania, and represented Philadelphia in the Fifty-sixth, Fifty-eighth and Fifty-ninth Congresses. Residence: 406 South Broad Street. Office address: Land Title Building, Philadelphia, Pa.

JOHNSON, John Quincy Adams:

Lawyer; born at Washington, D. C., Feb. 12, 1858; son of William Clarkson and Mary Louisa (Adams) Johnson. He was educated in Newburyport (Mass.) High School, Yale, A.B., 1878, Columbia Law School, LL.B., 1880. He has been engaged in the practice of law in New York City from graduation; was partner with Frederick Potter (Yale, 1878) in firm of Potter & Johnson, from 1888 until Mr. Potter withdrew from active practice in 1894; since then practising alone. He is a member of the Psi Upsilon fraternity, Sons of the Revolution (New York), Society of Colonial Wars, Order of Runnemedc, St. Andrew's Golf Club, Chauncey, N. Y., and Palisade Boat Club, Yonkers, N. Y. He married in Yonkers, N. Y., Jan. 23, 1884, Caroline Curtiss, and they have five sons and four daughters. Residence: 87 High Street, Yonkers, N. Y. Office: 38 Park Row, New York City.

JOHNSON, Joseph Esrey:

Iron master; born in Montgomery County, Pa., Feb. 5, 1843; son of Alexander and Sarah Peterman (Esrey) Johnson. He was educated in the public schools of Delaware and Montgomery Counties, Pa., and the private school of Edward B. Wetherill. He enlisted in the Fourth Regiment of Pennsylvania Infantry, at Washington, D. C., June-July, 1861, and in Aug., 1861, he was appointed second lieutenant in the 58th Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, of which he later became first lieutenant and captain, receiving commission as major, Jan., 1866; and he was brevetted major for special gallantry at the capture of Fort Harrison, Va., Sept. 29, 1864. In 1866, in connection with General Cecil Clay, now of Washington, he built the first boom on James River, and established a merchant sawmill. In 1872 he became manager of the Longdale Iron Company, Longdale, Va., and still holds the position. He is a director of the Longdale Iron Company of Virginia, the Harvey Coal and Coke Company, the Dunloup Coal and Coke Company, and the Prudence Coal and Coke Company. He is a member of the American Institute of Mining Engineers, the United Service Club of Philadelphia, Military Order of Loyal Legion, and the Medal of Honor Legion. He married in Baltimore, Nov. 5, 1865, Mary Catherine Roche, and they have two sons. Address: Longdale, Allegheny County, Va.

JOHNSON, Joseph French:

Educator and economist; born in Hardwick, Mass., Aug. 24, 1853; son of Gardner Nye and Eliza (French) Johnson. He was graduated from Harvard as A.B. (Phi Beta Kappa), 1878, and took one year of post-graduate study in history and political economy in Germany. He has received the honorary degree of Doctor of Commercial Science from Union College. Mr. Johnson is treasurer of the Economic Club of New York, and was secretary of the Special Currency Committee of the New York Chamber of Commerce in 1906. He was engaged in journalism until 1893; first with the Springfield (Mass.) Republican, and later as financial editor of the Chicago Tribune; established the Spokane (Wash.) Spokesman in 1890, sold his interest in 1893 and became professor of finance until 1901, in the University of Pennsylvania, where he also conducted a pioneer course in journalism on original lines, which have since been followed by other institutions in the United States and Europe. He was lecturer on finance in Columbian University, 1900-1903, and since 1901 has been professor of political economy and from Jan. 1, 1903, and dean of the School of Commerce at New York University. Mr. Johnson is author of: Money and Currency, 1906; also various contributions to financial journals and leading reviews upon currency, economics, commerce and related subjects. He is a member of the Board of Directors of the Merchants' Association of New York, a member of the American Academy of Political and Social Science; the American Economic Association and of the Harvard Club of New York City. Mr. Johnson married at Aurora, Ill., Aug. 4, 1884, Caroline Temperance Stolp, and has three children. Address: 32 Waverly Place, New York City.

JOHNSON, Joseph Horsfall:

Bishop of Los Angeles; born in Schenectady, N. Y., June 7, 1847; son of Stephen Hotchkiss and Eleanor Johnson. He was graduated from Williams College, B.A., 1870, and from the General Theological Seminary, New York City, in 1873. He received the degree of D.D. from the Nashotah (Wis.) Theological Seminary, 1895. He took orders as deacon of the Episcopal Church in 1873 and the following year was ordained priest by Bishop A. Potter. Until his election to the episcopate, he filled the rectorship of various churches in the East and North, being curate of Holy Trinity Church, Highland, N. Y., 1873-1879, rector of Trinity Church, Bristol, R. I., 1879-1881, of St. Peter's Church, Westchester, N. Y., 1881-1886, of Christ's Church, Detroit, Mich., 1886-1896. He became bishop of Los Angeles, Calif., in 1896 and was consecrated by Bishops Davies, Worthington, W. A. Leonard, Talbot, A. Leonard, Nicholson and Gailor. He married, at Worcester, Mass., Isabel Greene Davis, in 1881. Address: 523 South Olive Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

JOHNSON, Joseph Travis:

Congressman; born in Brewerton, S. C., Feb. 28, 1858. He was graduated from Erskine College, July 2, 1879, and admitted to the practice of the law in all the courts of South Carolina May 30, 1883. He never held office until elected to the Fifty-seventh Congress; was reelected to the Fifty-eighth, Fifty-ninth and Sixtieth Congresses and to the Sixty-first Congress from the Fourth South Carolina District. Mr. Johnson in politics is a Democrat. Address: Spartanburg, S. C.

JOHNSON, Lewis Jerome:

Educator and consulting civil engineer; born in Milford, Mass., Sept. 24, 1867; son of Napoleon Bonaparte and Mary Tufts (Stone) Johnson. He was graduated from Milford High School, 1883, Harvard College, A.B., 1887, and from Lawrence Scientific School of Harvard, C.E., 1888. He studied in Europe, 1888-1890, chiefly at the Federal Polytechnic School in Zurich, and 1890-1906, with an interval of two years, he was instructor and assistant professor, and since 1906, professor of civil engineering, at Harvard. He was connected with the Illinois Steel Company, 1892-1894, and in the past ten years has been connected with numerous constructions in steel and reinforced concrete, including the Harvard Stadium. He is author of: Statics by Algebraic and Graphic Methods, 1903. 1908; writer on technical and civic subjects. He is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, the American Society for Testing Materials, the Boston Society of Civil Engineers; and of several organizations for civic improvement. He is also a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. He married in Evanston, Ill., June 27, 1893, Grace Allen Fitch, and has two sons. Residence: 90 Raymond Street. Office: 309 Pierce Hall. Cambridge, Mass.

JOHNSON, Martin Nelson:

United States senator; born in Wisconsin in 1850; son of Nelson and Anna (Selheim) Johnson. His parents moved to Iowa in the year of his birth, and he was graduated from the Iowa State University, 1873. He taught for two years in the California Military Academy, Oakland, Calif., studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1876. He served a term each in the Iowa House of Representatives and the Iowa State Senate; was a Hayes elector for the Dubuque district in 1876. He moved to Dakota, 1882, and took up Government land; was district attorney for two terms; member of the Constitutional Convention of North Dakota, 1889; chairman of the first Republican State Convention, 1889. He was elected to the Fifty-second, Fifty-third, Fifty-fourth and Fifty-fifth Congresses, retiring from Congress in 1899 and engaging in farming and the grain trade. He was an unsuccessful candidate for U. S. senator before the North Dakota Legislature in 1889 and 1899; was nominated by the Republican primary and elected U. S. senator in 1909 for the term expiring March 3, 1915. Address: Petersburg, N. Dak.

JOHNSON, Mary Hannah:

Librarian; born in Nashville, Tenn.; daughter of George S. and Hannah (Payne) Johnson. She received an academic education in her native city and in 1899 took up library work, afterward taking a technical course in the University of Chicago. She began and developed the free library system in Nashville and is librarian of the Carnegie Library in that city; and she has been one of the most active and prominent factors in the rapid development of library work in the south, especially in connection with the public schools. She is secretary of the Tennessee Library Association. Address: Carnegie Library, Nashville, Tenn.

JOHNSON, Owen:

Author; born in New York City, Aug. 27, 1878; son of Robert Underwood and Katherine (McMahon) Johnson. He was educated at Lawrenceville School and Yale, A.B., 1900; was founder and first editor of the Lawrenceville Literary Magazine, and chairman of the Yale Literary Magazine for the class of 1900. Mr. Johnson is author of the novels: Arrows of the Almighty, 1901; In the name of Liberty, 1905; Max Fergus, 1906; The Eternal Boy, 1909; and of the play, The Comet, played for two years by Mme. Nazimova. He is a member of the Players', New York City. Mr. Johnson married, May 25, 1901, Mary Galt Stockly, of Lakewood, N. J. Address: Stockbridge, Mass.

JOHNSON, Robert Underwood:

Editor; born in Washington, D. C., Jan. 12, 1853; son of Nimrod Hoge and Catherine (Underwood) Johnson. He was educated at Centreville (Ind.) Collegiate Institute, and Earlham College, Richmond, Ind., and was graduated B.S., 1871, and later honorary Ph.D.; also honorary A.M. from Yale in 1891. In 1889 he originated and with John Muir planned and forwarded the establishment of the Yosemite National Park, created in 1890; he was supported with voice and pen causes of international copyright, forest conservation, free art, civil service reform and low tariff. He has been a member of the editorial staff of the Century Magazine since 1873, and associate editor since 1881; co-editor with C. C. Buel of Battles and Leaders of the Civil War (the Century's War series enlarged to four volumes), and is author of: The Winter Hour and Other Poems; Songs of Liberty and Other Poems; Poems (collected). He was decorated Chevalier de la Légion d' Honneur in 1891; Cavalier della Corona d'Italia in 1895. Since 1888 and during international copyright campaign of 1891 has been secretary of the American Copyright League (authors); member and secretary 1903-1909, of the National Institute of Arts and Letters; member and secretary of the Academy of Arts and Letters; originator of the Keats-Shelley Memorial in Rome (secretary of the American Committee). Mr. Johnson is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa, New York Civil Service Reform Association, American Forestry Association, Citizens Union, the Century, Players and Authors Clubs, and honorary member of the Sierra and MacDowell Clubs. He married in Washington, D. C., Aug. 31, 1876, Katherine McMahon, and they have two children. Address: 327 Lexington Avenue, New York City.

JOHNSON, Rossiter:

Author, editor; born in Rochester, N. Y., Jan. 27, 1840; son of Reuben and Almira Alexander Johnson. He was graduated from the University of Rochester, A.B., 1863, Ph.D., 1888, LL.D. 1893. He was associate editor of the Rochester Democrat, 1864-1868; editor of the Concord (N. H.) Statesman, 1869-1872; associate editor of the American Cyclopædia, 1873-1877; managing editor Cyclopædia of American Biography, 1886-1888; associate editor of Standard Dictionary, 1892-1894; editor of the Authorized History of the World's Columbian Exposition, 1896, Appletons' Annual Cyclopædia, 1883-1902, The Literary Querist in The Lamp (formerly Book-Buyer), 1888-1904; Universal Cyclopædia and Atlas since 1901. Supervising editor of revised editions of Velasquez' Spanish Dictionary and Adler's German Dictionary, 1901-1903; devised and edited the series of Little Classics (eighteen volumes) and also Liber Scriptorum, the book of the Authors Club. Mr. Johnson is also editor of: Works of the British Poets, with Biographical Sketches (three volumes); Playday Poems; Famous Single and Fugitive Poems; Fifty Perfect Poems (with Charles A. Dana); The World's Great Books (forty volumes) Dictionary of Notable Americans (ten volumes); The Great Events by Famous Historians (twenty volumes); The Literature of Italy (with Dora Knowlton Ranous) (sixteen volumes); The Authors' Digest (twenty volumes). Author: Phaeton Rogers; The End of a Rainbow: History of the War of 1812; History of the French War; History of the War of Secession; Idler and Poet (poems); The Hero of Manila; Morning Lights and Evening Shadows (poems); The Alphabet of Rhetoric; The Story of the Constitution of the United States; The Blank-Cartridge Ballot; also wrote the Whispering-Gallery series in the Overland Monthly, and contributed to various magazines. Mr. Johnson is a lecturer on historical subjects. He is ex-president of the New York Association of Phi Beta Kappa, Society of the Genesee, Quill Club, Delta Upsilon fraternity, and founder, and president since 1898 of the University Extension Society. He has been successively secretary, chairman and treasurer of the Authors Club and is a member of the Century Association. He married, in 1869, Helen Kendrick. Residence: Amagansett, L. I. Office: 34 Union Square, New York City.

JOHNSON, Tom Loftin:

Mayor of Cleveland; born in Georgetown, Ky., July 18, 1854; son of Albert W. and Helen (Loftin) Johnson. After attending the public schools of Georgetown he found employment in a rolling mill, and afterward entered the office of a street railway in which he was soon advanced to the position of secretary. In 1872 he invented an improvement in steel rails, known as Johnson's car-rail, and engaged in its manufacture. He attained street railway interests in Indianapolis, and also in Cleveland, and acquired a large fortune; and he erected a large plant for the manufacture of steel rails in Cleveland. He was nominated in 1888 as Democratic candidate for the Fifty-first Congress from the Twelfth District of Ohio, but was defeated; but was elected to the Fifty-second and Fifty-third Congresses, serving 1891-1895. He was elected mayor of Cleveland in 1901, and has been thrice re-elected, his present term expiring Jan. 1, 1910. Although his own fortune has been largely acquired through the medium of franchise privileges, Mayor Johnson is recognized as one of the ablest advocates of the municipal ownership of public utilities, and one of the most forceful exponents of the single-tax theory of Henry George, and his policy as mayor has been directed toward the securing of lower street railway fares, and in other ways lightening the burden imposed upon the people by special privileges. Address: Cleveland, Ohio.

JOHNSON, William Mindred:

Lawyer; born at Newton, Sussex County, N. J., Dec. 2, 1847; son of Whitfield S. Johnson, who was secretary of State of New Jersey, 1861-1865, and Ellen (Green) Johnson. He was educated in the Model School at Trenton, N. J., and Princeton University, A.B., 1867, and later A.M. He was admitted to the bar of the State of New Jersey in 1870; and has since practised law at Hackensack, N. J. Mr. Johnson was elected to the Senate of New Jersey and served 1895-1900, and was elected president of that body in 1900. While so serving he was acting governor of New Jersey during the absence of Governor Voorhees in Europe in May and June, 1900. Later in 1900 he was appointed first assistant postmaster-general of the United States, which office he held until 1902, when he returned to the practice of law in New Jersey. He was a delegate to the National Republican Conventions of 1888 and 1904, and was chairman of the New Jersey State Republican Conventions of 1900 and 1904. Mr. Johnson of the donor to Hackensack of its Public Library. He is a member of the Lawyers' and Princeton Clubs of New York and of the Holland Society. He married in 1872, Maria E. White. Address: Hackensack, N. J.

JOHNSON, Willis Fletcher:

Editor, author and lecturer, and president of Civic Service Commission; born in New York City, Oct. 7, 1857; son of William and Alathia Augusta (Coles) Johnson. He received his education in the Pennington Seminary and New York University, from which he afterward received the degree of LL.M.; and the A.M. and L.H.D. degrees were conferred upon him by Dickinson College. He was school principal, 1876-1877; has been a member of the editorial staff of the New York Tribune since 1880 and of the lecture staff of the New York City Board of Education since 1902. In 1904 he traveled in Panama to inspect the canal and other things. In May, 1908, he was appointed for a term of four years a Civil Service Commissioner of the State of New Jersey and was elected president of the Commission. Mr. Johnson is author of: A Century of Expansion, 1903 (Macmillan); Four Centuries of the Panama Canal, 1906 (Henry Holt and Company); Henry Livingston, a Memoir, 1907 (The DeVinne Press); was the biographical editor of the History of New York University and editor of Songs of New York University. He is a member of the American Geographical Society, National Geographic Society, New York Historical Society, National Institute of Civics, Psi Upsilon fraternity, the National Historic and Scenic Preservation Society, and National Civil Service Reform Association; member of the Council of the New York University and president of the Board of Trustees of the Pennington Seminary, of Pennington, New Jersey. He is also a member of the Psi Upsilon, National Arts, and Quill Clubs of New York City. Mr. Johnson married at Tuckerton, N. J., in 1878, Sue Rockhill. Residence: Firleigh Hall, New Providence, N. J. Office: 154 Nassau Street, New York City.

JOHNSTON, James Steptoe:

Bishop of Western Texas; born in Church Hill, Miss., June 9, 1843; son of James Steptoe and Louisa C. B. Johnston. He attended the University of Virginia, 1860-1861, and served four years in the Army of the Confederate States, most of the time in Lee's Army; first as a private in Hood's Division, afterwards as lieutenant in Stuart's Cavalry. He was ordered deacon of the Episcopal Church in 1869, and in 1871 was ordained to the priesthood by Bishop Green. He was connected with St. James' Church, Port Gibson, Miss., 1870-1876, with the Church of the Ascension, Mt. Sterling, Ky., 1876-1880, with Trinity Church, Mobile, Ala., 1880-1888. In 1888 he became bishop of Western Texas, and was consecrated by Bishops Wilmer, Dudley, Harris, Gallagher, and Thompson. Received the degree of D.D. from the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn. Bishop Johnston is author of numerous reports, appeals, addresses, and sermons. Address: San Antonio, Texas.

JOHNSTON, Joseph Forney:

United States senator; born in Lincoln County, N. C., in 1843; son of Dr. William and Nancy (Forney) Johnston. He left school to enter the Confederate States Army in March, 1861; served until the end of the war, being four times wounded and reaching the rank of captain. Since the war he has resided in Birmingham, Ala., where he was engaged as a practising lawyer seventeen years and as a banker ten years. He was elected in 1896 and reelected in 1898 governor of Alabama. He was elected by the Alabama Legislature, Aug. 6, 1908, to fill out the unexpired term of Hon. E. W. Pettus, deceased, as U. S. Senator from Alabama for the term which ended March 3, 1909, and also for the term which will expire March 3, 1915. Address: Birmingham, Ala.

JOHNSTON, Russell M.:

Lawyer; born in Albany, N. Y., July 6, 1864; son of Colonel Robert C. S. A. (West Point, 1850), and Catherine S. (Van Rensselaer) Johnston. He was educated at Geneva (N. Y.) High School, Hobart College, B.S., 1884, Albany Law School, LL.B., 1887. He is an estate lawyer, and has been five times to Europe, and through the West Indies as far south as Trinidad. He has traveled extensively in the United States; has been to the Pacific Coast and in thirty States and territories. He is director of the Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Albany, N. Y. He is a member of the State Bar Association (Grievance Committee), and was a member of the sub-committee of the Grievance Committee which investigated the charges against Justice Warren B. Hooker. He is a member of the Albany County Bar Association, Fort Orange Club (ex-secretary and trustee), University Club (was first president), and the Albany County, and Burns Clubs of Albany. Residence: 20 Elk Street. Office: 38 Tweddle Building, Albany, N. Y.

JOHNSTON, William Agnew:

Jurist; born in Oxford, Ont., July 24, 1848; son of Mathew and Jane (Agnew) Johnston. He was educated in the schools of Ontario, and Illinois, studied law, went to Kansas and in 1872 was admitted to the bar of that State and engaged in the practice of law. He became active in politics as a Republican, was elected to the State House of Representatives in 1875, to the Senate in 1876; was appointed assistant U. S. attorney for the District of Kansas in 1879, elected attorney-general of Kansas, 1880-1884. Then was elected to the Supreme bench of the State, on which he served as associate justice until 1902, when he became chief justice of that court, in which office he is still serving. Judge Johnston married in 1875, Lucy Brown. Address: Topeka, Kan.

JOHNSTONE, Edward Robert:

Editor-in-chief of the Cleveland Leader; born in Utica, N. Y., April 30, 1849; son of Mervin E. and Julia E. Johnstone. He was graduated from Dickinson College in 1870. Mr. Johnstone served in Indian campaigns in 1877, 1880 and 1881; was on the editorial staff of the St. Paul Pioneer Press, 1882-1892; city and county assessor at St. Paul, Minn., 1892-1895; served with the Associated Press, 1897-1898, in New York City; editor of the Minneapolis Times, 1898-1903; and managing editor of the New York Commercial Advertiser in 1903-1904. He also served in charge of a fleet of dispatch boats in the Spanish-American War, at Key West, in the Havana and Santiago blockades, and in Porto Rico. Mr. Johnstone is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Society, Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity, Sons of the American Revolution, and the American Social Science Association, and is secretary of the Porto Rican Expedition Association. He married in Boston, Jan. 27, 1887, Ida Louise Abell. Address: The Leader, Cleveland, Ohio.

JOLINE, Adrian Hoffman:

Lawyer; born in Sing Sing, N. Y., June 30, 1850; son of Colonel Charles O. and Mary (Hoffman) Joline. He was educated in Mount Pleasant Academy, Princeton, A. B., 1870, A.M., 1873, Columbia Law School, LL.B., 1872, Princeton, LL.D., 1904. He was admitted to the bar in May, 1872; was member of the law firm of Butler, Stillman & Hubbard, 1881-1896; of Butler, Notman, Joline & Mynderse, 1896-1905; since 1905, of Joline, Larkin & Rathbone. He was chairman of the Board of Directors and president of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railway Company, 1906. In 1907 he was selected as receiver of the Metropolitan Street Railway Co., of New York City and performed the arduous duties of that position with marked success. He is a member of the American Bar Association, Association of the Bar of the City of New York, New York State Bar Association, New York, New Jersey, Virginia and American Historical Societies. He is author of: Meditations of an Autograph Collector, 1902; Diversions of a Book Lover, 1903. Mr. Joline is a member of the Century, University, Grolier, Princeton, Nassau, Barnard, Morristown, Down Town; St. Elmo and City Clubs of New York City and the Caxton Club of Chicago. He married, in 1876, Mary E., daughter of Francis Larkin. Address: 54 Wall Street, New York City.

JONAS, Johannes Benoni Eduard:

Professor of Germanic languages; born at Ahnapee (now Algoma), Wis., April 21, 1873; son of Heinrich Eduard and Emma Christine (Lefler) Jonas. He was educated in the public and high schools of Beaver Dam, Wis., Concordia College, Milwaukee, (a German gymnasium), graduating in 1893; the University of Wisconsin, A.B., 1894, A.M., 1895; fellow in Germanics in the University of Chicago, 1896-1899, Ph.D. 1899; and studied in Berlin, Germany, 1897. He became instructor in German in the University of Wisconsin, 1894-1895, while working for the degree of A.M.; was instructor in German at Morgan Park Academy, Chicago, 1895-1896, and in the summer quarter of 1896; instructor in German in Purdue University, 1899-1901; assistant professor of Germanic languages and literatures in Brown University, 1901; and acting head of the department, 1904-1905; now professor of Germanic languages, Brown University. Mr. Jonas has contributed to Modern Language Notes, the Publications of Modern Language Association, School Review, and Journal of Theology. He is a member of the Modern Language Association of America, American Dialect Society, and the Barnard Club of Providence, R. I. Address: 7 Barnes Street, Providence, R. I.

JONES, Andrew B.:

Merchant; born in Whallonsburgh, N. Y., May 19, 1840; son of Benjamin G. and Almira E. (Morhous) Jones. He was educated in a country school; served seven years in the National Guard of the State of New York. He is treasurer of the Hudson Valley Paper Company, Incorporated; trustee of the Albany County Savings Bank; director of the Albany County Bank. He is also a trustee of the Mohawk and Hudson Humane Society, and a member of the Albany Country Club. He married in Palmyra, N. Y., Nov. 8, 1871, Alice Louise Tucker, and has four children. Address: 32 Elk Street, Albany, N. Y.

JONES, Burr W.:

Lawyer; born in Evansville, Wis., March 9, 1846; son of William and Sarah M.

Jones. He was graduated from the University of Wisconsin, A.B., 1870, LL.B., 1871. He has been engaged in the practice of law in Madison, Wis., since 1871, and since 1885 has also been a professor in the Law School of the University of Wisconsin. He was district attorney of Dane County, Wis., 1872-1876, and was elected to the Forty-eighth and Forty-ninth Congresses. He was chairman of the Democratic State Convention of Wisconsin in 1892; was a delegate to the (gold-standard) National Democratic Convention which met in Indianapolis in 1896, and presented the name of General Bragg to the convention as a candidate for President. Mr. Jones was president of the Wisconsin State Bar Association, 1907-1908, and has served as president of the Dane County Bar Association. He is author of a text-book on The Law of Evidence in Civil Cases, in three volumes. Mr. Jones married, in December, 1873, Olive L. Hoyt, who died in 1906. Residence: 112 Langdon Street. Office: Badger Block, Madison, Wis.

JONES, Charles Henry:

Lawyer; born in Beverly, N. J., Sept. 13, 1837; son of Hon. J. Glancy and Anna (Rodman) Jones. He was educated in Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N. Y. He was counsel for the Commissioners of Fairmount Park, counsel for the Centennial Exhibitors Commission in 1876; and counsel for the Democratic Party. Mr. Jones was Democratic candidate for city solicitor of Philadelphia; and has been counsel in many important public and political cases. He was vice-president of the Trust Company of North America; was formerly special deputy collector of customs, and attaché of the American Legation at Vienna, Austria. Mr. Jones is author of: A Pedestrian Tour Through Switzerland; Recollections of Venice; A Trip to the Neusiedlersee; Memoir of William Rodman; Sketch of Old St. Peter's Church; Early Settlements on the Delaware; Digest of Park Laws and Ordinances; Dayvault's Mills, a novel; History of the Campaign for the Conquest of Canada in 1776; Genealogy of the Rodman Family; The Camp of the Neshaminy; Sketch of the Services of Captain Gustavus Conyngham; and Life and Public Services of Hon. J. Glancy Jones. He is chairman of the Board of Managers of Christ Church Hospital; vestryman of Old St. Peter's Church; deputy to the Diocesan Convention; president of the Colonial Society of Pennsylvania and chairman of the Board of Managers of the Sons of the Revolution. Mr. Jones married in Philadelphia, April 20, 1872, Kate Evelyn Sank, and they have three children. Residence: Rydal, Pa. Office: 1301 Commonwealth Trust Building, Philadelphia.

JONES, Charles Reading:

Chairman of the National Committee of the Prohibition Party since January, 1905; born in Philadelphia, Nov. 9, 1862; son of Charles and Esther (Harding) Jones. After receiving his education in the public schools of Philadelphia, and a business college, he became a member of the firm of Charles Jones and Sons, 1880-1890; secretary and manager of the Frink, Bareus and Jones Manufacturing Company, Philadelphia, 1890-1893; head of a department in John Wanamaker's store, Philadelphia, 1894-1895; president and founder of the Associated Prohibition Press since 1905. Mr. Jones was chairman of the Prohibition Party of Philadelphia, 1892-1897, the Prohibition Party of Pennsylvania, 1897-1905, and of the Prohibition Party of the United States since 1905. He is a Methodist Episcopalian, an Odd Fellow, a 32d-degree Mason, member of the Mystic Shrine, member of the National Union, and of the Order of the Golden Cross. He married in Philadelphia, Bertha I. Hoar, and they have five children. Residence: 1458 Maple Avenue, Evanston, Ill. Office: 92 La Salle Street, Chicago.

JONES, Edward Franc:

Scale manufacturer; born in Utica, N. Y., June 3, 1828; son of Lorenzo Baldwin and Sophronia (Chapman) Jones. He was educated at Leicester, Mass. He served in the Civil War as colonel, Sixth Massachusetts Volunteer Regiment (first regiment to enter the field); the regiment was attacked in Baltimore, and reached Washington in time to save the capital from falling into the hands of the Confederates; became colonel of the Twenty-sixth Massachusetts Volunteers, October, 1861; brevetted brigadier-general, U. S. Volunteers. At the close of the war he established scale works at Binghamton, N. Y., which he has since conducted under style of Jones of Binghamton, in connection with which he coined and popularized the expression: "Jones, He Pays the Freight." Mr. Jones was a member of the Massachusetts Legislature, 1865; resident of Binghamton from October, 1865, and held various local offices there; lieutenant-governor of New York, 1886-1891. Democrat. He is a member of the Grand Army of the Republic, Military Order of the Loyal Legion, Sons of the American Revolution, Society of Founders and Patriots of America. He is author of: Richard Baxter; Uncle Jerry; The Origin of the Flag. He is a member of the United Service and Army and Navy Clubs of New York City. He married, first, in 1850, Sarah Antoinette Tarbell, and second, in 1863, Susan Annie Brown. Address: Binghamton, N. Y.

JONES, Edward Groves:

Physician; born in Chattooga County, Ga., Jan. 14, 1874; son of John A. and Margaret (Kendrick) Jones. He was graduated from Emory College, Oxford, Ga., A. B., 1895, and from Atlanta College of Physicians and Surgeons, M.D., 1900, and did post-graduate work in Johns Hopkins University, 1900. He is a practising physician of Atlanta, Ga., and is proctor and professor of surgery in the Atlanta School of Medicine. He is a director of the Realty Company of the Atlanta School of Medicine. Dr. Jones married in Columbia, S. C., Nov. 7, 1906, Lillian Taylor. Address: Atlanta, Ga.

JONES, Edward N.:

Principal of the New York Training School for Teachers; born at Oneida County, N. Y., Jan. 2, 1854; son of Edward T. and Rebecca (Evans) Jones. He was graduated from Hamilton College, A.B., 1883. He was superintendent of schools of Saratoga Springs, 1883-1892; principal of the State Normal School, Plattsburgh, N. Y., 1892-1898; first assistant of the New York Training School for Teachers, 1898-1904; principal since 1904. He was president of the New York State Teachers' Association, 1894-1895, and is a member of the Board of Education of White Plains, N. Y. He is a member of the National Educational Association, Phi Beta Kappa Society and Delta Upsilon fraternity. He married at Hamilton, N. Y., Aug. 10, 1882, Elizabeth Tompkins, and they have four children. Address: 220 West 120th Street, New York City.

JONES, Francis Coates:

Artist; born in Baltimore, July 25, 1857. He was a student at École des Beaux Arts under Yvon, Lehmann, Boulanger and Lefebvre; and he has had a studio in New York City since 1882. He was awarded the Clarke prize, and National Academy of Design, 1885; silver medal at Pan American Exposition, 1901. Mr. Jones is an academician of the National Academy of Design; member of the Society of American Artists, American Water Color Society, Architectural League, Society of Mural Painters, American Fine Arts Society, Municipal Aid Society, Fine Arts Federation, and Century Club. Address: 253 West 42d Street, New York City.

JONES, Frank Smith:

Merchant; born in Stamford, Conn., Aug. 19, 1847; son of Isaac S. and Francis J. (Weed) Jones. He was educated in Stamford schools and Eastman's Business College, Poughkeepsie, N. Y. He began his business career as bookkeeper and later became confidential clerk with A. J. Johnson, publisher of Johnson's Universal Cyclopedia. In 1872, with his brothers, Cyrus D. and Charles F., he opened a tea and coffee store at Scranton, Pa. After retirement of his brother, Charles F., the Grand Union Tea Company was organized, of which Frank S. Jones was president, 1893-1903, and is still a director, the business extending until the company now has 200 branch stores in many cities of the United States and headquarters in New York City. He is also member of the firm of Jones Brothers of Brooklyn, N. Y., who also own the Anchor Pottery at Trenton, N. J. He is a director of Sidney (N. Y.) Novelty Company, and is largely interested in timber land and the manufacture of lumber in Pennsylvania and Mississippi, and in coal lands in Pennsylvania and West Virginia. In 1898 he presented the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences with the Gebhard Geological Collection, and the Neumoegen Entomological Collection; gave $40,000 to the Bedford Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association, Brooklyn. Mr. Jones is a trustee of Wesleyan University, Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, and the Central Congregational Church. He is a member of the New York Chamber of Commerce, and the Manufacturers' Association. He is also a member of the National Arts, Brooklyn, Union League, Crescent, Riding and Driving and Congregational Clubs. He married in New York City, June 4, 1879, Mary Louise Granbery, and they have two children: Henrietta Jones Simons, and Maude Virginia Jones. Address: 790 St. Mark's Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

JONES, Gardner Maynard:

Librarian; born at Charleston, Mass., June 27, 1850; son of Nahum and Lucy (Blake) Jones, and a descendant of Lewis Jones who came from England to Roxbury, Mass., before 1640. After graduation from the high school at Dorchester, Mass., in 1866, Mr. Jones was an employee of various book stores in Boston, 1867-1887, then attended the School of Library Economy of Columbia College, and in February, 1889, became librarian of the Public Library at Salem, Mass. He is author of: List of Subject Headings for use in Dictionary Catalogues, 1895; Rough Subject Index to the Publications of the Essex Institute, and various contributions to library publications. He is a member of the American Library Association, and its treasurer from 1897-1906; member and ex-president of the Massachusetts Library Club; member, and formerly treasurer, vice-president and president of the Appalachian Mountain Club. Mr. Jones married, June 30, 1897, Kate Emery Sanborn, of Franklin Falls, N. H. Address: Salem, Mass.

JONES, Harry Clary:

Chemist; born in New London, Md., Nov. 11, 1865; son of William and Joanna C. Jones. He was graduated from Johns Hopkins University, A.B., 1889; university scholar, 1889-1891; fellow, 1891-1892; Ph.D., 1892; studied at the Universities of Leipzig, Stockholm and Amsterdam, 1892-1894. He is professor of physical chemistry in Johns Hopkins University; associate editor of the Journal de Chimie physique and of the Physikalisch-chemisches Centralblatt and author of various text-books on physical and inorganic chemistry (Macmillan). He has published about eighty scientific papers in American, German, French and English scientific journals; two monographs on his own investigations in the series being published by the Carnegie Institution of Washington. Address: Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore.

JONES, Horace C.:

Manufacturer; born June 16, 1857. He was educated in the Scientific Department of the University of Pennsylvania; entered the firm of E. D. & E. Jones, large lumber dealers, to represent his father's interest, continuing in it till 1880, when he organized the firm of H. C. Jones & Co.; took the Schuylkill Woolen Mills, and since then has devoted himself to this flourishing enterprise. His first partner in this was Stanley Lees, but he retired in 1885, and was succeeded by John Booth, who became manager of the mills. In addition to his active labors in the development of the Schuylkill Mills, Mr. Jones has become prominent in other concerns, being a director of the Conshohocken Woolen and Gas Light Companies, and of the First National Bank of Conshohocken and the Norristown Title and Trust Company, and is secretary and treasurer of the Electric Light and Power Company of Conshohocken. He gives his chief attention, however, to the Schuylkill Woolen Mills. He is a member of the Union League and the Manufacturers' Clubs of Philadelphia. Address: Conshohocken, Pa.

JONES, Hugh Bolton:

Artist; born in Baltimore, Md., Oct. 20, 1848. He was awarded a medal (third class) at the Paris Exposition, 1889 medal of the Columbian Exposition, 1893; bronze medal of the Paris Exposition, 1900; Webb prize of the Society of American Artists, 1902; Shaw Fund prize, Society American Artists, 1902; and received a gold medal from the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, 1904. He is an academician of the National Academy of Design, and a member of the Society of American Artists; American Water Color Society; American Fine Arts Society; Municipal Aid Society, and the Clubs: Century and Salmagundi Clubs. Address: 253 West 42d Street, New York City.

JONES, Ira B.:

Jurist; born at Newberry, S. C., Dec. 29, 1851; son of Charles M. Jones and Mary J. (Neel) Jones. After graduation in 1870 from Erskine College (from which he has received the A.M. degree), he studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1873. In 1875 he located in the practice of law at Lancaster, S. C., where he has since resided, and there also became prominent in political matters as a representative Democrat. He was three times elected a member of the House of Representatives of South Carolina, and was for two terms speaker of the House, was a member of the Constitutional Convention of 1895. In 1896 he was elected to the Supreme bench of the State, on which he is still serving as associate justice. Judge Jones married at Newberry, S. C., Jan. 21, 1875, Rebecca H. Wyse. Residence: Lancaster, S. C. Official address: Columbia, S. C.

JONES, John H.:

President of the Pittsburgh-Buffalo Coal Company; born in Greenock, Allegheny County, Oct. 7, 1866. He was educated in the public schools of Monongahela, finishing with a business education in Pittsburgh. When he was seventeen years old he was made a mine foreman; was next promoted to general superintendent, and by the time he attained his majority he was manager of his father's extensive mining interests. In 1896, he was instrumental in forming the James Jones and Sons Company, which was absorbed by the Monongahela combine in 1899. The Pittsburgh and Buffalo Company was formed later and has been an important factor in the Western Pennsylvania coal trade. He is also treasurer of the Johnetta Coal Company and the Washington and Greene Railroad Company; he was active in the organization of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Company and became one of its leading officers. Address: Frick Building, Pittsburgh.

JONES, Leonard Augustus:

Jurist and author; born in Templeton, Mass., Jan. 13, 1832; son of Augustus Appleton and Mary (Partridge) Jones. He was graduated from Harvard College, A.B., 1855, LL.B., 1858. He began the practice of law in Boston in 1858. In 1876 Mr. Jones began writing on leading subjects of the law, and for about thirty years devoted his time largely to this work. He has been chief judge of the Land Court of Massachusetts since 1898. Judge Jones is author of: A Treatise on the Law of Mortgages of Real Property, six editions; Treatise on the Law of Corporate Bonds and Mortgages, three editions; Treatise on the Law of Mortgages of Personal Property, four editions; Treatise on the Law of Pledges, including Collateral Securities, two editions; Treatise on the Laws of Liens, Common Law, Statutory, Equitable and Maritime, two editions; Forms in Conveyancing, five editions; An Index to Legal Periodical Literature, two volumes; Treatise on the Law of Easements, one volume; Treatise on the Law of Landlord and Tenant, one volume; and he has been associate editor of the American Law Review, 1885-1904, editor-in-chief, 1904-1907, when he resigned. Mr. Jones married in Templeton, Mass., Josephine Lee. Residence: 89 Mount Vernon Street. Address: Pemberton Building, Boston.

JONES, Lewis Ralph:

Professor of botany; born at Brandon, Wis., Dec. 5, 1864; son of David and Lucy (Knapp) Jones. He began his education in Ripon College, Wis., and was graduated from the University of Michigan, Ph.B., 1889, Ph.D., 1904. He spent one year in research, dividing his time between botanical laboratories of the United States Department of Agriculture in Washington, and various European laboratories, especially those of Berlin. He was a teacher in natural science at Mt. Morris (Illinois) College, 1887-1888; instructor in natural science, 1890; assistant professor, 1891, and professor of botany since 1892 in the University of Vermont. He has also been botanist in the Vermont Agricultural Experiment Station since 1890, and collaborator of the Bureau of Plant Industry of the United States Department of Agriculture since 1904. Mr. Jones is a member of the Vermont Botanical Club, the New England Botanical Club, fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, member of the Society for the Promotion of Agricultural Science, Vermont Forestry Association (president) and the Botanical Society of America. He married in La Crosse, Wis., June 24, 1890, May Bennett. Residence: 46 North Prospect Street. Address: University of Vermont, Burlington, Vt.

JONES, Richard Lloyd:

Editor of Collier's Weekly; born Janesville, Wis., April 14, 1873; son Jenkin Lloyd and Susan (Barber) Jones. He was educated in the University of Wisconsin and University of Chicago, LL.B., LL.M., 1897. He was a member of the Chicago bar, practising one year; came to New York City to enter journalism; edited daily paper at Stamford, Conn., 1899; organized and was contributor to the Independent Democratic Syndicate Service, 1900; Eastern representative and editorial contributor to the Pilgrim Magazine, and special editorial writer Washington Times, 1900-1902; associate editor of the Cosmopolitan Magazine, 1902-1903; since 1903, associate editor of Collier's Weekly. He organized, with Robert J. Collier and Clarence H. Mackay, the Lincoln Farm Association (of which he is secretary), a patriotic organization of American citizens to make a national park of the farm in Kentucky on which Abraham Lincoln was born. He is a member of the City, National Arts, Players' and Phi Gamma Delta Clubs of New York City. Address: 416 West 13th Street, New York City.

JONES, Thomas Goode:

Jurist, ex-governor; born in Macon, Ga., Nov. 26, 1844; son of Samuel G. and Martha Ward (Goode) Jones. His parents removed in 1850 to Montgomery, Ala., of which place he has ever since been a resident. He was graduated from the Virginia Military Institute in 1862, and thereafter served in the Confederate Army of Northern Virginia until the end of the war, becoming major on the staff of General John B. Gordon, in which capacity he carried one of the flags of truce sent out by General Gordon to General Sheridan's lines at Appomattox Court House, April 9, 1865. He became a planter after the war; studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1866, and after that practised law at Montgomery, Ala. He was a member of the City Council of Montgomery, 1875-1884; served in the Alabama Legislature four years and was speaker of the Alabama House of Representatives, 1886-1888; was Supreme Court reporter of Alabama for ten years, and as such prepared and published eighteen volumes of Supreme Court Reports; was colonel of the Second Regiment of Alabama State Troops, 1880-1890, and commanded the troops in the suppression of riots in 1883 and 1888, at Birmingham. He was governor of Alabama, 1890-1894, and personally commanded the State troops in the suppression of the railroad riots in 1894; was delegate to the Constitutional Convention of Alabama in 1901, and was appointed by President Roosevelt, Oct. 9, 1901, U. S. district judge for the Middle and Northern Districts of Alabama. In the summer of 1907 he attracted national attention by enjoining the State officials of Alabama from executing a law passed by the Legislature of Alabama, fixing passenger rates on railways in that State, on the ground that the law was unconstitutional. Judge Jones married in Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 20, 1866, Gena C. Bird. Address: Montgomery, Ala.

JONES, Wesley L.:

U. S. senator; born near Bethany, Ill., Oct. 9, 1863. He was graduated from the Southern Illinois College at Enfield, studied law, removed to the State of Washington and engaged in practice. He was elected to the Fifty-sixth, Fifty-seventh, Fifty-eighth and Fifty-ninth Congresses, and was re-elected to the Sixtieth Congress, from the State of Washington at large, as a Republican. He was nominated at the primary election and elected to the U. S. Senate for the term expiring March 3, 1915. He married in Enfield, Ill., Oct. 13, 1886, Minda Nelson, and he has two children, a boy and a girl. Address: North Yakima, Wash.

JONES, William Albert:

Brigadier-general of the United States Army; born at St. Charles, Mo., June 26, 1841; son of Stillman and Ann Jane (Perkins) Jones. He received his education in public and private schools at Carrollton, Ill., and Reading, Mass.; and at the United States Military Academy, where he served as cadet until June 13, 1864, when he was appointed first lieutenant of the Corps of Engineers. He served in the Sixth Corps, Army of the Potomac, in the War of the Rebellion; served at the U. S. Military Academy, West Point, N. Y., as acting assistant professor of engineering, and of law and ethics; instructor in practical military engineering; treasurer of the Academy, and commander of Company A, Battalion of Engineers. He was engaged in the construction of fortifications, ocean harbors, river improvements, canals, locks and dams, and lighthouses on the South Atlantic and Gulf Coast. Was chief engineer of the Military Division of the Pacific, and Departments of Dakota and The Platte. Was retired from active service in 1905, with rank of colonel of engineers and brigadier-general, U. S. A. He commanded the U. S. Military Exploring Expedition of Northwestern Wyoming and Yellowstone Park. Was consulting engineer for State of California, Golden Gate Park, San Francisco; Great Northern R. R. locating its route across the Cascade Mountains; railroad from Seattle, Wash., to New Westminster, B. C.; St. Anthony Falls Water Power Co.; power dam on Cloquet River, Minn.; lock and dam on Galena River, Ill.; Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Charles River dam and Marine Park. He is member of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion, of the Grand Army of the Republic, of the American Geographic Society, and the University Club of Philadelphia. His present occupation is that of a specialist in hydraulic mining and lighthouse engineering and oyster planter. He married at Chicago, Ill., Nov. 25, 1873, Louisa V. Test, and they have a daughter, Martha Irwin, wife of Captain W. T. Bates, 27th U. S. Infantry. Address: Nassawadox, Va.

JONES, William Atkinson:

Congressman; born in Warsaw, Va., March 21, 1849; son of Thomas and Annie S. T. Jones. In the winter of 1864-1865 he was a student in the Virginia Military Institute, where he remained until the evacuation of Richmond, serving, as occasion required, with the cadets in the defense of that city. After the close of the war he studied at Coleman's School in Fredericksburg, until Oct., 1868, when he entered the academic department of the University of Virginia, from which institution he was graduated, B.L., in 1870. He was admitted to the bar in July, 1870, and has continued to practise law since. Mr. Jones was elected to the Fifty-second, Fifty-third, Fifty-fourth, Fifty-fifth, Fifty-sixth, Fifty-seventh, and Fifty-eighth, Fifty-ninth and Sixtieth Congresses, and re-elected to the Sixty-first Congress. He was one of the delegates-at-large from Virginia to the National Democratic Convention of 1896 and chairman of his delegation. He was also delegate-at-large to the Kansas City Convention in 1900. Mr. Jones was the author and first advocate of the resolution adopted by the Democratic party in Virginia to nominate Democratic candidates for United States Senators at party primary elections. Address: Warsaw, Va.

JONES, Woodruff:

Chemical manufacturer; born in Philadelphia, Dec. 13, 1841; grandson of Isaac C. Jones, a Philadelphia merchant in the East India trade. He was educated in several Philadelphia schools, and University of Pennsylvania, where he was graduated, A.B., 1860. He then took a position with Crew, Rogers & Crew, manufacturing chemists, at the same time attending lectures in the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy. During the war he was second lieutenant in the First Philadelphia Battery, and served through the Antietam and Gettysburg campaigns. Subsequently he engaged in the manufacture of chemical and pharmaceutical preparations until 1878, when he entered the white lead, oil and color factory of John T. Lewis & Brother, of which company he became secretary and treasurer on its incorporation in 1889, and in 1907 was elected vice-president and treasurer. Mr. Jones was one of the founders of the Science and Art Club of Germantown. Address: 5503 Germantown Avenue, Philadelphia.

JORDAN, Chester B.:

Lawyer and ex-governor; born at Colebrook, Coos County, N. H., Oct. 15, 1839; son of Johnson and Minerva (Buel) Jordan. He was educated in the public schools and the Kimball Union Academy, Plainfield, N. H. After his graduation he engaged in newspaper work, and from 1868 was for six years clerk of the Supreme Court for Coos County, N. H. While filling that office he studied law, and in 1875 he was admitted to the bar. He engaged in practice at Lancaster, N. H., and became one of the leaders at the Coos County bar, and also prominent in political affairs as a Republican. He was elected to the House of Representatives of New Hampshire and was its speaker in 1881, to the State Senate and became its president in 1897, and in 1900 he was elected governor of New Hampshire, serving 1901-1903. Governor Jordan received the degrees of A.M., 1881, and LL.D., 1901, from Dartmouth College and of M.Sc. from the New Hampshire College of Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts in 1901. He is a prominent member of the State and local bar associations of New Hampshire. Address: Lancaster, N. H.

JORDAN, David Starr:

President of Stanford University; born in Gainesville, N. Y., Jan. 19, 1851; son of Hiram and Huldah Lake (Hawley) Jordan. He was graduated from Cornell University, M.S., 1872, and the degree of LL.D. was afterward conferred upon him by the same university, and by Johns Hopkins University. He also received the degrees of M.D. from the Indiana University, and Ph.D. from Butler College. He served as professor of natural history at Lombard University, 1872-1873; was principal of the Appleton Collegiate Institute, of Appleton, Wis., 1873-1874; teacher of science in the Indianapolis High School, 1874-1875; professor of biology in Butler University, 1875-1879; professor of zoölogy in Indiana University, 1879-1885; president of the Indiana University, 1885-1891; and since 1891 has been president of the Leland Stanford, Jr., University. Dr. Jordan is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science (of which he is president), American Philosophical Society; National Educational Association, and the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching (of which he is vice-chairman), and many others; and he was elected to membership in the National Academy of Sciences in 1909. He has been almost continuously connected with the United States Fish Commission and his travels in the United States and in the Pacific have been in carrying out investigations of this bureau. He is author of a number of books, notably, A Manual of Vertebrates; Synopsis of Fishes of North America (with Professor C. H. Gilbert); Fishes of North and Middle America (with Dr. B. W. Everman); A Guide to the Study of Fishes; Science Sketches; Care and Culture of Men; Footnotes to Evolution; Imperial Democracy; The Blood of the Nation; Evolution and Animal Life; The Philosophy of Uope; The Human Harvest; The Fate of Ichodorum; College and the Man; The Innumerable Company, and scientific papers in magazines and proceedings of societies, aggregating about five hundred titles. He is also a member of Delta Upsilon fraternity, the Sigma Xi Society, Phi Beta Kappa, and the University, Bohemian and Sierra Clubs of San Francisco. He married, first, at Hinsdale, Mass., in 1875, Susan Bowen, by whom he has two children. He married, second, at Worcester, Mass., in 1887, Jessie L. Knight, by whom he has two sons. Address: Stanford University, Calif.

JORDAN, Edwin Oakes:

Professor of bacteriology, University of Chicago; born in Thomaston, Me., July 28, 1866. He was graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, S.B., 1888, and as Ph.D. from the Clark University in 1892. He is editor of The Journal of Infectious Diseases; president of the American Society of Bacteriologists. Dr. Jordan has published Translations of Hueppe's Bacteriology; A Text-Book of General Bacteriology and special monographs in the Journal of Experimental Medicine, Journal of Hygiene, etc. He married, in 1893, Elsie Fay Pratt, and has two sons and one daughter. Address: University of Chicago, Chicago.

JORDAN, Elizabeth:

Editor and author; born in Milwaukee, Wis., May 9, 1867; daughter of the late William Francis Jordan and Margarita (Garver) Jordan. She was educated at the convent of Notre Dame, in Milwaukee, from which she graduated with high honors at the age of seventeen. She holds the Cross of Honor of Notre Dame. At the age of twenty Miss Jordan came to New York and entered upon her professional career, having been offered a position on the World by Colonel John A. Cokerill, then editor-in-chief. She remained for ten years with the World, one year as reporter and nine years on the editorial staff, during which time she made for herself a brilliant journalistic record, probably unequaled by that of any other American woman. She was assistant editor of the Sunday World for three years, associated with Arthur Brisbane, then the editor of the Sunday World. During this time Miss Jordan "made up" the entire edition of the Sunday World. She resigned from the World, Jan. 1, 1900, to accept the editorship of Harper's Bazaar, offered her by Colonel George Harvey, the new president of Harper and Brothers. This position she still holds. Miss Jordan is the author of five books: Tales of the City Room, published by Charles Scribner's Sons, during her experience on the World, and largely a chronicle of those experiences. Her other books are: Tales of Destiny, Tales of the Cloister, May Iverson—Her Book, and Many Kingdoms, all published by Harper and Brothers during the past nine years. She is also joint author of The Whole Family, a novel she wrote in collaboration with William Dean Howells, Henry James, Henry Van Dyke, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, Alice Brown, and several other authors. In 1898 Miss Jordan made a special study of tenement conditions in New York, and published the results of her investigations in the New York World under the title, The Submerged Tenth. Subsequently she made a close study of tenement conditions in London and Paris. In 1902 she took a course of lectures at the Sorbonne, in Paris. She is a member of the National Arts Club of New York and of the American Committee of One Hundred. She is also a member of the Notre Dame Alumnae Association of the Northwest. Her work appears in the leading American magazines and in those of England, where it is as well known as in America. Miss Jordan is an excellent musician. She was a well-known amateur pianist in Milwaukee and Chicago before beginning her professional career in New York. Miss Jordan has traveled extensively in Europe, studying social conditions in England, Scotland, Ireland, Germany, France, Italy, Switzerland, Holland, Belgium, Austria and Spain. Residence: 34 Gramercy Park. Office: Harper & Brothers, Franklin Square, New York City.

JORDAN, James Henry:

Chief justice of Indiana; born at Woodstock, Shenandoah County, Va., Dec. 21, 1842; son of Charles B. and Elizabeth

Rhoads (Burke) Jordan. His paternal grandfather, David Jordan, came from Germany to Virginia about 1784, and his maternal grandfather was a relative of the famous statesman, Edmund Burke. He has been a resident of Indiana since 1853; served three years in the Army of the Potomac in the Forty-fifth Indiana Volunteers, participating in all the important battles of that army. After the war he went to the State University of Indiana, graduating therefrom as A.B., 1868, LL.B., 1871; and the degree of LL.D. was conferred upon him by Wabash College in 1907. He was admitted to the bar in 1869, before his graduation in law, and practised at Clinton, Mo., and Martinsville, Ind. He was appointed prosecuting attorney in 1872, judge of the Circuit Court, trustee of the State University of Indiana, 1891-1895, and was elected judge of the Supreme Court of Indiana in 1894. He has continued on the Supreme bench by successive re-elections in 1900 and 1906, and is now chief justice. Judge Jordan was elected a member of the Republican State Committee of Indiana in 1880 and its chairman in 1882. He is a prominent member of the Grand Army of the Republic, and was formerly judge advocate of the Department of Indiana. Residence: Martinsville, Ind. Office: State House, Indianapolis, Ind.

JORDAN, John Woolf:

Librarian; born in Philadelphia, Sept. 14, 1840; son of Francis and Emily (Woolf) Jordan. He received his education in private and Moravian schools and received the degree of LL.D. from Lafayette College. He is librarian of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania and has been editor of the Pennsylvania Magazine of History and Biography since 1886. He served as commissary sergeant in Starr's Battery, attached to the Thirty-second Regiment of Pennsylvania Militia, and he served throughout the Gettysburg campaign. Dr. Jordan is a commissioner of the Pennsylvania State Archives, and of the Valley Forge Park of Pennsylvania; registrar of the Pennsylvania Society of the Sons of the Revolution, and vice-president of the Colonial Society of Pennsylvania. Dr. Jordan married in Philadelphia, Anne Page, and they have three children. Residence: 806 North 41st Street. Office: 1300 Locust Street, Philadelphia.

JOSSSELYN, Edgar Alonzo:

Architect; born in Boston, July 2, 1861. He won the Rotch Traveling Scholarship (architecture) in 1887, and entered the École des Beaux Arts, Paris, in 1888. He completed his course there and has since practised architecture in New York City. Among the more important buildings executed from his designs are the Horace Mann School, and Speyer School, Columbia University; the Clarkson School of Technology at Potsdam, N. Y.; Charlton School, Stamford (Conn.) Town Hall and New Canaan (Conn.) Town Hall. Mr. Josselyn is a member of the Society of Beaux Arts Architects (of which he was secretary, 1895-1898); and associate of the American Institute of Architects and a member of the New York Chapter of the same; and a member of the Architectural League of New York City. Residence: 144 East 22d Street. Office: 3 West 29th Street, New York City.

JOURDAN, James:

President and director of the Brooklyn Union Gas Company, Central Union Gas Company, director New Amsterdam Gas Company, Northern Union Gas Company, East River Gas Company of Long Island City, Mechanics' Bank (Brooklyn), People's Trust Company, National Copper Bank, Interborough Rapid Transit Company, Rapid Transit Subway Construction Company, New York and Long Island Traction Company, Long Island Electric Railway Company, New York and Queens County Railway Company, New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, Subway Realty Company, Century Realty Company, Brooklyn and Canarsie Realty Company. Residence: 174 Washington Park. Address: 180 Remsen Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

JOYCE, William B.:

President of the National Surety Company; born in Utica, N. Y., 1865; son of Henry Manwaring Joyce. He was educated in public schools in Michigan. Mr. Joyce was formerly an insurance agent; since Feb., 1904, president National Surety Company. He is reputed to have written (as agent) the largest amount of surety bonds of any agent in the world. He is originator of the Fidelity Insurance Policy, and the Automobile Bail Bond Power of Attorney. He is a Democrat and has had some political experience in St. Paul, Minn., where he retains his legal residence. He is a member of the Arkwright Club of New York City, Minnesota Club of St. Paul, and Minneapolis Club of Minneapolis. Mr. Joyce married Lucy Natalie Curley, of Louisville, Ky., and has two sons. Residence: 50 West 77th Street. Office: New York Life Building, New York City.

JOYCE, William Thomas:

Lumber merchant; born in Salisbury, Conn., Jan. 2, 1860; son of David and Elizabeth F. (Thomas) Joyce. He engaged in the lumber business with his father at Clinton, Iowa, when he was twenty years of age, and succeeded to his father's interests in 1895, which had in the meantime become greatly enlarged. He is now president of the W. T. Joyce Company, William T. Joyce Company Southern Investment Company, Tremont Lumber Company, Winn Parish Lumber Company, Trinity County Lumber Company, Joyce Lumber Company, Itasca Lumber Company, Joyce-Watkins Company, Deer River Lumber Company, Tremont and Gulf Railroad, Minneapolis and Rainy River Railroad Company, Manistee and Grand Rapids Railroad Company, president of the Louisiana Lumber Co., and of the Garland Hotel Co.; and is a director in the Mississippi River Logging Company, the St. Paul Boom Company and other corporations. He is a member of the Masonic Order and of the Protective Benevolent Order of Elks, and of the Union League, Chicago Athletic, Chicago Yacht, and Medlothian Clubs of Chicago. Mr. Joyce married at Clinton, Iowa, Oct. 15, 1884, Clotilde Gage, and they have two children. Residence: 4614 Woodlawn Avenue. Office: 208 La Salle Street, Chicago.

JUCH, Emma Antonia Joanna (Mrs. Francis L. Wellman):

Operatic singer; born in Vienna, July 4, 1863; daughter of Justin Juch (music professor, who was a native of Vienna but who became a citizen of the United States at Detroit) and Augusta (Hahn) Juch; born during visit of parents in Vienna. When she was two years old, her parents returned to the United States, making their home in New York City. She was educated in the public schools and graduated from Normal School. Miss Juch married in Stamford, Conn., June 25, 1894, Francis L. Wellman, of the New York City Bar. Her father was opposed to her entering professional life and did not encourage her to cultivate her musical talents, so she pursued the musical studies in secret as a pupil of Mme. Murio-Celli; made her debut in concert in Chickering Hall, at which her father was present, scoring complete success; her father then encouraged her studies. She was engaged by Colonel Mapleson, in May, 1881, to sing leading soprano roles in London, and made her debut at Her Majesty's Grand Italian Opera as "Felina" in Mignon, June, 1881, and appeared in other leading soprano roles of Italian grand opera for three seasons; then refused to renew her engagement. She then shared the work of Nilsson and Materna in the Wagnerian tour in the U. S. under management of Theodore Thomas and sang alternate nights with Nilsson as "Elsa" in Lohengrin; was the first artist engaged when the American Opera Company was formed, and in that company sang six roles and 164 times; for about five years sang in festivals, symphonic concerts and at the head of the Emma Juch Grand English Opera Company, until her marriage. Mrs. Wellman was made an honorary member of the Aschenbroedel Verein of Professional orchestra musicians in recognition of her service in aid of the society's Circle Fund. Address: 123 East 37th Street, New York City.

JUDD, Charles Hubbard:

Professor of psychology, Yale; born at Bareilly, India, Feb. 20, 1873; son of Charles Wesley and Sarah (Hubbard) Judd. He was graduated from Wesleyan University, A.B., 1894, and from Leipzig, Ph.D., 1896. He became instructor in philosophy in Wesleyan University, 1896-1898, professor of experimental psychology in New York University, 1898-1901; professor of psychology and pedagogy in the University of Cincinnati, 1901-1902; since then in Yale University as instructor, 1902-1904; assistant professor, 1904-1907, and professor of psychology from 1907. He was director of the Yale Summer School, 1906-1907; editor of Monograph Supplements to the Psychological Review, and of the Yale Psychological Studies, and is author of: Genetic Psychology for Teachers (Appleton); and of a Series of Psychological Text-Books (Scribner's). Mr. Judd is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, member of the Council of the American Psychological Association; and member of the American Philosophical Association, the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, and the Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi honor societies. He is also a member of the Graduates' Club of New Haven. Mr. Judd married at Binghamton, N. Y., Aug. 23, 1898, Ella Le Compte, and they have one daughter. Address: 318 Willow Street, New Haven, Conn.

JUDSON, Harry Pratt:

President of the University of Chicago; born in Jennestown, N. Y., Dec. 20, 1849; son of Lyman Parsons and Abigail Cook (Pratt) Judson. He was graduated from Williams College, A. B., 1870, A.M., 1883, and received its degree of LL.D. in 1893; and the degree of LL.D. was also conferred upon him by the Queens University, 1903, State University of Iowa, 1907, and Washington University, 1907. He was teacher and principal of the Troy (N. Y.) High School, 1870-1885; professor of history in the University of Minnesota, 1885-1892; has been professor and head of department of political science at the University of Chicago since 1892, and afterward became dean of faculties of arts, literature and science; and he was elected president, in 1907, of the University of Chicago. He is a member of the American Historical Association, American Political Science Association; Order of the Crown (second class), from the German Emperor; trustee of the University of Chicago, the Lewis Institute of Chicago, the Bradley Polytechnic Institute of Peoria, Ill.; the General Education Board of New York, and a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, and Phi Beta Kappa. President Judson is a member of the Union League, University, City, Hamilton and Homewood Country Clubs of Chicago. He married in Troy, N. Y., Jan. 14, 1879, Rebecca A. Gilbert, and they have one daughter. Residence: 505 59th Street, Chicago. Office: The University of Chicago, Chicago.

JUDSON, William Bosworth:

Journalist; born in Syracuse, N. Y., May 17, 1849; son of John F. and Maria (Bosworth) Judson. He received his education in the public schools of Chenango County. He was a local writer on the Miami Valley News at Piqua, Ohio, in 1867-1868, and was engaged in the insurance business at Bay City, Mich., 1868-1871. He was employed for a few months in the office of the Lumberman's Gazette, at Bay City, that paper being the first one established in the direct interest of the lumber trade. In 1873 Mr. Judson established the Michigan Lumberman at Grand Rapids, Mich., but removed to Muskegon after the first issue, and in Jan., 1874, to Chicago, at the same time changing the name to the Northwestern Lumberman, which was for many years regarded as among the leaders of its class. In 1899 the Northwestern Lumberman was consolidated with the Timberman, under an incorporation, of which Mr. Judson is the president and general manager. He is a member of the Union League and Hamilton Clubs of Chicago. He married at Rochester, N. Y., in 1872, Grace King, and has three children. Residence: 4231 Michigan Avenue. Office: 315 Dearborn Street, Chicago.

JUDSON, William Voorhees:

Major Corps of Engineers, U. S. A.; born in Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 16, 1865; son of Charles E. and Abby (Voorhees) Judson.

JOHN C. JUHRING
Merchant

He was educated at Harvard two years, and was appointed to, and graduated from, West Point, and attended the United States Engineer School for three years. He is especially known for his work in connection with the improvement of Savannah Harbor, and has also distinguished himself in work in connection with Mississippi River improvements. He has been instructor of engineering at the United States Military Academy, assistant to chief of engineers, and was military attache with the Russian Army, in the Russo-Japanese War. He is now in charge of lake and harbor improvements and lighthouse construction on Lake Michigan. Major Judson was married at Lexington, Ky., April 22, 1891, to Alice Carneal Clay, and they have one son. His address is: Care of Adjutant-General, United States Army, Washington.

JUHRING, John C.:

Merchant; born in New York City; son of John C. Juhring, successful real estate operator, and Lena (Stuke) Juhring. Mr. Juhring was educated in the public schools, and Mount Washington Collegiate Institution, from which he was graduated in 1865. He entered the employ of Francis H. Leggett & Company in 1873, and in 1902 was admitted to partnership. In 1902, when the firm was changed to a corporation, he was chosen as its vice-president and secretary. He was one of the charter members of the Merchants' Association of New York, and at its first meeting, in 1897, was elected its vice-president. Mr. Juhring is recognized as a public-spirited citizen, and one who always has in mind the welfare and best interests of the city of his birth. He takes a commendable pride in setting forth the unapproached advantages of New York City as the great trading center. On Feb. 15, 1905, the Evening Mail, in a department of that journal called "Men of Affairs," published a picture of Mr. Juhring, and entitled it, the Promoter of Gotham's Advantages. Mr. Juhring said, on a recent occasion: "The reasons for New York's great predominance are numerous. It is the focal point of commerce, manufactures and distribution. There are, of course, other great trade centers, but they cannot become the great focal points upon which the great currents of international trade converge. The commerce of a nation is its interchange of commodities with other nations, and because we can and do furnish vast quantities of food products as well as manufactured goods to other nations, and must in turn buy tea, coffee, spices and innumerable other necessities that foreign countries produce, naturally there must always be great trade currents setting to and from our shores. New York is the main port of entry for the whole country, and therefore the greatest distributing center. Hence the principal steamship lines converge here to a greater extent than in any other port on this continent. It is this concentration that has made New York the great center that it is, and so soon to be the metropolis of the world. It is also significant that more than seventy per cent of the merchandise that the United States imports for business purposes passes through the port of New York, and it follows as a logical sequence that these goods can be procured here to better advantage than in any other market. These are a few of the reasons for New York's commercial supremacy, and they indicate why the metropolis towers above all other American cities." Mr. Juhring is a director of the Coal and Iron National Bank of New York City, a trustee of the Citizens' Savings Bank and a director of other commercial institutions. He is a member of the Merchants' Club of New York. He married at the Hotel Majestic, New York City, Oct. 19, 1901, Miss Frances Bryant Fisher, and they have a son, John C., 3d, born Aug. 30, 1902. They have a country home in Ardsley Park. Residence: 311 West 86th Street, New York City.

JUILLIARD, Augustus D.:

Capitalist. He is the senior member of A. D. Juillard & Company; president and director of the Cossit Land Company; trustee of the Mutual Life Insurance Company; of the New York Life Insurance and Trust Company; of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company; of the Central Trust Company; of the Fifth Avenue Trust Company; of the Greenwich Savings Bank; also a director of the Bank of America; of the Chemical National Bank; of the Girard Trust Company of Philadelphia; Guaranty Trust Company of New York; Metropolitan Opera and Real Estate Company; Morton Trust Company; National Bank of Commerce; North British and Mercantile Insurance Company of London and Edinburgh (United States director); North British and Mercantile Insurance Company of New York; Realty Associates. He is a member of the Metropolitan, Union League, Republican, Merchants', Tuxedo Clubs. Residence: 16 West Fifty-seventh Street and Tuxedo Park. Address: 70 Worth Street, New York City.

JUNKIN, Francis Thomas Anderson:

Lawyer; born in Virginia, Feb. 3, 1864; son of Rev. William Finney Junkin, D.D., LL.D., and Anna Aylett (Anderson) Junkin. His father was son of Rev. George Junkin (founder of Lafayette College, president of Washington and Lee University, Virginia, and father-in-law of "Stonewall" Jackson); and his mother was daughter of Hon. Francis Thomas Anderson, for many years and until his death justice of the Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia. He is descendant through his mother's side from the earliest settlers of Virginia, a direct ancestor being Gov. John West, first governor of Virginia, son of Lord De La Warr II. Mr. Junkin was graduated from Kenyon College, A.B. and A.M., 1884; and from Columbia University Law School, New York, LL.B., 1887. He started his professional career in the offices of Joseph H. Choate, William M. Evarts, and Charles C. Beaman, New York, and he practised law in Wall Street many years. He has broad experience in corporation and especially railroad practice, being active as one of the counsel for the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company in most of the important foreclosures and reorganizations of railroad systems, 1893-1897. Mr. Junkin is a member of the association of the Bar of the City of New York; American Bar Association; National Geographic Society; American Forestry Association; Society of Colonial Wars, Southern Society, and the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity. He is also a member of the University Club of New York; the University Club of Chicago; Democratic Club of New York; Union Club of Chicago; Chicago Club; Onwentsia and Saddle and Cycle Clubs of Chicago. Address: Union Club, Chicago, and the Railway Exchange, Chicago.

JUNKIN, Joseph de Forest:

Lawyer; born in Philadelphia, April 16, 1855; son of George and Jeanie de Forest Junkin. He attended the school of John W. Fairies until 1870; was graduated from University of Pennsylvania, 1874, M.A., 1877. He was admitted to the bar in 1877, and has been in active practices in Philadelphia since then, representing large corporate interests in all parts of the United States. He is a member of the Board of Directors of the Real Estate Trust Company of Philadelphia, Jefferson Medical College, Lafayette College and Lawyers' Club. Mr. Junkin is a member of the Union League, Art, and Lawyers' Clubs, Law Association, Penn Club, and Bachelors' Barge Club of Philadelphia, New York Yacht Club, Sons of the Revolution, St. Andrew's Society, Orpheus Club and Country Club. Address: Real Estate Trust Building, Philadelphia.

K

KAHN, Julius:

Congressman; born at Kuppenheim, Grand Duchy of Baden, Germany, Feb. 28, 1861. He came to California with his parents in 1866; and was educated in the public schools of San Francisco. After leaving school he followed the theatrical profession for ten years, playing with Edwin Booth, Joseph Jefferson, Tomasso Salvini, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Florence, Clara Morris, and other well-known stars. He returned to San Francisco in 1890 and began studying law; in 1892 was elected to the Legislature of the State of California. In January, 1894, he was admitted to the bar by the Supreme Court of California. He was elected to the Fifty-sixth and Fifty-seventh Congresses, and re-elected to the Fifty-ninth and Sixtieth Congresses from the Fourth California District, and was re-elected in 1908 to the Sixty-first Congress as a Republican. He married in San Francisco, March 19, 1899, Florence Prag. Address: San Francisco.

KAHN, Otto H.:

Banker; born in Mannheim, Germany, Feb. 21, 1867; son of Bernhard and Emma (Eberstadt) Kahn. He was educated in the schools of Mannheim. Mr. Kahn served a year in the German Army, then became connected for five years with the London branch of the Deutsche Bank, and in 1873 came to the United States. He was with the banking house of Speyer & Co. in New York for two years, and since Jan. 1, 1897 has been a member of the firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., bankers. He is a director of the National Bank of Commerce, the Equitable Trust Company, Morristown Trust Company, Metropolitan Opera Company and New Theatre Company. Mr. Kahn married in New York City, Jan. 8, 1896, Addie Wolff, and they have three daughters and a son. Residence: 8 East 68th Street. Office: 54 William Street, New York City.

KALANIANAOLE, Jonah Kuhio:

Congressman; born at Koloa, island of Kauai, Hawaii, March 26, 1871. He was educated in Honolulu, the United States and England. He is a capitalist; was employed in the office of minister of the interior and in the custom house under the monarchy; is cousin to the late King Kalakaua and Queen Liliuokalani, monarchs of the then Kingdom of Hawaii, and nephew of Queen Kapiolani. Consort of Kalakaua; was created prince by royal proclamation in 1884; was elected delegate to the Fifty-eighth and Fifty-ninth, and Sixtieth Congresses, and reelected to the Sixty-first Congress. He married Elizabeth Kahanu Kaauwai, daughter of a chief of the island of Maui, Oct. 8, 1896. Address Waikiki, Honolulu.

KASSON, John Adam:

Diplomat; born at Charlotte, Vt., Jan. 11, 1822; son of John Steel and Nancy (Blackman) Kasson. He was graduated from the University of Vermont, A.B., 1842, and afterward studied law at Worcester, Mass.; practised at New Bedford, Mass., 1844-1849, at St. Louis, 1850-1856, and in 1857 located in the practice of law at Des Moines, Iowa. He was a Free-soiler in politics (delegate to the Free-soil Convention at Buffalo in 1848), and one of the original members of the Republican Party; Chairman of the Republican State Committee of Iowa, 1858-1860; a member of the Republican National Convention at Chicago in 1860, and a member of the Committee and sub-Committee on Resolutions of that body. He was appointed by President Lincoln first assistant postmaster-general of the United States, serving 1861-1863; was the special U. S. Commissioner to the International Postal Conference at Paris, 1863; was member of the Thirty-eighth, Thirty-ninth, Forty-third, Forty-fourth, Forty-eighth and Forty-ninth Congresses; was U. S. Minister to Austria, 1877-1881, and to Germany, 1884-1885; member of the Congo International Conference, 1885, Samoan International Conference, 1893, member of the American-Canadian Joint High Commission in 1898, and U. S. special commissioner plenipotentiary to negotiate reciprocity treaties, 1897-1901. Address: 1726 I Street, Washington, D. C.

KAUFMAN, Abraham Charles:

Red Cross official; born in Charleston, S. C., Sept. 10, 1839; son of Abraham and Anna Dorothea (Faber) Kaufman. He was graduated from the College of Charleston, A.B., A.M., March, 1860. Mr. Kaufman was prominent in building the Spartanburg and Asheville Railroad, now a part of the Southern Railway, a link connecting Charleston and the Great West, begun in 1873. Mr. Kaufman is also prominent in the Red Cross movement, is president of the South Carolina branch of the American National Red Cross, and is a member of the Central Committee of the National Red Cross. Mr. Kaufmann was appointed by President McKinley a member of the Board of Visitors to the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, 1900; and was appointed by Governor McSweeney to represent South Carolina at President McKinley's funeral. He was also appointed by Governor Heyward, and again by Governor Ansel, to represent South Carolina at the River and Harbor and other Congresses of a similar nature at Washington, D. C.; and he was a Republican candidate for presidential elector-at-large for South Carolina in 1908. Mr. Kaufman is a trustee of the College of Charleston, the Avery Normal Institute, the Hospital and Training School for Nurses and the Star Gospel Mission. He is a member of St. Philip's (Protestant Episcopal) Church in Charleston, now more than 225 years old. He is a member of the Sons of the Revolution, German Friendly Society, Chamber of Commerce of Charleston, Commercial Club and German Rifle Club. Address: Charleston, S. C.

KAVANAGH, Marcus:

Jurist; born in Des Moines, Iowa, Sept. 3, 1859; son of Marcus and Mary (Hughes) Kavanagh. He attended the public schools of Des Moines and was graduated from Niagara University in 1876, and from the Law Department of the Iowa State University, LL.B., 1878. He was admitted to the Iowa bar in the same year and engaged in general practice in his native city. He was elected in 1880 and reelected 1882, city attorney of Des Moines; he was elected district judge of the Ninth Judicial District of Iowa in 1885 but resigned the position in 1889 and removed to Chicago, where he became associated in practice with Judge John Gibbons, under the style of Gibbons & Kavanagh, which later was changed to Gibbons, Kavanagh & O'Donnell. Judge Gibbons retired from the firm upon his elevation to the bench, and the firm continued as Kavanagh & O'Donnell until at the election in 1899 Mr. Kavanagh was chosen for the judge of the Superior Court of Cook County, the position which he now holds. While residing in Des Moines he was major and afterward lieutenant-colonel of the Third Regiment of Iowa National Guard. He was elected lieutenant-colonel of the Seventh Regiment, Illinois National Guard, in 1894 and promoted to colonel in 1896. He served with distinction in the Spanish-American War as colonel of the Seventh Volunteer Infantry. He is a Republican in politics. Address: 1518 Michigan Avenue, Chicago.

KEAN, Hamilton Fish:

Banker; born in Ursino, N. J., Feb. 27, 1862; son of John and Lucy (Halstead) Kean. He is a member of the firm of Kean, Van Courtland & Co.; president and director of the First National Bank of Pearl Amboy, N. J.; vice-president and director of the Kean, Van Courtland & Co. Realty Company; director of the Elizabethtown Gas Light Company; Elizabethtown Water Company; Federal Trust Company of Newark, N. J.; Hackensack Water Company; National State Bank of Elizabeth, N. J.; North American Exploration Company, Limited; Pocahontas Collieries Company; Rahway Gas Light Company, and West Hudson County Trust Company, of Harrison, N. J. Mr. Kean is a member of the Union, Knickerbocker, Metropolitan, Midway, St. Anthony, Down Town, New York Athletic, and Riding Clubs of New York, and the Metropolitan Club of Washington, D. C. He married in New York City, Jan. 12, 1888, Katharine Winthrop, and they have two sons, John and Robert Winthrop. Residence: 25 East 37th Street. Office: 30 Pine Street, New York City.

KEAN, John:

United States Senator; born in Ursino, N. J., Dec. 4, 1852; son of John and Lucy Kean. He entered Yale College in the class of 1876; did not graduate, but left to study law, and was graduated from Columbia College Law School, LL.B., 1875, and was admitted to the New Jersey bar in 1877. He was selected to the Forty-eighth and Fiftieth Congresses; was chairman of the Republican State Committee, 1891-1892, and Republican candidate for governor, 1892; received the degree of M.A. from Yale University in 1890; was a member of the committee to revise the judiciary system of the State. He is president of the National State Bank of Elizabeth, N. J., and vice-president of the Manhattan Trust Company, of New York. He was nominated by acclamation by the Republican caucus, and elected to the U. S. Senate, Jan. 25, 1899, to succeed James Smith, Jr., Democrat; and was re-elected in 1905. His term of service will expire March 3, 1911. Address: Ursino, near Elizabeth, N. J.

KEANE, John Joseph:

Archbishop of Dubuque; born at Ballyshannon, County Donegal, Ireland, Sept. 12, 1839; and was brought to the United States by his parents in 1846. He was graduated from St. Charles College, Ellicott City, Md., and studied theology at St. Sulpice and St. Mary's Seminary in Baltimore. After his ordination to the priesthood by Archbishop Spalding in 1866 he was assistant to the permanent rector of St. Patrick's Church, Washington, D. C., until he was consecrated, Aug. 25, 1878, bishop of Richmond, Va. This office he resigned in August, 1888, received the titular see of Ajasso, and was rector of the Catholic University of America, 1888-1896. He was summoned to Rome, and was made titular Archbishop of Damascus, Jan. 9, 1897, served as assistant at the pontifical throne, canon of the Lateran and consultor to the Propaganda, with residence at the Canadian College, Rome. In July, 1900, he was elevated to the metropolitan see of Dubuque. Address: Dubuque, Iowa.

KEASBEY, Henry Miller:

Manufacturer; born in Newark, N. J., Jan. 16, 1859; son of Anthony Q. and Edwina L. (Miller) Keasbey. He was educated in private schools and the Newark Academy. He commenced business with the Mutual Life Insurance Company at the age of seventeen, remaining three years; was manager of a bank in Colorado for two years; and in 1882 he became associated with the Raritan Hollow and Porus Brick Company, of Keasbey, N. J., as secretary and treasurer; and afterward became successively vice-president and then president of the company. In 1902 he became vice-president and Eastern manager of the National Fire Proofing Company; also president of the Federal Clay Manufacturing Company; the American Vitrified Conduit Company and Eastern manager of the H. B. Camp Company. Mr. Keasbey is a member of the Lawyers' and the Essex County Country Clubs. He married at Newark, N. J., April 18, 1883, Charlotte Condit Lewis, and they have three daughters. Country Home: "Holmwood," Orange, N. J. Office: 949 Broadway, New York City.

KEASBEY, Lindley Miller:

Professor of political science; born in Newark, N. J., Feb. 24, 1867; son of Anthony Quinton and Edwina Louisa (Miller) Keasbey. He graduated from Harvard, A. B., 1888, Columbia, A.M., 1889, Ph.D., 1890, Kaiser Wilhelm Universität, Strassburg, Germany, R.P.D., summa cum laude, 1892. Dr. Keasbey was professor of political science in the University of Colorado, 1892-1895; professor of political science in Bryn Mawr College, 1895-1905; professor and head of the school of Political Science in the University of Texas, since 1905. Dr. Keasbey is president of the Hackensack Inn Company, of New Jersey. He is a member of the American Philosophical Society, American Economic Association, American Sociological Association, American Political Science Association, and the American Association for the Advancement of Science. His favorite recreation is farming and stock-raising on "Inshallah," a small irrigated farm near Austin, Texas, devoted to fancy vegetables, flowers, fruits and stock. Professor Keasbey married in Louisville, Ky., June 8, 1892, Cornelia Graham Sumrall, and has two daughters. Residence: Inshallah. Office: University of Texas, Austin, Texas.

KEARNEY, Belle:

Lecturer and writer; born at Vernon, Miss., in 1863; daughter of Colonel Walter G. and Sue (Owens) Kearney. She was educated in Mississippi, was engaged in teaching for six years and since 1889 has been on the lecture platform as speaker for the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union and for Chautauquas. Miss Kearney has made numerous temperance, prohibition and popular addresses in all parts of the United States, Canada and the British Isles, as well as on the continent of Europe, and she has traveled around the world, lecturing and writing for a syndicate of newspapers. Her family were wealthy planters of the old régime, with large estates and many slaves, though Miss Kearney herself is often spoken of as a typical embodiment of the New South. Her autobiographical book, A Slaveholder's Daughter has had a wide circulation. Address: Balfour, Madison County, Miss.

KEATOR, John Frisbee:

Lawyer; born in Roxbury, Delaware County, N. Y., April 16, 1850; son of Abram Johnson and Ruth (Frisbee) Keator. His parental ancestors were from Holland descent; and in his direct lines of ancestry are John Keator, who was killed by Indian allies of the British while serving as a soldier in the Revolutionary War, and John Frisbee, a soldier in the War of 1812. Mr. Keator was educated in public schools and afterward taught country school, prepared for college at Williston Seminary, Easthampton, Mass., and was graduated from Yale as A.B., 1877, and from the Law Department of the University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia as LL.B., 1879. He was admitted to the Philadelphia Bar in 1879 and has since been engaged in practice there, and since 1890 has been a member of the bar of the Supreme Court of the United States. He is head of the law firm of Keator & Johnson and is trustee and counsel for various charities and benevolent institutions in Philadelphia. He is a Republican of the anti-machine type, representing his district two terms in the Pennsylvania Legislature, and has been identified with efforts for good government in State and City. He is a master Mason and Knight Templar, and a member of leading clubs of Philadelphia and the Yale Club of New York. Mr. Keator married, Feb. 10, 1885, Anna W. Sweatman, and they have three living children, the eldest of whom, Rachel, is now (1909) a sophomore in Wellesley College. Residence: 218 West Walnut Lane, Philadelphia. Office: 1026-1029 Stephen Girard Building, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

KEELER, Harriet Louise:

Educator, botanist, author; born at South Kortright, Delaware County, N. Y., in 1846; daughter of Burr and Elizabeth A. (Barlow) Keeler. She was educated in Delaware Academy, Delhi, N. Y., and Oberlin College, A.B., 1870, A.M., 1900. Miss Keeler was a teacher in Central High School, Cleveland, Ohio, 1870-1871; superintendent of primary instruction, Cleveland, 1871-1879; assistant principal of Central High School, Cleveland, since 1879. Miss Keeler is author of: Our Native Trees and Our Northern Shrubs, both published by Charles Scribner's Sons; and joint author (with Emma C. Davis) of studies in English Composition, and (with Mary E. Adams) of High School English, both published by Allyn & Bacon. She is a member of the Advisory Council of Western Reserve University, member of various educational associations and of the Fortnightly (musical), College and Colonial Clubs. Address: 1953 East 59th Street, Cleveland, Ohio.

KEEN, Gregory Bernard:

Curator and secretary of the Council of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania; born in Philadelphia, March 3, 1844; son of Joseph Swift and Luey Ann (Hutton) Keen. He was graduated as A.B. from the University of Pennsylvania, 1861, and received the degree of A.M., in 1864, and LL.D. from Gustavus Adolphus College in 1907. He was graduated at the Divinity School of the Protestant Episcopal Church in Philadelphia and ordained deacon of the Church in 1866; resigned this office and became a Catholic in 1868; and during 1869-1870 he traveled in Europe. He attended lectures in the Medical Department of the University of Pennsylvania, 1870-1871; was professor of mathematics in the Theological Seminary of St. Charles Barronco at Overbrook, Pa., 1871-1872, and for several years devoted himself to the study of Greek literature. He was corresponding secretary of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, 1880-1898; librarian of the University of Pennsylvania, 1887-1897; and librarian of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania from 1898 to 1903, when he became curator of that society. As executor of Professor George Allen, LL.D. he prepared a catalogue of his famous Chess Library, printed in 1878; edited the Pennsylvania Magazine of History and Biography, 1883-1884, contributing translations of various Dutch and Swedish manuscripts and pamphlets relating to the early Swedish colony on the Delaware, as well as a series of articles on The Descendants of Jöran Kyn, the founder of Upland, his first American ancestor; wrote the chapters on New Sweden and New Albion in the Narrative and Critical History of America, edited by Justin Winsor; prepared the catalogue of the Collection of Autographs formed by Ferdinand Julius Dreer, privately printed in 1890-1893. He was delegate to the Columbian Catholic Congress at Chicago in 1893 and has been his toriographer of the Alumni Society of the College Department of the University of Pennsylvania since 1890. Dr. Keen is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa fraternity, the American Philosophical Society, the American Catholic Historical Society, the Pennsylvania Society of Sons of the Revolution, the Society of the War of 1812, registrar of the Colonial Society of Pennsylvania, and historian of the Pennsylvania Society of Colonial Wars. He married in 1885 Stella Maria, daughter of John Marshall and Hanna Martina (Gunwalsen) Watson of New York. Address: 1300 Locust Street, Philadelphia.

KEEN, William Williams:

Surgeon; born in Philadelphia, Jan. 19, 1837; son of William Williams and Susan (Budd) Keen. His ancestor Jöran (i. e. George) Kyn came from Upland, Sweden, in 1642, in the expedition of Governor Printz. He was graduated from Brown University in 1859, and from Jefferson Medical College as M.D. in 1862; received the degree of LL.D. from Brown University, 1892, Northwestern University, 1903, University of Toronto, 1904, University of Edinburgh, 1905, and Yale, 1906, and the honorary degrees of M.D. from Greifswald, 1906, and Ph.D. from the University of Upsala, 1907. Before his graduation in medicine he was appointed assistant surgeon of the Fifth Massachusetts Volunteer Regiment in 1861; was acting assistant surgeon, U. S. Army, 1862-1864; studied in Europe, 1864-1866, and since then has practised surgery in Philadelphia. Dr. Keen was lecturer on pathological anatomy in Jefferson Medical College, 1866-1875; professor of artistic anatomy in the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, 1876-1890; professor of surgery in the Woman's Medical College, 1884-1889; and professor of surgery at Jefferson Medical College from 1889 until 1907, when he resigned his chair and was made professor emeritus. Dr. Keen is a member of many medical and other scientific societies; was president of the American Surgical Association, 1898, of the American Medical Association, 1899, the College of Physicians of Philadelphia, 1900, and the Congress of American Physicians and Surgeons in 1903. Since 1894 he has been a foreign corresponding member of the Société de Chirurgie de Paris, Société Belge de Chirurgie and the Clinical Society of London; and he is an honorary fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons of England, Royal College of Surgeons of Edinburgh and the Deutsche Gesellschaft für Chirurgie, and is president of the American Philosophical Society for the years 1908-1909. He is author of several works on surgery, the latest of which is Keen's Surgery (five volumes), 1907. In politics he is a Republican, and in his religious faith a Baptist; and he is author of the History of the First Baptist Church of Philadelphia. He is a member of the University, Brown University and City Clubs of Philadelphia. Dr. Keen married at Fall River, Mass., Dec. 11, 1867, Emma Corinna Borden, who died in 1886, leaving four children. Address: 1729 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

KEENE, Francis Bowler:

American consul at Geneva; born in Milwaukee, Dec. 11, 1856; son of Rev. David and Susan Elizabeth (Bowler) Keene. He was graduated from Harvard, A.B., 1880, served in the engineer corps of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad and was afterward in newspaper life in Milwaukee on The Sentinel and Evening Wisconsin and later as financial and commercial editor of the Milwaukee Journal. He was a member of the Wisconsin Legislature, 1899-1902. He was American consul at Florence, 1903-1905, and was appointed, March 23, 1905, American Consul at Geneva. He is a member of the Sons of the American Revolution, the American Society of International Law, the American and Wisconsin Historical Association and the Press and Harvard Clubs of Milwaukee. Address: American Consulate, Geneva, Switzerland.

KEENE, Foxhall:

Banker; son of James R. Keene, Wall Street financier, and Sara (Daingerfield) Keene. He has been associated with his father not only in business, but also on the turf, where they have been leaders for many years. He is known in the United States and abroad as one of the most accomplished and successful of American riders, and he is one of the most prominent members of the Rockaway Hunt Club; also a member of the Racquet and Tennis, Turf and Field and Meadow Brook Clubs and the Automobile Club of America. Address: Westbury, L. I., N. Y.

KEELEY, James:

Editor; born in London, England, Oct. 14, 1867; came to the United States and was educated in the public schools. He began his newspaper career with the Chicago Tribune as a reporter and has continued with that paper ever since, being successively promoted to night city editor, city editor, and, in 1898, to his present position as managing editor. He added to his many laurels of journalistic enterprise by planning and executing the series of coups by which Paul O. Stensland the absconding president of the Milwaukee Avenue State Bank of Chicago, was tracked (by Mr. Keeley and Harry Olsen, since elected chief justice of the Municipal Court of Chicago) to Tangier, Morocco, taken back to Chicago and sent to Joliet penitentiary for forgery. Mr. Keeley married in Chicago, June 5, 1895, Gertrude E. Small. Residence: 86 Astor Street. Office: The Tribune, Chicago.

KEENE, James Robert:

Capitalist; born in London, England, in 1838; went as a boy to California, where, as a miner, he laid the foundation of a large fortune. He was for some time president of the San Francisco Stock Exchange; but has, since 1877 carried on operations in New York. Mr. Keen is an active member of the Rockaway Hunt Club and of the leading Jockey Clubs here and abroad. For years he has been a generous supporter of the Turf, and horses of his breeding and training have won in different years nearly all the classic races held in England and France. Residence: Cedarhurst, L. I. Address: 30 Broad Street, New York City.

KEEP, Chauncey:

Capitalist; born at Whitewater, Wis., Aug. 20, 1853; son of Henry and Phebe (McCluer) Keep. He received his education in the Chicago public schools. He was engaged in the lumber business, 1878-1883, and the Raymond Lead Company, 1888-1903. Mr. Keep is vice-president and director of the Illinois Trust and Savings Bank; director of the Merchants' Loan and Trust Company of Chicago, Chicago Telephone Company, Northwestern Elevated Railroad Company, The Pullman Company, the Chicago and Northwestern Railway Company, The Union Bag and Paper Company, and the Calumet and Chicago Canal and Dock Company; trustee of the New York Trust Company and of the United States Trust Company of New York, and is executor and trustee of the estate of Marshall Field. He is a member of the Chicago Historical Society, the Chicago Home for Incurables, Old People's Home of Chicago, and Hahnemann Hospital and College. In politics he is a Republican; and he is a member of the Episcopal Church. He has traveled extensively in Europe, Egypt, Mexico, the West Indies and many other countries. His favorite recreations are golf and horseback riding. Mr. Keep is a member of the Chicago and Union League Clubs of Chicago, the Chicago Athletic Association, Chicago Golf Club (Wheaton, Ill.), Chicago Literary Club, Onwentsia Golf Club (Lake Forest, Ill.), Homewood Golf Club (Floosmore, Ill.), Saddle and Cycle, University and Middyay Clubs of Chicago, and the Railroad Club of Chicago. He married at Chicago, Jan. 19, 1888, Mary H. Blair, and their children are: Margaret, Henry B., and Katherine F. Keep. Residence: 2825 Prairie Avenue. Office: 135 Adams Street, Chicago.

KEEP, William John:

Manufacturer; born in Oberlin, Ohio, June 3, 1842; son of Rev. Theodore John and Mary A. (Thompson) Keep. He was graduated from Union College, C.E., 1865. Mr. Keep has been engaged as a stove manufacturer ever since 1865 and is now of the Michigan Stove Company; also a manufacturer of testing machines. In 1885 he discovered the relation between the shrinkage and chemical composition of cast iron, devised the system of Keep's Test, which he later named Mechanical Analysis. He is author of: Cast Iron (John Wiley and Sons), and is a contributor to various technical journals. Mr. Keep is a member of the American Institute of Mining Engineers, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, Iron and Steel Institute of Great Britain, International Association for Testing Material, American Foundrymen's Association, Franklin Institute of Philadelphia, Detroit Engineering Society; fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science; honorary member of the Rensselaer Society of Engineers and of the Foundrymen's Association of Philadelphia, and is a member of the Sons of the American Revolution and of the New England Society. Mr. Keep married in Oberlin, Ohio, Frances S. Henderson, and they have two children, Helen Elizabeth and Henry. Residence: 753 Jefferson Avenue. Address: Michigan Stove Company, Detroit, Mich.

KEIFER, Joseph Warren:

Lawyer, soldier and congressman; born on a farm in Big Bethel Township, Clark County, Ohio, Jan. 30, 1836; son of Joseph and Mary (Smith) Keifer. He was educated in Antioch College, Ohio, studied law and was admitted to the bar Jan. 12, 1858, and has since practised law at Springfield, Ohio, except when engaged in public duty. He was commissioned in April, 1861, major of the Third Ohio Infantry, promoted lieutenant-colonel Feb. 12, 1862; commissioned colonel 110th Ohio Volunteer Infantry, Sept. 30, 1862; brevetted brigadier-general, Nov. 30, 1864, and assigned to duty as brigadier-general, Dec. 29, 1864; brevetted major-general, July 1, 1865. He was mustered out of service June 27, 1865. During his service he was four times wounded, and severely at the battle of the Wilderness, May 5, 1864. He was a member of the Ohio Senate, 1868-1869; member of the Forty-fifth, Forty-sixth, Forty-seventh and Forty-eighth Congresses, 1877-1885, and was speaker of the Forty-seventh Congress, Dec. 5, 1881 to March 4, 1883. He was elected to the Fifty-ninth Congress, 1904, and reelected in 1906 and 1908 to the Sixtieth and Sixty-first Congresses. He served as major-general in the Spanish-American War. He was a delegate-at-large from Ohio to the Republican National Conventions of 1876 and 1908. He was vice-commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, 1872-1873; first commander-in-chief of Spanish War Veterans, 1900-1901; commander of the Ohio Commandery of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion, 1903-1904. He was trustee of the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Home, 1870-1878, and again, 1903-1904; trustee of Antioch College since 1873. He is president of the Lagonda National Bank of Springfield. General Keifer is author of: Slavery and Four Years of War, 1900. He married, March 22, 1860, Eliza Stout, who died March 12, 1899, and has three children. Address: Springfield, Ohio.

KEILEY, Benjamin J.:

Catholic bishop of Savannah; born in Petersburg, Va., Oct. 13, 1847. After completing his preparatory education he went to the American College at Rome, and he was ordained to the priesthood Dec. 31, 1873. He filled pastorates at New Castle and Wilmington, Del., until 1886, then at Atlanta, Ga., until 1896, and after that at Savannah, Ga., until consecrated by Cardinal Gibbons, June 3, 1900, as bishop of Savannah. Address: Savannah, Ga.

KEIM, DeBennville Randolph:

Editor, author and Washington correspondent; born in Reading, Pa., Jan. 1, 1841; son of John High (Hoch) Keim, of Pennsylvania and Martha Elizabeth (Randolph) Keim, of Virginia. He was educated by private tutors and schools, the Pennsylvania Military Institute, Reading, Pa., Antony Bolman's West Chester (Pa.) Academy and Beloit (Wis.) College. He taught school in Dubuque, Iowa, 1859; served in the Surveyor-General's Office, Harrisburg, Pa., 1860-1861. In 1860 he became captain of the Harrisburg Rifles; captain First City Zouaves (now City Grays, National Guard of Pennsylvania); correspondent for newspapers in Philadelphia; assisted in raising a Zouave regiment; resigned, and declined captaincy of infantry or lieutenantancy of artillery. He was war correspondent at St. Louis of the New York Times and Philadelphia Inquirer. In Oct., 1862, he became war correspondent of the New York Herald, in which capacity he was with Gen. Grant in both Vicksburg campaigns to the finish. In 1863, with Banks' campaign against Matagorda Bay, Texas; in 1864, on the Sherman Meridian (Miss.) Expedition, McPherson's march to Chattanooga and Atlanta campaign until that commander was killed; and also reported the Confederate raid into Maryland and Pennsylvania; afterward in the Herald editorial office in New York, and 1865-1866 Herald correspondent to the Suez Canal, Egypt, Red Sea Coast, India, Ceylon, Australasia, and afterward Herald Washington correspondent. During 1868-1869, he went for the Herald with Sheridan's winter campaign on the Plains; declined the consulate to Foochow, China, and went as Herald Commissioner to Santo Domingo in favor of annexation, and Cuba in insurrection against Spain. He was recalled to accompany President Grant in tour to Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts, White Mountains, and Saratoga, and after that always accompanied him. In 1870-1872 he was agent of the United States to examine consulates in Asia, Africa, Central and South America and Europe, and his reports were published by Congress. Mr. Keim from 1873 was engaged continuously as Washington correspondent, representing at different times the Philadelphia Press, Times, Inquirer and Telegraph; Pittsburgh Commercial (later Commercial Gazette), St. Louis Globe-Democrat, Albany Journal, New York Iron Age, Harrisburg Telegraph, and syndicated news and letters to Chicago and New York, Tribune, Washington Evening Star and newspapers in other metropolitan cities. He was appointed first chief examiner of the Civil Service, but preferred journalism and withdrew. Mr. Keim is author of many works, including: Santo Domingo; Sheridan's Troopers on the Borders; Gazetteer of the Philippine Islands (Senate Document No. 280, Fifty-seventh Congress); Sherman Statue Memorial (Senate Document No. 320, Fifty-eighth Congress); Rochambeau Statue Commemoration (Senate Document No. 537, Fifty-ninth Congress); also the dramas: LaFayette; Frederick the Great, and Monmouth, and many others in manuscript; and he has written many magazine and syndicate articles. He is a life member of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania; member of the Society of the War of 1812. He is a stalwart Republican and a member of the Pennsylvania Republican Club of Washington. He married in Hartford, Conn., June 25, 1872, Jane A. Sumner Owen, and they have two daughters. Residence: 'Edgemount,' Reading, Pa. Office: Washington, D. C.

KEITH, Charles Penrose:

Lawyer; born in Philadelphia, March 15, 1854; son of Washington Keith and Anne Mathews (Penrose) Keith. He was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania as B.S. in 1873. He taught school; was librarian pro tem of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania in 1876, and was title examiner of the Real Estate Title Insurance and Trust Company of Philadelphia, for ten years. He was chief clerk of the United States Appraiser's Office, Philadelphia, 1889-1893. He is author of: The Provincial Councillors of Pennsylvania from 1733 to 1776 and their Descendants, 1883; and The Ancestry of Benjamin Harrison and Notes on Families Related, 1893. In politics he is an Independent and in religion an Episcopalian, and he is a vestryman of old Christ Church, Philadelphia. He is a member of the Philadelphia Club and the Germantown Cricket Club. Mr. Keith married in Philadelphia, Dec. 18, 1883, Elizabeth Harvey Wister. Residence: 321 South Fourth Street. Address: 308 Walnut Street, Philadelphia.

KEITH, Minor C.:

Capitalist; born in Brooklyn, N. Y., 1848; son of Minor Hand and Emily Meiggs Keith, he was educated at Stamford, Connecticut. He is president and director of the Abangarez Gold Fields of Costa Rica, Costa Rica Esperanza Mining Company, Baltimore Bridge Company, Guatemala Railway Company, Northern Railway Company of Costa Rica, and Banco Comercial de Costa Rica; vice-president and director of the Belize Royal Mail and Central American Steamship Company, United States Company (Boston), director of the Fruit Dispatch Company, the Nipe Bay Company, and United Mines Company. Mr. Keith is a member of the Metropolitan, New York Athletic, and City Midway Clubs of New York City. Residence: Babylon, L. I. Office: 17 Battery Place, New York City.

KELCEY, Herbert:

Actor; born in England, Oct. 10, 1855. He was intended for the army, but joined a provincial theatrical company and made his first appearance at the Theatre Royal, Brighton, in 1877, and continued in the provinces until Aug. 6, 1881, when he created the part of "Captain Lord Loverton" in Youth, in which he made his London debut at the Drury Lane Theatre. He first appeared in America at Wallack's Theatre, New York, as "Philip Radley" in Taken from Life, Sept. 9, 1882. He has created many notable parts; was a member of the Madison Square Company, 1884-1885, after that with the Wallack Stock Company, and in October, 1887, leading man in Daniel Frohman's Lyceum Stock Company, in which he first appeared as "John Rutherford" in The Wife, and continued with that company until 1896, when he supported

Mrs. Leslie Carter, in The Heart of Maryland. After that he became a star, playing "Edward Fletcher," in The Moth and The Flame, with Effie Shannon as leading woman, and has continued to star in various other plays, at the head of his own company. Address: Care of Low's Exchange, 1123 Broadway, New York City.

KELIHER, John A.:

Congressman and real estate agent; born in Boston, Nov. 6, 1866; son of John Keliher and Joanna (Shea) Keliher. He received his education in the public schools; was a member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, 1896-1897, and of the Massachusetts Senate, 1899-1900. He was elected to the Fifty-eighth Congress, and re-elected to the Fifty-ninth and Sixtieth Congresses from the Ninth Massachusetts District. He is a Democrat in politics. Address: Boston.

KELLER, Benjamin Franklin:

United States judge; born at Boalsburg, Pa., April 21, 1857; son of Henry and Margaret Keller. He was graduated from Pennsylvania State College, B.S., 1876, M.S. in 1879, then entering the Law Department of Columbian (now George Washington) University, from which he was graduated LL.B., 1882; and he received from that University the LL.D. degree in 1903. He engaged in the practice of law in West Virginia until appointed by President McKinley, July 1, 1901, judge of the newly formed Southern District of West Virginia. Address: Bramwell, W. Va.

KELLER, Emil Ernest:

Engineer and manufacturer; born in New York City, Oct. 16, 1863; son of John B. Keller and Susan (Brueck) Keller. He was educated in public schools of New York City, Miss Shaw's private school and public schools in Rochester, until 1875; German-American Institute, Rochester, N. Y., until 1878; self-educated in engineering lines while earning his living. He learned the machinist trade with Yawman & Erbe, Rochester, N. Y., becoming foreman of a department in 1883; entered into partnership in machine work, 1885; burned out, in 1886; took position as superintendent of the Clark Novelty and Machine Works, Rochester, until 1888; removed to Pittsburgh, Pa., January, 1888 engaging in construction work with the Westinghouse interests on electrical work; placed in charge of all Pittsburgh construction, and contracting in April, 1888; appointed manager of the Chicago territory in November, 1888; resigned to take appointment of electrical engineer of the Department of Electricity, World's Columbian Exposition, in 1891; resigned July, 1892, to accept position of manager and general superintendent, covering all work connected with carrying out contract of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company for lighting, power and exhibits at the Exposition. He was elected vice-president and director of the Westinghouse Machine Company, and removed to Pittsburgh, January, 1894. He was also vice-president and director of the Pittsburgh Meter Company, and director of the Westinghouse Foundry Company, Security Investment Company, Nernst Lamp Company, and the Westinghouse Interworks Railroad Company, all Westinghouse interests located at Pittsburgh; also president Detroit Insulated Wire Company, Detroit, and director Ontario Nickel Company, Worthington, Ont. He was appointed Oct. 23, 1907, receiver and general manager of the Westinghouse Machine Company, and April 1, 1908, turned the entire property back to the stockholders in reorganized condition, and severed his connection with the company to take up the management of his personal interests. He has traveled in the United States, Canada, and Europe. Mr. Keller is a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, American Institute of Electrical Engineers, Engineers' Society of Western Pennsylvania, National Association of Manufacturers of the United States, Franklin Institute, National Civic Federation, American Association for the Advancement of Science, National Geographic Society. He is a member of the Duquesne Club of Pittsburgh, Oakmont Country Club, Oakmont, Pa., Automobile Club of Pittsburgh, and Engineers' Club of New York City. He married, Oct. 23, 1884, Ella, daughter of A. F. and Martha Miller, of Attica, N. Y. Residence: 201 Murtland Avenue, Pittsburgh. Address: East Pittsburgh.

KELLER, Helen Adams:

Author; born in Tusculum, Ala., June 2, 1880; daughter of Arthur H. and Kate (Adams) Keller. She is a descendant, through her father, from Alexander Spotswood, colonial governor of Virginia, and through her mother from the Massachusetts Adams and Everett families. Miss Keller has been deaf and blind since the age of eighteen months. She was educated by Mrs. Annie Sullivan Macy, prepared for college by private school and tutor, and was graduated from Radcliffe College, A.B., 1904. Miss Keller is regarded as the highest example of the possibilities of education of the deaf blind. She is author of two books: The Story of My Life, and Optimism—an Essay, and various magazine articles. Miss Keller is a member of the Massachusetts Commission for the Blind; trustee of the New England Home for the Deaf. Her recreations are walking, reading, cards and riding tandem bicycle. Address: Wrentham, Mass.

KELLER, Hermann A.:

Mining engineer; born in Philadelphia, March 23, 1860; son of Dr. William C. C. and Augusta (Cramer) Keller. He received his education in the Grand Duval Gymnasium at Darmstadt, Germany, and was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania as B.S., 1881. Mr. Keller has been engaged in managing and examining mines and metallurgical works since 1882; and is now in practice as an independent consulting engineer. He was instructor in geology in the University of Pennsylvania, 1881-1882. He is a member of the American Institute of Mining Engineers and of the Engineers' and Jolly Mariners' Clubs of New York City, and the University Club of Denver, Colo. Address: Engineers' Club, 374 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

KELLEY, Florence (Mrs.):

Secretary of the National Consumers' League; born in Philadelphia in 1859; daughter of Hon. William D. Kelley, M.C., and Caroline Bartram (Bonsall) Kelley. She was educated in Cornell University, B.Litt., 1882, the Universities of Zürich and Heidelberg, 1885-1886, Northwestern University Law School, LL.B., 1895. Mrs. Kelley was a special agent of the U. S. Department of Labor, 1892-1893; chief inspector of factories of the State of Illinois, 1893-1896; American editor of the Archiv für Sozialgesetzgebung und Statistik, 1897-1899; secretary of the National Consumers' League since 1899. She is also editor of the Child Labor Department of The Survey (formerly "Charities"). Mrs. Kelley is author of: Some Ethical Gains Through Legislation, 1895 (Macmillan); also of the Reports of the Illinois State Department of Factory Inspection, 1893-1897. Mrs. Kelley is a trustee of the National Child Labor Committee, and vice-president of the National American Woman Suffrage Association. Address: 105 East 22d Street, New York City.

KELLEY, Leverett M.:

Deputy commissioner of pensions; born at Schenectady, N. Y., Sept. 28, 1841; of Scotch-Irish and Dutch-American ancestry. He removed with his father to Kane County, Ill., in 1845, and was educated in the schools of that county and Beloit College at Beloit, Wis. He was a student in the latter institution when he enlisted in July, 1861, as a private in Company A, of the Thirty-sixth Regiment of Illinois Volunteer Infantry, which was mustered into United States Service at Camp Hammond, Ill., Aug. 22, 1861. He served as corporal, sergeant, first lieutenant and captain of the regiment, until mustered out in Oct., 1865. He was an active participant in the battles of Pea Ridge, Perryville, Stone River, Chickamauga, Missionary Ridge, Dalton, Resaca, Adairville, Dallas, Kennesaw Mountain, Peach Tree Creek, Lovejoy Station, Jonesboro, Columbia, Spring Hill, Franklin and Nashville. When sergeant of Company

A, at Missionary Ridge, calling upon comrades to follow, he rushed forward in face of an incessant and deadly fire, and was among the first over the works on the summit, where he compelled the surrender of a Confederate officer and received his sword. After the war he returned to Illinois, and he was sheriff of Kane County in 1867, 1868 and 1874, and he was Indian agent at Standing Rock and Los Pinos Agencies in 1878, in which capacity he consummated an important treaty with the Indians. He became chief of a division of the Pension Bureau at Washington, 1889-1893, and since 1897 has been deputy commissioner of pensions. He is a Republican in politics, and is a member of the Grand Army of the Republic, Military Order of the Loyal Legion, and the Medal of Honor Legion of the United States. Residence: The Cecil, Washington. Official address: Bureau of Pensions, Washington, D. C.

KELLEY, William D.:

Civil engineer; born at Kelley's Island, Erie County, Ohio, May 11, 1859; son of William D. and Marcella (Dean) Kelley. He was graduated from Cornell University, B.S., 1880, C.E., 1881. He followed civil engineering professionally until 1893 with the New York and New England Railroad in Boston, with the Catskill Mountain Railroad, on location and construction; the South Pennsylvania Railroad as assistant engineer on surveys, location and construction; served four years as special assistant engineer on the northern half of the New Croton Aqueduct, New York City. In 1891-1892 he was engineer in charge of the Third Corps Intercontinental Railway for United States Government and Pan-American Governments, surveying and exploring from Quito, the capital of Ecuador, to Puño, Peru, a distance, including side lines, of about 3,000 miles in the plateau and Amazon countries of the Andes. Since 1893, he has been engaged in engineering, building and contracting in New York City. Mr. Kelley is president and director of Kelley and Kelley, engineers, builders and contractors; president and director of Cowden and De Young, Incorporated, electrical contractors; president and director of the Bois Sheet Metal Works, Inc., and of the F. W. Waggoner Co., Inc. (heating, ventilating and plumbing); vice-president, secretary and director of the Leonia Heights Land Company of New York and New Jersey. He is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, National Geographic Society, and the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and the Cornell University Club. He married in Tarrytown, N. Y., in 1894, Isabelle Silver; and they have one son. Address: 45 East 42d Street, New York City.

KELLOGG, Charles Day:

Founder and secretary of the Women's Hotel Company; born in Troy, N. Y., June 4, 1828; son of Day Otis and Ann Eliza Smith. He is descended in a direct line from John and Priscilla Alden. He received his education in private schools in Lenox, Mass., and Boston; began commercial business in Boston in 1850; and at the beginning of the Civil War, in 1861, he was appointed quartermaster-general's storekeeper, and had charge of equipping the first twenty-seven regiments sent by Massachusetts to the front. He was for several years a director of the Young Men's Christian Association, and treasurer of Emmanuel Protestant Episcopal Church in Boston. In 1865, he removed to New York City, and in Dec., 1873, was one of the founders of the Reformed Episcopal Church. For thirteen years he was secretary to its General Council, and since 1883 has been trustee and treasurer of its Sustentation Fund. He was in business in New York City until 1878, when he was invited to become general secretary of the Philadelphia Society for organizing Charity, then being inaugurated; he remained in Philadelphia till 1882, when he was called to become general secretary of the Charity Organization Society in New York City, then forming, and remained in charge until 1896. In 1891, he was invited by President Harrison to take charge of the newly created office of superintendent of charities in the District of Columbia, but feeling obliged to decline, was asked to select the appointee. In 1900 he originated the Woman's Hotel Company, to found high-grade hotels for the exclusive accommodation of business and professional women and the reception of transient guests, except that its restaurants are equally open to men. The first hotel, the Hotel Martha Washington, was opened in New York in March, 1903. Address: 105 East 22d Street, New York City.

KELLOGG, Edward B.:

Physician; born at Sheboygan, Wis., Aug. 21, 1850; son of Eliot Eaton and Hannah Barrett (Foster) Kellogg. He received his early education in a district school in Jamaica, Vt., in a grammar school in Boston, the Burr and Burton Seminary, Manchester, Vt., and Nunda, N. Y., Academy. He went to Jacksonville, Fla., where he remained nine years as one of the editors and proprietors of the Jacksonville Union; and returning to Boston, in 1878, he began the study of medicine. Subsequently, in 1882, he graduated from the Medical School of Maine, Bowdoin College, as M.D. Dr. Kellogg is now assistant medical director of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company. He is a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, American Medical Association, Boston Medical Library Association, Society of Mayflower Descendants, the Algonquin, Bowdoin, Vermont and Middlesex Clubs. He married in Gardner, Me., Jan. 17, 1879, Minnie W. Bradbury, and they have one son. Address: 854 Beacon Street, Boston, Mass.

KELLOGG, Frank B.:

Lawyer; born in Potsdam, N. Y., Dec. 22, 1856; son of Asa F. and Abigail (Bilhugs) Kellogg. His parents removed, in 1865, to a farm in Olmstead County, Minn., where he worked in summers and attended school winters. He studied law in offices in Rochester, Minn., 1876-1878; was admitted to the bar and practised, 1878-1887, in Rochester, Minn., where he was for three years city attorney, and for five years was county attorney of Olmstead County. He has practised at St. Paul, Minn., since 1887, and was a partner with U. S. Senator Cushman K. Davis and Cordenio A. Severence, in the firm of Davis, Kellogg and Severence, until the death of Senator Davis in 1900, since which, with the other partners has continued the business, which is largely taken up with corporation law. Mr. Kellogg argued successfully the Great Northern stock issue case, involving sixty million dollars, the State of Minnesota demanding an explanation of the use to which this money was to be put, and also won on behalf of the leaseholders, the Mineral Lease case, involving fifty million dollars, and was also counsel in the case involving the receivership of the Northern Pacific Railway. He is now special counsel of the Northern Pacific Railway, general counsel of the Chicago Great Western Railroad, the Duluth and Iron Range Railroad, and the Duluth, Messabe and Northern Railroad, and attorney for a large number of iron mining companies in Minnesota, and other corporations. He has been employed by the United States Department of Justice in several suits against trusts and illegal combinations, dissolved the General Paper Company, commonly known as the Western Paper Trust, having charge of the case from its inception, and through the United States Supreme Court; was special counsel for the Interstate Commerce Commission in the Investigation of the Union Pacific-Chicago and Alton operation of E. H. Harriman and associates; and in Nov., 1906, after some months of preparation, instituted the suit for the Government in the United States Court at St. Louis, to dissolve the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. He is also counsel for the Government in the cases of The United States v. Union and Southern Pacific Railway Companies, to dissolve the combination of these two companies. Mr. Kellogg was a delegate to the National Republican Conventions of 1904 and 1908, and since 1904 has been a member of the National Republican Committee. He is a member of the Minnesota Club of St. Paul, Chicago Club of Chicago, Lawyers' and Transportation Clubs of New York City, and the Kitchi Gammi Club of Duluth, Minn. Residence: 633 Fairmount Avenue. Office: Merchants' National Bank Building, St. Paul, Minn.

KELLOGG, Frederic Rogers:

Lawyer; born at Middlebury, Vt., May 6, 1867; son of Brainard and Julia (Cutler) Kellogg. He was graduated from the Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute, B.S., 1885, and from Columbia Law School, LL.B., second honor man of class and cum laude in political science, 1888. He has been engaged in the practice of law since 1888; was Eastern counsel for the United Copper Company and Subsidiary companies in its extensive litigation with the Amalgamated Copper Company; and counsel for Comptroller Coler in his fight against O'Brien and Clark. He is senior member of the law firm of Kellogg, Beckwith and Emery, is a member of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, and New York State Bar Association; trustee of the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn. He married at Dover, N. J., June 24, 1903, Cornelia Van Wyck Halsey. Address: 52 Broadway, New York City.

KELLOGG, Henry T.:

Jurist; he was engaged in the practice of law at Plattsburg, N. Y., until elected, in 1903, on the Republican ticket to his present office of justice of the Supreme Court of New York for the fourteen-year term expiring Dec. 31, 1917. Address: Plattsburg, N. Y.

KELLOGG, James C.:

Consular officer; born in Mississippi. Appointed consul at Stettin, March 21, 1890; retired Sept., 1893; appointed consul at Barranquilla, Feb. 3, 1905; appointed consul at Colon, May 27, 1905. Address: Colon, Panama.

KELLOGG, John Morris:

Jurist; born in Taylor, Cortland County, N. Y., 1851; son of Stephen and Nancy (Dillenbeck) Kellogg. He was educated in Cornell University and Albany Law School, LL.B., 1873. He was admitted to the bar, 1873, and then engaged in the practice of law at Ogdensburg, N. Y. He is vice-president of the National Bank of Ogdensburg. He held the office of recorder of Ogdensburg and later was county judge of St. Lawrence County, N. Y., and judge of the Court of Claims of the State of New York. He was appointed, Oct., 1902, justice of the Supreme Court of the State of New York and elected, Nov., 1903, for full term expiring Dec. 31, 1917. Justice Kellogg is a Republican in politics. He married Henrietta Guest Mathews. Address: Ogdensburg, N. Y.

KELLOGG, Theodore H.:

Physician; son of Rev. Ezra B. Kellogg, D.D., and grandson of Judge Jason Kellogg. He received his education at Kenyon College, Ohio, and the degrees of A.B. and A.M. from Norwich University, Vt. He studied medicine four years in Europe, at Paris, Berlin and Vienna, and was graduated from Bellevue Hospital Medical College, M.D., 1865. Dr. Kellogg has made a specialty of nervous and mental diseases; was resident physician of the New York Lunatic Asylum, 1865-1871; physician-in-chief of the New York City Asylum for the Insane, 1872-1875; first assistant physician of the Hudson River State Hospital, 1888-1891; physician in charge of Sanford Hall (private hospital), 1891-1892; superintendent of the Willard State Hospital, 1892-1895; and, since 1897, physician in charge of Dr. Kellogg's House, Riverdale-on-Hudson, New York City (licensed by the State for the care of nervous and mental diseases). He is author of: Text-Book on Mental Diseases, 1897; and of numerous monographs on nervous and mental diseases. He is a writer on subjects of popular science, such as English Phonology: Song of Birds; and Physiology of Vowel Sound. Dr. Kellogg is a veteran officer of the Civil War; was first lieutenant of the Seventh Squadron of the Rhode Island Cavalry and is numbered among the College Cavaliers of the Military University of Northfield, Vt. Address: Riverdale-on-Hudson, N. Y.

KELLY, Edmond:

Lawyer and author; born in Toulouse, Haute-Garonne, France, May 28, 1851; son of Robert Edmond and Sarah (Palache) Kelly. He was graduated from Columbia College, A.B., 1870, A.M., LL.B., 1877; from Cambridge, England, as M.A., 1881, and from the École de Droit, Paris, Licencié en Droit, 1883, and he is a fellow of the Geological Society of London. He practised in New York, 1877-1879, in Paris, 1879-1881, New York, 1891-1899, and again in Paris, 1899-1907. He has now abandoned practice in France and is practising as counsel in New York City. Mr. Kelly has written: Evolution and Effort; Government or Human Evolution; Practical Programme for Workmen; the French Law of Marriage. He is a chevalier de la Légion d'Honneur; was a member of the Faculty of Political Science of Columbia College, 1895-1899, and lectured on Municipal Politics and History of the State of New York. Mr. Kelly is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Society, and the Delta Phi fraternity. He is also a member of the Century Association and City Club of New York, the Savile and Alpine Clubs of London, and the Artistique et Littéraire, Puteaux and American Clubs of Paris. He married in Paris, Dec. 19, 1880, Frances Bartow, and of that marriage two children: Kathleen, born in 1883, wife of F. J. Wylie, Oxford, England, and Shannon, born in 1884. He again married, Aug. 22, 1905, Edith Thuresson. Residences: 175 Second Avenue, New York City; Coucy le Château, Aisne; Cabinscourt, Pagoda, Routt County, Colo., and Sunny Brook Farm, Nyack, N. Y. Office: 52 William Street, New York City.

KELLY, Florence Finch:

Author; born in Girard, Ill., March 27, 1858; daughter of James Gardner and Mary Ann (Purdom) Kelly. She was graduated from the University of Kansas, A.B., A.M., and immediately after graduation entered newspaper work. She was engaged upon editorial and special writing, and art and literary criticism on leading papers in Boston, New York San Francisco, and other cities. She married in Boston, in 1884, Allen Kelly, and has a son. Mrs. Kelly has traveled much in the United States, especially on the Pacific Coast, in the Sierra Nevada Mountains and the Southwest, and, in 1905, visited Australia and New Zealand to study economic and social conditions. She has published several magazine articles on social and economic conditions in Australia and New Zealand; many short stories in magazines and newspapers, and a large number of critical articles upon American art and artists in leading magazines, and is author of the books: Hoops of Steel, and The Delafield Affair. She is member of the Pi Beta Phi fraternity, the New York Union of the University of Kansas, and the Women's University Club of New York City. Address: 328 West 96th Street, New York City.

KELLY, John Forrest:

Electrical engineer and inventor; born at Carriek-on-Suir, Ireland, March 28, 1859; son of Jeremiah and Kate (Forrest) Kelly. He took a special course and was graduated from the Stevens Institute of Technology in 1878, with the degree of B.Sc., and received the degree of Ph.D. in 1881. He was chemist in the laboratory of Thomas A. Edison in 1879; electrician in the New York factory of the Western Electric Company, 1879-1882; became assistant electrician in 1882 and chief electrician in 1886 of the United States Electric Lighting Company, and electrician of the Newark shops of the Westinghouse Electric Company until Jan., 1892. He was partner in the Stanley Laboratory Company, 1892-1905, and consulting engineer of the Stanley Electric Manufacturing Company and the Stanley Instrument Company until 1905. Mr. Kelly is president of the Teleelectric Company of Pittsfield, Mass., and the Cokel Company. He has taken out about ninety United States patents for apparatus for generating, transmitting, distributing and measuring electricity, and has led in many important branches connected with the commercial utilization of electricity. He is a member of the Institute of Electrical Engineers, American Statistical Society, American Economic Association, Academy of Political Science, American Association for the Advancement of Science, British Institution of Electrical Engineers, the London Society of Arts, Société Internationale des Electriciens, American Irish Historical Society, and the Irish Texts Society of England. Mr. Kelly married in New York City, in 1892, Helen Tischer. Residence: 284 West Housatonic Street, Pittsfield, Mass. Address: Care Teleelectric Company, 299 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

KELLY, William:

Mine manager; born in New York City, April 17, 1854; son of Robert and Arietta A. (Hutton) Kelly. He was graduated from Yale, B.A., 1874, and from Columbia, E.M., 1877. He was chemist of the Himrod Furnace Company, Youngstown, Ohio, in 1878; superintendent of the Kemble Coal and Iron Company, Riddlesburg, Pa., 1881-1885; superintendent of Glamorgan Iron Company, Lewistown, Pa., 1885; and again superintendent of Kemble Iron Company, Riddlesburg, Pa., 1886-1889. He is general manager of Penn Iron Mining Company, and Republic Iron Company; treasurer of the Penn Store Company, and director of the Commercial Bank, Iron Mountain, Mich. He was president of the Board of Examiners of Bituminous Mine Inspectors of Pennsylvania, 1885-1889. Since June, 1897, Mr. Kelly has been a member of the Board of Control of the Michigan College of Mines, and since 1904 chairman of the board. Mr. Kelly is chairman of the Township Board of Education and has held other local offices. He is a member of the Institution of Mining and Metallurgy of London, England, American Institute of Mining Engineers, Mining and Metallurgical Society of America, Lake Superior Mining Institute, Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education, American Association for the Advancement of Science, American Forestry Association, and National Geographic Society. He is a member of the University Club of New York, University Club of Chicago, Pine Grove Golf Club of Iron Mountain, Mich., and Houghton Club of Houghton, Mich. He married at Hopewell, Pa., June 24, 1886. Annie L. Ashcom, and they had one son, William A., now deceased. Address: Vulean, Mich.

KELLY, William Joseph:

Jurist; born in Brooklyn, April 13, 1860; son of William and Mary Kelly. He was educated in the Brooklyn public and private schools. He was admitted to the New York bar, 1881, and engaged in general practice in New York City and Brooklyn, 1881-1903, and he was elected, in 1903, justice of the Supreme Court of the State of New York for the Second District, for the term expiring Dec. 31, 1917. Justice Kelly is a Democrat. He married in Brooklyn, in 1883, Elizabeth Scott. Residence: 292 St. James Place. Address: County Court House, Brooklyn, N. Y.

KELSEY, Albert:

Architect; born in St. Louis, April 26, 1870; son of A. Warren and Jannette Garr (Washburn) Kelsey. He received most of his education abroad. His architectural ability was tested and developed by constant work in the T-Square Club competitions in Philadelphia, where he was a frequent prize-winner. After having won the highest average for one year's work, he was elected to every office, until he became president of the club. He won the Fourth Traveling Scholarship in Architecture of the University of Pennsylvania and traveled extensively. While his duties as an architect occupy most of his time, he finds opportunities to take part in many municipal conferences and is recognized as an authority. Mr. Kelsey was elected president of the Architectural League of America at the Cleveland Convention in 1899. He was also a delegate to the Fourth International Congress of Architects in Brussels in 1897 and to another in London in 1906. As chairman of the Committee of Experts of the Art Federation of Philadelphia he has long been identified with the movement which culminated a few years ago in the enactment of legislation insuring the construction of a parkway from the public buildings to Fairmount Park. Mr. Kelsey is architect for the reorganizing and rebuilding of Chautauqua, N. Y. In 1903, as an officer of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition Company, he was sent abroad to study the Dresden Municipal Exposition. He was in charge of the Division of Municipal Improvement at the World's Fair in 1904, and architect of three buildings on the Fair grounds. He is founder and editor of the Architectural Annual. Mr. Kelsey married Henrietta Latitia Allis, of New York City. Address: 1524 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

KEMMERER, Edwin Walter:

Economist; born in Scranton, Pa., June 29, 1875; son of Lorenzo D. and Martha (Courtright) Kemmerer. He was graduated from Wesleyan University, Conn., A. B., 1899, with honors and election to Phi Beta Kappa. He was University fellow in economics and finance in Cornell University, 1899-1901, Ph.D., 1903. During the sittings of the U. S. Industrial Commission, 1900-1901, he was assistant to the expert on trusts and industrial combinations, and the following two years was instructor in economics and history at Purdue University. In 1903 he was appointed financial advisor to the United States Philippine Commission, with especial reference to the work of establishing the gold standard for the Philippine Islands. In 1906 he was appointed special commissioner of the War Department and of the Philippine Government to visit Egypt with a view to reporting upon the subjects of agricultural credit and banking in that country. From 1906 until Aug., 1909, he was assistant professor of political economy in Cornell University. He is now managing editor of The Economic Bulletin. Dr. Kemmerer is a member of the American Economic Association, the Phi Beta Kappa Society, the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, and the Cosmopolitan Club. He is author of: Money and Credit Instruments in Their Relation to General Prices; Report on the Advisability of Establishing an Agricultural Bank in the Philippine Islands; and Report on the Agricultural Bank of Egypt; also numerous contributions to economic magazines. He was married at Higganum, Conn., Dec. 24, 1901, to M. Rachel Dickele, and has one son. Residence: Cornell Heights. Office: Room 233 Goldwin South Hall, Ithaca, N. Y.

KEMPNER, Otto:

Lawyer; born in Austria, July 5, 1858. He was educated in the public schools of New York City and at Cooper Union. Mr. Kempner was elected to the General Assembly of New York from the Tenth District of New York City in 1892 and 1894 as an independent Democrat; and became known as a staunch opponent of Tammany bossism by his record in the Legislature and by his pamphlet entitled: Boss Croker's Career. He was nominated for sheriff by the Committee of Seventy in 1896, but declined the nomination, removed to Brooklyn in 1897, and was commissioner of public works under Borough President Swanstrom's administration in 1902-1904. He is president and director of the King and Queens County Real Estate Exchange; and director of the Home Trust Company, of New York. Mr. Kempner is regent of Dauntless Council, Royal Arcanum, and a member of the Municipal Club of Brooklyn. Address: 53 Linden Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

KEMPTON, Charles Walter:

Mining engineer; born in Fairhaven, Mass., Jan. 30, 1847; son of Captain Charles Wilson and Lucinda (Tripp) Kempton. He was graduated from the High School, in Fairhaven, Mass., in 1864; studied engineering in the office of J. Herbert Sheld and Company, in Boston, with special instruction in the mining branches. Mr. Kempton served on the staff of the Essex Water Power Company, Lawrence, Mass., 1870-1874; was in charge of exploration with the diamond drill in Eastern States, 1874-1876, mining operations in the Eastern States and Canada, 1877-1880, mining operations and explorations in the United States, Mexico, Cuba and Columbia, South America, 1883-1892; manager of a gold mine in Arizona, 1892-1897; explorations in Darien Isthmus, 1902, and explorations in Santo Domingo, 1904. He is now senior member and consulting engineer of Kempton and McCoy, mining engineers; director, general manager and chief mining engineer of the American Smelters' Exploration Mining Company of Arizona; director and vice-president of the Andes Mining and Tunnel Company of New York City. Mr. Kempton is a member of the American Institute of Mining Engineers, the National Geographic Society, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and the Engineers' Club. Address: 29 Broadway, New York City.

KENDALL, Margaret:

Artist; born in Staten Island, N. Y., 1871; daughter of Albert Stickings and Elizabeth Weston. She was educated in the Brearley School, New York City. She married in New York City, Feb. 17, 1896, William Sergeant Kendall, painter and sculptor, and they have three children. Mrs. Kendall received a medal from the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, 1904. She is a member of the American Society of Miniature Painters. Address: Barrytown-on-Hudson, N. Y.

KENDALL, William Sergeant:

Artist, painter and sculptor; born in Duyvil, N. Y., Jan. 20, 1869; son of Benjamin Franklin and Elizabeth Anne (Sergeant) Kendall. He was educated in the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, the Art Students' League of New York, and at the École des Beaux Arts, Studio of L. O. Merson, and Académie Julian, Paris. He received mention honorable from the Paris Salon, 1891; medal from the World's Columbian Exposition, Chicago, 1893; Lippincott prize, Philadelphia; bronze medal, Pittsburgh; silver and bronze medals, Buffalo; Shaw prize and Shaw fund Purchase, Society of American Artists; bronze medal, Paris Exposition, 1900; gold medal, Louisiana Purchase Exposition, St. Louis, 1904. He is represented in the permanent collections of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York City; Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, Philadelphia and Corecoran Gallery, Washington. He is a member of the Society of American Artists, National Academy of Design, and academicien of the National Institution of Arts and Letters. Mr.

Kendall married in New York City, Feb. 17, 1896, Margaret Weston Stickney, and they have three daughters. Residence: Barrytown-on-Hudson, N. Y. Address (studio): 26 West 8th Street, New York City.

KENDRICK, John Mills:

Missionary bishop of New Mexico and Arizona; born at Gambier, Ohio, May 14, 1836; son of John and Julia G. Kendrick. He was graduated from Marietta College, Marietta, Ohio, with the degree of B.A., receiving later the M.A. and D.D. degree. He was ordered deacon of the Episcopal Church in 1864, being ordained to the priesthood the following year by Bishop Melvaine. Since his entry to the ministry, he was consecutively deacon at Put-in-Bay, Ohio, rector of St. Andrew's Church, Fort Scott, Kansas, of St. Paul's Church, Leavenworth, Kan., and of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Columbus, Ohio. He then became superintendent of City Missions of Cincinnati, and general missionary of the Diocese of Southern Ohio. He was consecrated bishop in 1889 and made missionary bishop of New Mexico and Arizona. Address: Phoenix, Ariz.

KENDRICK, John William:

Railway official; born in Worcester, Mass., Oct. 14, 1853. He was graduated from the Worcester Polytechnic Institute in 1873; was engaged in general engineering work for six years; and since 1879 has been engaged in railway service, beginning as a levelman with a construction party on the Yellowstone Division of the Northern Pacific Railroad, and remained until 1880 in the location of the Yellowstone and Missouri Divisions, and from 1880 in charge of the construction of one hundred and sixty miles of those divisions until 1883. He was chief engineer in charge of construction of the main line of the St. Paul and Northern Pacific Railway between Staples and Brainerd, through Minneapolis and St. Paul, and the terminals and shops in connection with the same. He became chief engineer of the Northern Pacific Railroad and leased lines, 1888-1893; general manager for the receivers of that road and for the reorganized road, the Northern Pacific Railway, 1893-1899 and second vice-president of the same road, in charge of operation, 1899-1901. On June 5, 1901, Mr. Kendrick became connected with the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé Railway as third vice-president in charge of operation, and was promoted to second vice-president in 1905, which office he still holds. Mr. Kendrick married at Gloucester, Mass., Jan. 14, 1880, Elizabeth Foster Dolliver, and has four children: Residence: 460 North State Street. Office: Railway Exchange Building, Chicago.

KENNAN, George:

Author and lecturer; born in Newark, Ohio, Feb. 16, 1846; son of John and Mary Ann (Morse) Kennan. He received a high school education, became a telegraph operator and manager with the Western Union Telegraph Company, and in 1865 went to Northeastern Siberia as an explorer and telegraphic engineer, later became superintendent of construction of the Middle Division of the Russo-American Telegraph Company until 1868. He explored the Eastern Caucasus region, 1870-1871, was night manager of The Associated Press at Washington, 1877-1885. He then returned to Siberia for a year and investigated the Russian exile system, and from 1889 to 1898 lectured in the United States and Great Britain upon that subject with the result that on a subsequent visit to Russia in 1901 he was expelled from the country by order of the minister of the interior. He was special correspondent of The Outlook in 1898, reporting the Spanish-American War, was Washington correspondent in Washington, 1901-1903, for the same journal and represented it in Martinique, reporting the eruption of Mount Pelée and the destruction of St. Pierre, and special correspondent of The Outlook in the Far East, 1904-1906; afterward staff writer on McClure's Magazine. He is author of: Tent Life in Siberia, 1871; Siberia and the Exile System, 1891; Campaigning in Cuba, 1899; Folk Tales of Napoleon, 1902; The Tragedy of Pelée, 1902; translator of General Kuropatkin's Memoirs, and has contributed extensively to magazines. He married in 1879, Emeline Weld. Address: Care Crane, Parris & Co., Washington, D. C.

KENNARD, John Hanson:

Lawyer; born on the Elleray Plantation, Wilkinson County, Miss., in 1862; son of John Hanson and Ann McGehee (Burruss) Kennard. He is a descendant on his mother's side of Captain James Jack, who, in 1775, carried the Mecklenburg (N. C.) Declaration of Independence to Philadelphia and presented it to John Hanson (paternal ancestor) then president of the Continental Congress. Mr. Kennard was educated in the University High School, New Orleans; Roanoke College, Va., and the University of Louisiana, where he was awarded five or six medals given by that university (Latin, mathematics, ancient history, English essay, and elocution), and the degree of A.B. in 1882; then attended Johns Hopkins University where he was one of the Seminar of Historical and Political Science of 1884; and was graduated from the Law Department of Tulane University of Louisiana, LL. B., 1886. Mr. Kennard was assistant instructor in mathematics in the Tulane University of Louisiana, 1885-1886; was admitted to the Louisiana bar, and to bar of the United States Courts in 1886; practised in New Orleans until 1898 and was master in chancery of the U. S. Circuit Court in the receivership of the Texas and Pacific Railway Company. He was critic of French opera for the New Orleans Daily States, 1893-1898; secretary of the Municipal Improvement Association of New Orleans; president of the Southern League of Building and Loan Associations, 1891-1897, and president of the Interstate League of Building and Loan Associations, 1894-1898. He removed to New York City in December, 1897, to become editor of the Savings and Loan Review; and was admitted to the New York Bar in 1905. Mr. Kennard is a member of the Maryland Society of New York, Japan Society of New York, the New York Alumni of Sigma Chi, the Albany Burgesses Corps, and the Lotos Club of New York City. Address: 149 Broadway, New York City.

KENNARD, Joseph Spencer:

Lawyer, author; born in Bridgeton, N. J., 1859. He was educated at the Colgate University, Columbia University Law School, Chicago University, the Sorbonne, Paris, and the Instituto di Belle Arte at Florence, and has received the degrees of A.M., LL.B., Ph.D., Litt.D., LL.D., D.C.L., and Docteur ès lettres. Mr. Kennard has given his attention chiefly to the practice of corporation and railroad law before the U. S. Supreme Court and the Supreme Court of New York, Pennsylvania, and Illinois; and in Europe in cases of International law. He is an amateur artist and his paintings have received honorable mention in Europe and America, and he has several times been a juror of awards on paintings, and was a commissioner to the Paris Exposition in 1900. Mr. Kennard is a member of many learned societies and clubs in Europe and America, is an hereditary member of the Society of the Sons of the Revolution and of the Society of Colonial Wars. He is a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity and of the Masonic orders and others. Mr. Kennard is author of: The Friar in Fiction; The Fanfare of the Bersigilari; Studi-Danteschi; Memmo-One of the People; The Fallen God; A Liberal Education; De Deo Lapso Commentarius; Some early Printers and Their Colophous; Italian Romance Writers; Entro un Cerechio di Ferro; La Paura del Ridicolo; La Femme dans le Roman Italien, Les Confessions d'un Octogenaire; and others. He is a lecturer at the Sorbonne, Paris; associate editor of the Encyclopedia Americana, and contributor to the North American and other reviews. He married in 1889; Isabelle D. Brandreth. Addresses: Tarrytown, N. Y., and 74 Rue Notre Dame de Champs, Paris, France.

KENNEDY, Jamés:

Congressman and lawyer; born in Poland Township, Mahoning County, Ohio, Sept. 3, 1853; one of seven sons of T. W. Kennedy, the pioneer furnace builder of that section. The father constructed his first furnace at Haselton, the lines of which furnished the model for all subsequent like structures.

Mr. Kennedy prepared for college at Pollard Union Seminary, was graduated A.B. at Westminster College, Pa., 1876; studied law with General T. W. Sanderson, of Youngstown, and was admitted to the bar in March, 1879. He never held public position until elected to Congress; was elected as a Republican to the Fifty-eighth Congress, and reelected to the Fifty-ninth, Sixtieth and Sixty-first Congresses, from the Eighteenth Ohio District. He married Phebe Erwin, and they have one daughter. Address: Youngstown, Ohio.

KENNEDY, Sara Beaumont:

Born in Somerville, Tenn.; daughter of Dr. Robert Hines and Nora (Devereux) Cannon, both from North Carolina. She is a lineal descendant of Governor Pollack, colonial governor of North Carolina, of William Samuel Johnson, of Connecticut, a framer of the U. S. Constitution, and of Jonathan Edwards of Princeton College. Her father died during her early infancy, and her mother returned to her father, Thomas Pollock Devereux, who had been the wealthiest man in North Carolina, and in whose beautiful home part of the childhood of Mrs. Kennedy was spent. She was educated in St. Mary's Episcopal School at Raleigh, N. C. She married in Somerville, Tenn., Jan. 10, 1888, Walker Kennedy, author and journalist, now editor of the Memphis Commercial Appeal. Mrs. Kennedy is author of two novels: Jocelyn Cheshire, and The Wooing of Judith; also of short stories in McClure's, Harper's Monthly, Everybody's, Cosmopolitan, Ladies' Home Journal, and other leading magazines, and poems in many publications. She is a member of the Colonial Dames and Daughters of the Revolution, and of the Nineteenth Century Club of Memphis, the leading woman's Club of the South. Address: 1029 Rayburn Boulevard, Memphis.

KENNEDY, Walker:

Editor of the Memphis Commercial Appeal; born in Louisville, Ky., June 8, 1857; son of James and Kate E. Kennedy. On leaving the public schools he began newspaper work on the Courier-Journal at Louisville, 1878-1881, and in the latter year went to The Appeal at Memphis, remaining with that paper and its successors ever since, except for one year as chief editorial of the Nashville American. Since 1896 he has been editor of the Memphis Commercial Appeal. Mr. Kennedy is also an author of novels: In the Dwellings of Silence; Javan ben Seir; The Secret of the Wet Woods; and of short stories and other contributions to magazines and reviews. He married at Somerville, Tenn., Jan. 10, 1888, Sara Beaumont Cannon. Mrs. Kennedy is a well known novelist, magazine writer and poet. Residence: 1029 Rayburn Boulevard, Memphis, Tenn.

KENNEDY, Walter:

Consulting engineer; born in Poland, Ohio, in 1861; attended the same school as did President McKinley and early became apprenticed to the blast furnace building business as workman. His first position was with the Carnegie Steel Company, and here he made a thorough study of chemistry and at different plants held various positions of trust and for three years was superintendent of the Lucy furnaces. In 1889, he became connected with the Moorehead-McClain Company, later manager of the Jefferson Iron Company, Steubenville, Ohio, and in 1891 was made superintendent of the Buffalo Furnace Company, owned by M. A. Hanna and Company. In 1897 he was engaged to do railroad work in China, and later was employed by the Chinese Government and was appointed first secretary of the Chinese Imperial Railway, and technical director and general manager of the iron and steel works at Han Yang. Returning to this country he took up his work and has gained prominence in this line of business. Address: 611 Penn Avenue, Pittsburgh.

KENNY, William John:

Roman Catholic bishop of St. Augustine, Fla.; born at Delhi, N. Y., Oct. 9, 1853. He was graduated from St. Bonaventure's College, in 1875; ordained priest, 1879, and consecrated bishop May 18, 1902; and he is the third bishop of St. Augustine. Address: St. Augustine, Fla.

KENT, Edward:

Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Arizona; born in Lynn, Mass., Aug. 8, 1862; son of Edward Kent who was elected as a Whig governor of Maine in 1838 and 1840. He was graduated from Harvard, A.B. in 1883 and from Columbia Law School, LL.B., 1887. He practised in New York City until 1896, then in Denver until appointed by President Roosevelt in 1902 chief justice of the Supreme Court of Arizona. Address: Phoenix, Ari.

KENT, Jacob Ford:

Brigadier-General U. S. Army; born in Philadelphia, Sept. 14, 1836; son of Rodolphus and Sarah (Derby) Kent. He was appointed a cadet of the U. S. Military Academy, July 1, 1856; graduated May 6, 1861, and was appointed second lieutenant of the Third Infantry May 6, 1861; first lieutenant July 31, 1861; captain Jan. 8, 1864; major Fourth Infantry July 1, 1885; lieutenant-colonel, acting inspector-general January and August, 1865. He was brevetted major May 3, 1863, for gallant and meritorious services in the battle of Spottsylvania, Va., brevetted colonel of Volunteers, Oct. 19, 1864, for faithful and meritorious services in the field during the campaign before Richmond, Va. He served in Civil War, 1861-1865. He took part in the battle of Bull Run, July 21, 1861; was three times wounded and captured; was exchanged in September, 1862; the battle of Fredericksburg, Va., December, 1862; Marye's Heights, May, 1863, Gettysburg, Pa., July, 1863; the Wilderness, Spottsylvania, Tolopotomy and Cold Harbor, Va., in 1864; was again captured at Petersburg, Va., and was present at the surrender of Lee in 1865. After the war he served on frontier duty in various departments until 1877, on recruiting service, 1877-1878; in Montana, 1885; at Fort Omaha, Neb. to July, 1886, then at Fort Spokane, Wash.; he was promoted lieutenant-colonel of the Eighteenth Infantry, Jan. 15, 1891; colonel Twenty-fourth Infantry, April 25, 1895; brigadier-general of Volunteers,

May 4, 1898; and assigned to the command of the First Division, Fifth Army Corps, and was promoted to major-general of Volunteers, July 8, 1898. General Kent served in the campaign against Santiago, Cuba, in 1898; was honorably discharged from the Volunteer service Nov. 30, 1898; commissioned brigadier-general U. S. Army, Oct. 4, 1898; and retired Oct. 15, 1898. Address: Watervliet Arsenal, Watervliet, N. Y.

KENT, Robert D.:

Banker; born at Wilmington, Del., Oct. 24, 1855; son of James and Janet (Scott) Kent. He attended the public schools, Philadelphia, and was a bank clerk in that city, 1874-1880; cashier of the Atlantic City National Bank, Atlantic City, 1881-1886; cashier of the Passaic National Bank, Passaic, N. J., 1886-1899; president of Merchants' Bank of Passaic; vice-president of the Stapleton National Bank of Stapleton, N. Y., Rockland County Trust Company, Nyack, N. Y., and Metuchen National Bank, Metuchen, N. J. He is a director of the Young Men's Christian Association; member of the Presbyterian Union, St. Andrew's Society, and the Hardware Club. Mr. Kent married, first, in Philadelphia, Oct. 24, 1880, Ella R. King, and, second, at Woodbury, N. J., Dec. 15, 1886, Caroline Earl Riddle; and he has two children. Address: 31 Nassau Street, New York City.

KENT, William:

Real estate and live stock dealer; born in Chicago, Ill., March 29, 1864; son of Albert Emmett and Adaline Elizabeth (Dutton) Kent. His preliminary education was received at private schools in California and at the Hopkins Grammar School in New Haven, Conn. He entered Yale College in 1883 and was graduated with the degree of A.B. in 1887. Immediately after his graduation he went to Chicago, where he entered the office of his father, who was a large operator in real estate. In 1890 he was taken into partnership with his father, the firm being known as A. E. Kent and Son. Since the death of his father, in 1901, Mr. Kent has managed the business and has added to holdings of land and buildings in the States of Nebraska, California, Nevada, Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois and Kansas. He is a director of the American Trust and Savings Bank, a member of the firm of Kent and Burke, cattle feeders, and president of the Golconda Cattle Company, of Nevada. He is an Independent in politics, and was a member of the Chicago City Council, 1895-1897; president of the Municipal Voters' League, 1899-1900, on the executive Committee of the same, 1897-1904, and was also for a time on the Executive Committee of the Citizens' Association. He is a member of the Illinois Civic Service Association, the Civil Service Reform League, All Soul's Church, and the Union League, University, Quadrangle and City Clubs of Chicago; Bohemian and University Clubs of San Francisco, Yale and City Clubs of New York and Graduates' Club of New Haven. He married at Ojai Valley, Calif., Feb. 26, 1890, Elizabeth Thacher, and has seven children: Albert, Emmett, Thomas Thacher, Elizabeth Sherman, William, Adaline Dutton, Sherman, and Roger. Residence: 5112 Kimbark Avenue. Address: 12 Sherman Street, Chicago.

KENT, William Patton:

Consul general; born in Wytheville, Va., March 8, 1857; son of Robert C. and Elizabeth (Patton) Kent. He was graduated from William and Mary College, Ph.B., 1876, and the University of Virginia, LL.B., 1880. He was admitted to the bar in 1880, and practised law until 1890, when he became editor of newspapers, serving in this capacity until 1900. He served as captain in the Spanish-American War in the Seventh Army Corps under General Fitzhugh Lee. In 1906 he was appointed consul-general of the United States at Guatemala City, Guatemala, which position he now holds. Mr. Kent was a delegate to the Republican National Convention at St. Louis in 1896, and was the Republican nominee for lieutenant-governor of Virginia in 1905. He married at Staunton, Va., Aug. 23, 1905, Annie Hendren Patriek, and they have one daughter. His home is in Wytheville, Va. Official address: American Consulate General, Guatemala City, Guatemala.

KENYON, Ralph Wood:

Clergyman; born in Brooklyn, N. Y.; son of Captain Ralph Watson and Julia (Waterman) Kenyon. He was educated in the Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute; graduated from Columbia College as B.A., with English Seminary prize, in 1878, and M.A. in 1881; and from the Episcopal Theological School, of Cambridge, Mass., S.T.B., 1881. He received from the University of New York the degree of LL.B., 1898 and from St. John's College that of D.D. in 1899. He was ordered deacon in 1881 and ordained priest in 1882, by Bishop Littlejohn, in the Episcopal ministry. He served as assistant in St. Luke's Church, Brooklyn, N. Y., in 1881; rector of Holy Innocents' Church, Albany, N. Y., 1881-1887; associate and rector of the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, New York City, 1887-1889; assistant St. Ann's Church, Brooklyn, 1889-1892; rector of the Church of the Archangel, New York City, 1892-1899. He has been professor of apologetics and Christian ethics, and secretary of the faculty of Amity Theological Schools, New York City, since 1902. He was chaplain of the Master's Lodge of Masons (Albany), 1882-1887; and delegate to the Federal Council of the Episcopal Church representing the Diocese of Albany, 1884-1887. Dr. Kenyon is a writer of editorials, essays, sermons and papers on ethical and sociological topics. He is a life member of the Alumni Association of Columbia University of Columbia University; member of the society of Colonial Wars, the Society of Mayflower Descendants, and of the Cambridge Club of New York and Boothbay Harbor Yacht Club of Maine. He married in 1891, Elise C. Rathbone, and they have one daughter, Theda. Address: 43 Halsey Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

KENYON, William Houston:

Lawyer; born in Hartford, Conn., Jan. 5, 1856; son of Robert and Jean (Houston) Kenyon. He was graduated from the College of the City of New York, A.B., 1876, A.M., 1883; and from Columbia College, LL.B., 1879. Mr. Kenyon has been engaged in the practice of law in New York City from graduation, with a specialty in patent law, and is now senior member of the firm of Kenyon and Kenyon. He has been identified with much of the important patent litigation of the last twenty-five years; and is author of the present Design Patent Law of the United States. He served in the Seventh Regiment, National Guard of New York, 1877-1884. Mr. Kenyon has been active in reform movements; and was chairman of the Committee of Fifty-three, 1897-1898, which secured the passage of the Primary Law of the State of New York. He is a member of the American Bar Association, New York State Bar Association, Association of the Bar of the City of New York, American Association for the Advancement of Science, American Geographical Society, American Society of Electrical Engineers, American Electro-chemical Society, the National Civil Service Association, Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, and Phi Beta Kappa Society. He is a member of the University, Engineers, Republican, and West Side Republican Clubs of New York City, and the University Club of Philadelphia. Mr. Kenyon married, in Cincinnati, April 21, 1887, Maria Wellington Stanwood, who died June 25, 1905; and he has three children. Address: 49 Wall Street, New York City.

KEOGH, Martin Jerome:

Jurist; born in Ireland, in 1855; son of John Keogh and Margaret Keogh. He received his education in the public schools and was graduated from New York University, LL.B. in 1876; and the degree of LL.D. was conferred upon him by the same university in 1906. He was admitted to the bar in 1876; was presidential elector on the Democratic ticket in 1886, and was elected by the votes of both leading parties, as justice of the Supreme Court of New York in 1895, for the term expiring 1909. Judge Keogh married at New Rochelle, N. Y., in 1894, Katherine Temple Emmet. Address: New Rochelle, N. Y.

KEPPEL, Frederick:

Importer of pictures, art writer and lecturer; born in Tullow, Ireland, March 22, 1845. He was educated in England and at Wesley College, Dublin. He is senior member of the firm of Frederick Keppel and Son. Mr. Keppel is a writer on art topics for current periodicals in New York City; and the Studio and Pall Mall Gazette of London. He has been a lecturer on art, at Yale, Columbia and Johns Hopkins Universities, and also at the Metropolitan Museum of Art and the Grovers Club of both of which organizations he is a member. He married in Cork, Ireland, in 1875, Fannie McVickery. Residence: 239 East 17th Street. Office: 4 East 39th Street, New York City.

KEPPLER, Rudolph:

Banker and broker; born in Constanze, Germany, in 1843, son of Karl and Marie Keppeler. He was educated in New York City. He is president of the New York Stock Exchange; a member of the firm of Rudolph, Keppeler and Company; and a director of the New York Stock Exchange Building Company and South Porto Rico Sugar Company. He is a member of the American Geographical Society, Fine Arts Society, the Scientific Alliance, the New York Academy of Sciences, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the American Museum of Natural History and of the Union League Club and the Deutscher Verein. Mr. Keppeler married in New York City, 1868, Elise Gramm. Residence: 28 West 70th Street. Office: 25 Broad Street, New York City.

KERENS, Richard C.:

Capitalist; born in Killberry, County Meath, Ireland, in 1842. He came to the United States in early childhood, and was educated in the public schools of Iowa. He served in the Union Army as a private from 1861 to the end of the war. After the war he was a resident of Arkansas and became an extensive mail route contractor, and afterward was largely engaged in railway construction, with residence at St. Louis after 1876. Mr. Kerens became active in politics as a Republican and particularly as the personal and political friend of the late James G. Blaine, and was the member from Missouri of the National Republican Committee, 1892-1904. He was a commissioner from Missouri to the World's Columbian Exposition. He is a member of the St. Louis Club of St. Louis, and the Union League Club of New York. Residence: 36 Vandeventer Place. Office 214 Rialto Building, St. Louis.

KERKER, Gustave Adolph:

Conductor and composer; born in Herford, Germany, Feb. 28, 1867; son of Gustave Adolph and Elizabeth Kerker. His parents were both musicians and his first instructors in music. He has been conductor at the New York Casino since 1889. Mr. Kerker is the composer of The Pearl of Peking, and The Belle of New York, and others. Address: 115 Manhattan Avenue, New York City.

KERNAN, Walter M.:

Lawyer; born in Utica, N. Y., March 20, 1864; son of Francis and Hannah (Devereux) Kernan. He was graduated from Georgetown College in 1885 and is a member of the firm of Kernan and Kernan. He is also a member of the Transportation and University Clubs of New York City. Office: Devereaux Block, Utica, N. Y.

KERR, James Manford:

Law author; born near Tiptecanoe City, Ohio, Dec. 30, 1851; son of Jonathan Thompson and Matilda (Westlake) Kerr. He was reared on a farm, attended the local schools and the National Normal University at Lebanon, Ohio, and then studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1877. He became prominent as a law writer and as an editor of legal publications and law books, was editor of the Ohio Law Journal, The American Lawyer, West's System of Reports, and was founder and editor of the American Law Journal. He has edited editions of standard legal text-books, including Benjamin on Sales (two volumes), 1888; Before and at Trial, 1889; Crocker on Sheriffs (third edition), and others. He is author of the rewritten second edition of Wiltzie on Mortgage Foreclosures, 1890; Business Corporations, 1890; Homicide, 1891; Real Property (three volumes), 1895; Supplement to Wiltzie on Mortgage Fore- closures, 1897; Attachment, 1899; Injunctions, 1900. For several years past Mr. Kerr's efforts have been principally devoted to encyclopedic work in connection with the codes of California, upon which he has published several volumes, including the Cyclopedic California Civil Code, two volumes, 1905; Cyclopedic California Penal Code, 1906; Cyclopedic California Political Code, 1906; Cyclopedic California Code of Civil Procedure (2 vols.), 1907; Annotated Pocket Codes of California (4 vols.), 1909; Annotated General Laws of California, 1909, etc. Address: 786 Ellis Street, San Francisco, Calif.

KERR, John B.:

Lawyer; born in Newburgh, N. Y., Feb. 1, 1851; son of George W. and Margaret T. L. Kerr. He was educated in the public schools of Newburgh, N. Y., and Trinity School, New York City, and was admitted to the bar in 1872, after studying law in the office of E. A. Brewster at Newburgh. He practised there until 1882, when he became attorney for the New York, Ontario and Western Railway Company, and removed to New York City, where he has since resided, and during that time has been continuously connected with the management of that company, of which he is now vice-president and general counsel. He is also vice-president of the Seranton Coal Company. For four years he was recorder of the city of Newburgh and he was trustee of the New Amsterdam Eye and Ear Hospital of New York City. Mr. Kerr is a member of the Association of the Bar of the city of New York, and of the Down Town Club. He married at Newburgh, N. Y., Nov. 16, 1881, Elizabeth R. Case, and they have three children. Address: 56 Beaver Street, New York City.

KERSTEN, George:

Jurist; born in Chicago, March 21, 1853; son of Joachim and Sophia (Elsner) Kersten. He received his education in Captain Standon's German-American Institute, the Franklin School, and Eastman's Commercial College, whence he was graduated in 1869. He was engaged in various employments until 1880, when he was made clerk of the Police Court of Chicago, and shortly afterward was elected a justice of the peace. Eventually he was appointed one of the police justices of the City of Chicago, a position which he retained for a number of years. In 1903 he was elected judge of the Circuit Court of Cook County. He is a member of the Masonic order, the Mystic Shrine, the Order of Foresters, Knights of Pythias, the Knights of Columbus, and the Royal Arcanum. He is also a member of the North Side Turner's Society, and was one of the organizers, its first secretary and later president of the Cook County Democratic Club. He is prominent as a sharpshooter, and is a member of several gun clubs and of the Germania and Iroquois Clubs. He married, Sept. 4, 1875, Julia Baierle, and has one living child: Lilian. Residence: 418 Belden Avenue. Address: County Building, Chicago.

KERWIN, James C.:

Justice of the Supreme Court of Wisconsin; born at Menasha, Wis., May 4, 1850; son of Michael and Mary (Buckley) Kerwin. He was graduated from the law department of the University of Wisconsin as LL.B. in 1875 and practised law at Neenah, Wis., and Milwaukee until elected to the Supreme bench for the term beginning in January, 1905. He married at Menasha, Wis., in 1877, Helen E. Lawson. Residence: Neenah, Wis. Office: Madison, Wis.

KETCHAM, Henry B.:

Lawyer; born in Dover Plains, N. Y., Aug. 8, 1865; son of John H. and Augusta A. (Belden) Ketcham. He was graduated from Yale, A.B., 1887 and from Columbia Law School, LL.B., 1889. Since 1890 he has been a member of the law firm of Reid, Esselstyn and Ketcham. He is a director of the Livingston Realty Company. Mr. Ketcham was the Republican candidate for Congress in the Second Congressional District of Kings County in 1900, defeated by two hundred and seven votes in a district normally Democratic by five thousand; and was an unsuccessful candidate on the Republican ticket for district attorney in Kings County in 1904. Mr. Ketcham is a member of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, the Psi Upsilon fraternity, and the Yale Club of New York City, the Hamilton, Oxford, Crescent, Athletic Clubs of Brooklyn and the Dyker Meadow Golf Club. He married at Englewood, N. J., Sept. 12, 1889, Sallie Bray Holman, and they have three children. Address: 2 Rector Street, New York City.

KEY, Joseph Staunton:

Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South; born at LaGrange, Ga., July 18, 1829; son of Rev. Caleb Witt Key, for more than fifty years a Methodist minister in Georgia, and Martha (Hames) Key. He was graduated from Emory College as A.B., 1848, A.M., 1851, and received the D.D. degree from the University of Georgia in 1867. After graduation he entered the ministry, and served in various pastorates of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in the Georgia Conference until elected bishop by the General Conference in 1886. He married, in 1892, Lucy Kidd. Address: Sherman, Texas.

KEYES, Edward Lawrence:

Surgeon; born at Fort Moultrie, Charleston Harbor, S. C., Aug. 28, 1845; son of Major-General Erasmus Keyes, U. S. Army, and Caroline M. Keyes. He was graduated from Yale, A.B., 1863, A.M., 1866, from the Medical Department of the University of New York, M.D., 1866 and later received the degree of LL.D. from St. Francis Xavier College, New York City. He also took special courses in France. Dr. Keyes was lecturer, 1871-1872, and professor of genito-urinary surgery, 1872-1890, at Bellevue Hospital Medical College, and since then has been consulting surgeon to Bellevue Hospital. He is vice-president of the Academy of Medicine; member of Association d'Urologie de France; and has been president at various times of several medical societies, local and National. He is author of: Tonic Treatment of Syphilis; Veneral Diseases; Surgery of the Kidney, Bladder and the Genitalia in the Male. Dr. Keyes is a member of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Century, Association and Metropolitan Clubs of New York City, and the Meadow Golf Club of Southampton; Shinnecock Golf and Tuxedo Clubs. He married at Georgetown, D. C., Sarah M. Loughborough. Residence: Tuxedo Park, N. Y. Address: 109 East 34th Street, New York City.

KEYSER, Cassius J.:

Mathematician and educator; born in Rawson, Ohio, in 1862; son of J. B. and Margaret J. (Ryan) Keyser. He was graduated from the Ohio Normal University, B.S. in 1883; studied law at Ann Arbor, Mich., and Kenton, Ohio, 1883-1885. Was graduated from the University of Missouri, B.S., 1892; was a student at the Summer School of the University of Michigan, 1894; was a graduate scholar in mathematics, 1895-1896, fellow 1896-1897, and received the degrees of A.M. in 1896 and Ph.D. in 1901 from Columbia University. Dr. Keyser was principal and superintendent of public schools in Ohio and Missouri, 1885-1890; instructor in mathematics, University of Missouri, 1891-1892, professor of mathematics at the State Normal School at New Paltz, N. Y., from 1892-1894; instructor in mathematics at Smith Academy, Washington University, St. Louis, 1894-1895, and at Barnard College, 1897-1900. He became instructor in mathematics, 1897-1903, adjunct professor, 1903-1904 and since then Adrain professor of mathematics in Columbia University. Professor Keyser is editor of the department of mathematics in the Encyclopedia Americana, has been American editor of the Hibbert Journal since 1904, and is a contributor to various scientific and philosophic journals. He is a member of the American Mathematical Society, Circolo Matematico di Palermo; a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and member of the Columbia University Club. He married at Ridgeway, Ohio, in 1885, Ella Maud Crow, and has one daughter, Eva Blanch Keyser. Address: Columbia University, New York City.

KEYSER, Ephraim:

Sculptor; born in Baltimore, Md., Oct. 6, 1850; son of Moses and Betty (Preiss) Keyser, both of German birth. He was educated in the Baltimore public schools, and a year in the Maryland Academy of Arts; then studied for four years in the Academy of Fine Arts in Munich, Bavaria, receiving the silver medal for his bronze statue The Page. In 1876 he was a pupil of Albert Wolff in Berlin, where he modeled his statue of Psyche, for which he received the Michall-Beer prize, a year's tuition in Rome, Italy, 1876-1877. He had studios in Rome and New York until 1893; since then in Baltimore, where he is professor of sculpture in the Academy of Fine Arts of the Maryland Institute. His works include: The Pet Falcon, Titania, Ye Olde Storye, The Rose, A Duet, the Memorial to President Chester A. Arthur in Rural Cemetery, Albany, N. Y.; bronze monument of Baron DeKalb at Annapolis; portrait busts of Cardinal Gibbons, Henry Harland, Dr. D. C. Gilman, Sidney Lanier and others. Address: 2408 Linden Avenue, Baltimore.

KIEBEY, Joseph H.:

Governor of Arizona; born in Centerville, Ind., March 4, 1853. He was educated in Earlham College, Richmond, Ind., practised law in Indiana from 1875 to 1888, and after that in Arizona. He was appointed by President Harrison in 1889 an associate justice of the Supreme Court of Arizona and serving until 1893. He resumed practice, became active in the politics of the Territory as a Republican and was a member of the Territorial Council from 1902 to 1904. He was appointed attorney-general of Arizona in 1904, and was commissioned March 7, 1905, governor of Arizona, under appointment from President Roosevelt. Address: Phoenix, Ariz.

KIEKHOFER, H. J.:

President of Northwestern College; born in Germany, Aug. 10, 1849; son of F. H. and Minnie (Lerman) Kiekhoefer. He was educated at Galesville, University, Northwestern College and in Germany, and has received the degrees of A.M. and Ph.D. After several years' service as professor of ancient languages at Galesville University, he became connected with the Wisconsin Conference of the Evangelical Association until 1885, when he was appointed professor of systematic and biblical theology at the Union Biblical Institute, teaching there until 1890, when he was appointed president of Northwestern College, Illinois, which position he has ever since held. He married in Menomonie, Wis., April 11, 1878, to Sarah S. Scholz, and has four children. Address: Naperville, Ill.

KILBURN, Frederick Douglas:

Lawyer and superintendent of banks; born in Clinton County, N. Y., July 25, 1850; son of Henry Gardiner and Sophrona (Evans) Kilburn. He was educated in Franklin Academy and Albany Law School. He practised law, 1874-1885. He was vice-president, director and manager of the People's National Bank, Malone, N. Y., 1885-1896; president of the Malone Light and Power Company; director of the Malone Shirt Company; Symonds and Allison Company. County treasurer six years; State senator two years; superintendent of banks since Jan., 1896. Mr. Kilburn is trustee of the Northern New York Institution for Deaf Mutes. He is a member of the Republican Club of New York City, and the Fort Orange, and Albany Clubs of Albany. He married Clara M. Barry, July 21, 1875, and they have four children. Address: Malone, N. Y.

KILDAHL, John Nathan:

College president; born in Norway, Jan. 4, 1857; son of Johan and Nicolina (Buvarp) Kildahl. He was graduated from Luther College, A.B., 1879, and graduated from Luther Seminary in 1882. He was pastor of Vaug and Urland Churches, Goodhue County, Minn., 1882-1889, of Bethlehem Lutheran Church, Chicago, 1889-1899, and has been president of the St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn., since 1899. Dr. Kildahl married in Goodhue County, Minn., July 11, 1882, Bertha Soine, and they have four children. Address: Saint Olaf College, Northfield, Minn.

KILIANI, Otto George Theobald:

Surgeon; born in Munich, Bavaria, Sept. 5, 1863; son of Judge Herman and Carola (Faulstock) Kiliani. He was graduated from the University of Munich, 1886; the University of Halle, 1888, and from the University of Leipzig, M.D., 1888. He was surgeon of the Third Royal Artillery Regiment in 1890; passed the New York State examination in 1891 and has been in practice as surgeon in New York City since then. Dr. Kiliani is author of: Surgical Diagnosis; and many surgical papers; is a contributor to Ashhurst's Encyclopedia of Surgery, and to the Twentieth Century Practice of Medicine. He received the order of St. Michael of Bavaria. Dr. Kiliani is surgeon to the German Hospital, New York City, and to the Imperial German Consulate General. He is a member of the New York Academy of Medicine; the New York County Medical Society; the German Medical Society; Medico-Surgical Society; Physicians' Medical Aid Association; and New York Surgical Society; and is a life member of the Surgical Society of Berlin. He married, Aug. 12, 1887, Lilian Bayard Taylor, and they have one son. Address: 116 East 57th Street, New York City.

KILLMASTER, George B.:

Consular official; born in Canada; appointed commercial agent at Port Rowan, April 2, 1894; appointed consul June 22, 1906; appointed consul at Newcastle, New South Wales, Australia, Jan. 9, 1908. Permanent address: Killmaster, Alcona County, Mich. Official address: American Consulate, Newcastle, N. W. S., Australia.

KIMBALL, Dexter Simpson:

Mechanical engineer; born at New River, New Brunswick, Can., in 1865; son of William H. and Jane (Patterson) Kimball. He was graduated from Leland Stanford, Jr., University, A.B., 1896. He served apprenticeship with the firm of Pope and Talbot, Port Gamble, Wash., 1881-1887; in the machine shop, 1887-1893, and drafting-room, 1896-1898, of the Union Iron Works, San Francisco; designing engineer for the Anaconda Mining Company, Montana, in 1898; assistant professor of machine design in Sibley College, Cornell University, 1898-1901; works manager of the Stanley Electric Manufacturing Company, Pittsfield, Mass., 1901-1904; professor of mechanic arts, 1904-1905, and since then professor of machine design and construction in Sibley College, Cornell University. He is a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and the Sigma Xi Society. Professor Kimball married in San Francisco, in 1898, Clara Evelyn Woodner, and they have two children. Residence: 23 East Avenue. Office: Sibley College, Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y.

KIMBALL, George Albert:

Civil engineer; born in Littleton, Mass., May 14, 1850; son of William and Mary A. (Lawrence) Kimball. He received his education in the public schools of Littleton, and at Appleton Academy, New Ipswich, N. H. He practised civil engineering, having commenced in 1869 as rodman in Somerville, Mass.; was city engineer of Somerville, 1876-1887; member of the Massachusetts Grade Crossing Commission, 1888; member of the Massachusetts Metropolitan Sewerage Commission, 1896-1901; and he has been chief engineer of Boston Elevated Railway Company, since 1896. Mr. Kimball was a member of the Somerville Board of Aldermen, 1888-1889, of the Somerville Board of Health, 1880-1887, and the Somerville Water Board, 1891-1900. He is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, Boston Society of Civil Engineers, and New England Water Works Association; director of the Somerville Co-operative Bank, Knights of Honor and the Royal Arcanum. He is also a member of the New England Street Railway Club, and the Winchester Country Club. He married, Feb. 29, 1872, Lizzie E. Robbins. Residence: 336 Mystic Street, Arlington, Mass. Office: 101 Milk Street, Boston.

KIMBALL, Grace Niebuhr:

Physician; born in Dover, N. H., May 10, 1855; daughter of Judge Richard and Elizabeth (Hale) Kimball. She was graduated from the Medical College of New York Infirmary, M.D., 1892. She was a missionary for six years at Van, Asiatic Turkey, 1882-1888, and a medical missionary at the same station, 1892-1896; and conducted extensive industrial relief work during the period of the Armenian massacres. She returned to the United States in 1896, was associate physician of Vassar College until 1900, and since then has practised medicine in Poughkeepsie, N. Y. Dr. Kimball is a corporate member of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, and is president of the Young Women's Christian Association of Poughkeepsie. She is a member of the Board of Health of Poughkeepsie, the American Medical Association, Dutchess County Medical Society, and New York State Medical Society. Address: 337 Mill Street, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

KIMBALL, Ingalls:

Publisher; born in West Newton, Mass., April 2, 1874; son of Hannibal Ingalls and Mary (Cook) Kimball. He was graduated from Harvard University in 1894. He founded, as a member of the publishing firm of Stone & Kimball, The Chap Book in 1894; published the Stedman-Woodberry edition of Poe's Works; also publisher for R. L. Stevenson, Harold Frederic, and Gilbert Parker, and established The Cheltenham Press in 1897. He is president of The Cheltenham Press, The Engraving Machine Company, The Neucraft Company, and the Cheltenham Press, Limited, of London. Mr. Kimball is a member of the Players', Harvard, and Grolier Clubs. He married in Winchester, Va., Nov. 22, 1894, Nancy Virginia Allen, and they have two children. Address: 150 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

KIMBALL, William C.:

Manufacturer of silks and ribbons; born in Boxford, Mass., Feb. 11, 1847; son of Jefferson and Mary (Griffin) Kimball. He received his education in the common schools and at Putnam Academy, Newburyport, Mass. Early in life he went into business in Boston; removed to New York City in 1868, was associated with the Wilcox Silver Plate Company, and later with H. F. Barrows and Company. In 1888 he was connected with Strange and Brother, and is now vice-president of the William Strange Company, manufacturers of silks and ribbons, with mills at Paterson, N. J.; director of The Read and Lovatt Manufacturing Company, of New York, Hobart Trust Company of Passaic, N. J., and president of the American Transformer Company of Newark, N. J. He was treasurer of the Jewelers' Republican Club in the Blaine campaign and also treasurer of the Central Division Dry Goods Republican Club, 1896-1900, and in 1904. Mr. Kimball is a member of the New England Society, Jewelers' League, and president of the Board of Trustees of the Passaic Public Library. At the request of the New Jersey Library Association, he had a bill prepared for the Legislature, appointing a Public Library Commission, which, after considerable efforts on the part of those interested, was passed by the Legislature. He was appointed by Governor Voorhees as one of the commissioners and upon the organization of the committee was made chairman of the New Jersey Public Library Commission, which office he still holds. He is a member of the Merchants' Central Clubs. Mr. Kimball married at Mt. Kisco, N. Y., June 4, 1873, to Blanch L. Read, and they have two sons. Address: Passaic, N. J.

KIMBER, Robert Bootman:

Clergyman; born in Flushing, L. I., 1871; son of Rev. Joshua and Mary (Gove) Kimber. He was graduated from Columbia College, B.A., 1891, General Theological Seminary, B.D., 1894. He was ordered deacon in 1894, by Bishop Littlejohn, and ordained priest, 1895, by Bishop Whitehead, in Episcopal ministry. He was formerly rector of Trinity Church, Seymour, Conn., 1894-1900; local secretary of the Board of Managers of Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society, 1900-1902; superintendent of the New York Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society since 1902. He is a member of the City Club, and Pennsylvania Society. Mr. Kimber married in Richmond Hill, L. I., in 1894, Genevieve L. Tyler. Address: 38 Bleecker Street, New York City.

KING, Charles:

Soldier and novelist; born Albany, N. Y., Oct. 12, 1844. He was educated at Columbia College and West Point. Began his military career in 1861 and retired finally in 1899. He served in the Artillery and Cavalry, was instructor at West Point to 1871; aide-de-camp to General Emory to 1874; served in Apache campaign, 1874; Sioux campaign, 1876; Nez Percés campaign, 1877, and retired for wounds, 1879. He was at the University of Wisconsin, 1880-1882; aide-de-camp to Governors Rusk and Hoard, 1882-1891; inspector-general, Wisconsin National Guard, 1883-1889; commanded the Fourth Wisconsin Infantry, 1890-1892; commandant of cadets, Michigan Military Academy, 1892; adjutant-general of Wisconsin, 1895-1897; served in the Philippines as brigadier-general, U. S. Volunteers, 1898-1899. He is author of: Famous Battles; The Colonel's Daughter; Between the Lines; The General's Double; Under Fire, and many others. He married a daughter of Captain Yorke, of Carroll Parish, La., and they have one son and two daughters living. Address: Milwaukee, Wis.

KING, C. F.:

Capitalist; born in North Carolina, in 1867. He is the proprietor of the Boston Daily Tribune, and King's Financial Bulletin; is president and director of the Alton Manufacturing Company, of the King-Crowther Corporation and the Norton Oil Company, and is treasurer and director of the Ehrman Manufacturing Company. He is publisher and author of The Light of Four Candles. Mr. King is a member of the Masonic Order, and of the Point Shirley, Winthrop Yacht, Cottage Park Yacht, and Chicago Athletic Clubs, and The Southern Society of New York. Residence:

Brookline, Mass. Office addresses: St. James Building, New York City, and Journal Building, Boston, Mass.

KING, David Bennett:

Lawyer, writer; born in Mt. Pleasant, Westmoreland County, Pa., June 20, 1848. He was graduated from Lafayette College in 1871; and successively tutor, adjunct professor, and professor of Latin at Lafayette College, 1871-1886. Mr. King was admitted to the bar in 1883; since then in practice of law in New York City. He is author of: Latin Pronunciation; The Irish Question; and also many articles on land tenure, parliamentary representation and economics in reviews and encyclopedias. He is a member of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, The Pennsylvania Society, and Lafayette Alumni Association. He is a member of the Railroad, Authors', Lawyers', University, Essex County, and Union League Clubs. Residence: 67 West 49th Street. Address: 165 Broadway, New York City.

KING, Hamilton:

Diplomat; born at St. Johns, Newfoundland, June 4, 1852; son of William and Maria King. He was graduated from the Olivet (Mich.) College, A.B., 1878, and A.M., 1881; was a student of the Chicago Theological Seminary, 1878-1879, the University of Leipzig, 1883-1884, and of the American School at Athens, Greece, 1884. He was principal of the Preparatory Department of Olivet College, Mich., 1879-1898, and also was a lecturer and preacher. He became active also in the Republican party of that State and well known as an effective political speaker, and was a delegate from Michigan to the National Republican Convention at St. Louis in 1896. In Jan., 1898, he was appointed by President McKinley as minister resident and consul-general in Siam, and April 27, 1903, he was advanced to his present rank as envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States to Siam. Mr. King is author of a Greek Reader, and of Outlines of United States History. He married, in 1884, Cora Lee Seward, who is a member of the famous old New York Seward family. Home: Olivet, Mich. Address: American Legation, Bangkok, Siam, or care of State Department, Washington, D. C.

KING, Henry Churchill:

President of Oberlin College; born at Hillsdale, Mich., Sept. 18, 1858; son of Henry J. and Sarah (Lee) King. He was graduated from Oberlin College, A.B., 1879, D.B., 1882; A.M. from Harvard, 1883, and he received the degree of D.D. from Oberlin, 1897; from the Western Reserve University, 1901, and Yale University, 1904; S.T.D. from Columbia University, 1909, and the degree of LL.D. from the University of Illinois, 1908, and from Miami University, 1909. Dr. King was tutor in Oberlin Academy, 1879-1882; student of Harvard University, 1882-1884; associate professor of mathematics in Oberlin College, 1884-1890; associate professor of philosophy, 1890-1891. Professor of philosophy, 1891-1897, in Oberlin College; student of the University of Berlin, 1893-1894; and he has been professor of theology and philosophy in Oberlin Seminary and College since 1897, and president of Oberlin College since 1902. President King is author of: Reconstruction in Theology; Theology and the Social Consciousness; Personal and Ideal Elements in Education; Rational Living; The Seeming Unreality of the Spiritual Life; The Laws of Friendship; Human and Divine; Letters to Sunday School Teachers on the Fundamental Truths of the Christian Faith; The Appeal of the Child. He is a Republican and a Congregationalist. He married at Brecksville, Ohio, July 7, 1882, Julia Marana Coates, and they have four children. Address: Oberlin, Ohio.

KING, Herbert Maxon:

Physician; born in Adams, N. Y., Aug. 11, 1864; son of Horace Brigham and Adelaide (Maxon) King. He was educated in the Massachusetts public schools, Dartmouth College, and the University of the City of New York, receiving the degree of M.D. from the latter in 1886. Dr. King practised medicine in New York City until 1890, in which year he commenced two years' service in the Marine Hospital Service. In 1892 he resumed his practice in Michigan, having in the meantime studied abroad. He was in private practice until 1902, when he was appointed physician-in-chief of the Loomis Sanatorium, which position he now holds. Dr. King is a member of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, the American Climatological Association, the American Association of Pathologists and Bacteriologists; and is a fellow of the International Conference on Tuberculosis, and the New York Academy of Medicine. He is also a director of the Liberty Light and Power Company, and a member of the St. Anthony Club of New York. Dr. King married at Milford, Pa., Feb. 1, 1893, Lucy Maples Pinchot, and they have two children. Constance Pinchot and Adelaide Maxon. Address: Loomis (Liberty), N. Y.

KING, Horatio Collins:

Lawyer; born in Portland, Me., Dec. 22, 1837; eldest son of ex-Postmaster-General Horatio King and Anne (Collins) King. He removed to Washington City in 1839; was graduated from Dickinson College, Pa., A.B. and A.M., and received the degree of LL.D. from Allegheny College in 1897. He studied law with Edwin M. Stanton; removed to New York City, and was admitted to the bar in 1861. He entered the Union Army, Aug., 1862, as captain and assistant quartermaster, and was honorably discharged, Oct., 1865, with brevets of major, lieutenant-colonel, and colonel, and was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor for conspicuous bravery near Dinwiddie, Va., March 29, 1865. He resumed the practice of law in New York City, in 1865; was associate editor of the New York Star and publisher of the Christian Union and Christian-at-Work, 1871-1876; returned to the practice of law in 1877 and was admitted to the United States Supreme Court in 1890. In 1883 he was appointed judge advocate-general of the State of New York, on the staff of Grover Cleveland. General King was a member of the Brooklyn Board of Education, 1883-1894; resigned to accept the trusteeship of the New York State Soldiers' and Sailors' Home, and was re-appointed trustee in 1897, and resigned in Feb., 1900. He has been secretary of the Army of the Potomac since 1877, and was its president in 1904. He was the Democratic candidate for secretary of State in 1895; delegate to the National Convention at Indianapolis in 1896. He is clerk of Plymouth Church, of Brooklyn; was a member of the New York Commission on Laws' Delays, 1903; is a trustee of Dickinson College; chairman of the Fredericksburg National Park Association; member of the Lake Mohonk Arbitration Conference and the International Law Association. General King is author of: King's Guide to Regimental Court-Martial, 1871; Silver Wedding Anniversary of Plymouth Church, 1873; The Great Congregational Council in Plymouth Church, 1876; Life and Writings of Horatio King, ex-Postmaster-General, 1895; Songs and Glees; History of Dickinson College, 1898; Songs of Dickinson; Songs of Phi Kappa Sigma; is a frequent contributor to newspapers and magazines, and composer of many musical compositions; also orator, poet, lecturer and post-prandial speaker. He is a member of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion, Grand Army of the Republic, Medal of Honor Legion, the Phi Beta Kappa Society, the Masonic and Elks orders, Thirteenth Regiment Veterans, Sons of the American Revolution, and the Brooklyn Club. He married, first, in 1862, Emma C. Stebbins, who died in 1864, and second, in 1866, Esther A. Howard. He has had ten children, of whom five survive, and fifteen grandchildren. Address: 44 Court Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

KING, Pendleton:

Consular official; born in North Carolina. Appointed secretary of the Legation at Constantinople, March 9, 1886; served as chargé d'Affaires ad interim at various times; retired June 5, 1890; appointed chief of the Bureau of Indexes and Archives, June 1, 1894; appointed consul at Aix la Chappelle, Dec. 12, 1905. Address: Aix La Chappelle, Prussia, Germany.

KING, Rockwell:

Manufacturer, capitalist; born in Chicago, Feb. 7, 1853; son of Charles Boham and Jane (Rockwell) King. He was educated in the public schools of Chicago, Phillips Andover Academy, and Harvard University. For one year after leaving college he was in the employ of the Adams & Westlake Company. He then established the firm of King & Andrews, foundrymen, which was later incorporated as the King & Andrews Company, of which he is the president. In 1898 he was selected as the president of the Western Cold Storage Company, which is the most extensive plant of its kind in the world. He is treasurer of the Harrington-King Perforating Company and a director of the Adams & Westlake Company. Mr. King is still actively engaged in business and gives his personal direction to his various enterprises. As a young man he was a member of the First Regiment, Illinois National Guard. He is a member of Chicago, University, Saddle and Cycle, Harvard, and Merchants' Clubs. He married in Chicago, Jan. 6, 1881, Lucy Wolcott Andrews, and has four children. Residence: 63 Hawthorne Place. Office: 39 North State Street, Chicago.

KING, William Fletcher:

President emeritus of Cornell College, Iowa; born near Zanesville, Ohio, Dec. 20, 1830; son of James J. and Mariam (Coffman) King. He was prepared for college in the Zanesville High School, was graduated from Ohio Wesleyan University, A.B., 1857, A.M., 1860; received the D.D. degree from Illinois Wesleyan University, 1870, and LL.D. from the State University of Iowa and Ohio Wesleyan in 1887. On graduation in 1857 he was appointed tutor Ohio Wesleyan University, and in 1862 resigned to take the chair of Latin in Cornell College at Mount Vernon, Iowa. At the close of the first year, on the death of the president, he was chosen acting president and two years later, in 1865, was chosen president of the college. He is, in length of service, the oldest college president now in office in this country, and on resigning the presidency, in June, 1908, he was elected president emeritus. President King has devoted his life to the building up of Cornell College, and having accumulated one hundred and sixty thousand dollars he has given it in support of the college: one hundred thousand dollars to endow in perpetuity a scholarship in each of the one hundred counties in Iowa, available for worthy, aspiring youth; and these scholarships are in memory of President King's deceased wife. Of the remainder, fifty thousand dollars was given to endow the President's chair, in memory of his daughter. Dr. King has been in every State but two in this country, to Alaska, the West Indies and South America, and has been four times to Europe, one of his trips including Scandinavia, and others extending into Egypt and Palestine. He was appointed by President Harrison a National Commissioner of the World's Columbian Exposition; was a delegate to the Congress of Higher Education at the Paris Exposition of 1900; member of the Methodist Ecumenical Conference in London in 1901, and has five times been elected to the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He has been for many years a member of the Council of Education of the National Education Association, and also of the Board of Education of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He is a Republican in politics. President King married at Chillicothe, Ohio, Aug. 3, 1865, Margaret M. McKell, now deceased, and they had one daughter, Lucy Hayes King, born April 1, 1876, died April 12, 1887. Address: Mount Vernon, Iowa.

KINGSBURY, Benjamin Freeman:

Professor of physiology; born in St. Charles, Mo., Nov. 18, 1872; son of B. B. and Sarah R. (Freeman) Kingsbury. He was graduated from Buchtel College (Akron, Ohio), A.B., 1893; from Cornell University, Ph.D., 1895; from the University of Freiburg, Baden, Germany, M.D., 1903. He was assistant professor of histology and embryology, 1898-1902; assistant professor of physiology, 1902-1908; and since 1908 has been professor of histology and embryology in Cornell. He married at Meadville, Pa., June 22, 1904, Marguerite Hempstead, and has two children. Address: Ithaca, N. Y.

KINGSBURY, Howard Thayer:

Lawyer; born in Rome, N. Y., April 1, 1870; son of Rev. Howard and Sophia Howard Thayer Kingsbury. He was educated in Everson and Halsey's School, New York City, 1879-1887, Yale, B.A., 1891 (editor Yale Literary Magazine, awarded DeForest medal); New York Law School, LL.B., 1893, first prize and prize fellowship, 1893-1895. Mr. Kingsbury served a clerkship with Coudert Brothers, was admitted to the New York bar in June, 1893; associated with Lee and Lee, 1893-1900; returned to Coudert Brothers, 1900, and has been a member of the firm for several years; admitted to the bar of the U. S. Supreme Court, Jan., 1904. He is a member of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, and the American Society of International Law. Mr. Kingsbury is a director of the Garden City Company. He translated Rostand's Cyrano de Bergerac, 1898 (used by Richard Mansfield, and published by Lamson, Wolff & Co., Boston). He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Zeta Psi, Sons of the Revolution, the University, Century, Down Town and Yale Clubs, Manhasset Bay Yacht and Sands Point Golf Clubs, and the Graduates' Club of New Haven. He married, April 22, 1902, to Alice Cary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abram Bussing of New York, and has two children, Howard Thayer, Jr., and Ruth Oliver. Residence: 24 East 61st Street, New York City, and Port Washington, L. I. Office: 2 Rector Street, New York City.

KINGSLEY, Darwin Pearl:

President of the New York Life Insurance Company; born in Alburgh, Vt., May 5, 1857; son of H. P. and Celia (La Due) Kingsley. He was graduated from the University of Vermont in 1881. He was State auditor and superintendent of insurance in Colorado, 1887-1888; superintendent of agencies of the New York Life Insurance Company, 1892-1898; trustee and vice-president, 1898-1907; since June 17, 1907, president of the New York Life Insurance Company. He is a trustee of the University of Vermont; director of the Citizens' Central National of New York, and of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad. Mr. Kingsley is author of: The First Business of the World, chiefly addresses and papers on life insurance. Mr. Kingsley is a member of the University, Union League, Merchants' and St. Andrews' Clubs. He married, first, June 19, 1884, Mary M. Mitchell; and second, Dec. 3, 1895, Josephine I. McCall. Residence: Riverdale-on-Hudson, N. Y. Office: 346 Broadway, New York City.

KINGSLEY, Florence Morse:

Author; born in Poe, Ohio, July 14, 1859; daughter of Rev. Jonathan Bradley and Eleanor (Ecob) Morse. Her father was a Presbyterian clergyman, but failing health caused him to leave the ministry and turn his attention to painting, which had always been a passion with him, and he established his family at Utica, N. Y. Mrs. Kingsley was educated in the Whitestown (N. Y.) Seminary, and Wellesley College, then studied art and music at Utica. She expected to become an artist, and studied under various masters, among whom was George Waters, N.A. She married in Utica, band (who is now pastor of a Union Evangelical Church) was president of a Young Lady's School in Rochester, N. Y., and later president of Milwaukee College, Wis. Mrs. Kingsley assisted by superintending the Art Department, as well as in the home duties. In her thirty-fifth year she wrote Titus, a Comrade of the Cross, published 1895. This story which won a prize of $1,000, was afterward translated into nineteen foreign languages, and over two million copies were sold in the United States. She is also author of: Prisoners of the Sea, 1896; Stephen, 1897; Paul, 1898; The Cross Triumphant, 1900; The Transfiguration of Miss Philura, 1900; Under the Star, An Unrecorded Miracle, Kindly Light (collections of short stories), 1901; The Needle's Eye, 1902; Wings and Fetters, 1903; The Intellectual Miss Lamb, 1904; The Singular Miss Smith, 1905; Those Queer Browns, 1906; Tor, 1906; Truthful Jane, 1906; Balm in Gilead, 1906; The Princess and the Ploughman, 1907; The Resurrection of Miss Cynthia, 1907; And so They Were Married, 1908; The Glass House, 1909. She is a member of the Zeta Alpha Society of Wellesley College, and the Wellesley Club of New York. Address: Westerleigh, Staten Island, N. Y.

KINGSLEY, John Sterling:

Zoölogist; born at Cincinnati, N. Y., April 7, 1854; son of Lewis and Julia A. (Kingman) Kingsley. He was graduated from Williams College, A.B., 1875, Princeton University, and at the University of Freiburg, Germany (Se.D., Princeton, 1885). He occupied the chair of zoölogy in Indiana University, 1887-1889, and the same chair in the University of Nebraska, 1889-1891; and has been professor of biology in Tufts College since 1892. Dr. Kingsley was editor of the Standard Natural History, 1882-1886, and was editor of the American Naturalist, 1887-1896. He is a member of the Anatomische Gesellschaft of Germany, Washington Academy of Sciences, Philadelphia Academy of Natural Science, Boston Society of Natural History, American Society of Zoölogists, and American Society of Anatomists. He is author of: Popular Natural History (Estes and Lauriat); also of Comparative Zoölogy, Vertebrate Zoölogy, Hertwig's Manual of Zoölogy, and Guide for Vertebrate Dissections (Henry Holt and Company). Dr. Kingsley is a member of the Naturalists' Club and City Club of Boston. He married at Salem, Mass., July 31, 1882, Mary Emma Read, and they have one daughter. Address: Tufts College, Mass.

KINGSTON, Henry H.:

Railway official; born in Philadelphia, July 7, 1854. He was educated at the Germantown Academy and University of Pennsylvania. Mr. Kingston entered railroad service in 1870, under his father, the general freight agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad; and, in 1890, was made general manager, and afterward appointed receiver of the Pennsylvania, Poughkeepsie & Boston Railroad; in 1895 he was appointed general traffic manager of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, from which he retired on June 20, 1903, to take the presidency of the Investment Company of Philadelphia, in which he continues, and he is also vice-president of the Dry Fork Railroad, and a director in many companies. He married, Sept. 9, 1875, Frances Allan Hunter, of Philadelphia. Residence: Chestnut Hill. Office: North American Building, Philadelphia.

KINKAID, Moses P.:

Congressman; born in Monongalia County, W. Va., in 1854. He was graduated from the Law Department of the University of Michigan, and was president of his class in his senior year. He practised law first in Henry County, Ill., afterward, for a year, in Pierre, S. Dak., and since 1881 practising in Holt County, Neb. He served in the Nebraska State Senate, and was made chairman of the Committee on the Judiciary; held the office of district judge for three terms and ran for judge of the Supreme Court of the State in 1896, when the Republican ticket was defeated. Mr. Kinkaid was elected to the Fifty-eighth Congress in his third successive candidacy in the Sixth Nebraska District, and re-elected to the Fifty-ninth, Sixtieth and Sixty-first Congresses, from the Sixth Nebraska District. He is the first Republican to represent his district. Address: O'Neill, Neb.

KINKEAD, Eleanor Talbot:

Novelist; born in Kentucky; daughter of the late Judge William Bury Kinkead and of Elizabeth Fontaine (Shelby) Kinkead. She is descended from the ancient Scottish family of Kincaid which has had its seat in Stirlingshire since the days of Edward I; and also on the paternal side is a descendant from the old English families of Pryor and Blackburn, distinguished in Virginia and Kentucky history. On her mother's side she is descended from Isaac Shelby, Revolutionary hero and first governor of Kentucky and from the Fontaines of Virginia who trace back to Count de la Fontaine, one of the first martyrs to the cause of Protestantism in France. Miss Kinkead was educated at the Kentucky State College and under the direction of her father who was an eminent classical scholar. She is author of the novels: The Invisible Bond, and The Courage of Blackburn Blair. Address: 423 Second Street, Lexington, Ky.

KINNEY, Francis Sherwood:

Manufacturer; born in New Brighton, Staten Island, N. Y., Oct. 16, 1839. He was graduated from the public schools; went to sea and rose to be mate, but tiring of a sailor's life became interested in railroads. In 1869 he began to manufacture tobacco, founding the firm of Kinney Brothers. Mr. Kinney has invented valuable mechanical appliances. Residence: Butler, N. J., and 19 West 54th Street. Office: 135 Broadway, New York City.

KINNEY, Margaret West:

Illustrator; born in Peoria, Ill., June 11, 1872; daughter of John Ackroyd and Margaret (McMillan) West. She was educated in the Peoria High School, the Art Students' League of New York City, 1891, and in France, 1892-1896; under instruction of Lefebvre, Fleury, Collin and Merçon. For some years after her return from abroad she exhibited in the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, Society of Western Artists and Chicago Artists' Exhibitions. She lived in Chicago, 1896-1902; since then in New York and during recent years her time has been entirely occupied in illustration, for the leading magazines and publishers. She married in Chicago, June 9, 1900, Troy Kinney, artist and illustrator, and they have a son. Her work is chiefly done in collaboration with her husband under the joint signature of "The Kinneys," which has been attached to the illustrations of many of the most noteworthy books of recent years. Address: 16 West 67th Street, New York City.

KINNEY, Troy:

Illustrator; born in Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 1, 1871; son of William C. and Mary (Troy) Kinney. He was graduated from Yale, A.M., 1896, and studied in the Yale Art School and the Chicago Art Institute. He was engaged in newspaper work in Baltimore and Chicago, 1896-1897; since then in illustration of books and magazines, fiction, etc., in collaboration with his wife over the signature "The Kinneys," in The Century, Saturday Evening Post and for Harpers', McClurg, Macmillan, McClure, Dodd, Mead & Co., Doubleday Page & Co., and others. He has also done important work in natural decoration. He is a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, the Yale Club of New York City and Elihu Club of Yale University. He married in Chicago, June 19, 1900, Margaret West, and they have a son. Address: 16 West 67th Street, New York City.

KINNICUTT, Francis Parker:

Physician; born in Worcester, Mass., July 13, 1846. He was graduated from Harvard, A.B., 1868, and A.M., 1870, and from the College of Physicians and Surgeons (Medical Department of Columbia University), M.D., 1871. He is professor of chemical medicine, Medical Department of Columbia University; physician to St. Luke's Hospital, Hospital for Ruptured and Crippled, Babies', and Woman's Minturn Hospitals, Morristown Memorial Hospital, and Vassar Brothers' Hospital at Poughkeepsie. Dr. Kinnicutt is a member of the Advisory Board of the Commissioner of Health, New York City; of the Advisory Board of the Port officer of the State of New York; and of the board of directors of the Cancer Hospital. He was joint editor (with Dr. N. B. Potter) of Sahli's Chemical Diagnosis, 1905. Dr. Kinnicutt was president of the Association of American Physicians, 1906-1907; is a member of the American Medical Society, New York Academy of Medicine, American Museum of Natural History, of the Century Association, and the Harvard, University, City, and Whippany River Clubs. He married in New York City, in 1873, Eleonora Kissel, and has two children. Address: 39 East 35th Street, New York City.

KINSOLVING, Arthur B.:

Clergyman; educated at the University of Virginia and Theological Seminary of Virginia; ordered deacon in 1886, and ordained priest in 1887 by Bishop Whittle in the Episcopal ministry. He was at St. John's Church, Warsaw, Va., 1886-1889, Christ Church, Brooklyn, 1889-1906, since which time he has been rector of St. Paul's Church, Baltimore. Address: 24 West Saratoga Street, Baltimore.

KINSOLVING, George Herbert:

Bishop of Texas; born in Bedford County, Va., April 28, 1849; son of Rev. Dr. Ovid A. and Julia Heiskell (Krauth) Kinsolving. He was educated in Griswold College, Davenport, Iowa, and at the Virginia Theological Seminary, being graduated from the latter in 1873. He received from the University of the South the degree of D.D. He took the orders of deacon of the Episcopal Church in 1874, and a year later was ordained priest by Bishop Whittingham. After his ordination to the priesthood he became rector of St. Mark's Church, Baltimore, being later rector of St. John's Church, Cincinnati, and of the Church of the Epiphany, Philadelphia. He was made bishop of Texas, and was consecrated in 1892 by Bishops R. H. Wilmer, Quintard, Whitaker, Wingfield, Dudley, Jaggard, Randolph, Johnston, Kendrick, Davies, Nichols, Hale and Jones (Newfoundland). Bishop Kinsolving married at Cincinnati, Ohio, Grace Jaggard, sister of Bishop Jaggard, of Southern Ohio. Address: Austin, Texas.

KIRBY, Thomas E.:

Managing director of the American Art Galleries of New York City; born in Philadelphia, Nov. 14, 1846; son of William Kitts and Mary (Sothorn) Kirby. He was educated in the public schools, and began his business career at the age of twelve years with M. Thomas & Sons, auctioneers, of Philadelphia, remaining with the firm and working through all the departments for eighteen years; and in 1876 became connected with the firm of George A. Leavitt & Company, the leading art auctioneers of New York City. Later he became a partner of John Ortgies, conducting sales of oriental porcelains, pictures and other art objects; in 1882 he joined in the reorganization of the American Art Galleries as the American Art Association, of which he is now the active partner and managing director, and he has personally managed and conducted the most important art sales held in the United States, amounting since 1883 to a grand total of over sixteen million of dollars. He is a member of the American Geographical Society, the National Geographic Society; of the Society of Arts and the Japan Society, both of London, England; of the Chamber of Commerce, Sons of the American Revolution, Pennsylvania Society of New York, of which he is vice-president; and is a Mason. He is also an honorary member of the United Typothetae of New York; a sustaining member of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, and a member of the Union League and Republican Clubs of New York, and the Bedford Golf and Tennis Club. He married in Philadelphia, Feb. 7, 1871, Isabelle C. Town, they have two children. Address: American Art Galleries, 6 East 23d Street, New York City.

KIRCHHOFF, Charles William Henry:

Editor of the Iron Age; born in San Francisco, March 28, 1853; son of Charles and Virginia (Siemsen) Kirchhoff. He was graduated from the Royal School of Mines, Clausthal, Germany, 1874. He was engaged with the Delaware Lead Refinery, Philadelphia, as chemist, 1874-1877; assistant editor of the Metallurgical Review, 1877-1878; assistant editor of The Iron Age, 1878-1881; managing editor of the Engineering and Mining Journal, 1881-1884; since 1884 again with the Iron Age as associate editor, 1884-1889, and editor-in-chief from 1889; now also vice-president and manager of publications of David Williams Company. Mr. Kirchhoff was a special agent of the U. S. Geological Survey, 1883-1907, for collection of statistics of production of lead, copper and zinc. Mr. Kirchhoff was author of: Notes on Some European Iron Districts, 1900. He is a member of the American Institute of Mining Engineers (president 1898-1899), Iron and Steel Institute of Great Britain, Verein Deutscher Eisenhuettenleute, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, Franklin Institute of Philadelphia (honorary), and the Century, Engineers and Hardware Clubs of New York City. Residence: 422 West End Avenue. Address: 14-16 Park Place, New York City.

KIRCHWEY, George Washington:

Professor of law; born in Detroit, Mich., July 3, 1855. He was graduated from Yale, A.B., 1879; studied law in Albany, N. Y.; was admitted to the bar in 1881 and practised law in Albany from 1881-1891. Professor Kirchwey was editor of Historical Manuscripts of the State of New York, 1887-1889; professor of law at Union University, and dean at the Albany Law School, 1889-1891; and has been professor of law since 1891, Kent professor of law since 1902 and dean of the School of Law of Columbia University since 1901. He is author of: Reading in the Law of Real Property; Select Cases and other Authorities on the Law of Mortgage and articles on law in legal periodicals; and he is editor of the Department of Law in the New International Encyclopedia. He is a member of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, the Century Association, and Columbia University and Yale Clubs. Professor Kirchwey married at Wilmington, Del., Dora Child Wendell. Address: 908 St. Nicholas Avenue, New York City.

KIRK, Ellen Olney:

Author; born at Southington, Conn., Nov. 6, 1842; son of Jesse Olney (geographer, educator, legislator, State comptroller of Connecticut, author) and Elizabeth (Barnes) Olney. She was educated at home and in a private school in Stratford, Conn.; and she married at Stratford, Conn., in 1879, John Foster Kirk (author of History of Charles the Bold, editor of Prescott Works and of the Supplement to Allibone's Dictionary of Authors). He died in 1904. Mrs. Kirk has written criticisms, essays and short stories, and many novels which have attained much popularity, including: A Lesson in Love; A Midsummer Madness; The Story of Margaret Kent; Sons and Daughters; Queen Money; A Daughter of Eve; Walford; Ciphers; Maidens Choosing; The Story of Lawrence Garthe; The Revolt of a Daughter; Dorothy Deane; Dorothy and Her Friends; Our Lady Vanity; A Remedy for Love; The Apology of Ayliffe; Good Bye, Proud World; Marcia, and other books. Some of her earlier work appeared under the pen-name of "Henry Hayes." Address: Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia.

KIRK, Milton W.:

Manufacturer; born in Utica, N. Y., Feb. 18, 1846; son of James S. and Nancy A. Kirk. His parents, in 1860, moved to Chicago, where he was educated in the public and high schools. Soon after leaving school he entered the soap manufacturing establishment of James S. Kirk & Company, of which his father was the founder and head. He became actively identified with the conduct and management of the business, which, after the death of his father, was incorporated, and of which he is to-day president and director. He served as president of the village board of Evanston, Ill., before its incorporation as a city, and was a member of the board of directors of the World's Columbian Exposition. He is a Republican, and a Mason, and a member of the Chicago, Chicago Yacht, Fellowship, Union, Illinois Athletic, and South Shore Country Clubs of Chicago. He married first, Alice Florence Thompson, to whom was born three children. Married, second, Ethel Lucy Kirkman; and third, Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 1, 1902, Josephine Mary Cunningham. Residence: 3139 Michigan Avenue. Office: 360 North Water Street, Chicago.

KIRKLAND, James Hampton:

Chancellor of Vanderbilt University; born in Spartansburg, S. C., Sept. 9, 1859; youngest child of the Rev. W. C. Kirkland and Virginia L. (Galluchat) Kirkland. He was graduated from Wofford College, S. C., A.B., 1877, A.M., 1878; studied in the University of Leipzig, Ph.D., 1885, and Berlin. He was tutor, 1877-1880, assistant professor 1880-1882, professor of Greek, 1882-1883 in Wofford College; studied abroad in 1883-1886, has been professor of Latin in Vanderbilt University since 1886 and chancellor of the University since 1893. He has written articles in the Quarterly Review, American Journal of Philology, Classical Review and edition of Satires and Epistles of Horace. The University of North Carolina conferred upon him the LL.D. degree, 1894 and the University of the South, that of D.C.L. in 1900. He married, Mary, the daughter of Judge W. A. Henderson and they have one daughter. Address: Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn.

KIRKPATRICK, William Sebring:

Lawyer; born in Easton, Pa., April 21, 1844; son of Newton and Susan (Sebring) Kirkpatrick. He was graduated from Lafayette College, A.B., 1863, A.M., 1872, and afterward received the degree of LL.D. from Washington and Jefferson College, and from Pennsylvania College. He studied law with H. D. Maxwell, president judge of the Third District of Pennsylvania, and was admitted to the bar of Northampton County, Pa., October, 1865; lecturer on municipal law in Lafayette College; admitted to practice by the Supreme Court of the United States in 1887. He was president judge of the Third Judicial District of Pennsylvania, 1874-1875; solicitor of Easton, Pa.; chairman of the Republican State Convention, 1882; delegate to the National Convention, Chicago, 1884; attorney-general of Pennsylvania, 1887-1891; member of the Fifty-fifth Congress from the Eighth Congressional District of Pennsylvania, 1897-1899. He is a trustee and was acting president of Lafayette College, 1902-1903; president of Alumni of Lafayette College, 1874; is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Society and the Zeta Psi fraternity; also a member of the Union League Club of New York City; Union League, and University Clubs of Philadelphia, and Ponfret Club of Easton. He married in Easton, Pa., May 25, 1873, Elizabeth H. Jones, and they have two sons. Address: Easton, Pa.

KISER, Samuel Ellsworth:

Journalist and author; born in Shippenville, Pa., Feb. 2, 1862; son of Samuel and Charlotte (Blackstone) Kiser. He was educated in the common schools of Pennsylvania and Ohio, and entered in the newspaper business in Cleveland, Ohio, in 1890, as reporter. In 1896, Mr. Kiser began furnishing daily columns of humorous sketches and verses for the Cleveland Leader. Since then he has contributed to many newspapers and magazines, and since 1900 has been on the editorial staff of the Chicago Times-Herald and the Chicago Record-Herald. Mr. Kiser is author of the books: Bud Wilkins at the Show, and Other Verses, 1898; Georgie, 1890; Love Sonnets of an Office Boy, 1902; Ballads of the Busy Days, 1903; Charles the Chauffeur, 1905; Thrills of a Bell Boy, 1906, and has had considerable success as a reader of selections from his own writings. He is a member of the Evanston Golf, Evanston University, Chicago, Little Room, and Chicago Wayfarers Clubs. Mr. Kiser married, at Cleveland, Ohio, Mildred M. Palmer, and they have two children. Residence: 726 Clifton Place, Evanston, Ill. Office: The Record-Herald, Chicago.

KISSAM, Henry Snyder:

Architect; born in New York City, Feb. 22, 1866; son of Benjamin Adrian and Sara A. (Snyder) Kissam. He was educated in public schools and by private tutor, and was graduated from Columbus University in the architectural course with the degree of B.S., 1886, and studied in Paris, 1886-1888. Mr. Kissam practised architecture in Washington State, 1888-1892, and since 1892 has practised in New York City. He is a member of the Architectural League of New York City; president of the Society of Columbia University Architects and member of the Board of Governors; member of the Alumni Association of the School of Mines of Columbia University and of its Board of Governors. He is also a member of the Psi Upsilon fraternity, Cyclope, Society of Colonial Wars, Order of Founders and Patriots of America and of The University. Psi Upsilon and Columbia University Clubs of New York City. Address: 37 Liberty Street, New York City.

KISSEL, Gustav Edward:

Banker; born in New York City, Sept. 30, 1854. He was educated in the schools of Charlier and Morse, New York City, Lausanne, Switzerland, and Heidelberg University. He is the senior member of the firm of Kissel, Kinnecutt and Company, bankers; a director of the Commercial Trust Company of Jersey City, Morristown Trust Company, State Street Trust Company of Boston, United States Casualty Company, United States Mortgage and Trust Company, and The Brearley School. He is a member of the Children's Aid Society, president of the People's Symphony Concert Society, director of the American Geographical Society, and New York Institute for the Blind. Mr. Kissel is a member of the New England Society, Chamber of Commerce, the Union, Century, Knickerbocker, Racquet, Down Town, New York Coaching, City, Morristown Golf and New York Yacht Clubs. He married Caroline Thorn. Residence: Morristown, N. J., and 15 West 16th Street. Office: 37 Wall Street, New York City.

KITCHEL, Cornelius Porter:

Lawyer; born in East Liverpool, Ohio. Oct. 7, 1875; son of Farrand De Forest and Flora (McDonald) Porter. He was graduated from Yale, A.B., 1897, LL.B., magna cum laude, 1901. He was secretary to Hon. Robert C. Morris, president of the Republican County Committee of New York County, 1901-1903; chief attorney of the Legal Aid Society, 1905-1906; in private practice since 1906. He is also a director of the Homer Laughlin China Company. He is a member of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York; member of the Advisory Board of the Wilson Industrial School; member of the Phi Beta Kappa Society, Alpha Delta Phi, Chi Delta Theta, Phi Delta Phi, and the Yale Club of New York. Residence:

628 West 114th Street. Office: 43 Cedar Street, New York City.

KITCHIN, Claude:

Lawyer and congressman; born near Scotland Neck, Halifax County, N. C., March 24, 1869; son of Hon. William H. Kitchin (member of the Forty-sixth Congress) and Maria F. Kitchin. He was graduated from Wake Forest College, N. C., in 1888; was admitted to the bar in September, 1890, and has since practised law in Scotland Neck. He never held public office until elected as a Democrat to the Fifty-seventh Congress, from the Second North Carolina District. He was reelected to the Fifty-eighth, Fifty-ninth, Sixtieth and Sixty-first Congresses. He married, at Wake Forest, N. C., Nov. 13, 1888, Kate Mills. Address: Scotland Neck, N. C.

KITCHIN, William Watson:

Governor of North Carolina; born near Scotland Neck, Halifax County, N. C., Oct. 9, 1866; son of Hon. William H. Kitchin (member of Congress, 1879-1881) and Maria F. Kitchin. He was graduated from Wake Forest College, N. C., in the class of 1884; studied law in his father's office; admitted to the bar in 1887; and he has since graduation practised law at Roxboro, N. C. He has been active in Democratic politics ever since becoming a voter; was chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee of Person County, N. C., in 1890, was nominated for the State Senate in 1892; was elected in 1896 to the Fifty-fifth Congress, and reelected to the Fifty-sixth, Fifty-seventh, Fifty-eighth, Fifty-ninth and Sixtieth Congresses, serving 1897-1909. He was elected in 1908 governor of North Carolina for the term expiring in January, 1913. Home: Roxboro, N. C. Official address: Raleigh, N. C.

KITTREDGE, Alfred Beard:

Lawyer, former U. S. Senator; born in Cheshire County, N. H., March 28, 1861. He was graduated from Yale College in 1882, and from the law school of that institution in 1885; and immediately began the practice of law at Sioux Falls, S. Dak. He was member of the Republican National Committee from South Dakota, 1892-1896. He was appointed to the United States Senate, July 11, 1901, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the Hon. James H. Kyle, and took his seat Dec. 2, 1901; was elected by the Legislature in 1903 to succeed himself. His term of service expired March 3, 1909. Address: Sioux Falls, S. Dak.

KLEIN, William:

Lawyer; born in New York City, Oct. 13, 1876; son of Adolph and Rosie (Propere) Klein. He was educated in the College of the City of New York and New York University Law School, LL.B., 1896. In 1896 he brought about the consolidation of the theatrical programme printers; in 1905 represented and formed the Sam S. and Lee Shubert Incorporated Companies, which was the opposition to the Theatrical Trust, and was elected its counsel and director, and in 1907 was elected counsel of the U. S. Amusement Company. He is secretary and director of the Shubert-Anderson Company, controlling the New York Hippodrome; counsel and director of the Wilber-Shubert Theatre Company and of Wolf & Carrillo. Incorporated; counsel of the Comstock Amusement Company; director of the American Carbon & Chemical Company of New Jersey, Auto Robe and Rubber Company, Charles E. Evans Company, Henry Miller & Company, Independent Five and Ten Cent Stores, Lincoln Surety Company of Delaware, Sara Bernhart Realty Company, Selwyn & Company, Shubert Realty Company, Shubert Theatrical Company, Shubert-Holding Company, Miller-Shubert Company, Manhattan Producing Company, F. Ray Comstock Company, Casino Theatre Company, Lyric Theatre Company, Jefferson DeAngelis Opera Company, DeWolf Hopper Opera Company and of the Novevate Producing Company. He is a member of the Advisory Board of the Hebrew Orphan Asylum, of the Montiflore Home and of the Educational Alliance. Residence: 200 West 112th Street. Office: 346 Broadway, New York City.

KLOPSCH, Louis:

Journalist; born in Germany, March 26, 1852. He was educated in the New York public schools. He was proprietor of the Daily Hotel Reporter, 1877-1880; of the Pictorial Association Press, 1884-1890, and of the Talmage Sermon Syndicate, 1885-1903. Dr. Klopsch went to Palestine, and on his return in 1890 became interested in The Christian Herald, of which he became proprietor, 1892. Through The Christian Herald he has conducted large philanthropies, raising and distributing over $4,000,000 in charities, including the Russian famine relief, 1892 (for which he was received by Czar), Indian famine relief, 1896, aggregating $400,000. He was appointed in 1898 by President McKinley, one of three U. S. commanders charged with the relief of the starving reconcentrados in Cuba (for which purpose he raised $200,000); visited the famine and cholera districts of India; 1900, when through The Christian Herald, he raised, in six months nearly $700,000 to relieve distress there. He supported for seven years 5,000 Indian famine orphans, at an expense of about $100,000 per annum; sent $80,000 for starving people of Shensi, China. 1901, went to Sweden and Finland to visit the famine-stricken districts, for the relief of which he had cabled $125,000. He was then received in private audience by Queen Alexandra, King Christian of Denmark, the King and Queen of Sweden and Dowager Empress of Russia; raised $250,000 in 1906 for relief of famine sufferers in Northern Japan, in recognition of which President Roosevelt wired him a message of congratulation. In 1907 he raised over $500,000 for China famine relief; and in the spring of 1909 he liberally supported the operations of Queen Helena in relieving the distress of widowed mothers and homeless orphans in the earthquake district, and in May of the same year was received by King Victor Emmanuel and presented with inscribed and autographed pictures of their Majesties in recognition of such services. He received from King Edward, 1904, the gold Kaiser-I-Hind medal of the first class, being the only non-resident of India thus distinguished; and was decorated by the Emperor of Japan with the order of the Rising Sun, 1907. Dr. Klopsch is the originator of the Red Letter Bibles; Founder and president of the Christian Herald Children's Home, Nyack, N. Y., in which over 3,000 tenement-house children are annually given a 10 days' outing. He is president of the Bowery Mission, in New York City. Dr. Klopsch is denominationally a Methodist. He married in New York City in 1886, May E., daughter of Rev. Stephen Merritt. Address: 100 East 17th Street, New York City.

KLOTZ, Hermann Gustav:

Physician; born in Rochlitz, Saxony, Germany, Aug. 21, 1844; son of Karl and Emilie (Schmidt) Klotz. He was educated at private schools, the Royal Gymnasium (Furstenschule), Grimma, Saxony; the University of Leipzig, 1863-1866; the University of Würzburg, 1866-1867; Heidelberg University, 1867; University of Leipzig, 1867-1868, M.D. After serving as surgeon on various steamers of the Hamburg-American Line, he settled in practice in New York City. He was connected with the German Dispensary, 1872-1904 is attending physician for skin and venereal diseases in the German Hospital since 1879; and was a consulting physician of Isabella Heimath Hospital. He is a Lutheran. Dr. Klotz is a member of the Medical Society of the County of New York, the Academy of Medicine of New York, the American Dermatological Association, the Dermatological Society of New York, German Medical Society, American Medical Association, American Society of Sanitary and Moral Prophylaxis, New York State Medical Society, New York Physicians' Mutual Aid Association, New York Society for the Relief of Widows and Orphans of Medical Men, German Dermatological Society, and an honorary member of the Medical Society of Kings County, N. Y. He is also a member of the German Society of the City of New York, and the Metropolitan Museum of Art. He is co-editor of Archiv für Dermatologie und Syphilographie (of Vienna); and a contributor of numerous papers on skin diseases, syphilis, etc., to the American Journal of Cutaneous Diseases, the New York Medical Journal, the Medical News, the New York Monatschrift and to German dermatological periodicals. He married in New York City, Dec. 4, 1873, Marie C. Schwedler, and they have five children: Walter C. (M.D.), Edward H., Mrs. Lillie E. Breitwieser, Mrs. Gertrude M. Ardagh, and Robert G. Residence: White Plains, N. Y. Office: 616 Madison Avenue, New York City.

KNABENSHUE, Samuel S.:

Consul, journalist; born near Lancaster, Ohio, Nov. 1, 1845; son of Joseph N. and Nancy (Prentice) Knabenshue. He was educated in the public schools; went to work in a printing office at the age of thirteen, and after having learned the trade was employed as a compositor in Cincinnati, until his health broke down from the confinement incident to that occupation. He then returned to Lancaster, Ohio, taught country school, then became for ten years principal of a grammar school. He became editor and part proprietor of The Republican, at Mount Vernon, Ohio, 1876-1878; superintendent of the public schools at Lancaster, 1878-1881; night editor of the Ohio State Journal, Columbus, 1881-1883, and political writer on the Toledo Blade, 1884-1905. Since 1905 Mr. Knabenshue has held his present position as American consul at Belfast, Ireland. He is a member of the Ohio Archæological and Historical Society. Mr. Knabenshue married at Lancaster, Ohio, in 1871, Salome Matlack, and they have their home at Toledo, Ohio. Address: American Consulate, Belfast, Ireland.

KNAPP, Charles:

Professor of classic philology; born in New York City, June 22, 1868; son of Michael and Mary Josephine (Rennett) Knapp. He was educated in public schools and in Trinity School, New York City, Columbia University, A.B., 1887, A.M., 1888, Ph.D., 1890; and tutorial fellow there, 1890-1891. He was instructor in Latin and Greek, Barnard College, Columbia University, 1891-1902; adjunct professor of classical philology in the same, 1902-1906; professor of classical philology and head of the department since 1906. Professor Knapp is a member of the American Philological Association, and secretary-treasurer of the Classical Association of the Atlantic States. He is editor of: Stories from Aulus Gellius, 1894; joint editor of selections from Viri Romæ, 1895; and editor of an elaborate school edition of Virgil's Aeneid I-VI, with selections from VII-XII, 1901. He is managing editor of The Classical Weekly, and is author of numerous articles in various learned periodicals on subjects connected with classical literature, especially Latin. He married in New York City, June 24, 1889, Therese Isabel Shaw, and they have one son. Address: Columbia University, New York City.

KNAPP, Charles Luman:

Congressman and lawyer; born in Harrisburg, Louis County, N. Y., July 4, 1847. He was educated in Lowville (N. Y.) Academy, and in Rutgers College, N. J., A.B., 1869; studied law and was admitted to the bar, and began practice of his profession in Lowville in 1873. In 1885 he was elected to the State Senate from the district consisting of Lewis, St. Lawrence, and Franklin counties; served in the Senate, 1886-1887 on the committee on Judiciary, Railroads, and Miscellaneous Corporations, and was chairman of the committee on Literature and Public Education. In 1889 he was appointed by President Harrison consul-general to Montreal, and served during Harrison's term and until September, 1893, when he returned to Lowville and resumed the practice of his profession. He was elected to the Fifty-seventh Congress, Nov. 5, 1891, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Hon. A. D. Shaw, and to the Fifty-eighth Congress, and was reelected to the Fifty-ninth, Sixtieth and Sixty-first Congresses from the Twenty-eighth New York District. He married, June 26, 1887, Sarah, daughter of Hon. Daniel G. Dorrance of Oneida Castle, N. Y. Address: Lowville, N. Y.

KNAPP, Charles Welbourne:

Editor and publisher; born in St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 23, 1848; son of Colonel John and Virginia (Wright) Knapp, and grandson of Edward Knapp. He was graduated from St. Louis University, A.B., 1865, A.M., 1867, and from the University of Kentucky, LL.B., 1867. After his graduation he entered the office of the Missouri Republican, now the St. Louis Republic and served in the various business and editorial departments, and was for several years Washington correspondent of the paper. Since 1887 he has been president and general manager of the corporation publishing the paper, and also its editor-in-chief. He has been a director since 1889, and from 1895 to 1899 was president of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association; has been a director since 1892, and in 1900 was president of the Associated Press. St. Louis University conferred upon him the degree of LL.D. in 1904. Mr. Knapp married Frances Shackelford, and they have a daughter. Address: The Republic, St. Louis.

KNAPP, Martin Augustine:

Chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission; born in Spofford, N. Y., Nov. 6, 1843; son of Justice Norman and Polly (McKay) Knapp. He was graduated from Wesleyan University, A.B., 1868, A.M., 1871, LL.D., 1892; and he also received the honorary degree of A.M. from Syracuse University, 1892. He was admitted to the New York Bar in 1869; practised law at Syracuse, N. Y., 1877-1891. He has been a member since 1891, and chairman since 1898 of the Interstate Commerce Commission. He is a member of the Transportation and Union League Clubs of New York City. Residences: 714 James Street, Syracuse, N. Y., and Stoneleigh Court, Washington. Office: Sun Building, Washington, D. C.

KNAPP, Wallace Percy:

Lawyer; born in Connecticut, Aug. 7, 1863. He was graduated from Yale University, A.B., 1886, Columbia University, LL.B., 1888; University of New York, M. L., 1898. He has been engaged in the practice of law in New York City since 1888. Mr. Knapp is a member of the New York City Bar Association and Psi Upsilon fraternity; and trustee of The Boys' Club. He is a member of the University, Racquet and Tennis, Riding, and the Skull and Bones Clubs. He married in New York City, 1894, Caroline Duncan Miller; they have two children. Address: 15 William Street, New York City.

KNAPP, Walter H.:

Lawyer; born in Hopewell, Ontario County, N. Y., March 23, 1856; son of B. Franklin and Harriet (Warner) Knapp; educated at Canandaigua Academy from 1871 to 1874. He was graduated from Amherst College, A. B., 1879; teacher at Placerville, (Calif.) Academy, 1879-1883, and Canandaigua (N. Y.) Academy, 1883-1885. He was admitted to practise law in the Supreme Court, 1885; elected county-judge in 1896; reelected in 1902; was frequently a delegate to judicial conventions. He is a member of the Canandaigua Scientific Association; member of the Session of the Presbyterian Church; Masonic Order (past master). Mr. Knapp is a member of the Kanandarque Club, and of the Genesee Valley Club, Rochester. He married in Manchester, N. Y., Aug. 3, 1879, Mary Cole, and they have four children. Address: 5 Hallenbeck Building, Canandaigua, N. Y.

KNAPP, Wilmot E.:

Lawyer; born at Springfield, Bradford County, Pa., Nov. 26, 1857; son of Elisha and Philinda (Guthrie) Knapp. He was educated in the public schools of Wellsburg, N. Y., studied law in offices in Elmira, N. Y., was admitted to the bar in 1883, and has since been in general practice at Elmira. He was elected district attorney at Chemung County in 1904 and reelected 1907 for another term. He is president of the Kanawoola Cycle Club. He married at Austinville, Pa., Nov. 6, 1897, Alice Teeter, and they have two children. Address: 401 Grove Street, Elmira, N. Y.

KNAPPEN, Loyal Edwin:

U. S. district judge; born in Hastings, Mich., Jan. 27, 1854; son of Edwin and Sarah M. (Nevins) Knappen. He was graduated from the University of Michigan, A.B., 1873, A.M., 1876. From 1873 to 1875

he studied law in an office in Hastings, Mich., was admitted to the bar in 1875, and practised there until 1888, then at Grand Rapids until 1906. He was prosecuting attorney for Barry County, Mich., 1879-1883, and U. S. commissioner at Hastings, Mich., 1880-1888. He was commissioned Dec. 13, 1906, judge of the U. S. District Court for the Western District of Michigan. Judge Knappen has been a regent of the University of Michigan since January, 1904. He is a member of the Kent County Club of Grand Rapids. He married at Hastings, Mich., Oct. 23, 1876, Amelia Isabelle Kenyon. Address: Grand Rapids, Mich.

KNIGHT, Albion Williamson:

Missionary bishop of Cuba; born in White Springs, Fla., Aug. 24, 1859; son of Augustine and Martha (Demere) Knight. He was educated in the University of the South; took the orders of deacon in the Episcopal Church in 1881 and in 1883 was ordained priest by Bishop Young. He was missionary of South Florida, 1881-1884; rector of St. Mark's Church at Palatka, Fla., 1884-1886; rector of St. Andrew's Church, Jacksonville, Fla., 1886-1893; dean of the Cathedral, Atlanta, Ga., 1893-1904. In 1904 he was consecrated bishop by Bishops Tuttle, Nelson and Weed, having been elected Missionary Bishop of Cuba. Bishop Knight was delegate to the General Conventions of 1889, 1892, 1895, 1898, 1901, and 1904. He was president of the Standing Committee of Georgia and is alumni trustee of the University of the South. He married, at Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 27, 1889, Elise Nicoll Hallows. Address: Havana, Cuba.

KNIGHT, Augustus S.:

Medical director of life insurance; born in Manchester, Mass., Nov. 21, 1864; son of John and Deborah (Carleton) Knight. He was educated at Phillips' Andover Academy, and was graduated from Harvard, A.B., 1887, M.D., 1891. He is medical director of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, also director of the Federal Trust Company. He is a member of the New York

Academy of Medicine, the Harvard Medical Society of New York City; the Harvard and The Manhattan Clubs. He married at Boston, Oct. 1, 1891, Abbie F. Knight. Address: 1 Madison Avenue, New York City.

KNIGHT, Charles Huntoon:

Physician; born in Easthampton, Mass., Nov. 22, 1849; son of Horatio Gates and Mary Ann (Huntoon) Knight. He was graduated from Williston Seminary, 1867, from Williams College, A.B. 1871, A.M., 1886; Medical Department of Columbia University, M.D., 1874. He is professor of laryngology in Cornell University Medical College; and surgeon to the Manhattan Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital, of which he is a director; and he is consulting laryngologist to the New York State Hospital for Crippled and Deformed Children, and to Stony Wold Sanatorium. Dr. Knight is a member and ex-president of the American Laryngological Association, American Medical Association, American Society of Ophthalmology and Oto-Laryngology, American Therapeutic Society, American Academy of Medicine, Delta Psi fraternity, Sons of the Revolution, New England Society; and of the University, Mendelssohn Glee, and Hospital Graduates' Clubs. He married in New York City, June 28, 1893, Lucy Ellen Tolford. Address: 120 West 57th Street, New York City.

KNIGHT, Erastus Cole:

Ex-mayor of Buffalo; born in Buffalo, N. Y., March 1, 1857. He was educated in the public schools. Mr. Knight was a commission merchant, 1880-1887, and since then has been engaged in the real estate business. He was a supervisor, 1889-1895, and chairman of the Board of Supervisors, 1894; comptroller of City of Buffalo from 1895 to 1900; comptroller of State of New York, 1901; mayor of Buffalo, 1901-1905. Mr. Knight is president and general manager of the Isle of Pines Home and Plantation Company. He was Grand Commander of Knights Templar in the State of New York, 1905-1906. He married in Buffalo, May 14, 1881, Mary Elizabeth Cowles. Address: Buffalo, N. Y.

KNIGHT, Newell Clark:

Dealer in municipal and corporation bonds; born in St. Louis, April 25, 1862; son of Augustus and Fanny (French) Knight. He was educated in the public schools, the Academy of the Washington University, St. Louis, and Yale University, B.A., 1884. After his graduation he took a course in bookkeeping. Electing to become a shoe manufacture, he entered the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Company's factory and obtained a practical knowledge of the business by working at the bench and on the machines. He retired from the factory after two years' work, and became secretary of an investment company at Wichita, Kan., later establishing, with his brother, a business in the handling of mortgages and commercial paper. This business was discontinued in 1893, when he removed to Chicago, and in association with Reuben H. Donnelley established the firm of Knight, Donnelley & Company, bond and stock brokers, but now in business alone as Newell C. Knight & Company. He was a Cleveland Democrat, but on the gold issue was an active advocate of the election of Mr. McKinley in the campaigns of 1896 and 1900, and of Roosevelt in 1904. He was elected president of the Four Mile League of Evanston, Ill., in 1899, and was appointed chief of police of that city without compensation, in order that he might enforce the anti-saloon law. He married in 1886, Annie Louise Sloss of St. Louis, Mo., and has five children. Residence: Evanston, Ill. Office: Royal Insurance Building, Chicago.

KNIGHT, Ora Willis:

Chemist and microscopist; born in Bangor, Me., July 15, 1874; son of George Willis and Nellie Ada (Blood) Knight. He attended public schools in Bangor, Me., and at San Diego and Santa Barbara, Calif., and took a course in chemistry at the Maine State College, graduating as B.S. in 1895. In the sophomore year he shared with a classmate the scholarship prize. He was engaged as an assistant in natural history in the University of Maine, 1895-1897; assistant chemist of the Maine Experiment Station, 1897-1903, and has been in business for himself as a chemist and microscopist since 1903. He has also been since 1902, State assayer of Maine. Mr. Knight has been called into service in connection with many noted criminal cases in the courts of Maine, and his investigations secured the first new trial ever granted to a person convicted of murder in that state. He is a member of the American Chemical Society, the Entomological Society of America, the Maine Ornithological Society, Josselyn Botanical Society (president) the American Ornithologist Union, and the Phi Kappa Phi Society. He is author of: List of Birds of Maine; Birds of Maine, and of various articles relating to the botany and ornithology of Maine. His chief recreations are the study of plants, birds and insects, and hunting and fishing. Mr. Knight is a Republican and a Unitarian. He married in Bangor, Me., Aug. 14, 1899, Minnie Gertrude MacDonald. Address: 84 Forest Avenue, Bangor, Me.

KNOFF, S. Adolphus:

Physician; born in Halle-on-the-Saale, Germany, Nov. 27, 1857; son of Adolphus and Nanina Knopf. He was educated in the Municipal High School at Halle; came to New York City and later went to Los Angeles, Calif.; taught languages and attended the University of Southern California until 1886; was graduated from Bellevue Hospital Medical College, 1888, practised in Los Angeles; went to France, 1890, was graduated from the University of Paris (Sorbonne), 1895; made special studies of sanatorium treatment of consumptives, being assistant physician to Professor Dettweiler of the Falkenstein Sanatorium. He was made laureate of the Academy of Medicine of Paris, 1896, for his doctorate thesis: Les Sanatoria, Traitement et Prophylaxie de la Phtisie Pulmonaire. He has been engaged in practice in New York City since 1896; has been interne, assistant and visiting physician to several French and American special hospitals; is associate director of the Clinic for Pulmonary Diseases in the New York Health Department; visiting physician of Riverside Sanatorium for Consumptives; consulting physician to sanatoria at Gabricks, N. Y., Binghamton, N. Y., and to consumptive hospitals at Scranton, Pa., and Denver, Colo.; and is professor of phthisiotherapy at the New York Post-Graduate Medical School and Hospital; was honorary vice-president of the British Congress of Tuberculosis, London, 1901; chairman of the Committee on Sick Poor of the New York State Conference of Charities, 1902; U. S. Government delegate to the International Tuberculosis Congress in Paris, 1905; vice-president of Sociological Section of International Tuberculosis Congress, Washington, D. C., 1908. He has become distinguished as a writer on tuberculosis; was made laureate by the College of Physicians of Philadelphia, 1898, for his book on: Pulmonary Tuberculosis—Its Modern Prophylaxis and the Treatment in Special Institutions and at Home. His essay, Tuberculosis as a Disease of the Masses, and How to Combat It, has been published in twenty different languages, and was awarded a prize by the International Congress for the Study of Tuberculosis, 1889. He is a member of the American Academy of Medicine (ex-vice-president); fellow of the New York Academy of Medicine and American Academy of Arts and Sciences, American Medical Association, New York State Medical Association, New York County Medical Association, Society of Medical Jurisprudence; honorary fellow of the Maine Academy of Medicine and Science, Sociedad Cientifico Antonio Alzate, Mexico; corresponding member of German and French Societies for the Prevention of Tuberculosis; former vice-president of Pennsylvania Society for Prevention of Tuberculosis; director of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis; member of the Tuberculosis Committee of the New York Charity Organization Society. He married in Los Angeles, Calif., Oct. 19, 1889, Pearle Nora, daughter of Harrison Gray Dyar. Address: 16 West 95th Street, New York City.

KNOWLAND, Joseph Russell:

Congressman; born in Alameda, Calif., Aug. 5, 1873; son of Joseph and Hannah Knowland. He was educated in public and private schools and in the University of the Pacific. Mr. Knowland is associated with his father, Joseph Knowland, in the wholesale lumber and shipping business; and is a director and member of the finance committee of the Alameda Savings Bank and Bank of Alameda. In 1898, at the age of 25, he was elected to the lower house of the State legislature; was reelected in 1900; in 1902 was elected to the State Senate, resigning in 1904, after serving one session, having in the meantime received the Republican nomination to fill the unexpired term in the Fifty-eighth Congress of Hon. Victor H. Metcalf, appointed Secretary of Commerce and Labor, and also for the Fifty-ninth Congress; was elected for both terms, and reelected to the Sixtieth and Sixty-first Congresses. He married in Tacoma, Wash., April 2, 1894, Ellie J. Fife. Address: Alameda, Calif.

KNOWLES, Edward Randall:

Journalist and author; born at North Providence, R. I., Jan. 10, 1861; son of Edward P. and Alice (Randall) Knowles. He was graduated from Princeton University, A.B., 1881, and received from the Arkansas Normal College the degrees of Sc.D. and LL.D. in 1901. He is a litterateur, journalist, author and publicist, is author of: The Supremacy of The Spiritual, The True Christian Science, Songs of The Life Eternal, Ecce Regnum and other poems, and The Deific Life. He is commander of the Ottoman order of Medjidieh, commander of the Venezuelan Order of the Liberator, corresponding fellow of the Royal Society of Geography of Lisbon, and a member of many learned societies. He married, in Boston, Dec. 16, 1879, Jennie Earl of Providence; and they have had five children (one now deceased). Address: Taunton, Mass.

KNOWLES, William Hyer:

Banker; born in Pensacola, Fla., Dec. 27, 1857; son of Peter and Josephine (Hyer) Knowles. He attended Pensacola's private schools and the University of the South, at Sewanee, Tenn., and has been connected with banks as clerk and officer ever since leaving school. He is president of the First National Bank of Pensacola, of the Pensacola Investment Company, and of Knowles Brothers, and is one of the managing directors of the Pensacola Lumber Company. He is an Independent Democrat, an Episcopalian, a Mason, Knight Templar and Shriner. His favorite recreation is golf. Mr. Knowles is a member of the Army and Navy and Lawyers' Clubs of New York City, and of the Osceola and Pensacola Country Clubs of Pensacola. He married in Newbern, N. C., Nov. 24, 1885, Mary Daves Ellis (eldest daughter of Governor John W. Ellis, who was governor of North Carolina in 1860), and they have five children. Residence: "Harbourview," Pensacola. Office: First National Bank, Pensacola, Fla.

KNOWLTON, Marcus Perrin:

Chief justice of Massachusetts; born in Wilbraham, Mass., Feb. 3, 1839; son of Merrick and Fatima (Perrin) Knowlton. He attended Monson Academy, was graduated from Yale, A.B., 1860, and the degree of LL.D. was conferred upon him by Yale University in 1895 and by Harvard University in 1900. He practised law in Springfield, Mass., 1862-1881, was justice of the Superior Court, 1881-1887, associate justice of the Supreme Judicial Court, 1887-1902, and chief justice of the Supreme Judicial Court since 1902. He was director of the Springfield and New London Railroad Company, and of the City National Bank of Springfield, was trustee of the Springfield Institution for Savings and is director of the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company. He was president of the Common Council of Springfield, 1872-1873; member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, 1878; and of the Massachusetts Senate, 1880-1881. He is a Republican and Unitarian. He was formerly trustee and treasurer of Springfield City Hospital and is now director of the City Library Association; member of the Phi Beta Kappa Society, and a member of the Union Club of Boston and of the Nayasset and Country Clubs of Springfield. Mr. Knowlton has twice married: first in Springfield, Mass., July 18, 1867, Sophia

Ritchie; second, May 21, 1891, Rose M. Ladd, and he has two children, Marcus L. Knowlton and Elizabeth Knowlton. Residence: Springfield, Mass. Official address: Court House, Boston.

KNOX, Plander Chase:

Secretary of State; born in Brownsville, Pa., May 6, 1853; son of David S. and Rebekah (Page) Knox. He was graduated from Mt. Union College, Ohio, in 1872, was admitted to the bar in 1875, and in 1876-1877 occupied his first and only public office until he became attorney-general of the United States. He was for that year assistant U. S. district attorney for the Western Division of Pennsylvania, resigning in 1877 to form with James H. Reed, Esq., the law firm of Knox & Reed, which came to represent the interests of many of the large industrial corporations of Pittsburgh, including the great Carnegie Steel Company. In 1901, upon the earnest solicitation of the President, and in view of the very great questions affecting the corporate interests which were impending, Mr. Knox left private life and accepted a position in President McKinley's Cabinet. During the succession of President Roosevelt, the question of the operations of the so-called trusts under the Federal statutes on the subject became still more advanced, and it was Senator Knox's part as attorney-general to prepare the groundwork of the successive processes taken before the greatest judicial tribunal of the country, for the purpose of determining how far the great aggregations of capital referred to were within the law, and how far, if at all, encroachments had been made upon the common rights of the people. While in the midst of the successful prosecutions and inquiries and court proceedings involved, a senatorship from Pennsylvania became vacant by the death of Senator Matthew Stanley Quay, and the attorney-general of the United States was appointed by the Governor of Pennsylvania to fill the vacancy, taking his seat in the Senate at the beginning of the second session of the Fifty-eighth Congress and being elected to serve a full term by the Pennsylvania Legislature of 1905. In the Pennsylvania Republican Convention of 1907 Senator Knox was declared to be Pennsylvania's choice for the Republican nomination for President, and he was one of those prominent before the National Convention of 1908, and after the election of President Taft, Senator Knox was so strongly urged to become secretary of State in the new administration that he resigned his seat in the Senate to accept that position. One of the most conspicuous arguments on the subject of railroad rate regulation was made by Senator Knox, whose constitutional argument in the spring of 1906 has taken its place among the notable exemplifications of the fundamental document of the United States Government. He is a member of the Lawyers' and Union League Clubs of New York, of the Duquesne and Americus Clubs of Pittsburgh, having been president of the Duquesne for three years, and is also a member of the Lawyers' Club of Philadelphia. Home address: Pittsburgh. Official address: Department of State, Washington, D. C.

KOBBE, George C.:

Lawyer; born in New York City, Sept. 27, 1852; son of William August (born in Duchy of Nassau, Germany; many years Nassovian consul-general of the United States) and Sarah Lord (Sistare) Kobbé (born in New London, Conn.). He was graduated from the schools of art, Columbia College, A.B., 1874, Law School of Columbia College, LL.B., 1876, and in the same year was admitted to the bar. He is now in active practice and is a member of the firm of Roosevelt and Kobbé; president and director of the Brooklyn Bridge Freezing and Cold Storage Company; director of the Harrison Street Cold Storage Company, and United States Casualty Company. He is a member of the Society of Colonial Wars in the State of New Jersey, Sons of Revolution in the State of New York, the Union, St. Anthony, Down Town and Baltusrol Golf Clubs. Mr. Kobbé married Alice, daughter of Henry S. Leavitt, of New York, and they have five children. Residence: 109 East 29th Street. Office: 44-46 Wall Street, New York City.

KOBBÉ Gustav:

Author, journalist; born in New York City, March 4, 1857; son of William August and Sarah Lord (Sistare) Kobbé. He attended the public schools of New York City, and of Wiesbaden, Germany, and was graduated from Columbia College, A.B. in 1877, A.M., 1879, and Columbia Law School, LL.B. in 1879. He began in journalism as one of the editors of Musical Review until 1881; on staff of New York Sun, 1881-1882; sent to Bayreuth in the summer of 1882, by the New York World, as correspondent at the production of Parsifal; and after a few years of newspaper work, he became a magazine contributor. He wrote for The Century an article on Life on the South Shoals Lightship, and five articles in The Heroes of Peace series; also many articles on music and drama to that magazine, Scribner's, The Forum, North American Review, and other magazines. He is author of: Signora, a Child of the Opera House; Miriam, a Story of the Lightship; Some Famous Actors and Actresses in Their Homes; Opera Singers; Wagner's Life and Works (two volumes); Wagner's Music Dramas Analyzed; Wagner and His Isolde; Loves of the Great Composers; How to Appreciate Music; Famous American Songs; The Pianolist; and My Rosary, and Other Poems. He married in 1882, Carolyn, daughter of George Minor Wheeler, of Scarsdale, N. Y., and they have five children. Address: New York Herald, New York City.

KOBBÉ, Walter:

Dry goods merchant; born in New York City, Aug. 1, 1850; son of William A. and Sarah Lord (Sistare) Kobbé. He was educated in the Columbia Grammar School, and at Wiesbaden, Prussia, and Bonn-on-the-Rhine. He has been thirty years in the dry goods commission business; has made ninety-eight crossings to Europe, being one of the oldest regular European travelers; has visited all principal countries of Europe, and for twenty-two years made four crossings a year. He is resident partner and head of the New York house of C. J. Bonnet, Kobbé and Company, American branch of Les Petits fils de C. J. Bonnet and Company, Lyons, France, manufacturer of the widely known Bonnet silks. He was for eleven years member of Company K, Seventh Regiment; resigned as first lieutenant and acting captain; has honor medal decoration. He is a member of the Holland Lodge of Masons; and of the Union and Merchants' Clubs and president of the Central Club. He married Elizabeth W., daughter of V. Munford Moore. Address: 412 West End Avenue, New York City.

KOBBÉ, William A.:

Major-general, U. S. Army, retired; born in New York City, May 10, 1840; son of William A. and Sarah Lord (Sistare) Kobbé. He attended the common schools of New York, took a collegiate course in Germany, and a course of mining engineering at the academies of Freiberg and Clausthal, Germany, and later was graduated from the U. S. Artillery School. He enlisted as a private in the volunteer service in 1862; served through the Civil War until discharged as captain of the 178th New York Volunteers, March 1, 1866; appointed to the regular service, March 17, 1866, serving on the frontier until 1872, when he was transferred to Artillery and to the sea coast. As major of the Third Artillery, he was ordered to the Philippines in command of a battalion of that regiment and served throughout the Philippine Insurrection. He was appointed brigadier-general of Volunteers and later promoted to brigadier-general, U. S. Army; was military governor and commanding the Department of Mindanao and Jolo until Sept., 1901; then commanding the Department of Dakota until Jan., 1904, when he was promoted major-general, and retired Jan. 4, 1904. He was instructor in military science in the U. S. Artillery School, 1885-1896. General Kobbé is a member of the California Academy of Sciences. He married in Fort Leavenworth, Kan., June 26, 1867, Isabella, daughter of Major-General William Hoffman, and they have four children. Address: Care of War Department, Washington, D. C.

KOHLSAAT, Christian Cecil:

U. S. Circuit judge; born at Albion, Ill., Jan. 8, 1844; son of Reimer and Sarah (Hall) Kohlsaat. He was educated in the public schools of Galena, Ill., and in the old University of Chicago; studied law and acted as law reporter for the Chicago Journal; served as one of the clerks in the County Court of Cook County, Ill., and was admitted to the bar. He practised law in Chicago and took an active part in politics as a Republican; and was the Republican nominee for County judge of Cook County in 1881. He was appointed by Governor Shelby M. Cullom a member of the Board of West Park Commissioners in 1880 and served until elected, in 1890, on the Republican ticket, as probate judge of Cook County, in which office he distinguished himself, not only by judicial ability, but also by his fostering care of the estates under the direction of his court. He was continued in this office by reëlections in 1884 and 1888, but resigned in 1899 upon his appointment by President McKinley to the office of judge of the U. S. Court for the Northern District of Illinois, from which he was promoted by President Roosevelt, in March, 1905, to his present office as judge of the U. S. Circuit Court for the Seventh Circuit. Judge Kohlsaat is a member and ex-president of the Union League Club. He married, in 1871, Frances Smith. Residence: 239 Ashland Boulevard. Office: Federal Building, Chicago.

KOHLSAAT, Herman Henry:

Capitalist, publisher; born at Albion, Edwards County, Ill., March 22, 1853; son of Reimer Kohlsaat (native of Germany) and Sarah (Hall) Kohlsaat, native of England. The family removed from Albion to Galena, Ill., and he was educated in the public schools there until 1865, and after that in the Chicago public schools. He worked as a boy in a dry-goods establishment, then became traveling salesman for a wholesale baker until 1880, when he established in business for himself in the same line, also starting bakery lunch rooms of high grade in various locations in Chicago, now conducted by H. H. Kohlsaat & Company, Incorporated. Of these he made a great business success, and he also acquired valuable real estate interests. He had a controlling interest in the Chicago Inter-Ocean, 1891-1893, became owner and publisher of the Chicago Times-Herald in 1894 and continued with its successor, the Record-Herald, until 1902, and also owner of the Chicago Evening Post, 1894-1901. In 1891, he presented the city of Galena with a statue of General Grant, who was long a citizen of that place. Mr. Kohlsaat was a delegate to the National Republican Conventions of 1888, 1892 and 1896. Address: 120 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.

KOLLEN, Gerrit J.:

College president; born in the Netherlands, Aug. 9, 1843; son of Gerrit J. Kollen and Egberdina (Scholten) Kollen. He was graduated from Hope College, A.B., 1868, A.M. in 1871, and received the honorary degree of LL.D. from Rutgers College in 1894. He was appointed assistant professor, 1871, professor, 1878, and has been president since 1893 of Hope College, at Holland, Mich. He has been director of the First State Bank of Holland, Mich., since 1892. In politics he is a Republican and is a member of the Reformed Church in America. He was knighted with the order of Orange Nassau by Queen Wilhelmina in 1906; and he is a member of the Board of Education of the Reformed Church in America. Dr. Kollen married in Holland, Mich., in 1879, Mary W. Van Raalte, who died in 1905, and he has one daughter. Address: Holland, Mich.

KONKLE, Burton Alva:

Author and historian; born in Albion, Ind., April 25, 1861; son of Simon Kenton and Cornelia G. (Andrews) Konkle. He was educated in Albion High School, Lake Forest (Ill.) College, 1882-1887, McCormick Theological Seminary, 1889-1892, University of Chicago, 1896, and received the honorary degree of A.M. in 1908. He was teacher, instructor and principal of schools, 1876-1881, and 1883-1884; writer of sketches and short stories, editor; organizer of mission work in the McCormick Theological Seminary, 1889-1892; ordained Presbyterian minister by the Chicago Presbytery, 1894; pastor in a suburb there in 1893, and in Georgetown, Colo., 1894. His health failing, he became a writer and editor at Philadelphia, 1897; organizer and director of the historical work of the Pennsylvania State Bar Association, 1900-1902; special writer for the Ledger, Press, Legal Intelligence and other publications; author of the original Pennsylvania State Archives Act, 1903; special lecturer at Swarthmore College, 1907-1908; is the only layman who ever addressed the Law Academy of Philadelphia, the most ancient legal society in America. He suggested, and was chairman of the committee of organization of the Pennsylvania History Club, a society of authors, 1908. He was the originator, organizer and secretary of the James Wilson Memorial, a national event at Philadelphia in Nov., 1906, and his address on "James Wilson and the Constitution," which, as the annual address before the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, was the opening address in the series of events constituting that memorial. It was also delivered before and published by the Law Academy of Philadelphia in 1907. He is author of: The Life and Times of Thomas Smith (1745-1809), a Pennsylvania Member of the Continental Congress, 1904; The Life and Speeches of Thomas Williams (1806-1872), a Founder of the Whig and Republican Parties (two volumes), 1905; Life of Chief Justice Ellis Lewis (1798-1871), of the First Elective Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, 1907; and has in preparation similar publications concerning the lives and times of William Wilkins, James Wilson (seven volumes), and David Lloyd. He has written for The Outlook (New York), The Interior (Chicago), and other periodicals. The students' missionary organization, which he worked out in the McCormick Seminary was, in 1896, recommended to all seminaries by the Inter-Seminary Missionary Alliance of the World. He is a member and councillor of the Pennsylvania History Club; member of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, American Historical Association, American Academy of Political and Social Science, New York Alumni Association of Lake Forest College, and from its graduation has been secretary of the class of 1892 of McCormick Theological Seminary. He married in Chicago, June 28, 1900, Susie Montague Ferry, and they have one daughter. Address: Swarthmore, Pa.

KONTI, Isidore:

Sculptor; born in Vienna, Austria, July 9, 1862; son of Ignatz Lajos Konti. At the age of fifteen he entered the Imperial Academy of Arts in Vienna and obtained a scholarship enabling him to study in Italy, where he pursued his studies in Rome, Florence, Naples and Venice. In 1891 he came to the United States, making his home in Chicago. He assisted in the execution of some groups for the Agricultural and Administrative Buildings of the World's Columbian Exposition. In 1893 he settled in New York City. Among his works are the group "West Indies," and the spandrels "North" and "East" Rivers for the Dewey Arch, the Soldiers' Memorial, Syracuse, N. Y.; group for the Temple of Music and the esplanade, Pan-American Exposition; the two side cascades of the great fountain at the St. Louis Exposition, for which he was awarded a gold medal, besides a special gold medal; a number of ideal figures and groups, such as "Inspiration," "The Brook," a fountain executed in marble in Greystone, Yonkers, "The Despotie Age," in the Metropolitan Museum of Art; "Orpheus," "The Awakening of Spring," have been shown in exhibitions throughout the United States. Mr. Konti is vice-president of the National Sculpture Society. He is a member of the Architectural League, and the Salmagundi Club, also a director of the Municipal Art Society. Mr. Konti was elected associate to the National Academy of Design in 1906, and academician in 1909. Among his important later works are the McKinley monument in Philadelphia, executed after the sketch by the late Charles Lopez; figures of Justinian and Alfred the Great for the Court House in Cleveland, a Frieze of festival procession for the Gainsborough Studios in New York, group representing South America, and a historical relief for the International Bureau of the American Republics Building, Washington. He has designed commemorative and other medals. Address: 292 Riverside Avenue, Yonkers, N. Y.

KOOPMAN, Harry Lyman:

Librarian; born in Freeport, Me., July 1, 1860; son of Charles Frederick and Mary Brewer (Mitchell) Koopman. He was graduated from the Freeport High School, 1876, from Colby College, A.B., 1880, A.M., 1883, and from Harvard University, A.M., 1893. He was assistant in the Astor Library, New York City, 1881-1882; cataloguer at Cornell University Library, 1883-1884, at Columbia University Library, 1884-1885, at Rutgers College Library, 1885-1886, at the University of Vermont Library, 1886-1892; was a graduate student in English at Harvard University, 1892-1893, and has been librarian of Brown University since 1893, and professor of bibliography since 1908 in Brown University. He is author of: Orestes and Other Poems, 1888; Woman's Will, with Other Poems, 1888; Mastery of Books, 1896; Morrow Songs, 1898; Catalogue of the Marsh Library, University of Vermont, 1892; Historical Catalogue of Brown University, 1895; At the Gates of the Century, 1905; The Librarian of the Desert, and Other Poems, 1908. He is a fellow of the American Library Institute, and a member of the Rhode Island Historical Society, the Boston Society of Printers, the American Library Association, and the Rhode Island Library Association (president, 1904-1907), Barnard Library Club and Massachusetts Library Club (president, 1900-1901). Mr. Koopman married in Burlington, Vt., June 27, 1889, Helene Luise Mayser, and they have two children. Residence: 57 East Manning Street. Office: Brown University Library, Providence, R. I.

KOPLIK, Henry:

Physician; born in New York City, Oct. 28, 1858. He was graduated from the College of the City of New York, A.B., 1878, and from Columbia University, M.D., 1881. During the year 1885-1886 he traveled, attending European clinics; attending physician of the Good Samaritan Dispensary, New York City, 1886-1900, and of Mount Sinai Hospital since 1900. Dr. Koplik was the discoverer of an early sign in measles by which the disease is recognized before the eruption appears on the body (now known to the medical world as "Koplik's Spots"); and he also discovered a bacillus which causes whooping cough. He first established milk depots for the distribution of sterilized milk from medical dispensaries for the poor, in 1890. He is a member of the Association of American Physicians, the New York Academy of Medicine, the American Pediatric Society, of which he was at one time president, and of the New York County Medical Society. His specialty is the diseases of infancy and childhood. He is the author of: Diseases of Infancy and Childhood. He married, in 1902, Stephanie Schiele. Address: 30 East 62d Street, New York City.

KOST, Frederick W.:

Landscape artist; born in New York City. He was educated in the public schools and studied art in the schools of the National Academy of Design in New York City. He received honorable mention in the Paris Exposition of 1900, and was elected an academicien of the National Academy of Design in 1906. He is a member of the Artists' Fund Society, the Society of Landscape Painters, and the Brooklyn Society of Arts and Crafts. Residence: 558 Fifth Avenue. Studio: 146 West 55th Street, New York City.

KRACKE, Frederick John Henry:

Naval officer, Port of New York, merchant; born in New York City, July 11, 1868; son of Henry and Henrietta (Hoffman) Kracke. He was educated at the public schools and Collegiate High School, New York City; is produce merchant in Washington Market, under his own name; also in granite construction for cemetery and memorial purposes. He was formerly assistant commissioner of agriculture of the State of New York for ten years. Mr. Kracke is a member of the Republican State Executive Committee and General Committee; also of the Executive Committee of the Kings County Republican Committee. He has represented the State of New York in National Agricultural Conventions by commission from various governors in States from Maine to California, and South to Texas. He is president of the Tayntor Construction Company; director of the Tayntor Granite Company; also director in several other financial and commercial institutions. Mr. Kracke is a member of the New York Mercantile Exchange, Maritime Exchange, Kings County Masonic Lodge, Clinton Commandery, Knights Templar, Mystic Shrine; Patrons of Husbandry (Granger); also of the Union League, Midwood, Cortelyou, Jolly Mariners, Mercantile, Roosevelt, and Republican Clubs; also associate member of Grant Post, Grand Army of the Republic. He is a widower, married in Brooklyn, 1890, to Florence Tayntor, and has two children. Address: 11 Kenmore Place, Brooklyn, N. Y.

KRANS, Horatio Sheafe:

Editor and author; born in Boston, Dec. 9, 1872; son of Rev. Edward H. and Charlotte (Sheafe) Krans. He was educated in private schools, and Columbia University, A.B. and Ph.D. Mr. Krans is engaged in literary work for magazines and reviews and in editorial work; and is literary adviser to G. P. Putnam's Sons, in New York City. He is author of: Irish Life in Irish Fiction, 1903 (Macmillan); William Butler Yeats and the Irish Literary Revival (Contemporary Men of Letters Series, 1904) (McClure, Phillips and Company); Oliver Goldsmith: A Critical Biography (in Volume I of The Turk's Head edition of The Works of Oliver Goldsmith, published by G. P. Putnam's Sons), 1907; and is editor of the American section of The World's Wit and Humor (ten volumes), Review of Reviews Company; of George Withers' Christmas Carol, with Introduction, 1907 (Putnam); The Lincoln Tribute Book (Putnam, 1909); and of English Love Poems (Putnam, 1909). Address: Care G. P. Putnam's Sons, 27 West 23d Street, New York City.

KRAUSS, William C.:

Physician; born in Attica, N. Y., Oct. 15, 1863. He was graduated from Attica Union School in 1880 (valedictorian); Cornell University, B.S., in 1884, with two-year certificate of extra work done in medical preparatory course; and from Bellevue Hospital Medical College, M.D., in 1886 (second in honor class); studied in European universities, 1886-1889 (M.D., summa cum laude, Berlin, 1888). He has practised medicine in Buffalo since 1890, confining his work to diseases of the mind and nervous system. He was professor of pathology, 1890-1895; professor of nervous diseases since 1895, of the Medical Department of the Niagara University; and he delivered a course of lectures at Cornell University in 1890. Dr. Krauss is associate editor of the Buffalo Medical Journal, and contributor to other American and European medical journals, and author of over one hundred scientific papers; is editor of a Text-Book on Insanity; fellow of the Royal Microscopical Society of London and of the American Neurological Association. He is a member of the American Microscopical Society (secretary, 1895, president, 1898). Buffalo Microscopical Society (president, 1892-1893), New York State Medical Society, Medical Association of Central New York (president, 1897); Lake Erie Medical Society, Erie County Medical Society (president, 1904); was one of the founders in 1892 of the Buffalo Academy of Medicine (secretary for several years); member of the Buffalo Obstetrical Society (secretary, 1890-1892); neurologist to the Erie County Hospital, Buffalo General Hospital, and Asylum and Hospital Sisters of St. Francis; president of the Board of Managers of the Buffalo State Hospital; medical superintendent of the Providence Retreat. Dr. Krauss is a member of the Buffalo Association of Cornell Alumni, and of the Medical, Buffalo, and University Clubs. He married in Salamanca, N. Y., Sept. 4, 1890, Clara Krieger.

Address: 479 Delaware Avenue, Buffalo, N. Y.

KREHBIEL, Henry Edward:

Editor, musical critic, lecturer; born in Ann Arbor, Mich., March 10, 1854; son of Rev. J. and Anna Maria Elizabeth (Haake) Krehbiel. He was educated in the public schools of Ohio. Was musical critic for the Cincinnati Gazette, 1874-1880, and for the New York Tribune, since Nov., 1880. He was a member of the International Jury of the Exposition Universelle at Paris in 1900 (musical section), and is of the Beethoven Haus Verein at Bonn, Germany; decorated by France with the Cross of the Légion d'Honneur (Chevalier), Jan., 1901. Mr. Krehbiel was editor of the Musical Review of New York City, 1880-1881. He is the author of: An Account of the Fourth Musical Festival held at Cincinnati, 1880; Notes on the Cultivation of Choral Music, 1884; Review of the New York Musical Season (five volumes, 1885-1890); Studies in the Wagnerian Drama, 1891; The Philharmonic Society of New York, a Memorial, 1892; How to Listen to Music, 1897; Music and Manners in the Classical Period in 1898. He was the reviser and continuator of Lavignac's Music and Musicians in 1877; editor and translator of The Technics of Violin Playing (Courvoisier), in 1880; translator and annotator of Mozart, The Man and Musician; Beethoven, The Man and Musician (Kerst), in 1905; American editor of Grove's Dictionary of Music and Musicians (second edition); also consulting editor of Music of the Modern World. He is a member of the Authors' Club. He married, first, at Birmingham, Conn., in 1877, Helen Virginia Osborne; second, at Brooklyn, in 1896, Marie Van, and he has one daughter. He spends his summers at Blue Hill, Me. Address: 152 West 105th Street, New York City.

KROEZE, Barend H.:

President of Whitworth College; born in Kampen, the Netherlands, in 1869; son of Henry J. and Nellie (De Brink) Kroeze. He was educated in Grand Rapids High School, was graduated from the University of Michigan, A.B., 1894; did graduate work in 1895, attended McCormick Theological Seminary, 1895-1898; was a graduate student in the University of Chicago in 1901, and received the degrees of A.M. from Lenox College, 1904, and of D.D. from Coe College, 1906. He was pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church, Austin, Minn.; was called to the vice-presidency of Lenox College, and after three years' service there was called to the presidency of Whitworth College, Tacoma, Wash. While a student in the University of Michigan he was secretary of the Tappan Presbyterian Association. He is a member of the Holland Society of Washington and is a Mason. President Kroeze married in Preston, Minn., Nov. 30, 1904, Nettie Muzetta Gray, and they have one son. Residence: 3722 North Proctor Street. Office: Whitworth College, Tacoma, Wash.

KROUT, Mary Hannah:

Journalist and author; born in Crawfordsville, Ind.; daughter of Robert Kennedy and Caroline Van Cleve (Brown) Krout. Her maternal grandfather was Professor Ryland T. Brown, professor of natural sciences in Butler College, Indianapolis, and State geologist of Indiana; her paternal great-great-grandfather, Thomas Kennedy, was one of the first settlers of Kentucky and one of five men chosen by Washington to locate the capital of that State. She was educated at home and in private schools, engaged in journalism and was ten years on the staff of the Chicago Inter-Ocean. She was correspondent in Hawaii in 1893, in Australia and New Zealand, 1894, and in London, 1895-1898; represented a syndicate of eight leading papers in China, 1899-1900; returned to Australia and New Zealand, 1906; writing and traveling in Hawaii, 1907-1908. She delivered a course of lectures on Asiatic Geography in New York, 1901-1902; course of lectures in Australia on American political institutions, and in New Zealand, on American customs and home life; and delivered lectures in Honolulu on English writers, Jan., 1907, and Oct., 1908. Miss Krout is an honorary member of the Historical Society of Hawaii, a Daughter of the Revolution and a member of the Chicago Woman's Club. She is also an honorary member of the Woman's Club of Sydney, N. S. W., and of the Sandringham Club of London. She is author of: Hawaii and a Revolution, 1898; Alice in the Hawaiian Islands, 1899; A Looker-on in London, 1900; Two Girls in China, 1901; completed Biography of General Lew Wallace, 1905; Memoirs of Bernice Pauahi Bishop, 1908. Address: 218 West College Street, Crawfordsville, Ind.

KRUSE, Frederick W.:

Judge; born June 25, 1852, in Germany, and brought to this country when one year old. He received his education in the common schools and at Griffith Institute, Springville, N. Y. He worked on farms, in factory, and in a store, and at the age of seventeen taught school. In 1877 he was admitted to the bar and practised law in Arcade and Olean, N. Y. He was a member of the New York Assembly, 1884-1887, and a member of various State commissions. In 1887 he was member of a commission to revise the general excise laws, and in 1895 of a commission to prepare charters for third class cities. In 1890 he was special commissioner to investigate the Federal census frauds, and reenumerated the city of Minneapolis. He was county judge of Cattaraugus County, 1897-1900. Governor Roosevelt appointed him justice of the Supreme Court, Jan. 1, 1900; and in Nov., 1900, he was elected to the full term expiring Dec. 31, 1914. He was assigned to the Appellate Division, Fourth Department, in Jan., 1906, where he is still serving. He married, in 1878, Julia V. Engle. Address: Olean, N. Y.

KUHNE, Percival H.:

Banker; born in New York City, April 6, 1861; son of Frederick and Ellen Josephine (Miller) Kuhne. He is descended from an ancient German family, who trace their ancestry back to famous landed proprietors in Madgeburg and the vicinity of that famous city. He was educated in the College of the City of New York and the University of Leipzig, Germany. He returned to New York and entered his father's banking house, and, on the death of the latter in 1890, became head of the firm. He is trustee of the Colonial Trust Company, the Lincoln Safe Deposit Company, trustee and member of the finance committee of the Citizens' Savings Bank, a member of the Chamber of Commerce, vice-president and director of the Regina Music Box Company, and director of the Aetna Indemnity Company, the Mutual Alliance Trust Company and of the Palisades Trust and Guarantee Company of Englewood, N. J. Mr. Kuhne is a member of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the New York Botanical Garden, the New York Zoological Garden, and of the Union, Metropolitan, Union League, Calumet and Down Town Clubs of New York City. He married, Jan. 31, 1893, Lillian B. Kerr. Residence: 7 East 78th Street. Office: 15 William Street, New York City.

KUNZ, George Frederick:

Gem expert; born in New York City, Sept. 29, 1856; son of J. G. and Maria Ida (Widmer) Kunz. He was educated in the public schools and Cooper Union, New York; and he has received the degrees of A.M. from Columbia 1898, Ph.D. from the University of Marburg, 1903; D.Sc. Knox College, 1907. He is president of the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society, president of the New York Mineralogical Club; late vice-president of the American Institute of Mining Engineers; was juror of the Nashville Exposition; special agent of the U. S. Geological Survey, 1882-1909; honorary curator of precious stones in the American Museum of Natural History; honorary member of the Uralian Natural History Society of the Ural Mountains. He is third vice-president and gem expert of Tiffany and Company. He is chevalier of the Légion d'Honneur of France, and officier d'Instruction Publique de France; honorary member of the Chamber of Commerce of Precious Stones, Paris, honorary member of the Columbia Alumni Association, member American Institute Mining Engineers, fellow New York Academy of Sciences; and American Association for the Advancement of Science; juror of the Jamestown Exposition of 1907; member of the Metropolitan Museum of Art; Knight of St. Olaf of Norway; chairman Honorary Committee Berlin Exposition of 1910; Chairman Subcommittee on Scientific and Historical Exhibits, Hudson-Fulton Celebration Commission; Vice-President New York City History Club; Fellow of Geological Society of America; Juror Nashville Exposition of 1898; Senior Editor "Book of the Pearl." Dr. Kunz is a member of the Century Association and of the Union League, Grolier, National Arts, and Mineralogical Clubs. He married in New York, Oct. 29, 1881, Sophia Leore Handforth, and they have two daughters. Residence: 601 Cathedral Parkway. Office: 401 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

L

LACEY, Edward Samuel:

Banker; born in Chili, N. Y., Nov. 26, 1835; son of Edward D. and Martha C. (Pixley) Lacey. He was taken by his parents to Eaton County, Mich., in 1842, and was educated in the public schools and Olivet College. After leaving college he was in business pursuits at Kalamazoo, Mich., until 1857, when he removed to Charlotte, Mich., was register of deeds there, 1860-1864; engaged in private banking, 1859-1871, when the bank was reorganized as the First National Bank of Charlotte, of which he was at first cashier and afterward president. He was interested in the building of the Grand River Railroad in 1868. Mr. Lacey was elected the first mayor of Charlotte in 1871; trustee of the Michigan Asylum for the Insane, 1874-1880; delegate to the Republican National Convention, 1876; Chairman of the Republican State Central Committee of Michigan, 1882-1884; elected in 1880, from the Third District of Michigan to the Forty-seventh Congress, and re-elected to the Forty-eighth Congress in 1882, serving until 1885; candidate before the Republican Legislative Caucus for U. S. Senator, 1886. He was appointed controller of the currency by President Harrison in April, 1889, and resigned in 1892 to accept the presidency of the newly organized Bankers' National Bank of Chicago, in which position he has ever since continued. Mr. Lacey married, Jan. 1, 1861, Annette C., daughter of Hon. Joseph Musgrave of Charlotte, Mich., and they have two daughters and a son. Residence: Evanston, Ill. Office: Bankers' National Bank, Marquette Building, Chicago.

LACEY, John Fletcher:

Ex-congressman and lawyer; born at New Martinsville, Va., (now W. Va.), May 30, 1841; removed to Iowa in 1855. He enlisted in Company H, Third Iowa Infantry, in May, 1861, and afterwards served as a private in Company D, Thirty-third Iowa Infantry, as sergeant-major, and as lieutenant in Company C of that regiment; was promoted to assistant adjutant-general on the staff of Brigadier-General Samuel A. Rice, and after that officer was killed in battle was assigned to duty on the staff of Major-General Frederick Steele. He served in the Iowa Legislature one term, in 1870; was temporary chairman of the Iowa Republican Convention, 1898; served one term in the City Council and one term as city solicitor of Oskaloosa. He is a lawyer and author of Lacey's Railway Digest. He served as a representative from the Sixth Iowa District in the Fifty-first Congress, 1889-1891 and from the Fifty-third to the Fifty-ninth Congresses, 1893-1907. After leaving Congress he resumed the practice of law and has taken a prominent part in many important cases, notably in cases brought under the land laws. He took a prominent part in the Republican campaign of 1908. Address: Oskaloosa, Iowa.

LACEY, John Wesley:

Lawyer; born in Randolph County, Ind., Oct. 13, 1848; son of Rev. Henry J. Lacey, Methodist clergyman, and of Elizabeth (Thompson) Lacey. He was graduated from De Pauw University, 1871; studied law in offices; was admitted to the bar in 1876, and practised at Marion, Ind., until 1884, when he was appointed by President Arthur chief justice of the Territory of Wyoming, holding that office until 1886, when he resumed practice at Cheyenne. Judge Lacey is a Republican, and is a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church; and was a delegate to the General Conference of that church in 1888. He married at Marion, Ind., Oct. 10, 1878, Elizabeth Van Deventer. Address: Cheyenne, Wyo.

LACHMAN, Samson:

Lawyer; born in New York City, May 2, 1855; son of Samuel and Babette (Hirsch) Lachman. He was graduated from the College of the City of New York as A.B. He is engaged in the practice of law in New York City and is now a member of the firm of Lachman and Goldsmith. He was justice of the District Court of the Sixth District of New York City, 1888-1894. Judge Lachman is a member of the New York Bar Association, the American Historical Society, the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, the Law Institute, and the Phi Beta Kappa Society; a fellow of the American Geographical Society, and a trustee of the Aguilar Free Library. He is also a member of the Harmonic, Lawyers', and City College Clubs of New York City. He is a Democrat in politics. Address: 313 West 106th Street, New York City.

LACOMBE, Emile Henry:

Jurist; born in New York City, Jan. 29, 1846; son of Emile H. and Elizabeth E. (Smith) Lacombe. He was educated in Columbia Grammar School, Columbia College, A.B., with honors, 1863; Columbia Law School, LL.B. (prize essay on Constitutional Law), 1865; and received the LL.D. degree from Columbia in 1891. He was engaged in the private practice of his profession until appointed to a position in the City Law Department in 1875. He rose through various grades and was appointed corporation counsel in 1884, and July 1, 1887, he was appointed by President Cleveland to his present position as U. S. Circuit Judge. Judge Lacombe was a member of the Seventh Regiment, National Guards of New York, 1862-1869; and was present with the regiment at Baltimore and Frederick City, 1862-1863. He is a member of the University, Metropolitan, Delta Phi and Richmond County Country Clubs. He married in 1873, Elizabeth Tyron, who is now deceased, and he has two children. Residence: Coxsackie, N. Y. Office: United States Circuit Court, New York City.

LADD, George Edgar:

Geologist, metallurgist, educator; born in Haverhill, Mass., July 23, 1864; son of George W. and Eliza A. (Priest) Ladd. He was educated in Dummer Academy, Byfield, Mass., Harvard University, A.B., 1887, A.M., 1888, Ph.D., 1894, and University of Munich, Bavaria. He was employed as a geologist on the United States Geological Survey, Texas Geological Survey, Missouri Geological Survey, and Georgia Geological Survey; was superintendent of the Massachusetts Mineral Exhibit in the World's Columbian Expedition, Chicago, 1893; superintendent of the Missouri Mining and Metallurgical Exhibit in the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, St. Louis, 1904. He was director and professor of mining and geology in the Missouri School of Mines and Metallurgy, at Rolla, Mo., 1897-1907, and made this school one of the foremost of its kind in the world. Dr. Ladd is now president of the Oklahoma School of Mines and Metallurgy, at Wilburton, Okla. He is also president of the Midnight Mining Company; manager of Engineering and Assaying. Office: Joplin, Mo., and manager of several mining companies. He is a member of the Geological Society of America, National Geographic Society, American Institute of Mining Engineers, Mining and Metallurgical Society of America, Association of Harvard Engineers, Society of Sons of the Revolution, Missouri Game Protective League, Theta Delta Xi and Tau Beta Pi fraternities and several commercial clubs and National Reform Associations. He married in Bradford, Mass., in May, 1889, Mary Oceana Hammond, and they have five sons and one daughter. Address: Wilburton, Okla.

LADD, Scott M.:

Jurist; born in Sharon, Wis., June 22, 1855; son of John and Sarah (Wilmarth) Ladd. He was educated in Beloit College, Wis., and Carthage College, Ill., and was graduated from the Scientific Department of the latter in 1879, and from the Law Department of the University of Iowa in 1881, locating in that year in the practice of law at Sheldon, Iowa. He became active in politics as a Republican, was elected district judge in 1887, and since 1897 has been on the Supreme bench of Iowa as associate justice. Address: Sheldon, Iowa.

LADEW, Edward R.:

Manufacturer; born in New York City, Feb. 18, 1855; son of the late Harvey Smith Laden. He was educated in Charlier Institute and Anthon Grammar School and after leaving school became his father's partner in the firm of J. B. Hoyt and Company, afterwards Fayerweather and Ladew, manufacturers of leather, of which he is senior partner. He is also vice-president of the United States Leather Company. Mr. Ladew is a member of the Chamber of Commerce and of the Union League, Lawyers', Carteret Gun, New York Yacht, Larchmont Yacht, Lambs', Salmagundi, Riding and Driving, Collie and Liederkrantz Clubs. He married in 1886, Louise B. Wall, daughter of Charles Wall, of New York City. Residence: 3 East 67th Street. Office: 91 Liberty Street, New York City.

LA FARGE, Bance:

Artist, designer of cut glass windows and mural decorations; son of John and Margaret (Perry) LaFarge. He is a member of the Sons of the Revolution, Arch Mundy Society, the Century Association and St. Anthony Club. He married Mabel Hooper. Residence: 31 West 10th Street. Office: 51 West 10th Street, New York City.

LA FARGE, John:

Artist; born in New York City, March 31, 1835; and studied under Couture and William M. Hunt. He married Margaret Perry. Early paintings and mural works were largely religious subjects; his inventions in the making of stained glass windows have revolutionized the art; in this branch he has attained world-wide recognition. He has been an academician of the National Academy of Design, since 1869; is a member of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, Society of Mural Painters, American Fine Arts Society and an officer in the Legion d'Honneur of France. He is author of: Lectures on Art; Letters from Japan; Considerations on Painting; Great Masters, etc. Mr. La Farge is a member of the Century, Lotos, Grolier, Brooks, and Authors Clubs. Residence: Newport, R. I. Address: 51 West 10th Street, New York City.

LAFAYETTE-SAVAY, Norbert:

Lawyer and publicist, born in New Orleans, La., Nov. 27, 1874; son of Raphael and Louise (Lafayette) Savay; great-grandson of General Lafayette on mother's side. He was educated in the Universities of Vienna, Paris, Oxford and Yale, A.M., LL.B., D.C.L. He is a member of the firm of Atwater & Cruikshank; formerly personal counsel to Marcus Daly; corporation and mining lawyer for many prominent concerns during five years' successful practice in the West. He is author of: Theory and Practice; First Principle in Self-Government, emancipation, Theory of Progressive Government, etc. He is founder and executive of American Civil Alliance, a civic organization the membership of which includes many of the foremost men and women of the country. Mr. Lafayette-Savay fought for the liberation of Cuba, and was one of the aides to the late Gen. Maceo. He has lived in Russia, Germany, France and Switzerland and speaks eleven languages. He is a mountain climber; went to the top of Mont Blanc; climbed to the peaks of Caucasus and of the Himalayas; and is an athlete and all-round out-of-door sport. Address: 43 Cedar Street, New York City.

LAFEAN, Daniel Franklin:

Congressman and manufacturer; born in York, York County, Pa., Feb. 7, 1861. He was educated in the public and high schools of his native city. Mr. Lafean has been actively engaged in the manufacturing business upward of twenty years, being connected with a number of local manufacturing concerns, as well as president of the Security Title and Trust Company, a leading financial institution of Philadelphia; and is a director of the Gettysburg College and trustee of the Gettysburg Seminary of Gettysburg, Pa. He was tendered a unanimous Republican nomination and elected to the Fifty-eighth, Fifty-ninth, and Sixtieth Congresses and reelected to the Sixty-first Congress, from the Twentieth Pennsylvania District. He married, in 1882, Emma B. Krone, and they have three children. Address: York, Pa.

LAFFAN, William M.:

Editor of the New York Sun; born in Dublin, Ireland, Jan. 22, 1848; son of Michael and Ellen Sarah (Fitzgibbon) Laffan. He was educated by tutors and at H. T. Humphrey's School at Blackrock, French College at Booterstown, Dublin University and St. Cecilia's School of Medicine; artist to the Pathological Society of Dublin. He was newspaper reporter, managing editor of the San Francisco Bulletin, 1870; editor and half owner of the Daily Bulletin, Baltimore, and owner of the Baltimore Bulletin and Sunday Bulletin; general passenger agent of the Long Island Railroad; managing director of the Long Beach Improvement Company, and Eastern Steam Navigation Company. He became connected as general writer with The Sun in 1877; in 1881, 1882 and 1883, art editor of Harper Brothers, and agent in London of that house, 1881-1883; in 1884, elected publisher of the Sun. In 1887 he was elected trustee of the Sun Printing and Publishing Association, and in 1887 founded the Evening Sun. In 1900 he purchased the interests of the estate of Charles A. Dana in the Sun Printing and Publishing Association, and became its president; also vice-president of Lanston Monotype Company. He is a trustee of the Metropolitan Museum of Art and a member of the Arts Club of London, Chicago Club of Chicago, and the Union, New York Yacht, and Racquet and Tennis Clubs of New York City. He married in Baltimore, 1872, Georgiana Tompkins Ratcliff, daughter of Judge Daniel Ratcliff, of Washington, D. C. Residence: 335 Lexington Avenue, and Laffan House, Lawrence, L. I. Office: 170 Nassau Street, New York City.

LA FOLLETTE, Robert Marion:

United States senator; born at Primrose, Dane County, Wis., June 14, 1855; son of Josiah Mary (Furgeson) La Follette. He was graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1879, and won the Interstate Collegiate Oratorical contest. In February, 1880, he was admitted to the bar, and in the following November was elected district attorney of Dane County, and reelected in 1882. He was elected to Congress from the Third Wisconsin District in 1884, reelected in 1886 and 1888, and served through the Forty-ninth, Fiftieth and Fifty-first Congresses, but was defeated for reelection in 1890 and returned to the practice of law in Madison in 1891. He became the leader of a reform element in the Republican party and secured a devoted and increasing following, and although an unsuccessful candidate for the nomination for governor in the State Conventions of 1896 and 1898 he was elected to that office in 1900 and reelected in 1902 and 1904, resigning the office at the end of 1905 to take his seat in the United States Senate to which he had been elected for the term expiring March 3, 1911. He secured, while he was governor, laws providing for nominating all candidates by direct ballot, for taxing railroad property on the same basis as all other property, and for the State control of railroad rates within its borders. He is widely known also as an orator and successful lecturer and a forceful executive whose earnestness and persistence make his work effective for the causes he advocates. In the United States Senate he has become famous for his effective championship of laws for railroad regulation and the limiting of corporate activity and for his successful opposition to combinations in that body intended to prevent solitary action along these lines. Senator La Follette married at Baraboo, Wis., Dec. 31, 1881, Belle, daughter of Anson T. Case. Address: Madison, Wis.

LAIRD, Frank Livingston:

Editor; born at Hughesville, Pa., Oct. 28, 1872; son of John C. and Sophia S. (Tallman) Laird. He was educated in Pennsylvania College, Gettysburg, Pa., and in the Wharton School of Finance of the University of Pennsylvania, from which he was graduated, Ph.B. in 1893. He entered newspaper life as a reporter on the Philadelphia Times, later became New York correspondent of the Philadelphia Inquirer, and is now managing editor of the New York Commercial. He is a member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity. Address: 8 Spruce Street, New York City.

LAKE, Everett John:

Merchant, former lieutenant-governor of Connecticut; born in Woodstock, Conn., Feb. 8, 1871; son of Thomas A. and Martha A. (Cockings) Lake. He was graduated from the Worcester Polytechnic Institute, B.S., 1890 and from Harvard, A.B., 1892. He is president and treasurer of The Hartford Lumber Company, and of The Tunnel Coal Company; director of the Hartford National Bank, Hartford Life Insurance Company and of the Riverside Trust Company. He was school visitor of the City of Hartford, from 1900 to 1903; member of the Connecticut House of Representatives in 1903-1904 and of the Connecticut State Senate, 1905-1906; lieutenant-governor of the State of Connecticut 1907-1909. He is a member of the St. John's Lodge of Masons, the Keeney Lodge of Foresters, the Union League and Republican Clubs of New York, Union League and Graduate Clubs of New Haven; Hartford and Hartford Golf Clubs of Hartford, and of the Country Club of Farmington, Conn. He married in Rockville, Conn., Sept. 25, 1895, Eva L. Sykes, and they have two children. Residence: 553 Farmington Avenue. Address 17 Albany Avenue, Hartford, Conn.

LAKE, Richard Conover:

Banker (retired); born on a farm in Montour County, Pa., July 20, 1846; son of James and Hannah (Dye) Lake. He received his education in the public schools of his native county and through private instruction. He entered business as an employee of Fowler and Creveling, at Esby, Pa., and afterward with Roworth Brothers, at Central City, Colo. He became a member of the firm of Roworth & Lake, at Central City, Colo., 1869-1877, then he removed to Deadwood, S. Dak., where he carried on a mercantile business. He was made president of the First National Bank of Deadwood, 1879; president of the First National Bank of Rapid City, S. Dak., 1884; president of the Bank of Chadron, Neb., in 1886; second vice-president of the Union National Bank of Chicago, in 1894, and president of the Masonic Fraternity Temple Association, Chicago, in 1896. He has retired from all these positions, but retains a financial interest in several of these monied institutions. He is a director and a member of the important committees of the Commercial National Bank of Chicago, a director in the State Bank of Evanston, Ill.; and director of the Diamond Rubber Company of Akron, Ohio. He is president of the Evanston Public Library and was formerly a member of the Evanston City School Board. He is a member of the Union League Club of Chicago, Evanston Club, Country Club of Evanston, and Glen View Golf Club. He married, first, at Central City, Colo., Sept. 14, 1871, Mary Randolph, who died in 1894, leaving six children; his second marriage was at Evanston, Ill., Feb. 9, 1899, to Hellen Kitchell. Residence: Evanston, Ill. Office: Marquette Building, Chicago.

LAMB, Charles Rollinon:

Artist and architect; born in New York City; son of Joseph and Eliza (Rollinson) Lamb. He was educated in the College of the City of New York. He is a specialist in memorial and historical art and was architect of the Dewey Arch, erected in Madison Square, New York City, in 1899. Mr. Lamb is a member of the Fine Arts Federation; trustee of the Public Art League; a member and ex-vice-president of the American Arts Society; the National Sculpture Society, and of the Architectural League, and a member and ex-president of the Art Students' League. He is president of the Municipal Art Society; member and trustee of the Society of Mural Painters, Sons of the American Revolution, Merchants Association; Trustee of the Hudson-Fulton Celebration Committee, of the Robert Fulton Monument Association, and president of the Arts Realty Company. Mr. Lamb is also a member and trustee of the National Arts, Reform and Church Clubs and a member of the Nineteenth Century Club. He married in New York City, Ella Condie. Studio: 360 West 22d Street. Summer studio: Crosskill, N. J. Office: 27 Sixth Avenue, New York City.

LAMB, Frederick Stymetz:

Artist; born in New York City, June 24, 1863; son of Joseph and Eliza (Rollinson) Lamb. He received his preliminary education at the Art Students' League, studying under William Sartain, J. Carroll Beckwith and others; was a pupil of Lefebvre and Boulanger, Paris; studied modeling under M. Millet and took the first place in competition in composition. He received honorable mention at the World's Columbian Exposition, Chicago, 1893; the gold medal at the Atlanta Exposition, 1895; was one of the four glass workers invited to represent the United States at the Paris Exposition in 1900 and received a medal from the French Government. He is a lecturer and writer on civic art and municipal aesthetics. Mr. Lamb is trustee of the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society; ex-secretary of the Municipal Art Society of New York; ex-vice-president of the Architectural League of New York, ex-president of the Architectural League of America and secretary of the National Society of Craftsmen. He is a member of the Art Students' League, National Sculpture Society, the National Society of Mural Painters, the American Civic Association and of the National Arts Club, in which he is a member of the Board of Governors. Address: 14 and 15 Gramercy Park, New York City.

LAMB, John:

Congressman; born in Sussex County, Va., June 12, 1840. He was educated by his father, who taught a private school; served through the Civil War in Company

D. Third Virginia Cavalry, Confederate States Army; commanded his company three years, and was wounded several times. After the war he engaged largely in business; served as sheriff, treasurer, and surveyor in his county; was elected as a Democrat to the Fifty-fifth, Fifty-sixth, Fifty-seventh, Fifty-eighth, Fifty-ninth and Sixtieth Congresses, and was reelected to the Sixty-first Congress from the Third Virginia District. Address: Richmond, Va.

LAMB, Robert B.:

Physician and superintendent; born in Jamestown, N. Y., Aug. 4, 1869; son of Henry L. and Elizabeth (Broekway) Lamb. He received his education in the public schools, Lansingburgh Academy, and the Medical Department of Union University at Albany, M.D., 1891; and took post-graduate study in New York City and Edinburg, Scotland. He entered the State Hospital Service in 1891, as interne; was promoted to junior assistant physician in 1893; senior assistant in 1896 and medical superintendent in 1900. He is also medical superintendent of the Matteawan State Hospital and consulting physician to the Highland Hospital at Matteawan, N. Y. He is a member of the Dutchess County Medical Society, Medical Society of the State of New York, the Newburg Bay Medical Society; the American Medico-Psychological Association of New York and the New York Psychiatric Society. Dr. Lamb has a summer camp "Onawaawek," at Chazy Lake in the Adirondacks. Address: Fishkill-on-Hudson, N. Y.

LAMBERT, John:

Manufacturer; born in Hunterdon County, N. J., Jan. 12, 1847. After the usual course in the common schools he entered business life and in 1874 went West, locating at Joliet, where in 1879 he engaged in the manufacture of fencing wire, until 1892, when he became associated with Isaac L. Ellwood, John W. Gates and other manufacturers in the organization of the Consolidated Steel and Wire Company, of which he was vice-president and general manager, and this in turn, was merged in the American Steel and Wire Company, organized in 1899, of which he became president, and which is now a part of the United States Steel Corporation. He is now president of the Mines Company of America, the Dolores Mines Company, and other corporations. He is a Republican in politics and was a colonel on the staff of Governor Tanner of Illinois, 1897-1901. Address: The American Steel and Wire Company, The Rookery, Chicago.

LAMBERT, John S.:

Jurist; born at Johnsonville, N. Y., Feb. 4, 1851. He was educated in the public schools and the Academy of Greenwich, N. Y., and after that studied law. He was admitted to practice in 1877, and the following year settled in practice in Fredonia, N. Y. He was elected county judge of Chautauqua County in 1882, and served in that office until elected, in 1889, on the Republican ticket, judge of the Supreme Court of the State of New York; and in 1903 he was re-elected for a second term, which will expire Dec. 31, 1917. Judge Lambert married at Cassadega, N. Y., in 1891, Winnifred Phillips. Address: Fredonia, N. Y.

LAMBERT, Louis A.:

Catholic priest and editor; born in Charlevoix, Pa., April 13, 1835; son of William and Lydia (Jones) Lambert. He was educated in St. Vincent's College, Pa., and the Archdiocesan Seminary, St. Louis, where he received the degree of LL.D. He was ordained priest in the Diocese of Alton, Ill., in 1859; served in the Civil War, 1861-1862 as chaplain of the Eighteenth Illinois Volunteers; was instructor in moral theology and philosophy, at the Paulist Novitiate, New York City; and filled pastorates at Cairo, Ill., Seneca Falls and Waterloo, N. Y. He founded the Catholic Times, 1874, and was its editor until 1880; was editor of the Philadelphia Catholic Times, and is now editor-in-chief of the New York Freeman's Journal. Dr. Lambert is author of: The-saurus Biblicus, or Handbook of Scripture Reference; Notes on Ingersoll; Comments on Ingersoll's Christmas Sermon; and he has translated The Christian Fathers; and Instructions on Gospels of the Sundays of the Year. He also edited Catholic Belief. Father Lambert is a member of the Victoria Institution of Great Britain. Address: Scottsville, N. Y.

LAMBERT, William H.:

Life insurance manager; born in Reading, Pa., May 9, 1842; son of James and Susan (Keen) Lambert. Major Lambert was graduated from the Central High School, Philadelphia, in 1859, and began the study of law. He enlisted, Aug. 18, 1862, as a private in the Fifteenth Pennsylvania Cavalry, from which he was discharged Nov. 24, 1862, to accept a commission as a lieutenant and adjutant of the Twenty-seventh New Jersey Volunteers. Upon the expiration of the term of that regiment he was appointed first lieutenant and adjutant of the Twenty-third New Jersey Volunteers; was commissioned captain, Jan. 13, 1864; brevetted major, March 13, 1865, and mustered out July 17, 1865. He participated in the battles of Antietam, Fredericksburg, the battles around Chattanooga, the campaign for the relief of the force under General Burnside at Knoxville, the engagement at Pine Hill, Sherman's march to the sea, and through the Carolinas to the surrender of General Joseph E. Johnston's Army. He was awarded the Congressional medal of honor for distinguished services during the war. After the war he became connected with the Philadelphia general agency of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, was a partner in the agency, 1872-1887; then was made general agent, and in 1901 was made manager. Major Lambert retired from active business in 1906. He is a member of the Pennsylvania Commandery of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion, and of the Grand Army of the Republic, and he is distinguished as an orator, especially at military reunions. He was president of the department of Charities and Correction of Philadelphia, 1892-1899; member of the Board of Directors of City Trusts since June, 1899; director of the Union League of Philadelphia, 1901-1904, and its secretary, 1903-1904; member of the council of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania; member of the Board of Trustees of the Free Library of Philadelphia, and director of the Philadelphia Trust, Safe Deposit and Insurance Company. His favorite recreation is the collection of Lincoln and Thackeray literature. Major Lambert married in Philadelphia, Oct. 15, 1874, Herminia Van Haagen. Address: Germantown, Philadelphia.

LAMM, Henry:

Justice of the Supreme Court of Missouri; born at Burbank, Ohio, Dec. 3, 1846; son of William and Catherine Lamm. He was graduated from the University of Michigan, 1879, studied law at Sedalia, Mo., and after his admission to the bar was engaged in practice there. He has been an active Republican, was a member of the State Committee and delegate to State and National Conventions; served as circuit clerk and afterward as prosecuting attorney of Pettis County, and was elected in 1904 as an associate justice of the Supreme Court of Missouri for the term beginning Jan. 1, 1905, being the only Republican on the Missouri Supreme bench. Address: Sedalia, Mo.

LAMONT, Thomas William:

Banker; born in Claverack, N. Y., Sept. 30, 1870; son of Thomas and Caroline (Jayne) Lamont. He was graduated from Phillips Exeter Academy in 1888 and from Harvard, A.B., 1892. He is vice president of the First National Bank; president of Lamont, Corliss and Company; director of the Astor Trust Company, Bankers' Trust Company, J. G. White and Company, Incorporated; the Crowell Publishing Company; and of Duffield and Company. He is a trustee of the Englewood Hospital Association, and a member of the Metropolitan Players', City, Harvard, University, Union League, Lawyers', Englewood Golf and Englewood Clubs. He married in Englewood, N. J., Oct. 31, 1895, Florence Haskell Corliss, and they have three children. Residence: Beech Road, Englewood, N. J. Office: 2 Wall Street, New York City.

LAMPTON, William James:

Author and journalist; born in Lawrence County, Ohio; son of William H. and Elinor

Fairfax (Miller) Lampton. He was educated in Ashland Academy and private schools in Kentucky and Marietta College Ohio (honorary A.M. from Marietta). He engaged in the iron business in 1870 with W. H. Lampton for three years; after that for three years in the iron commission business in St. Louis. In 1877 he began newspaper work as editor and proprietor of the Ashland (Ky.) Review; in 1878 became connected with The Times, Cincinnati; in 1879 with the Steubenville (Ohio) Herald as "funny man;" in 1882 to the Courier-Journal, Louisville, Ky., in 1883 The Merchant Traveller, Cincinnati, and in 1886 with The Critic, Washington, D. C. as "funny man," and while there created for that paper, "Judge Waxem, member of Congress from Wayback"; in 1889 to Washington Star, founding its "Shooting Stars" department; 1892 to the Detroit Free Press, succeeding "M Quad," in 1895 free-lance doing "Yawps" for the New York Sun. Since 1898 in New York City as general writer and verse for the World, Times, Sun, Herald, Press, and the magazines. Mr. Lampton is author of the books: Mrs. Brown's Opinions; Confessions of a Husband; Yawps and Other Things; The Trolley Car and the Lady; Judge Waxem's Pocket Book of Politics. Address: 109 West 54th Street, New York City.

LAND, Alfred Dillingham:

Justice of the Supreme Court of Louisiana; born in Holmes County, Miss., Jan. 15, 1842; son of Thomas Thompson and Mary Eliza (Dillingham) Land. He was educated in the University of Virginia and the law department of the University of Louisiana, and had just been graduated from that institution in 1861 when the Civil War began, and he entered the Confederate Army, serving in the Seventh Louisiana Infantry, Twenty-eighth Mississippi Cavalry, and Harvey's Scouts. After the war he engaged in the practice of law at Shreveport, La., until elected district judge in 1894. He served in that office until elected in 1903 associate justice of the Supreme Court of Louisiana. Address: 2235 Carondelet Street, New Orleans, La.

LANDIS, Charles B.:

Ex-congressman, journalist, lecturer; born at Millville, Butler County, Ohio, July 9, 1859; son of Abraham H. and Mary Landis. He was graduated from Wabash College in 1883, and at once became editor of the Logansport Journal, remaining there until 1887, when he became editor of the Journal at Delphi, Ind. He became prominent in Republican politics, was president of the Indiana Republican Editorial Association, 1894-1895, and in 1896 was elected as a Republican to the Fifty-fifth Congress, from the Ninth Indiana District; was reelected to the Fifty-sixth, Fifty-seventh, Fifty-eighth, Fifty-ninth and Sixtieth Congresses, and in 1908 was renominated as the Republican candidate for the Sixty-first Congress, but was defeated in the election. Mr. Landis is also well known on the lecture platform, and is a favorite in many of the best lyceums and the leading Chautauqua courses of the Middle Western States. Address: Delphi, Ind.

LANDIS, Kenesaw Mountain:

United States Judge; born at Millville, Butler County, Ohio, Nov. 20, 1866; son of Abraham H. and Mary K. Landis. He removed with his parents to Logansport, Ind., in 1876 and attended the public schools of that city. He was graduated from the Union College of Law of Chicago as LL.B. in 1891, and engaged in the practice of law in Chicago, immediately after graduation. Mr. Landis was private secretary to Judge Walter Q. Gresham, secretary of State at Washington, 1893-1895, and after that he resumed the practice of law in Chicago until appointed by President Roosevelt, March 28, 1905, to his present position as judge of the U. S. District Court for the Northern District of Illinois. Judge Landis presided in the trial which resulted in the imposition of a fine of over twenty-nine million dollars against the Standard Oil Company for illegal rebating in 1907, which decision was, however, subsequently reversed by the Circuit Court of Appeals. Residence: 4830 Madison Avenue. Office address: Federal Building, Chicago.

LANDON, Francis Griswold:

Ex-assemblyman; born in New York City, Aug. 20, 1859; son of Charles Griswold and Susan H. Landon; descendant of John Leverett, governor of the Colony of Massachusetts from 1673 to 1679, and of Captain David Landon, of the Army of the Revolution. Mr. Landon was graduated from the John C. Green School of Science, Princeton University, in 1881. He is a member of the Seventh Regiment of New York City, and for four years was its adjutant; in 1895 he became captain of Company I, and in 1899, with associate officer, went to England to represent the Seventh Regiment and the National Guard of the State; he resigned and received full and honorable discharge in 1902, but in December, 1908, rejoined the regiment having been elected major. He is a Republican and an Episcopalian. He was elected to the General Assembly of the State of New York, in 1900, and was reelected in 1901 and 1902; was a presidential elector for the State of New York in 1904; appointed by President Roosevelt third secretary of the American Embassy at Berlin in January, 1905, and second secretary of the American Embassy at Vienna, May, 1905; resigned from the diplomatic service, June 1, 1907; appointed by Governor Hughes member of the Commission to inquire into the condition of the National Guard and Naval Militia State of New York in May, 1907. He was elected, Sept. 12, 1907, chairman of the Republican County Committee of Dutchess County, N. Y. He is a member of the Metropolitan University, Princeton, New York Athletic, New York Yacht, and Union Clubs of New York City. He married in New York City, May 20, 1897, Mary (Hornor) Toel, and they have two daughters. Address: Mansewood, Staatsburg-on-Hudson, N. Y.

LANDON, Melville De Lancey ("Eli Perkins"):

Humorist and journalist; born in Eaton, N. Y., Sept. 7, 1839; son of John and Nancy (Marsh) Landon. He received his education in Madison University, to the sophomore year, and was graduated from Union College, A.B., 1861. In the same year he was appointed to office in the U. S. Treasury; assisted in organizing and served in the Clay Battalion; and served in the Civil War on the staff of General A. L. Chetlain, at Memphis, Tenn. He resigned from the army in 1864 and engaged in cotton planting in the States of Arkansas and Louisiana. In 1867 Mr. Landon went abroad, traveling over Europe into Russia, and he was selected by General Cassius M. Clay, then minister to Russia, as secretary of the legation to St. Petersburg. Mr. Landon returned to the United States in 1870 and wrote a history of the Franco-Prussian War. Since then he has been engaged in authorship and newspaper work. His humorous writings, in the Commercial Advertiser, the New York Sun and Graphic in 1872 gained him wide repute, and called him into the humorous lecture field. He is now president of the New York News Association. Mr. Landon is author of: A Biography of Artemus Ward; Thirty Years of Wit; Kings of Platform and Pulpit, and other works. He is a member of the Colonial Club of New York. He married at New York City, in 1875, Emily Louise Smith. Address: Landon or "Eli Perkins," 300 Central Park West, New York City.

LANDRETH, Burnet:

Seed merchant; born in Philadelphia, Dec. 30, 1842. He was educated at the Episcopal Academy and Polytechnic College, Philadelphia. He served as an officer during the Civil War, being attached to the Army of the Potomac. Since the war has been in the house, established in the 18th century, of D. Landreth & Sons, and is now head of the firm. He was chief of the Bureau of Agriculture, Centennial Exhibition, Philadelphia; director in chief of the American Exhibition, London; chevalier and officier du Mérite Agricole de France; founder and president of Association of Centenary Firms of the United States; vice-president of the Philadelphia Society of Agriculture; president of the Pennsylvania Forestry Society. Mr. Landreth is a member of Philadelphia Philosophical Society, Philadelphia Horticultural Society, Pennsylvania State Agricultural Society; honorary member of Society of Arts, London; Society of Agriculture, Chili and Mexico; Royal Society of India, Royal Academy of Sweden, Imperial Society of Japan, Horticultural Society of London, Société Agriculture de France and many other foreign scientific societies. Address: Bristol, Pa.

LANDRETH, Lucius Scott:

Lawyer; born in Philadelphia, April 20, 1856; son of Oliver and Harriet Rea (Linton) Landreth. He was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania, A.B., 1876, A.M., 1879, and LL.B., 1880. He is church advocate of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Pennsylvania; was formerly vice-president of the Law Academy of Philadelphia; is a member of the Board of Trustees of Philadelphia Divinity School and formerly member of the Board of Governors of the Trades League of Philadelphia. Address: 512 Walnut Street, Philadelphia.

LANDRETH, Olin Henry:

Civil engineer and professor of engineering; born in Addison, Steuben County, N. Y., July 21, 1852; son of Rev. James and Adelia (Comstock) Landreth. He was educated at the Union School, Rushville, N. Y., academies at Sodus, Penn Yan, Dundee and Canisteo, N. Y., then in 1874 entered Union College, where he received the degree of C.E., 1876, A.B., 1877, A.M., 1881, and D.Sc., 1905. Mr. Landreth held various engagements in railroad engineering, 1869-1874; was assistant astronomer at the Dudley Observatory, Albany, N. Y., 1877-1879, professor of engineering at Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn., 1879-1894; dean of the engineering department there, 1886-1894; professor of engineering in Union College, since 1894. He was consulting engineer of the New York State Board of Health, 1896-1906; member of the New York State Water Storage Commission, 1902-1903; of the New York Bay Pollution Commission, 1903-1905, and of the Metropolitan Sewerage Commission of New York, 1906-1908. He has contributed articles on professional engineering subjects and on engineering education to numerous professional journals and to the transactions of the various technical societies. Dr. Landreth is a member of the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education, past president of the Society of Engineers of Eastern New York; member of the Delta Upsilon fraternity and the Sigma Xi Society; member and past director of the American Society of Civil Engineers; member and past vice-president of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers; a fellow and past vice-president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science; past president of the Schenectady Technical Association. He married, in 1879, Eliza, daughter of William B. and Eliza Taylor, of Canisteo, N. Y., and they have six children. Address: Union College, Schenectady, N. Y.

LANE, Annie Eichberg:

Author; born in Geneva, Switzerland; daughter of the late Julius Eichberg, the distinguished violinist and composer, of Boston, and of Sophie (Mertens) Eichberg. She was educated in the Girls' High School and Gannett's Institute, in Boston. She married first in Boston, Feb. 26, 1884, Tyler Batcheller King, and second, in England, Aug. 13, 1898, John Lane, the London publisher. Mrs. Lane is the author of: "To Thee, O Country" (national hymn), and of the books: Brown's Retreat; Kitwyk; The Champagne Standard. Address: 8 Lancaster Gate Terrace, Hyde Park, London, W., England.

LANE, William Coolidge:

Librarian; born in Newton, Mass., July 29, 1859; son of William H. and Caroline M. (Coolidge) Lane. He was graduated from Harvard University, A. B. (Phi Beta Kappa), 1881. He began his connection with the library of Harvard College in 1881 as an assistant, was in charge of the catalogues, 1884-1893, and assistant librarian, 1887-1893; then became librarian of the Boston Athenaeum, 1893-1898, and in the latter year was elected librarian of Harvard to succeed Dr. Justin Winsor. Mr. Lane is a member of the American Library Association, was secretary and later chairman of its publishing board from its organization in 1886 until 1907, and president of the association, 1899-1900; has been secretary of Alpha of Massachusetts (Harvard) Chapter of the Phi Beta Kappa Society since 1889; president of the American Bibliographical Society since 1904; and librarian of the Dante Society since 1888; also member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, the American Antiquarian Society, the Colonial Society of Massachusetts, and the Literary and Historical Society of Quebec. He is author of: The Dante Collections in the Harvard College and Boston Public Libraries, 1890; Index to the Subject Catalogue of Harvard College Library, 1891; and other bibliographical publications; also contributions to the Proceedings of the Colonial Society of Massachusetts. He edited the A. L. A. Portrait Index, published by the Library of Congress. He married at Andover, Mass., May 12, 1903, Bertha Palmer. Address: Harvard College Library, Cambridge, Mass.

LANE, Wolcott Griswold:

Lawyer; born in Sandusky, Ohio, Jan. 24, 1866; son of William G. and Elizabeth D. (Griswold) Lane. He was graduated from St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H., 1884. Yale, A.B., 1888. Columbia Law School, LL.B., 1891. He was admitted to the New York bar in 1891, and engaged in practice, and has been a member of the law firms of Tracy and Lane, 1893-1902. Lane and Trafford, 1903-1906, and since 1906 of Miller, King, Lane and Trafford. He is a member of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, the American Geographical Society, the Metropolitan Museum of Art and the University, Yale, and Lawyers' Clubs of New York City. He is a Republican and Episcopalian. He married in Lyme, Conn., Sept. 15, 1896, Edith G. Perkins. Residence: 353 West 84th Street. Office: 8 Broadway, New York City.

LANG, Margaret Ruthven:

Composer of music; born in Boston, Nov. 27, 1867; daughter of the late Benjamin Johnson Lang, distinguished musician, and of Frances Morse (Burrage) Lang. She was educated in private schools in Boston, began the study of the pianoforte under one of her father's pupils and continued it under his direction; later she studied the violin with Louis Schmidt in Boston, continued under Drechsler and Abel in Munich, and while there, 1886-1887, studied composition with Vietor Gluth; and she afterward studied orchestration with Chadwick and MacDowell. Her orchestral compositions are: Dramatic Overture (op. 12), first performed by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under Nikisch, April 8, 1893; Overture, "Witichis" (op. 10), first performed in Chicago under Theodore Thomas by an orchestra of 100, in July and Aug., 1893; also Overture, "Totila" (op. 23); three arias, "Sappho's Prayer to Aphrodite," for alto; "Armida," for soprano, and "Phœbus," for baritone; a Cantata for solo, chorus and orchestra; a string quartette, and pieces for violin and piano. Miss Lang has also published many songs, part songs, one Te Deum, and seven piano-forte pieces, published by Arthur P. Schmidt, Boston, and numerous miscellaneous publications. She is an active member of the New York Manuscript Society. Miss Lane is an Episcopalian. Address: 8 Brimmer Street, Boston.

LANGE, J. Chris:

Physician; born in Bremen, Germany, Feb. 24, 1847; son of J. Chris Lange. He was graduated from the Bellevue Hospital Medical College as M.D. in 1876. Dr. Lang is professor of medicine at the Western University of Pennsylvania; dean of the Western Pennsylvania Medical College and is ex-president of the Allegheny County Medical Society. He is author of many papers, among them being: Why Oxygen Absorption is not Increased by Oxygen Inhalation; Studies of the Typhoid State; The Likeness of the Lesions and Symptoms in all the Acute Infections. He is a member of the Allegheny County Medical Society, Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania and of the American Medical Association; trustee of the Western Pennsylvania Medical College and of the Western University of Pennsylvania; consulting physician to Merey, St. John's, South Side, and Reinemann Maternity Hospitals. He is a member of the University and Union Clubs of Pittsburgh. Dr. Lange married in Pittsburgh, in 1875, Katherine M. Smith, by whom he has three sons. She died in 1895, and in 1906 he married Edith Clark Rich, widow of Rev. W. C. Rich of Williamsport, Pa. Address: Hotel Annex, Pittsburgh.

LANGTON, Daniel Webster:

Landscape architect; born in Kemper County, Miss., May 3, 1864; son of Daniel Webster and Emma (Nelson) Langton. He was graduated from the University of Alabama, A.B., 1882, and received its Ph.D. degree in 1891. He was on the Geological Survey of Alabama, 1883-1889, and became consulting geologist for the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway in 1893. He has been a fellow of the Geological Society of America since 1889, and is a member of the American Society of Landscape Architects, and the Engineers' Club of New York. Mr. Langton is author of: Report on the Geology of Southeast Alabama, also geological papers in Silliman's Journal and the Bulletin of the Geological Society of America. He married at New Haven, Conn., in 1896, Bernice Francis. Residence: "Great Oaks," Morristown, N. J. Office: 347 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

LANGWORTHY, Charles Ford:

Chemist; born in Middlebury, Vt., Aug. 9, 1864; son of Charles Parker and Ann Elizabeth (Ford) Langworthy. He was graduated from Middlebury College, A.B., 1887, A.M., 1890, Emperor William's University, Strassburg, Germany, Ph.D., 1893. He was instructor in chemistry in Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., 1894-1895, where he was associated with Professor W. O. Atwater in the development of studies of human nutrition. Since 1895 he has been engaged in editorial and other literary work in Office of Experiment Stations, Department of Agriculture; now expert in nutrition in charge of Government studies of human nutrition problems. He is a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, American Chemical Society, American Forestry Association, Washington Academy of Sciences, American Home Economics Association, Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity and the Cosmos and University Clubs of Washington. Residence: 1604 Seventeenth Street. Office: U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

LANIER, Charles:

Banker; born in Madison, Ind., Jan. 19, 1837. He was educated at New Haven, Conn., and in 1860 he became a member of the firm of Winslow, Lanier & Co., of which he is now the senior member. Mr. Lanier is president of the Massillon and Cleveland Railroad Company and the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway Company; director of the American Cotton Oil Company; the Cleveland and Pittsburgh Railroad Company; the Western Union Telegraph Company; director of the Central and South American Telegraph Company, National Bank of Commerce, New York, Central Trust Company, the Southern Railway Company. Mr. Lanier is also treasurer of the American Museum of Natural History. He is a member of the Union League, Jekyl Island, Century, Metropolitan, New York Yacht, Tuxedo, Union, Knickerbocker, and Lawyers' Clubs. Residence: 30 East 37th Street. Office: 59 Cedar Street, New York City.

LANMAN, Charles Rockwell:

Orientalist and professor of Sanskrit; born at Norwich, Conn., July 8, 1850; son of Peter and Catharine (Cook) Lanman. After graduation from the Norwich Free Academy in 1867 he entered Yale, from which he was graduated, B.A., 1871; remained there as a student of Sanskrit and linguistic science under Professor Whitney until 1873, when he received the degree of Ph.D., after which he pursued further studies in the same branches at the Universities of Berlin, Tübingen and Leipzig. He received the LL.D. degree from Yale in 1902 and from Aberdeen University in 1906. He was instructor in Sanskrit in Johns Hopkins University, 1876-1880, and since then has been professor of Sanskrit in Harvard. In 1898 Professor Lanman gave the lectures of the Percy Turnbull Memorial Lectureship of Poetry at Johns Hopkins University, the subject of his course being The Poetry of India, and he has also lectured in the Lowell Institute of Boston. He is author of: A Sanskrit Reader with Vocabulary and Notes, and of various contributions to philological and oriental publications, has been joint editor of the Journal of the American Oriental Society, and is editor, with the coöperation of various scholars, of the Harvard Oriental Series. He is an honorary member of the Asiatic Society of Bengal, the Royal Asiatic Society of London, the North China Branch of the same (Shanghai), the Finnish-Ugrian Society (Helsingfors), and Société Asiatique de Paris; a foreign member of the Royal Bohemian Society of Sciences at Prague, corresponding member of the Royal Society of Sciences at Göttingen, Prussia; Royal Academy of Sciences at Bologna, Italy; Imperial Russian Academy of Sciences, St. Petersburg, and of the Institute of France (Académie des Inscriptions et Belles-Lettres; is a member, and was elected president in April, 1907, of the American Oriental Society; member of the American Philosophical Society, and of the Société de Linguistique, Paris, and fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, Boston. He has traveled extensively in India. Professor Lanman married at Beach Bluff, Mass., July 18, 1888, Mary Billings Hinckley, lineal descendant of Governor Thomas Hinckley of Plymouth Colony, and they have six children. Address: 9 Farrar Street, Cambridge, Mass.

LANNING, William Mershon:

Judge of the United States District Court; born in Mercer County, N. J., Jan. 1, 1849. He received his education in the famous Lawrenceville School, and afterward taught in district schools and in the old Trenton Academy until 1878, when he began the systematic study of law in an office at Trenton, N. J. He was admitted as an attorney in 1880, and as counsellor at law in 1883; was city solicitor of Trenton, 1883-1887, and after that judge of the City District Court of Trenton until 1891. He was elected to the Fifty-eighth Congress in 1902, but resigned upon his appointment, June 1, 1904, to his present office as judge of the District Court of the United States for the District of New Jersey. Judge Lansing is a prominent Presbyterian layman; member of the Board of Trustees of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, a director of the Princeton Theological Seminary and a trustee of the Lawrenceville School. He married, Aug. 3, 1881, Jennie Hemenway of St. Lawrence County, N. Y. Address: Trenton, N. J.

LANSING, James:

Jurist; born in Decatur, N. Y., May 9, 1834. He was graduated from the Albany Law School in 1864. Mr. Lansing was surrogate of Rensselaer County, 1890-1895, and is a professor in the Albany Law School. He married, July 4, 1857, Sarah A. Richardson of Poultney, Vt. Residence: Troy, N. Y.

LANSING, Robert:

Lawyer; born in Watertown, N. Y., Oct. 17, 1864, son of John and Maria L. (Dodge) Lansing. He was educated in the Watertown High School and at Amherst College. He was associate counsel for the United States in the Behring Sea Arbitration, 1892-1893; counsel for the United States before the Behring Sea Claims Commission, 1896-1897; solicitor for the United States before the Alaskan Boundary Tribunals in 1903; solicitor for the United States in the North Atlantic Coast Fisheries Arbitration at The Hague, 1909; and counsel for the Mexican and Chinese legations at various times. Mr. Lansing is a director of the City National Bank of Watertown and the Eager Electric Company. In politics he is a Democrat; and he is an elder in the Presbyterian Church. He is a member of the Executive Committee of the American Society of International Law, the New York State Bar Association, National Geographic Society; editor of the American Journal of International Law; corresponding secretary of the Jefferson County Historical Society; trustee of the R. P. Flower Memorial Library and a member of the Black River Valley Club of Watertown, N. Y. Mr. Lansing married at Washington, D. C., July 15, 1890, Eleanor, daughter of Hon. John W. Foster. Address: 116 Washington Street, Watertown, N. Y.

LANZA DI BROLO, Clara (Marquise):

Author; born in Fort Riley, Kan.; daughter of Surgeon-General William A. and Helen (Nisbet) Hammond. She was educated in New York City, in Mrs. Williames' Private Academy, and by tutors at home. She married in New York City, in 1877, Marquis Manfredi Lanza di Brolo, of Palermo, Sicily, who died in 1895 in Washington, D. C. and she has three sons, Captain Conrad, U. S. A., Lieutenant Manfredi, U. S. A., and Dr. Anthony, of the Marine Hospital Service. In 1900 she became a convert to the Catholic faith. She is author of: Mr. Perkin's Daughter; A Righteous Apostate; Tales of Eccentric Life; Basil Morton's Transgression; A Golden Pilgrimage; A Modern Marriage; Horace Everett; also contributions to many magazines and daily journals. Address: The Rochambeau, H Street, Washington, D. C.

LAPEYRE, George Fortune:

Lawyer; born in New Orleans, La., Oct. 18, 1864; son of Jean Martial Lapeyre, and Angeline Avegno. His father, native of Ascan, Lower Pyrenees, France, was for years a prominent merchant of New Orleans; president, both before and after the Civil War, of the Louisiana State Bank, and a member of the private banking house of Pike, Lapeyre and Brother, and his mother was of Italian-French ancestry, a descendant of the famous Colonna family of Rome. He was educated in the Jesuit College, New Orleans; at Spring Hill College, Mobile, Ala., whence he was graduated, A.B., 1882; Harvard University, A.B., 1886; Columbia College Law School, LL.B., 1889. He engaged in the practice of law, first in New York City, and subsequently in his home city, New Orleans, where he has taken a prominent position at the bar. He has traveled very extensively in North and South America, Europe and the Orient. Mr. Lapeyre married in New Orleans, April 23, 1890, Jeannette Waugh, of distinguished South Carolina lineage. Address: 3924 St. Charles Avenue, New Orleans, La.

LARKIN, Edgar L.:

Director of Lowe Observatory, Calif.; Born La Salle County, Ill., April 5, 1847; son of Heman I. and Jane Larkin. He has been a director of astronomical observatories since 1880, having successively opened the new Windsor, Ill., observatory and the Knox College observatory, at Galesburg, Ill., and having been director of the last-named for eight years. He was elected director of Lowe Observatory, Echo Mountain, Calif., in 1900. He has contributed extensively to astronomical and general scientific journals, besides being the author of: Radiant Energy and Its Analysis, and Modern Electricity and Its Application. He is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science; member of the Southern California Academy of Science, Los Angeles, Illinois Natural History Society, Springfield, Ill., the Astronomical Society of the Pacific, and the Astrophysical Society of America. He married at Earlville, Ill., April 29, 1869, Alice A. Everman. Address: Echo Mountain, Calif.

LARNED, Charles William:

Colonel, U. S. Army, and professor in the U. S. Military Academy; born in New York City, March 9, 1850; son of William and Mary (Sherwood) Larned. He was graduated from the U. S. Military Academy, June 15, 1870; commissioned second lieutenant Seventh U. S. Cavalry, 1870, and on duty with his regiment in Kansas; on reconstruction duty in Kentucky, 1871-1873; on the expedition against the Sioux Indians under Sitting Bull, with Stanley and Custer, and combat of Big Horn River, 1873; on duty in the office of the secretary of war, 1873-1874; on duty as instructor in the U. S. Military Academy, 1874-1876. Lieutenant-colonel and professor, U. S. Military Academy, 1876, colonel, 1886. Colonel Larned is a frequent contributor to periodical literature upon educational, religious and military topics, art and sociology. He is a member of the Architectural League of New York, the Century, Union League, and Drawing Room Clubs, Seventh Cavalry Mess and West Point Army Mess. Address: West Point, N. Y.

LARREMORE, Wilbur:

Lawyer and editor; born in New York City, in 1855; son of Richard L. and Caroline E. (Livermore) Larremore. He was graduated from the College of the City of New York, A.B., 1875, Columbia Law School, LL.B., 1877. Since then he has been practising law, and in later years has largely been engaged in trying cases as referee. Mr. Larremore has been editor of the New York Law Journal since 1891. He has delivered addresses before bar associations and law schools and has written on legal topics in the Harvard Law Review, the American Law Review, and other legal periodicals, and on legal, political, literary, and miscellaneous subjects in the North American Review, The Forum, The Atlantic Monthly, and other magazines. He has also contributed verse to many magazines. Mr. Larremore is a member of the New York City and State Bar Associations and of the Century Association, the University Club, and Alpha Delta Phi fraternity. He married, in 1886, Susan Armitage, and they have one son, Thomas A., born in 1889. Address: 32 Nassau Street, New York City.

LASKER, Emanuel:

Chess champion of the world; born in Berlinchen, Germany, Dec. 24, 1868. He was educated in the Universities of Berlin, Göttingen, and Heidelberg; receiving the Ph.D. degree. He studied mathematics, 1888-1891 and 1896-1897. He won the chess championship of England in 1892; of America in 1893; and of the world in 1894; return matches, 1896 and 1907; first prize in the chess tournaments of London in March and April, 1892; New York, 1893; St. Petersburg, 1895; Nuremberg, 1896; London, 1899; Paris, 1900. Mr. Lasker is author of: About a Certain Class of Curved Lines (Nature, Oct. 17, 1895);

Metrical Relations (Nature, Aug. 8, 1895); Common Sense in Chess, 1896; An Essay on the Geometrical Calculus; Über Reihen auf der Convergenzgreuze, 1901; Zur Theorie der Modeln und Ideale, 1904; Lasker's Chess Magazine, founded in 1904, and a philosophic book, Struggle, dealing with the principles of strategy. Address: 116 Nassau Street, New York City.

LASSITER, Francis Rives:

Lawyer and congressman; born in Petersburg, Va., Feb. 18, 1866; son of Daniel William Lassiter, M.D., and Anna Rives (Heath) Lassiter. He was graduated from the University of Virginia as LL.B., and has since been engaged in the practice of law. He was attorney for the City of Petersburg three terms, and has been United States attorney for the Eastern District of Virginia. He was major of the Fourth Regiment of Virginia Volunteers in 1891; Presidential elector in 1892; supervisor of the Twelfth Census, and was elected representative from the Fourth Virginia District to the Fifty-sixth Congress, as a Democrat, in 1898, and the Fifty-seventh Congress in 1900. In 1906 he was elected to the Sixtieth Congress, and reelected in 1908 to the Sixty-first Congress. He is a member of the Bar Association of Virginia, the Historical Society of Virginia; Sigma Chi fraternity, and the Masonic order, and the Westmoreland Club of Richmond, Va. Mr. Lassiter is a widower. Address: Petersburg, Va.

LATHROP, Francis:

Artist; born at sea, near the Hawaiian Islands, June 22, 1849; son of Dr. George Alfred and Frances M. Lathrop. He was educated in Dresden, Germany, 1867-1870; afterward in London, under Burne-Jones and Madox Brown. Since 1873 he has given his attention to portrait painting, mural painting and stained glass windows. Mr. Lathrop is a member of the Municipal Art Society, the New York Zoölogical Society; fellow and associate of the National Academy of Design; member of the Architectural League, Society of American Artists, the American Fine Arts Society, Sons of the Revolution and the Century Club. Address: 29 Washington Square, New York City.

LATHROP, John:

Jurist; born in Boston, Feb. 8, 1835; son of Rev. John P. Lathrop, Protestant Episcopal clergyman, and Maria Margaretta (Long) Lathrop; and a lineal descendant of Rev. John Lathrop, who emigrated from England in 1634 and was the first minister of Scituate and Barnstable, Mass. After attending the Boston public schools he entered Burlington College, N. J., from which he was graduated, A.B., 1853, A.M., 1856, and from Harvard Law School as LL.B. in 1855; and in 1896 he received the degree of LL.D. from Williams College. He was admitted to the Suffolk bar in 1856 and to the bar of the Supreme Court of the United States in 1872; served as reporter of the decisions of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts, 1874-1888, justice of the Superior Court of Massachusetts, 1888-1891, and justice of the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts, 1891-1906. He was lecturer on law in Harvard University, 1871-1872, and in Boston University in 1873 and again, 1880-1883. He married, June 24, 1875, Eliza Davis, daughter of Richard G. and Mary Ann (Davis) Parker. Address: 10 Gloucester Street, Boston.

LATHROP, Lorin Andrews:

Consular officer; born in Ohio; appointed consul at Bristol, July 18, 1882; retired Oct. 31, 1889; reappointed Feb. 28, 1891; appointed consul at Cardiff, Aug., 1907. Address: Cardiff, Wales.

LATHROP, Rose H.:

Author, artist; born in Lenox, Mass., May 20, 1854; youngest child of Nathaniel Hawthorne, the novelist. She studied art in Dresden, Germany, in 1870, and in London and married in London, 1871, George P. Lathrop the author. Mrs. Lathrop first engaged in painting, but later took up literature and is author of: Along the Shore (poems), 1888; Memoirs of the Hawthorne, 1897; also short stories and sketches for the magazines and short sketches for the lit-the folks, in Wide Awake and St. Nicholas. She has since 1896, conducted a home for destitute cancer sufferers. In 1900, she became a Dominican Religiense, taking the name of Mary Alphonsa and in 1901, in addition to the home for the destitute cancer patients in Cherry Street, that order obtained a second home at the Village of Ilawthorne, N. Y., where both sexes thus afflicted are nursed. Address: 426 Cherry Street, New York City.

LATHROP, William Langston:

Artist; born in Warren, Ill., March 29, 1859, son of Byron P. and Isabella (Langson) Lathrop. After completing the courses of the Painesville (Ohio) Academy, he devoted his attention to art, in which he is self-taught, and he soon attained for himself a place of prominence, winning in competition the W. T. Evans prize, the Webb prize and the gold medal of the Philadelphia Art Club; prizes at Worcester, Mass., and at the Carnegie Institute. He is represented by pictures in leading permanent collections and in 1907 he was elected academician of the National Academy of Design. He is also a member of the Water Color Club of New York City. Mr. Lathrop married, Nov. 1888, Annie Burt, of Oxford, England. Address: New Hope, Bucks County, Pa.

LATROBE, Ferdinand Claiborne:

Lawyer; born in Baltimore, Oct. 14, 1833; son of John Hazlehurst Boneval and Charlotte Virginia Latrobe. After completing his education in the College of St. James in Maryland he engaged for a time in a commercial house, studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1860. He practised at first with his father in Baltimore and later alone. He was judge-advocate-general on the staffs of Governors Swann, Bowie, Groome, White and Carroll of Maryland; member of the Maryland House of Delegates for three terms and its speaker in 1870; and at the extra session of the Legislature in 1900; and mayor of Baltimore for seven terms from 1875. He is president of the Consolidated Gas Company of Baltimore. Residence: 906 North Charles Street. Office: 205 St. Paul Street, Baltimore.

LATTA, John:

Lawyer and ex-lieutenant governor; born in Westmoreland County, Pa., March 2, 1836; educated in neighboring academies and read law under D. H. Hazen of Pittsburgh, continuing his studies at Yale University; was admitted to the bar of Westmoreland County in 1859. He engaged in the practice of law at Greensburg, where, also, for many years he has served as a school director. He has been prominently active in the Democratic Party since 1860, serving as a delegate to the Democratic National Conventions of 1864 and 1872; in the latter he voted against the nomination of Horace Greeley but supported him at the general election. He was nominated for the Pennsylvania State Senate in 1863, and was elected to represent the counties of Westmoreland and Fayette. He was a member of the House of Representatives during the session of 1872 and 1873, and in 1874 was elected and served a term as lieutenant-governor of Pennsylvania. Since the end of his term he has devoted himself to his legal practice. Address: Greensburg, Pa.

LAUBER, Joseph:

Artist (mural painter); born in Westphalia, Germany; son of Conrad L. and Therese (Wigge) Lauber. He was educated in public and private schools, the Cooper Institute and the Art Students' League of New York. He also studied sculpture under Karl Müller, later painting with Shir-law and Chase; assisted John La Farge for a while and then traveled abroad for study. He executed a series of mural paintings, in the Appellate Court of New York; windows and paintings in Ascension Church, St. Andrew's, Lafayette Avenue Presbyterian (Brooklyn), Trinity Church at Lancaster and many others, and a painting of Christ in competitive exhibition. Mr. Lauber is author of some etchings and exhibitor in current exhibitions. He has served on various committees tending towards the beautification of the city; and on the Advisory Committee of color scheme at the Pan American Exposition, Buffalo. He was vice-president of the Architectural League, 1905-1907, a delegate to the Fine Arts Federation; is a member of the National Society of Mural Painters; trustee of the Artists' Aid Society, and a member of the Salmagundi Club. He married, in 1892, Ida M. Crow, and they have one son. Residence: Montclair, N. J. Studio: 123 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

LAUER, Edgar J.:

Lawyer; born in New York City, Nov. 10, 1871; son of William E. and Cecilia (Hornthal) Lauer. He was educated in the Columbia Grammar School, the School of Political Science, Columbia, and School of Law of Columbia University, LL.B., 1891. In 1892 he was admitted to the bar of New York State. He was secretary to James A. Blanchard as justice of the Supreme Court, 1900-1903; and was elected, November, 1905, justice of the Municipal Court of the City of New York for the Fourteenth (now Ninth) District, Borough of Manhattan, which office he now holds. Judge Lauer is a member of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, and of the Republican and Harmonic Clubs. Address: 709 Madison Avenue, New York City.

LAUGHLIN, Clara Elizabeth:

Author and editor; born in New York City, Aug. 3, 1873; daughter of Samuel Wilson and Elizabeth (Abbott) Laughlin. She was graduated from the North Division High School, Chicago, 1900; became literary editor of The Interior (Presbyterian weekly) June 1, 1902 and has held the position ever since. In the meantime she has contributed to nearly every important magazine, and has been editorial adviser to several leading Eastern publishing houses. She is a member of The Little Room, Chicago. Miss Laughlin is author of: The Evolution of a Girl's Ideal, 1902; Stories of Authors' Loves, 1902; Miladi, 1903; Divided, 1904; When Joy Begins, 1905; Felicity, 1907; The Lady in Gray, 1908; The Death of Lincoln, 1909. Residence: 3711 Pine Grove Avenue. Office: The Interior, 328 Wabash Avenue, Chicago.

LAUGHLIN, Frank C.:

Jurist; born in Newstead, N. Y., July 20, 1859. He was educated in the Lockport (N.Y.) Union School and then studied law; was admitted to the bar in 1882; was assistant city attorney and city attorney of Buffalo, 1886-1891; corporation counsel of Buffalo in 1893; justice of the Supreme Court of New York, sitting in the Eighth District, 1885, and the Appellate Division, Rochester and New York City and his present term will expire Dec. 31, 1909. Justice Laughlin is a member of the Manhattan, Catholic and Republican Clubs. He married, in 1896, Mrs. Martha Taylor Bartlett of Buffalo. Address: Buffalo, N. Y.

LAUT, Agnes C.:

Author; born in Ontario, Canada, Feb. 11, 1871; daughter of John and Eliza (George) Lant. She went to Winnipeg in childhood and was educated in Manitoba University. She entered journalism and was editorial writer on the Manitoba Free Press at Winnipeg, 1895-1897; later correspondent of American, Canadian and English papers, and later contributor to magazines in New York City. Miss Laut is author of: Lords of the North; Heralds of Empire; Story of the Trapper; Pathfinders of the West; Vikings of the Pacific; Conquest of the Great North West; The Empire of the North. Address: Wassaie, N. Y.

LAUTERBACH, Amanda Friedman:

Born in Green Bay, Wis.; daughter of Arnold and Wilhelmina (Straubel) Friedman. Her early girlhood was spent in Paris, France, where she began her education, and she afterward attended and was graduated from Mrs. Sylvanus Reed's School in New York City. She married there, Jan. 12, 1871, Edward Lauterbach, a distinguished member of the New York bar, and they have four adult children: Alfred, Edith, Florence and Alice. The New York Times, in a recent article thus summarizes her personality and activities: "Mrs.

AMANDA FRIEDMAN LAUTERBACH
Philanthropist

Lauterbach, a friend of many friends, possesses a personality that is wonderfully refreshing. She is a skilled musician, and has made her well-trained voice serve to the advantage of the charities in which she is interested. She is one of those rare women who can be beautiful and youthful and wealthy and still work hard for those who are beneath the wheel of Fortune. Through her indefatigable efforts she has helped secure the passage of several philanthropic laws, such as the Mercantile bill, the new Tombs, the Public School bill, the Prison bill, and the Anti-Sweaters' bill regulating beneficially the employment of certain industrial classes." Mrs. Lauterbach is vice-president of the Women's Philharmonie Society; vice-president of the Women's Suffrage League; directress of the Women's Auxiliary of the New York Lying-in Hospital; first vice-president of the Consumers' League; was first vice-president of the first Kindergarten organized in New York (the late Mrs. Charles P. Daly, President); directress in Stony Wold No. 9 (for the treatment of tuberculosis); directress of Little Mothers Public Education Society; also a member of other philanthropic and charitable institutions. Mrs. Lauterbach is a member of St. James Lutheran Church. Her favorite recreations are music and reading, and she is particularly fond of house-keeping and of entertaining in her luxurious home. Address: 761 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

LAUTERBACH, Edward:

Lawyer; born in New York City, Aug. 12, 1844; son of Solon and Mina (Rosenbaum) Lauterbach. He was educated in the College of the City of New York, where he received the degree of A.B. in 1864, taking first prize in declamation, and later A.M. and LL.B. and LL.D. He engaged in the practice of law and has been leading counsel in many noted legal contests, and also connected with the organization of many large financial undertakings. He is now a member of the firm of Hoadly, Lauterbach and Johnson. Mr. Lauterbach is one of the State Board of Regents; has been chairman of the Republican County Committee, and was formerly president of the Board of Trustees of the College of the City of New York; and has been a delegate to all the National and State Republican conventions for years past. He married, in New York City, Jan. 12, 1871, Amanda Freedman. Address: 22 William Street, New York City.

LAVARON, Leonide Cecilia:

Designer and handierafter; born in New York City; daughter of Ernest and Anna (Fricke) Lavaron, and is of French descent. She removed to Chicago in girlhood and after procuring her general education in the public and high schools of that city she applied herself to artistic studies and to art handicraft, with the result that she has obtained distinction for her original designs and workmanship as a jeweler and in metals. She has applied her skill as painter, chemist and metalsmith to the production of work of exceptional beauty in gold, silver and copper. In copper she has by long chemical experiment been able to produce iridescent surface effects which have created great distinction, and the "Lavaron copper" with the original and artistic designs in which she has formed it, is now a well-known specialty in art metal work; and in precious stones and jewels her work is notable for originality of conception and artistic combination of color, and she is recognized as one of the foremost exponents of an art-craft only recently cultivated by women. She is a member of the Boston Arts and Crafts Society and the National Society of Craftsmen, New York City. Address: 414 Fine Arts Building, Chicago.

LAW, Charles Blakeslee:

Lawyer and member of Congress; born in Hannibal, N. Y., Feb. 5, 1872; son of Eli B. and Mary Louise (Payne) Law. He was graduated from Colgate Academy, 1891; studied at Colgate University and Amherst College, and was graduated, B.S., 1895. He was admitted to the bar in November, 1897, and is now a member of the law firm of Law and Mackay. Mr. Law was a member of Congress from the Fourth New York District, elected in 1904, served in the Fifty-ninth Congress and was re-elected in 1906 and 1908 to the Sixtieth and Sixty-first Congresses. He is a member of the Kings County Republican County Committee, and the Union League Club and Brooklyn Clubs of Brooklyn. He married at Gloucester, Mass., Nov. 20, 1901, Ilma Best. Address: 16 Court Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

LAWLER, Thomas Bonaventure:

Publisher; born in Worcester, Mass., July 14, 1864; son of Thomas and Eliza (Maher) Lawler. He was graduated from Holy Cross College A.B., 1885, A.M., 1893; and is now a member of the firm of Ginn and Company, educational publishers. Mr. Lawler has traveled three times around the globe. He is author of: Essentials of American History; Primary History of the United States; The Story of Columbus and Magellan. Mr. Lawler is a member of the American Oriental Society, and of the University Club and Papyrus Club of Boston. He married in New York City, in 1899, Margaret A. Brennan. Residence: 102 West 84th Street. Office: 70 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

LAWRENCE, Abram B.:

Lieutenant-colonel, U. S. Volunteers; born at Warsaw, N. Y. He is of New England parentage and a lineal descendant from Sir Robert Lawrence, crusader, of Lancashire, England, who was knighted by Richard Cœur de Lion. After receiving an education in public schools, he engaged in mercantile pursuits; erected and operated the Warsaw Gas Light Works, and the Foundry and Machinery Building. When the Civil War began he entered the Union Army, as quartermaster of what was later designated as the 130th New York Volunteer Infantry, known as First New York Dragoons, which became famous under Gen. Sheridan. In 1862, he was placed on detached service in the commissary and quartermaster's department, Peck's Division, Seventh Army Corps; subsequently assigned to duty in Sheridan's Cavalry Corps as quartermaster of regular cavalry brigade; promoted to captain and assistant quarmaster, U. S. Volunteers and assigned to the headquarters of the Eighteenth Army Corps; later became chief quartermaster, with rank of major in the quartermaster's department, serving in the Tenth, Eighteenth, and Twenty-fifth Corps. Upon reorganization and consolidation of troops of the Ninth, Tenth and Eighteenth Corps, constituting Twenty-fourth Army Corps, he became its chief quartermaster and was promoted to lieutenant-colonel. During the campaign which ended with the surrender of General Lee, he was appointed by General Grant chief quartermaster of the Army of the James; was assigned by order of General Grant to receive surrender and make disposition of property of Army of Northern Virginia, and to act as chief quartermaster of the U. S. forces at Appomattox Court House, Va. In the fall of 1865 he was assigned to duty in vicinity of the Rocky Mountains, and in 1866, upon application for muster-out, returned to Warsaw, where he received an honorable discharge with brevet commissions for faithful and meritorious services during the war. He was one of the organizers of the National Guard Association of the State of New York; member of its Executive Committee, and its recording secretary for ten successive years; member of the Grand Army of the Republic, and was for several years commander of Gibbs Post of Warsaw, N. Y., which he organized. He is a member of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion; honorary member of the Military Service Institution of the United States; member of the Masonic fraternity; an Odd Fellow, and of the higher grades of Masonry. He was for five years president of the Wyoming County Agricultural Society, and assisted in organizing the New York State Association of Agricultural Societies, and for four years was its president. Address: Warsaw, N. Y.

LAWRENCE, Abraham Ricker:

Jurist; born in New York City, Sept. 19, 1832; son of Hon. John L. and Sarah Augusta Lawrence. He was educated in private schools, Ballston Spa Law School and in the offices of his father and Judge W. Gilbert. He was admitted to the bar in 1853; and was assistant corporation counsel, 1853-1856 and 1857-1858. He served as a member of the Constitutional Convention of the State of New York in 1867, Democratic candidate for mayor, in 1872; elected justice of the Supreme Court in 1873; re-elected in 1887 and served until Dec. 31, 1901, having occupied the bench for twenty-eight years. He is author of: A Compilation of the Tax Laws of the State of New York with notes of cases. Judge Lawrence was president of the St. Nicholas Society for two terms, 1882-1883, and is a member of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, New York State Bar Association, Society of Colonial Wars and the St. Nicholas Society and of the Union, Manhattan and Century Clubs. He married Eliza, daughter of Dr. William Miner of New York City. Residence: 69 Washington Place. Office: 135 Broadway, New York City.

LAWRENCE, Amory Appleton:

Merchant and manufacturer; born in Boston, April 22, 1848; son of Amos Adams Lawrence and Sarah E. (Appleton) Lawrence and a descendant from John Lawrence, the immigrant, 1635, and of Samuel Appleton, 1635. He was graduated from Harvard as A.B. in 1870; was clerk and partner in the commission house of Lawrence and company; director of the Massachusetts National Bank from 1873, the National Union Bank from 1887; president Salmon Falls Manufacturing Company; Ipswich Mills and Gilmorton Mills, director in above and also Pacific Mills and Dwight Manufacturing Company; treasurer of the Groton Water Works Company; and president of Boston Merchants' Association from 1901. He was also treasurer of the Episcopal Charitable Society; chairman of the committee of Harvard Class of 1870; one of the committee of three appointed in 1903 to arbitrate the difficulties between the teamsters and merchants, which was settled after one conference with the leaders of the strike. He married, first, June 1, 1871, Emily Fairfax Silsbee, a descendant of Henry Silsbee, the immigrant, Salem, 1639; and their children are: Amos Amory, born in 1874, John Silsbee, born in 1878, Edith, born in 1879 (married Harold Jefferson Coolidge), Emily F. (Silsbee) Lawrence, died April 4, 1895. Mr. Lawrence again married June 12, 1900, Gertrude Major Rice, who died in 1907. Office address: Lawrence & Co., Franklin Street, Boston.

LAWRENCE, George Pelton:

Congressman and lawyer; born in Adams, Mass., May 19, 1859. He was graduated from Drury Academy, 1876, and Amherst College, 1880, and studied law at Columbia Law School. He was admitted to the bar in 1883, has since practised law at North Adams; was appointed judge of the district court of Northern Berkshire in 1885; resigned in 1894 upon being elected to the Massachusetts Senate; was a member of the Massachusetts Senate in 1895, 1896, and 1897; was president of that body in 1896 and 1897, being elected each year by unanimous vote; was elected from the First Massachusetts District to the Fifty-fifth, Fifty-sixth, Fifty-seventh, Fifty-eighth, Fifty-ninth and Sixtieth Congresses and re-elected to the Sixty-first Congress in which he is now serving. Address: North Adams, Mass.

LAWRENCE, William:

Bishop of Massachusetts; born in Boston, May 30, 1850; son of Amos Adams and Sarah Elizabeth (Appleton) Lawrence. He was graduated from Harvard, A.B., 1871, going thence to Andover Seminary and the Philadelphia Divinity School, and later entering the Episcopal Theological School at Cambridge, Mass., where he was graduated B.D., 1875. The degree of S.T.D. was conferred upon him by Hobart College, 1890 and by Harvard University, 1893, LL.D. by Princeton University, 1904 and Cambridge University, England, 1908; S.T.D. Durham University, England, 1908. He was ordered deacon of the Episcopal Church in 1875, and ordained priest by Bishop Paddock in 1876. He became assistant of Grace Church, Lawrence, Mass., 1876 and rector 1877-1884. He was professor of homiletics in the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, 1884-1893, and dean of same, 1886-1893. He became bishop of Massachusetts in 1893 and was consecrated by Bishops Williams, Clark, Whipple Potter and Doane. Bishop Lawrence is author of: Life of Amos A. Lawrence, 1888; Visions and Service, 1896; Address on Phillips Brooks; Life of Roger Wolcott, (all published by Houghton, Mifflin & Company). Address: 122 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston, Mass.

LAWRENCE, William Van Duzer:

Manufacturer; born near Elmira, N. Y., Feb. 12, 1842; son of Robert D. and Catherine (Van Duzer) Lawrence. He was educated in Michigan; removed to New York City when nineteen years old and was employed for five years by S. R. Van Duzer and Company, wholesale druggists. In 1866 he went to Canada to establish a branch house, representing several American manufacturers of proprietary medicines, including Perry, Davis and Company of Providence, R. I., and conducting it for twenty-one years, and in 1887 the business merged into the Davis and Lawrence Company of Montreal, which had been established there in 1884. That company, in 1895, bought out the business of Perry, Davis and Sons, of Providence, R. I., and all its proprietary interests, and later a branch corporation, the Davis and Lawrence Company of New York, was organized in New York City and since 1900 the head office of the business has been located there, Mr. Lawrence being president of both companies; also of the Fellows Manufacturing Company of New York City and Montreal and of the Waverly Realty Company of New York City. He is owner of Lawrence Park, Bronxville, N. Y., and is a member of the Union League Club of New York City and the St. James' Club of Montreal, Canada. He married in 1867, Sarah Bates of Monroe, Mich., and they have two sons and two daughters. Address: 969 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

LAWRENCE, William Watson:

Manufacturer; born at Huntington, Pa., April 22, 1859; son of John Jacob and Anna Elizabeth (Watson) Lawrence. He was graduated from Princeton as A.B. in 1878. He became connected with the firm of Snydam and Company, 1878-1884; established the firm of W. W. Lawrence and Company, in 1884, and Sterling White Lead Company in 1893. He is vice-president of the National Lead Company of New York; director of the National Lead Company, United Lead Company, National Bank of Western Pennsylvania, W. W. Lawrence and Company. Mr. Lawrence is a member of the American Whig Society of Princeton, Pennsylvania Society of New York, Military Order of the Loyal Legion, the Society of Colonial Wars, and University, Metropolitan, Riding, Westchester Country, Princeton, and Lawyers' Clubs of New York, Maryland Club of Baltimore, Duquesne Club of Pittsburgh, and the Automobile Club of America. Residence: 749 Fifth Avenue. Office: 111 Broadway, New York City.

LAWSON, Thomas William:

Banker and author; born in Charlestown, Mass., Feb. 26, 1857; son of Thomas and Anna Maria (Loring) Lawson. He was educated in the public schools of Cambridge, Mass., and since April, 1870 has been in business as a banker and broker. He is an independent Republican in politics, and an extensive contributor to magazines, formerly of poems and short stories, but in the past few years chiefly of caustic criticisms of modern financial methods, overcapitalization, and the like. Mr. Lawson is an enthusiastic yachtsman and author of a handsome quarto volume on the History of the America's Cup, which he had printed for private distribution in 1902. His most notable recent publications are: Frenzied Finance, 1905; Friday the Thirteenth (novel), 1906. Mr. Lawson is a member of the Boston Stock Exchange and the New York Stock Exchange. He married in Cambridge, Mass., 1878, Jennie Augusta Goodwillie (now deceased). Address: 33 State Street, Boston.

LAWSON, Victor Fremont:

Newspaper publisher; born in Chicago, Sept. 9, 1850; son of Iver and Malinda (Henderson) Lawson. He was educated at Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass., and after leaving school took charge of an interest of his father's estate in a printing establishment. He bought the Chicago Daily News in 1876 and with Melville E. Stone as partner made it the leading evening paper of Chicago. In 1881 they started a morning edition and in 1888 Mr. Lawson bought out the interest of Mr. Stone, becoming sole proprietor of both papers. He changed the name of the morning paper to the Chicago Record, and in 1901 it was merged with the Chicago Times-Herald into its present style of the Record-Herald. The Chicago Daily News was the pioneer of one-cent journalism in Chicago. Mr. Lawson, in connection with his paper established the Daily News Fresh Air Fund, which has for years maintained the Lincoln Park Sanitarium for sick poor children and is one of the most beneficent of the charitable institutions of Chicago, and has also taken active part in many other philanthropic operations. He has been president of the Associated Press and greatly promoted the usefulness of that organization as a news-gathering agency, is a life member of the Chicago Press Club, and is a member of the Chicago, Union League, Chicago Athletic Union, Commercial, University, Onwentsia Golf and Fellowship Clubs of Chicago. Residence: 317 La Salle Avenue. Address: The Chicago Daily News Chicago.

LAWYER, George:

Lawyer; born in New York City, Sept. 24, 1864; son of James and Eliza J. (Irwin) Lawyer. He was graduated from Hamilton College, A.B., 1885, A.M., 1888, and from the Albany Law School LL.B. 1887. He was admitted to the bar in May, 1887, and began the practice of law in Albany in April, 1890. In 1897, he formed a copartnership with Charles J. Buchanan, under the firm name of Buchanan and Lawyer, and the firm is now Buchanan, Lawyer and Whalen. He was counsel for the New York State Bar Association in the trial of Justice Warren B. Hooker before the State Legislature in 1905. Mr. Lawyer is author of: Syllabus on the Law of Contracts, 1907; editor of Smith on Personal Property (second edition) 1907, and author of numerous articles on legal topics in law journals since 1890. He has been lecturer on the law of contracts and personal property in Albany Law School since 1905. He was one of the organizers of Troop A. of New York City in 1889, and has been judge advocate of the Third Brigade of the National Guard of New York since Feb. 1901. He is a Presbyterian, and trustee of the Presbytery of Albany. He is a member of the New York State Bar Association, American Bar Association, Society of International Law, Washington, D. C., Albany County Bar Association, Association of Troop A of New York City, Theta Delta Chi fraternity and Phi Beta Kappa Society at Hamilton College, Phi Delta Phi at Albany Law School, and Sons of the Revolution. He is also member and past-master of Temple Lodge of Masons at Albany, and of the Fort Orange Country, University, and Jefferson Clubs of Albany. He married in New York City, Feb. 9, 1892, Agnes, daughter of David B. Pershall, and they have three children. Residence: 437 State Street. Office: 79 Chapel Street, Albany.

LAY, Julius Gareche:

Consul-general; born in Washington, D. C., Aug. 9, 1872; son of Richard G. Lay (lieutenant-colonel U. S. Army), and Caroline Y. (Kimball) Lay. He was educated in public schools and by private tutors, and afterward at the Columbia Grammar School, New York City, until 1889. He began his consular service as clerk in the American consulate at Ottawa, Canada, 1889-1891, became vice-consul there, 1891-1896; consul at Windsor, Ont., Canada, 1896-1899; consul-general at Barcelona, Spain, 1899-1904; consul-general at Canton, China, 1904-1906, and in 1906, was appointed to his present position as consul-general of the United States at Cape Town, South Africa. He is a member of the Sons of the American Revolution of the Metropolitan Club at Washington, and the Civil Service and City Clubs of Cape Town, South Africa. He married in New York City, Dec. 10, 1904, Annie Howard. Address: American Consulate-General, Cape Town, South Africa.

LEA, Henry Charles:

Publisher and author; born in Philadelphia, Sept. 19, 1825; son of Isaac and Frances Ann (Carey) Lea. He was educated privately and received from the University of Pennsylvania, from Harvard and from Princeton the degree of LL.D., and from the University of Giessen that of S.T.D. He was in business as a book publisher, 1843-1881, but has since retired. Mr. Lea is author of: Superstition and Force, first edition in 1866; fourth edition in 1892; Historical Sketch of Sacerdotal Celibacy, first edition, 1867, second, 1884, and third edition in 1907; Studies in Church History, first edition in 1869, second edition, 1883; History of the Inquisition of the Middle Ages, 1888; Chapters from the Religious History of Spain, 1890; A Formulary of the Papal Penitentiary in the Thirteenth Century, 1892; History of Auricular Confession and Indulgence, 1896; The Moors of Spain, their Conversion and Expulsion, 1901; History of the Spanish Inquisition, 1906 and 1907; The Inquisition in the Spanish Dependencies, 1908; also numerous pamphlets and articles in periodicals; a chapter on The Eve of the Reformation in the Cambridge Modern History; French Translation of Inquisition of Middle Ages by Solomon Reinach, Paris, 1899; and German translation of the same, edited by J. Hansen and H. Haupt, Bonn, 1905 and 1906; also Italian translation of the same by Professor Damiano Battaini, 1909. Mr. Lea married, in 1850, Anna C. Jaudon, and they have two sons and one daughter. Address: 2000 Walnut Street, Philadelphia.

LEA, Preston:

Former Governor of Delaware; born in Wilmington, Del., Nov. 12, 1841; son of William and Jane Scott (Lovett) Lea. After completing his education at the Lawrenceville School, N. J., he became connected with his father's milling business, in which he continued ever since, now being president of William Lea and Sons Company, and is also president of the Union National Bank and other corporations. He is a Republican in politics and in Nov., 1904, was elected governor of Delaware for a four-year term, which expired in January, 1909. Address: Wilmington, Del.

LEACH, Albert Ernest:

Chief of the U. S. Food Inspection Laboratory, Denver; born in Boston, April 7, 1864; son of John Brooks and Mary P. (Bellows) Leach. He was graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, S. B., 1886; was expert in patent causes from 1886-1892; assistant analyst in the Massachusetts State Board of Health, 1892-1899, and chief analyst, 1899-1907. He is author of many technical papers on food and drug analysis in the journals, and of Food Inspection and Analysis, 1905 (John Wiley and Sons). He is a member of the American Chemical Society, the Association of Official Agricultural Chemists and of the Society of Arts. He married at St. Johnsbury, Vt., Sept. 2, 1890, Martha H. Thompson, and they have four children. Office: Room 518 Tabor Opera House Building, Denver, Colo.

LEAL, John Laing:

Physician and surgeon; born in Andes, N. Y., May 5, 1858; son of John R. Leal, M.D., and Mary E. (Laing) Leal. He was graduated from Princeton, A. B., 1880, and A.M., 1883, and from Columbia as M.D., and afterward studied at the New York Post-graduate Medical School. He was interne at the Elizabeth (N. J.) General Hospital, and attending surgeon, and now consulting surgeon at the Paterson (N. J.) General Hospital. He was health officer, attending and city physician of the Passaic County Insane Asylum, Paterson, N. J.; and is sanitary adviser of the East Jersey Water Company, and the Jersey City Water Supply Company. He is ex-president of the Passaic County Medical Society; officer of the New Jersey State Medical Society; member of the American Medical Association; ex-vice-president of the American Public Health Association; ex-president of the New Jersey State Sanitary Association, etc. He is also a member of the Hamilton and North Jersey Country Clubs of Paterson, the Acquachanonk Club of Passaic, Essex Club of Newark, Union League Club of Jersey City, University Club of Hudson County, N. J., and the Princeton and Republican Clubs of New York. Dr.

CHARLES A. LEALE, M. D.

Leal married in Yonkers, N. Y., in Feb., 1888, Amy L. Arrowsmith, who died in 1903, and has one son. Address: 158 Ellison Street, Paterson, N. J.

LEALE, Charles A.:

Physician; born in New York City, March 26, 1842; son of Captain W. P. and A. M. Leale. He was graduated from Bellevue Hospital Medical College, M.D., Feb. 1865, and took post-graduate studies in Europe in 1866. He was medical cadet in the United States Army; assistant surgeon and brevet captain of U. S. Volunteers; surgeon in charge of the commissioned officers' ward in 1865; executive officer of the U. S. Army General Hospital, Washington; was first surgeon to reach President Lincoln after his assassination and was consulting physician at the last illness of President Garfield. Dr. Leale investigated Asiatic cholera in Europe and America; devoted his life to the poor in the epidemic of 1866; studied the epidemic of cerebro-spinal meningitis in 1874 and many epidemics and causes of typhoid fever in Brooklyn and New York City. He devised a system by which, in mid-summer, thousands of mothers and sick children of New York City were daily given salt water baths on trips of a floating hospital to the waters of the Atlantic Ocean; conceived the idea and urged the construction of recreation piers in New York City; suggested and planned summer hospitals for children on the superstructure of wharves; urged doubling the area of Bellevue Hospital and its reconstruction in 1895 and devoted fifteen summer vacations to gratuitous care of poor mothers with sick children. He is author of: Chronic Diseases Among Children of New York City; Prenatal Diseases; Surgery of the Lungs; Stroke of Infants; Observations in Asiatic Cholera; also various papers before medical associations and others. Dr. Leale is a member of the Alumni Association of Bellevue Hospital Medical College (president, 1875); the New York County Medical Association (president, 1885-1887); the New York Society for the Relief of Widows and Orphans of Medical Men (president, 1895-1898); St. John's Guild (president, 1891-1893); was a member of the Council of the International Medical Congress, 1887, and is a member of the Grand Army of the Republic and Loyal Legion. He is consulting physician at Bellevue Hospital and to the New York Institution for Instruction of the Deaf and Dumb. He married in 1867 Rebecca Medurn Copentt. Address: 604 Madison Avenue, New York City.

LEAMING, Jeremiah:

Lawyer; born at Cape May, N. J., Jan. 20, 1831; son of Jeremiah and Abigail (Faulkenburg) Leaming. He was educated in the public schools and at Princeton College, A.B., 1853. He studied law at Bordentown, N. J., and was admitted to the bar of that State in 1856. He removed to Illinois immediately after his admission to the bar, locating at Bloomington, where he formed the acquaintance and friendship of Abraham Lincoln, and practiced in the court over which David Davis presided as judge. He remained in Bloomington until 1867, when he removed to Chicago, where he has since practiced. He was for several years a master in chancery of the Circuit Court of Cook County. He is a Democrat and a member of the Reformed Episcopal Church. He is a member of the Law Institute of Chicago, of which he was at one time president, and of the Iroquois Club. Mr. Leaming married, in 1856, Harriet Scovel, daughter of the Rev. Alden Scovel of Bordentown, N. J. Residence: 3869 Ellis Avenue. Address: 59 Clark Street, Chicago.

LEAMING, Thomas:

Lawyer; born in Philadelphia, May 29, 1858; son of Robert Waln and Julia (Scott) Leaming. He was educated in the University of Pennsylvania, and has since been engaged in the active practice of law in Philadelphia. He is a member of the Pennsylvania Bar Association, Law Association of Philadelphia, Law Academy, Pennsylvania Society of the Sons of the Revolution, the Historical Society, and of the Philadelphia, Rittenhouse, Philadelphia Country, Lawyers' and Down Town Clubs. Mr. Leaming married in Philadelphia, June 18, 1888, Josephine Lea Brown. Residences (winter): 115 South 21st Street, Philadelphia; (summer): "Brentwood," Wayne, Delaware County, Pa. Address: 1306 Land Title Building, Philadelphia.

LEARNED, Marion Dexter:

